Freedom does not mean license for sin. Freedom is tyrannical in its demands for the best use of one's powers to choose.

Arkansas has charged against it for the year 1904 eighteen lynchings, only two of which were for criminal assault, and one of the two was an "unknown Negro." Thirteen of the eighteen lynchings were the result of race massacre in Arkansas county. Of the ten legal hangings, only one was for criminal assault. It would be shocking enough if there was only one criminal assault to the country's entire population, but the figures show that the charge that the unusual vicious temperament of the Negro is manifested in criminal assault, and therefore the large number of lynchings is disproved by every table of statistics.

The investigation of the charges agaisnt Senator Smoot has revealed the fact that the Mormon Church deliberately continues to practice polygamy, and does so in violation of the pledges made to two Presidents of the United States. And further, the investigation has shown that the hierarchy of the Mormon Church seeks to control the government of the State of Utah as well as the governments of Arizona, Idaho, Wyoming and New Mexico. Ex-Senator Edmonds advocates constitutional amendment prohibiting polygamy and requiring all officeholders to forswear any order that conflicts with the national and state laws. The constitutional amendment ought to become a fact and no mere sentiment of religious tolerance ought to permit the Mormon Church to practice high immorality.

Port Arthur has at last fallen. This event goes down in history as one of the bloodiest as well as one of the most heroic military achievements the world has ever seen. Since the month of May the Japanese have been hammering away at Port Arthur, and General Stoessel, the Russian commander, and his garrison have given the world a splendid example of heroism and of intelligence in defense. But for the determined effort, the wisdom and military genius of General Nogi, supported by his intrepid Japanese soldiers, Port Arthur would not have been taken. General Stoessel communicated to the Japanese line the desire to appoint a commission looking towards capitulation. General Nogi accepted the offer. The commissioners met, representing both armies, and the formal capitulation of Port Arthur took place on January 2d, but only after the Japanese had lost nearly 70,000 men in their attacks, and the Russian garrison of 40,000, supposedly, had been reduced to 15,000.

"CLOSED—TAKING STOCK"

Such a sign may be seen upon the front door of many establishments during the first week of the new year. Merchants are taking inventory to ascertain the condition of their business. In dry goods stores every yard of cloth is measured, or in the case of a grocery every pound of groceries is weighed, and a complete footing of the assets and liabilities made. If it is found that the business lost during the year there will be retrenchment and likely a change in the line of goods carried, or maybe a change of location. If the business has been profitable it will be evidenced in the increase of stock and increase of facilities for larger business. At any rate a thorough examination of the business is made.

While the first of the year is not the especial time for the Christian's personal examination, nevertheless it is just as appropriate as any other. And nothing could be more appropriate in the study of one's self than the reading of that searching poem of Whittier's, "My Soul and I," the first stanza of which is,

> "Stand still, my soul, in the silent dark
> I would question thee,
> Alone in the shadow drear and stark,
> With God and me!"

Let him who would live the successful Christian life take himself into a closed room, bar the door, and there, as he stands alone in his own presence, probe to the very seat of his life and ask himself these questions: "What is my chief purpose in life?" "What am I doing for my Lord?" "Is my daily life, public and private, an assurance of my love for Jesus?" It is needless to say that the answer to these questions will be a basis upon which one may begin work for a larger Christian development. A thorough knowledge of one's self is absolutely necessary for righteous living. Not merely the knowledge of the points of strength, but the knowledge of the points of weakness. And here's the cause of the failure of many a man in his Christian endeavor. He knows where he is strong but fails to reckon with his weakness and permits himself to enter into temptation where he has not strength to withstand.

Examine your life for the past year. If there's failure and unrighteousness has not paid, then try righteousness as it is in Christ Jesus, which pays for the life that now is and assures one of peace in the world to come.

"OUR DUTY TO THE NEGRO"

The Southern Presbyterian Church required its ministers to preach a sermon during the month of December on the subject of "Colored Evangelization" and to take a collection for the benefit of the work among colored people. In accordance with this requirement, Rev. William Hayne Leavell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Houston, Texas, delivered a magnificent sermon on a recent Sabbath, treating the race question from the view-point of the Golden Rule. Rev. Leavell contends that the divine commission commands the preaching of the gospel to every people on the face of the earth. And if it means the Negro in Africa, he says it most certainly means the Negro among us, and that in these latter days we have learned that the preaching of the Gospel to a race involves a provision of morals for the intellectual education and development as well as opportunity for faith and spiritual culture. This significant paragraph was taken from Rev. Leavell's sermon:

"Then there is the Golden Rule and the illustration of it in the life and character and words of our Master and Lord. 'All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them.' All things whatsoever ye would that the Negro should do unto you, were your situations reversed, even so do ye also unto him. But that is not a loose and free 'whatsoever.' It is a 'whatsoever' hedged by righteousness and wisdom and truth—a 'whatsoever' as our Lord defined it in His response to the mother who asked for her sons the chiefest places in His kingdom. He did not assign them positions on His right hand and His left. He told the woman those places went not by favor, but by right to them to whom they righteously belonged; to them for whom they were divinely prepared.

"Now, my brethren, my conclusion is this: Let us do our duty by the Negro in his present situation and according to the spirit and teaching of the Golden Rule. Let us co-operate with our church and provide the means for the equipment of Negro preachers to work among their people in this country and in Africa. Let us deal justly and wisely with the Negro in our midst. And let us in reference to the future trust the goodness and wisdom of God absolutely."

If the race problem is ever settled, and it will be, it will be settled in the spirit of the Golden Rule. The recognition of the fact that the Negro has rights, and the acceptance of the principle of the Golden Rule is the acceptance of the rights of both parties concerned. The sooner men begin to recognize the fairness and the square deal of the Golden Rule, the sooner will the Negro be accorded better, more humane and brotherly treatment. The Negro is not responsible for his existence, nor is he responsible for his racial characteristics. This responsibility is to be placed upon God. This fact must be accepted. The Negro is here and evidently here to stay. Acceptance of these facts and the application of the Golden Rule will bring the two races on more peaceful terms.

John Alexander Dowie proposes to establish a second Zion City. It is to be located in Mexico and will occupy the portion of a tract of one million acres fronting the Gulf. This man's zeal knows no bound, and ignorant people are being duped into his faith all over the world.

Our Freedom- A Look Backward

Colonel Shaw and the Heroes of Fort Wagner.

BY REV. W. P. THIRKIELD, D. D., CORRESPONDING SECRETARY OF THE FREEDMEN'S AID AND SOUTHERN EDUCATION SOCIETY.

The Shaw Monument is in some respects the most impressive moving picture in bronze that I have ever seen. Never can I forget my first view of this great work of the sculpture by St. Gaudens. As I looked upon the bronze, the figures fairly seemed to live. I could almost hear the martial music, and the steady, onward tread of these brave black heroes, who, in the one supreme charge at Fort Wagner, forever closed the mouth of those who scouted the courage of Negro soldiers, and thrilled the entire nation with the message from the blood-stained parapets of this fortress—"the colored troops fought nobly."

The courageous devotion of Colonel Shaw, who with the best blood of New England in his veins, chose to lead this regiment to victory, should be an example and an inspiration to every young man. His enemies thought they had won a triumph when they sent back the word that they had "buried Shaw with his niggers." The death of this hero, who led into the carnage his brave black followers, aroused the Nation to new heights of devotion to the great cause of freedom. They said that if untrained Negro troops could thus fight, they were worth paying a large price in the blood of the Nation that they might be forver free. It was because of the splendid devotion of the black troops in the war for freedom that led President Lincoln in his annual message to Congress on the 8th of December, 1863, to pay this tribute to their valor:

"Of those who were slaves at the beginning of the rebellion, full one hundred thousand are now in the United States military service, about one-half of which number actually bear arms in the ranks, thus giving the double advantage of taking so much labor from the insurgent cause, and supplying the places which otherwise must be filled with so many white men. So far as tested, it is difficult to say they are not as good soldiers as any. No servile insurrection, or tendency to violence or cruelty, has marked the measures of emancipation and arming the blacks."

Brave men were these, whose valor is thus enshrined in bronze, but the young men of the race have now just as important battles to fight. The call is for men who shall stand against intemperance, licentiousness, low standards of life in home and in society. These bloodless battles are worth fighting for, and on the outcome of the battle of any race for honor, righteousness and purity in home and personal life depends the real and abiding freedom of a race.

SHAW MONUMENT, BOSTON.

"Our Freedom—A Look Forward."

By REV. W. H. LOGAN, D. D.

Freedom is a great boon that cannot be prized too highly by those who wore the yoke and bent the knee to cruel taskmasters.

Forty years ago our forefathers threw off the yoke of bondage, though penniless and all but friendless; they regarded themselves as providentially delivered, and with firm faith and trust in the Judge of all the earth, whom they knew would do right, they set their faces towards the future and toiled and sacrificed everything except virtue and good examples, that their posterity might build on that foundation which is "both sure and steadfast."

They were as noble a set as ever did service for others without the slightest thought of recompense, but they lived in hope of freedom and taught their children that some day, through the providence of God, they would be free. It was no surprise, therefore, to the thinking and praying slaves when the good news flashed over the country that the Union was safe and the slaves were free.

I dare say that it was in anticipation of that glorious achievement that actuated the loyal slaves during those four dreadful years of bloodshed and carnage in their behavior towards their masters' wives and children. They made the crops, protected the family, and never swerved from their devotion to the interests of their masters who were at the front fighting to tighten the cords of slavery around the necks of their loyal slaves.

They served those who were masters in the flesh, but firmly trusted Him who was Master both of slave and owner; and trusting to His tender care, and believing fully in His power to deliver them out of their master's hand, they toiled on, prayed on, and waited, singing in whispered breath—

"O hear my cry, be gracious unto me;
Come, Great Deliverer, come.
My soul bowed down is longing now for thee;
Come, Great Deliverer, come."

Freedom was such an absorbing thought that they could afford to be loyal to their masters, for they believed God would deliver them if they were true, and He did not deceive them.

"Will not the Judge of all the earth do right?" Followed them in their wakings and satisfied them in their dreams.

"I am in love and liberty is my sweetheart," said General Marion, one of General Washington's commanders, to a British officer who came to him under a flag of truce. "I am happy," said he, "though I live on roots and drink water and am without proper clothing."

We should never forget the blessings of freedom, nor should we lose an opportunity to celebrate each returning anniversary with thanksgiving and praise.

Let the fathers who wore the chains remind their sons, should they grow indifferent towards that great epoch, to hail with joy and gladness Emancipation Day as a day second only in importance to the day of their salvation from sin.

Humphry Davy said: "Indifference never leads armies that conquer, never models statues that live, nor breathes sublime music, nor harnesses the forces of nature, nor rears impressive architecture, nor moves the soul with poetry, nor the world with heroic philanthropies."

But enthusiasm accomplishes all that indifference fails to accomplish. "Enthusiasm holds the sword with which freedom fights her battles, and poised the ax of the dauntless woodman as he opened the paths of civilization, and turned the mystic leaves upon which Milton and Shakespeare inscribed their burning thoughts."

There is a bright future before us provided we spurn every unmanly act, and with faith, hope and enthusiasm, honesty of purpose and earnest endeavor prosecute our daily tasks, not forgetting "The pit from which we were digged nor the stone from which we were hewn."

The door of hope is still open; the Negro's friends are firm, God lives, and he has a chance in the race of life.

Will he apply himself? Will he prove himself worthy of the confidence reposed in him by his friends?

Will he utilize every opportunity and turn it to good account in the race of life?

These questions, answered affirmatively and lived up to, will assure his ultimate triumph.

Heroism in Arizona.

By BISHOP D. A. GOODSELL.

I know a young couple that came to the Conference, traveling a distance of 150 miles in their own conveyance, a buggy, with a little child. The horse was bitten by a rattlesnake. They came to the Conference poorly clad, but with faces full of light and joy. There came a time in their experience when they wanted to "keep house." They could find none. They had no money to buy furniture. They got a barrel and made a table, and a box to make a bedstead. The time came when he must go out on his round of appointments alone. They prayed together and he kissed her, and said, "Good-by, my dear." He went out, and, turning, said, "Good-by." And she said "Good-by." He got as far as the gate, and then said again "Good-by," and she said once more "Good-by." But she said, "Wait a minute," and she got her bonnet and shawl, and they went out of the gate together, and that was the end of the housekeeping.

At that Conference I had seventy to eighty dollars given to me to use, and I gave this good woman twenty dollars in gold, and she refused it, saying, "Don't give it to me. Give it to John to spend for himself and the baby." And she gave it back, and I gave the same amount to John, and he declined it and wanted it to be given to his wife and to the baby. But I insisted, and there were forty dollars in gold for them both to spend. When I told them that there were two twenty-dollar gold-pieces, they said: "You don't know what it means for us, for the baby; and what it means for a little attempt at housekeeping." Where is there in this country a worthy Methodist preacher who has to drive 150 miles, camp out under the stars, except in this great territory of Arizona. And I say to you that, in addition to the great advantage that is to come to our work of what are called "Lungers," we have as heroic a set of men in Arizona as are to be found in this world.

Now, as to the cost of going, any one knows that, apart from the free tickets, the fares are enormously high: ten cents a mile sometimes. If we want to make these brethren half comfortable, we ought to give $10,000.

Providential Movement in Racial and National Life

By Rev. J. H. Reed, D. D.

The world belongs to God. He has not left the affairs of men to mere time and chance. Eternal destiny is wrapped most securely within the life of each individual, race and nation. We may not be keen enough of perception to grasp the meaning of certain events that flash before our gaze. The grand drama of the world moves onward with the rapidity of human thought and the marked evidences of divine purpose. The star of hope is radiant with the promise of the morning dawn of the great to-morrow. Within the past decade certain providential movements have marked the progress of both racial and national life. In consideration of this truth we have but to revert to the growth of institutions and the movements of individuals in the affairs of church and state. Not more than a dozen years ago the Methodist Episcopal Church was experimenting in what was known as a "Field Agent" for the work of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. So great was the success of this movement that the same "Agent" has been changed into Senior Corresponding Secretary of that great society, and the Church, with a unanimity of purpose, delights in the achievements of this exponent of the black race, and assigns him his rightful place among the epoch markers of Christian manhood. This movement was fraught with tremendous significance to the life and destiny of the black race as well as to the nation. Its true meaning may be read in the mighty uplift of this Southland through the instrumentality of our denominational institutions. It has breathed the deepest inspiration into our educational work and placed responsibility upon the shoulders of black presidents of colleges whose work stands as a marvel of the present century. This is but the beginning of this movement towards the life of the race. Coequal with this and contemporaneous was the election by the General Conference of 1896, of Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell as Missionary Bishop for Africa. No man can trace events since that date without seeing a providential hand in racial affairs. A man who had been raised up for this purpose must go at the call of God and of the Church, and verily see the continents together, thus opening up a stream of missionary enthusiasm that had never flowed into the channels of Christian thought and purpose up to this time. Since that date the Church has been aroused to the duty of redoubling her energy for the redemption of the "Dark Continent." We look upon the history of eight years' missionary enterprises as for two quadrenniums this servant of the church has reported, and can see therein the foreshadowing of great things for the race and Church within the first quarter of the new century. This is indeed true to a close observer of world movements as they affect conditions in the home field. Following the election of Bishop Hartzell was the outgoing of Dr. Camphor and his wife, thus demonstrating to the Church that our schools in the South had not wrought in vain, but had in training the men and women who at the call of God and of the Church would be obedient to the heavenly vision, and rush to the heroic task of being pioneers to the coming Christianization and civilization of the black population of the globe. This movement cannot be measured solely by what these workers have accomplished within a few short years, but we must consider it in the light of other parallel agencies in the life of the race and nation. It has put new life into the missionary thought of our schools and colleges, and given much impetus and a deeper realization to the "Stewart Missionary Foundation for Africa." This work is no longer a dream, but under the secretaryship of Dr. J. C. Sherrill, it breaks into a veritable daylight of missionary influence and power.

With this providential movement from 1896, above spoken of, to 1904, the influence and moulding efforts of the Southwestern Christian Advocate had much to do with crystallizing sentiment in Church and State bearing on racial and national relations. Its editor was indeed brought to the tripod at Cleveland, Ohio, for such a time as this. For from the election of McKinley until now has been one of the most important events in the history of the race and nation. Great questions affecting civic, political and Christian manhood came up for discussion and solution, and the editorials of this official organ of the church will ever stand as mighty pleadings for that righteousness which exalteth a nation. Whatever of sentiment came to the public through this medium truly had a most wholesome effect upon the political and social life of the race. In this we do not minify the influence and power of our entire Church press, that carried forward every righteous cause with no uncertain sound; but we do magnify the work so faithfully accomplished by this splendid agency, which is still in the field and, under its present aggressive editorship and management, will keep up the high standard of modern journalism and create sentiment for racial growth in these stirring times. With many minor agences, yet of no less importance, throughout the world of Methodism, God is marching among the affairs of the Church, and preparing to bring this old world to the feet of Jesus Christ. One of the most significant movements of the Church to-day is the election and consecration of Bishop I. B. Scott as Missionary Bishop for Africa. This event is not a mere happening, growing out of the restlessness of the age and the casting about of our late General Conference. It is the manifest destiny towards which God is leading the race. It is an open door of hope, which no force on earth can shut. Already there is a mighty uplift to the toilers and founders of our home Conferences. New zeal for missionary enterprises is already felt in the pulse-beats of presiding elders' districts and new enthusiasm in local charges. This movement ties the home and foreign field together with a stronger cord than ever in the history of Christian missions. Its results are more far reaching than the mere gratification to the colored membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The influence must be seen and felt in the national life of the American Negro. It does not necessarily mean emigration to Africa, but it certainly indicates the awakening of the best thought in both Church and State as to the future citizenship and national destiny of ten million blacks on this side of the seas. Within the next quadrennium it will stir the heart of our schools and colleges, our ministry and laity, to the pressing duty of the hour—the unification of the best thought and sentiment of American Methodism with the mighty movements among our brothers beyond the seas. With Bishop Thoburn pleading for India, Bashford in China, Oldham, Robinson and Warren in southern Asia, Burt in Italy, Neely in South America, Hartzell and Scott in Africa, the outposts of our Zion are garrisoned by strong ecclesiastical commanders, whose vigil is for the coming of the kingdom of God on earth. These world movements must make for the world's redemption.

Into these movements come the bugle calls to duty and individual responsibility. It is indeed a heaven born privilege to be considered worthy to take a hand in fashioning the destiny of a race for the future triumph of human civilization. To this end the writer feels conscious that God has called him to the great field of missionary operation upon which must be fought the mighty battles of the black races for national and religious life. In leaving the home field I go guided by divine impulses to consecrate my life and my loved ones completely to the service of God and the Church. Every missionary to Africa from this Southland is but another link in the chain that makes up the solidarity and unity of the races. The great commission must be made known to succeeding generations by men and means. "The field is the world," and with such wonderful evolutions of modern thought and divine inspiration there is no home nor foreign field, but rather a universal reign of Jesus and the Cross. Just as truly as the stars and stripes float in splendor over distant possessions in the seas and the American Republic has expanded into a world power, so truly must the banner of our Methodism be borne into every habitable quarter of the globe until the tribes of the whole earth shall exult in the spread of Messiah's kingdom. I pray that my brethren at home may work but the harder and push forward the cause for missions until the Church and Nation may rejoice over the complete emancipation and cititzenship of the American Negro, who, in turn, must give that life for the evangelization of Africa.

Little Rock, Ark.

We have pleasure in presenting to our readers the following paragraph taken from a report of the Detroit Conference, found in The Christian Advocate of last week: "Bishop Neely was to hold his first conference, and that conference one of the largest in the connection; and there was more or less of concern as to how the new Bishop would be prepared to meet such complex problems. It is perfectly safe to say that no conference in many years has passed off more pleasantly, profitably, and satisfactorily than Detroit conference under the presidency of the new Bishop. From the first day to the last he was the same considerate, fraternal, patient, and painstaking, yet dignified Bishop. The ministers felt at perfect ease in approaching him, the work in the cabinet was done with great patience and sweetness of spirit, and the results all over the conference have never been better."

The Division of the Louisiana Conference

BY REV. W. SCOTT CHINN.

Seven years ago this question was greatly agitated throughout our Louisiana Methodism and was discussed pro and con by competent leaders, and upon voting at Baldwin, La., the necessary two-third vote was obtained, but the late Bishop Ninde, who was presiding, said in open Conference, "Brethren, from the facts in the case it is not yet apparent to me, that I should be responsible for dividing this great Conference. I doubt the wisdom of such an act, and it is not right to divide merely to say, 'we divided,'" and with this statement he refused to concur with the vote cast and the question was to all intent and purpose dropped.

Once more are we confronted with the same questions, and once more I stand in the defense of the unity of the Conference and say to the brethren, "From the facts in this case, it is not apparent that we should divide and trust that you will so vote in Monroe."

To that end I herewith present some facts as against the division of the Conference into two Conferences, but for the division of the appointments of the Conference so as to bring about even greater results as we now stand.

The divisionists says, "Let us divide so as to develop the Northern section of the State; grow two Conferences like Texas and Mississippi; the distance and expenses too great to travel from one end of the State to the other; the Conference too large to go into small towns as other Conferences of our sister denominations; by dividing we will develop more men, make room for greater leadership and more men will become presiding elders and possibly we may get more missionary money. This is the sum and substance of their argument for dividing one of the greatest colored Conferences in Methodism, and to the casual observer may appear just and reasonable, but hear me!

Let us inquire into the facts as they are and not as imagined. Viewed from the map of Louisiana the picture seems beautiful and the work may appear easy but it must be borne in mind that others have been developing this section for years, and if we ever had a chance, it has without a doubt slipped by.

In the section our brethren are so eager to develop you will find A. M. E.'s, B. (bad) M. E.'s, C. M. E.'s, M. E. Zions, Independent Methodists, Seven Day Adventists, Catholics and Baptists of all kinds, kith and kin, with their churches, schools and farms and to try at this late hour to force ourselves into this section would be child's play and even intrusion, unless we catered to existing ideas, notions and peculiarities, and then, Methodism could not hope to rightfully survive in such atmosphere.

Thus to attempt such would be contrary to the true spirit of Methodism, for it is ours to go where we are most needed and up here we are not wanted nor needed and our very coming would be an intrusion upon those already here. As an evidence of that fact, we who are laboring up here have not asked for a division, are we not prepared to say what is what, better than any one else? Not a single church nor pastor in North Louisiana wants this Conference to divide!

Again, the various aspects of the people, their environments, their manner of living, habits of industry and religious temperament must all be accounted for and considered in this great question of division.

Another very serious hindrance in the developing of this territory for Methodism is the migratory disposition of our people—places where once existed strong and promising Methodist churches only a name and shell remains. Then again, our own members do not join our weak and struggling church, who come into these parts, they prefer sending their prayers and money back home.

The labor question, the social question, the amount and system of paying a pastor and the care of that pastor's family must all be wisely considered before we even think, much less plan, to divide this great Conference for which so many of us have labored to make it what it is.

It sounds very well, possibly to talk of dividing and developing, but put it into practice. If you think I overstate the case, you may either come up and spend a while or ask former pastors or those whose homes are up here. They all know the facts. To tell the truth, the most ardent divisionists will refuse work up here, one was offered this place last year and said he would locate first. Why then does he find a field so suddenly that needs developing and he himself refuse to go to it. Assign some of the men who are whooping up division, to places up here next year and they would leave the Conference. I don't know if that would not be a good way to get rid of some. Too many of them say Hear am I, send Chinn (!) when it comes to hard places among us.

Were the time proper and conditions favorable for division I would say divide, and go anywhere and do my work like a man, but it is not so in Louisiana, statistics—and I have them, will prove that we have not developed what we already have in hand and to talk of dividing, to develop the territory is not the way out of it.

As to the extent of territory, what about the Lexington, Central Missouri, Gulf Mission, and other Comferences which compromise several States over which their members must travel to the seat of the Conference?

We pass the car fare and accommodation plea—its more or less the "big fish" that do the complaining. Little men generally content themselves with whatsoever is their lot.

As to going into the small towns the District Conference is attending to that part of the programme quite satisfactorily.

Division will not develop more men, nor have them made presiding elders any faster, for a "ward boss" in an old Conference is the same in a new, if not worse.

Men, with the muzzle off and a spirit to do, stand far greater chances to develop among men and with a hope of being promoted in a great body, than in a struggling handful of weakly men palmed off in the upper section of this State, faint and famished and ready to die. Away with divisions!

Would any "safe and sane" man among us dare divide this Conference so as to get an office? As to the missionary dollars they might hope to get,

"The day is past and gone."

To encourage division, they say, if you don't like it, you may transfer—the very admission of this fact shows doubt in their minds as to the wisdom of such an act. Finally, our brother divisionists don't know "where they are at," for they can't divide the State so as to leave New Orleans out, if she was near Alexandria they could easily fix a line.

Ask them to find a dividing line? What this grand Conference needs is to stand where we are. We have wrought well, let us continue to do so.

No other colored Conference sent four delegates to our last General Conference.

Not a division of the Conference into two Conferences is needed, but a division of the appointments and a re-districting of the entire State. There lies the root of the restlessness and dissatisfaction. I challenge a denial of the assertion!

CHRISTIAN LIFE

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: 1 Cor. 13: 13.

Theme: The Greatest Christian Grace.

Love is greatest in its everlasting duration. Love is ancient in its youth, and youthful in its eternal dealings with and for all creatures in time and in eternity. When the dark and distant worlds through which faith now pries are no more, and when the impossibilities at which it now laughs, and over which she now in glory triumphs are things that were, but are no more to be; and when faith, and her mighty ally, hope, embracing each other in warmest affection shall say: We have been to each other faithful in friendship and mutual helpfulness: and, now, since our labors are ended, and our mission closed, which was simply a means of salvation, we willingly yield up all to our greatest sister, Love, that she may continue the end to which our means of salvation are intended. Now, I, Faith, willingly die in glorious certainty and full fruition. Fare thee well. It will not be long; for soon you, too, will pass away! The long-expected hour is come, and I, Hope, gladly expire in fullness of joy, while thou, fair sister Love, shalt still survive through the countless ages of eternity.

When all other gifts and graces and knowledge shall fail, being suited chiefly to our fallen state, and intended to raise man up into God shall have passed away, Love, triumphant, immortal grace, greatest of the Three in office and nature shall still live beyond any coming event, and stand with lamp, and unconsumed flame before the shining hosts of heaven "forever blessing, and forever blest." Love uplifts the soul; is immortal and omnipotent; is never thwarted in its purpose; changeth not; faileth never.

Love will continue its work unimpaired when faith and hope are no more, they having expired by limitation of utility.

A Joyous Religion

A bright, joyous religion, filled with the radiance of God's love, kills despair, kindles hope, begets obedience, and creates a deathless devotion to Christ.—Rev. M. McDana.

Christmas is rapidly making itself at home everywhere. There is no country that can monopolize it. It will not be bound by that sort of creed. It is out for conquest of the earth. It is master of its resources. It harnesses up every sort of business man, and makes him do its advertising. It has defied social customs, and demands to be received by all, alike. Neither is there any color line with Christmas. It is fast becoming a cosmopolite. The "wee tot," cooing in his crib, the gay and ruddy youth and maiden, the blushing lovers, the stalwarts in life's storms, and the old in years, in all the earth, may soon taste the sweets of Christmastide.

—Rev. Grant A. Robbins.

"Happy city, dearest, fairest,
Blessed, blessed Bethlehem!
Least, yet greatest, noblest, rarest,
Judah's ever-sparkling gem,
Out of thee there comes the light
That dispelleth all our night."

South Carolina Conference Notes

By Rev. J. W. Moultrie.

Bishop Goodsell must come again.

Secretary Leonard, of the Missionary Society, spoke to us most entertainingly, on "Missions." He has the mission field, with all its details and data, at command, and speaks without notes.

Secretary Forbes, of the Church Extension Society, is a happy speaker. He carries wit, philosophy and conviction to his audience, and thus wins converts to his cause.

Dr. J. W. E. Bowen delivered three addresses before the conference. His appeal for an educated ministry was masterly, but his addresses on "Race Building" and "The Message of the Preacher" were eloquent and strong utterances. The doctor was at his best and the impression left will abide with us forever.

Much interest is manifested in funds for worn-out preachers. As a result of a special meeting held during Conference session a commission was appointed to arrange program and plans, consisting of Revs. W. R. A. Palmer, chairman; J. B. Thomas, F. L. Baxter, I. E. Lowery, J. McLeod, A. G. Townsend, B. F. Witherspoon, R. C. Campbell.

The Conference has doubled its collection for Missions, Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society in the last nine years.

The next Conference will be held in Yorkville. The pastor assures the Conference a hearty and first-class entertainment. As this might be a historic session the question of division will be decided, great interest is detached to Yorkville. Then two or more presiding elders will be appointed.

The Presiding Elder's reports of the work and condition of their various districts were well received. Most of them are young men and they are doing well. The districts have advanced. The Florence district led in 1904. Which one will lead in 1905? Who can tell?

Bishop Goodsell said: "The reports of these eight Presiding Elders would have been a credit to any Conference in Methodism. For the use of good English, close observation, brotherly sympathy and careful details they furnish good models and prove that your race is making wonderful progress. They are an endorsement of the work of Claflin University."

The good Bishop said that no report on education would be complete without reference to Gammon Theological Seminary. Why not all of our young men who want admission on trial, first attend Claflin and then go to Gammon. Our special need is a consecrated and educated ministry.

Here are some Conference statistics: 52,037 members and probationers, 370 churches, valued at $365,635. Raised for benevolences, $10,189.

Here are some Claflin statistics: 40 teachers, 666 studeuts. Advantages—College courses, music, equipments, good buildings, annual revivals, expenses at a low water mark."

Secretary M. C. B. Mason attended trustees meeting at Claflin on the 13th. We regret that on account of a telegram received while there, he had to hastily return to his office in Cincinnati, thus the Conference was denied a treat. We learn that the cantata "Soul" was simply glorious.

Apart from a number of graded schools in the towns there are three higher institutions in the State of the Methodist denomination, Claflin, at Orangeburg; Browning Home School, at Camden, and Sterling College, at Greenville, with Dr. D. M. Minus as president.

Dr. C. C. Jacobs, field agent of the Sunday School Union, is an energetic worker, and the Conference is following him with their prayers and co-operation.

The Rev. R. E. Jones, D. D., the newly elected editor of the Southwestern Christian Advocate, is beloved in South Carolina. This Conference wants to help in the canvass for our paper in a substantial way. We are anxious to secure 2000 cash yearly subscribers—or one for each month in the new year. We must do it. Our Conference is one of daring and doing. Let all join in the canvass. Let us lay aside indifference and rally.

Assistant Secretary Penn has promised to make a stay of nearly two months in our State the coming year. Welcome Prof. Penn! Let the wheel go.

Dr. John P. Wragg, of the American Bible Society, at his own home and in his own church, greatly benefited us with an address of his work and mission.

The Rev. C. C. Robertson, of Latta, is successfully managing a dime savings bank.

The Greenville $15,000 church, under the pastorate of Dr. B. F. Witherspoon, is built on the latest plan and is attractive in every way. The pastor and people have the thanks of the entire Conference for their noble achievement. Well done!

The Centennary parsonage, presided over by Mrs. A. E. Palmer, has been tastefully decorated and is now a thing of beauty.

During the Conference the Trolley Line Street Car Company accommodated the Conference to a ride around the belt and to the navy yard—five miles away, without charge. The navy yard is Uncle Sam's project and its vast outlay of skill and money is one of the biggest enterprises in the State. It essays to cost $15,000,000 and more just to complete it and a large yearly sum to keep it in trim.

Rev. J. B. Middleton, D. D., unanimously elected secretary at the last Conference, has held this position of honor with credit to himself and the Conference for about a quarter of a century.

The Southern Reporter, edited by Dr. I. E. Lowery, is gaining in its mechanical work and subscription. The paper is worthy of our support.

The Board of Conference Examiners have ordered that there will be no mid-year examinations. Candidates must come prepared at seat of annual Conference. If practicable, examinations are to be written.

The Conference owns a Preachers' Aid Society, with A. G. Townsend, president; J. B. Middleton, vice-president; C. C. Scott, secretary; F. D. Smith, treasurer. Its object is to help the ministers of Conference who are members, by caring for them in sickness and in death. It is now getting on a firm basis. Next year every minister should join it and we should join in making it a power for good among us.

The handsome brick church in Sumter when completed will be one of the best in our work. Pastor N. T. Bowen has his hands full.

If each preacher in the Conference will see to it that there is a net gain of nine full members and three probationers, total twelve, we will, with guaranteed statistics, make a good showing at next Conference and greatly aid the argument for division. But many preachers will double losses, bring up all benevolent collections including ministerial support, raised in full.

LESSON TOPIC—JANUARY 15

Am I My Brother's Keeper?

Scripture Reference, Gen. 4:8-15.

(Temperance Meeting.)

The Word—The story of Cain and Abel is as familiar as any nursery tale. Angered that the Lord should accept his brother's sacrifice and not his, Cain slew Abel. When the Lord put to him the question, "Where is thy brother?" he sought to avoid all responsibility by asking this question: "Am I my brother's keeper?" This question is the cry of the world to-day. When slavery was to be abolished, it was asked. When the wrongs of childhood and the vices of a great city are to be rectified, people hide behind this selfish question. In the temperance reformation the great obstacle we meet is the effort of every class and every individual to avoid responsibility in the matter. We all seek to lay it on the other fellow, and, as mean and selfish as Cain, cry out, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Yes, you are just so far as your influence and personality can affect the matter. We are responsible for our influence. We are guilty often of the blood of our brother.

Our Homily: My Brother's Keeper—The question of our lesson is a live one. The hosts of evil in this world are seeking to obscure this issue. They ask to be let alone. But we cannot let them alone and maintain a clear conscience. The vices which prey upon society, the wrongs and injustice which obtain in the world, must be overthrown, for we are responsible for them. As Alpine travelers are bound together by ropes, so the members of society are bound together. We cannot escape if we would our share of blame for the evils permitted. This is a live question—

In Its Relation to the Poor. It may be as some one says, that "there are the Lord's poor, the devil's poor, and the poor devils." There may be a difference in worthiness, but we have a relationship to the poor. We must give help when needed. We must remove the causes of poverty. We are to insist upon justice in their treatment. And we are to give them ourselves, better than money or food.

In Its Relation to the Weak. Paul taught the duty of Christian selfdenial for others. He would eat no meat if that made his brother stumble. This may be carried to fanatical extremes, but the principle is a true one. We are to help the weak, not scorn them. This principle applied to all questionable things will settle them rightly. Shall I indulge in intoxicants? Shall I dance any play cards? Shall I attend the theater? Well, are you responsible for influence? Are you your brother's keeper? The law of the lesson will lead us to refuse to do many things because it will cause a weak brother to fall. We are here not to hinder. There are so many helpful things we can do.

In Its Relation to the Burdened. This whole trouble in the industrial world is from some violation of the law of brotherhood. Why almost civil war in Colorado? Why strikes and violence in Chicago? Why mutterings in the mines and factories north, east, south and west? The law of brotherhood is violated. Wrong on both sides, no doubt, but wrong because it is the nonrecognition of this principle, that I am my brother's keeper.

In Its Relation to the Lost. Every Epworth Leaguer is a brother to every lost soul. Are you seeking to save him? Do you realize that you are in some measure responsible for his soul? Do you know that if you neglect duty his blood may be on you? This is a season of opportunity. Are you using them for the salvation of their souls? You are your brother's keeper. You are more. You are his brother. You ought to help him and save him. Our duty is not done when we simply do no harm. Ye are to be positive factors for good. Look out for your brother. He is in danger.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson III—January 15, 1905. Title—Jesus Wins His First Disciples. (John 1; 35-51) Golden Text—"Thou art the Son of God; thou art the King of Israel." (John 1; 49.)

The events we study to-day follow immediately the lesson of last Sabbath. 1. The Lamb of God. (35-36). John saw Jesus as He drew near and said: "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." (1) Jesus "the Lamb." He was gentle, meek, humble and useful like a lamb. He was to be sacrificed as the Paschal lamb, and the daily offerings of the temple. He represented the sin-offering and also the whole-burnt-offering. (2) Jesus the "Lamb of God." He was chosen by the Lord, and sent into the world in the "fulness of time." He did the Father's will on earth, and by Him was accepted. In Jesus God was well pleased. (3) Jesus "taketh away the sin of the world. Sin is here in the singular, and refers to man's depraved nature. To that principle which lies back of all transgression of law, omission of duty, and wickedness of thought. It is original sin, the source of all evil in man. When it is taken away all sin will cease, and the millenium reign will be a natural result. This end may be brought about by repentance, faith and perfect consecration to God.

2. John and Andrew. (37-39). (1) They learned of Jesus. John the Baptist told them He was the promised Messiah. The prophet likely explained to them what is now the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah. We may learn of Jesus through his written word, from His preached gospel, and by His Holy Spirit. (2) They followed Jesus. They went the way He was going. We may follow Him by denying ourselves, taking up our cross daily, and leading lives dedicated to His service. (3) They talked with Jesus. He saw them following Him. He beholds the turning of every one towards Himself—not only the movements of the body, but the starting of the mind and soul as well. The very thoughts and desires of our heart are known to Him. He asked them what they sought. This was not done for information, but to help them know themselves. To have them confess that they were following Him. It is very important that we understand ourselves in matters of religion. Their answer was indirect. They addressed Him as "Rabbi," or Master. In this they confessed that they were pupils, and that He was able to teach them. The supreme need of this age is more knowledge of Jesus. They asked Jesus where He dwell. They no doubt desired to spend some time in His company, and receive instruction from Him. Jesus likely dwelt at this time in a grotto, or under a temporary booth. Jesus told them to "come and see." They accepted His invitation and abode with Him that day. He likely explained to them the sacred Scriptures. They soon became satisfied He was the Messiah. They turned from John to Jesus. This was the beginning of the Christian Church.

3. Peter. (40-42.) It is not certainly known how long John and Andrew remained with Jesus. They likely departed early in the evening. Separations in this life come often. But now we may always have Jesus with us. (2) Andrew went in search of his brother Simon. He began work immediately after his conversion. The first person he brought to Jesus was a near relative. (3) When Andrew found Simon he told him they had "found the Messiah, the Christ," the Anointed of God. The one on whom God had poured the Holy Spirit. The Church is the anointed of the Lord. We should plead the Master's cause to our relatives and friends. Compel them by love and reason to come to Jesus. (4) Simon consented to go with his brother. Soon they found our Lord. Jesus did the talking. Thou art Simon, a hearer; thou shalt be called Cephas, or Petrus, a rock. Petrus in Greek is the same as Cephas in Syriac. This name was not given because of his character. He was not as firm as was John, or James, or Paul. It was probably given because of the great work he was to do. He was to open the doors of the new kingdom and invite both Jews and Gentiles to enter. It may also point to the fact that the church rests on the foundation of the prophets and apostles, with Jesus as the chief cornerstone. Many Bible names have been changed, as Abram to Abraham, Jacob to Israel, Simon to Cephas, and Saul to Paul. But in every instance, it seems to have been present or future work that led to the change.

4. Philip. (43-44). (1) The time of this call was "the following day." That is, the day following the conversation with John and Andrew. It is remarkable how the author of this gospel remembered dates. This was written more than fifty years after it occurred. The memory is the storehouse of the mind. (2) It was the plan of Jesus to "go forth into Galilee." He was at this time at Bethabara, or Bethany, east of the Jordan. He was likely going northwest about sixty miles to Cana of Galilee, when He wrought His first miracle. (3) Jesus would take Philip with Him. He found him, not by going in search of him, but in His onward way He came upon him. Jesus knows where we are. He said to Philip, "Follow me." He is constantly calling us to be His disciples. Philip obeyed. We soon find him working for the Master. When Jesus calls we should take up our cross and follow Him.

5. Nathaniel. (45-51). (1) Nathaniel was sought for. We must seek for the unsaved. The claims of Jesus were presented to him. We should tell to others the story of the cross. An argument followed. It is well to investigate the statements of others before we accept them. An invitation was given. The people should be solicited to come to Jesus. The invitation was accepted. He went to see if Jesus was really the Christ. (2) When Jesus and Nathaniel met our Lord said: "Behold an Israelite indeed in whom there is no guile." See a true descendant of Jacob; one who can rightfully claim all the promises of God to Israel; one in whom there is no cunning or craftiness. Philip said to Jesus: "Whence knowest thou me?" How do you know I am an Israelite, and that in my heart there is no deceit? The answer of Jesus convinced Nathaniel that He knew all things. He knew where and how Nathaniel had been spending his time. The Christ we serve is omniscient.

In these five apostles we have the beginning of the Christian Church. John was the son of Zebedee, and resided at Bethsaida. He was probably our Lord's cousin after the flesh. He was in early life courageous, impetuous, and ambitious. He lived to be very old, and was probably the only apostle who died a natural death. He wrote the gospel, and the three epistles that bear his name. He also wrote the Book of Revelations. Andrew is not very conspicuous in the gospels. He introduced his brother Simon to Jesus. When the five thousand were fed he told Jesus of the lad who had the few loaves and fishes. He brought some Greeks to Jesus in the temple. Philip is one of the less known of the twelve. But little is said of him in the gospels. He was ordained with the other apostles. He expressed a desire to see the Father on the night before th crucifixion. He was put to death in Phrygia by being hung. Nathaniel is supposed to be identical with Bartholomew. He was the son of Tolma, and the "Israelite indeed in whom there was no guile." He was ordained with the twelve, and was in that upper room when the Holy Spirit was "shed forth." He was put to death by being flayed alive at the command of a barbarous king.

Prince Fushima, of Japan, who is still in this country, visited the White House recently. On behalf of the Mikado, presented to Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Hay, wife of the Secretary of State, each a fine cedarwood chest, bound and trimmed with silver. While the outside of the chests is devoid of ornament, with the exception of silver trimmings, the interiors contain most skillful and artistic workmanship in carving, inlaying and other handiwork from noted artists of Japan. Each compartment contained some treasures from the Orient, such as silks, embroideries, fans and jewel cases. The real mission of Prince Fushima to this country has not yet been divulged.

XVIII. California, Southern California, Hawaii Mission, Pacific Japanese Mission, Chinese Mission, Arizona, New Mexico English, New Mexico Spanish—Bishop Hamilton.

XIX. All German Conferences and Missions in America—Bishop Walden.

XX. All the Conferences and Missions in Europe—Bishop Burt.

XXI. All the Conferences and Missions in South America—Bishop Neely.

XXII. All the Conferences and Missions in Southern Asia—Bishops Thoburn, Warne, Oldham, and Robinson.

XXIII. All the Conferences and Missions in China—Bishop Bashford.

XXIV. All the Conferences and Missions in Japan and Korea—Bishop Harris.

XXV. All the Conferences and Missions in Africa—Bishops Hartzell and Scott.

GENERAL CONFERENCE EXPENSES—AN ENCOURAGING WORD.

The fidelity of many presiding elders and pastors in their united efforts to secure the unpaid balances due from districts and charges for the General Conference expenses of 1904 is worthy of public recognition and praise. The results up to the present time are very gratifying. It is the firm belief of the Commission, continued by action of the General Conference for this special purpose, that the last dollar of money borrowed will finally be paid. It must be understood that we only ask for the full, original apportionment from every charge. It is the money unpaid and overdue that has made the deficit. We plead again for that, and for that only.

This appeal is sent forth now because a series of Spring Conferences will soon commence, and because we must urge all remaining deficient charges in the Fall Conferences to make good their apportionment by the time the Spring Conferences report. We believe that all presiding elders and pastors will at once faithfully perform their duties so that the pen of history shall never record that the General Conference of 1904, although expensive beyond precedent, owing chiefly to geographical conditions, needed to borrow money from the Book Concern which was never returned, thus depleting a fund which ought to be scrupulously guarded.

All pastors who may be in doubt as to the amount should be able to ascertain from their presiding elders and Conference Minutes. Money should be sent to Oscar P. Miller, Treasurer, Rock Rapids, Iowa, or to the Agents of the Book Concern at Cincinnati or New York.

HENRY SPELLMEYER, Chairman.

OSCAR P. MILLER, Treasurer.

LIBRARY GIVEN TO SAM HUSTON COLLEGE.

Sam Huston College, Austin, Texas, has just come into the possession of a fine theological library of 500 volumes. It is the gift of Rev. H. S. White, an aged Methodist minister of Romeo, Mich.

Mr. White comes of Puritan stock, was born on the old Bennington battlefield, in Vermont, and is related to Gen. Stark of Revolutionary fame.

He took a course in the Biblical Institute of Boston University, served as pastor in Rhode Island, was a soldier in the Civil War, and prisoner in Andersonville and Macon, preached twenty-five years in Michigan and Wisconsin, was on the staff of Gen. Alger at the National Encampment at Washington, is prominent in G. A. R. circles, and now wears well his years and honors at Romeo, Michigan.

It would have been difficult for Rev. Mr. White to have placed his books in a school more needy and more worthy. We congratulate Sam Huston College.

Our school, the Globe Academy and Industrial Institute is in its bloom. Since opening day we have been steadily increasing in numbers. We opened up with 175 students. On the 30th of October we gave a rally for the school, raising $108.90 cash. Our main building, like other buildings, is unfinished and for which we are raising money to complete it. Buildings for other purposes touching the school's interests will soon be in erection. Our purpose is to build up a good school here, second to none. Our surroundings are excellent; more than ordinary. Our main building is a two-story, covering an area of 12 acres. We are negotiating for an adjoining 40 acres. Here is an opportunity for some one to help a needy and worthy cause. Who will be the first to answer the call? Prof. Brooks and his assistants are doing a good work. J. E. FOSTER.

WEST TEXAS WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The annual session of the Woman's Home Missionary Society convened at Ft. Worth, in connection with the Annual Conference. One hundred and fifty dollars were raised and $100 worth of supplies for the Home at Sam Huston College. Too much cannot be said of the faithful work of our beloved Conference Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. E. S. Spriggs. The Hall of the Eliza Dee Home is named for Mrs. Elizabeth Spriggs, of which we are very proud; for no one deserved it more than she.

The fifth Sunday in April has been given to the Woman's Home Missionary Society's work. Please let every sister make this the crowning Sunday of the year.

(MISS) DORCAS N. WALKER, Secretary.
MRS. M. J. SWANN, President.

LEESVILLE (LA.) SCHOOL.

In some of the rural districts of Louisiana the public school buildings are usually uncomfortable and the school term not longer than three months, but in Leesville, through the persistent and energetic efforts of their school trustees, headed by Mr. Anthony Williams, an ardent lover of education, the colored people have been fortunate to secure a modern school building, handsomely supplied with heaters, etc., and in addition, a school term of ten months.

Many students are connected with the school, but there are but few in advance grades, namely, Henry Williams, Maud Coleman and Leona Mullen.

After the holidays are over and the students return to their work, preparations will be made, along with the routine work of the school, for a grand concert to be given at the close of the scholastic year, for the benefit of the school.

W. F. BOOKER, A. B., Principal.

WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY—LEXINGTON CONFERENCE.

The fifth annual convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Lexington Conference will be held the second week in May, 1905, in the Mount Zion M. E. Church, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio. The Rev. H. W. Tate and his loyal people are preparing to entertain us free of charge. We hope to have a large delegation from each district. All conference and district officers are expected to be present with full reports. We urge that every auxiliary will bring or send a pledge to this meeting for some portion of our work. We also urge that all officers and delegates who expect to attend this convention will please send in their names early, that they may be provided for, to Mrs. Hattie Hann, care of her pastor, the Rev. H. W. Tate, 920 Lincoln avenue, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio.

For further notice watch the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Every auxiliary should take this helpful paper, that they may know what is going on in the Christian world.

(MRS.) J. T. LEGGETT,
President Woman's Home Missionary Society, Lexington Conference.

How Mr. Roosevelt Lives and Works.

The young men of the country will be entitled some time to know even more than they have as yet been told about the way in which President Roosevelt accomplishes so much and yet keeps in prime order. His physical constitution was, of course, built up, as everybody knows, years ago by systematic exercise and much outdoor life. His mental vigor would seem to have been acquired by a somewhat analogous method. The President does not flinch from the task in hand. He has schooled himself to do the day's work as it comes. He has acquired to a marvelous degree the power of concentration and the habit of decisiveness. He arranges his day well, is very abstemious in eating and drinking, does not allow himself to be cheated out of a fair amount of exercise, does not rely in the least upon stimulants or tobacco, and, perhaps above all, never tries to surpass himself or expend his reserve strength in the achievement of something exceptional. With matters of colossal importance to attend to, he simply does his best as he goes along, deals with every problem that arises in a simple, direct, and natural way, and thus finds the day sufficient unto itself. He borrows no trouble, sleeps soundly, and meets the morning refreshed and with full courage.—American Monthly Review of Reviews.

The Duty of Every Day

Let us do our duty, and pray that we may do our duty here, now, to-day; not in dreamy sweetness, but in active energy; not in the green oasis of the future, but in the dusty desert of the present; not in the imaginations of otherwhere, but in the realities of now.—Frederick W. Farrar.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE

We devoted a page to the proceedings of the Conference last week and this week we are publishing some Conference notes. The brethren were cordial in their reception to the SOUTHWESTERN, and gave the largest collection for subscriptions at the last Session of the Conference that the South Carolina Conference has ever given. One of the interesting things about the Conference Session was the report of the proceedings that appeared in the News and Courier. Dr. I. E. Lowery, serving as the special correspondent. From one to four columns appeared each day during the Conference and this in the face of the fact that a Conference of a sister church was in session at Beaufort, S. C., and no mention was made, while the Conference of the Church South was in session at Darlington, and received less than one-half the space. The brethren were exceedingly fortunate in having splendid facilities for giving the proceedings of their Conference to the public. Dr. Lowery and the News and Courier are to be thanked.

The Conference was given a trolley ride through the courtesy of the Charleston Consolidated Railway Company. More than 300 persons took advantage of this trip, and, be it remembered that there are no Jim Crow trolleys in Charleston, and that this is one of the cities in the South that is thus blessed. And as a further indication of Charleston's interest in the Conference, Messrs. Riddock and Byrns, proprietors of the Charleston Hotel, entertained as their guests Bishop Goodsell, Dr. Forbes and Dr. Dunton. This is a fitting tribute to the work of Methodism in the South.

In the appointments of the Central Alabama Conference, Rev. A. S. Williams was put down as the Presiding Elder of the Birmingham District, when the fact in the case is that Dr. W. H. Nelson is the Presiding Elder of the Birmingham District, and Rev. A. S. Williams Presiding Elder of the Huntsville District.

A PRACTICAL IDEA

Claflin University is in many ways a very practical institution. We hope to give our readers in a short while a full account of the Groove Cottage for self-supporting students. As a matter of interest we give herewith an announcement and the bill of fare of the Claflin University restaurant lunch. It can be seen that a splendid lunch can be secured for five cents.

CLAFLIN UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT LUNCH.

(Served from 12 m. to 1 p. m., except Sundays.)

BILL OF FARE.

1 Ham Sandwich	2 cents
1 Bologna Sandwich	2 "
1 Jelly Sandwich	1 "
1 Cup Baked Beans	2 "
1 Baked Sweet Potato	1 "
1 Boiled Egg	2 "
1 Square Gingerbread	2 "
2 Sugar Biscuits	1 "
1 Banana	2 "
1 Apple	2 "
1 Cup Cocoa	2 "
1 Cup Coffee	2 "

REGULATIONS.

No dishes to be carried out. No loud talking. Secure change at the office and pay exact amount.

Chickens, eggs, corn, syrup, and any kind of produce will be taken from country students in exchange for meal tickets.

The Claflin Store will be open from 4 to 6 p. m.

This is one of the many indications of Claflin's efforts to reach the largest number at the smallest cost.

DR. REID GOES TO AFRICA

As has been previously announced Dr. J. H. Reed, pastor Wesley Chapel, Little Rock, Ark., is to join the evangelizing force in the dark continent and will serve in the capacity of Vice-Chancellor of the College of West Africa. His conviction to go as a missionary comes after most careful prayer and meditation. The following touching paragraph was taken from a letter from Dr. Reed to Bishop Hartzell: "Last Sabbath was the first time I made public declaration to my congregation of my departure. Of course it was known but the question was not answered by me because of such a delicate nature. We turned the whole morning service into a consecration meeting and we had a most wonderful outpouring of the Holy Spirit, and now I have an abiding peace that comes only when we can submit to the divine will." And thus the conviction is growing upon our best equipped men and the cause of Africa's redemption is growing upon the heart of our people and her salvation is near at hand. Dr. Reed goes to Africa at the close of a most successful pastorate of one of our most important charges. We are giving a picture of the new Wesley Chapel, Little Rock, Ark., which has been built under his direction. The church, when completed, will cost $20,000 or more and will certainly be one of the best churches of our Southern Methodism. The brick work has been completed and the slate roof and cornice are on and there is but a small debt of $3,000. The basement is completed and the congregation is worshipping in it, having entered it December 4th. This work has been done by much care, sacrifice and nervous strain on the part of Dr. Reed, but he has had the hearty co-operation of his membership and his board of trustees. This church will remain as a monument to him and his earnest work as a pastor in this country. Dr. Reed and Mrs. Reed and their children, go with the earenst prayer of all of our people and their going adds to our interest in the dark continent.

One of the best churches for missionary contributions in all Methodism is the Second German Church of this city. The total membership of this church is only 125, and 40 of these are little folks, but this church contributed last year $1,200 for missions, which is almost $8.50 per member. Only one or two gave as much as $150.00, the remainder was given in small contributions. This church maintains six missionaries, three in India and three in China. Rev. W. A. Moer has been returned for the sixth year, and we predict for him unusual success.

LYNCHING DURING 1904

The annual review of the Chicago Tribune shows that there were, during the year 1904, 87 lynchings, as against 104 lynching for the year 1903. In 1902 there were 96 lynchings and in 1901, 135. Of the 87 lynchings, 82 took place in the South and 5 in the North. This would indicate that the mob spirit is still more prevalent in the South than elsewhere. Of the 87, 83 were Negro victims. This would indicate that the spirit of mob violence is directed against the Negro more than against the whites. Mississippi leads all the States, having to its credit for the year 18 lynchings. The alleged causes were: For murder, 36; attacks on women, 20; race prejudice, 19; murderous assault, 4; conspiracy in murder, 2; unknown, 2; insults, 2; threats, 1; robbery, 1. It is shown, and figures in this case do not lie, that all the lynchings are not for assault against womanhood. The twenty lynchings alleged for attacks on women would be considerably reduced if there were deducted all cases except those of actual rape or attempt at rape. The truth is, the country should accept the fact that there are fewer cases of rape in proportion to the population among the entire Negro race than there is among the white citizenship of Chicago. During the month of November there was not a reported lynching, and in this regard November, 1904, has a clear page, there being no such month in twenty years previous..

THIS IS HOW IT IS DONE

We could give a number of instances showing how the SOUTHWESTERN has been circulated. Rev. W. H. Golden on the Brookville Circuit of the Upper Mississippi Conference, succeeded so admirably in putting the paper among his people that we have asked him to tell us how it was done. And we give his methods with the hope that it may stimulate other pastors to circulate the paper. It is a question of energy and interest largely in any plan, and yet we give Brother Golden's, which we think a very good one.

Rev. Golden writes:

"I came to Brookville Circuit two years ago and found less than a dozen subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Having learned that a reading people are more easily pastored than those who do not read, and knowing the effect the paper would have upon all who would read it, I set to work to put it in every home on our charge. I gave the members to understand that no home was complete without its church paper and to be loyal members they must take it. In my pastoral visits I inquired if the SOUTHWESTERN visited that home and if not I urged the needs to subscribe, and if they can not read it themselves get some one to read it to them.

"I lectured on the need of good, clean literature in the home and its effect upon the readers. In my leaders and steward's meetings I inquired first if the leader is a subscriber, and then ascertain from the leader the number of heads of families in the class and how many take the SOUTHWESTERN.

"The officers soon saw that I was determined to have the paper in every home and they fell in line to help in this good cause, special credit might be given my District Steward, Brother A. Moore, for his valuable service in this work, and to-day, instead of six, we have more than fifty SOUTHWESTERNS coming to Brookville Circuit and it helps the pastor in many ways for through the papers they see what the church at large is doing and the result is a large membership and our benevolent collections are fifty per cent better than ever before."

Just so! The SOUTHWESTERN will be your assistant pastor, helping you to raise the Conference collections and otherwise advancing the work. Put the paper in the home of your people. You can if you will.

Rev. E. R. Miller, of the Atlanta Conference, desires his correspondents to address him at Grantville, Ga.

Personal and General

Bishop J. C. Hartzell expects to sail for Africa some time in the early part of this month.

Dr. Wilkins and son, of Houston, Texas, were among our callers recently. The Doctor has been a subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN for twenty years and assures us that he will keep up his old time interest.

Rev. H. B. Hart is closing a most successful year at Corinth, Miss. Although his Conference is some weeks off, his salary is paid in full and all the benevolent claims met. He has re-painted the church this year and raised for all purposes $1,448.

Bishop Cranston dedicated Simpson Chapel, Washington, D. C., December 11th. The church is a beautiful brick structure, heated by steam and lighted by electricity, and has been built and completed since the Washington Annual Conference. Rev. S. H. Norward is the energetic and successful pastor.

The Temperance Society makes a plea for funds to push the battle for total abstinence and prohibition. Collections should be sent direct to Alonzo E. Wilson, No. 92 LaSalle Street, Chicago. The appeal is signed by the entire executive commitee, headed by Bishop W. F. McDowell.

THE NEW WESLEY METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, LITTLE ROCK, ARK.

Rev. M. M. Alston, in many regards, is a remarkable man. He is a nephew of Rev. Matthew Alston, of North Carolina, who is one of the most saintly and godly men that we have ever known. Matthew Alston, Jr., entered the Atlanta Conference in 1882 and has enjoyed a remarkable career. He has served the following charges: Fairburn, East Atlanta, Chapel Street, Cave Springs and Brunswick; six years on the Gainesville District, then the Griffin Station, First Church, Rome, and then a term of six years on the Griffin District, which closed at the last Conference. In testimony of his worth and in appreciation of his good work the people of his district gave him a grand reception in the Hecks Chapel, Griffin, Ga. He was married to Miss Mary V. Woods in 1882. Dr. Alston enters upon the pastorate at Newnan, Ga., where we are sure he will have his usual success.

The recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the American University was largely attended. It was unanimously resolved that the building committee proceed with the construction of the College of Government, the foundation of which is now completed. This building is a memorial to the late President McKinley. The trustees who were present, in the space of a few minutes, contributed $23,000 for this purpose, and the building will be pushed to completion. Two of the trustees had died since the last meeting, ex-Governor Robert E. Patterson and Mr. Charles Scott, of Philadelphia. The newly-elected trustees are Bishop Earl Cranston, N. T. Arnold, of Ridgeway, Pa.; and Mr. Levi Smith, of Warren, Pa. The following officers of the Board were elected: President, Dr. David H. Carroll; Vice-President, A. B. Browne; Secretary, Dr. Charles W. Baldwin; Treasurer, Charles C. Glover. The officers of the University are: Chancellor, Bishop C. C. McCabe; Vice-Chancellor, Bishop A. W. Wilson; Secretary, Mr. W. L. Davidson; Financial Secretary, Dr. J. A. Gutteridge; Registrar, Rev. Albert Osborn.

Bishop Thomas B. Neely and family and Dr. H. K. Carroll, First Assistant Corresponding Secretary of the Missionary Society, sailed from New York Wednesday, Dec. 28, by steamer Seguranca, for Colon, Panama. Bishop Neely and Dr. Carroll expect to remain about eight days in Panama, where they will investigate places and conditions with reference to the possibility of establishing a Methodist Mission on the Isthmus. They will then sail southward from the Pacific side of the Isthmus. Bishop Neely will preside at the annual meeting of the North Andes Mission at Lima, Peru, Jan. 18; at the session of the Andes Conference at Coquimbo, Chile, Feb 8, and at the session of the South America Conference at Montevideo, Uruguay, March 8 Bishop Neely will thereafter make his home at Buenos Ayres, the episcopal residence for South America. Dr. Carroll will be in attendance at these various Conference sessions. In addition, acting under the instructions of the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society, under whose authority he is making the trip, he will investigate all our mission affairs in the several republics, inspect mission properties, and examine all financial accounts, including those of school and press. Certain financial conditions existing in connection with properties within the bounds of the South America Conference especially require adjustment, and this, in the opinion of the Board, cannot be arranged satisfactorily except by a visit from the Secretary having supervision of the work. Dr. Carroll expects to reach New York again some time in May, returning by way of Italy.

NEWS NOTES

W. C. Matthews, the Negro football and baseball player, has been elected one of Harvard's senior class-day officers.

The Methodist Episcopal Church has increased 32,817 in membership during the year 1904 over the year 1903.

For the proposed Lutheran College for Negro boys at Greensboro, N. C., fifteen acres of land have been bought, and $50,000 will be expended in equipment.

A number of Whitecappers in Mississippi who have led in the whipping and killing of Negroes and burning of their homes, creating terror all over the State, have been sentenced by Judge Wilkinson to the penitentiary—one for life, five for fifty years, and another for twenty-five years.

The arrangements are complete for the entertainment of the Louisiana Annual Conference, at Monroe, beginning January 25. Presiding Elder Shallowhorne assures us that the delegates and preachers will have the best entertainment in the history of the Conference. All classes of people, white and colored, are looking forward with great interest to the coming of the Conference. Hacks and cabs have agreed to carry delegates to any part of the city for 25 cents. The agent of the transfer company will board the train at Columbia and sell tickets to all parts of Monroe at the rate of 25 cents each. Anybody paying more than this should call the attention of Presiding Elder Shallowhorne or Pastor Taylor and the amount will be refunded. Revs. Taylor, Long and Lashington, the pastors at Monroe, have worked faithfully and it is due to their untiring efforts as well as those of Presiding Elder Shallowhorne, that the complete arrangements have been made. The Missionary Anniversary will be held January 25th, Church Extension, January 26th, Freedmen's Aid, January 27th.

FARM NOTES.

While variety feeding is essential to profitable stock growing, whether in the case of swine or other animals, there must also be good judgment used in changing and in the combinations. Too marked a change is sure to be followed by disastrous results.

Don't allow your stock to "just stand still." That means retrogression, as all living things must either go forward or back. See that they show steady progress during the growing season and that they are kept improving by care and judicious feeding.

With growing colts height is most generally made in the second and third years of their age, and the fourth and fifth years for breadth and depth of body, though some keep on adding to these points, and especially strengthening the bones, until six or seven years old.

Too little light, air and exercise are bad for the dairy cow.

Fully ripen the cream, but do not allow the ripening process to go too far.

In purchasing a cow for butter and milk, do not be carried away by the breeding of the animal, but see that she has individual merit.

Where everything is kept scrupulously clean and the quality of the butter is not satisfactory, there is sure to be something wrong in the detail work of churning.

One advantage with the public dairy will be found in the increased richness of the farm, caused by the extra quality and quantity of the manure made on account of keeping more cows and giving them better feed.

It is essential that a cow's udder be entirely freed from milk at each milking, for if any milk is left in the udder from any cause the secretions are checked and the cow will soon go dry if this method of milking becomes a common practice.

In some respects the medium-sized dairy on the farm has the advantage of creamery or any other method of making butter. A farmer has direct control of his cattle, can see that they are milked at regular intervals and the milk at once taken care of before bad odors or varying temperatures get in their disagreeable work. Many private dairies are getting from three to ten cents per pound above the market price just because they are able to control conditions and turn out a fine product every day.—The American Farmer.

Literary Notes

FAMOUS HYMNS.

A valuable contribution to sacred literature is promised in The Delineator in a series of papers on the famous hymns of the world, which begins in the January number with "Jesus, Lover of My Soul"—one of the most perfect heart songs of all ages. The greatest hymns, such as this, have a universal appeal; churches may differ as to creeds and conventions, but these exalted expressions of Christian faith and hope are common to all. The story of how they came to be written cannot fail to be absorbingly interesting; it is especially so in the case of Charles Wesley's noble composition, whose origin, as related in this paper, is shrouded in romantic incidents. A feature of the article scarcely less interesting is a number of anecdotes from noted churchmen showing the power for good that the hymn has wielded throughout the world. This article, as well as the rest in the series, has been prepared by Allan Sutherland and is effectively illustrated.

"A Christmas Fiesta in the Philippines," in the January Century, by David Gray, he of "Gallops" fame, will be the account of three Americans' experience in a Filipino home on Christmas Day. Among the other guests, representatives of prominent families, was Aguinaldo; and this story of an American glimpse of the discredited Filipino leader among his countrymen will be worth the reading.

The Christmas number of the New England Magazine is clothed in an attractive dress of red and green in the design of holly berries and leaves. A cursory glance through its pages shows it to be lavishly illustrated, although its striking pictorial features merely re-enforce its strength of text and its literary excellence. Warwick James Price, under the caption, "The 'New Women' of Thibet," tells us about the tribe of remarkable women who inhabit that strange land "lying back of the beyond." For sale at all newsstands; 25 cents per number. $3.00 a year. America Co., 8 Dix Place, Boston.

The Chattanooga Medicine Co., the manufacturers of Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black Draught, have just issued the 1905 edition of their Cardui Weather Chart and Calendar. This Calendar with its 13 sheets 13x20 inches in size, makes a bright ornament for the wall. The prominent numbers can be read across a large room as can the colored signal flags showing the weather conditions for each day. A copy of this weather chart and calendar may be secured by sending 10c in stamps to the Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, Tenn. Any of our readers who have not secured a copy of the Ladies' Birthday Almanac can get one by sending their address to "Ladies' Birthday Almanac," Chattanooga, Tenn., or by calling on their druggist.

L. E. Hayes, Pastor, Kansas City, Kans.—Methodism is yet alive in Kansas City. Since I have been pastor in every call. We have been successful this city we have done a commendable work. The members have rallied to both spiritually and financially, have had several people to connect themselves with the church, and the prospects are good for more. Financially we stand second to none. Since Aug. 15 we have raised six hundred dollars with but little effort. In our recent rally we raised $263, creditable work for this church, with a membership less than 100 members and the opposition we have. In all my pastorate I have never met a more generous people. We are working for a new location for our church, and our people are enthusiastic. God being our helper, we are going to the conference without a blank in our report.

H. W. Simmons, Pastor, Dayton, O.—Sunday, Dec. 18, was a great day for Cincinnati Methodism. Five thousand people filled the Music Hall to hear Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, D. D., our new resident Bishop, who was tendered a reception at the above named place at 2:30 p. m. Dr. Davis W. Clark introduced the Bishop to the Epworth League and Women's Home Missionary Society. Bishop Walden, whom we all love and honor, in a masterly and eloquent way, introduced Bishop Spellmyer to the large audience. The Bishop's subject was "The Greatest Book in the World," his text Isaiah 34, 16: "Seek ye out the Book of the Lord and read." Our colored pastors were all seated on the platform and our members received equal attention with other members. To Dr. Clark, presiding elder of the Cincinnati District, is due this great Protestant gathering. Seated with him on the "firing line," besides Bishops Walden and Spellmyer, were Rev. F. W. Harrop, presiding elder of the Covington District, Ky., Conference, and the writer, presiding elder of the Ohio District, Lexington Conference. May the Lord bless Bishops Walden and Spellmyer with many added years of usefulness to the church.

Doings of the Workmen.

Samuel A. Martin, Recording Steward, Memphis, Tenn.—Centenary M. E. Church is still alive and growing spiritually and financially. Under the rulings of our new pastor, Rev. M. Williams, we bow our heads in humbleness to his most worthy cause and his good aims. We are glad that the last annual conference sent to us such a worthy and honorable Christian gentleman and noble preacher. He entered upon his work with zeal, making a good and lasting impression on both members and friends. He has already accomplished many good things. Sunday, Nov. 27th, was fittingly celebrated as World's Temperance Sunday. The Sunday School, under the auspices of the temperance committee, rendered an excellent program. At 11 a. m. the pastor preached an eloquent sermon on "Temperance." We anticipate a merry Christmas. Great and ample preparations are being made for our visiting brothers, Drs. J. W. E. Bowen, M. C. B. Mason andothers, who will spend from December 27 to 30 in our city, attending at a great Educational Meeting. Drs. Bowen and Mason will favor us with special lectures while here. Rev. J. A. W. More will hold his first quarterly meeting on Dec. 11-12.

F. A. Hatcher, Byington, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference was held Nov. 26-27 at Branch Hill, Rev. W. A. Webber presiding. The church and people were greatly impressed with the new presiding elder. He preached two sermons on Sunday which were full of inspiration. Full reports were received from Haven Chapel. We are planning to repair our church and are raising our benevolence right along and urging all the people to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN. Our church work is moving along in general very nicely. Our record is properly kept by Miss Agnes McKaney. Our people attend church well.

P. R. Woodson, Pastor, Tullahoma, Tenn.—My first quarterly Conference convened Nov. 12-13. Rev. W. R. Smith presided with much ability and grace. He preached two strong sermons on Sunday and a good number partook of the Lord's Supper. Paid the elder his full claim. Raised for all purposes this quarter, $25.24. Elder Smith is a strong man. The church gave him a nice reception.

R. A. Walmsley, Reporter, Eola, La. The fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 26, with the Rev. P. W. Clark in the chair. The session was a grand one. Most of the officers were present with written reports. The elder preached Sunday at 11 to a good congregation, and at night to a better one. His sermons and lectures will never be forgotten. May God's blessings be upon the earnest worker who cared for every interest of our church. Raised during the conference session $73; during the quarter, for pastor, $175; paid presiding elder in full. About $10.15 balance is yet due the pastor, which will be paid; $210.20 in treasury for building and improvements.

A. W. Randolph, Dublin Circuit, Va.—The first quarterly conference was held at Neborn, Va., Nov. 26-27, with Rev. W. E. Mitchell, presiding elder, in the chair. The majority of the brethren were present with written reports, which showed the work to be in good shape. Paid the elder $8.49. Rev. Mitchell having to leave early, filled the pulpit on Sunday with Rev. A. I. Weems, who preached twice and administered the Lord's Supper on Wednesday night. A large party visited us, led by Luezia Page and J. R. Fleming. They brought us many good things. Thanksgiving Day was a high one with us. We raised a collection for the Freedmen's Aid. The Woman's Home Missionary Society had an entertainment on Thanksgiving night, which was a success, under the leadership of Mrs. Gertrude Johnson, president. Total raised, $41.92. The Epworth League and Sunday School are doing good work. This is my third year here and the outlook is good.

(Miss) Hester Thomas, Centreville, Miss.—We had a grand Children's concert and everyone present enjoyed the occasion immensely. We are so far from our church that the pastor has organized a Sunday school at home and we are doing nicely. Rev. A. H. Banks, from Campti, La., preached for us here, where he was once pastor, and on the first night we collected $3.40. On Sunday at 11 o'clock he preached a wonderful sermon. A large crowd was present. Collection, $25.15. Sunday night, at Bay Ridge, more than 500 people were out to hear him. En route home he preached at Centreville, Miss., and left the fire burning in that place. Collection $7.50.

C. Spears, Pastor, Port Allen, La.—I take this method of thanking Sisters Banes, Johnson and Hopkins for a $3.50 hat, and also the church for a $3.75 pair of shoes.

Kenton, Tenn.—The Rev. P. Price, our new pastor, who is a great Christian leader and pastor, on his arrival at this place was given a reception. Sisters Francis Cason and Ada Brollins led in this movement. On Sunday morning, Oct. 30, he preached a powerful sermon, and at 3 o'clock reorganized the school and league. His appointment here gives life and inspiration to the church and to the people of our community.

W. H. Simpson, Pastor, Newport, Ark.—Rev. Dr. J. M. Cox, president of Philander Smith College, Little Rock, Ark., delivered his famous lecture "My Trip to General Conference, Los Angeles, Cal.," at the M. E. Church Dec. 12. It was quite a treat to all who heard him. The congregataion responded liberally to the cause of education. Sunday was rally day and they gave the pastor $23 on his new suit for conference.

N. R. Clay, Pastor, Holly Springs, Miss.—The members of Asbury Church had what they called Disciple Day Dec. 4, for the purpose of paying off the preacher. Each disciple was requested to raise not less than $10. They reported: Prof. J. A. Q. Williams, $10.75; H. W. Wright, $11.25; H. W. Doxey, $4.75; H. B. Brothers, $8.35; J. T. Hall, $3.75; J. C. Oglesby, $18.40; J. J. Elliott, $13.35; John Jeffries, $16.75; J. C. Herron, $10; J. M. Hill, $19.50; A. A. White, $15.75; Prof. E. H. McKissack, $32.60; total, $166.50. We have been paid in full and with quite enough money in the hands of the stewards to pay the first month's salary in another year. All of this is done more than a month before the Annual Conference. We are up on all lines with a more than full report. This is a church that proves its right to the first place by its works. We have 40 cash subscribers taking the paper. Benevolence more than full.

W. S. Riggan, Pastor, Olivier, La.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 22. The presiding elder was on time and the business was dispatched in good order. The elder was paid in full. Raised this quarter $41.75. Paid presiding elder, $55.25. We are glad to note Rev. F. A. Brown, of New Iberia, preached to the delight of all who heard him. We are getting ready for the conference. The Big Four will take charge of our church at Olivier the second Sunday in this month. They say they are going to finish raising the benevolent money.

J. A. Slate, Pastor, Sardis Circuit.—Everything is alive in this charge. Fourth quarter, Nov. 19-20; good reports showed the work advancing. Paid elder in full, $17.95; pastor this quarter, $66. Raised during quarter, $42; for all purposes, $109.95. Thanksgiving was observed and $3.15 given the church. God bless the people of this charge for there are some as faithful and loyal as can be found anywhere.

L. J. Hollins, Reporter, Walnut Hills Cincinnati, O.—The last rally for this conference year came off at Mt. Zion, Walnut Hills, Sunday, Oct. 23, with great success. We were asked to raise $300. The affair was arranged by appointing five captains over as many clubs, as follows: Mrs. Emma Dickerson, $50.77; Ellen Chenault, $79.85; Jane Riley, $38.07; Miss Lizzie Cummins, $103.97; Mrs. Mamie Boffman, $40.25. Total, $312.91. Rev. Mrs. Taylor preached in the morning. Rev. Gee, of Brown's Chapel A. M. E. Church, in the afternoon and Mrs. Taylor again in the evening. This has been the greatest financial year in the history of the church under Rev. Tate. The revival commenced on Sunday, Oct. 23.

Curtis C. Dorsey, Reporter, Pineville, La.—Sunday, Nov. 6, was a high day at Wesley Chapel. Sisters J. Smith, J. Robinson and L. Harrell were baptized and received as full members in the church. The church was filled to its utmost capacity. The Rev. J. W. Pierce, pastor, preached a most excellent and very touching sermon. Collected for pastor during the week, $34.60. The Rev. Pierce is an excellent pastor and is loved by the entire community.

C. L. Angrum, Pastor, Bastrop, La.—My fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 1-2 with Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne, presiding elder, in the chair. He was at his best. The majority of the brethren were present. Reports showed a marked improvements along all lines. Bastrop is coming to the front once more.

W. S. Leake, Pastor, Mills, Miss.—The class rally at Midway M. E. Church Nov. 6 was a success. Representatives: No. 1, Mrs. B. Wilkins, $8; 2, Mrs. F. Allen, $3.50; 3, C. C. Boozie, $3; 4, Mrs. L. Johnson, $4 80; 5, Miss S. M. McBride, $2.10; 6, G. W. Boozie, $2.75; 7, Mrs. Hattie Phillips, $2.10; 8, F. J. Cauthon, $2.35; 9, A. Bragg, 55 cents. Public collection, $2.05. Total, $31.15. The tenth class, composed of little girls, led by the pastor, for the erection of a schoolhouse at Midway, raised in all $20. Grand total, $51.15. We have 22 annual subscribers for the good SOUTHWESTERN, and expect to have 30 by the District Conference.

B. Carr, Pastor, Stoney Point, La.—I want to return thanks to the family of Brother S. Bell for the sum of money given me, and also Mrs. D. Harrison for $8.25. We have received on probation nine persons, four reclaimed, and ten accessions.

Sallie Coleman, Reporter, Rev. William H. Gatewood, Pastor, Gipsey, Miss.—Our new pastor has accomplished good work. Rev. Thomas W. Davis, our presiding elder, held his first quarterly conference here shortly after our pastor's arrival. The elder preached three of his best sermons at Little Rock on Nov. 12, Sulphur Springs the 13th, and at Piney Grove on the 14th. Paid presiding elder, $21.30; pastor, $39.50; for lamp, $5.75; assistant preacher, $5.50; sick, $2.75; Sunday school literature, $2.50; pastor, $8.50; total, $97.30. All of this work was done in one month by our pastor. He is considered a great church builder. We are well pleased with him, and expect under his administration to have great success in our work.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT.

MRS. E. AUSTIN.

An interesting letter to our readers from Mrs. E. Austin of New York City:

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 9th, 1902.

A little over a year ago I was taken with severe pains in my kidneys and bladder. They continued to give me trouble for over two months and I suffered untold misery. I became weak, emaciated and very much run down. I had great difficulty in retaining my urine, and was obliged to pass water very often night and day. After I had used a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which you so kindly sent me on my request, I experienced great relief. I immediately bought of my druggist two large bottles and continued taking it regularly. I am pleased to say that Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I can now stand on my feet all day without having any bad symptoms whatever. You are at liberty to use this testimonial letter if you wish. Gratefully yours,

Mrs. E. Austin.

19 Nassau St.

The mild and prompt effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Recommended and taken by physicians, used in hospitals and endorsed by people of prominence everywhere. To prove what Swamp-Root will do for you a sample bottle will be sent absolutely free, by mail, also a book telling all about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and be sure to mention reading this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Why not take up the watchword for the year—"One thousand souls for God and His church, every cent of our ben-

Your Life Current.

The power that gives you life and motion is the nerve force, or nerve fluid, located in the nerve cells of the brain, and sent out through the nerves to the various organs.

If you are tired, nervous, irritable, cannot sleep; have headache, feel stuffy, dull and melancholy, or have neuralgia, rheumatism, backache, periodical pains, indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach trouble, or the kidneys and liver are inactive, your life-current is weak.

Power-producing fuel is needed; something to increase nerve energy—strengthen the nerves.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is the fuel you need. It feeds the nerves, produces nerve force, and restores vitality.

"When I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Anti-Pain Pills I was confined to my bed. I had severe nervous spells, the result of two years illness with malaria. I gradually grew so weak that I was unable to sit up. The spells would commence with cold chills, and I would become weak and almost helpless. My circulation was poor. I had doctored right along but grew weaker and weaker. The Nervine seemed to strengthen me right away and my circulation was better. I have taken in all seven bottles of the Nervine, and I am entirely well."
ROSA E. WEAVER, Stuarts, Ia.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

GREENWOOD DISTRICT.

The second session of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, met in the John Wesley M. E. Church, Durant, Miss., Nov. 30, Rev. S. H. Nevils, presiding elder, presiding. Most of the pastors were present; also quite a number of local preachers, exhorters and other officers. F. G. Wilborn was elected secretary, G. W. Hunt and J. C. Cooke, assistants. H. G. Salter and Dr. W. H. H. Gallion, statistical secretaries and J. C. Cooke, reporter. The presiding elder read a very encouraging report, showing improvements along all lines. The pastor, Dr. M. C. McEwen, had things well in hand, and too much praise cannot be given to him and the people for their hospitable entertainment. Rev. Dr. T. W. Davis, presiding elder of the Starksville District, honored us with his presence during the larger portion of the session. Dr. Bowen, pastor of the Baptist church, was introduced and spoke to the delight of all. Rev. G. G. Logan, D. D., field secretary of the Missionary Society, made a strong appeal for the cause he represents and the Missionary delegates responded with a collection of $51.65; $50 was turned over to Prof. E. H. McKissack, for Rust University. Thursday night Memorial service was held in honor of Rev. P. O. Jamison and Mary G. York, wife of Rev. H. N. York, pastor of Vaiden Charge. Dr. W. H. H. Gallion, J. W. Parks, S. D. Troupe and Dr. B. H. S. Ferguson paid touching tributes to their memory. Friday evening's session was devoted to the cause of missions. Many able and interesting papers were read by the lady delegates. Friday night Dr. G. G. Logan again made a strong and able appeal for missions. Prof. E. H. McKissack, of Rust University, also spoke in the interest of the cause he represented. Revs. R. J. Stokes, H. Y. Salter, W. S. Leake, W. H. H. Gallion and G. W. Hunt preached evcellent sermons to large and appreciative audiences. J. C. Cooke was recommended for admission on trial.

J. C. COOKE, Reporter.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

The Brookhaven District Conference has closed its second session for this year. The work of the year on all charges in the district had been remarkably successful. More than 720 souls had been converted and added to the church. The benevolent collections had been decidedly increased over any previous year. New churches had been built. Some of them would rank first-class among the best churches in the conference. From 20 to over 200 converts and accessions were reported from nearly every circuit and charge on the district. Each charge and circuit had liberally contributed to present the presiding elder a conference suit of clothes. Warm and appreciative resolutions, thanking Presiding Elder Davis for his kind and faithful presidency over the district during his entire term of six years. The pastor, A. Howze, and good people of Little Rock, gave most generous and hospitable entertainment to the conference. Miss Gulridge, of Brookhaven, rendered excellent services as organist and choristers. Prof. J. T. Arnold, representing the Rev. J. P. Wraggs, of the American Bible Society, was introduced to the conference and was most efficient in distributing Bibles among our people. Rev. D. J. Lee, of the Baptist Church, and other distinguished visitors were introduced and spoke encouraging words to the conference. Thus ended one of the best conferences in the history of the district.

A. M. TROTTER, Secretary.

Mrs. Mary Lewis, of Moss Point, Miss., thanks her friends for the pound party tendered her father, Rev. Santee, who was glad to receive the gifts. He is better now, and asks the prayers of all.

The Medicine That Cures.

RENO, OKLA., May 11, 1903.

Wine of Cardui absolutely does cure sick women. I consider it the most valuable medicine, and it is the cheapest cure any sick woman can use, as it takes as a rule, only a few bottles to effect a complete and lasting cure. I especially recommend it for uterine or ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, painful, profuse or scanty menstruation and it is a most valuable adjunct to use during the gestative period, insuring easy childbirth and speedy recovery.

It should have a place in every home as it is a true friend to wife, mother and maiden and I most heartily recommend it.

Dr. E. Buchanan

WRITER AND LECTURER.

Dr. Mrs. Buchanan is an authority on the science of medicine and certainly appreciates the great work physicians are doing for the relief of sufferers. But this does not deter her from expressing her views in praise of Wine of Cardui.

Mrs. Buchanan's high intelligence and long and successful experience render her advice of great value. Wine of Cardui regulates menstruation, cures bearing-down pains and relieves suffering women of the pain and misery to which their sex is heir. You have the word of Dr. Buchanan and thousands of other eminent women that Wine of Cardui will completely cure you.

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

A BEAUTIFUL FACE LOSES ITS BEAUTY WHEN UNADORNED WITH A HANDSOME HEAD OF HAIR. GLOSSINE is a true hair food, and consequently a true hair tonic, which feeds, invigorates, vitalizes, permeates, fertilizes, resuscitates, enlivens, and stimulates the bulbs, glands, oil sacs, follicles, adjuncts, and roots of the human hair. When the plant is withered, sickly, drooping, and dying, we give it water ere it die. Just so should we apply GLOSSINE to the harsh, unsightly dropping, dying hair, for on this principle of common sense was GLOSSINE formulated by one of America's most noted pharmacists—not from lead, mercury, bismuth, and other mineral poisons, but from vegetable and botanical products only, which can work no injury to the human hair. Cupidity and the desire for quick wealth have tempted many people, ignorant both as to pharmacy and chemistry, to sell to the people so-called hair tonics, which (on account of their low price) contain mineral poisons, the immediate effect of which cause the hair to grow quickly, but whose certain end is falling hair and a bald head. There is only one safe course to pursue—use only on your hair an absolutely guaranteed vegetable remedy for the hair, such as GLOSSINE really is, which can only do good, and work no injury. Which is the cheapest to buy, GLOSSINE, a genuine, meritorious hair tonic at a moderate price, or a worthless, hair-killing nostrum at a penny? GLOSSINE cures all diseases of the hair and scalp, and gives to the hair length, lustre, life, vitality, and beauty. It makes the hair grow quickly, thick, long, and luxurious; covers all bald spots; gives to it that beautiful, shiny gloss (from which it takes its name), and causes the hair to grow so long and so soft that it can be dressed with ease and as you please. GLOSSINE makes the hair soft, wavy, straight, glossy, and gives to it a texture as fine and pliable as the softest silk. Price for large box, 50c.; price for the complete treatment (3 large boxes), only $1.00. We pay all charges.

NOTE.—Many druggists may try to sell you something else, on which they make more profit, or because they may not have GLOSSINE in stock. If your druggist cannot supply you, send the price, with your name and address and name of dealer, and we will send same promptly, prepaid.

They Live in Our Memory.

Grenada, Miss.—Mr. Foster Carr, one of Grenada's popular young men, after a short illness died Dec. 19th, and was buried Dec. 23rd. The deceased was a member of both the Masons and Knights of Pythias, and was buried by these orders. He leaves a father, two sisters and one brother. Peace to his ashes. MRS. MARION B. GOLDEN.

Bastrop, La.—Letha Hyde, aged two years, died Dec. 22nd. Death was caused by a bullet wound inflicted by her small brother during the absence of their parents. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, C. L. Angrum.

Winona, Miss.—Sister Clarina Fox died Nov. 4th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. J. Huge. Sister Fox was loved by all who knew her. She was a noble Christian woman. Her funeral was largely attended. She leaves three daughters and two sons and a host of friends. MRS. F. G. WILSON.

Cookeville, Tenn.—Sister Sarah Settell, one of the oldest and strongest members of Shady Grove M. E. Church, fell dead at her home a few days ago. She was about 68 years of age and had been a member of the M. E. Church for many years. She leaves two daughters and one son to mourn their loss. The funeral service was conducted by her pastor. E. F. CARTER.

Handsboro, Miss.—Sister Amanda Blox, aged 80 years, died in peace Dec. 17th. Sister Blox was a member of Riley Chapel M. E. Church for a good many years. She leaves a husband to mourn her loss. J. I. GARRETT.

Crystal Springs, Miss.—Sister Norah Adams died Oct. 17th, at the age of 18 years. She was a devout Christian girl and much loved by this community. On Nov. 6th was preached the funeral service of Sister Celia Young. She was known as Mother Young, and though very feeble, she always made an annual visit to her home church. A touching tribute to her memory was read by Sister Bettie Smith. She leaves many relatives. A. M. TROTTER, Pastor.

Florence Charge, Miss.—John Wallace, the eldest son of Mrs. M. E. Wells, died Dec. 4th, in full triumph of faith. One week previous to his death he embraced religion and his request was to be baptized and received into the church of God. Mary Garner, a faithful member of Springhill M. E. Church, died in November. She said that she was going to rest. Brother William Spence fell asleep in Jesus, after an illness of three weeks. Bro. Spence was one of the oldest and most faithful members of Springhill. He was loved by all who knew him. The funeral service, which was largely attended, was conducted by M. Cooper.

Shreveport, La.—The following resolutions were adopted by the officers of St. Paul M. E. Church, of which the deceased was a faithful member; Rev. Dr. B. M. Hubbard, pastor: Whereas, Almighty God in his wise providence has removed from us so suddenly by death Brother William Harper, a Christian gentleman and good citizen, just at the time when he was actively engaged in the spiritual and temporal work of the church. Resolved, That we bow our heads in humble submission to the will of Almighty God who doeth all things well. Resolved, That we have lost a faithful Christian, an exemplary class leader, a good steward, and a wise counselor. Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved wife, Sister Julia Harper; his daughter and other relatives, and commend them to the great sympathizer, Jesus Christ.

MR. W. H. HOLMES, Sec'y.

Alexander City, Ala.—Rev. G. W. Elder, a member of the Mobile Annual Conference, and pastor of the Alexander City Circuit, died Nov. 30th. His funeral was preached in the M. E. Church at Alexander City by Rev. J. T. Willis of Kellyton, Rev. D. R. Mathis and Rev. R. E. L. Beasley. His remains were laid to rest in the cemetery of Alexander City. The deceased leaves a wife, son, and other relatives in Georgia. R. E. L. BEASLEY.

Field Notes.

A. Norman, Reporter, Marksville, La.—We are moving along nicely at this place, through the efforts of our pastor, Rev. J. D. McCain, who has been very sick for four weeks, but is now improving. Mrs. McCain and her daughter, Miss Lillian A. McCain, have charge of the church and Sunday school, which are in good working order. We have bought a fine bell and paid for same, all but $7. Also two fine lamps worth $10. The last note was paid on November 20, so the church is clear of debt. Mrs. I. V. Amber from Alexandria, is here teaching school. In our rally a good sum was raised.

Roanoke, Va.—On the evening of the 6th inst., St. Paul's Church showed its appreciation of the pastor, Rev. Ernest S. Williams, by the gift of a handsome gold watch. Mr. A. J. Oliver, LL. D., an active lay member, made the presentation speech which was admirable in style and delivery. The large audience was thrilled. The brief response of the pastor was in a happy vein and elicited hearty applause. It was a delightful occasion.

A NOTRE DAME LADY.

I will send free, with full instructions, some of this simple preparation for the cure of Leucorrhœa, Ulceration, Displacements, Falling of the Womb, Scanty or Painful Periods, Tumors or Growths, Hot Flashes, Desire to Cry, Creeping feeling up the Spine, Pain in the Back, and all Female Troubles, to all sending address. To mothers of suffering daughters I will explain a Successful Home Treatment. If you decide to continue it will only cost about 12 cents a week to guarantee a cure. Tell other sufferers of it, that is all I ask. If you are interested write now and tell your suffering friends of it. Address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

Fayette, Miss.—Rev. S. H. Cannon has served us faithfully three years; also his devoted wife and loving little daughter, Zenobia, are faithful Christians and loyal workers in the blessed old M. E. Church. They love their people and in return are beloved by all. We pray God and the Bishop and elders for their return to Fayette.

J. J. Woolridge, Pastor, Moore's Chapel M. E. Church, Deerford, Ga.—We had a grand time on Sunday, Nov. 20; raised $13.35. We will soon enter the new church. The members are wide-awake to their duties. We mean to send in to conference a grand report this year.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

Stoney Point, La.—Mr. Ernest Bell and Miss Hattie Harrison, a popular young lady of this place, were united in holy wedlock, Dec. 15th, at the home of the bride. Mr. James Rudison and Miss Della Chanery were united in marriage on December 11th, at the bride's residence. B. Carr officiated.

Rylander Chapel, La.—Miss Henrietta Holiday was united in marriage on Dec. 22nd to Mr. William Clay, at the residence of the bride. A number of friends witnessed the ceremony. E. V. Taylor officiated.

Alexandria, La.—On Wednesday evening, Dec. 21st, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Alton Mitchell of Alexandria, La., Mr. Malvin S. Dier and Miss Altonette B. Mitchell were united in marriage by the bride's uncle, Rev. H. J. Wright, pastor of Mallalieu Chapel, New Orleans. The groom is the son of Mr. Sudik Dier, the leading cake proprietor at Alexandria, bookkeeper and cashier. The bride is the only child of Mr. Mitchell, one of the leading colored men of Alexandria, is a Normal graduate, class '04, of New Orleans University; also of the Music Department. The home was beautifully decorated. Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Lizzie Trevene. After the ceremony dainty refreshments were served. The presents were numerous. Several of the white customers of Mr. Dier presented the young couple with a beautiful bedroom set, two beautiful 8-day clocks, and many other useful things. The bride received a present of $100 from the groom and a house and lot from her father.

Bolton, Miss.—Mr. Ed. Harris and Mrs. Ann Chisokin were united in marriage on Dec. 20. The bride and groom are each 75 years of age. Mr. Harris has a nice farm. I. L. PRATT.

Campti, La.—At St. Paul M. E. Church occurred the marriages of Mr. Henry Frazier to Miss Rachel Lucas, and Mr. Henry Phillips to Miss Mary Bell. A. H. Banks officiated.

At the residence of Mrs. Mary Dafney, on the evening of December 15th, Miss Mary Mitchell was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Vickers; Mrs. Mary Dafney to Mr. Handy Wade, and Miss Katy Dafney to Mr. Jordan Walker. The weddings were the most magnifi cent ever witnessed in this vicinity. J. H. Rylander officiated.

Mobile, Ala.—Mr. Joshua B. Pope and Miss Carrie Smith were recently united in holy wedlock. A. C. Carter officiated.

Phila, Miss.—On the 18th of December, at the home of Mr. Julius Anderson, one of our leading men, the rites of matrimony were solemnized between Mr. J. J. Clemons and Miss Dora Anderson. H. E. Morgan officiated.

Magdalene, Miss.—At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson White, Mr. Albert Fraze, of Cincinnati, O., was joined in marriage to Miss Helen White. J. I. GARRETT.

Crystal Springs, Miss.—Mr. Joseph Henington and Mrs. Cora Henington were united in marriage the evening of December 22. The church was crowded with interested spectators. They are both members of the church.

A. M. TROTTER.

A CONFIDENTIAL CHAT.

"It's perfect nonsense, Bessie, for you to talk of being laid on the shelf. Why, it all depends on yourself. Forget your worries, your aches and ailments; do as I did, take plenty of out-of-door air, cultivate happiness by not allowing your mind to dwell on the trifles and the worries of life. I sent thirty-one cents in stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser,' and found it contained much useful information about the care of my health, about physiology, anatomy, and everything a woman should know. I then decided to write Dr. Pierce and tell him all about my ailments. I received such a nice, carefully considered and confidential letter, in reply, giving me advice about my diet, exercise and all. This advice is free to everyone and I wonder you don't write him at once. It didn't take me many months to regain my good looks. Ever since I was fifteen I have suffered untold agonies periodically but now I am free from pain, worry and bad temper. Occasionally I took Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—this for the complexion, and to stimulate the liver. Then I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription three times a day for those womanly weaknesses I told you about. That's my secret of beauty. It's the easiest thing in the world to be happy and keep one's good looks. Look at the thousands of women who have been made well by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; look how they keep their good looks. Dr. Pierce offers $500 reward for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure."

ROYAL MANUFACTURING CO., Box 853, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Minnie Ball, Washington, D. C.—Simpson M. E. Church, of the Washington Conference, Washington District, was dedicated Dec. 4, 1904, by Resident Bishop Earl Cranston, D. D., assisted by Revs. Alfred Young, presiding elder of the district; M. W. Clair, pastor of Asbury, and James F. Chestnut, pastor of Central M. E. Church of this city. The Bishop's presence and service were highly appreciated. He delivered a forceful, thoughtful, spiritual and practical sermon. The old property (Asbury Mission) was donated to this people in 1875 by Asbury Church. City improvement in 1902 took the old property, less two building lots, for which they received $4,200. During November of 1903 the lot on which the new church stands was bought for $1,550, which added to $3,500, the cost of the new church, and to $1,000, the value of the remaining lots of the old site, gives Simpson the new church at a value of $6,050, making an increase in value during 30 years of $3,550, or 104 per cent. During the last 30 years the Washington Conference has dedicated two churches in this city. In front of the church pass Florida and Sherman avenues, each 100 feet wide, and in the rear runs the proposed Vermont avenue, a direct drive from the White House to the National Soldiers' Home. To the north stands the Garfield Memorial Hospital, northeast, the National Soldiers' Home and Howard University, east, the Freedman's Hospital and the City Reservoir. The site is already considered the prettiest in the city, which will be much increased by these proposed improvements. The church building is brick with a beautiful press brick front. The latest lock joint metallic ceiling, heated by an Empire steam heater furnished by Wm. McCuen & Co., lighted by electricity and in summer cooled by electric fans. There is a mortgage debt of $600. The church is supported by free will offerings. Wm. Clements, Mrs. Susan Williams, John and Sarah King are among the oldest members; none remain who were there in 1875 at the corner stone laying of the old church. This charge was about gone when our present pastor, S. H. Norwood, came and untied legal complications and settled other internal troubles. Simpson has a great future.

W. T. Marley, Pastor, Knoxville, Tenn.—The East Vine Avenue M. E. Church, Knoxville, Tenn., paid $52 on the church extension debt and hopes to pay it in full this conference year. The outlook is fair. We are expecting another effort soon. We are planning, working and praying for great things this year, the Lord leading us. The next session of the East Tennessee Conference is to be held in our church and we hope to have it free of debt by that date. The presiding elder delighted us Nov. 23 with an excellent sermon. He is making a good impression as presiding elder.

Crescent City Notes

Mrs. McKey, wife of Rev. John McKey, is visiting her children in North Louisiana.

Miss Maggie Bowers, of Baldwin, and Miss Susie Tyler, of this city, were among our callers this week.

Mrs. Clara Simpson, of Stoney Point, spent Christmas with her brother, Mr. Solomon Kinchin, at Wesson, La.

Mrs. Frances Carr, of Stoney Point, accompanied by her son and daughter, spent the holidays with relatives in Maringouin, La.

Mrs. Frances Carr, son and daughter, of Stoney Point, La., have gone to Maringouin, La., to visit her mother and sisters and many friends.

The watch meeting at Haven Chapel Saturday evening was a spiritual benediction. Collected for missions, $10.15; total collection for the day, $23.75. The pastor, Rev. John McKey, brought to the SOUTHWESTERN three yearly subscriptions.

Saturday night a watch meeting was conducted at Wesley Chapel. Sermon by the Rev. William Davis. Collection, $36.73. Sunday morning Rev. H. G. Sorrell preached a very instructive sermon. The sacrament was administered Sunday evening to 214 communicants. Collected during the day, $35.01.

The Christmas eve entertainment at Mallalieu was an up-to-date and unique affair. A Christmas ladder about 12 feet in height, beautifully dressed in different colors and pretty well loaded with presents, was the main feature. It was a beautiful sight. Santa Claus presented each child a bag of candy. An enjoyable feast was had.

At Williams Chapel Sunday morning at 12 m. watch meeting closed with a benediction from above. At 11 a. m., general speaking meeting, led by Brother L. Brazley. Sacrament was administered Sunday evening. Three persons were received into full membership. Mesdames B. Williams, L. Murray, A. Fisher and Mr. W. Fisher and others presented the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, a large turkey, fruits, etc. He received, also, a New Year's gift from Brother P. Johnson, and desires to thank these friends for their kindness. One annual subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $20.18.

The following program was rendered at the St. Charles Avenue Sunday School Christmbas Tree Festival, Dec. 26: Instrumental music, Essie Davis; prayer by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Harrison; recitation, 23d Psalm, by little David Mann; also recitations from the Bible by Philip Sherwood and Ben Davis; Scripture reading by the school, led by the pastor; recitations by Alice and Robbie Dillon. Recitations: "Star of Bethlehem," Della Hoy; "Song of the Shepherds," John Wesley; "Christmas Morning," Alfred Collette; the 130th Psalm, Ben Mann; "A Prayer," Mary Brash; "Christmas," Maud Lawrence; "Christmas Story," Marguerite Collier; "The Angels' Story," Ella Betterley; "Merry Christmas," by five girls and boys; the 91st Psalm, by Sidney Mann. Song, "The Wonderful Story, by Ethel Overing. Recitations: by Mabel Collette; "Santa Claus," by Salvatore Palmisano; "Christmas," by Essie Davis. The program was interspersed with sweet music by the school. The prizes distributed for attendance during the year were one Bible, two Testaments and five medals. The children did well. Owing to the illness of the superintendent, Mr. Scharfenstein, the pastor took charge of the exercises.

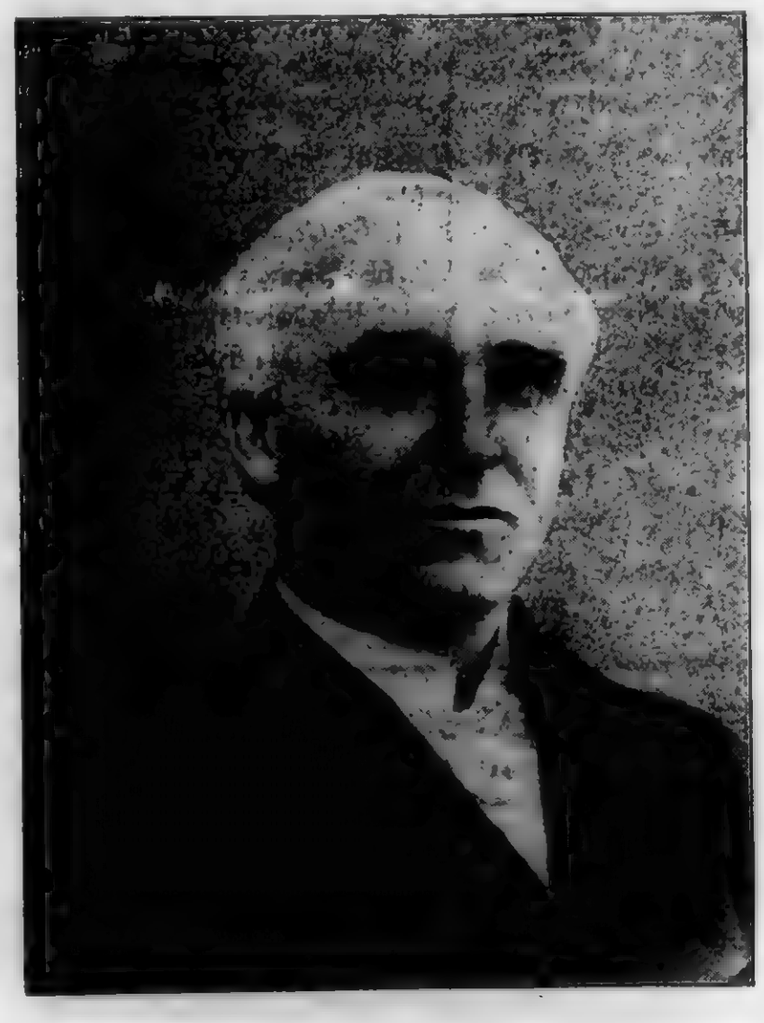
Editorial

Brother pastors, secure the renewals in your charge. Read our proposition to you on page 16. Push the canvass with vigor!

The school board of the city of Norfolk has made an appropriation of $2,500 for the purpose of giving industrial training to our colored people of that city. A good thing to do: an example that might be followed by all the cities and an example that would be productive only of good for all concerned.

Look at the label on your paper. "Jan. 05," means that your subscription expired the first day of January of the present year. Our earnest request is that those whose subscriptions have expired renew promptly. Our list only can grow as we hold our old friends and secure new ones, but if we must lose our old friends while we are securing new ones, as a frog in the well, we shall be a long time getting out. Renew at once.



King Christian, of Denmark, purposes to crown his career as a ruler with an attempt at universal peace. He has called a conference of the monarchs of Europe, a number of whom have accepted. The participants are to gather at Copenhagen and there discuss and maybe sign a treaty that will put an end to war. This may or may not be done, but the indications are that the day cometh when disputes will be settled, not by an appeal to arms but by arbitration.

Nothing is more pathetic in the account of Port Arthur than the appeal of General Stoessel to the Czar, pleading to his royal master for forgiveness. He says: "Great sovereign, pardon us." The world puts brave old Stoessel down as a hero, glorious in defeat. The Czar has ordered a court martial of the defender of Port Arthur, and if General Stoessel is degraded because of his surrender the empire of Russia will have the contempt of the entire civilized world, and it would deserve it.

The magnanimity with which the Japanese are treating the Russians, who are their prisoners as a result of the taking of Port Arthur, is another revelation of Japanese character. They are proving themselves to be men big enough to live up to the standard of civilization set by the world's greatest races. After all there may be no "yellow peril," for the yellow men, through the Japanese, are fast vindicating the purpose of the Almighty in peopling this world with a variety of races. The Japanese have skill and courage in battle and heart to treat their captives with the most humane consideration.

"PUT ON THE WHOLE ARMOUR"

The apostle Paul throughout his writings teaches the sufficiency of the gospel of Jesus Christ to save a man, body and soul, in this life. His characterization of the Christian as a soldier and his description of the Christian's "armour", is fully known to all. The Christian's equipment is not all external, his most vital equipment is internal. Here lies the strength for the conflict and the power to overcome flesh and blood and the "wiles of the devil" against which we contend. There must be something stronger than association, environment and the communion of saints to guarantee the disciples of Jesus Christ holiness in this life. We wrestle not "against flesh and blood" only, but "against principalities, against powers, against rulers of darkness of the world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." It is the purpose of Christianity to save man in his environment and in spite of heredity and to save him without the thought of dying—a complete salvation now, while we walk in the flesh. Christ's kingdom is spiritual and the best equipment of his soldiers is spiritual and the inner life, the deep-hidden life constitutes the greatest power of resistance. This inner equipment the Christian must possess. Fully equipped within, with supreme faith, with an unshaken adherence to the principles of righteousness as it is in Christ Jesus, a Christian may stand alone, and in spite of the opposition and the rage of hell without present an unquestioned example of righteous living. With thorough external equipment, when the circumstances without conspire against us, we may fall, but fully armed within, with "the sword of the spirit," with a consciousness of acceptance with God, firmly rooted in mind as well as in heart, in our purpose to adhere to the cause of righteousness, we will not be moved, we will not fall.

CHURCH STATISTICS

Dr. H. K. Carroll contributes an article to last week's Christian Advocate giving some interesting statistics of the churches of the United States for the year 1904, showing the gain of the various churches. The tables of statistics give the number of ministers, churches and communicants and the order of the denomination and denominational families. The net gain of all the denominations during 1904 in the United States alone were 1,674 ministers, 2,310 churches and 582,878 communicants. Of this number the Roman Catholic Church gained 241,955 and the Methodist Episcopal Church 25,167. This makes a total membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of 2,847,932, and throughout the world, 3,004,735. Notwithstanding the Roman Catholic Church claims 10,104,219 communicants, it has only 13,000 priests as against our 17,000 itinerant ministers, and the Catholic Church has only 11,411 churches as against our 27,121 churches. The total number of Methodist communicants (this includes 17 different branches or denominations), is 6,256,738. This places the Methodist denomination second, the Catholic being first; the Baptists come third, with 13 branches, having 5,150,815 members. The grand total of ministers in the United States of all denominations is 151,113; total number of churches 199,658, total number of communicants 30,313,311.

In the colored membership the Baptists lead having 1,929,139 members, standing third in order of all denominations the Roman Catholic first, the Methodist Episcopal second, the regular Baptists in the South, white, holding the fourth place and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, the fifth place. The African Methodist Episcopal Church is put down as having 786,125 members, 6,510 ministers, and 5,816 churches, 694 churches less than the number of ministers. The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church has 560,790 members, and the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church 209,654. The African Methodist Episcopal, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion, and the Colored Methodist Episcopal denominations show more ministers than churches. The Methodist Episcopal Church has 17,158 ministers and 27,121 churches. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has 6,438 churches and 15,884 ministers. In the latter two it shows that circuit work is still largely in vogue, in the cases of the former churches circuit work is not very general and there is a great need of church building. In view of the fact that the African Methodist Episcopal Church has 694 church buildings less than the number of ministers and the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church has 351 less churches than ministers, it would be more practical to build small churches in needy places to house their membership than extravagant churches, in cities, which burden the people.

A Voice From the Crest of the Waves.

By Bishop I. B. Scott, D. D.

As I write this the good ship "Oron," of the Elder, Dempster Line, plying between Liverpool and the West Coast of Africa, is being tossed by the waters of the Bay of Biscay. She left Liverpool Wednesday, November 30, and this is Friday of the same week. Thus far the voyage has been much pleasanter than we had reason to hope for considering the season of the year and the reputation of the Bay. She is scheduled to make only two stops before reaching Monrovia, viz: Grand Canary Islands and Sierra Leone, hence we hope to reach Monrovia by December 16th, and surely not later than the 17th.

We dare say the readers of the SOUTHWESTERN have already been informed that we left New York for Liverpool on the Lucania of the Cunard Line November 19th. Our immediate party consists of Dr. Ernest Lyon, the American Minister to Liberia; the Rev. Thos. H. Molesworth, his wife and daughter and Rev. C. E. Simpson, Missionaries to India; Rev. O. M. Moody and Mr. F. A. Price, Missionaries to Africa. The Lucania is one of the largest of her line, 12,950 tons, 620 feet long, and at the same time one of the swiftest. Time from Sandy Hook Lightship off New York to Dount's Rock Lightship, 2,807 miles, was made in five days seventeen hours and fifty-three minutes. Here we struck the fog and we had to make the remaining 232 miles to Liverpool Bar at little better than a snail's pace. Our poorest twenty-four hour run was 401 miles, while our best was 480. I say twenty-four hours but that is not exact as the school children know, for that should be reduced by something more than a half hour each day. In other words in sailing east the day is a little more than twenty-three hours long. The result is that when we reached Liverpool we found ourselves several hours ahead of our friends of the States. In fact the boys and girls of England retire at night and get up in the morning from 5 to 6 hours earlier than in New Orleans, the official home of the SOUTHWESTERN, and it goes a little hard at first to have to be called up just about the time one is accustomed to be taking his most restful nap. But as to the trans-Atlantic voyage, it was very pleasant indeed. A number were sick, of course, but there were only about twelve hours that were at all rough. One gets tired of the confinement on ship board largely because he is not accustomed to it. For when well enough to appreciate what is transpiring there are a number of things to break the monotony. Each day there was a little paper issued which gave account of the leading news items of the nearest port—of New York till our ship had reached a point in mid-ocean, where it was nearer England than America. Then the Marconigrams came from England. So much for wireless telegraphy. The Grenadier Guards Band, an English organization which had been visiting the St. Louis Exposition and other points in America, was aboard the Lucania and gave during the passage two enjoyable concerts. These were for the benefit of the Seamen's Orphan Homes in Liverpool and New York, and more than $250 were realized.

One among the pleasantest features connected with the voyage was the interest taken by friends of New York, and others who were there for the purpose, in our departure. They were at the ship in large numbers and expressed most hearty good wishes for a pleasant and successful voyage. Among those present were Bishop Walden, Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society; Dr. J. C. Cooke, Book Editor of the Church; Dr. W. H. Brooks, pastor St. Mark's, New York; Dr. R. R. Doherty, Assistant Editor S. S. Supplies; Mr. C. H. Fahs, Editor World Wide Missions; Dr. A. P. Camphor, President College of West Africa; Revs. C. W. Pullet, F. A. Hand and Mr. John F. Robinson, who had arranged our passage.

In addition there were quite a number of prominent Methodist laymen. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. Terrell, Mrs. McDonald and [illegible] sister, Miss Lowery, Miss Mamie Brooks, Mi[illegible] Morehouse, formerly a teacher at Boylan Hom[illegible] Jacksonville, Fla., Miss Lottie Wilson, Mi[illegible] Edith Leonard, Mrs. Cowington, Mrs. Burges[illegible] Mr. Geo. Young and others.

Mrs. McDonald presented me a beautif[illegible] bunch of American Beauty roses; Mrs. Terr[illegible] an American flag and some friend sent Dr. Ly[illegible] a large bunch of choice chrysanthemums. A[illegible] these did service on our table in the dining salo[illegible] as long as flower pots could stand alone.

On the "Oron" we have the pleasure of th[illegible] company of Bishop and Mrs. C. D. Ferguso[illegible] in charge of the Missions of the Episcopal chur[illegible] in Liberia. They are extremely pleasant com[illegible] panions. The Bishop is a polished and unassum[illegible] ing Christian gentleman. He was set apart f[illegible] this work in 1885 and his church is much grati[illegible] fied with the success which has attended his la[illegible] bors, especially among the natives. Bishop Fer[illegible] guson is just returning from the Triennial Gen[illegible] eral Convention of the Episcopal Church whic[illegible] recently convened in Boston.

In conclusion let me bid my many friends o[illegible] the States good-bye for a season. The manner i[illegible] which they received my election to the Episcopacy is gratifying indeed. I was so far overwhelmed with invitations to receptions that of thirty or more I found it possible to accept only about twelve or fourteen. I regret to have disappointed others but could not see my way clear to do otherwise. Nevertheless I assure them that their courtesy is duly appreciated. To have their confidence and respect is a positive inspiration to me for the arduous duties I go forth to assume; to so discharge the obligations resting upon me as not to disappoint them in the least shall be my highest aim. After reaching the sunny land of Africa I shall try to write again.

In conclusion let me thank all who sent me a word of greeting just previous to my departure from New York. With best wishes to all.

The Superannuates of Mississippi Conference

By Rev Simon H. Cannon

Is the Methodist Episcopal Church doing her duty to the worn out preachers? No, unhesitatingly no. Nothing is more plain than this. Go to any of our colored conferences and see those old veterans who have given their heart's best blood for the Master's cause. Some have wrought twenty, some thirty years of hardships and great sacrifice but glad to work at that, poor salary, without a murmur of complaint.

The preacher did not enter the ministry to make money, for he knew that only a few places gave a comfortable support. He went into the ministry that he might have the seal of God's favor and the approval of his own conscience. Souls have been for his hire. Why should we not stand by them? They have washed the altars of the old church with their tears and went through fire and storm to plant her banner in this and into foreign lands. When they think of the day when they will be a burden to presiding elders and Bishops it is a sad picture to see those old soldiers walking with tottering steps under the heavy burdens of the church, thinking of the time when he must be superannuated. The superannuate is no longer needed, a younger man must take his place on the firing line. What an anguish to his soul; no money, no home, strength nearly all gone, turned out to die!

Will any other army do that?

What was it Cardinal Woolsey said in his fall from power? "Had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, he would not in mine age have left me naked to mine enemies."

Have the old superannuates been faithful? Yes, I hear the answer coming from both land and sea. "Through faith they have subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, stopped the mouths of lions, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the kingdom of darkness." Shall we continue to neglect to make some provision to meet this pressing demand to help our worn out preachers?

Men are now debarred by age and infirmity both from participation in her service of the church and from the support she cheerfully provides for her active ministers.

As no nation that fails to care for its disabled soldiers can survive very long, so no church can long command men for its ministry that forgets its obligations to those faithful servants who, after giving to it the best of their years, are discharged from active service helpless and unfitted for self-support.

Now, brethren, something should be done. This subject has been discussed in several General Conferences and nothing has been done to help our condition. The feeling that seems to have prevailed in the last General Conference was that each Annual Conference should see after its own superannuated preachers. If you should read the speeches that were made in that upper chamber of the Methodist Episcopal Church you would think that the old fathers had become a problem. I don't know a more sacred duty we could perform than by doing something to help these old veterans, widows and orphans of deceased ministers.

We have talked and written about this question. At every session of the annual Conference we make the superannuates feel hopeful of a good day coming by offering a well prepared resolution loaded down with poetry. These old veterans will soon be stretching their hand to the Board of Stewards for help, not for charity but for service. Our worn out preachers need help and the presiding elders and pastors who are in the active ranks should help them and especially the pastors.

The most sacred cause a Methodist preacher can carry before his people is that of the worn out preacher.

The heathen can wait for the bread of life but the old preacher must have his breakfast to-morrow morning. Think of that widow whose hushand stood in the thickest of the battle and helped to clear off the rubbish for this Conference such men as Campbell, Payne, Goodwin, Cannon. Crump, Bell and others too numerous to mention. These saintly women have tread life's pathway sadly and wearily and lonely and the tears course down their cheeks as they think of the dark days gone by. They must have help and protection and support.

We should have some plan at once. I mean at the next session of our Annual Conference. At the same time I must give the Conference credit for attempting to formulate some plan to meet these emergencies.

At the last session of our Conference it was agreed to have an agent, one on each presiding elder's district, to co-operate with the pastors in working up enthusiasm along this line. I had the honor of being on the committee that formulated the plan and presented it to the Conference which was lost sight of by some means for the minutes don't show that such a thing was mentioned.

Two years ago we organized what is known as the Mississippi Annual Conference Brotherhood, which was put in operation and at the last session two-thirds of the preachers joined. The Brotherhood is doing a very good business, but this does not take the place of the Conference Claimant Fund but pays a neat sum at death. We have paid off one death claim and another member who died left his family in a deplorable condition but not paying his assessment.

Now, brethren, I hope you will heed this appeal. You know the rich Conferences of our great church are seeing after their own preachers and I am glad of it, because we are able though poor to take care of our own.

I would suggest one or two things to meet this demand:

First, let the Annual Conference assess each pastoral charge from $10 to $25, to be paid in quarterly payments to the Presiding Elder in his quarterly visits.

This would bring at least $1,500 per year and that would be less than 40 cents per member, which can be done. Now we are getting less than 1 per cent per member.

Second, let the Annual Conference ask the Presiding Bishop to appoint an agent (or whatever name you would like to call him) to travel through the Conference and distribute literature and information. Put a young man with push and energy and we will realize about $3,000 or $4,000. Let this agent's salary be estimated along with the Presiding Elders, and let the Presiding Elder collect it and pay it to this agent quarterly. This can be done and it will help to educate our people. Furthermore, it will increase their respect for these old servants of the church. Now, brethren, I offer this thought in a humble way and with consideration of limited experience.

I am deeply concerned about our worn out preachers, and I know you are also. You know we must do something. The Eastern and Western Conferences are leading the way and we should fall in line. I think every pastor should think over this matter prayerfully. The pastor is the burden bearer of the church and when worn out gets less consideration than any.

Now, let each pastor raise from $5 to $10 each and bring to Conference to supplement what you will get from the dividends of the book concern and the chartered fund.

I remember some years ago when one of our Conference Stewards was rejoicing over what the Conference had received from the Book Concern when the Presiding Bishops upbraided him by saying "We sent that down here to you but what have you done."

The whole Conference blushed with shame. Of course I don't agree with the Bishop about "We sent it." At the same time we raised that year less than $100.

Now, brethren, all together and let us carry down to Natchez $500 for the old veterans.

Fayette, Miss.

The Student and Manual Labor

Principal Wilde, Northwestern University Academy

It is commonly said that a college course unfits a man for manual labor. The curriculum is supposed to remove his mind so far from the sphere of ordinary toil that the man has no longer any satisfaction in it.

But this view is only another of the vagaries of the popular imagination. The youth who returns to the farm in vacation or at the end of his course and grudges his parents the labor reasonably to be expected of him is not the student who has worked hard at his studies but the one who has played with his opportunities—has shirked at college just as he does at home, and would have done if he had never gone to college.

One of the plainest indications of the compatibility of study and manual labor is the amount of the latter done by students in the colleges of our country to pay a part or all of their expenses. Probably no college is without its quota of earnest self-supporting students. In the College of Liberal Arts and the Academy of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., some interesting data have been gathered showing how the students have earned their money. They performed the following tasks: Washing dishes, waiting on tables, as stewards in clubs, the care of horses and cows, the care of furnaces, spading gardens, mowing lawns, shoveling snow, shoveling coal, sawing wood, beating rugs, sweeping and doing janitor work for halls and churches, scattering advertising circulars, posting handbills, soliciting for laundries, barbering, tailoring, watch repairing, typesetting, paper hanging, carpenter work, house painting, collecting bills, clerking in stores, taking gas statements, blowing organs, playing organs, singing in choirs, working in law offices and in libraries, typewriting, stenography, dealing in butter, eggs, etc., canvassing for books, papers, maps, etc., leasing houses and subrenting rooms, working in life-saving crews, reporting for Evanston and Chicago papers, doing mission work in Chicago, caring for and instructing children, etc., etc.

That the students are faithful in their work is attested by the reliance of townspeople on this form of service. * * * A very common form of self-support is the care of lawns and furnaces. Each furnace pays one dollar a week. Wtih five or six furnaces the student feels himself comfortably provided for. This is especially the case if his room rent balances the care of the heater in the house in which he lives.

In the academic year 1902-1903 the Academy students alone in Evanston earned over $12,000. Every third man in the college was assisting in his own support. That this is no new development is shown by the fact that in 1886 college students at Northwestern earned annually as follows: Senior class, $2,600; Junior class, $3,850; Sophomore class, $3,025; Freshman class, $3,150; $4,050 were earned by preaching; $2,000 by canvassing; $2,000 in the United States Life Saving Service, etc., etc.

So favorable a showing as this could not be made were it not that Evanston is a "bed room town"—a beautiful, populous and wealthy suburb of Chicago. The men of the town go daily to their business in the city, leaving the "chores" to be done by students.

To a student who must economize and pay a part or the whole of his way, that college may not be the best that offers him the lowest tuition fee. Let such a student select a few institutions where the curriculum and environment are most to his taste, and then let him choose from these the one whose surroundings offer him the best returns for the manual labor that he has the time and energy to give.

What are the effects of the student's self-support on himself and his college?

(1) The man becomes self-reliant. When he graduates nothing can prevent him finding himself and turning his attainments to immediate account. One Northwestern alumnus became the minister of the largest church in Evanston, behind which in his college days he sawed wood for a living.

(2) The man is economical. He trims his expenses to his income, setting himself against the influence of those who would make a college course the occasion of a shameless waste of money.

(3) He pays his bills. A careful inquiry made in Evanston in the summer of 1903 revealed the fact that the credit of the students was of the highest grade. A surprisingly small number of accounts remained open at the end of the year.

(4) The self-supporting student does much to set the tone for the college. The American student, especially west of the Alleghanies, is an earnest, self-respecting man or woman. His college work is thorough and wins him recognition in student interests and enterprises.

(5) The self-supporting student loves his college, is sensitive to its good fame, makes the faculty believe that its labors are worth while, by and by contributes to its resources, and sends his own children to its halls.

And so the young man or woman who is ambitious for an education and who is competent and reliable in manual labor is seldom compelled to leave our colleges for lack of financial resources.

Love produces devotion, and devotion brings happiness, even though we may not understand it. In prayer we feel we are beloved; and the love of God, oh, if only you knew how it compensates for the indifference of our fellow-creatures!—Selected.

If thy disturbance of mind proceeds from a person who is so disagreeable to thee that every little action of his annoys or irritates thee, the remedy is to force thyself to love him ,and to hold him dear; not only because he is a creature formed by the same sovereign hand as thou art, but also because he offers thee an opportunity (if thou wilt accept it) of becoming like unto thy Lord, who is kind and loving unto all men.—Lorenzo Scupoli.

Division of the Louisiana Conference

REV. A. E. P. ALBERT, D. D.

The proposition to divide the Louisiana Conference, at its next session, will doubtless be the most important subject presented for its consideration.

For one, I am decidedly opposed to it. Daring speculators may plunge headlong into unknown projects, risk all to make or lose all, but prudent, calculating investors must be given reasonable and substantial grounds, upon which to base their action, before they decide to withdraw their hard earned treasures, held under gilt-edged securities, to reinvest them into hazardous, "get rich quick" concerns.

Those who would have us divide have, thus far, to my mind, failed to present a single substantial reason why we should do so. Unless they are prepared to do so, to the satisfaction of the faintest doubt, my idea is that we had better let well enough alone.

The strongest argument in favor of division, so far as I have learned, is about as follows, viz: Our conference, of less than two hundred members, is too large to be entertained in small towns; we would more fully occupy the state and grow faster; and that more presiding elderships and conference offices would be opened to the members of the conference.

On the other hand, there are many reasons why we should not divide. A large body, under proper leadership and management, attracts attention and exerts corresponding influence; such as no two small bodies could command. It affords a wider range for the selection of pastors for the churches, and of churches for the preachers; for although it is within the power of the Bishop to transfer the preacher needed from any part of the church, he hardly ever exercises it without the consent of the one proposed to be transferred.

Two small conferences, with only a few strong and important charges, would be dominated by the few preachers, that would be deemed of sufficient breadth and strength to pastor those churches. They, in turn, would tread upon each other's heels, rotating and repeating their pastorates in those charges from year to year. Whether one ever gets to be a Bishop or not, it is an incentive to know that it is within the range of the young preacher's possibilities. The same is true as it applies to the more important charges of the conference. Let us not deprive him of a single incentive to a laudable ambition.

Since Baldwin, a mere village, entertained the conference in 1898 so satisfactorily as to elicit the highest praise, it would seem that the question of entertainment can be properly eliminated from consideration. It is an uncontroverted fact that our conference has often been better entertained in smaller towns than it has in New Orleans, the metropolis of the South. Besides Baldwin, we have a number of places in which we can comfortably meet, viz: Shreveport, Monroe, Alexandria, New Iberia, Franklin, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, and other places. We need not return to the same place in ten years, unless we desire to do so.

It is a groundless gratuity to assume that by dividing, the work would more speedily develop. The only gain that could be derived from division, would be the saving of a long trip to conference once a year; but even this would not be realized, if the conference were divided into an eastern and western conference, as has already been suggested.

We have too many interests in common to divide at this time, unless for the most urgent reasons; none of which have, as yet, been made apparent: our Orphans' Home, Old Folks' Home, and Preachers' Aid Society property, not mentioning our educational system, the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and other interests, the common heritage of us all.

What we need is not division, but as a good brother expresses it, provision. Without rearing altar against altar, where other branches of Methodism have already pre-empted the ground, we need to provide for the occupation of our whole territory. This we can do just as well united as we could divided. We need to be constantly engaged in the prosecution of our work, preaching, teaching and visiting from house to house. In other words, we need and must have a perpetual revival.

Again, the statement cannot go unchallenged that we are not advancing in the development of our work, simply because our statistics show no very large increase. The fact is that vast numbers are annually gathered in our churches, but an equal, if not greater number are constantly moving from place to place, many going North, East and West, besides the great numbers that crowd the cities of the South and North, to there become lost to the church, too often, and to further complicate the problem of our great cities.

Unless driven to it by absolute necessity we should not divide. In the multiplicity of counsel there is safety; in its scarcity there must be danger; therefore let us "hang together, lest we hang separately."

Division of the Louisiana Conference

BY REV. G. A. PAYNE.

Those who desire to divide give the following reasons: 1. There are a number of men who ought to be brought to the front, but who cannot be except we divide; this will necessarily require another two sets of leaders, one for each conference. 2. The conference as it stands is too large to convene in small towns, and be properly cared for. 3. The travel to and from conference is too expensive. Let us consider the first reason: better charges and more prominent men. Admitting that there must be two sets of leaders to run the two conferences when divided, we must admit that on the other hand either side will have less men from which to select its leaders. Men who are best fitted for leadership are not the ones who begin at the top, but those who begin on the ground, working their way through to the top. These are the men of to-day, in state and church. Take the founders of Methodism. Did anyone give them places? They met hindrances of the bitterest kind on every hand. But their "stickability" and pluck, these achieved such glorious results that neither tongue nor pen will ever fully express it. They went from the college and began on the ground. If the young men of to-day who claim to be best fitted for the work, would go out and begin on the ground, and make new charges that would result in new districts, we could see the wisdom then for conference division, as we would have the leaders as well. Now the second cause: We are soldiers of the meek and lowly Jesus, who prayed all night, and slept many a night on the damp, cold ground. He sought no comfort for himself, but for his people. If the pastors coming from large charges, whose salaries have been good, would consent to divide a piece of their cake with their poor brethren while at conference, this sore would be healed and there would not be need of a division on this line. Third: Too expensive. All will agree with me when I say that we are too glad to have the privilege of traveling at least from one end of the state to the other, while others are gladly traveling the country over. But now, brethren, come let us face facts. Our conference cannot divide without doing it grave harm to all concerned. In the first place, if we divide so as to cut short the distance, there must be a North and East conference. One part will be on the poor red hills, facing many hardships and disadvantages in many ways, while on the other hand others will be in the rich bottoms, surrounded by the schools and colleges of the higher type. Before we divide we want more new charges, more districts and better school facilities. If this is done at all, it can best be done while we are together, the strong supporting the weak.

CHRISTIAN LIFE

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Be ye also ready. Matt. 24: 44.

Theme—The most important thing in life.

There are so many things men are prepared to do, so far as this world and present life are concerned. In the business world men are preparing to succeed as prince merchants, handy craftsmen, and skillful artisans. In the political world men are striving for the mastery and a place among "the survival of the fittest." This same spirit of readiness is seen in the military and the intellectual world where men are struggling for the first honors, and anxiously await the command to ascend to greater heights of truth and knowledge. But the business, the political, the military, the intellectual, the philosophical, and other worlds are not the only ones where man ought to strive to be ready to enter in full glory—to win in them laurels for himself, even laurels of immortality—because, there is a spiritual world in which death ends probation, or the world of preparation; in which death seals eternally the destiny of man, and brings him face to face with God, the great Architect of the Universe.

Being ready, means to be well grounded in religious faith; that each man has found some work to do, and is doing it, and that the individual has fully conquered selfishness in every form, and sins of all kind, and that we have in us the mind that was in the Lord Jesus—such a mind as always serves God willingly, under all circumstances, and forever obeys Him without question.

Thoughts of Gold. Man must die. What are your hopes beyond the grave, where you will and must live again? Faith has discovered for man a new, and a glorious country, and now holds his hand, saying: "Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty," etc. Jesus worked; we can not hope to do less. How often has death come to man, arrested, taken him away, and he was not ready! The grave is ready to receive your body, and all nature ready to hasten you hither. All heaven is ready to receive your soul, and all the good and holy ones are ready to help you.

Greenville, S. C.

Living Up to Christianity

It is more, and not less, Christianity that the world needs as between peoples and between people, in diplomacy, in public and private business, in all affairs of the state, the family, and the individual. Unselfish kindness, helpfulness, courtesy, gentlemanliness, honorable dealing among men—these are all practical versions of the Golden Rule and genuine products of the Sermon on the Mount.

In the secret soul there are apprehensions and appreciations of the hidden truth, the deep humanity, of even the dogmas which are so often spoken of, nowadays, with scornful and superior criticism by those who have not studied their philosophical significance or felt their meaning in spiritual experience. The doctrine of atonement, by so many deemed outworn—how many souls it has helped to cast off an impairing and degrading past, some encumbering sin of the inherited flesh! How many, in dashing aside the shell of form and tradition, despoil themselves of some inner treasure, fit and needful for the spirit's food!

More, and not less, of genuine Christianity is the need of this world. Every intelligent religion may have something to impart to those born to Christianity; but those so born, and the nations thus cradled, will arrive at nobler destinies in the increasing endeavor to follow the spirit of the teachings of the world's one inimitable prophet.—The Century.

he Board of Education of the Methodist scopal Church met in annual session in the ce of the board, 150 Fifth avenue, one Thurs-, Dec. 8. here were present Bishop Andrews, sident W. F. King, President A. W. Harris, s. J. W. Lindsay and E. S. Tipple, Messrs. H. M. Ingraham, J. Edgar Leaycraft, Robert F. ymond, and Durbin Horne, and the corre-nding secretary, William F. Anderson. Ex-es were received for the enforced absences of hop Fowler, President G. H. Bridgman, and . J. D. Slayback.

Dr. Harris conducted the devotional exercises. e corresponding secretary presented his an-al report, a summary of which is herewith sented:

PERSONAL.

It is a real pleasure for me, first of all, to ke mention of the splendid condition of the airs of the office, as left by my honored prede-ssor, Dr. (now Bishop) William F. McDowell. It is with profound sorrow that I mus' note death of two former servants of the Board Education—Joseph Suydam Stout, of New ork, and John G. Holmes, of Pittsburg. The ristian Student for August contained a brief bute to the memory of Mr. Stout, and the issue r November a tribute to the memory of Mr. olmes. The Board of Education is now asked make permanent record of its appreciation of e splendid services of these two honored mem-rs.

FINANCES.

The income from Children's Day collections ring the fiscal year is $71,541.44, which is the rgest collection in the history of the board. We e deeply grateful to pastors, Sunday school su-erintendents, and contributors throughout the hurch for this splendid offering. The income om returned loans is $28,811.25; the income om interest on invested funds is $14,971.20; he income from annuities is $642.50; making a otal income from the regular sources of $116,-31.87.

LOANS MADE.

The total number of persons aided during the ear is 1,723, being an increase of 36. This is or the school year ending last June. The num-er of persons aided from December to Decem-er is much larger than from December to De-ember of the previous year. The school year nd the fiscal year do not correspond. The mount of money disbursed directly for the chool year ending July 1, 1904, was $93,652.51. The retained collections in the foreign schools mounted to $257.15; making a total of $93,-909.66, this being once more for the school year nding July 1, and not exactly corresponding o the fiscal year ending Dec. 1. The average amount loaned to each student was $54.50, being an increase of $2.05 in average. Of the students aided during the last year 704 were aided for the first time, 1,019 having received aid pre-viously. The men students numbered 1,376; women students, 347. Distributed by nationality and race, they are classified as follows: Ameri-can (white), 1,266: American (colored), 203; Canadian, 28; Chinese, 1; Danish, 4; English, 96; Finn, 4; French, 1; German, 34; Irish, 5; Italian, 14; Japanese, 4; Norwegian, 16; Scotch, 9; Spanish, 2; Swedish, 29; Swiss, 3; Welsh, 4.

The geographical distribution of the beneficia-ries by schools in which they are studying was as follows: New England States, 201; Middle States, 411; Western States, 807; Southern States, 230; foreign, 44.

Classified according to departments of study, aid was granted as follows: Preparatory stu-dents, 532, to the amount of $20,093.84; colle-giate students, 841, to the amount of $49,644.57; theological students, 287 to the amount of $18,-886.25; professional students, 63, to the amount of $5,285.

The total number of students aided from the beginning in 1873 to July, 1904, is 13,117.

The intended calling of the beneficiaries: Min-istry, 799: missionary, 115; ministry and mis-sionary, 24; teaching, 436; other callings, 349.

A year ago the board appropriated $100,000 for the use of institutions. During the fiscal year we have actually disbursed in loans $99,-255.76, and had on hand at the close of the fiscal year Nov. 30 applications from schools for at least $5,000 more. It was determined by vote of the board that $110,000 should be appro-priated for the use of our institutions the coming year.

CHILDREN'S DAY AND PUBLICATIONS.

The Children's Day Program is now in course of preparation, and will be issued in due time.

The constant aim will be to make The Chris-tian Student increasingly valuable to ministers and others. The representatives of several Con-ferences have requested that a course of reading be outlined which shall be suitable for young ministers after they have finished the regular Conference course of study. Such an outline is in process of completion, and will be published in the February number of The Christian Stu-dent.

THE BOARD AND MISSIONS.

The work of the board in behalf of foreign stu-dents in our American schools and of our stu-dents in foreign schools is being very highly appreciated. The need of such work becomes increasingly apparent. Regarded from the phil-anthropic point of view, there can be no doubt as to the wisdom of the extension of the ministry of our society in this direction.

THE UNIVERSITY SENATE.

An important meeting of the Senate was held at Evanston, Ill., beginning Feb. 9, 1904. Sev-eral matters of importance came before the body. That probably of most general interest to the the Church was the report of the committee ap-pointed at the previous meeting of the Senate to make the quadrennial revision of the require-ments for admission to the baccalaureate de-gree. The whole subject was handled in a very thorough manner, with the result that model cur-ricula were prescribed for institutions of sub-collegiate grade and for colleges as well. This action of the Senate was published in pamphlet form, under the auspices of the Board of Edu-cation, and will be furnished free upon applica-tion to the representatives of all our institutions. It is expected that it will prove exceedingly val-uable throughout the Church in the elevation of the standards of the institutions which are yet in their formative period, and in securing a uniformity of scholastic requirements in all the schools of the Church.

CONFERENCE AND COLLEGE VISITATION.

The first tour of Conference and college vis-itation embraced a trip of six weeks, largely in the West, and included fourteen Conferences, at which the cause of education was presented. Eight of our educational institutions have been visited and their student bodies addressed. Al-most without exception there is an increased at-tendance in our institutions in the West. Ev-erywhere the most gracious words were heard concerning the society and its work. There can be no doubt but that the aid of the board is of vital importance not only to the struggling young men and women whom it assists, but to the welfare of these institutions themselves.

The board elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Bishop E. G. An-drews; Recording Secretary, E. S. Tipple; Treasurer, J. Edgar Leaycraft.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Lesson Topic January 22.

How to Win Souls for Christ

Scripture Reference, John 1, 40-46.

The Word. Our lesson is from the record of the call of the early disciples by the Master. We have in it the very best of examples of how to win souls in the action of Jesus, the great Teacher.

Our Homily: Winning Souls.—We ought to be intensely interested in this work of winning souls. He that winneth souls is "wise." The value of a soul; the permanency of the work; the rewards offered for it, all make it supremely wise to win souls to Christ. What forces may we use to do this work? What suggestions come to us from the instances mentioned in our lesson? We mention a few:

Public Preaching. Looking on Jesus, John the Baptist said, "Behold the Lamb of God." It was enough. Two of his disciples, Andrew and John, immediately followed Jesus. They were all prepared. All they needed was to have the public call and they were at once ready to obey. So some in our congregations are prepared and ready. They simply need the evangelistic ser-mon, the earnest exhortation. The public invi-tation will reach them. Bring your friends to church; let them be put under the influence of the sermon. Many of them will be saved by this method.

Personal Appeal. "Andrew first findeth his own brother Simon. And he brought him to Jesus." This is the best way. While one may be saved by the public appeal, ten will be won by personal work. The testimonies of our leaders all unite in the evidence that they were won by personal work. Some brother, friend, or worker came to them personally. They were persuaded to start now. Andrew brought Peter. You may bring your friend. A large proportion of Chris-tians are thus won to Christ. There is no need greater in all our Leagues and churches than bands of consecrated, prepared, intelligent, per-sonal workers. If you have a revival in your church this winter it will very likely be because you devote yourselves to personal work. And as hand-picked fruit keeps the best, so souls won by personal appeal usually abide and remain the fruits of reival work.

Experimental Test. "Philip findeth Nathan-ael." Nathanael was like a good many people to-day. He was just a little skeptical about Jesus. Philip had a noble remedy: "Come and see." He disarmed his prejudice by showing his willingness to put the matter to the test; and he conciliated Nathanael by indicating his belief that he was able to judge in the matter. We do re-ligion a service when we can induce men to test the matter for themselves. Many who are skep-tical would cry out like Nathanael, "Thou are the Son of God," if we could only get them to try the matter, to really seek the Lord and pray for their own selves. If you find one inclined to discuss doctrines rather than submit to God, it is usually better to just induce them to test religion—to just put the matter on a basis of investigation, and let them "come and see" if all we claim for Jesus is true.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

A great many people purpose to do right, but the trouble with them is that they purpose in their heads, and that doesn't amount to much. If you are going to be a Christian, you must purpose to serve God away down in your heart. "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness."—D. L. Moody.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson IV—January 22, 1905. Title—The First Miracle in Cana (John 2; 1-11.) Golden Text—Whatsoever He saith to you, do it (John 2; 5.)

I. Jesus and His disciples (1-2). 1. Time "The third day." That is, the third day after the call of Philip. The distance from Bethabara, the scene of our last lesson, to Cana was about sixty miles. Jesus and His five disciples could easily make the journey in three days. There is no time for idleness in God's vineyard. Jesus began work immediately after His temptation and continued till the day He was offered up. 2. Place: "Cana of Galilee." There were Canas in Galilee. One about nine miles north of Nazareth, and the other about four miles east of the home city of Jesus. It is not certainly known at which place this miracle was wrought. But it was probably in the Cana east of Nazareth, on the road leading to Tiberias. It was not a noted place. Jesus did not work to be seen of men. 3. Company: Jesus, His disciples, His mother, and many others. Our Lord, by attending this wedding, santified home, marriage, and family life. He taught that He was not a hermit, and had not come to lead a secluded life. "John came neither eating nor drinking"—not living after the manner of others—"and they said he hath a devil." "The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they said, Behold a glutton and a wine-bibber." We cannot please all. The world is not a great, frowning, scowling machine. We greatly need sanctified sociability.

II. Jesus and His mother (3-5). 1. The wine gave out. Jesus and His disciples made six more than were expected at this wedding. It is not known how long the marriage festivities continued. At twilight the bride was covered from head to foot in her loose flowing veil. Then dressed in her fairest robes and garlanded with flowers. She was then borne away, accompanied by her maids, surrounded with torchlights, and saluted with songs, drums, flutes, and dances, to the home of the bridegroom. The people along the way were expected to come out and see them pass. At the home of the bridegroom a feast was prepared, which was expected to continue seven days. It was very humiliating to run short of food or drink during the feast. 2. The mother of Jesus said to Him: "They have no wine." It is well to be concerned about others. She may have felt that He could work a miracle, and that He should do so. He had come to the feast late, and had brought five of His disciples with Him. It is likely her knowledge of the angelic announcement; the overshadowing of the Holy Spirit: the visit of the shepherds; the prophecy of Simeon; the prediction of Anna; and the gifts of the wise men, caused her to make this statement. 3. The reply of Jesus: "Woman, what have I to do with thee?" These words sound crisp to us, but the spirit that prompted them was sweet. From a child Jesus had been subject to His parents, but now He could obey them no more. The answer was intended no doubt as a mild reproof. Mary likely felt that others would be benefited and her son made popular by the miracle. It was probably this last desire that caused the reproof. Jesus did no miracles to be seen of men. "Mine hour is not yet come." Every act of eJsus seems to have been under divine guidance. Our lives are ordered by the Lord. The hour of Jesus came soon after this. Probably He felt as soon as He severed the last earthly tie—that of obeying God rather than His mother—that His hour was at hand: that He should do this miracle. 4. Mary said to the servants: "Whatsoever He saith unto thee, do it." He may deside to supply the wine. If so, you follow His directions. She seems to have been more than a guest at this marriage. We should obey God without asking questions.

III. Jesus and the servants (6-8). 1. These water-pots were made of stone. The number was six. They contained about twenty gallons each. The water was used for the cleansing of the guests: for washing their hands, and arms to their elbows, and their feet, every time they came from the market, or from a journey. Cleanliness is a part of godliness. 2. Filling the water-pots. They likely had some water in them. This was probably removed and the vessels cleansed. Jesus then told the servants to fill them with water. "They filled them up to the brim." Down to this day the spring from which they drew this water is pointed out to the traveler. Jesus is ever and anon speaking to His servants. It is their part to promptly obey: 3. Drawing out of the water-pots. Jesus said to them: "Draw out now." This was spoken in a calm way. There is no doubt or unbelief in it. He had perfect confidence in Himself. He knew what He could do. To feel our ability is very important, yet something more than self-confidence is necessary to success. "Bear to the governor of the feast." This ruler was likely the "master of ceremonies," and presided over the feast. If Jesus had been a mere man, He would have desired to have seen and tasted this wine befor it went to the table. It is not likly that all the water in these vessels was turned into wine. No more was probably changed than the quantity used at the feast. There were no doubt some properties added to this water it did not previously possess. Jesus here did in a moment what it takes months to do by the laws of nature. Our Lord has respect to rank. Honor to whom honor is due.

IV. The Toast-master and the bridegroom (9-10). 1. The governor of the feast tasted the wine. This he likely did to test its quality. He followed a custom of that country and age. In this act he was not an example for us. We should not have wine on our tables, and at our feasts. 2. He called to the bridegroom. He may have spoken across the room. He possibly felt the effect of the wine he had been drinking. Intoxicated people talk loudly. "When men have well drunken" may mean when they have drunk good wine till their sense of taste has been deadened; then bad wine may be given them unnoticed. It is not likely the wine made by Jesus had any alcohol in it. We read of no bad effect from drinking it. 3. The custom of the people. They gave the best first and the bad afterwards. This is the way of the world. It begins well, grows worse, and ends badly. This is always the result of a growth in sin. There is worse to follow. Hell is at the end of the way. 4. The custom of Jesus. He always gives the best last. His first blessings are good, those that follow are better, and the best comes last. "The path of the just shineth brighter and brighter unto the perfect day." Heaven is at the end of the way.

V. Some results of this miracle (11). 1. It was the beginning of the miracles of Jesus. This was not merely the first miracle in Cana, as some suppose, but the first worked by Him in any locality. This is conclusive evidence against the miracles of the childhood of eJsus, recorded in the Apocryphal Gospels. 2. It manifested His glory. It showed forth His divine power. It was proof positive that He was the Son of God. 3. His disciples believed in Him. They had faith in Him before, but this act increased it. Faith has degrees. We read of great faith, of little faith, and of no faith.

My friend, do you know why the work you accomplish fails either to give pleasure to yourself or others? It is because it is not cheerfully done, and, therefore, appears discolored. A joyous heart amid our work imparts to duty a brilliancy that charms the eyes of others, while it prevents those feeling wounded who cannot perform it equally well.—Selected.

The time will come when these shoes which we wear now, lest we be cut of the sharp places of this world, shall be taken off, and with unsandaled feet we will step into the bed of the river; with feet untrammeled, free from fatigue and pain, we will gain that last journey; then, with one foot in the bed of the river, and the other foot on the bank, we struggle upward; that will be heaven.—Talmage.

Annual Conferences

e West Texas was this year in every way a nota- onference. Bishop L. B. Wilson presided. Mate- dvances were made throughout its territory. Pre- g elders and pastors reported faithful work done creditable results. The sacrifices and loyalty of inistry of this conference are remarkable. Dur- he year much genuine heroism was incident to labors, and as their defeats and triumphs were n their reports we thought truly on the battlefield these are heroes.

e entertainment of the conference by Rev. F. L. patrick was gratifying to all. Bro. Kirkpatrick is gracious wife have done great service for the e at Ft. Worth. The church has been put in nice , debts reduced, membership increased. The erence was blessed with the services of many dis- ished visitors. The following church officials sented various causes: Drs. E. M. Jones, Sunday ol Union; T. C. Iliff, Church Extension; Prof. R. ovinggood and J. W. Frazier, Sam Huston Col- E. R. Graham, Western Book Concern; Mrs. L. urphy and Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, Woman's Home Mis- : W. F. Waters, SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVO- , Drs. W. H. Logan, M. W. Dogan, J. M. Johnson, Bryant, W. H. Jackson, of the Texas Conference, W. McDonald, of the Lincoln Conference, were nt to delight us with speeches and other help. H. T. Kealing, editor A. M. E. Review, D. S. n, who delivered the welcome, also of the A. M. E. rch, W. L. Dixon, of the Baptist Church, C. A. witch, of the C. M. E. Church, were with us.

THE SILVER ANNIVERSARY OF THE WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

DEAR SISTERS—Our society calls upon each auxiliary to celebrate Feb. 22, 1905, as the twenty-fifth anniver- sary of its organization.

The total sum desired from these services is $200,- 000, with which a very important debt is to be paid.

This amount may seem large, but if each auxiliary will do its duty, the burden will not be heavy for any one.

Each auxiliary should send in to the Conference Treasurer, Mrs. M. A. Sissle, $2.50 for each of its members. You may pay this money individually, or you might raise the money at your anniversary ex- ercises.

Some auxiliarries are using boxes for collecting money; some, punch cards, and others concerts, sup- pers or entertainments by which to raise their amount. If you cannot raise the full amount of $2.50 per mem- ber, do not wait to raise the balance, but send in what you have at once to the treasurer, that it may be applied on the debt, and thus reduce the interest.

Our society maintains forty-seven industrial homes for girls, twenty-four deaconess homes, three large training schools for missionaries, four city missions, four children's homes, and more than a dozen mission stations in the West. It has property valued at one million and ninteen thousand dollars, and during its twenty-five years of existence has gathered and ex- pended nearly three million dollars.

So we have great reason to celebrate this anniver- sary, giving thanks and praise to God for past bless- ings, and invoking His aid in the future.

Let February 22d be a great missionary day.

Yours in His name,

MRS. C. D. C. MEBANE,

Conference Cor. Sec., Lexington Conference.

Versailles, Ky.

The Missionary Society has received a letter from Dr. William B. Scranton, who has been re- appointed superintendent of the Korea Mission. Dr. Scranton was one of the earliest Protestant missionaries to reach that country, having arrived in Korea in May, 1885. He says concerning the present situation: "It would possibly seem from the home standpoint that a country so near the seat of war and materially involved in the out- come of the same, would be greatly disturbed. This is not so. All things move on as they have from the beginning, with only now and then a checkmate of the Japanese authorities or the send- ing of twenty to forty soldiers (Japanese) here and there when the Koreans seem unable to cope with some internal difficulty or allow a local dis- turbance to run on too long. What the Japanese do is wholesome and praiseworthy. So far we welcome their presence and find their influence advantageous. As for our missionary work in particular. It is growing by leaps and bounds and there is at the same time a healthy and sound work going on in the people's hearts. There is among the people an eager thirst for all sorts of useful knowledge. Calls are numerous for local schools and instruction in Western learning. There is a 'sound of a going' everywhere, and we are in the midst of it or pushed hard to keep up with the tide. Political and mental agitations do not overtop religious aspirations but the latter are equally alive in every sense. The country is as safe for missionaries as it has ever been."

The increasing tendency toward the employ- ment of women in positions of trust by financial institutions is thus explained by the president of one of the largest banks in the country: "The feeling is gaining ground that women are, on the whole, more honest than men. A considerable number of women are now rendering satisfactory service as cashiers and tellers, handling large sums daily without loss or error. One of the most conspicuous traits in the feminine nature is fidelity to trust. Speculation, the chief pitfall of defaulting employes, does not attract women as it does men. Cards and drink also drag down many a male employe, and these, again, are more par- ticularly masculine vices. Some of the largest banks in New York are employing women in po- sitions of heavy responsibility. Banking is an occupation in which men no longer have a mon- opoly."—Housekeeper.

"Everyone should consider his boy as a most priceless gift from one whom he loves above all, a marvelous work of art, of indescribable beauty and mastery beyond human conception, and so delicate that a word, a breath, a look, nay, a thought, may injure it."

Every lesson you shall utter,
If the charge indeed be yours,
First is gained by earnest learning,
Carved in letters deep and burning,
On a heart that long endures.

—Frances Ridley Havergal.

1—All business letters should be addressed to Eaton & Mains, and all communications intended for publication to the Editor.

2—In sending matter for publication, write plainly on one side of the paper, and make your communication as short as the subject will allow.

3—When the ADVOCATE does not arrive regularly, notify us promptly.

4—Methodist pastors are our authorized agents, to receive subscriptions and collect dues for the ADVOCATE.

DEAR BRETHREN—We have written each of you asking that you bring to your conference from two to twenty subscribers. Will you do it?

Let us make this the best year in the history of the paper. Begin now. Get all the old subscribers on your charge to renew and as many new ones as you can.

Send names of all you secure so they may get the paper at once. You may hand us their money at Conference.

NOW FOR THE INAUGURATION

It now appears that a large number will attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt, and the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN will be glad to make arrangements for our people, so that there may be as much comfort as possible and freedom from the usual inconveniences of travel. Those who will attend the inauguration should drop a card to this office and join the party.

Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church at Napoleonville, La., was dedicated last Sunday by the Editor. This church was built several years ago by Dr. B. M. Hubbard. Its present pastor the Rev. Douglas M. Seals, is closing his first year as pastor at this place with remarkable success. Eleven months ago he was assigned to this appointment, finding a debt of $533.77, every cent of which has been paid as well as all outstanding claims, and well might the pastor and people rejoice. The services on Sunday were largely attended and an addition to a good list of subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN; the membership contributed largely for the benevolent causes. All this has been accomplished with a membership not to exceed 59. Brother Seals goes to the Conference with his colors flying.

BISHOP MOORE ON THE SOUTHWESTERN

We are in the midst of a desperate struggle to add to our list 2,000 subscribers by the first of January. This will be done, if done at all, largely by the pastors. Bishop Moore sends the following word of encouragement and greeting to the membership of our territory: "Next to the adding a member to the church comes the adding a subscriber to the church paper. Our church papers inform our membership and gives them information and enthusiasm; makes them familiar with world movements, and gives them the vision of duty and of opportunity. Brother, subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN and then influence others to do likewise." We hope upon the inspiration of this strong appeal of our Bishop the brethren will roll up large lists. Almost any method will succeed, provided the pastor puts his whole strength into it.

Rev. J. P. Brushingham, D. D., of Chicago, received a Christmas testimonial from the Stereotypers' Union No. 4 of that city, in the shape of a large, richly-bound Bible, costing $50, in recognition of his services on an arbitration board which adjusted a labor dispute between the workmen and their employers.

OUR SPRING CONFERENCE

With the Upper Mississippi Conference which convenes this week at Columbus, Miss., our spring Conference begin. The fall Conferences made remarkable showing for the SOUTHWESTERN and it now remains to be seen what the other half of our constituency will do to push the paper to the desired notch of self-support. If the pastors will bring a few subscriptions to the Conferences and come prepared to renew their own subscriptions and to institute a canvass in the town where the Conference is to be held, our subscription list, by the end of the spring Conferences, may be a couple of thousand in advance of what it is now.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL JOURNAL AND BIBLE STUDENT'S MAGAZINE

The Sunday School Journal for January comes to us in a new garb, artistic and beautiful. The new cover is a prophecy of the changes made in the matter of the magazine which has been enlarged and improved. Many of us thought that the journal, under its previous editorship, had reached high water mark, but it remains for Dr. John T. McFarland, its present editor, to present to the Church and to Christendom the best Sunday School Teachers' Periodical to be found in all the world. The new department, "The School of Practice," is full of suggestions and is indeed practical. There has been a change in the view points from which the lessons are treated and some changing around of the writers. Dr. R. R. Doherty now writes "The Lesson Outlines" and the "Lesson Digest and Teacher's Guide," Dr. McFarland makes "The Lesson Exposition," which is followed by "The Lesson Prayer." Rev. Henry H. Meyer, B. D., will henceforth write on the "Lesson Word Studies," and Dr. F. C. Lockwood will treat "The Lesson in Literature and Art." Besides these there are other treatments of the lesson. No teacher should attempt the presentation of the lesson without a thorough study made with the aid of the Journal, and the Journal will be decidedly helpful to any pastor, and indeed is just the periodical any person ought to have who is interested in Bible study.

There is considerable contention as to who is the Negro's best friend; this question is debatable. The question of the Negro's worst enemy permits no debate; for it goes without saying that the Negro's worst enemy is the Negro himself. And this is just as true that an individual's worst enemy is himself. According to the tabulated statistics of the 297 homicides committed in Mississippi between January 1st and November 15th of last year, 227 were committed by Negroes on Negroes. A very sad showing, indeed. The attention of the race for the next half a century can be very well devoted to our internal weakness. This done and all will be well.

Dr. William D. Crum has been confirmed by the Senate as Collector of Customs for the port of Charleston, S. C. Dr. Crum had been appointed three times by President Roosevelt, during as many recesses of Congress, due to the fact that the Senate heretofore failed to confirm the appointment. And now the matter is settled, much to our liking, and the door of hope still swings open and the colored man of this country stands a chance of preferment, if he merits it.

The late Joseph Beach, of Orenoka, father of Rev. J. C. Beach, has left $50 each for the missionary society, the Freedmen's Aid Society and the Twentieth Century conference claimants' fund of Michigan conference.

THE LAUNCH FUND INCREASES

It is very gratifying to have the friends to take hold of the Launch Fund movement, the success of which looks bright. Not only are the brethren at the Conferences subscribing, but the friends at large. On New Year's Day the faculty and students of Rust University took a New Year's offering for the Launch Fund which amounted to $32.90, and a collection and individual subscriptions of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Sunday School of Memphis, Tenn., on the same day amounted to $19.90. This makes the total subscription to the Launch Fund to the present, $1,297.90. This amount ought to be increased at once. The Launch is a necessity, not a luxury.

A letter from Bishop Scott shows that he reached Canary Island at noon December 8th. The voyage to that point had been pleasant and all the party were well. The steamer Oron, of the Elder-Dempster Line, on which the Bishop sailed from Liverpool, was scheduled to reach Monrovia, December 16th, and at the time of writing all indications were that the schedule time would be made. Our readers are favored with an interesting letter from Bishop Scott in this week's issue.

Rev. C. W. Reeves, pastor of Williams Chapel, this city, is closing up a remarkable year's work. Besides keeping up all the incidental expenses and an increase of benevolent collections, a good deal of improvements have gone on. One hundred and eighty feet of fence have been built, painted and whitewashed; the parsonage has been fitted with furniture, one hundred and twenty feet of brick walk laid, the cistern painted and improved. Electric chandeliers have been placed in the church which adds to the beauty of the building and the enjoyment of the services. Some painting has been done inside, additions made to the pulpit furnishings and general repairs of the building done; besides this $200 has been paid on the debt. The people of Williams Chapel think that Brother Reeves is a hard worker, and he is, and they hold him in high esteem.

Dr. and Mrs. M. C. B. Mason have passed their quarter century mile stone of married life. The event was appropriately celebrated in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Mason in Cincinnati. Among those who were present were Bishop and Mrs. Spellmeyer, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Clark, Rev. Dr. W. P. Thirkield, Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Bowman Young, Dr. R. S. Rust, Dr. J. B. Pearson, Rev. and Mrs. Golder, Judge and Mrs. William Boyd, Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Skelton, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Kelly, Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Vaughn and Rev. Dr. Albert Nast. The congratulations from friends were hearty and sincere and the tokens of regard were many. Among the gifts was a solid silver tea service with a salver and loving cup, the gift of the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid Society. Literally thousands of our people rejoice and send congratulations to Dr. and Mrs. Mason.

New England Southern Conference from March 22d to April 12th. This Conference will be held in Norwich, Conn.; the New England Conference in Melrose, Miss., and the Newark Conference in Halsey Street Church, Newark, N. J. Bishop Burt has changed the South Germany Conference from June 7th to May 31st. The Bulgaria Mission Conference is changed from Plevna to Hibbely.

Rev. Chauncey I. Withrow, D. D., is closing his fifth year as pastor of Augusta Street M. E. Church, Staunton, Va. During these five years two hundred persons have been received into the church. Dr. Withrow has recently added to the parsonage a two-story annex, which, as he says, makes one of the best parsonages in the state of Virginia. A revival has just closed which has been a source of great spiritual uplift to the membership and the conversions of many souls.

Dr. W. Houston Bromfield is enjoying a lucrative practice at Aberdeen, Miss. He is a graduate of Meharry Medical College of the year 1902 and it is said that during last year his practice amounted to $5,500, $4,500 of which he collected. He owns a beautiful residence in that city and enjoys the good will of all citizens, white as well as colored. White physicians have been especially kind to him. Dr. Bromfield is the practicing physician for three lodges in Aberdeen.

When the laymen of our territory become thoroughly interested in the self-support of the SOUTHWESTERN it will not be long before the fact will be accomplished. The Laymen's Association of the Little Rock Conference at a recent meeting took very decided action in regard to the official papers of the church.

The following resolutions concerning the circulation of our official church papers, offered by H. B. Williams, were adopted:

WHEREAS, It is of vital importance that our members should keep in touch with the religious thought and the various enterprises of the church as set forth in our periodicals; and

WHEREAS, The official members by precept and example should stimulate the circulation of our literature among the people; be it

Resolved*, That the Laymen's Association of 1907 be requested at its session in 1907 to memorialize the General Conference of 1908 to enact such legislation as will tend to a more general circulation of our literature; and, further, to so change the Discipline that one of the questions asked at the second quarterly conference shall be: "Is each member of the quarterly conference a subscriber to one of our church papers?"

We commend these resolutions to the laymen throughout our territory and bespeak their co-operation in this movement. It would be a source of help to have the paper circulated among our people.

Just as salvation for man was impossible without God's giving his Son to die for him, so truly is the salvation of each individual man impossible without his giving himself to Christ for salvation and for service. The gift of his Son was the throwing of a rope to sinking humanity. The giving of one's self to Christ for salvation and service is the individual's taking hold of the rope to be lifted out of the pit or to be drawn to the shore.—Religious Telescope.

NEWS NOTES

The address of Rev. William Bartley is Hempstead, Texas.

The first Methodist watch-night service was held 165 years ago, Saturday, Dec. 30th.

In the South there live 24 per cent. of the white population of the country, but 64 per cent. of the white illiteracy.

The first Christian newspaper in the Thibetan language is being published by the Moravian Missionary Society.

One of the largest Sunday-schools of Methodism is that of the First Church, Brazil, Ind. Its enrollment is above 2,000.

The proposed "Jim Crow" street car law of Nashville, Tenn., will be enacted this month, according to all reports, by the legislature.

The Missionary Society has appropriated $6000 for the opening of missions on the Isthmus of Panama. Bishop Neeley has charge of this work.

B. F. Haywood, a Negro resident of Red River, Ark., is the producer of the cotton which won the gold medal at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

The expenses of Russia in the war up to November 23rd have amounted to $238,000,000; the total of war expenditures for the year being $364,000,000.

William H. Pinkney, the Negro steward at the White House, who has been a valued employee in the Roosevelt family for many years, receives a salary of $1,800 per year.

Hal Pearson, a colored boy of Pasadena, Cal., took honors over his four white contestants in the silver medal oratorical contest held under the auspices of the Christian Prohibition Alliance.

There were 60,000 divorces in the United States last year, an average of nearly seven for every hour of the day and night, Sundays included. St. Louis and Memphis double the average number for the whole country.

The John C. Martin Fund, which approximates $2,000,000, is to be used, it is said for educating Negro clergymen of all denominations. It is the ultimate intention to bring the work to a focus in a Chautauqua for Southern Negroes.

John S. Leary, reputed to be the first Negro in North Carolina to obtain a license to practice law, is dead. He was dean of the Law School of Shaw University, at Raleigh, practiced law at Raleigh, Fayetteville and Charlotte, was a writer and a man of large means.

A list of American and foreign Negro composers and their works has been compiled by Mr. Walter H. Whittlesey, at the division of music, Library of Congress. This list is in manuscript, consisting of something over a hundred typewritten pages, and was the result of a research covering several months.

The Michigan Christian Advocate is authority for the following: The Methodist bookstore at Harrisburg has been sold, and Rev. S. C. Swallow will no longer have a salary as superintendent of it. This will make it necessary for him to receive a salary as editor of the Pennsylvania Methodist, which he has edited and published without salary for twelve years. But the paper cannot make a sufficient profit to pay a living salary unless its circulation is doubled. Unless it is thus increased its issue will be discontinued.

Farm and Fireside

In ninety-nine cases out of every hundred it is a waste of time to doctor sick chickens. It may pay sometimes when the fowl is an especially fine one, but as a rule you can save worry by using the hatchet. Good care, good food and cleanliness make the best physic, and if these are systematically applied, there will be but few sick fowls.

Convenience should be one of the first thoughts when constructing a poultry house. Everything should be so arranged as to allow its work to be done in the shortest space of time.

Egg eating can be prevented by placing the nests in a dark corner, where the hens can scarcely see the light of day.

Good hens will lay not less than 150 eggs a year, and poultrymen are gradually discarding those that do not average that number.

It is difficult to make a proper comparison between corn fodder and hay, because the quality of either largely depends upon the curing. Bright, green corn fodder, shredded or cut fine, is superior to improperly cured hay; while good hay is far superior to corn fodder that was not cut down until the leaves turned yellow. If fodder is tender and juicy the animals will prefer the stalks to the leaves, as the stalks are rich in sugar, but much depends upon the stage of growth at which the stalks were harvested.

Leaves should be thrown on the poultry-house floor, not only because they afford scratching material, in which the fowls can exercise, but also because they prevent draughts of air on the floor and assist in keeping the house warm.

Liquid manure should never be used when the soil is dry, as it is best appropriated by plants when there is plenty of moisture in the soil. Weakly plants are often killed with liquid manure unless it is very much diluted, as the stronger and more vigorous a plant the more food it can assimilate. To use liquid manure properly not only should small quantities be applied, but it should be spread over a wide surface, hoeing the ground when it becomes dry. It is used mostly for flowers, and especially rose bushes. It gives excellent results if applied a little at a time, and often, but many who use it do not dilute it sufficiently, hence they claim that it is an injurious substance to use.

When young pigs have scours it is an indication that they are being allowed some kind of food that is injurious. The remedy is to change the food, allowing only warm milk, thickened with equal parts of bran and cornmeal.—Notes from the Home and Farm Journal.

Christmas December 15 in Marshall, Texas.—Christian people have had a common day on which to celebrate the birth of Christ for many years and until recently Marshall has kept pace with the Christian world. It was left for the Junior League of Ebenezer Church to change the date. On Thursday night, Dec. 15, a party of Juniors broke the stillness of the night by singing, "Good News, the Chariot's Coming;" then came "Peter, Go Ring those Bells." On concluding this song they marched into the parsonage library, summoned the superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Johnson, played games and served refreshments, after which the president of the Junior League, Miss Mary Beaver, arose and in well chosen words and in the spirit of Xmas, presented the superintendent a large hand-painted vase or water jar and a beautiful framed picture of Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane. The superintendent thanked them as best she could, then Rev. J. P. Calvin offered a short but earnest prayer and Xmas, Dec. 15, 1904, ended more happily for us than it began.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove What Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will do for YOU, Every Reader of Southwestern hristian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

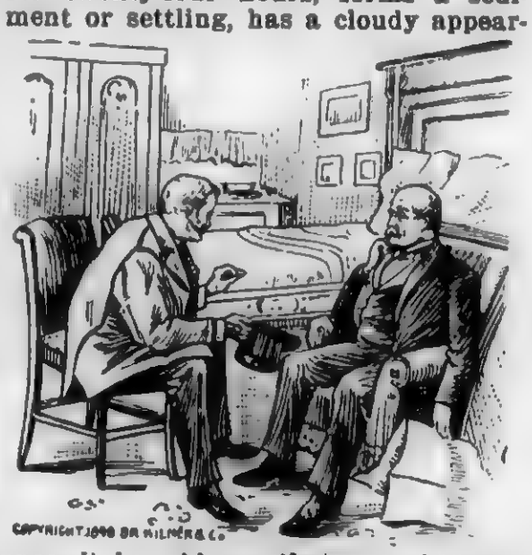
Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immedaite effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

53 COTTAGE ST., MELROSE, MASS.
DEAR SIRS: Jan. 11th, 1904.

"Ever since I was in the Army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.



I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In oder to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water to-day and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers, I am, Very truly yours,

I. C. RICHARDSON

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are, obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust, or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale the world over at druggists in botltes of two sizes and two prices—fifty-cent and one-dollar. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N Y., on every bottle.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

BOOK REVIEWS.

"An Abundant Harvest," by Hope Daring. Jennings & Graham, publishers, Cincinnati, Ohio. Price, $1.00. The woman who figures most prominently in this story is Agnes Grant, a helpful young teacher. She is possessed of a splendid college education, and is a Christian who "lets her light shine" upon every occasion when darkness would exclude the light. In her work among the college girls and the young people with whom she comes in contact, that altho it is a splendid achievement for a woman to be successful as a lawyer or doctor, a minister or scientist, it is more splendid still for her to be simply a helpful Christian woman and an inspiration to those around her. Thro Agnes Grant a beautiful girl and her talented brother, both of whom can see nothing in the plan of salvation, come into full belief in the Savior of the world. This is a beautifully written book and ought to find its way to the book shelves of every parent.

"Chuggins," by Irving Hancock. Published by the Henry Altemus Co., Philadelphia, Pa. "Chuggins" is an intensely interesting story with the chief interest surrounding a boy who, tho young, is able to render important services to our cause in the war with Spain. Chugigns is the name of the boy. He is a young hero with the fighting blood of three generations in his veins. He leaves his home in Vermont and steals his way into Cuba and is there in the fighting at Santiago, becoming a hero and doing many manly and courageous deeds. His pride in his fighting ancestry is at once amusing and pathetic. He says once: "There were three Sperrys before me who fought in the service of their country and of course, I can't go back on a record like that," and he does not.

"Her Fiance," by Josephine Daskam. Published by the Henry Altemus Co., Philadelphia, Pa. The author presents a study of the behavior of three or four interesting college girls, each of whom, tho charming, has some slight fault. The fiance of one of the girls who is ill, falls in love with a charming girl who is sent to entertain him. The girl—a flirt—does not return his love, but appears to and in this disappointment he is taught a severe lesson. The book contains two other stories, charming, too. One shows how a woman assured of her husband's love, sometimes grew careless of the little details of her personal appearance and forgot to show him a sweet, smiling face, and wanted him to feel her love without demonstrating it. She grows indifferent, thinking he has ceased to care for her. From out of this unhappiness she is brought by her sister, a vigorous, wholesome young college woman, and the wife again sees "clear skies and hears the birds sing." The last is a fascinating little story of college life in which several interesting girl figures, together with an uncle of one of the girls. This is of course a love story, ending with the uncle falling in love with one of the girls, who returns the compliment.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"Incense" (verses), by Levi Gilbert. Price, 75 cents net. Publishers: Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York.

"The Methodist Year Book of 1905," Stephen D. R. Ford, editor. Not one in fifty of our ministers nor one in ten thousand of our laymen ever sees the General Minutes, which are the official records, statistical and otherwise, of the Methodist Episcopal denomination. In view of this fact the value of "The Methodist Year Book" to our ministers and membership may be readily inferred. The Year Book is the only vehicle for the conveyance of all the details of our denominational activity between the church and its communicants. It is a book of over 200 pages and covers everything in Methodism. When we consider the extremely low price at which the Year Book is issued (namely, 20 cents, net; by mail, postpaid, 25 cents) the marvel is that any minister or layman can think for a moment of doing without it. Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York, Publishers.

Doings of the Workmen.

Probably no girl in all the world has so many friends, known and unknown, as Helen Keller. Her growth from a pathetic living death into a healthy, joyous intellectual life is one of the miracles of the age. Now that she has come to a point where she can herself write understandingly of her life, and especially of her communication with others, spite of deafness, dumbness, and blindness, every word is not only of interest, but of value. Easily first, then, in interest and importance among the January Century's contents will be Helen Keller's "A Chat About the Hand," which will be illustrated with a number of portraits of Helen Keller, alone, and with Joseph Jefferson, Miss Sullivan, Edward Everett Hale, and Professor Alexander Graham Bell.

"Samuel Gompers, Representative of American Labor," is the subject of an interesting sketch in the January Review of Reviews, by Dr. Walter E. Weyl. The American steel industry, as developed and maintained in and around Pittsburg, is the subject of a valuable article by William L. Scaife, in the January Review of Reviews. The industry that has made Pittsburg one of the world's greatest workshops is described with technical accuracy and yet in popular language. The best editorial summary of the problems discussed in President Roosevelt's annual message and of the questions now before Congress will be found in the January number of the Review of Reviews. There is also in the same magazine a good discussion of the situation in world-politics and international relations at the opening of the new year.

D. M. Scruggs, Reporter, Oak Forrest, Ark.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Scruggs' Chapel, Nov. 26-27. The conference was called to order by Presiding Elder B. J. Griffins. Sunday was a glorious day in Methodism. Rev. Griffin preached a soul-stirring sermon. Collections for this quarter ending are as follows: For pastor, $99.50; elder, $27; benevolence, $41; building new church, $55; total for all purposes, $220.50. We have paid our elder in full for this year.

Mitchell Thompson, Leesville, La.—Rev. W. M. King, our pastor at Carson, and at Pickren, has served here about four or five months and God has given us 42 candidates in that time. The news should go into every home that the custom of the people is changing; instead of drinking, dancing, shooting off fire works at this season of the year, they go to church and read the word of God. On Sunday, being the first day of the year, I will spend the day in the services held at Leesville, La.

Lizzie L. Veil, Waco, Ga.—Rev. N. S. Sterling has been our pastor for three years. Our church at Waco has been built, worth $500. We paid Rev. Sterling in full when he paid us his last pastoral visit. We were sorry to see him leave, for he knows how to make things go. Our prayers go with him.

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow, too fast, or does it skip a beat?

Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder; or hurt when lying on left side?

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1902, I took down with weakness and dropsy, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up to die. My limbs and body were swollen to one-third larger than normal size, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."
L. T. CURD, Wilmore, Ky.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

R. J. Shipp, Pastor, Shelby, N. C.—The first quarterly conference of the Shelby and Fallston Circuit was held Dec. 9, with Presiding Elder Jones in the chair. A good number of the brethren were present with good reports. Paid the pastor since conference up to Dec. 9, $34; presiding elder, $13; raised for missions, $1.25. The elder, Rev. M. M. Jones, preached an able sermon on the "Friendship of Jesus." Quite a number took communion. Our work is spiritually alive and moving to the front.

M. M. Crawford, Sherrill's Ford, N. C.—We are having excellent success on the Sherrill's Ford Charge. Our first quarterly conference was held Nov. 26-27. The Rev. Dr. M. M. Jones was on time as usual, with new methods and inspiring plans for the work of the new conference year. The members of the quarterly conference were about all present. This is our fourth year on this charge. We returned from the seat of the annual conference to our charge with renewed zeal for the work. We began work by baptizing three children in the home of Sister Mollie Moore. She is a good, loyal Methodist. During the 45 days from our annual conference to our first quarterly conference we raised $155.60. Bought an organ for Brevard's Chapel, a new set of window sashes for Moot's Grove Church. The Sunday of the conference session we raised $63 on the new church at Mount Bula. This point is a newly organized place. When we came to this charge there was not a family taking the SOUTHWESTERN, but now we have about 18 subscribers and others are planning to take it. Six subscribers also for the Epworth Herald. Our Epworth Leaguers are beginning to speak and to plan for another sub-convention. The pastor's and presiding elder's salaries have been raised higher every year since we have been on the charge, and the good members and friends have paid it. This quarter the elder received his full quarterage, paid on Saturday in the quarter, $17.50. We have a good set of leaders.

Hemphill, Tex.—Sister Jane Hinson, a faithful member of Rendleton church for more than 20 years, died Nov. 20, leaving a husband, five children, a sister and a host of friends. Brother Y. G. Buckley's little son, J. B. Buckley, was born Dec. 22, 1902, and died Dec. 15, 1904. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, A. Parham.

Lamar, S. C.—Henrietta Augusta, daughter of Rev. W. M. R. Eaddy, was born Dec. 9, 1892, in Getsinger, S. C. Her death occurred Dec. 16, 1904, in this city. Rev. Eaddy returns his sincere thanks to the brothers of the conference for their sympathy during that time. For the first time death has broken our family circle, of 21 summers, But we bow in submission to his divine will. All those who assisted us in that dark hour shall ever be remembered by us with gratitude. Our daughter's remains were laid in John Wesley's Cemetery of this city. Those whom He loves He chastiseth.

W. M. R. EADDY.

In the Preachers' Meeting, assembled in Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 8, the following resolutions were read and adopted: Whereas, death has entered the home of Sister S. E. H. Morant, and taken the Rev. S. E. H. Morant from the family; Resolved, that we extend to her our deepest sypmathy in this, her hour of bereavement. Resolved, further, that we pray God's blessing and protecting care upon Sister Morant and family. Committee: J. O. Richards, S. Carroll, J. E. Rolax, S. Green, P. C. Colton.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

Hannah E. Richmond, Reporter, Sparta, Tenn.—Our new presiding elder, W. R. Smith, came and held the quarter on the 23rd and 24th of October. Sunday the elder preached a wonderful sermon. Money raised for all purposes $21.15. We are also pleased with our new preacher, Rev. I. S. Rucker, who is putting forth his greatest effort to bring our church to the front.

M. E. Jace, Secty., Alexandria, La.—January 1 was a grand day at Newman M. E. Church. The Sunday school was well attended. At three o'clock p. m. the pastor, M. E. Jace, Dr. I. W. Young, and Mrs. P. L. Patton spoke on the Emancipation to a well filled house. At 7:30 p. m. the church was packed and a large number partook of the Lord's Supper. Eighteen young people asked for the prayers of the church. Truly God has and is blessing this good people. Collection, $10.14.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Ray Stannard Baker's article on "Lynching in the South," which readers will find in the January McClure's, is an achievement all too rare in the discussion of the Negro problem. Neither academic nor partisan, it is an authoritative study of the causes which led to the recent outbreaks in Statesboro, Ga., and Huntsville, Ala., by a trained journalist, in whom human sympathy takes the place of sectional prejudice. With no thesis to prove, Mr. Baker visited the actual scenes of these mob tragedies, and obtained information from the very actors themselves, high and low, black and white.

R. C. Worsham, Pastor, Franklin, La.—The fourth quarterly conference of Asbury Church was held Saturday night, Dec. 3, with Rev. W. B. Butler presiding. The officers were out with written reports, which showed improvement. We are always glad to have the elder with us. We enjoy his lectures and strong sermons. After the quarterly conference a surprise party was given at parsonage, which was a very enjoyable affair. I am planning to go up to the Annual Conference with a round report, the Lord willing.

Rev. Wm. Payne, Pastor, Roseneath, Miss.—We were so proud over the turn in events that we took advantage of the presiding elder's presence and the visit of Sister L. P. Incey, State Organizer of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, to celebrate Thanksgiving Day. The Sunday School and Epworth League Chapter rendered a very interesting programme. Prof. K. A. Scott delivered the welcome address, and Mrs. L. P. May, of West Jackson, responded in very appropriate and touching words. Dr. J. M. Shumpert, in a very patriotic manner, outlined many of the blessings that we should be thankful for. The congregation of Wesley Chapel presented the doctor with a gold headed cane as a token of esteem for his six years of honorable services. Upon the conclusion of the literary programme a reception was tendered the presiding elder and Mrs. Incey, in which something like two hundred persons participated.

Mattie Davis, Reporter, New Bloomfield, Mo.—Rev. J. W. Thomas has just closed a wonderful revival on this circuit, the greatest for many years. Fourteen precious souls were converted and ten added to the church. Our circuit is filled with new life under the leadership of this good man.

Have You Rheumatism?

You Can Be Cured. FREE

A Scientific Discovery.

It is now possible to be cured of any form of rheumatism without having your stomach turned up-side down or being half choked to death, and every sufferer from rheumatism should welcome this marvelous discovery with open arms and give it an honest trial. The new remedy was discovered by John A. Smith, Malwaukee, Wis., who is generous enough to send it free to every sufferer who writes at once. It is a home treatment and will not keep you from your work.

As you know if you've tried them, every so-called rheumatic remedy on the market to-day except this genuine cure, will cause you violent stomach pains, and some of them are so dangerous they will cause heart trouble. And the worst of it is they never cure. When a person has rheumatism the constitution is so run down that he should be very careful what he puts into his stomach.

It therefore gives me pleasure to present a remedy that will cure every form and variety of rheumatism. That remedy is

"GLORIA TONIC."

Before I decided to tell the world about the discovery of "Gloria Tonic" I had it tried on hospital patients, also on old and crippled persons with perfect success. But some people never will believe anything until they know it from experience, so the best and quickest way is for you to write me that you want to be cured and I will send you a package of "Gloria Tonic" free of cost. No matter what your form of rheumatism is—acute, chronic, muscular, inflammatory, sciatic, neuralgia, gout, lumbago, etc., "Gloria Tonic" will surely cure you. Do not mind if other remedies have failed you, nor mind if doctors say you are incurable. Mind no one but write me to-day sure. "Gloria Tonic" will stop those aches, pains, and inflammations, and cure you so that life will again be worth living. This offer is not for curiosity seekers but is made to rheumatics only. To them I will send a free trial package of "Gloria Tonic" free.

Never before has a remedy been so highly endorsed as "Gloria Tonic." Among the eminent people who endorsed it are:

DR. G. QUINTERO, X. Medical Doctor and Surgeon of the University of Venezuela, whose indorsement of "Gloria Tonic" bears the official seal of the United States Consulate.

HON. EUGENE H. PLUMACHER, UNITED STATES CONSUL, Maracaiba.

STEVENSON MACADAM, F. I. C., F. C. S. of Analytical Laboratory Surgeons Hall, Edenburg, Scotland.

L. L. RATHMAN, CALOOTE, South Australia.

THE EDITOR of the famous Medical Journal Health, London, England, and many others.

So far this marvelous remedy has cured persons of upwards 86 years of age, their suffering dating from 8 weeks to 52 years. It is put up in tablet form and is free from ACIDS and ALCOHOL.

If you are a sufferer send your name today and by return mail you will receive "Gloria Tonic" and also the most elaborate book ever gotten up on the subject of Rheumatism, absolutely free. This book contains many drawing from actual life and will tell you all about your case. You get "Gloria Tonic" and this wonderful book at the same time, both free, so let me hear from you at once and soon you will be cured. Address: JOHN A. SMITH, 454 Gloria Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.

A BEAUTIFUL FACE LOSES ITS BEAUTY WHEN UNADORNED WITH A HANDSOME HEAD OF HAIR. GLOSSINE is a true hair food, and consequently a true hair tonic, which feeds, invigorates, vitalizes, permeates, fertilizes, resuscitates, enlivens, and stimulates the bulbs, glands, oil sacs, follicles, adjuncts, and roots of the human hair. When the plant is withered, sickly, drooping, and dying, we give it water ere it die. Just so should we apply GLOSSINE to the harsh, unsightly dropping, dying hair, for on this principle of common sense was GLOSSINE formulated by one of America's most noted pharmacists—not from lead, mercury, bismuth, and other mineral poisons, but from vegetable and botanical products only, which can work no injury to the human hair. Cupidity and the desire for quick wealth have tempted many people, ignorant both as to pharmacy and chemistry, to sell to the people so-called hair tonics, which (on account of their low price) contain mineral poisons, the immediate effect of which cause the hair to grow quickly, but whose certain end is falling hair and a bald head. There is only one safe course to pursue—use only on your hair an absolutely guaranteed vegetable remedy for the hair, such as GLOSSINE really is, which can only do good, and work no injury. Which is the cheapest to buy, GLOSSINE, a genuine, meritorious hair tonic at a moderate price, or a worthless, hair-killing nostrum at a penny? GLOSSINE cures all diseases of the hair and scalp, and gives to the hair length, lustre, life, vitality, and beauty. It makes the hair grow quickly, thick, long, and luxurious; covers all bald spots; gives to it that beautiful, shiny gloss (from which it takes its name), and causes the hair to grow so long and so soft that it can be dressed with ease and as you please. GLOSSINE makes the hair soft, wavy, straight, glossy, and gives to it a texture as fine and pliable as the softest silk. Price for large box, 50c.; price for the complete treatment (3 large boxes), only $1.00. We pay all charges.

NOTE.—Many druggists may try to sell you something else, on which they make more profit, or because they may not have GLOSSINE in stock. If your druggist cannot supply you, send the price, with your name and address and name of dealer, and we will send same promptly, prepaid.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

New Orleans, La.—Mr. Frank Keeley and Miss Amanda Bowman were united in holy matrimony on December 27 at the residence of the bride. R. A. Taylor officiated.

New Orleans, La.—At the home of his niece, Mr. Robert Wills was united in marriage to Mrs. Ella Boyce, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 28, Rev. H. J. Wright officiating. Mr. Wills is one of the leading men of Mallalieu M. E. Church, an officer and a local preacher; a man thoroughly interested in his church, and held in the highest esteem by his employers of the Barber Asphalt Company. The bride, who is from Houston, Texas, was formerly a resident of Pineville, La.

Franklin, La.—Mr. William Guy and Miss Elizabeth Martin were joined in holy wedlock December 24, at the parsonage. R. C. Worsham officiated.

Franklin, La.—Mr. Louis Gibson and Miss Dolly Rylander were married Dec. 28 at the parsonage. R. C. Worsham officiated.

Smyrna, Tenn.—The rites of matrimony were solemnized between Mr. Eddie Orr and Miss Isabella Haynes, ages 17 and 19 years respectively, at the home of the groom, who is a member of the M. E. Church. The young couple were presented many valuable presents. H. E. Erwin officiated.

Natchitoches, La.—On December 22, at the residence of the bride, I joined in holy wedlock Mr. Robert W. Martin, of Orange, Tex., and Miss Nona L. Parson, of this city. Mr. Martin is an intelligent and industrious young man, while the bride is sweet spirited and an accomplished young lady. She was a school teacher in this parish and also superintendent of our Sunday school. Mr. and Mrs. Martin left on the first train for their bridal tour.

W. J. M. PRICE.

Trenton, Miss.—On November 6, at the home of the bride, Miss Malisia Little and Mr. C. C. Bates were joined in holy matrimony. The bride, who is a faithful member of New Chapter M. E. Church, is the daughter of Rev. J. W. Little. She is also a prominent teacher in the public schools of Smith county. Mr. Bates is a student of the A. and M. College and a well-known teacher of Scott county. They were the recipients of many useful and valuable presents. H. Henderson officiated.

Campti, La.—Mr. Thomas Simms was married to Miss L. Harris at the bride's home Dec. 27; Mr. Harry Evans to Miss Henrietta Rivers, Dec. 27, also at the home of the bride and Mr. J. S. Thomas to Miss Adner Doty. A. H. Banks, pastor, officiated.

Comite, La.—Rev. Abraham Hilton, on his 71st birthday, was united in marriage to Mrs. Zilpha Johnson, aged 66 years The wedding occurred at the home of the bride's oldest daughter, Mrs. M. Taylor. We pray God's choicest blessings upon them. A. Luster officiated.

Bellville, Texas.—Prof. W. W. Kerr and Miss Nellie Aery were united in marriage Dec. 23, Rev. Grimes officiating. On the 25th ult., Miss Willie Bell Canty and Mr. Tully Edwards were married at the bride's home, Richard Grove, Tex., by Rev. W. E. Hutcherson.

G. H. E. FIELDS.

Hemphill, Tex.—Mr. A. Y. Buckley and Miss Viola Wheeler were united in marriage at the home of Brother Miles Hampton, on Sunday, Dec. 27. A. Parham officiated.

J. A. Landry, Pastor, Pleasant Hill, La.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at St. Mathew M. E. Church Dec. 7-8, with Rev. H. Daniels presiding. The Rev. T. F. Robinson was with us. He and the elder preached able sermons and every one went home rejoicing. Raised for all purposes this quarter, $692.40; for the year, $1,111.77. Paid the pastor for fourth quarter, $75.05; presiding elder, $19.40; for the year, $50; which was eight dollars more than last year, with one church less on the circuit. We have built a new church at the cost of six hundred dollars and the same has been paid for. I am expecting to go up to the conference in good shape.

The best disinfectant of all is sunlight. It destroys by its very brightness all sorts of germs and at the same time helps the growth of plants and animal life. Doubtless all have noticed that mould grows during the night and in dark, damp cellars. Bright sunlight quickly destroys germs, mould or other organisms. That is why it is best to let the sunlight into your houses for its purifying influence.

At the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce, chief consulting surgeon, started experiments, some three years ago, with the Finsen light in conjunction with the X-ray in the treatment of diseases. He got excellent results therefrom, and was among the first to adapt this remarkable cure to many cases which it was formerly supposed must of necessity be treated by the knife.

Not only is Dr. R. V. Pierce notable for his surgical achievements at his hospital in Buffalo, but nearly a third of a century ago he discovered certain roots and herbs which were nature's remedies, and succeeded in putting them up in a form that would be easily procured and ready to use. This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It maintains the patient's nutrition by enabling him to eat, retain, digest and assimilate nutritious food. It overcomes gastric irritability and symptoms of indigestion, and in this way fever, nightsweats, headaches, etc., are done away with. It fortifies the body against the germs of consumption, grip and malaria. It builds up the tissues and puts on healthy flesh.

Those desiring to know something about the body in health and disease, also medicine and surgery, without technicalities, should read the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," which can be had for 31 cents in one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound book. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Field Notes.

(Mrs.) Dania Adkins, Union City, Tenn.—Sharon and Union City churches have taken on new life since conference. Bishop Cranston appointed Rev. S. M. Strayhorn to this charge and he is known almost everywhere in middle Tennessee as a good pastor, a great church worker and an earnest preacher. He found our church at a standstill and now, after six weeks we are moving on all right. Raised for everything up to the first quarter $120. Elder J. A. W. Moore was here and held the first quarterly conference Nov. 24. Reports were good and showed that every wheel had been set in motion by our new pastor. Paid the elder in full. We are praying and looking forward for a great revival. The Ladies' Aid Society of Beautiful Zion Union City tendered our pastor a great reception on Nov. 16. Everything bids fair for a bright future.

J. D. Lovejoy, Pastor, Gainesville, Ga.—I desire to thank the church at this place for the hospitality shown me on my seventh year's return: When I arrived here that night of Dec. 13 about 100 persons came to the parsonage to congratulate me and brought everything that was needed in the store and dining room. I was gladly received by the majority of the church. May the Father ever bless and keep safe watch over these good people.

F. J. Jacobs, Pastor, Marvell, Ark.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened at Davis' Chapel M. E. Church Dec. 10-11, with Rev. W. H. Higgins presiding. The majority of the officers were present with reports and the work showed increase on all lines. We raised during the quarter for the elder $13.50; conference claimants, $1.55; missions, Freedman's Aid and Church Extension, $4. Our presiding elder, by a magnificent talk, secured 4 yearly subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. We cannot get along without the paper. Too much credit cannot be given the present editor.

R. B. Anderson, Pastor, Fort Stephen Circuit, Miss.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened Dec. 10-11, at Snowden M. E. Church, Rev. J. C. Hibbler, presiding elder, in the chair, sixteen officers present. O. E. Floury was elected secretary. Reports of officers showed the work to be in good condition on all lines. Paid the elder in full, $50; also $4.25 on a suit of clothes. For missions this quarter, $8. Total for all purposes $127.94. Saturday night a grand reception was given at the home of S. McCall, for the elder, as this is his sixth and best year with us. The elder preached at 11 o'clock and administered the Lord's Supper to 50 communicants. He preached again at 7:30 and lectured to a large congregation. We raised more benevolent money this year than ever before since he has been presiding elder. Have raised $33.

Editorial

The Emperor of Germany desires to confer the order "Pour le Merits" upon Generals Nogi and Stoessel in recognition of their bravery as soldiers and their heroism in and around Port Arthur.

Some men waste their strength on fads that otherwise might be turned to good account. A legislator in the General Assembly of Tennessee has introduced a bill to tax bachelors. Certainly the representative has a perfect right to introduce such a bill, but he represents a class of people in church and state whose energy is wasted, and, if turned in the right channel, would mean much for the good of the people. There is no telling how much strength is wasted on fads and peculiar notions born of idiosyncrasies.

President Roosevelt is dissatisfied with the present commission in charge of the digging of the Panama Canal. He has therefore transmitted to Congress a message asking the reduction of the Isthmian Canal Commission to three and that the salaries and duties of this commission shall be placed under the direct control of the President. This meets with approval throughout the Republic. With President Roosevelt in direct charge, honesty in the administration of funds is assured and vigor in pushing the enterprise toward completion.

Three hundred thousand men are out of work in London and thousands of starving men and women throng the streets. A pathetic sight, no doubt, these people starving under the shadows of palaces where there is bread enough and to spare. The great enemy of the poor, and especially of the poor who strike, is the inflammatory orator who fires his auditors to violence and to riot. Nothing is to be achieved by an appeal to force. The labor question, as well as other perplexing questions, is to be solved largely through an appeal to reason and not an appeal to violence.

After all, the argument of those who claim that we ought to devote our strength to Home Missions is deserving of careful consideration. The United States Immigration Bureau shows that, in 1904, 812,870 aliens reached our shores; 109,150 were under 14 years of age and therefore most likely will assimilate the spirit of our citizenship, but 657,155 were between the ages of 14 and 45 and 46,565 were over 45. These will likely live and die in this country and never imbibe the true spirit of Americanism and, what is more, may not receive the blessings of the Christian faith. Of this horde 168,903 could neither read nor write. If we were to devote our strength to the conversion of the almost a million aliens that reach our shores each year we would help very largely the coming of the kingdom of Jesus Christ.

THE CHURCH'S BEST GIFT

We are devoting considerable space this week to the presentation of the work of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. As far as our territory is concerned, our people, of course, are in the fullest sympathy with the work, and they are learning more and more the lesson of self-support, realizing as the years increase that they must more largely share the responsibility of the education of their children. The South Carolina Conference contributes each year more than $3,000 for this cause. Large and commodious buildings are to be found at Marshall, Texas, Greensboro, N. C., and Meridian, Miss., built, for the most part, with funds given by our people. These are evidences that our people are learning the lesson of self-support.

The Church has given largely for the education of the Negro and no phase of the Church work means more for our great country than does the effort for the upliftment of the millions of Negro people in the South. Yes, the Church has given millions, but its best gift for the upliftment of the Negro has not been so many ounces of silver nor so many pounds of gold. The Church's best gift has been the noble white men and white women of the North who have come South and by the inspiration of their culture, the piety of their lives and their fidelity to service for the Master's poor, helped to lift a race.

Paul wrote to Timothy: "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; that they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate; laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold of eternal life." These men and women who have come South have been angels of mercy and messengers of light, who verily were "willing to communicate" themselves, that is, to build their own life into the life of a degraded people. The best gift is not always of money: it is of life and of heart and the inspiration of heart and of life. There are names among others that will forever live in our southern Methodism: George Standing, John M. Braden, L. M. Dunton, Wilbur P. Thirkield, and Flora Mitchell. These are a few of that conquering host that the Church sent South and who have wrought mightily in reduction of ignorance and in the increase of industry and piety.

The South has not always had a warm welcome for the work of our Church. It has sometimes been intimated that our Church is an enemy to the South, but no Church can be an enemy to the South that seeks to dispell ignorance, to make crime less frequent and to bring people under the dominion of the Lord Jesus Christ. Those who seek to do this are not enemies but friends. The work of the Freedmen's Aid Society is one of the brightest chapters of American Methodism.

THE UNFINISHED WORK OF LINCOLN

At the entrance of the Negro building of the Atlanta (Georgia) Exposition, held in 1895, stood a statue by a Negro artist representing a Negro form of strong muscles with a rather questioning look upon his face, with the shackles upon his wrists broken, but not off. The shackles are broken but much of the effect of slavery still remains. Ignorance and poverty prevail and poverty largely because of ignorance. But wherever Christian education has touched the race there is a bright spot and a sign of hope. Lincoln gave to our people physical freedom, but the larger freedom—the moral and the spiritual—is to come through Christian education.

On the Sunday nearest Lincoln's birthday, February 12, most convenient to our pastors, the Freedmen's Aid Society requests that an address or sermon be delivered on the work of that society, and that a collection be taken for Christian education. Not a pastor should fail to do this. There will be many in other sections of the Church who will contribute liberally as God has prospered them for this cause, and our people must be as zealous to give according to their ability as any part of the Church. Nay, they must be more willing to give than any other part of the Church, for this collection is for the education of our boys and girls, and for the bringing of a bright and better day to our people. Fail not in this. Take the collection and send it to the office.

REMARKABLE GIVING

Our people do not realize fully just from what source the money comes for the education of their children. There are many interesting and thrilling accounts of how poor people at the North make sacrifices for the education of colored boys and girls in the South. It is a fact that one good woman in the East took off her jewelry and sold it and gave the proceeds for Southern education. And this type of giving could be duplicated again and again. We desire in this connection to produce a letter received by Dr. L. M. Dunton, President of Claflin University, from a lady seventy years of age, and who works to make her own living and yet she is a faithful contributor to Southern education. The reading of this letter ought to move our young people to a greater spirit of sacrifice and ought to cause more of them to give of their earnings as liberally as possible for the cause of their brethren:

DEAR DR. DUNTON—Last summer when you were here and spoke in our church, I became so interested in your work that I asked the dear Heavenly Father to open the way for me so that I could help some poor girl in your school. I am an old lady, almost 70 years of age. I have to work to earn my own living, but have a little home of my own. The matter of helping one of your poor girls to get an education has been on my heart ever since you were here, and so at last directed by the dear Master, I have resolved to rent out my front room, feeling that I would rather do without a parlor than have one poor girl neglected when I might help her, so I will send you the rent from this room as often as it comes in, if you will write the name of the poor girl and let her write me once. May God bless you, Dr. Dunton, in your great work.

Our Industrial Work---Five Important Centers

By Secretary M. C. B. Mason, D. D.

While industrial education is taught in all the schools, the main strength of our industrial work is centered at five strategic points, namely, Claflin University, at Orangeburg, S. C., Clark University, at Atlanta, Ga., Morristown Normal and Industrial College, at Morristown, Tenn., Gilbert Normal and Industrial College, at Baldwin, La., Wiley University, at Marshall, Texas. These points, it will be seen, are in the great Black Belt of the South, and are in easy access of the people that need us most.

At these five strategic points, industrial education is being most thoroughly prosecuted, and large results have already followed. The largest equipment is at Claflin University, Orangeburg, S. C., where there are more than 800 students in all departments, and many more could be enrolled if we had accommodations for them. By actual count, 242 have been turned away during the present school year. The industries taught here embrace such trades as printing, painting shoemaking carpentry, blacksmithing, masonry, woodworking by hand and machinery, iron working, mechanical and electrical engineering, wheelwrighting, harness making, plastering, tailoring and farming. The Kendrick Manual Trade Building has just been completed here, giving Claflin the largest manual trade building in the entire South, with possibly one exception. The superintendent is Mr. W. W. Cooke, a young colored man, who is himself a graduate of the Institution. He took a post graduate course in the Boston School of Technology, and is most thoroughly prepared for his work. A large number of graduates from this department are in demand all over the South, as principals and teachers of industrial schools, and quite a number have set up business on their own account and are meeting with splendid success.

A special feature of the work at Morristown and Gilbert, is the emphasis placed on dressmaking, millinery, cooking and all lines of domestic economy. Dr. J. S. Hill, the President of Morristown, has furnished a large number of competent cooks and other girls from his industrial department in many sections of the North. Most of these girls are employed before they graduate. Cooking is also a special feature of the work at Claflin.

Electrical engineering on a small scale is taught at Wiley University, Marshall, Tex. Prof. J. R. Reynolds, a young colored man educated in one of the Society's schools at Greensboro, N. C., put in the electrical plant himself after one summer's study at Syracuse, through the kindness of Dr. Day, and another at the Armour Institute, Chicago. Out of a small salary, he paid all of his expenses. By the aid of the Euclid Club composed of colored students at Wiley, and a subscription of Secretary Mason, he put in the electric plant without the cost of a dollar to the Society, and a large number of boys have been sufficiently instructed to become experts in electric bell fitting, wiring offices and adjusting other electrical appliances. One of the young men has built an engine by which needy and deserving students saw wood throughout the town, and eighteen of them sawed enough stove wood for families last year to pay their way through school.

The Society is greatly in need at the present time of funds for a boys' dormitory at Claflin, with which to house more than 200 young men who desire to enter the industrial department there, and a 15 horse power engine for the work at Wiley University, Marshall, Texas. What a blessing it would be to these students who are preparing themselves for usefulness and service, if some one could enable us to meet these special and urgent demands.

Epoch-Making Work of Our Schools in Forty Years.

By W. P. Thirkield, D. D. Corresponding Secretary.

When this Society started its work in 1866, it began with a gross, earthy lump of black humanity. Emancipation did not change the Negro's condition. He was the same ignorant, improvident being. He had never been taught to think or to plan or to be. He simply existed as the slave of conditions and the chattel of man. But freedom gave him a right to himself. He was free to learn, to think, to develop, to rise, to unfold the best that was in him. In other words, he, for the first time, was not property, but personality; he counted as one. He was a brother of men. Thus his market value had risen above all price. He could no longer be rated in the stock market. No longer an "animated tool"—he was a moral being, a soul for whom Christ died. His value was henceforth to be defined in terms of another world. He felt moving within him the power of an endless life. He began to be moralized. And it always holds good, "concerning any given man, at any given place or time," as Nash has said in his "Genesis of the Social Conscience," " that he is moralized only when recognized as kith and kin by the highest ideal above working the horizon.

The Church started with a race that had been branded as chattel and sold in the open market. A race that knew no mental life. A race "moralized" by no spiritual ideals—quickened by no life or impulse above the physical horizon.

Think what it meant to give a race of millions even a start out of such conditions. Suddenly set free, think of what liberty meant to a child race, all unused to freedom. The marvel is that the race did not run riot, translating liberty into license.

That the Negro has made such a record of work and achievement is a marvel.

The writer well recalls a testimony of one of his students, now a presiding elder. "When I heard I was free," said he, "I was in the garden hoeing. I threw that hoe as far as I could send it I thought emancipation meant freedom from labor." Our schools reached and gave right ideals of life to tens of thousands of such youth. Bishop Haygood, years ago, said: "Suppose these Northern teachers had not come; that nobody had taught these Negroes set free and citizens; the South would have been uninhabitable by this time. Some may resent this, but they resent the truth." He then added, "No people ever made a better use of the help that was given them. Their progress in twenty years is marvelous; there is no chapter in the history of education like that which tells this story."

Think of the task before our schools. The hereditary taints of a race which had come out of Africa, and through American slavery with the ignorance, voodooism, superstition of generations had to be overcome. Again, the inherited inertia of a race held in slavery for 250 years, without a chance for development in the intellectual or moral life, had to be conquered. It meant something to even start a race out of such conditions.

Ten Thousand Teachers. But think of the positive gains in mental, moral and spiritual life as the outcome of the work of one agency such as the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society From our schools over 10,000 teachers have gone forth. In a generation they have done their part in cutting down the percentage of illiteracy below fifty per cent.

Fortunate for the race and the nation that every one of these schools was distinctly religious; that every teacher sent forth was trained in the elements of the Christian religion, taught the Bible, converted through the life and work of consecrated teachers.

They, in their turn, have taught the Bible in tens of thousands of rude schoolhouses, cabins and churches. In reality the foundation for effective Church and Sunday school work was laid in our Normal schools and academies, from which we have sent forth the tens of thousands of students among a destitute people.

Two Thousand Preachers. Besides this, two thousand preachers have gone from our schools into the twenty-one colored Conferences of our Church alone. The highest testimony to the effectiveness of our work comes from the Bishops, who have marked the signal advance in morality and intelligence in these Conferences. In reality the work of our schools has been fundamental to the entire program of Missionary and Church Extension work. Without the preachers, Sunday school teachers, church officers trained in our schools, the million appropriated to missionary work would largely have been wasted. In Gammon Theological Seminary alone over 600 miisters have gone forth, 200 being regular graduates.

At the fifteenth anniversary in 1898, reports

GRADUATES, NOW TEACHERS IN CLAFLIN

from eighty-seven alumni showed that they had gathered in to the Church 19,314, had organized 185 Sunday schools, with 6,684 scholars; 216 Epworth Leagues, with a membership of 8,512; built 109 churches and 39 parsonages, and had raised for benevolent purposes $480,989. The students trained in this school alone are now reaching through their pulpit ministry nearly 150,000 people.

SEVEN HUNDRED PHYSICIANS. We can only mention the influence for good in the home and family life of a race wrought by the more than 700 students graduated from our Meharry Medical College. They have stopped the ravages of disease they have stayed the pestilence that was walking in darkness and decimating a race. Thousands of families have been taught the way of the better life by these Christian physicians.

When you consider that the work giving such vast results has been maintained on an average offering from the Church of about $100,000 per year, we confidentially ask: Did ever an investment in a missionary enterprise bring larger or speedier returns. When the relation of this work to the Kingdom of God and the life of this nation is fully realized by the Church, we feel sure that the membership will arise to its opportunity and give for the maintenance of our forty-three schools with their 613 teachers and their 11,000 students, the amount that is asked for by the General Committee, namely, one dollar in five for that given to the great cause of Missions.

The Problem Concerns the Nation

BY BISHOP E. G. ANDREWS.

No problem before the patriot and the Christian is more important or more difficult than that which concerns the intellectual and spiritual enfranchisement of the millions and their descendants whom the Emancipation Proclamation of Abraham Lincoln lifted from slavery to citizenship. Their welfare and that of the whole nation are inseparably linked. We cannot prosper if they are blind, degraded and suffering. The work, therefore, of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society and of all associations of similar aim should command the sympathy, the prayers, and the financial aid of all who love their God, their country and the souls of men.

Not Theory, But Action Is Wanted

BY BISHOP HENRY W. WARREN, D. D. LL.D.

Some men theorise about the Southern problem and find incompatibilities and impossibilities. They write from their prejudices and ignorances. But the only way to settle this or any other question is to begin practical work. The mountain peak may be unscalable, but one can find a pass near by or make a tunnel. Inveniam via aut faciam. The question of the resumption of gold payment after the war puzzled all theorists. Horace Greeley said, "The way to resume is to resume." The ages to come will recognize that the Freedmen's Aid Society deserves eternal gratitude because it went to work and settled the question by experiment.

Answering to God

BY BISHOP W. F. MALLALIEU, D. D.

As a nation we have the fairest and best heritage that God has ever given to any people. What a glorious country is ours, reaching from ocean to ocean, and from the Gulf to the Lakes! Fields, forests and mines of measureless wealth are ours. The climate is good, rains abundant, rewards of honest toil are sure and generous.

We are a Christian people. We have the Sabbath, the sanctuary, the Bible and home. We have schools, colleges and universities among the best in the world. We ought to be a prosperous, happy and united people. What ought to be can be. God is ready to do his part. Are we ready to do ours, that the brightest dreams of the best may be realized?

EDUCATIONAL COOKING AT CLAFLIN

Of course we have our problems, we have difficulties, we have tasks, but we need not fear nor fret nor worry. There is a sure pathway to victory. Sin is a reproach to any people. Let us avoid sin. Injustice and oppression harm most those who use them. All villainies destroy their perpetrators.

What we need most of all is to fear God and work for righteousness, and all will be well with us.

All this means that we must recognize the brotherhood of all men. The dwellers in the far-away continents and the sunlit islands of tropical seas, are each and all akin to us. If they come to our shores as strangers, we must receive them if they come with good intent. If they are born in our midst, though the blood of Africa throbs in their hearts, they must not be crushed, humiliated and oppressed. Almighty God hates both oppression and oppressors. There must be no distinction on account of race, color or previous condition. No man is responsible for either of them. No one has any choice in regard to them. The white man may have a very black soul. The black man may have a very white soul. Character and conduct are the essentials. Why not solve one of our most difficult national problems on the basis of absolute righteousness? This is all that our colored people ask—they ought not to be compelled to accept any other arrangement. Those who undertake to compel them will have to confront the Judge of the Universe, for the scepter of righteousness is the scepter of His kingdom.

A Remarkable Testimony

BY BISHOP D. A. GOODSELL.

That the work of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society has been helpful, and still is so, is known to all who have studied the matter, and most of all, to those who have lived in the South and have seen the work close at hand, for ten years. God who alone knows the human heart, is the only one who can measure the good done among the Negroes. But we can see in the physicians, teachers and ministers trained in our schools, what can be done to produce men and women of intelligence and character when we compare them by the eye as well as the ear with those upon whom they wait in the different forms of Christian ministration. The face is bright, the manners self-respectful and respectful to others; the Negro dialect is gone, and clear speaking and good English substituted. Cleanliness of person and of home is established as a habit. The one room cabin grows into a three and four room house, where modesty is possible. The wild orgies of religious excitement and plantation song give place to reverent worship, to the Church hymn book and the music of the Master. On a recent Sunday, at Centenary Church, Charleston, S. C., I heard selections from oratorios rendered by a soprano of first quality, and a chorus which missed neither delicacy nor power.

Moral self-respect is awakened. The communities have come to understand that the licentious cannot stay with us. We may sorrow over a fallen colored minister. In my recent journey I found comfort in the report of the Elder to whom the citizens said: "We knew you would come and that such men can not stay in the M. E. Church." Governor Vardaman can know little of educated Negroes or he would never claim that education makes them more criminal.

The best things can be said of the work of the Society among the whites. If Southern education, with Southern sympathies and associations did not say it over their own names, I would hardly dare to say how poor the schools are in some of the regions where we do most of our work and how short the school year is. We are providing white teachers, physicians, ministers trained for their work, and are lifting hundreds of young men and women out of the narrowest provincialism and prejudice. This is especially true of our work in the mountain regions, where a type of white man lives, kind, hospitable, truthful, brave, but ignorant of everything except nature craft, and revengeful because law is poorly and with difficulty administered. I have seen marvelous

HENRY VAN DYKE.

Never in a costly palace did I rest on golden bed,
Never in a hermit's cavern have I eaten idle bread.

Born within a lowly stable, where the cattle round me stood,
Trained a carpenter in Nazareth, I have toiled and found it good.

They who tread the path of labor follow where my feet have trod;
They who work without complaining do the holy will of God.

Where the many toil together, there am I among my own;
Where the tired workman sleepeth, there am I with him alone.

I, the peace that passeth knowledge, dwell amid the daily strife,
I, the bread of heaven, am broken in the sacrament of life. —The Peninsular Methodist.

Postal Card Sermon

By Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, D. D.

Text: Col. 1: 8. Theme: The Church.

The Church of God is a thoughtful subject for discussion in these days of restlessness, hurry, push and forgetfulness. Men will take time to discuss and seriously consider anything else but the church of which Christ Jesus is the head. The church is a divine institution, were men are to be instructed in the way of life. It is the high standard for moral and religious truth. It is the open, narrow, straight gate to heaven. It is the only, great and true unifier of all people. It is here that the rich and the poor, the great and the small, the wise and the foolish, meet upon common ground and are equal in the sight of God. "A true church is an echo of God." Civilization and art are dependent upon the church for life, progress, duration, and glory.

The church in every community stands for that which is most important to the individual, for the nation and for the whole world. The Church of God is progressive and aggressive, and is destined to destroy all enemies and evil influences in this world, and it alone shall stand forever. Have you taken time, dear reader, to consider the founder of the church, and upon what He laid its foundation? Did you know that the Church shall never be destroyed, and that you are called upon to help support it? And that a rich reward is to be given to each faithful supporter of the Church of God?

The Winning Power of Sunshine

Joy is sociable in its nature; grief is solitary. Two hearts are glad when the wedding bells ring out their joyful peal, but we pass out one by one into the great unknown. One writer has said:

Laugh, and the world laughs with you.
Weep, and you weep alone.

This is a foundation principle of human nature. It is the bright, pleasant faces that attract, the merry, cheery word and tone that win a hearing from humanity. True, there must needs be sorrow in the world, and sorrow is ever solitary. Christ himself went through his hour of supreme agony without human companionship. Martyrs are lonely souls, yet their sufferings have made possible added glory to human life. It is part of the self-abnegation that the narrow path must be trodden in loneliness.

The winning power of sunshine is potent in the Christian life. The long-faced, despairing disciple, always dwelling upon his doubts and fears, repels the world and gives it a false idea of Christianity. The happy child of God whose inner peace and joy illumine his face, and whose daily life is a song of praise, is the one who will have stars in his future crown of rejoicing.

Through his sufferings and victory Jesus could say, "I am the light of the world." It is this light, shining through his followers, that draws mankind to him. The old principle holds true:

Joy is a partnership;
Grief weeps alone;
Many guests had Cana,
Gethsemane had one.

The Need of the Hour

The fields everywhere are white unto harvest. It needs only that the sickle be thrust in. On every hand are those who should be numbered among the believers. If we could but have our ears attuned to the yearning of their hearts, we would hear them saying: "Men and brethren, what shall we do to be saved?" The salvation of Jesus Christ is for all, and men and women on every side are seeking the way, and asking for the word that shall open unto them the mysteries of the kingdom of God. It is the hour of opportunity, the hour of responsibility. Let the ministers and people have great faith, earnest purpose, consecrated hearts, and a consuming desire to know and to do the will of God; and then let them go forth into the vineyard of the Lord to labor wherever he commands, and, according as he gives opportunity, and the glorious work of the salvation of souls will fall upon the church like a gracious benediction.—James M. Buckley, D. D., in California Advocate.

Be of Good Cheer

Nothing is plainer than the sadness of sin. Even when it begins in mirth, "the end of that mirth is heaviness;" and a salvation from sin will save from the dreary sadness of sin, and it is just what we should expect when we find our Lord saying: "Be of good cheer; thy faith hath saved thee." Our Lord was called by the prophet a "Man of Sorrows;" but none of the Gospels so calls Him, nor is the reader of the Gospels most strongly impressed with his sadness. Rather is He there an unfailing master of good cheer; the leader of a great company of men who count it their work to make the world brighter.

God dwells in light that no man can approach; but though we cannot approach that glorious light, beams of it can approach us; and He who came down from heaven brought down something of the glory of that supreme home, and even in the darkest sadness of the world's sin flashes of that glory were continually breaking out about Him. His eye was never dim; His voice was never quavering; but always His word was a glad assurance of His own strength in the face of whatever discouragements, and His greeting to sick and sad men was an unfailing challenge to courage and hope and good will.

Nor was He content to be alone in His light-bringing. The thought of discipleship is that the disciple should speak the words of the Master. Jesus said, "Be of good cheer;" and in the name of Jesus Paul said, "Be of good cheer;" and every man who has got the spirit of Paul or Jesus can say to those around him, "Be of good cheer." He knows reasons of cheer in the goodness of God, in the possibilities of man, in the advancing triumph of right, and in the millenial reign of peace and love.—Treasury Magazine.

The mercies for which we are least grateful are often those which are of the greatest moment health and freedom from suffering, and strength to perform our daily duties, the pure air and sweet sunlight, the laughter of children and the pleasant recognition of friends. If these common things are not great blessings, where will we find them?—Ex.

YOUNG FRIENDS

What One Woman Did

BY REV. WILLIAM W. FOSTER, JR., D. D.

In one of the charitable institutions of the city of Boston is a remarkable woman. She was one of fifteen children, born in a New England parsonage. One can easily understand the struggles of that family, and why at twelve years of age this girl was obliged to leave home, to support herself.

In the course of her efforts to gain a living, and do something for the family at home, she came to Boston.

Years came and went, while she worked industriously and successfully at her acquired trade, that of dressmaking.

Before leaving her home she became a Christian, and she was true to the faith of her father in all the after years. Early in life she established certain habits, among which were those of regular attendance at all the services of her church, and systematic giving to the different objects of church benevolence. Setting apart a certain amount of her income, she always had some money to use, as the opportunity came.

It is a wonderful thing how much may be accomplished when one has a definite plan. Having been deprived of an education herself, she determined that others, through her, might have what she had missed. As she prospered in her work, and had more money, she put aside a sum to assist worthy young men and women in going to school. Through the death of a relative she finally inherited thirty thousand dollars. This was unexpected, but gladly welcomed, because it meant many more young people helped to go to school.

She never thought of working fewer hours and living on her income, but laid plans at once to aid some students who were almost discouraged in their struggle to remain in school. It was never her custom to pay all the expenses of a student, but to help those who helped themselves.

At one time this noble woman was compelled to go to California for her health. She wondered what there was to be done in the far-off state for her Master. With a determination to do something, she succeeded in establishing four Sunday schools, and building a church, in the months that she was there. Returning to the East she resumed her work.

The years have passed and her life is almost spent, but there is not a happier, or more joyous Christian in Boston. Infirmities have compelled her to confine herself to the floor on which her room is located. She has not been out of doors for four years. If one wants to know anything about a contented spirit and companionship with Jesus, go to the room of this saint and witness the power of divine love to give peace. Instead of murmuring there, one will hear doxologies; instead of the story of woe and complaint, the praises of a God who keeps the life young, hopeful and full of expectation.

Everything that this woman has accumulated and inherited has gone to pay this mortgage, and that bill for some deserving person, to help this desperate church crisis, or that school that had few friends; and a great mission. But the most wonderful thing is, that she has educated thirty-two young men and women. They are out in the world, teaching, preaching, and making homes, living Christian lives, multiplying her life thirty fold. This will be an ever increasing force, as time goes on, and that woman will never die. Eternity alone will reveal the results of her life. She knows that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

Rather than look for gifts from others, when one has much, there should be cultivated the beautiful virtue that Jesus blessed, and this woman has exemplified, of making one's self poor that others might be rich. Even now her busy hands are making little dresses and garments for those who need her ministrations. While, without money, things that would be thought by some to be necessities, but they would be esteemed luxuries by her, she is contented and thankful for what she has, being really glad that she has given away all that came to her, for the good of others.

The Shepherd's Psalm

BY DAISY RHODES CAMPBELL.

"Mother, I don't see why you have me learn a Psalm every month," said Eva Preston; "none of the other girls do, and you can always read them."

The next day was Sunday. A stranger talked to the Sunday school. He said: "I work among the poor children in a big city. I have many friends among the newsboys. One day one of them—Dave Herbert—was run over by a horse and wagon. He was carried to a drug store near by to wait for the ambulance to carry him to the hospital. The doctor and I were with him, and a crowd was in the store. The boy was a brave little fellow, but he suffered terribly. All at once he said, 'If I could but hear about the shepherd, I could bear it better.' I knew what he meant. I had told them about King David's beautiful Psalm at the mission school. I said it now over and over. I wish you could have seen the look in his face, children, as he listened. That little rough newsboy could understand that. He said after me, 'And I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.' Before the wagon came, Dave had gone to the Lord's house above. I tell you this, dear children, because nowadays so few of us learn the Scriptures by heart. We don't think it necessary. But I know it is. I wonder, now, if any child here can repeat the Twenty-third Psalm for me?"

There was a long pause, but no one stirred. Then Eva Preston stood up and with folded hands, very clearly she repeated it.

As she finished, the children—and even her teacher—forgetting the place, softly clapped their hands.

The minister lifted his hand to check it. "Thank you, my dear," he said to Eva; "you have a gift no one can take from you."—Christian Observer.

Lesson Topic January 29,

City Evangelization

Scripture References—Isa. 62: 16; Jonah 4: 10,11.

The city has gigantic power for good and for evil. All classes congregate here. Mighty influences, like a river fertilizing the plains, go out from the city. Save the cities and you will save the nation. The Problem. With not more than one person in four of the population attendant upon the Christian Church, with the poor huddled in unsanitary dwellings, with weak and corrupt municipal governments that wink at vice and with the materialistic spirit dominating the cities we have a real problem. The greed and corruption of Ninevah are reproduced in our cities. Are the forces of Christianity equal to the emergency? Can the cities be spiritualized? Can they be brought to seek God and to establish and maintain a reign of righteousness? Can the lost be recovered, the perishing rescued and the outcast be gathered into the kingdom of God? The Divine Attitude. God had pity on the great city of Ninevah when her men turned from their evil ways and sought Him. Jesus, riding down the leafy slope of Olivet, wept over Jerusalem. The compassions of the Lord fail not. He waits to be gracious. He wants to pour out His Spirit in pentecostal showers. Abundant provision has He made for the city's redemption. If the people of any city will turn from their evil ways and seek the Lord He will make them a new city wherein will dwell righteousness. They will prove the Gospel true that it is the power of God unto salvation unto every one that believeth. They will realize that the kingdom of God means the new manship of the world—the passing away of old things, "all bitterness and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil speaking," and the making all things new—true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report. The Watchmen. In the city, as upon the walls of Jerusalem, God has set watchmen. His ministers are continually to warn the people to flee the wrath to come and be saved from their sins. Jesus Christ and Him crucified is to be preached in season and out of season. Every portion of the city must have the Gospel. Every Christian ought to help publish Christ and pray for God's watchmen. Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon illustrates how all can help in the work of evangelization when he remarked: "When I was in Chicago I got the secret of Mr. Torrey's success in Australia. The church in Chicago of which he is pastor, that had not seen him for months and was struggling along without a pastor, on Saturday night, after a three or four hours' meeting of Bible study and other things, met in the chapel at 9 o'clock and there were some two or three hundred that were on their knees from then until 10 o'clock, praying God to bless the pastor in Australia. When the 10 o'clock hour struck, a man came up to me and said: "Another little company of us are in the habit of continuing this meeting, and we do not look at the clock; we sometimes stay until day. If you will come with us, we will be glad to have you." And a little company went off to pray God to bless Torrey in Australia. Let us have seasons of prayer for God's blessing on the workers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson V—Jan. 29, 1905. Title—Jesus and Nicodemus (John 3: 1-16). Golden Text—"For God so loved the world that He gave His only Begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3: 16).

Our last lesson closed with Jesus in Cana of Galilee. He, with His mother and His brothers went down to Capernaum. It is generally believed that His supposed father Joseph was at this time dead. They remained in Capernaum but a short while, and then went up to Jerusalem. There Jesus cleansed the temple, attended the Passover, and wrought many miracles. Many believed in Him. Nicodemus does not seem to have been an open, bold believer, yet he had faith in Jesus. All we positively know of him is found in this gospel. John has spoken of him in this lesson; again in the council we find him defending Jesus (John 7: 50); and finally at the crucifixion we see him assisting in His burial (John 19: 39). In every instance he shows himself to be a true friend to our Lord. The theme of this lesson is The New Birth.

I. Subject for new birth—Nicodemus (1-2). 1. His sect: "man of the Pharisees." The Pharisees were a denomination of the Jews. The word means separated. They stood aloof from the world and other Jewish sects. They were strict observers of the Mosaic laws, especially those which refer to food; to clean and unclean animals; to the diseased, and the dead; to the priesthood, the sacrifices, and the commandments. They also had many traditional laws which they held to be as binding as the precepts of Moses. They taught that the world was governed by faith; that the soul was immortal; that the dead would be raised; that there are angels good and bad; that there are future rewards and punishments; that God was under obligation to the Jews; and that they were justified on the faith of Abraham. There was much to be admired in them. Let us not throw away the good with the bad.

2. His office: "A ruler of the Jews." A member of the Sanhedrin. This was the superior court of the Jewish nation. Tradition says it was instituted in the time of Moses, and consisted of seventy-one members, the seventy elders appointed by the Lord and the lawgiver himself as president. In the time of Jesus the Sanhedrin was composed of three classes—the twenty-four chief priests, about the same number of elders, and also a like number of scribes or lawyers—in all about seventy-two. They sat in a crescent, with the president, on a higher seat, in the center. On his right sat the vice-president, and on his left a learned referee. Herod was summoned before the Shanhedrin for putting people to death, and Jesus was condemned by it for claiming to be the Messiah. But just before this it had lost the power of life and death, which is generally understood to mean that the sceptre had departed from Judah. The Sanhedrin ended about A. D. 425. Nicodemus was aged, wise, devout and influential.

3. His visit. (1) Time: "He came by night." It is not certainly known why he came at this hour. Possibly he feared the displeasure of the Jews; probably he was employed during the day; likely our Savior was so pressed during the day he could not see Him. Jesus did not condemn him for coming by night. Let us keep silent. Do not more people go to church now by night than by day? (2) Approach: "Thou art a teacher." With a teacher we associate knowledge, utterance, methods and pupils. Jesus had all of these. "Thou art a teacher come from God." This he knew by the miracles Jesus had wrought. We should let our works praise us. (3) Object. This is not stated, but from the words of Jesus we know it was the salvation of his soul. Never did man go on nobler mission.

II. Necessity of new birth (2-7). 1. Fact stated: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." The kingdom of God is the reign of Christ in heaven, in church, on earth, and in the heart of man. Seeing the kingdom of God is comprehending, understanding, and grasping it by faith. We enter the kingdom of God by being "born again." It is to be pardoned, cleansed, and given the spirit of adoption.

2. The fact not understood: "How can a man be born when he is old?" The body cannot, the soul can. It is of the spirit Jesus is speaking. Nicodemus understood Him to be talking of literal birth. A man can be converted when old, in middle life, or young.

3. The fact illustrated. (1) To be "born of water" likely refers to the birth of the body. Nicodemus asked: "How can a man be born when he is old?" This refers to literal birth. Jesus answered: "Except a man be born of dater and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is Spirit." Flesh here means the body, the literal man; and Spirit refers to the Holy Spirit, and to His work in salvation. Born of water and born of the flesh are the same in meaning. Jesus then dismissed the question of literal birth and reaffirmed His first statement: "Ye must be born again." To be "born of water" may refer to baptism. But the Bible does not teach that water baptism is essential to salvation. Those thus brought forth must afterwards be born of the Spirit. Neither does it teach a mode of baptism, any more than to be born of the Spirit expresses mode. (2) To be "born of the Spirit" means conversion. Faith, repentance, and prayer, go before conversion; pardon, cleansing, and assurance, go with it; union with the church, baptism, and a consecrated life should follow it.

III. Mystery of new birth (8-13). 1. The blowing of the wind illustrates the work of the Holy Spirit. (1) Freedom: "The wind bloweth where it listeth," or willeth. God's Spirit acts when and where He pleaseth. He is free in His movements. (2) Force: "Thou hearest the sound thereof." The Holy Spirit has great power. We cannot see Him, but we may behold His work in conviction, conversion and sanctification. (3) "Thou canst not tell whence he cometh, or whither he goeth." The work of the Holy Spirit is profound, and hard to understand. Nicodemus did not fully grasp the idea, hence he asked: "How can these things be?" This idea of the new birth was more than he could grasp. Possibly he did not believe it, and this question was a polite way to dismiss the whole matter.

2. Jesus asked: "Art thou a master of Israel and knowest not these things?" Nicodemus was a member of the Jewish council, which studied the Old Testament closely. In it the new birth is taught (Psa. 40: 1-3, Jer. 31: 31-34, Ezek. 36: 25-27), yet they seem not to have seen it, or taught it to the people.

3. The knowledge of salvation: "We speak that we do know." Jesus, and all true believers, know that a sinner can be born again. They bear witness to the fact that God does forgive sin. The world, and many in the church, do not, I fear, believe in experimental religion.

IV. The manner of the new birth (14-16). The serpent and the Son of man. 1. The lifting up of the serpent.. Place—In the wilderness of Edom. Cause—Many Israelites had been bitten by fiery serpents, and were dying. Remedy—A serpent made of brass, and erected on a banner pale in the camp. The people were to look and live. 2. The lifting up of the Son of man. Place—Mount Calvary. Cause—Sin: inbred, omission of duty, and transgression of law. Remedy—The lifting up of Jesus. The plan of salvation was completed by His death. Cause—Faith secures the pardon of sin.

The gift of God. 1. Man is depressed, and is in danger of perishing. 2. The love of God for man may be seen in nature and in Revelation. 3. Jesus was God's dear, valuable, only, and yet unthankful gift. 4. We must believe in Jesus in order to be saved. 5. The result of faith is eternal life. 6. Unbelief is the cause of condemnation.

LEXINGTON CONFERENCE.

WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Dear Treasurers:—At the meeting of the General Society in Denver, the 22nd of February is the time set apart to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the organization of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Let us as a Conference be fully and creditably identified with the movement.

If you will notice the baking powder advertisement on the back cover of your January number of the Woman's Home Missions, you will see that the auxiliaries can sell the baking powder and report the money on Silver Anniversary Day.

If each auxiliary treasurer will pledge herself to raise at least five dollars in this way or some other way, we will realize no small amount.

The immigrant work in our coast cities and elsewhere is taking much time and money that was formerly given to the Industrial Homes and schools for our boys and girls in the South. Are we not willing to help others help us?

All notices of our work must be given through the Southwestern, so please read it regularly.

The auxiliary here has increased the circulation of this paper by fifteen subscriptions secured in two weeks by one member of the auxiliary seeing that copies of the paper are sold each week.

Let us rally! rally! "For the love of Christ and in His Name," and make the Silver Anniversary a spiritual and financial success.

Yours,

Martha A. Sissle,
Conf. Treasurer.

Indianapolis, Ind.

To the Corresponding Secretaries of the Auxiliaries of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Ohio District:—Please take notice—On account of the failing health of Miss Dencie Butler, our faithful District Corresponding Secretary, she has had to resign her post of duty, for which we are very sorry, and we pray that she will soon be restored to health. The vacancy has been filled by Mrs. J. P. Monroe, of 1011 Baymiller Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. F. W. Corban,
Ohio District President,
709 Central Ave., Cleveland, O.

On account of the rapid growth of the Lexington Conference, Woman's Home Missionary Society, that body will not meet with the Conference this Spring at Louisville, Ky., but our work will be represented there by our Conference Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Dr. C. D. Mebane, of Versailles, Ky., and Mrs. Dr. M. C. B. Mason will preside. Please remember the date and place of our annual meeting, May 10th to 15th, 1905, in Mount Zion M. E. Church, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O.—Mrs. J. T. Leggett, Pres. Lex. Conf., W. H. M. S.

CENTRAL MISSOURI CONFERENCE, WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Dear Minister of the Central Missouri Conference: The Branch Officers of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society join with me in thanking you for the money that you raised last year. It seems utterly impossible to get our sisters to keep the missionary societies alive after they are organized in our churches and the money that we get is through our brother ministers. So the $20.00 received made us glad, but the needs are so great that we wish for more this year. The treasuries of the Foreign Missionary Society in our churches are exhausted according to the amount given, but the least we do for Jesus will be precious in His sight. The receipts from October 1, 1903, to October 1, 1904, amount to $534,488.97, an increase of $43,397.22. One of the strongest forces in this spiritual conflict is the world-wide organization of women for the uplifting of the womanhood of all nations, and ranking among the foremost is the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, which was organized thirty-five years ago. It numbers now 6,202 auxiliaries and 158,167 members. Two hundred and seventy-two missionaries represent this society in India, China, Burma, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, the Philippine Islands, Africa, Italy, Bulgaria, Mexico, and South America. Twenty-three new missionaries have sailed and eleven have returned from their furlough, making thirty-four reinforcements for the foreign work during the year. Twenty are at home resting, three have entered the heavenly rest, eleven have married. There are 116 assistant missionaries, 1400 Bible readers and teachers, 539 day schools with 9,537 pupils, 20 orphanages with 3,000 orphans, two colleges for women, one in India and one in Japan, and there is a movement to establish one in Foo Chow, China. Many thousands of women and girls are under Christian instruction in the schools and homes. These are some of the facts and figures, as nearly correct as they can be given, but they do not tell the story. There is still a greater responsibility resting upon us. Our beloved Bishop, I. B. Scott, who sailed lately for Africa, and of whom we are all so proud, should be given our hearty co-operation and support as Foreign Missionary workers. This means two cents a week from each member and a prayer each day for the success of this worthy cause.

Mrs. M. J. Gibson.
Secretary of Central Missouri Conference, W.H.M.S.

HOME MISSION NOTES.

The opening of the New Year marks a change in form of Children's Home Missions. From a small sixteen-page paper it is changed to an eight-page paper, containing about the same amount of matter. The new dress is beautiful, and the price, ten cents in clubs of ten or over to one address, or twenty cents for single subscriptions, brings it within the reach of all. Miss Mary Belle Evans, publisher, 150 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

The school year at Boylan Home, Jacksonville, Fla., has opened favorably. More have applied for admission than can be received. Miss Chalfee has been secured to act as superintendent in the place of Miss H. E. Emerson, and enters upon the work with anticipations of a successful year. Miss Chalfee, a former missionary to Mexico, is a sister of the Rev. Dr. Chalfee, of Kansas City, Mo.

The year 1905 will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. It has been decided that the members of the Society make a noteworthy thankoffering during this year. In accumulating property, valued at above a million dollars, during the past twenty-five years, a debt of nearly two hundred thousand dollars has been incurred. This is largely in the form of interest-bearing notes. The thank-offering will be devoted to clearing away the debt. An average of two and a half dollars from each member of the Society will accomplish this much-to-be-desired result.

House supplies are needed in the Settlement work established at West Jacksonville, Fla., by Miss Ada R. Ingraham. Money for scholarships is needed, also supplies for sewing band, clothing of all kinds, table spoons, garden seeds, bedding, towels, etc. A hanging lamp for a night class, which can be bought in Jacksonville for about $3.50, is greatly needed, also screens for doors and windows, and ditching for sanitary drainage. Any individual or auxiliary that can help, even a little, in any one of these directions, is asked to write to Miss Ada R. Ingraham, R. F. D. No. 1., Jacksonville, Fla.

WEST TEXAS CONFERENCE, WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

To the Sisters of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, San Antonio District:—Greetings to you all, and a happy, happy new year. Now, dear sisters, the last annual session of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, at Fort Worth, Tex., elected me from their Executive Conference Board as manager of the San Antonio District, and as it pleased the Board to do so, I shall now enter upon my work with a determined zeal to do what I can for the Master. According to the Woman's Home Missionary Journal, I am to travel over the district, supervise and stir up the general interest of each Auxiliary, and to organize as many new ones as I possibly can. And, further, organize Mothers' Jewels everywhere I can find ten or more children. Another duty is to stimulate our pastors to take an active part in our work. Now comes the great cry, not "On to Richmond," but "On to Eliza Dee's Home, Austin, Texas." We are in some need there already for accommodations for our girls. We need more women who are willing to sacrifice time, talent and money for this cause. We cannot hope for better things from our friends North or South, East or West, until we hear the sound of victory among the colored sisters of our Conference. We need an annex which will cost $5,000, to accommodate our girls at this Home. Who will give the first thousand, and who the next, and so on, until all is raised.

"If you cannot give your thousands,
You may give the widow's mite.
And the least you do for Jesus
Will be precious in his sight."

Mrs. E. S. Spriggs well deserves the credit of the Hall in Eliza Dee's Home which bears her name. And, further, a place therein for her great beneficent spirit, which will, I trust, in some providential way, meet her desires.

We of the San Antonio District, with Mrs. M. J. Swann, president of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, Conference Secretary, led in this work last year and must lead this year.

Now for our $700 plan. I want to know how many sisters I can get to promise me that they will undertake that plan, so I can arrange the work at once. A word to our dear pastors on the San Antonio District: You will greatly assist me as District Manager if you will furnish me with the names of the presidents of the Woman's Home Missionary Society in your charge or circuit, and arrange with them a convenient time for my trip to your work. Let each pastor drop me a postal card at once containing the desired information.

(Mrs.) T. S. McMorris,
No. 418 Polaris Street, San Antonio, Texas.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society was held at Navasota, Texas, Dec. 1. I am sure much good will come from such a meeting, for there was an interest shown which was indeed encouraging, and many expressed themselves as being so favorably impressed with the work and instructions given that more real Christian work and well organized auxiliaries can be expected in the future. Most of the district presidents were present and made splendid reports. We were favored with the presence of Mrs. L. G. Murphy, superintendent of the Texas Bureau, and Miss Rosa Robertson, superintendent of King Home. The addresses delivered by them were full of inspiration and information. Miss Robertson's whole heart and soul is in her work at King Home. Many of the auxiliaries would do more if they only knew how much the little they give is needed and appreciated. You cannot see, dear sisters, and possibly some of you will never know, how many homes you have helped to build and how many girls you have helped to receive a Christian education by giving your one dollar each year for the Woman's Home Missionary Society, but your reward is sure. We have a comfortable and commodious Home, well located at Marshall, and we should be proud of it, and do what we can to support it by sending such things as sheets, pillow-slips, quilts, towels, preserves, etc., all of which will be thankfully received. After learning of some of the needs of King Home, the delegates in annual session decided to raise $30, with which to furnish the sitting room. Each district is asked to raise $5 just as soon as possible, and forward the same to me, for which I will give receipt. The committees to assist in raising the amount asked from each district are as follows: Marshall district, Mesdames M. A. Johnson and H. Kendall; Navasota district, Mesdames D. A. Bryant and Mary Brown; Paris district, Mesdames E. N. Peoples and Sallie Reeves; Huntsville district, Mesdames L. Morris and Virginia Smith; Palestine district, Mesdames L. A. Brown and G. A. Johnson; Houston district, Mesdames T. C. Jackson and W. H. Logan. The minutes of the last annual meeting, including the treasurer's report, will be printed with the minutes of the Texas Annual Conference. Our receipts do not show quite so well as last year, but more general interest has been shown than for some years past. Our expectations have not as yet been met, but with energetic district officers and faithful members and friends of the society, results will be greatly increased during the ensuing year. Let us thank God for the measure of success we have had, and resolve to do more in the future to strengthen and broaden the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Yours in the work,

(Mrs.) W. H. Logan, President.

A CHURCH THAT BEGAN IN A CORN-CRIB

On the adjournment of the Louisiana Annual Conference in February, 1900, Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne, presiding elder of the Monroe district, appointed Rev. R. F. Long as a supply to West Monroe and "all the southern part of the city." On Sunday, Feb. 11, Brother Long organized a Sunday school in the home of Mr. John Louis. In a few weeks the school numbered 44 pupils. Getting permission from Mr. Louis to start preaching service, a revival was soon on, Mr. and Mrs. Louis being among the first converts. In this revival 43 persons were converted.

REV. ROBERT F. LONG,
Pastor St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church, Monroe, La.

When Rev. Shallowhorne came to hold his first quarterly conference in March he organized a church. The congregation by this time had increased so that it was necessary to "move." Mr. Alex. Ford, having an emptv corn-crib, willingly offered it to the new church as a place for worship. In this same corn-crib Mr. Alex. Ford, his wife, his son and three of his daughters and his father were converted. To-day Mr. Ford and his father are two of the leading trustees of the church. Seeing a chance for expansion, the pastor advised that the congregation move across the river. This being agreed to, the church this time moved into a hay-house on the bank of the river. In 1901 the pastor was informed that he could not have Sunday school any longer in the hay-house, it being full of hay. This fired the pastor to succeed. Arrangements were then made to purchase a lot. The lot was bought and by Aug. 6, 1901, was paid for, costing $250. Nov. 4, 1901, Rev. R. E. Jones, D. D., then Sunday School Agent, preached the opening sermon. Up to date the Sunday school roll has reached 291, and the church membership 89.

The church is now completed, at a cost of $2,875.65, the lot $257.25, making a total of $3,132.90. There is an indebtedness of a little more than $500. This debt would not stand against the church but for the fact that on June 19, 1902, the church was struck by a storm and blown four feet from the pillars. This did damage to the extent of $315.

Rev. Robert F. Long has been the pastor of St. Paul Church from its organization until now. He was born in Monroe, La., and attended the private schools there until January, 1891, when he entered the New Orleans University, where he remained until 1895. The late Dr. Robert Layton had much to do with the early education of Rev. Long. He passed the public school teachers' examination at Farmerville, La., when he was in his thirteenth year; attended the Theological Department of New Orleans University for two years; in 1895 he was appointed assistant principal of the Monroe City Public Schools. On the death of the principal he was called to the principalship. Since leaving school he has continued to study under some of the best educators of the South, and also by correspondence, and is now in the senior year of the Philosophical Course. When Presiding Elder Shallowhorne called to see Brother Long relative to his going into the ministry he said that he wanted no church, but wanted a raw field; and if God called he would prove it by bringing something to pass.

In 1902 he married Miss Mattie E. Robinson, A. B., sister of Mrs. James M. Cox, the wife of President Cox of Philander Smith College.

Brother Long enjoys the confidence of both races. He is agent for Mrs. R. Layton, who is now in Paris, France. He handles each year for this lady thousands of dollars as rentals and other collections. Brother Long and his loyal congregation will help to entertain the forthcoming session of the Louisiana Conference.

THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

The presence of Bishop Henry Spellmeyer at the session of the Upper Mississippi Conference was inspiring. He was warmly greeted by the brethren and he proved himself to be a brotherly Bishop. His addresses tho brief were strong and helpful and his sermon evangelical and convincing. On the first day of the Conference he made this statement: "Any man who wants to see me, I want to see him," and thus he opened every man's heart, into which he entered and took possession.

Rev. Mr. Ogden, of the Presbyterian Church, delivered the welcome address on the part of the citizens of Columbus, treating the subject "Character and Calling." The address was bright, eloquent, practical.

The following officers were elected:

Secretary, N. R. Clay; assistants, J. M. Walton, G. W. Baker, H. B. Hart, J. M. Marsh, J. W. Byrd, F. H. Henry and J. M. Thompson.

Statistical secretary, G. J. Dobson; assistants, F. G. Wilborn, J. W. Terrell, E. C. F. Troupe, W. C. Weatherall, C. E. Moody and A. E. Franklin.

Treasurer, D. Green; assistants, C. W. Butler, D. A. Bragg, A. J. Trice, N. L. Lackey and J. T. Cannon.

The following changes in membership:

Admitted on trial, C. R. Cannon, E. D. Montgomery, R. L. Lee, James Dantzler, J. H. Wesley and Wm. Chappelle.

Admitted to full membership, W. F. Isaiah, J. H. Talbert, Smith T. Walker and F. J. Talbert.

Received by credentials, J. P. Watson, from the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and D. M. P. Hazeley, from the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.

Received by transfer from the Tennessee Conference, Mr. Rogers.

Ordained deacons, E. D. Montgomery, R. L. Lee, Wm. Chappelle, Paul Jackson, J. H. Clay, Solomon Vance, J. H. Wesley and David D. Shelby.

Ordained elders, N. B. Bell and Drew Vandiford.

The treasurer's report shows the following amounts raised:

Missions, $1,648; Freedmen's Aid Society, $971; Church Extension, $259; Sunday School Union, $131; Tract Society, $30; Board of Education, $88; Children's Fund, $83; American Bible Society, $71; Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, $79; Woman's Home Missionary Society, $7; Rust University, $910; other Episcopal fund, $62; General Conference expenses, $50.

Total Conference collection, $5,220.

Every phase of Church work was splendidly presented and, Bishop Spellmeyer for it, it had never been better done. Rev. Dr. I. L. Thomas made his "maiden effort" as Field Agent of the Board of Church Extension. His address on Thursday night was inspiring and full of Church Extension facts. His address before the Conference would lead one to think that, instead of it being his first speech, he was an old Secretary. Dr. Thomas was enthusiastically received and made a splendid impression, both in addresses and sermon, and the brethren promised him their hearty co-operation and success is assured. Dr. E. M. Jones spoke for the Sunday School Union, Dr. W. P. Thirkield for the Freedmen's Aid, Dr. D. Lee Aultman for the Book Concern, Dr. J. P. Wragg for the American Bible Society, and Dr. I. Garland Penn for the Epworth League. Among others who visited the Conference were Drs. J. M. Shumpert and S. A. Cowan, of the Mississippi Conference, who were introduced and invited to seats on the platform.

Dr. M. C. McEwen delivered a helpful missionary sermon.

The brethren of the Upper Mississippi Conference are thoroughly aroused as to their duty to the SOUTHWESTERN and this is proven in no uncertain way. The brethren came prepared to put the Upper Mississippi Conference at the head of the list, and it yet remains to be seen if any Conference can go a notch higher. They came prepared, and well did they manifest their interest. Rev. J. T. Cannon brought 18 subscriptions, Rev. H. B. Hart 14, Rev. J. W. Parks 9, Rev. R. B. Buchanan 7, Rev. S. H. Nevils 5, Rev. E. C. Scarborough 10. These are simply a few of the many. There are others who brought only two perhaps from some poor mission point; these deserve as much credit as those who brought large lists. To add to the enthusiasm for the SOUTHWESTERN, Rev. Dr. W. W. Foster, President of Rust University, gave outright $100 to pay for 100 subscriptions for people who are unable to subscribe for the paper, the names to be supplied by the presiding elders. The entire SOUTHWESTERN force appreciates this act of kindness on the part of Dr. Foster, and it will be an inspiration and help to our brethren throughout the South. Well done, brethren of the Upper Mississippi Conference. Many thanks.

Dr. I. Garland Penn, in his usual forceful way, represented the interests of the Epworth League, and his visits are regularly looked for by the brethren. 'Twas only recently that he sent the Book Concern $1,000 for books sold during the month of December, and the way the brethren of the Upper Mississippi Conference have started him off, it looks as tho he will send in a similar amount for the month of January.

So heavy has the book business gotten, that Dr. Penn has found it necessary to take with him to the Conferences Mr. W. H. Hallion, who assists him in the book business.

Rev. L. F. White presided as the statistical secretary and Dr. M. C. McEwen presided at the Conference session on Saturday afternoon. The Conference pledges to raise this year $1,400 for Rust University.

GLEANINGS FROM THE PRESIDING ELDERS' REPORTS.

Rev. N. H. Williams, D. D., closes his fourth year on the Holly Springs district. During the year four churches and three parsonages have been remodeled; raised for benevolences, $830, and for Rust University, $50. This district is in safe hands under its inspiring leadership.

Rev. C. W. Walton closes a full term in the Aberdeen district, which is the largest district of the Conference. Each of the six years has been crowned with success, the last being the best. In many respects he made an ideal presiding elder, and returns to the pastorate with the confidence and love of all his brethren. During the year two new churches have been built and three remodeled. Four hundred conversions are reported. Six years ago the benevolent collections on this district amounted to $500. This year more than $1,100 is reported. During his administration 3,000 members have been added to the district, which would show a decrease on the account of immigration but for this magnificent increase. Indeed, his labors have been crowned with success.

Rev. J. W. Winbush heads the force of conquering Methodism in the Greenville district. Last year there were 24 appointments on this district, now there are 14. In spite of this division, the membership has been increased from 825 to 981, and the benevolences from $118 to $135. Brother Winbush is determined that we shall have success in the delta.

Dr. B. F. Woolfolk is presiding elder of the Clarksdale district, on which two churches have been built, one, at Shellmound, a splendid structure 60 by 40 feet, with a tower 60 feet high; three churches have been ceiled; four new points organized; conversions, 159; raised for Rust University, $131; raised for the benevolent causes, $400. Although this district is only one year old, Dr. Woolfolk has proven that the creation of it was wise and bids fair to become a strong addition to the Conference.

Rev. W. C. Clay leads the forces for evangelization on the Tupelo district. His men are loyal to him and believe firmly in his leadership, and for this reason presented a most excellent record for the year. Two churches have been built, one costing $1,500, the other $1,200. Two other churches are in course of erection, while money is being raised on several charges for building purposes; conversions, 400; benevolences, $975; Rust University, $197.

Dr. T. W. Davis has closed his third year as presiding elder of the Starksville district, much to the credit of himself and the satisfaction of the Conference. A survey of the work for the year shows that 1,282 souls were converted; $900 raised for the benevolent causes; $2,000 on building and indebtedness; $163 for Rust University; 28 students sent to Rust University; 208 subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. The reports show for three years, 2,756 conversions, and $2,259 raised for benevolences.

Rev. S. H. Nevils is presiding elder of the Greenwood district. Eight houses of worship on the district have been so changed that they look as if they were newly built. Four parsonages have been remodeled. One new church has been built, which will compare favorably with any in the Conference. Conversions and accessions, 300; $120 for Rust University.

Renewals are coming in, but we haven't yours. Renew at once.

Mrs. Hannah Augusta Dexter Godman, wife of Rev. Dr. W. D. Godman, passed away to her heavenly home on the 8th of January. With her last consciousness she smiled and murmured, "The Lord Jesus Christ." Dr. Godman and his daughter, Miss Inez Godman, have the full sympathy of their many friends in this section of the country. The present address of Dr. and Miss Godman is 129 Hillsboro street, Raleigh, N. C., where they will be for some time.

Personal and General

Dr. H. Roger Williams, a most successful practicing physician of Mobile, Ala., and a loyal member of our church, called at our office last week.

Mr. A. Rosenberg, who has been connected with our New York house passed through the city last week enroute to Shanghai, China, where he goes to take charge of our publishing interests.

Dr. H. N. Brown, presiding elder of the Marion district, Mobile Conference, did us the honor to call at the SOUTHWESTERN office this week. He had been to Amite, La., looking after business interests.

Rev. J. N. C. Coggins performed the ceremony at the marriage of Miss Mamie Underwood to Mr. George Prince, Wednesday night, January 18th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hurd, of Birmingham, Ala.

The Book Committee holds its annual session for 1905 at 150 Fifth avenue, New York, Wednesday, February 8; opening session at 10 a. m. The Eastern and Western sessions hold separate meetings the day preceding, at 2 p. m., in same place.

The Bishops' Spring Conference, which is announced to meet on Wednesday, April 26, 1905, has been changed from Foundry Church, Washington, D. C., to Trinity Church, Louisville, Ky. Subsequent to the Bishops' Conference, in New Haven, where the place of the spring session was fixed, it was arranged for the General Committees to meet next fall in New York and other Eastern cities, hence the Bishops being members of these General Committees, it will be more convenient for them to hold their Conference in the East next fall instead of the coming spring. In view of the facts the churches immediately concerned consent to the change from Washington to Louisville.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward G. Saunderson, of St. Paul, Minn., and the Rev. and Mrs. Owen I. Truitt, of Tremont, Ill., new missionaries for Southern Asia, sailed from New York on the steamer Zeeland, Saturday, January 14. Dr. Saunderson is a member of the Minnesota Conference. He has been officially connected with the Anti-Saloon League since 1899, and since 1901 has been associate editor of its official organ, The American Issue. He will be editor of The Indian Witness, with headquarters in Calcutta. Mr. Truitt is a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University, class of 1902, and a member of the Central Illinois Conference. He goes out to become pastor of the English-speaking church at Rangoon, Burma.

Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell left New York on the steamer Lucania, Saturday, January 14, returning to the field over which he has episcopal supervision. He will first visit Liberia and, at the request of Bishop Scott, will be present at the session of the Liberia Conference, at which Bishop Scott will preside, meeting February 17, at Sinoe. From Liberia Bishop Hartzell will proceed to the East Coast by way of Cape Town, and will give several weeks to examining the Methodist Missions in Portuguese East Africa and Rhodesia. After holding the East Central African Mission Conference at Umtali, he will return to the Maderia Islands to look into the work there. Thence he will proceed to Angola to hold the session of the West Central Africa Mission Conference and to give some time to studying the needs of that portion of his field. His trip thus far will have occupied about a year, so that he will reach Liberia in time for the session of the Liberia Conference early in 1906. Bishop Hartzell will be absent from the United States about a year and a half, unless there is some urgent reason for his return before that time. Previous to his departure the Bishop had an interview with President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay, and received letters addressed to the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States located in Portuguese territory, and a letter instructing the United States Ambassador at Lisbon to secure for him an audience with the Colonial Secretary and, if possible, with the King of Portugal, all in the interest of Methodist Missions and to further the success of our work under the Portuguese flag.

INCUBATORS.

The time for hatching chicks for the early market is now at hand, and we should lose no time in getting the incubator in order. The first broods should be hatched out by February 1, so that they will be ready for market by the middle of March, the time when they will be in demand at from $6 to $8 a dozen. If you have never tried an incubator you will need to study closely its workings, but they are in no way complicated and require only common sense care in order to make them do the work. The most trouble will follow after the chicks are hatched, for it is then that we must not for an hour neglect them. A slight chill, even, may cause the chicks to get sick or at least to check their growth, and at a time when we are hustling them for an early market this is very serious.

Use only good brooders and good, reliable lamps that will maintain a uniform heat; feed regularly, not much at a time, but often, so that the chicks will always appear hungry at feeding time. Keep the brooder thoroughly clean; do not crowd too many together, and the percentage of loss should be small.

Grit should be given chicks with their first food, because nature has not provided any means of mastication for them, and it should always be kept scattered on the floor so that they can supply themselves at will. Rolled oats or oatmeal make the most economical, but after a few days a variety should be given. Another very important thing to remember is that the chicks must be made to take exercise by scratching. This they must do, and will not remain healthy unless they do.—Home and Farm Journal.

The keeping of 200 hens on a ten-acre farm would not interfere with growing full crops of corn, potatoes or grass, and by adopting a system of soiling a small dairy, say four cows, might be kept on ten acres in connection with poultry growing. The cows would furnish manure to keep a part of the land in a very high state of cultivation, and the skim milk given to drink, used to mix the dough or made into curds for young fowls, would furnish excellent food for them, If one or two acres of land could be devoted to potatoes, all unsalable ones would make good chicken feed. Just to what extent any one should go into poultry, or kinds they should keep, each one must determine for himself. In some cases it will pay best to keep only one kind of thoroughbred fowls, and sell the eggs and fowls for breeding purposes, but this will require some skill in advertising and care in breeding. The most successful poultry growers of my acquaintance keep pure Plymouth Rocks, and also breed turkeys, ducks and geese.—Michigan Advocate.

Literary Notes

The Living Age in its initial number for 1905 is up to the standard of culture, breadth and timeliness maintained by that admirable eclectic for more than sixty years. Sidney Low's article on "President Roosevelt's Opportunities" is reprinted from The Nineteenth Century and After, and "The Voyage of the Baltic Fleet," by a distinguished writer on naval affairs. The Spectator's comment on "The Increase of lawlessness in the United States," apropos of a recent article in McClure's Magazine, will be found in The Living Age for January 7.

To the average person who regards the spectacle of the race-track with considerable equanimity will come as surprises some facts which David Graham Phillips marshals in an article in the January Cosmopolitan.

"There is not a horse that is the better for any purpose but short-speed spurts because of the race-tracks; there is not a penitentiary anywhere that is not the fuller by from thirty to seventy per cent. because of race-tracks and pool rooms. There is not a man anywhere who owes or attributes any part of that in him which is honorable or reputable to racing."

Lippincott's Magazine sends New Year's greetings to its readers through pages filled with liveliness and cheer. Rex E. Beach writes the breeziest sort of Western tales. "The Way of Love," by Paul Laurence Dunbar, is a sweet episode of love in an Ohio village. With education in the Philippines so much in the foreground, the tale by Marvin Dana, entitled "Cargo on the Venus," carries a special point. "The Culture and the Care of Palms," by such an authority as Eben E. Rexford, answers just the questions people ask.

The American Boy for January ought to make the boys' mouths water. Besides a lot of stories of adventure, etc., there is a page of the editor's talk, under the title of "Just Between Ourselves;" a page on "Boys as Money Makers;" a page on "The Indian Boys of Carlisle School," and another on "Yarns by Old Sea Dogs." Three columns are given to "The Drawing Room Magician." This number contains number five of the messages of the Governors to American boys, being that of Governor Cummins, of Iowa. 69 illustrations in all. $1.00 a year. A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

Let me say to each pastor on the district, don't fail to look after every department of the work of your charge; plan for the raising of your benevolences in the first part of the conference year. Don't fail to solicit subscribers for the Southwestern. Brethren, be faithful to your calling and success is yours. As ever, your brother, R. A. Swan, P. E.

NOTICE.

To the Preachers of the South New Orleans District, Louisiana Conference: Please come to the Annual Conference, which convenes at Monroe Jan. 25, prepared to pay for the Minutes of 1904, and also bring two yearly subscriptions each for the Southwestern Christian Advocate.

W. R. Butler, P. E.

NOTICE.
ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

The train that leaves New Orleans at 7 a. m. makes connections with the Iron Mountain here for Monroe at 5:40 p. m. The preachers of the Alexandria district will meet at the Newman Memorial Church on Monday, Jan. 23, at 8 p. m. Others interested are invited to be present. We leave for Monroe Tuesday morning, Jan. 24, at 5 o'clock. W. J. M. Price, N. R. Randolph, M. P. Franklin, E. C. Gains, E. Hutcherson.

NOTICE.

The Florida Annual Conference will convene in the city of Ocala, Fla., Feb. 2. Reduced rates have been secured by me from the Southeastern Passenger Association agent for all attending this meeting, on the following conditions: If there be more than fifty persons traveling by the certificate plan, reduced rates will be given; if less, they will not be granted. Therefore, I ask all the preachers, though you have your permits (and since it is no cheaper with them) to get a certificate, because unless every preacher in the Florida Conference does so, there will not be fifty persons otherwise holding certificates, and hence we cannot secure reduced rates. Each minister reading this notice will please announce the same to their friends and all persons interested.

Jos. M. Deas, Sec. of Conference.

Field Notes.

Rev. D. F. Dudley, Pastor of St. Paul M. E. Church, Hattiesburg, Miss.—My revival was a success. Twenty young men and women joined the church and the membership greatly revived. On the first Sunday in our rally we raised $155.87; paid off our church debts. Sister E. Dean led. She raised $40.10; Sister Mary Hailes, $16.50; Rosa McIntosh, $12.75; other tribes collected $10; none less than $5. I thank each and every one for their liberal contributions. The Rev. C. W. Thomas, of the First Baptist Church, preached a noble sermon on our rally day. May God continue to pour blessings upon him and his congregation. I have been at this station five years. When I came here I found neither church nor parsonage and about 60 members. But we began work and now have a church worth $2,000, a parsonage valued at $1,500 and owe but $100. We will leave on record 200 members and a fine Sunday school, one of the best in the district. I have been able to secure a graveyard for our people and also a large public school. Now, my work here is about finished and I have lived in peace with all the people. I thank them for all they have done for me. May they grow in grace and in the love of God. I also hope every subscriber will renew and as many new ones subscribe as possible by the 16th of January.

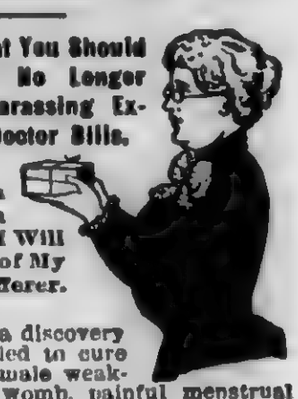
G. W. Logan, Abbeville, Miss.—We have an earnest, Christian presiding elder and pastor at this place and we hope that the Bishop will return our worthy presiding elder and pastor to the same field of labor. Our pastor has been with us for some time but we do not want to give him up because he is yet doing good and is loved by all here as a pastor and a Christian gentleman.

C. E. Alexander, Pastor, Murfreesboro, Tenn.—We are highly pleased with our return to this work and the people also seem glad. Our reception was the grandest of its kind we have ever seen. Mrs. Simmons, with more than a dozen others, set before all the pastors and their families a grand repast of ten or twelve courses. It was indeed a most enjoyable occasion. Thanksgiving was a great day with us. Service at 11 a. m. An entertainment, conducted by Mrs. Dr. J. B. McClellan, was a successful affair, realizing nearly $20. The new presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Smith, was given a great ovation. The people seem delighted to welcome into this high position a boy who was born and reared in this town. Our collection for the day was $31.17; for the quarter, $134.03. We paid the elder in full. The official meeting on Monday night was attended by all of the officials, who presented written reports. Since the election of J. M. Windrow as Sunday school superintendent of Key Chapel, the school and choir has taken on new life. We have had five additions to our church, all good, useful Christians, and are on the upward move on all lines. The Senior and Junior Epworth Leagues, too, have been set on foot and are moving on nicely with the indefatigable Mrs. Dr. J. B. McClellan at the head. Our prospect for success is bright. Our church is the banner church in the district for benevolences and otherwise.

B. W. Robinson, Pastor, Handle Circuit, Miss.—The quarterly conference convened promptly at 3 o'clock on Dec. 15, with Presiding Elder J. C. Hibbler in the chair. All conference members were present with written reports, which showed the work to be spiritually alive. Paid the elder in full for the year and gave him $7 on a suit of clothes. Paid the pastor this quarter $80. Raised for all purposes, $133. Sacrament was left over for the pastor to administer. There were 70 communicants. This work is but two years old, but it is alive and moving onward nicely. With the divine help we intend to make a round report at this coming annual Conference.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.



WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

I Cure Women
OF FEMALE DISEASE AND PILES

I Will Cure You So That You Should Stay Cured—Women No Longer Need Submit to Embarassing Examinations and Big Doctor Bills.

To Show Good Faith and to Prove to You That I Can Cure You I Will Send Free a Package of My Remedy to Every Sufferer.

I hold the secret of a discovery which has seldom failed to cure women of piles or female weakness. Falling of the womb, painful menstrual periods, leucorrhea, granulation, ulceration, etc., are very readily cured by my treatment.

I now offer this priceless secret to the women of America, believing that it will effect a cure in almost any case, no matter how long you have suffered or how many doctors have failed.

I do not ask any sufferer to take my unsupported word for this, so will send you some of the medicine free. If you will send me your name and address I will mail you a trial package absolutely free, which will show you that you can be cured. Do not suffer another day but just sit down and write me for it right now.

THOMAS' MAGIC HAIR GROWER

is not a Straightener and has made more friends than any preparation on the market. For thin, scant hair and dandruff it has no equal. Price, $1.00. Send 4 cents in stamps for "Hair and Skin Talks," to MRS. A. H. THOMAS, 110 35th Street, Chicago, Ill.

H. H. Holburt, Spring Creek, La.—St. Mark church members and congregation are enjoying a successful season under the administration of Rev. J. C. Brown, pastor, at Lecompte, La. We find him to be a Christian man, going about in the community doing his work as a true minister of the Gospel. We venture to say that good results will follow his work, and the wish of the people is that he be returned to his work for the ensuing Conference year.

A. C. Tate, Helena, Ark.—The Rachel Thompson Memorial M. E. Church. For twelve or fifteen years efforts have been made to get a church building here, but until now they have been of no avail. Through the efforts of the present pastor, Rev. T. J. Thompson, there has been erected a comfortable and substantial building. The presiding elder held the quarterly conference in it for the first time this month.

Monroe, La.—At St. James M. E. Church, on Sunday night, Dec. 18, the Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne, presiding elder, preached a very interesting sermon, after which Mr. John Frost led the way and Prof. P. A. Cook, in well-chosen words, presented the elder a purse of $10 in behalf of the young ladies and young men and the members of the church. Collection, $19.65. Total, $29.65. One convert was received into the church. On Dec. 25 three converts were baptized at St. James.

D. G. Taylor, Pastor, Monroe, La.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at St. James M. E. Church, with Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne, presiding elder, in the chair. Every officer was present with reports showing a good work accomplished these few months by the pastor, and it is interesting to know he has succeeded, considering the condition this church was in. We are closing up and getting ready for the Conference. Conversions, forty. The finance is good.

LADIES' VICTORIA WATCH 6 size, gold filled hunting, 10 year case, engraved in an assorment of handsome scenic and floral designs, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement, 7 jewel, nickel finish, stem wind, lever set. Your jeweler would charge you from $10 to $20.00 for a watch like this, yet it is FREE to you for selling only 16 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

Which had you rather do?—Do business with a firm that does exactly as claimed, or with a firm that claims to do one thing and does another? We do exactly as claimed. Every offer and statement in this advertisement are facts. There is no "pulling the wool over your eyes." We do not describe a watch in beautiful language worded in such a way as to make you believe one thing and mean another. We state plainly the facts. There can be no misunderstanding. 10,000 agents are now selling Chief Elkhorn's Indian Wrang Tang Liniment. In another year 15,000 will be doing it. Over a million bottles have been sold through agents in the Southern States, and millions more will be sold. Agents who commenced years ago to sell it are still selling it today. We do not make a practice of giving premiuns. During the year 1905 we will only give the watches mentioned here. We do not make money when you work for a watch. We prefer that you work for the cash. If you need a watch—work for one. If you don't—work under the cash plan. Read what we have to say below, and if you then desire to join the company, send in your application for the agency--if you are not already an agent.

Here you are! A dandy, good enough and fine enough to please any lady. Ladies' 0 size, (exactly size of cut above) gold filled 20-year case, artistically engraved, and fitted with the reliable New York Standard 7 jewel movement. A watch like this is generally sold by jeweler at from $18 to $25 yet you can get it FREE for selling only 32 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

AFFIDAVIT

I, the undersigned, manager of The Wrang Tang Liniment Company, St. Louis, Mo., solemnly swear that every statement made in this advertisement, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is the truth; and further, if you accept our offer to act as agent under either the cash plan or watch plan, you will be dealt with honestly, and our promises will be kept faithfully. Yours sincerely,

W. R. PONDER, Mgr.
WRANG TANG LINIMENT CO.,

WATCH OFFER NUMBER 1 and 2.

In order to obtain a watch free under offer 1 and 2 it is necessary for you to sell 16 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $8.00. When you have sold the Liniment and sent us the $8.00, the watch will be sent you immediately. ☞ 2 extra bottles of Liniment are added to the box Free to cover express charges. Read cash offer below.

$100.00 REWARD

Will be paid if either watch as described on this sheet is not exactly as represented. When we say that a watch case is warranted to wear 10 or 20 years, we mean that it will wear 10 or 20 years before it turns brassy. If we say that the famous New York Standard 7 jewel movement will be put in the watch, we mean that it will be put in it. If you do business with us you know exactly what you will get.

WRANG TANG LINIMENT CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Watch Offer 3 and 4

In order to obtain a watch free under offers 3 and 4 you must sell 32 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $16.00. When you have sold this quantity of Liniment and remitted us $16, your choice of watches will be sent you immediately, and 4 extra bottles are added free to cover express charges.

WRANG TANG LINIMENT. Strong, Powerful, Penetrating.

It's medicine—it's not water—it's not weak. It is so strong and powerful that it goes through the skin, through the flesh and into the very bones—every drop—not a sign left on the skin—no oil—nothing. That is why it's Action is Magical. Its like Gold to Silver. A 20 dollar gold piece is 20 times as valuable as a silver dollar, yet a silver dollar is larger. It's not the size of a thing that makes it valuable. It's the Quality. One Bottle of Wrang Tang Liniment is worth 20 bottles of Water Stuff. Every drop is medicine—medicine that's powerful—medicine that's strong—medicine that's magical.

Do you know what Elgin means in watches? It means the best. Well, here is a 20 year gold filled handsome engraved Elgin case, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement. Gents size.

NOTE—The movement in each 4 watches are idenically the same, except in size. The only difference is the case. A 20 year case will wear 10 years longer than the 10 year case. ☞ You have to sell 32 bottles of Liniment to get the 20 year case.

$4.00 CASH PLAN.

For the benefit of those who prefer the cash to a watch you can accept the agency under our cash plan.

A box of Liniment contains 18 bottles, but two of the 18 bottles are added free to cover express charges. The remaining 16 bottles when sold at 50 cents each, will amount to $8.00. Out of the $8.00 you send us $4.00 and keep $4.00. Of course, when the box arrives at the express office you must advance the money to pay the express charges on it which will vary from 40c. to $1.00. According to the distance from t. Louis, but the 21 extra bottles in the box when sold will pay you back, making the express cost you nothing.

Cut out this Order Blank and return to us.

Neuralgia
And Other Pain.

All pain in any disease is nerve pain, the result of a turbulent condition of the nerves.

The stabbing, lacerating, darting, burning, agonizing pain that comes from the prominent nerve branches, or sensory nerves, is neuralgia, and is the "big brother" of all the other pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills rarely ever fail to relieve these pains by soothing these larger nerves, and restoring their tranquility.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills leave no bad after-effects, and are a reliable remedy for every kind of pain, such as headache, backache, stomachache, sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia.

They also relieve Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Car-Sickness, and Distress after eating.

"For many years I have been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and headache, and have never been able to obtain any relief from various headache powders and capsules, until I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They always cure my headache in five minutes time." FRED R. SWINGLEY, Cashier 1st Nat. Bank, Atkinson, Neb.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind

Rev. Kirtley, Pastor, Versailles, Ky.—We have just closed one of the most successful revivals ever held in this place, which resulted in 14 conversions and 15 accessions to the church and the membership greatly revived. The town was stirred as it has not been for many years. We were assisted by the gifted evangelist, Mrs. Dolley Lewis.

E. J. Harrison, Pastor Union M. E. Church, Torras, La.—Rev. H. Taylor held the fourth quarterly conference Nov. 26. Paid him in full. Officers presented reports that showed good work had been done. Rev. Taylor preached a good sermon. We, the members of Union, are heartily sorry that his time as presiding elder draws to a close. He has done so much good for us that we are unwilling to give him up. At night, to his surprise, about forty members, led by E. J. Harrison, visited him at the parsonage. A purse of $3.65 was presented him by T. J. Jackson. Other things presented him were hose, handkerchiefs and chickens.

Doings of the Workmen.

Pocahontas, Va.—A glorious and a sweeping revival of religion in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Pocahontas, Va., L. Diggs, pastor in charge, has taken place. Not since the fall of 1889 has there been such a wonderful revival in the town. In 1889 Rev. Wilson Carter, pastor then of the First Baptist Church, and myself held a meeting here in the M. E. Church, I being pastor at that time, and 118 souls were happily converted and over 60 of them joined the Baptist Church. The remainder joined the M. E. Church. I was reappointed to this charge in 1901. But the church had gone down because many of its members had moved away and the work was discouraging along all lines. For three years I have labored, together with God's help and the few faithful members, and now success has come. Have repaired our church at a cost of $568.89, and on Oct. 13, 1904, the East Tennessee Annual Conference convened in this church, and it was never better cared for at any place. In every home where our ministers and visitors stayed during the Conference session there has been from two to three conversions. The meeting began on the first Sunday in November and continued until Dec. 12, with 120 conversions. The Baptist congregation has stood faithfully by us all through this meeting. Ministers who have visited us and helped us are Revs. C. H. Hurd, J. W. Johnson and V. S. Smith of the Baptist Church; J. H. Gardner, Tiptop (Va.) M. E. Church, and Wm. Minter of the Christian Church. Additions to the M. E. Church, converts, 76; to the Baptist Church, 25. Rev. William Gleen of the A. M. E. Zion Church, a local deacon, has united with our church here. At the close of the meeting on Sunday night, Dec. 11, the sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered to 101, and 46 were baptized.

Pocahontas, Va.—Whereas, on the 11th of December, 1900, we regret to say after this great religious harvest that we have failed to be enlisted on the roll of those saved, yet feel it our duty to do something to help foster the religious cause. Therefore, be it resolved, that we (18 in number) donate 50 cents each and with this sum make the pastor, Rev. L. Diggs, of Anderson Chapel, a present of one pair of shoes and a hat.

Wm. Herman, Pastor, Escatawpa, Miss.—On Sunday, Dec. 18, the Knights of Pythias had their annual sermon preached at the M. E. Church at 3 o'clock, by the pastor. Collection for the day, $16.30, $10.40 of which was given the pastor. At 10 o'clock the Knights of Honor were with us. It was a grand day.

R. S. Stacy, Pastor, Americus, Ga.—Rev. Wm. D. Johnson, pastor of the A. M. E. Church, and his loyal followers are always ready to lend a helping hand for the advancement of the Master's kingdom. On one occasion the writer was surprised with many good things in the way of groceries; also, three public collections were raised by the pastor and stewards this year, which amounted to $20.15; grand total, $22.65. These charitable acts of Rev. Johnson and his good people will ever be remembered. May God's blessing crown their every effort with success.

Save Your Daughter

No. 126 West 28th Street,
New York City, N. Y., April 8, 1902.

Wine of Cardui has been a blessing to my home. I have often found that it was a great relief when I was weary or in pain, but I am especially grateful for what it did for our daughter and only child. I noticed that her menses were tardy and she suffered with headaches and giddiness, heaviness in the abdomen and about the loins. This seriously interfered with her studies and she had to discontinue several of them.

A visitor calling on me and discussing the matter suggested that I give her a course of your Wine of Cardui as it had relieved her daughter of a similar trouble. After my daughter had used it for five weeks I found a great improvement in her looks, health and behavior, in fact she was a different girl. The flow became regular and we have not had any difficulty since.

Lizzie N. Thompson

TREASURER, RATHBONE MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

WINE of CARDUI

Here the menstrual function had not been properly started and the unnatural condition was making the young girl an invalid. The headaches and giddiness, indicated something more than a mere temporary ailment. They were symptoms of a functional weakness which would become more and more aggravated as years went by. But Mrs. Thompson was ready to take advice for her daughter's welfare and she gave the little sufferer Wine of Cardui and now she is a well young woman.

If your daughter is sickly and frequently ailing the letter of this good mother contains the best advice you can follow.

Wine of Cardui is the menstrual regulator that cures nine cases out of every ten. Young girls, mothers and aged women find this tonic indispensable.

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

Wm. Payne, Pluto, Miss.—On the 26th and 27th of November, Dr. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., held our quarterly conference. He preached with great power from the text, "Death is swallowed up into victory." Raised for him $28; for pastor, $100. Paid the elder in full for the year, gave him a grand reception, and presented him an umbrella worth $6. His lecture was grand. Total amount raised this quarter was $154.

At the preachers' meeting assembled in Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 8, the following resolutions were read and adopted: Whereas,, we have learned with much regret of the continued illness of the Rev. S. Duncan, and, whereas, he is regarded as one of the leaders of the Louisiana Annual Conference and has served the church faithfully as a presiding elder longer than any other pastor, and, whereas, we have learned to love him for his faithfulness to duty, resolved, that we pray God's richest blessings upon him in his affliction; resolved, further, that we assure his family they have our heartfelt sympathy in this the hour of trial; resolved, further, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and to the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication. J. C. Richards, S. Carroll, J. E. Rolax, S. Green, P. C. Colton, committee.

W. R. Marbury, Pastor, Rockwood, Tenn.—The celebration of the Emancipation Proclamation at Trinity Chapel M. E. Church, Jan. 1, 1905, will long be remembered. Quite a large number witnessed the exercises. Many interesting papers were read and addresses made that left a lasting impression on the minds of the hearers. The splendid music rendered by the church choir was also a striking feature. Miss Bulah Skinner, who was organist for this occasion, spared no pains in making the best selections appropriate for the occasion. The "Old Plantation Melodies" brought joy and gladness to the hearts of those of the sixties in our midst. A collection was taken which amounted to $15.15. Following is the program: Reading of Proclamation, F. D. Edmonson; "Roses and Thorns; or, Life as Lived," Mrs. J. C. Skinner; "The New Negro Woman," Mrs. L. V. Marbury; "What Will Be the Development in the Twentieth Century?" Prof. C. H. Powell; address, Rev. C. C. Morris; address, James W. Woodlee. Jas. W. Woodlee, of Atlanta, Ga., and Rev. C. C. Morris, of Texas, were among the distinguished guests.

Kosciusko, Miss.—Brother B. Preston says concerning "The Fragments of Time Saved:" "I believe that every man, in order to accomplish much good, should put to some use every fragment of his time. It keeps Satan out of his work and out of his life; it will enable him to be firm in the Lord. During the holidays I visited the home of Brother J. P. Presley and there found that as a result of the fragments of his time, which he had used instead of idling away, he was the possessor of three hogs, or 11.72 pounds of meat."

C. D. C. Bryan, Pastor, Franklin, La.—We held our fourth quarterly conference recently. Rev. J. F. Marshall, presiding elder, was here. Most of the officers made good reports. The elder gave a very good lecture on "Raising Missionary Money" and "How to Make a Church Progressive." Such lectures by the presiding elder on every district will be of excellent help to every pastor and to members. On Sunday Rev. Marshall preached a good sermon. We have paid him every cent. The pastor is coming to conference with a good report.

F. G. Hinton, Glen Kenny, Ky.—We had a glorious revival in our town. Up to the present date (November 13), we have had twelve conversions, and the prospect is good for as many more. The religious condition of my work is good. The presiding elder is paid up in full and all things look bright for a good report at the next annual conference. Pray for us.

They Live in Our Memory.

Spring, Texas.—Sister Mary Silos, one of the faithful members of St. Paul M. E. Church, died in great peace Friday night, December 16. She leaves a husband and four children, two sisters and a host of friends. The funeral service was largely attended.

R. V. Doakes, Pastor.

New Orleans, La.—Mrs. Martha Lewis, aged 20 years, was buried from Asbury Chapel, January 5. The following ministers assisted the pastor in the service: Revs. R. Boyd, S. Williams, N. Burton, S. Doizer and Bro. F. Charles. Sister Lewis was baptized by Rev. D. G. Taylor in 1900. She was the daughter of Brother J. Nevils, a local preacher of Asbury.

A. B. Harris, Pastor.

La Grange, Ga.—Sister Julia Whitefield departed this life on Monday, December 5, after a few days illness. The deceased was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitefield. She was a model young girl and dearly loved by all who knew her. She was a faithful member of Union Chapel M. E. Church, and died in full triumph of the faith. The funeral service was attended by G. H. Lennon, pastor.

Gray, La.—The daughter of Rev. T. A. Brown, of the Louisiana Conference, died January 2, in the city of New Orleans. Her remains were brought by her mother to this place for burial. She died in the Christian faith, leaving parents and sisters to mourn her loss. The funeral was conducted by Revs. Julius Benn and Wm. Rainy.

Fort Stephen, Miss.—Bro. Allen Tinsley, one of the oldest members of Hope Well M. E. Church, died December 12, aged 90 years. He leaves a wife, two daughters, five boys, many grandchildren and friends. Sister Jane Holiday, a faithful member of Ebenezer M. E. Church, died December 21, leaving a husband, two little children, father, mother, sisters and brothers, besides many friends. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, R. B. Anderson.

Hemphill, Texas.—Sister Carra Buckley, 56 years of age, departed this life, after two years' illness. She joined the M. E. Church early in life and lived a good and faithful member until her death. She leaves a husband, two daughters, five sons and a host of friends. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. Parham, assisted by Rev. A. W. Home. Interment was in the Macedonia cemetery.

Morrilton, Ark.—On November 15, at Center Ridge, death entered the home of Mr. Jesse Gaylard, and took from the circle the devoted wife and mother. Tho two sisters, a husband and ten children survive Sister Gaylard, her loss is keenly felt by her two blind boys. Also, Sister Amelia Blackman was called Home. She said all was well. L. G. Hodges.

Maysliek, Ky.—William Bell, a faithful and honored member of our church for thirty-five years, died at the age of sixty years. He was a good husband, a kind father and a devoted Christian. D. McFarland, Pastor.

Marksville, La.—On Dec. 28 Mrs. Emmanuel Carrolle died suddenly. Her remains were taken charge of here by Rev. J. D. McCain; afterwards they were taken to Boonesville and buried by Rev. C. H. Monroe. On the 28th of December, Mrs. Eliza Gelo died. Her remains were buried from the St. John Baptist Church. Rev. J. D. McCain and A. L. Holmes conducted the services. Lillian McCain.

THE ATTRACTIVE GIRL.

Much has been written about "the American girl" and her reasons for being preeminently the most attractive girl in the world. In bringing up girls mothers can't be too careful to let their daughters develop all their natural charms to the utmost

The crucial epoch of a woman's life is the change from maidenhood to womanhood It involves the whole body and manifests itself in the nervous disposition at this time

Nervous or sick women are afforded the opportunity of a lifetime, for the makers of Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription now offer $500 reward for women who cannot be cured. Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Mrs. W T Mappin, of 134 Straton Street (So. Macon), Macon, Ga., writes: "I will try to let you know how thankful I am to you for your advice. I have taken eight bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and four of Golden Medical Discovery' When I began taking your medicine I had given up; had been in bad health for almost five years and had been treated by the best doctors in Macon. They all said I had womb and ovarian trouble. I suffered untold agony every month and often wished that I could die

"I am still taking your medicine. I know that your medicine has saved my life and I can never praise it enough Words cannot express my gratitude I will never forget your kind advice."

As a tonic for women who are nervous, sleepless, worn-out and run down, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled

For constipation, the true, scientific cure is Dr Pierce's Pleasant Pellets Mild, harmless, yet sure. No other pill can compare with them.

Field Notes

E. F. Carter, Pastor, Cookville, Tenn.—Recently during a short illness of the pastor, the steward sisters, mindful of his comfort, gathered together a crowd that filled the parsonage. Led by Sisters M. E. Bartlett, Katy McClellan, Phœbe, Betty and Millie Buck and others, they filled our table with a large number of choice pounds, for which we return our sincere thanks.

Rev. J. C. Guyton, Pastor, New Hope, Mo.—Our third quarterly conference was held Nov. 19-20, with Rev. Wm. McCuthen, presiding elder, in the chair. The elder expressed himself as being well pleased with the work accomplished. Jennie Kemper was chosen secretary. All officials were present, with written reports. The business of the conference was smoothly conducted and all reports were good. Sunday at 11 a. m. the elder preached a delightful sermon, after which he sprinkled a large number. At 2 o'clock the Lord's supper was administered to 104 communicants.

G. H. E. Fields, Bellville, Tex.—Our new pastor, Rev. W. E. Hutcherson, has been with us twice since the annual Conference and his many friends here were glad to meet him. He has begun his work by adding one member to Jackson Chapel M. E. Church. Jackson Chapel had a Christmas tree on Christmas Eve. The committee spared no effort to make it a success. Mrs. S. C. Fields, Miss F. C. Mathis and Mrs. M. Carter composed the committee. The presents amounted to $45.25. Old and young were made happy. Our pastor, after two weeks' stay with us, returned to Bryant to make arrangements for moving to his work here.

BEAUTIFUL FACE LOSES ITS BEAUTY WHEN UNADORNED WITH A HANDSOME HEAD OF HAIR. GLOSSINE is a true hair food, and consequently a true hair tonic, which feeds, invigorates, vitalizes, permeates, fertilizes, resuscitates, enlivens, and stimulates the bulbs, glands, oil sacs, follicles, adjuncts, and roots of the human hair. When the plant is withered, sickly, drooping, and dying, we give it water ere it die. Just so should we apply GLOSSINE to the harsh, unsightly dropping, dying hair, for on this principle of common sense was GLOSSINE formulated by one of America's most noted pharmacists—not from lead, mercury, bismuth, and other mineral poisons, but from vegetable and botanical products only, which can work no injury to the human hair. Cupidity and the desire for quick wealth have tempted many people, ignorant both as to pharmacy and chemistry, to sell to the people so-called hair tonics, which (on account of their low price) contain mineral poisons, the immediate effect of which cause the hair to grow quickly, but whose certain end is falling hair and a bald head. There is only one safe course to pursue—use only on your hair an absolutely guaranteed vegetable remedy for the hair, such as GLOSSINE really is, which can only do good, and work no injury. Which is the cheapest to buy, GLOSSINE, a genuine, meritorious hair tonic at a moderate price, or a worthless, hair-killing nostrum at a penny? GLOSSINE cures all diseases of the hair and scalp, and gives to the hair length, lustre, life, vitality, and beauty. It makes the hair grow quickly, thick, long, and luxurious; covers all bald spots; gives to it that beautiful, shiny gloss (from which it takes its name), and causes the hair to grow so long and so soft that it can be dressed with ease and as you please. GLOSSINE makes the hair soft, wavy, straight, glossy, and gives to it a texture as fine and pliable as the softest silk. Price for large box, 50c.; price for the complete treatment (3 large boxes), only $1.00. We pay all charges.

NOTE.—Many druggists may try to sell you something else, on which they make more profit, or because they may not have GLOSSINE in stock. If your druggist cannot supply you, send the price, with your name and address and name of dealer, and we will send same promptly, prepaid.

E. H. Forrest, Clinton, Tenn.—We have just closed one of the most successful revivals in the history of this place. During the two weeks thirty-two souls were converted, the greater number of whom were 50 and 60 years of age. The pastor is under many obligations to Presiding Elder Webber, who was with us for one week, and rendered most excellent service. This is Brother Webber's first year on the district, but he is holding the reins with the skill and ease of a veteran. He is an honor to the church, and an inspiration to the people.

We have just received a lot of S. S. Notes and Handbooks for 1905. They are better than ever. Send orders to this office.

Orders for Sunday School literature and supplies for the First Quarter of the coming year should now be sent in. Send here.

NOTICE TO THE PREACHERS OF THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Brethren—I have made all arrangements for accommodation and reduced rates over the S. P., T. & P., V., S. & P., M. V. and the St. Louis Iron Mountain on account of the Louisiana Annual Conference to be held at Monroe, La., Jan. 25-Feb. 1. Rates have been granted on the certificate plan. Therefore, please pay full fare and get a certificate; don't use your permits. If you want to help our friends and members who may wish to attend, do so by using the certificate. Buy tickets Monday at St. Charles Hotel. The T. & P. Company will have a chair car at the depot of this city at 5 o'clock p. m., on the 23d inst., for all who desire to leave on that date. Train will leave here at 6:35 p. m., reaching Monroe the next morning about 9 or 10 o'clock. The fare going will be $8.70; returning, $2.90.

C. W. REEVES, R. R. Secretary.

TO THE PREACHERS OF THE ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Dear Brethren—As I shall not be able to attend the conference this year, I hope every brother will do his best to bring in excellent reports. Let this be your best year. May your conference session be crowned with glory. I wish to thank Revs. T. B. Cooper, H. James, H. Wright, L. J. Johnson and congregations, and Rev. C. W. Reeves for their contribution of a few weeks ago.

S. DUNCAN.

At Wesley Chapel, Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, preached for the Ladies' Progress Benevolent Society a very instructive sermon which was enjoyed by all. The Society collected $12.05; total collection, $34.71.

Rev. W. F. Waters preached an able sermon Sunday morning at Williams Chapel. At 3 p. m. the King's Daughters rendered their monthly program. Sermon by W. Fisher. At 7:30 the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, preached. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN.

The fourth quarterly conference of First St. M. E. Church was held on the 11th inst. The session was well attended. Presiding Elder W. R. Butler was in his usual good mood and said many helpful things. The reports from the pastor and officers showed that matters were in good shape. At the close of the business session, Mr. T. M. J. Clark read a splendid paper congratulating the administration. Mr. Nevile Smith, one of the oldest officers in the church, introduced a resolution which was read by the secretary, asking for the return of the pastor, Rev. J. A. Tircuit. The same was adopted. First Street will go to the Annual Conference with her full apportionment. The Sunday School alone has given more than $40 for Missions and Education.

At Pleasant Plains, Saturday night, December 31st, watch meeting was well attended. Special sermon by the pastor, Rev. G. A. Payne. Extra good attendance New Year's Day and an excellent sermon that evening by the pastor. Collection for day, $9.00. Rev. Payne extends many thanks to the committee and friends, of which Sister E. Voltz was chairman, for a pair of $3.50 shoes. Also to the Helping Hand Aid Circle for a $2.50 hat, which was presented by Brother H. S. Williams.

Rev. L. C. Thomas, our pastor at New Roads and Morganza, desires to inform the brethren of the Louisiana Annual Conference that he is now fully recovered mentally and physically. He wishes the conference a successful session and requests that his name remain on roll. He regrets very much that he was unable to carry out his work this conference year.

Grenada, Miss.—Mr. Samuel M. Morgan, of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Adelia D. Patterson were united in marriage, at Vincent M. E. Church, December 26. The bride is an active member of the M. E. Church, was one of our Sunday school teachers and also a teacher in the county. The groom is an industrious young man. E. C. F. Troupe, the pastor, officiated.

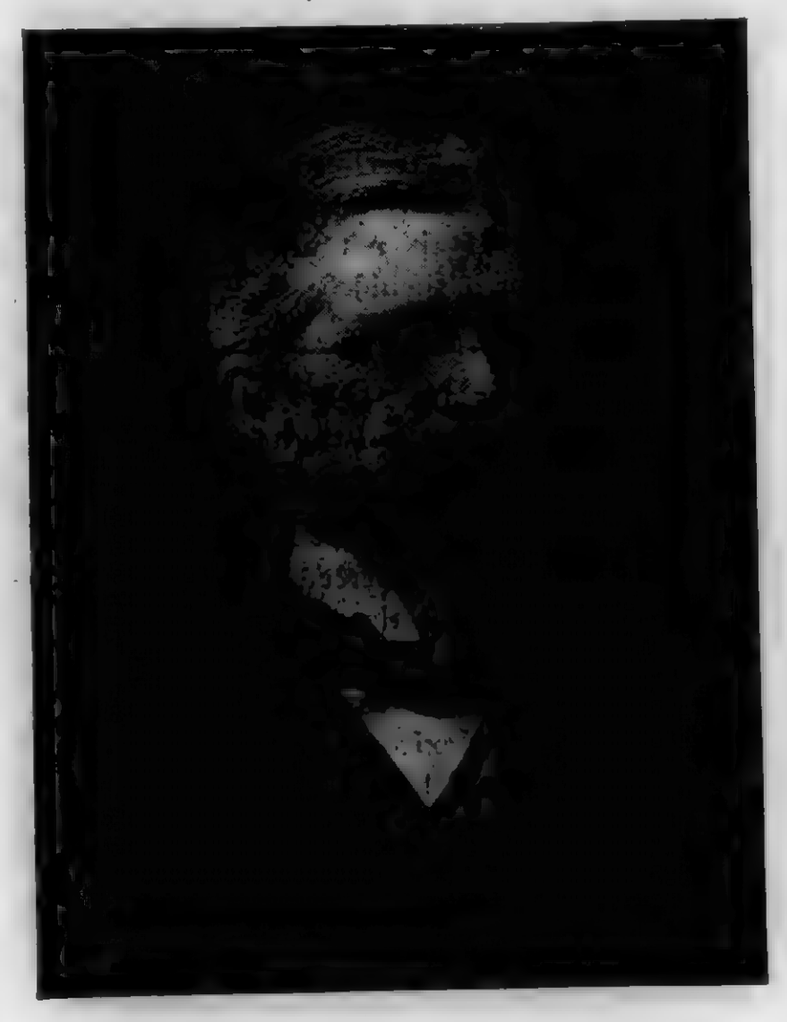
The Upper Mississippi Conference throws down the challenge to all the other Conferences. It intends to lead. What Conference says it shall not?

The Czar of Russia and the entire Imperial family narrowly escaped death last week. In the firing of a salute a load containing grape-shot was landed on the chapel where the Czar and the official family were engaged in a religious rite. Whether this was a plan to assassinate the Czar or not, it shows evident carelessness, and likely enough the intent of some one to show his disapproval of Russia's tyranny.



The impeachment proceedings against Judge Swayne of the United States District Court of Florida, has attracted attention throughout the Republic. He was appointed to the Judgeship in 1871 and charges preferred against him contain twelve specifications. Among the specifications, the following are to be found: Appointing improper persons, his creatures, as commissioners; showing partiality to friends; guilty of oppression and tyranny; maladministration of bankrupt cases; discharging persons guilty of crime; ignorant and incompetent; charging the government $10.00 a day for expenses while the real cost of living was only $3.00. The case excites interest because it means a cleaner judiciary and the conviction of a man who has abused the privileges of his high office. The House has adopted the articles of impeachment and the same has gone before the Senate for action.

The Fall River cotton mill strike has been settled as a result of the mediation of Gov. Douglas of Massachusetts. The 25,000 strikers go back to work under the 12 1-2 per cent. reduction of wages against which they struck last July, leaving the entire matter to arbitration. Both the employers and the employees are satisfied with the outcome. The strike was called on July 25th, 1904. Seventy mills were shut down, silencing 2,517,450 spindles and altogether 26,000 employees were thrown out. It is estiamted that the mill men lost $33,000 a week, making a total during the strike of $726,000; while the loss in wages for the same time reached a total of $5,900,000. The strike, however, was conducted without violence or bloodshed and the usual amount of lawlessness that characterizes strikes. In this respect the Fall River strike is unique. Governor Douglas, having the confidence of the laboring classes, at the same time being a capitalist of considerable wealth, was in a splendid position to handle the strike, which he did, not only to the satisfaction of the people of Fall River, but the people throughout the country.

REDUCTION OF SOUTHERN REPRESENTATION

This question challenges considerable attention, both because it concerns the representation of several Southern States in the national Congress and also, because it is generally regarded as an offset for the elimination of the Negro from politics.

The Chicago platform upon which the Republican party was overwhelmingly continued in power this last fall, contains this plank:

BISHOP WILLIAM F. McDOWELL,

President of Little Rock Conference Which Held Its Session Last Week at Fordyce, Ark.

"We favor such congressional action as shall determine whether by special discrimination the elective franchise in any state has been unconstitutionally limited, and, if such is the case, we demand that representation in Congress and in the electorial colleges shall be proportionately reduced as directed by the Constitution of the United States."

Congressman Crumpacker leads the agitation for the reduction of Southern representation and is the author of a bill that has that end in view. Agitation also comes from other sources. There are many who believe it is unfair and out of harmony with American principles for one representative to be seated in Congress by the choice of two or three thousand votes, while another representative, with no more congressional power, is seated by the choice of thirty or forty thousand votes. Again there are those who think that the Southern States that have deliberately eliminated the Negro from politics should be punished and hence favor the reduction of Southern representation as the punishment. Again, there are many Negroes who believe that this method of procedure is their political salvation, and thus this question has attracted considerable attention.

A recent press dispatch quotes President Roosevelt as having said to Judge Thomas G. Jones of Alabama: "I am opposed to any legislation to cut down the representation of the Southern States in Congress and the electorial college." Doubtless the President is correctly reported. Whether the statement is his or not it voices our opinion. We do not believe that it is best for the country nor do we believe that it is best for the Negro that representation in the South should be reduced. In the first place, it will revive the spirit of sectionalism, and should the measure be passed, it would be done only after a very bitter debate. The Negro does not want, nor is it to his interests to have the South penalized. What the Negro does want is the rights of his citizenship guaranteed and protection in the exercise of his citizenship.

If Southern representation is reduced, then the Negro would be shut out of politics entirely and perhaps permanently. What he would hope to realize in the punishment of the South would never mature. Let it be said here that all self-respecting men, and this includes a large per cent. of Negroes accept a qualified suffrage, but we most emphatically denounce the grandfather clause and charge that the suffrage laws are unfairly administered. Be it remembered that the motive that prompted the enactment of the suffrage laws in the South was elimination of the Negro from politics. Not only was it the plan to eliminate the ignorant and shiftless Negro, but by intimidattion and embarrassment prevent Negroes who are duly qualified, from exercising to right of suffrage. There are many Negro voters, in country districts, who have education or property, and in many cases both, who refrain from voting for the sake of peace, but the Negro can not accept his de-citizenship. He can not yield his part in this government of the people, for the people and by the people without being a traitor to the flag under which, notwithstanding all his sufferings, affords him the best opportunities for development of all the flags of the world. If there are those who would reduce the Negro to serfdom politically, the Negro can not submit without resenting every encroachment on his manhood and citizenship with all his soul in every honorable, legitimate and withall, every peaceable way. In the solution of all the problems that concerns the race, the Negro must be considered. We do not believe the Negro will gain anything by the reduction of the South's representation, on the other hand, he may lose much. We believe Congressman Crumpacker is a sincere man and hence every Negro should

What the Freedmen's Aid Schools are Doing for our Sunday Schools.

By E. M. Jones, D. D., Field Worker of Sunday School Union.

Sometime ago, the French government selected and commissioned one of its best scholars and statesmen to visit America and to study our American-government and its institutions, that he might discover the secret of the greatness of our country. This Frenchman came to our shores and began his investigation. He had the honor of meeting the president of the United States and several members of his cabinet; he held conference with several of the State governors; he visited several of our leading colleges and universities and was the honored guest of many commercial and social clubs. He had ample opportunity for his study of American life.

After his visit and thorough investigation he returned to his government and made a remarkable report and said some remarkable things and the most remarkable thing he said was, "That America was safe because of the splendid and magnificent work that was being done in training the youth in morals and religion by the American Sunday Schools."

About sixteen millions of Americans open their bibles at the same place and study the same lesson every Sabbath morning.

This, in the judgment of the French diplomat, gave safety and stability to our American life and furnished the key to America's greatness.

While this is true, it is also true that to a very large extent the Sunday Schools are dependent upon the common schools, academies, colleges and universities for trained and competent teachers and officers to do this noble and important Christian work.

Our Schools Furnish Sunday School Officers.

Especially is this true in our southland. Our Freedmen's Aid schools, which decorate the South, are furnishing, not only ministers for the pulpits, but superintendents, teachers and officers for our Sunday schools.

And some of the most proficient and successful superintendents and teachers in our Sunday Schools are graduates and students from some of our schools. This is as it should be: These schools are light houses of the South and from them must go young men and women as ministers, missionaries, teachers and leaders of the masses. They have had superior training by competent professors and it is expected that wherever these students go in the cities or towns or far away in the country places, they will be found as officers in the church and leading our young people in the Sunday Schools and Epworth Leagues. It is not always thus, I am sorry to say, but it should be so.

Their thorough training and opportunities in our colleges naturally put them in the lead and thus qualify them to manage our Sunday Schools and Leagues more successfully than those who have not enjoyed such privileges.

Our Greatest Hinprance.

Our greatest hindrance is the lack of better qualified men and women to do religious service. In many of our Sunday Schools and Leagues we are not getting the best results because of the want of educated officials.

Too many of our Sunday Schools and Leagues have incompetent superintendents and presidents. This is the best we can do in some places therefore, there is nothing to do, but to keep them until we can do better. But be it said to their credit, they have done what they could and God has blessed the work of their hands and will eventually reward them for their faithful service.

Here is a large and important demand that must be met by our Freedmen's Aid Schools. And this is a splendid piece eof Christian service our schools are rendering the Sunday Schools by giving them year by year more qualified officers to train the youth in the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Aggressive Evangelism at the Presiding Elders' Convention.

J. P. Brushingham

The Presiding Elders' Convention, at Wheaton, Illinois, was a great meeting in spiritual work. The Holy Spirit fell upon the assembly from the very first session. God must have visited the man's heart who made the suggestion to combine Evangelism and World-wide Missions. When the Commission planned the first meeting, in Boston, in connection with the Missionary Committee meeting, and voted to meet similarly one year hence, they had in mind the compatibility of these two great ideas. Evangelism is neither local nor provincial. Not America, for Americans, but America for Christ, and the world for Christ, through the help of God. This was Bishop McDowell's thought in that soul-stirring address. Every one present must have felt that God was near in that hour fraught with far-reaching spiritual results.

The feeling of the writer was no doubt shared by many, that Dr. Henderson's fine phrase, "Spiritual Statesmanship," was not without realization in our Methodism of the great Central West. Let it be remembereed that the most enthusiastic response to the trumpet-call of Aggressive Evangelism, since the last General Conference, came not from America, but from across the sea, and from Mexico. Evangelism did begin at home, and should begin at home, but it need not remain and should not remain at home. Evangelical religion is never at home, holding a reception, but is out, always out, to win souls for whom Christ died, and Christ died for all souls. Protestantism is the church typically American, Methodism, if true to its traditions, should be worthy and ready for spiritual leadership in a campaign of Protestantism for world-wide Evangelism. What next? We have had our Conventions, our essays, our schools of methods, a vast deal of valuable and necessary talk, and, best of all, we have been waiting upon God in general and in special days of prayer. What remains? "That we perform the doing of it." Let every man, woman and child in Methodism, proceed at once to win the spot where God has placed him or her. Wait for no man, Bishop, Presiding Elder, pastor or evangelist, but begin in Christ's name, with a tactfulness born of promised wisdom from on high, to lead some one, yea, to lead many, to the place where they may be "bound with chains of gold around the feet of God." We rejoice in consecrated leadership, but there will be no wide-spread triumph, until the people have a mind to definitely work for their own households, friends, neighbors and churches.

Bishop Mallalieu, through the blessing and help of God, during the last seven days of 1904, and the first day of 1905, preached six times, made as many other public addresses, conducted several altar services, and saw a goodly number commence a Christian life, assisted in receiving 50 into the church on probation, wrote more than a hundred letters, and raised $600 for our work in the South.

Thrifty Negroes

By Prof. C. H. Moore, A. M.

The following excerpt clipped from the New York Sun, under date of the 30th ult., will be very gratifying to the friends of the Afro-American, and doubtless interesting to those who are disposed by nature, and more so by practice, to expose to the limelight his "down-sittings" rather than his "uprisings."

"If you are laboring under the impression that the Negro race in this city is not a thrifty lot," said an officer of the Union Dime Savings Institution, "come around to our bank some day and watch our depositors. It will surprise you to see the number of colored folks who deposit their savings there. A large proportion of our depositors are Negroes. Our bank has the bulk of their trade, probably because it is so near the Negro colony."

The above information is not news to some of us who are identified with the race, and who are inclined "to saw wood and say nothing." That the Sun, however, has seen fit to notice this fact —well, it must be so. For "when you see it in the Sun you may know it is true," has become a stock expression.

Many of the enemies of the colored people, who do not take time to thoroughly investigate for themselves, seem to take great pleasure in parading before the public the laziness and the thriftlessness of an unfortunate people.

While we are ready to admit that there are entirely too many improvident and shiftless members of the race, yet it is a fact that the Negro of this country leaping forth into the sunlight of liberty forty-two years ago to date, scarcely owning the rags upon his back, with only the clear blue sky above him and the green grass beneath his feet, has since accumulated over $900,000,000 in real and personal property, not to mention his holdings in United States bonds and in other securities, and this by no means represents all of his earthly possessions, for he has aptly learned the lesson taught him by his "brother in white," that it is not always prudent "to give in" to the tax lister all he owns.

Greensboro, N. C.

"The Higher Critics' Bible or God's Bible."

Rev. George H. Trever, Ph, D., D. D.

The above is the title of a book from Dr. W. H. Burns, of Chicago, with an introduction by Bishop C. C. McCabe, and recently published by the Methodist Book Concern. Price $1.25. The title suggests the author's conviction that the Bible of the Higher Critics is not God's Bible. As Dr. Burns says, the book is not meant for technical scholars, but for busy pastors and inquiring laymen. The author has evidently read widely and with earnestness upon the subject; has not been convinced by the critics; does not hesitate to say no in vigorous style is willing to be dubbed a back number if need be, whilst contending for the faith; and writes in straightforward, virile, perspicuous English.

The main contention of Dr. Burns is that Higher Criticism should be treated like old German Rationalism, as an enemy. Is he right? That would depend, of course, upon his definition of "Higher Criticism." If by that term we mean the honest, earnest, reverent attempt to ascertain by literary and historical observation, the age, authorship and historical connections of the Biblical books, then Higher Criticism, as Dr. Burns himself allows, may be a friend to Christianity, not a foe. But the author gives his own definition of the thing he attacks and offers some historical justification of his use of the term. To him "Higher Criticism" means that negative, destructive work of such men as Kuenen, Wellhausen, Graff, and their English and American imitators, a criticism which had its birth in a dislike of the supernatural, which reaches, in the main, results which overthrow the belief of the centuries, and which proceeds upon assumptions and applies methods that are through and through infected with the virus of the old rationalism. Well, certainly the old world leaders of this movement can not by any stretch of charity be called friends of evangelical Christianity.

The author enunciates a principle which we believe merits more attention than it has usually received. It is that should a theory account for all the known facts of Israel's history and of the Bible itself, that would not prove the theory true. It must be shown that similar critical principles applied to other history and other books will yield true results. But as Professors Green and Mead have shown, and as can be plainly shown by analyzing Burns' poem "To a Daisy," the principles commonly applied by criticism to the Bible lead to false conclusions when applied to productions whose authors we know. Further, not only should a theory account plausibly for the known facts, but before we are asked to reject all others in its favor, it should be shown that it alone can account for the facts. For a long time both the theory of Newton and that of Huyghens seemed to account for the facts of light. But an experimentum crucis at last revealed the truth. Some crucial fact may be discovered yet which will show clearly whether the "traditional" or the "critical" view is correct. Meanwhile, let the critics be modest.

We are ready to say for ourself, with Dr. Burns, that the arguments of the radicals do not convince us. They have so often changed their hypotheses, they have adjusted and readjusted so much, they drag in so many conjectures, redactors, interpolations, etc., they seem to take such delight in finding mistakes and contradictions, that too often their work reminds us of the advertisement over a wood worker's shop.

In the chapter on "Reducing the supernatural to a minimum," the author forcibly and justly combats the naturalistic spirit of the leaders of the critical school; shows the drift of the whole negative conclusions, and points to some who have slipped so easily down the toboggan slide of negations that they see in the great Messianic hope of Israel little more than they see in the British belief in the return of Arthur, or the German expectations as to Charlemagne or Barbarossa. We think, however, that it is not well to drag our Lord's sacred person needlessly into these controversies. Especially should we refuse to let ourselves be lured into the fogs and bogs of Kenotism.. The whole question as to what was involved in the incarnation leads us into such deep mysteries that it is best to leave it entirely out of discussions like this. Whether Christ spoke in a popular way as to the Old Testament, as he did about astronomical facts, without attempting to forestall investigation, is a different matter. But the very least we can do is to listen reverently to his words upon every subject; carefully weigh his statements; insist that his statements, popularly spoken or not, throw the burden of proof heavily upon those who dney their prima facie meaning, and be careful not to adopt any theory that tends to undermine his authority. That gone, everything is gone.

Dr. Burns strongly argues that on such ooze and sand as the methods and results of negative criticism leave us, a permanent system of religion can not stand.

The chapter on the "Residuum" merits prayerful reading, and after weighing well its statements, many will no doubt feel with the author that a Bible which the critics leave us, a thing "of shreds and patches," seems to have "lost for the most part, its historicity, its intellectual security, its moral perfectness, its spiritual vividness, its doctrinal worth, its supernatural quality, and its divine, authoritative character."

One of the best chapters in the book is that which deals with the defective methods and unassured results of criticism. We believe that the first decisive battle will be fought out over the canons and methods of Higher Criticism. Today these are being vigorously assailed even by some who have been in sympathy with the new school. We believe that the lesson of the Cairene Ecclesiasticus manuscript and the story of Meinhold, and that the attacks of men like Sayce, Hommel, Margoliouth, Hilprecht, Pinches, not to speak of the goodly number of Old Testament scholars who have not accepted the negative results so loudly bepraised as "assured," and that the fate of the Tübingen school should at least teach the critics modesty and silence the half-sneering epithet "traditionalist." Let us not forget that it often takes as much intellectual power and independence to resist a popular current as to be swept down by it.

We do think, with the author of this volume, that there is grave peril in making the Bible a sphere for the exercise of the mere critical faculty and scholarly dispute; that this generation is in danger of studying about the Bible to the neglect of Bible study, and that such of the criticism of the day is well adapted to undermine the people's faith and chill the heart of the church. Therefore, we welcome this book, and though, of course not agreeing with all its positions do not hesitate to commend its spirit, its purpose, its general drift, its understanding of the issues involved, its robust faith, and its spiritual love. We hope it will have a wide reading.

Missionary Methodists.

By R. L. Lee.

At this season of the year when, as a rule, there is a general moving of our people from place to place, "for better, for worse," I think that the attention of our ministers and people should be called to the fact, on the necessity of our people proving their loyalty to the church, by remaining in it, even though they should move from, or out of the bounds of their own home church.

No person is a true lover of his church who, when he moves form the bounds of his own church goes and swears allegiance to a new denomination without giving the doctrines and polity of the new church some forethought and study.

Again, who can tell but that it was God's plan in their moving, that they might be the cause of the planting the banner of Methodism in unknown parts of the country? This is, I believe, truly one of God's ways of extending His church into unknown parts of the world as well as the sending of missionary preachers and others to these parts.

Let us be "Missionary Methodists." Don't, when you move from your own "home" church, go into other sections and there withhold your membership from your own church, if it is there, because as you might say the people don't act like the Methodists where I come from. If it is a Methodist Episcopal Church it is ruled and governed by the same discipline in all parts of the world. And again, if the flag of the "old church" is not in these new sections to which you move, why carry it with you and then plant it, the glorious principles of "our Methodism."

Let us prove our loyalty to the church, brethren, by sticking to her, for what she is, what she has done, what she is doing and what she will, we believe, continue to do for us, not as a race but as a part of fallen humanity.

The ministers of our church will do well to read this to their congregations and thus possibly save to the church many of our members and thus increase the real extent of our own territory. Brethren, I know whereof I speak. Let us be true "Missionary Methodists."

transformations in three years' training. And the difference in the young women is the most marked, especially where they have been been taught in the Homes provided by the Woman's Home Missionary Society for the training of young women in domestic economy, several of which are in connection with our schools.

The work of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society is not yet done, and will not be until ample and equal educational opportunity has been provided by the Southern States.

Most Extraordinarily Successful.

BY DR. J. M. BUCKLEY.

The work of the Freedmen's Aid Society upon the whole has been extraordinarily successful. It has given to the Negroes the greatest facilities, which they have gladly improved. Its statistics, often tabulated, are exceedingly encouraging. But visits to the institutions produce an impression which mere figures cannot give. I should say, however, that the finest fruit of the schools of the Freedmen's Aid Society and of our whole work can be found in the Annual Conferences. Let any person visit the Conference of the purely Negro denominations, and then visit one of ours in the South, and he will at once be convinced of the superiority of our system to anything which the colored race unaided could attain.

I have visited many of these Conferences, and many of the schools and colleges which we have established: Clark University, of Atlanta our school at Greensboro, N. C., and in several other centres, and have been delighted with the evidence of the intelligence and broadening mental and moral character apparent.

The institutions of the whites have also vindicated themselves. No work done by the Methodist Episcopal Church has been upon, the whole, better done, more wisely done, than that done by the Freedmen's Aid Society. With the difficulties with which it has met—the remaining prejudices among our own people in the South, as well as the general spirit of the South—it has grappled, not with such an iron adherence to the fundamental principle as would have at once cut us off from all efficient work in the South, but without repudiating it or denying it.

It is to be acknowledged that some of the recent transactions have attracted adverse criticism, and those who drive our chariot in the South run along the edge of a precipice. Persuaded that they recognize the gravity and responsibility of their positions I give the Freedmen's Aid Society confidence and contributions according to my measure, exercising the right to sit in judgment upon their policy, to make suggestions to them as I have opportunity.

The Duty of Every Lover of Patriotism.

BY REV. W. W. VAN ORSDEL, D. D.

It was a great day when Abraham Lincoln issued his Proclamation of Emancipation, and thus set free the great mass of colored people.

The Methodist Episcopal Church entered this open door of usefulness, and the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society was raised as a child of Providence to assist the needy colored and needy white people of the Southland to a Christian education, thus fitting them as leaders both spiritually and intellectually to the great mass of their people. Of a truth, this society had come into our national life for such an emergency as this.

It is befitting we should observe the anniversary of the great Friend of Humanity who had the faith and courage to sign his name to an instrument of writing that meant so much to the colored race not in America only, but also of all the world and thus made a great stride in freedom to all the human family.

Now it becomes a duty to every lover of patriotism and Christian education to do what they can to further this great cause by observing this day and taking liberal offerings, giving inspiration and good cheer to this great good work.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: John 12:35. Theme: An Ancient Exhortation.

The place of an exhortation in the ministry to-day has almost been relegated to the rear of human thought and religious use. Jesus as often exhorted the people as he preached unto them. Now we bring you to one of his most fervent and striking exhortations. Jesus says: The light is with you as yet; the light will be with you only for a while, a short time, and that the light will be withdrawn, without further information. Observe the strange, plaintive exclamation in the following strong exhortation: "Walk and not cavil; make use of the opportunities given by the light, and delay not; remember how short the day is in which you have to enjoy the privileges of divine goodness; to get an interest in God's love; to enter into the joy of the Lord; to secure the overtures of sovereign mercy; to know the truth which sets free; to share the hope of heaven; to enjoy the companionship of Christ, the fellowship of the Holy Spirit, and the pity of the Father. Regard the awful warning in this vehement exhortation, lest the darkness arrest you, the source of light be taken from you, and ye be left to wander in the darkness of despair and wretchedness for ever. Note the truth in this unique exhortation. Here we are taught that those who walk not while they have the light, will, and must be forced, to walk in eternal darkness that, if men believe not in the light, they shall be left to perish in their sins, and never be forgiven. How miserable must be the condition of that man, whom the Lord of light and life deserts and leaves to himself, to wander all alone in the darkness, folly and misery of his own wicked heart! He that is destitute of the light of the gospel, who knows nothing of its discoveries, its blessings, its promises, its invitations and its directions and instructions, goes aimlessly through life into endless death.

Unheard Prayers

Some prayers are lead. They fall directly to the earth. There is not even a hearing for them. These are the prayers made without thought or meaning. If our prayers are not worth our own attention, we can be sure they are not worth God's attention. Our national government sets a watch at its gates that no helpless, insane, or incompetent persons come in at them. We need to set a watch over our lips that no senseless or inane or incompetent prayers go out through them. If we transferred some of our anxiety that the Lord should hear us into watchfulness that we hear and heed ourselves what we pray, we might often face our greatest difficulty.—Sunday School Times.

There is one thing we must not overlook which is almost essential to a life of blessedness. It is the being frequently alone with God. We can have him with us in life's activities in any full degree only when we give ourselves suitable pause in which to think of God, to commune with him, and to let him come in and fill our souls. The time need not be long, but it should be habitual; preferably in the early part of the day when our minds are fresh and our hearts unburdened. Every one of us needs this intercourse with God, and when we get it the effect is like when one looks at the sun. You gaze a moment at the sun, and then look about you on the earth, and everywhere you see the sun. Up the street, in yonder doorway, among the hurrying people; you seem to have brought the sun down by your look, and now you see it all about you. This same thing is what happens, too, disciple of Christ, when you recognize the religious value of a quiet hour and give yourself pause to look into the face of God. By so doing you bring him down into your immediate surroundings. In the midst of the thronging people who press upon your daily life, when you enter the doorway of your office, store or shop, or duties pursue you in the home, everywhere you see God, are conscious of his presence, and walk with his light irradiating the whole horizon of your activities. Every Common Day

Every common day of our lives is clasped and jeweled with love,
The stars of night are beneath it, the morning stars above.
The peace of God broods on it, as a bird on the nest she built,
And over its weariest moments the music of hope is split.

So when my work is finished, and I go to God for my wage,
I wonder if He can give me a heavenlier heritage
Than to feel that each day that I live is clasped and jeweled with love,
With the stars of night beneath it and the morning stars above. —Ethelwynd Wetherald.

Acknowl dge the Goodness of God

And we need appreciation and the expression of it in our religious life. "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so!" sings one of the psalmists. Redemption and all implied in it is surely a gift that demands acknowledgment! God has done great things for us whereof we are glad. But how few there are of us who bear frank testimony to God's goodness and say with that other Psalmist: "I will declare what God hath done for my soul!" We have been silent and dumb when we ought to have spoken. We have hidden God's righteousness within our hearts. We have accepted the gift and said nothing about it. I want to plead with all Christian people to be honest and brave enough to make frank acknowledgment of God's goodness to them in Jesus Christ. "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so!" If you were struggling in the grip of some mysterious or deadly disease, and after many disappointments at last you found a doctor who understood your case, conquered the disease, and set you in perfect health again, what would you do? I will tell you what yould would do—you would blazon that doctor's name abroad, you would tell everybody of his skill, you would speak of yourself as a living illustration of his healing power. There is a story told of a poor soldier who was wounded in one of the numerous battles of the American civil war, and who was slowly bleeding to death, when, in the nick of time, a doctor came up and bound the bleeding limb. As he rose to go, the poor fellow said: "What's your name, doctor?" "Oh, never mind my name," was the doctor's reply. "But I want to know," pleaded the wounded man; "I want to be able to tell my friends at home the name of the man who saved me." Does Jesus deserve less at our hands?—Rev. C. H. Kelly in Northwestern Advocate.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Hannah Agusta Dexter Godman was born in Dexter, Michigan, on the 25th of October, 1834. Her father was a man of fine family and considerable means, and his children—eight in all—were brought up amid surroundings of comfort and beauty.

Mrs. Godman was the fourth child, and was always of a religious turn of mind. She was converted in the old-fashioned way at an old-time camp-meeting while still a child, and all through life held an abiding faith in her Heavenly Father that was paramount to all difficulties.

She was married when quite young to a physician, who died after six years, leaving her with one child—a boy.

After four years of widowhood spent in caring for her dying father, she became the wife of Dr. William Davis Godman, at that time Professor of Mathematics in the Ohio Wesleyan University, at Delaware, Ohio; Dr. Godman was a widower with a young daughter.

In 1870 Dr. Godman was elected President of Baldwin University, at Berea, Ohio, and after getting settled there, Mrs. Godman found her long desired opportunity to study medicine. Dr. Godman's daughter was now of an age to be housekeeper, and Mrs. Godman took her son and baby girl with her to Philadelphia, and entered the Woman's Medical College. In two years she had accomplished what usually required three, and was home again with her diploma. In 1874 her son was accidentally killed while practicing gymnastics, and her grief threatened to unseat her reason. A change of scene was thought desirable, and Dr. Godman took his wife, mother-in-law and little girl to what was then known as the Orphans' Home, St. Mary's Parish, Louisiana.

Here he left them for the winter; but Mrs. Godman became so ill that her life was despaired of, and as soon as she was able to sit up the physician shipped her north again in the care of the little girl, now nine years old, and a colored nurse.

This was in February, and although the northern air revived Mrs. Godman's strength, she was much of an invalid.

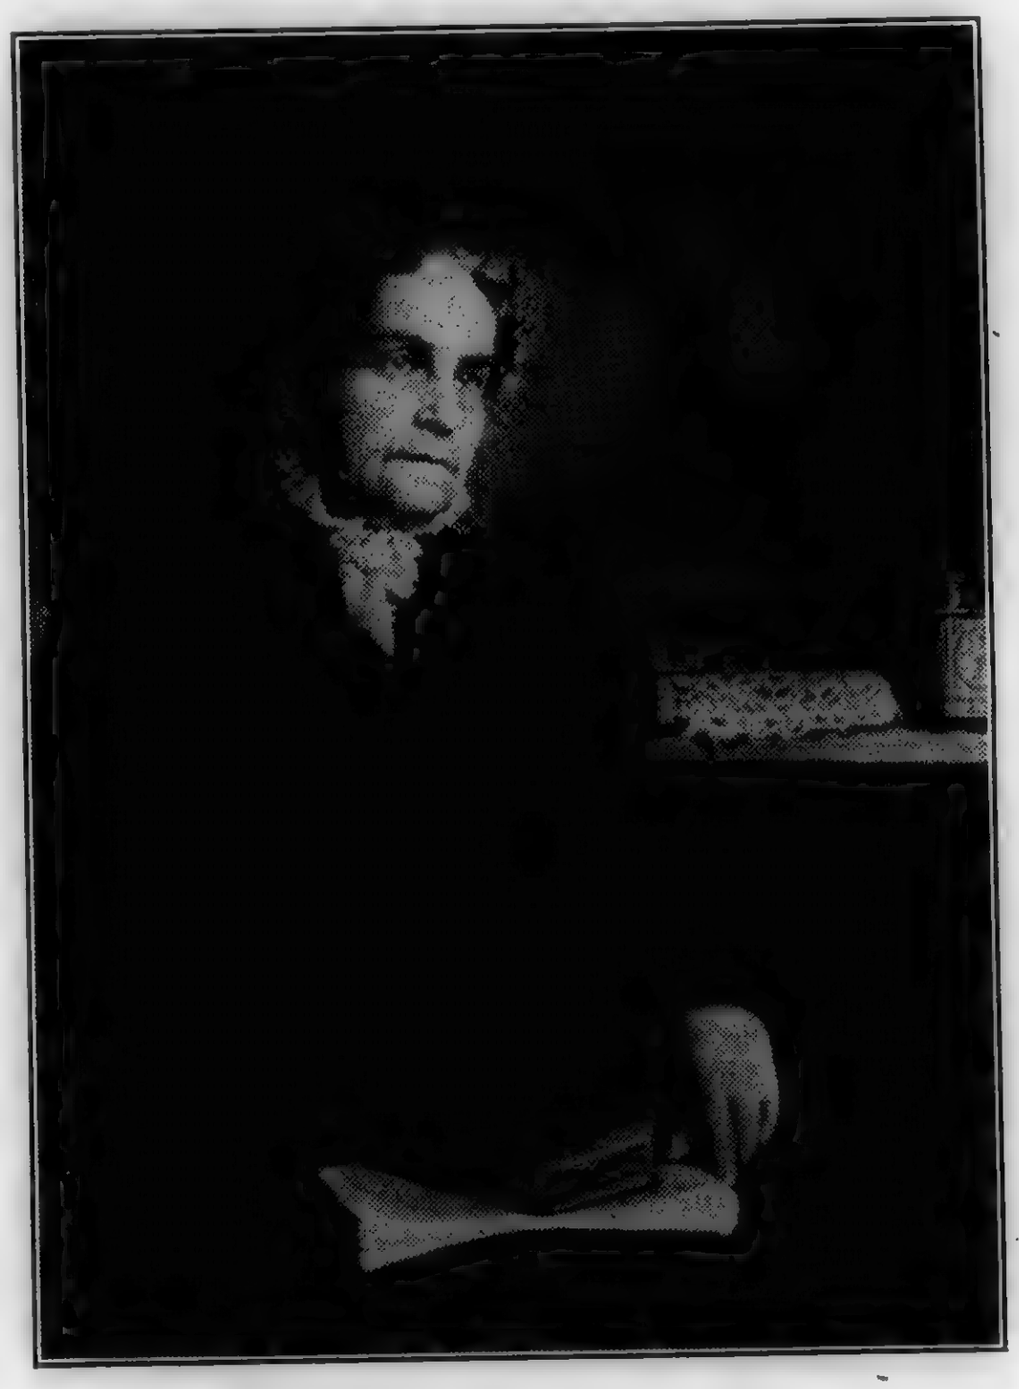
Now came what seems almost a miracle. The little woman laid her pale hands on her husband's, and said:

"Let us go to Louisiana and teach those poor people."

"Why, wife!" said the astonished man, "we are to go to Europe this summer, and I will leave you and Inie there when I return next fall. That will give Inie an early start in the languages and make a good change for you."

But one morning as they were on the train going to Cleveland, there came a telegram from the Freedmen's Aid Society asking Dr. Godman to take the presidency of the New Orleans University.

"It looks like God's hand," said Dr. Godman.



"Amen," replied his wife; "I'm with you."

He walked away to the end of the car and presently came back.

"Perhaps we had better do the unselfish thing," he said.

"My heart is with yours," was the reply; "God is in it." So felt Dr. Godman, and he was not the man to resist God's leading.

Within six weeks he had resigned the Presidency of Baldwin University, sold his home and started South. It was a wild thing to do—go back into that Southern climate just as the spring was opening, but they did it, and opened a school in the Orphanage. At once the creditors of the Institution, finding that some one was interested, began to press their claims. There was no money to pay, and Mrs. Godman threw a few things into a satchel and hurried North again. Amazement was great in Ohio when the wife of the former President of Baldwin University was seen attired in a bedraggled linen duster, hurrying from place to place soliciting aid for a country school in Louisiana. But her friends pocketed their pride, unpocketed their money and sent her back with means to stave off the threatened suits.

Mrs. Hannah Agusta Dexter Godman.

Meanwhile Dr. Godman struggled with the Southern summer and many trials and the little girl grew so pale and thin that her mother hardly knew her on her return.

That fall Dr. Godman took the presidency of the New Orleans University and remained two years, but Mrs. Godman was not content. Her heart was in the country. At last some one suggested that she could raise money to put the former Orphanage on its feet by taking singers North, and she hastened to try it. Gathering several good voices and an organist, she took her little girl by the hand and went forth. Pen and ink can never express the trials of those years. Dr. Godman resigned his position and came to help, and up and down the country they went. In snow and sleet and winter's cold; in dust and storm and summer's heat; worried about finance, annoyed by troubles among the singers, sickened by poor food and hurt by insult and slander; yet God was with them, and the debts were all paid.

Then one morning when Mrs. Godman and the daughter were in New York, and the Doctor was on business in Louisiana, the singers struck and went off by themselves.

Mrs. Godman was baffled for a bit; then she said to the daughter: "I guess we'll go down to Pa." So they did, but there was urgent need of more funds and the indefatigable little woman gathered together half a dozen children who could sing, and started off again. This time she stayed but little over a year. Mrs. Gilbert's first donation had been given and she felt that she might rest.

So they went to Louisiana to the little home that Dr. Godman had been preparing. It was delightful to have a home after such wanderings; and though money was scarce, they were very happy. The first new building was going up on the school campus, and Mrs. Godman looked askance at it. "Now, Pa," she said, "you must not ask me to go into that boarding hall."

"I never will," he replied, "You must rest." So she rested by keeping house and teaching until the boarding hall was finished, and then, because the funds were all needed for other things than a Matron's salary, she went — without asking — down the road behind their household goods into the big, bare building, and Gilbert Academy was begun.

For five years the little madam ran that boarding hall with her daughter's help; teaching in the school, overseeing the kitchen, laundry, sewing room and printing office; and as long as her little hands held the reins there was no disaster. She was the living epitome of alert watchfulness, executive ability and authority.

All these years Dr. Godman's health was failing under the stress of his arduous labors, and they were planning another home near the school. When it was built they moved gladly into it, and hoped for a peaceful old age near the scene of their labors,but it was not to be. The physician ordered Dr. Godman out of the climate and away from care, and those who knew her best realized that the little wife needed the change as much as he.

They bought a home in Philadelphia, and for a few years lived there in comfort, but Dr. Godman's health failed completely, and the daughter sold the home so that they might go to Florida for the winter. Here the dry air and warmth helped the Doctor greatly, but Mrs. Godman failed rapidly until in March, 1902, she suffered an apoplectic stroke and lost her mind.

Since then she has lived only in the past, forgetting all the toils and trials of her energetic life she has moved in memory among the scenes of her childhood and the friends of her youth. At times she suffered much, but through it all retained her merry, joking ways, and endeared herself to all who cared for her in her helplessness.

Late in the fall of 1894 she suffered another stroke, and on the 8th of January, 1905, passed to her heavenly home. With her last consciousness she smiled and murmured "The Lord Jesus Christ." The funeral service was in charge of her former pastors, Dr. Frank P. Parkin and Dr. John D. Fox. The music was furnished by a quartette led by Dr. I. W. Sutton, who was so long a member of Dr. Godman's family, and who received his first medical instruction from Mrs Godman..

Dr. Godman and the daughter went at once to friends at 129 Hillsboro street, Raleigh, N. C., where they may be addressed for a short time.

YOUNG FRIENDS

ALL THROUGH THE YEAR.

"Just to be tender; just to be true;
Just to be glad the whole day through;
Just to be merciful; just to be mild;
Just to be trustful as a child;
Just to be gentle, and kind, and sweet;
Just to be helpful, with willing feet;
Just to be cheery when things go wrong;
Just to drive sadness away with a song;
Whether the hour is dark or bright,
Just to be loyal to God and right;
Just to believe that God knows best;
Just in his promise ever to rest;
Just to let love be our daily key—
This is God's will for you and for me."

How To Succeed In Business

1. Be honest and straightforward.

2. Don't get a job through influence. No true success is built on the influence of others. Depend on yourself.

3. Do what you are employed to do better than any one else employed about you can do it. Promotion will surely follow.

4. Be interested in what you are doingg, and don't watch the clock for quitting time. Be too absorbed in your work to know the time.

5. Manual education excels for a life of business and for manufacturers.

6. Get an early start in life. Begin work as soon as you can. A boy who begins at fifteen or sixteen years has the advantage of a boy who has a college education, unless he is seeking a professional life.

7. A college education is not necessary for a successful business career.

8. Work.—Charles M. Schwab, President of the United States Steel Corporation, in Northwestern Advocate.

Live To-Day

Abraham Lincoln when asked what policy he pursued to attain success replied:

"I have never had a policy. I have simply tried to do what seemed best each day, as each day came."

"Why fear to-morrow, timid heart?
Why dread the future's way?
We only need to do our part
To-day, dear child, to-day.

"The past is written! Close the book
On pages sad and gay;
Within the future do not look,
But live to-day—to-day.

"'Tis this one hour that God has given;
His now we must obey;
And it will make our earth His heaven
To live to-day—to-day." —Ex.

Frankness of Manner

There is no more delightful trait in the young or the old than absolute frankness and openness of nature, that transparency of character which lets us see the best and worst in them, their strong and their weak points, without any effort at concealment. Everybody admires the open-hearted, the people who have nothing to conceal, and who do not try to cover up their faults and weaknesses. They are, as a rule, large-hearted and magnanimous. They inspire love and confidence and, by their very frankness and simplicity, invite the same qualities in others. Secretiveness repels as much as frankness attracts. There is something about the very inclination to conceal or cover up which arouses suspicion and distrust. We cannot have the same confidence in people who possess this trait, no matter how good they may seem to be, as in frank, sunny natures. Dealing with these secretive people is like traveling on a stage coach on a dark night. There is always a feeling of uncertainty. We may come out all right, but there is a lurking fear of some pitfall or unknown danger ahead of us. We are uncomfortable because of the uncertainties. They may be all right, and may deal squarely with us, but the trouble is that we are not sure and cannot trust them. No matter how polite or gracious a secretive person may be, we can never rid ourselves of the feeling that there is a motive behind his graciousness and that he has an ulterior purpose in view. He is always more or less of an enigma, because he goes through life wearing a mask. He endeavors to hide every trait that is not favorable to himself. Never, if he can help it, do we get a glimpse of the real man.

How different the man who comes out in the open, who has no secrets, who reveals his heart to us and who is frank, broad and liberal! How quickly he wins our confidence! How we all love and trust him! We forgive him for many a slip or weakness, because he is always ready to confess his faults and to make amends for them. If he has bad qualities, they are always in sight, and we are ready to make allowances for them. His heart is sound and true, his sympathies are broad and active. The very qualities he possesses—frankness and simplicity—are conducive to the growth of the highest manhood and womanhood.—Success.

God so loveth us that he wold make all things channels to us, and messengers of his love.. Still thyself, thy own cares, thy own thoughts for him, and he will speak to thy heart.—E. B. Pusey.

"Some persons are far too much afraid of the effect of even a little generous and well-timed praise. They would keep all their flowers in an ice house. Letting in a little sunshine upon them at times would not be amiss. How lavish was the wise and large-hearted Paul with his words of commendation, whenever they could be honestly spoken or written!"

"It is said that once when Spurgeon was seriously ill he grew extremely impatient to get back to the pulpit, saying, among other things: "If I ever preach again, I will leave out every bit of flourish and preach nothing but present and pressing truth, hurl it at the people with all my might, live at high pressure, and direct all my energies to the salvation of souls."

I doubt not that there are very many to whom, as they look through the year, it seems like some old cathedral that once was resonant with music, and radiant with altar fires, and filled with the glory of God, but that now stands with the roof broken in, with the windows out, with the altar desolate, with the priest gone, with the congregation dispersed. Look again. Turn back and see if there has been nothing in the year but the transient. Although individual histories and experiences and feelings have been fluctuating and changing, yet the great framework of God's purposes of mercy and love and justice and humanity has stood sure, and is unchanged and unchangeable.—Beecher.

The Enlarging Kingdom

Scripture Reference—Ezek. 47: 1-12.

We may well study this vision of Ezekiel contained in our Scripture Lesson. Under the symbol of moving waters—a stream flowing from underneath the sacred threshold of the temple, changing the desert into a garden, and causing the Dead Sea to abound with life, we have the kingdom of God typified.

The Source. The spring of this life-giving water was out of sight. "The fountain head was invisible but it proceeded out of the sanctuary. Its waters flowed by the altar of sacrifice; they touched it; they crossed its shadow; they got permission, as it were, to go on their way from the altar. How this reminds one of the Holy Spirit, the river of eternal life proceeding out of the throne of God. It is the imparting of the divine nature to men through the cross of Jesus. A story comes from Alaska of the discovery, back in the mountains, of a lake, the waters of which are always warm. Fish in countless numbers can be caught in the coldest weather without trouble, for the waters of the lake are never so cold but that one could bathe in them. While this wonderful body of water is hundreds of miles from the ocean and there is no apparent connection between the two, the lake is affected by the tide, suggesting that some subterranean channel may connect it with the sea. Lake Selawick is the name given to this body of water by its discoverer, Father Tosi, a Jesuit missionary, who for years has been working among the Alaska Indians in the interior. Like this warm lake in the midst of almost arctic cold, Christianity is an upspringing fountain of warmth and good cheer and never freezing hope, which will maintain its life and comfort in the midst of the most frigid atmosphere of the world's sin and despair. Because it is of God.

Its Progress. The increase in depth of the waters which Ezekiel saw in his vision is a type of the growth of the kingdom of God on the earth. Gradual and constant was the progress of these waters. Likewise has the Gospel advanced. Beginning with the two disciples whom John the Baptist pointed to Jesus, the Lamb of God, Christianity's adherents have increased until they number more than 500,000,000. There are now 1,500,000 foreign mission converts. Every nation is opened to Christ except Tibet. What an opportunity! What a responsibility! We need a growing experience. We need to go farther out than ankle-deep. W eneed to keep advancing in Christian experience until we can "swim in the waters."

Efficacy. It is worth while to notice the places to which the waters in the vision flowed. They did not wend their course to spots slightly defective and easily healed. "They flowed" into the desert and into the sea—into the desert amidst whose endless sands no streams had flowed before; into the sea, the Dead Sea, in whose sad and sluggish waters nothing which had breath could live. Thus their mission was both to supply that which was lacking, and to cleanse that which was impure. This is true of the Gospel of Christ. "There is no desert of worldliness which the Gospel cannot turn into a garden; there is no Dead Sea of error which the Gospel cannot purge of its pollution, and change in respectable life."

The alkaline plains of the American desert do not burst out into fertility unless the water of irrigation reaches them. Water is the essential condition of fertility. From the snow capped mountains whence the streams are called by the warmth of the sun, the water is conducted by the inventive skill of man into the heart of the desert. There it makes its presence known in the verdure of the meadows and in the fragrance of the garden. The grace of God is the water of life.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson VI—Feb. 5, 1905. Title—Jesus at Jacob's Well, (John 4: 5-14). Golden Text—"Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely." (Rev. 22: 17).

Our Savior after His conversation with Nicodemus in Jerusalem went into the "Land of Judeah." There He tarried and preached to the people. Many came to Him, and were baptized by His disciples. Jesus and John were teaching and baptizing at this time in the same locality, though they were not together. The region was likely in the northeastern part of Judeah. Jesus did not baptize with water, because He was the Lord. He left this work for the apostles. This caused them to feel that they had a part in this new kingdom. Soon there arose a discussion between some of John's disciples and the Jews about purifying. This argument was not over the mode, but over the design of baptism. Was the baptism of John as cleansing in its nature as the ablutions of Moses? They came to John with the question. He let them know the baptism from above was the important thing. The strife between the Pharisees and John's disciples caused Jesus to leave Judea and go again into Galilee. It is not certainly known why "He must needs go through Samaria." Probably love divine constrains Him. There was in that place a work for Him to do. If He set out from Jerusalem, which is somewhat doubtful, He likely passed through Rama, Bethel, and Shiloh. Syrhar was a suburb of Shechem. Jacob's well is about forty-five miles north of Jerusalem. It is at present about seventy-five feet deep, and about nine feet in diameter. It was now high twelve, the day was probably warm (the time was about November, A. D. 27), and Jesus was wearied with His journey. "He sat thus"—in a careless, easy way—on the curbstone of the well, while His disciples went into the city to buy bread. John likely remained with Jesus. A woman of Samaria came to draw water.

1. The modest resquest: "Give me to drink." Jesus probably had two objects in view when He asked this favor. (1) He desired to slake his thirst. He was a real man and had likely made a long journey. There was much of real life in His weariness, thirsting, and asking for water. (2) He no doubt wished to introduce a conversation that would lead to her conversion. He introduced Himself to her first as a man and a Jew (7-9); as a spiritual life-giver (10-15); as a holy prophet (1-19); and finally as the promised Messiah. Much skill is necessary to give a conversation a religious turn, so the hearers will be won to the Lord.

2. The pert answer. (1) A question: "How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me which am a woman of Samaria?" In the beginning only the tribe of Judah were called Jews, but in the course of time the name was applied to all the known descendents of Israel. The dress and speech of Jesus indicated His nationality. The Samaritans were a mongrel race, half Jew and half heathen. Their religion was like themselves, half true and half false. There is a tinge of feminine pertness in this question. It often shows wit, and sometimes wisdom, to answer one question by asking another. (2) An Affirmation: "The Jews have no dealings with Samaritans." The Samaritans were not allowed to help rebuild the temple. They had been excluded from all privileges of Jewish worship. They had done much to oppose and aggravate the Jews. Hence there was no kindly feeling between them. It hurts the Master's cause for religious denominations to bite and devour one another.

3. The assertion of Jesus: "If thou hadst known the gift of God." She did not know to whom she was talking. We should be kind and polite to strangers. We may be entertaining angels without knowing it. If she had known the person speaking to her, she would have asked of Him "Living water," that is, the Spirit of the living God. Our ignorance of the wisdom, goodness, love, justice, and power of God, often keeps us from receiving blessing from Him.

4. Jesus misunderstood. The woman supposed the living water was in the well before them. She was as slow as Nicodemus to comprehend spiritual truth. She told Him the well was deep, and He had nothing with which to draw, therefore He could not give her that "living water." Jacob was not her father, for she was as much heathen as Israelite. We do not know that he ever gave them that well. It is likely he, his children and his cattle drank of it. This woman was a Samaritan, and had all the traditions, prejudices and contrariness of that nation.

5. Jesus now led her out into the full light of His assertion. (1) "If ye drink of that water ye will thirst again." It satisfies for the present only. The world gives only momentary satisfaction. (2) "If you drink of the water that I shall give, you shall never thirst." If any one through faith in Jesus receives the Holy Spirit, he will be satisfied with it. This does not mean that religion will remove earthly demands, or that one cannot apostatize. It just affirms that the Holy Spirit will satisfy the desire of the soul. (3) Notice some properties of this "living water." (a) "It shall be in him." Not as water is in a vessel, but as electricity is in the air, pervading every part. The Holy Spirit abides in the mind and soul of man. It is back of his thoughts, emotions, affections, and directs them into right channels. (b) "A well of water:" an abundant supply. There is enough of the grace of God to supply the demands of every longing soul. There is room for every one. (c) "Springing up." The Spirit of God is active. Still water becomes foul through want of motion. An inactive Christian, if such a person can be, bears no fruit, and cumbers the ground. Religion moves out, on, and up. It constrains its possessor to take up his cross and follow Jesus. (d) "Into everlasting life:" into the higher life of the soul. The life death cannot destroy. The life that will live with God in heaven. The life that is secured by repentance, faith and consecration to God.

6. The desire of the woman's heart. (1) "Give me this water." Give me the Holy Spirit to abide in my soul, and lead me into every good word and work. (2) "That I thirst not." That every desire of my heart be satisfied. (3) "Neither come hither to draw." She had the right idea only in part. Religion will not remove all the burdens of life. The woman here realized that Jesus was a prophet, and taught the way of God in truth. She wished to know in what place God should be worshiped. Jesus decided in favor of Mt. Moriah, "because salvation was of the Jews." He also let her know the time was at hand when the temple would be destroyed, the priesthood abolished, and the sacrifices cease. The formal, cold, lifeless worship of the Jews would pass away. The faithful disciple would worship God in spirit and in truth, or earnestness.

Inferences: 1. Jesus, and the apostles, were itinerating ministers. They went from country to country, and from city to city, preaching the word. 2. They were as ready to preach the Gospel as their auditors were anxious to hear it. 3. Sometimes their congregations were large, at other times they were very small. 4. Social rank, wealth or poverty, age or youth, knowledge or ignorance, race or nationality, made no difference with Jesus. 5. Much tact is often needed to conduct a conversation into right channels. 6. Jacob's well is a striking symbol of the word of God: deep, refreshing, cleansing, life-sustaining, and abiding. 7. When we are saved, God may use us in the salvation of others. 8. The grace of God makes people charitable.

READ THIS—IMPORTANT!

The Sunday School Union is awake to the needs of the hour in this great department of Christian effort. "Forward!" is the watchword, and every good thing that will help the Sunday school worker to become more efficient is to brought into use. Nothing will be discarded simply because it is old, nor anything taken because it is new. The best is what our schools deserve. They are to be made more than ever a great educative force and at the same time the center of evangelistic fervor and power.

TEACHER TRAINING

is to be one of the special features of the coming year to help in this work. Matter will ere long be sent to the Presiding Elders, pastors, and superintendents that will aid them. Helps to plan for district Sunday school institutes, Round Table Conferences for the local church, and topics for the Sunday School Conventions will be furnished.

THE LESSON HELPS

were never better than they are now—indeed, it is not out of place to say that they were never so good. Every school in Methodism should use them. The mere matter of loyalty, if nothing more, should settle that. Reports at hand from at least 6,000 schools show that 90 per cent. do use our own. There is no reason why the other 10 per cent. should not. Let pastors and committee see to it. Good as they are, plans are being considered to make them still better.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL JOURNAL

in its new dress, as well as its contents, ought to be put into the hands of 500,000 subscribers within a year. It is to become more than ever a medium of progressive Methodism. The price is fixed at 60 cents a year by single subscription, or 50 cents in clubs of six or more, making it a marvel of cheapness. Every adult person in the Sunday school, and every member of the Home department should be a personal subscriber. Make a canvass of the field and push up the list in great numbers.

Many of our schools need help. It is hard to deny them. They must have it for a time or suffer. To meet the calls made upon us we must have an increase in the offerings for the Sunday School Union. There is no reason why the church should think of paying less than $75,000 a year. It ought, indeed, to double that and then be a very small item for a church of 3,064,735 members, and Sunday schools to the number of 32,571.

Brethren, give this cause a right of way. Tell the people what it stands for. Send for the Annual Report that will soon be issued with its fund of facts to help you in preparation. Do not put off the cause with the traditional dollar. Your just apportionment is one-twentieth the amount you are asked to raise for missions. Let us have this amount all over the church and we can do a good work. Other denominations much smaller in numbers give a great deal more than we. This is not to our credit.

If you desire to help in presenting the work, send for one of the Field Workers, or a representative from the office, and let him explain the cause and take the offering. You can secure subscription cards and envelopes from the office free if you wish them to aid you in the work. This is your interest as well as ours. Then do not slight it.

Southwestern Christian Advocate

1—All business letters should be addressed to Eaton & Mains, and all communications intended for publication to the Editor.

2—In sending matter for publication, write plainly on one side of the paper, and make your communication as short as the subject will allow.

3—When the ADVOCATE does not arrive regularly, notify us promptly.

4—Methodist pastors are our authorized agents, to receive subscriptions and collect dues for the ADVOCATE.

DEAR BRETHREN—We have written each of you asking that you bring to your conference from two to twenty subscribers. Will you do it?

Let us make this the best year in the history of the paper. Begin now. Get all the old subscribers on your charge to renew and as many new ones as you can.

Send names of all you secure so they may get the paper at once. You may hand us their money at Conference.

THE LAUNCH FUND INCREASES

The Launch Fund is still growing. Dr. A. P. Camphor sends the following hearty endorsement of the movement to secure the Launch for our work in Liberia:

"Why, most emphatically and positively I endorse the Launch scheme for Liberia, and heartily congratulate you on your enterprise in pushing the matter so persistently. You must remember that it was I who, in the Committee on Episcopacy, before Bishop Scott was thought of for Liberia and Africa, urged the election of an additional Bishop for Africa, and also that he ought to have a Launch to tour the rivers and coast, as well as be given other adequate and ample equipment for work in Africa. I rejoice to see the growing interest on the part of our own people in America, in the matter of giving Bishop Scott a Launch. He will need it to do good and effective work. Contributions, however, should pour in faster and in larger sums. Nothing less than $4,000 is needed to get the kind of Launch that will give the service required in that trying and severe climate."

A joint session of the Michigan Legislature has unanimously re-elected United States Senator J. S. Burroughs. There is not a single Democrat in either branch of the Legislature. This looks as though some other parts of the country are "solid" as well as the South.

Bishop John Bryant Small of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, died at York, Pa., January 15th. Bishop Small was born in the Barbadoes in 1835, coming to the United States in 1871 and joining the African Methodist Episcopal Church. He was elected to the episcopacy in 1896 and was held in high esteem throughout his connection.

In the recent death of Mr. W. H. Baldwin, the race has lost a friend. A memorial fund is to be raised in honor of Mr. Baldwin. This fund is to be used as an addition to the endowment of Tuskegee, to which already five gifts of $121,500 each have been received, and one of them from Andrew Carnegie and an additional gift of $10,000 from Jacob H. Schiff. The General Committee on the Memorial Fund includes the names of President Roosevelt, and Ex-President Cleveland.

REV. C. D. C. CROCKETT,
Pastor the New La Harpe Street Methodist Episcocal Church, New Orleans.

Rev. C. D. Crockett was appointed to the La Harpe Street Methodist Episcopal Church in this city at the last session of the Louisiana Conference by Bishop Mallalieu. Instead of a church he found only the ashes of a building that had recently burned. With only $221 in bank as a building fund. He set to work heroically to rebuild the destroyed building and in May appointed a new set of trustees. Brother Crockett not only succeeded in rebuilding the church but he succeeded in rebuilding the parsonage, leaving a debt of only $924.92, and all this was accomplished in the face of the fact that he had a very small and scattered membership. Brother Crockett has literally accomplished wonders, not only in the construction of the building, but in getting new life in the congregation. He succeeds because he first knows that he is right—then goes ahead.

feel grateful for his effort for their political freedom. But the plan is not expedient.

If the Souths gets, as it is bidding for, a large foreign population, then the day may yet come when the Negro, who is a true and tried American, will be needed to offset the influx of un-American ideas.

Before the war the untutored slave was three-fifths a man, and augmented his master's vote by three-fifths and as many times as he had slaves. Shall we not in all fairness after the death of slavery with forty years nearer the millinium, give the ballot to white and black, and give it to them, the black as well as the white, without intimidation or embarrassment?

We favor such congressional action as shall determine whether by special discrimination the elective franchise in any state has been unconstitutionally limited, but we do not favor the reduction of representation. This would mean the commencement of greater bitterness towards the Negro and the rekindling of sectionalism, which will not be best for the country nor best for our people. Something ought to be done but not the reduction of congressional representation.

The union of the Northern Presbyterian Church with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church may not be effected. The plan for separate presbyteries has been almost unanimously disapproved at the North. Our Church is not the only church facing the color line.

Dr. I. Garland Penn entertained recently at his home Bishop Luther B. Wilson together with a large number of friends who were there by invitation. Upon this occasion the two youngest daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Penn were christened by Bishop Wilson; Marie Hardwick and Anna Percy, having as sponsors Miss Marie I. Hardwick and Dr. John P. Wragg, respectively.

Dr. Booker T. Washington recently spoke before the legislature of the state of Kansas in the Hall of Representatives, where the legislature had assembled to hear him. Dr. Washington entered the hall on the arm of the governor of the State. There were seated on the platform besides the governor, the lieutenant-governor, all the justices of the Supreme Court of the State, the State officers, their clerks and stenographers, as well as all the State senators and representatives being present. It is said that such a demonstrattion is seldom witnessed in the legislative presence.

Rev. J. W. Robinson, pastor of St. Marks Church, Chicago, by invitation spoke recently before the Chicago Methodist Preachers' Meeting on the "Negro in Chicago." He covered the subject fully and made a great impression on the meeting. He especially made a plea for missionary work among the colored people in the Windy City. St. Marks which was only a mission itself several years ago when Brother Robinson took charge of it, is now a healthy, strong and self-supporting church operating three missions in different parts of the city of Chicago. Brother Robinson brought these facts to the attention of the meeting, and a committee was appointed to confer with Brother Robinson, and the indications are that our work among our people in Chicago will be greatly strengthened. The Preachers' Meeting has pledged not only moral but financial support. Brother Robinson is one of our most successful pastors and is just the man to lead our work in Chicago. Thousands of our people from the South move to Chicago every year, and are lost to our Methodism. We will certainly be glad if a way opens so these people are saved to our church.

It is the pleasure of the SOUTHWESTERN to bear testimony to the high Christian character of Rev. C. D. C. Bryant, a member of the Louisian Conference. Brother Bryant is the son of Rev. J. N. Bryant, one of the founders of the Mississippi Mission, and up to his death, an honored member of the Louisian Conference. Brother Bryant attended Gilbert Academy, New Orleans University and has spent several years at Gammon Theological Seminary. He was ordained by Bishop Hurst in 1883 and has served several charges. He is an active worker and is held in high esteem by his brethren.

Personal and General

Rev. S. D. Troupe desires all correspondents to address him at Oxford, Miss.

Rev. Samuel Bell, our pastor at Mandeville, La., died Wednesday, January 18th.

Miss Estella Jones, a young colored woman has been appointed postmistress at Payton, Texas.

The home of Rev. L. H. Richardson, presiding elder of the Dallas District, West Texas Conference was recently destroyed by fire.

Mr. J. A. Y. Dickens, of Sardis, Miss., visited relatives at Memphis, Tenn., recently, and enroute home spent a while in Hernando, Miss.

Attorney J. L. Jones, of this city, delivered a very instructive address last week, at the semimonthly meeting of Flint Medical College.

Ex-Governor William Clafin died at Newtonville, Mass., on January 5th at the age of 86 years. His father was the founder of Claflin University.

Rev. P. R. Crump of the Mississippi Conference, who, owing to illness was unable to attend the recent session of that body, is now greatly improved.

By the courtesy of Dr. Thos. H. Wright, proprietor of the Central Pharmacy, Shreveport, La., the SOUTHWESTERN has received a handsome calendar for 1905.

Mrs. Hartzell, wife of Bishop Hartzell, is in poor health. She will spend the winter in California and hopes to meet the Bishop in the spring at the Madeira Islands.

Miss E. Marie Carter, the noted lecturer formerly of this city, who is a representative of the A. M. E. Church Review of Philadelphia, Pa., paid our office a pleasant visit last week.

Bishop Thomas B. Neely and Dr. H. K. Carroll made the first stage of their journey to South America in less than one week, landing at Colon, Panama, Wednesday morning, January 4.

Bishop W. F. McDoweii was the guest of honor at a banquet given in St. Louis, on Jan. 10th, by the Methodist Club of that city. The Bishop delivered an address on "Various Matters."

Rev. O. S. Basketel, D. D., of the Sunday School Union, has received another promotion, and is to be connected with the New York office as superintendent of special correspondence.

Dr. Wilbur P. Thirkield, Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educattion Society and Dr. D. Lee Aultman, field agent of the Western Methodist Book Concern were among our callers this week.

By the recent death of Mr. Wm. H. Baldwin, president of the Long Island Railroad, the Negro race has lost a valuable friend. He was for many years chairman of the Trustee Board, as well as the benefactor and friend of Tuskegee Institute.

The parsonage of Brownsbury, Va., and its contents were destroyed by fire on January 5th. The total loss sustained is $400. The property was not insured. Rev. Jas. Tyler, the pastor, received the same day a subscription of $100 from white friends.

The new Meharry Auditorium of Walden University which has a seating capacity of 1,000 people, was formally opened on January 13. The address on this occasion was delivered by Dr. W. P. Thirkield. The Medical School now has an attendance of 420 and the University 750 students.

Prof. J. W. Thomas, A. M. M. D., was the recipient recently of a beautiful gold watch which was presented to him by the Freshmen and Sophomore classes of Flint Medical College, in token of their appreciation of his services. Dr. Thomas is completing his third year as instructor in this school, and is highly esteemed by all.

The name of the new home for girls at Claflin University has been changed from Grooveland Cottage to "The Louise Soules Home for Girls," in honor of Mrs. Soules, of Michigan, who contributed more for the building than any other one person.

NEWS NOTES.

The School Board of Louisville, Ky.. purpose to establish a Trades School for the colored children of that city.

More than one hundred inventions by Negroes are recorded in the patent office at Washington and more than five hundred patents have been granted by the United States to Negro inventors.

For the proposed library for Negroes at Atlanta, Ga., toward which Mr. Carnegie contributed $10,000, a site has been secured and an appropriation of $1,000 a year to furnish and sustain the institution.

Twelve scholarships to be known as the Col. Robert Gould scholarship, the endowment of which it is said amounts to fully $12,000, have been established at Tuskegee Institute by Mrs. Frances C. Barlow in memory of her brother.

In three states this year—Nebraska, Illinois and Indiana—there were no official balls in connection with the inauguration of the governors. Two of these governors are active Methodist laymen, and the third attends regularly the Methodist Church.

The revivals in Great Britain are attracting considerable attention. The churches of Wales are reported as crowded on week days as well as on Sundays. Drunkenness is now almost unknown in the Rhondda Valley, in Glamorganshire, where prayer meetings are held in the mines.

Five notable battles were fought during the conflict in the Far East, which began February 8, 1904, and in all of these the Russians suffered severe defeats. Practically 25,000 square miles of Manchuria has fallen under the control of the Japanese, and the Mikado is now the virtual ruler of Korea.

A new movemeent in our missionary work is an Inter-Conference Missionary Convention, which Dr. Trimble, field secretary, announces will be held in Sioux City, Iowa, March 7-9, with between 700 and 800 delegates in attendance. Emphasis will be laid upon "organization," and the "possibilities of the Young People's Movement."

It is stated that Mr. Whitelaw Reid will succeed Mr. Choate as United States minister to England. Mr. Edwin W. Conger will succeeed General Powell Clayton as minister to Mexico, Mr. William W. Rockhill will succeed Mr. Conger as minister to China. General Horace Porter, minister to France, will retire from that position. His successor is not announced.

The trouble which commenced as a labor strike is now a revolutionary movement which is spreading throughout Russia. In the attack at St. Petersburg on January 22, of the troops on those who went to the winter palace to present a petition to the Czar, many workmen were killed also women and children. The number slain is estimated at 500 altho no definite statement has been made.

At the invitatiton of the Governor of San Domingo, the United States has consented to take over the charge of the custom-houses of that country and the general management of its finances. The United States agrees to guarantee autonomy of the Republic, but not protectorate is assumed nor will there be any interference with the domestic administration of law in the country.

The Zion's Herald says: "The six lectures by prominent Southern educators, to be given this winter in the "Old South Work" course to Boston teachers, might well have included perhaps the most prominent authority on the subject, Dr. M. C. B. Mason, of the Methodist Freedmen's Aid work, who, with Dr. Thirkield, has charge of a chain of most successful establishments, reaching the entire South. These schools are supported by Methodism and conducted on rates so economical that the figures would startle many philanthropists. Dr. Mason, perhaps the finest orator among the colored people, could tell the Boston teachers of industrial work among the earliest in origin and most complete in efficiency; of professional schools recognized all over the land, and nowhere more heartily than in the South; and of results which give joy to men and angels. Why not ask Dr. Mason to give a seventh lecture to the Boston teachers?"

CULTIVATION OF THE QUINCE.

The uses to which the fruit of the quince are put can be regarded as too well known to need any stating. The quince tree is a small one that will do well in any good garden or farm soil, and it is a subject with a history going back to the old Greeks and Romans.

The plants which are trained in the form of a tree yield the best fruit, but on account of the doings of the borer insect it is mostly thought best to allow three or four stems to grow. Thus if one is destroyed the others are "left to take its place." Moderate pruning is called for in order to secure the best sort of fruit. "If there is an over-crop, the fruit requires to be thinned.

About three years after being set out from the nursery, the trees may be expected to begin to bear. Arrange to allow a space of from ten to twelve feet from tree to tree. There are several varieties. It is held that "no tree is more benefited by manuring, especially with vegetable manure. Salt is said to act beneficially if applied during winter. If used occasionally in small doses at a distance from the stem or stems, the fruit will not drop."

HOME A CENTER OF JOY.

Home-keeping means a study into things strange and complex, an inquiry into the greatest questions of life. Here under one roof clusters a little circle of wonderful beings—human beings. They are quite different one from another. Each has his queer little ways. Some even are thought to be most "peculiar," though if the truth were known some good cause lies underneath it all. And some are fond of this, and some of that. Yet here they must live, and live in harmony, just as colors must blend and contrast to give joy—for the home must be a center of joy else it is not really "home."
—American Agriculturist.

We are asked what to do for a horse or mule bitten by a snake. The two fangs of a snake make a double incision in biting; what is to be dealt with may thus be known. The general symptoms of giddiness, weakness and prostration go with this sort of bite. The fight against the ill effects of this species of bite is best made by giving numerous doses of alcohol, whisky or brandy. Aqua ammonia very largely diluted by water is used in like manner. The object of using these agents is to sustain life until the poison has spent its force. If the wound is in a place where the spread of the bad influence can be prevented until a hot iron, nitrate of silver or other such caustic is used, all the better. A favorite remedy here is a poultice made of tobacco leaves, and it may be used to soothe the sore after it is cauterized.

Literary Notes

BOOK REVIEWS.

"Amy Dora's Amusing Day," by Frank M. Bicknell. Published by the Henry Altemus Company, Philadelphia, Pa. Just a tale full of nonsense for the entertainment of children on a rainy day, perhaps. There are many funny incidents which are calculated to amuse children and Amy Dora's newly acquired grown-up air will especially appeal to them.

"A Yankee On the Yangtze," by William Edgar Geil. Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati, O.; Eaton & Mains, New York, Publishers. Price, $1.50 net. The charm of this book is the insight the author gives us into the life and religion of the Chinese. It is very interesting and will be found exceedingly helpful to those who contemplate mission work in China and to those who look forward to traveling through China, not excepting those who give of their means to make our mission work possible. The author pays a beautiful tribute to our missionaries in China and emphasizes the fact that they are doing a splendid work for God and the world.

Henry Francis Lyte, author of that matchless composition, "Abide with Me," for twenty years was a sufferer from consumption. During this time he was the minister over a parish composed largely of fisherfolk in a coast town of England. He labored faithfully among his people, yet he always longed to do something that would have an influence for the good of humanity after his death—a longing which found expression in a beautiful poem. The story of how this desire came to be fulfilled through writing "Abide with Me" is related in the February Delineator, in an interesting paper by Allan Sutherland, giving the history and romance of the famous hymn.

The January number of the Colored American Magazine, New York, opens up with "The Way of the World," a review and chronicle of the events of the past month, together with editorial comment: "The Death of a Noted Negro," "Afro-Americans of Letters," "Foreign Labor in the South," "The President's Message," "Two Bills on Suffrage" and "Afro-Americans in the Soudan." The special articles are numerous. "The Beginning of the End" is an editorial expression of convincing argument on the white-cap question. $1.00 a year; 10 cents a copy; 181 Pearl street, New York.

My Dear Brethren—We did well last conference year. Now for another hard year's work. Each try and excel in the salvation of precious souls; in raising benevolence, in raising funds for Rust Hall, in securing cash subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Please join the great army on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, in raising the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education collection. Easter comes on Sunday, April 23. This is our great missionary rally day. Sunday school superintendent must do his full duty. Each local preacher and exhorter must raise $2.50, the same to be reported at the first district conference. Organize Epworth League and Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies in your charge. Our watch word is "Forward." Always your brother, J. W. WINBUSH, P. E.

Dear Brothers—After one of the greatest annual conferences in the history of our Methodism, we begin our year's work under favorable circumstances. Let us pray that the Great Spirit will be our guide. Let us organize every agency of the church and put them in full working order. The District Stewards and Pastors will meet in Broad St. M. E. Church, Rome, Ga., 10 a. m., Jan. 26, 1905. Let each pastor be present. Remembering that the eyes of the great church are upon us, and that great things are expected of us this year. Let us pray for a revival in every charge, and an advancement on all lines of church work. If we begin with the year devoted to our work, success is ours. Yours in Christ,

C. W. ADAMS, P. E.

GREENWOOD DISTRICT.

My dear brethren, please begin now to lay your plans. Send for the missionary programs for Easter, April 23. Go from house to house and do your best to get every family to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN. Also have the salvation of souls heavy upon your hearts. Brethren, you must do your whole duty this year and if you will to do it you can. I am your humble servant,

S. H. NEVILS, P. E.

WEST TENNESSEE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Alimo Cir., Feb. 4-5; Dyersburg Cir., 4-5; Fowlkes Cir., 11-12; Rimbertown Cir., 11-12; Burdett, 18-19; Warren, 18-19; Molandtown, 18-19; Centenary, 25-26; Annesdale, 25-26; East Mission, 23-24; Galloway Cir., Mar. 4-5; Pleasant Grove, 11-12; Muson, 11-12; Brownsville, 18-19; Friendship Cir., 18-19; Humbodlt Cir., 25-26; Union City, 25-26; Martin, April 1-2; Springville, 1-2; Paris, 8-9; Wildersville, 8-9; Lexington Cir., 15-16; Selmer Cir., 16. Dear Brethren—As leaders we should begin with renewed energy to train the various congregations under us to move forward. I don't want you to forget Walden day, the fifth Sunday in April. Prepare a special programme for the occasion and let the West Tennessee District raise $300 and forward the same to Dr. Kumber. I want every brother to show to our president that we love the university that has done so much for us as a race. The eyes of the church are upon us; let us prove to our friends that we appreciate what they have done and still are doing for the race. Now, brethren, the entire day is to be given for the university and let nothing else interfere. I believe if every brother does his duty, instead of $300 the West Tennessee District alone could raise $500. Let me urge upon you again, brethren, do your best and success is assured.

Yours for the church,

J. A. W. MOORE, P. E.

HOLLY SPJRINGS DISTRICT.

FIRST ROUND.

Holly Springs, Jan. 27-29; Holly Springs Ct., 28-29; Byhalia and Lewisburg, Feb. 4-5; Victoria, 8; Hickory Flat, 11-12; Abbeville and Abbeville Mission, 18-19; Oxford and Oxford Ct., 24-26; Alesville and Taylor, Mar. 4-5; Water Valley and Coffeeville, 9; Duck Hill, 11-12; Elliott, 11-12; Grenada and Grenada Ct., 17-19; Hernando, 25-26; Senatobia and Como, 28-29; Sardis, 31-April 2; Batesville, April 1-2; Miller's, 8-9; Holcomb, 15-16.

Dear Brethren—We have made one more milestone in the advancement of our Christian work the past year, and God crowned our efforts with the most gratifying results. Let us go forth this year with equal hopefulness for as many conversions and as much benevolence. Nine charges made round reports. Can we not have every charge to report in full this year? Plan wisely for Easter, and push the plan. Get the dear old SOUTHWESTERN widely circulated among your people. It will help them. Strive to have full attendance in your quarterly meetings and the importance of using written reports. Hold regular board meetings at each church, for it is much to the charge that the pastor and his board understand each other.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

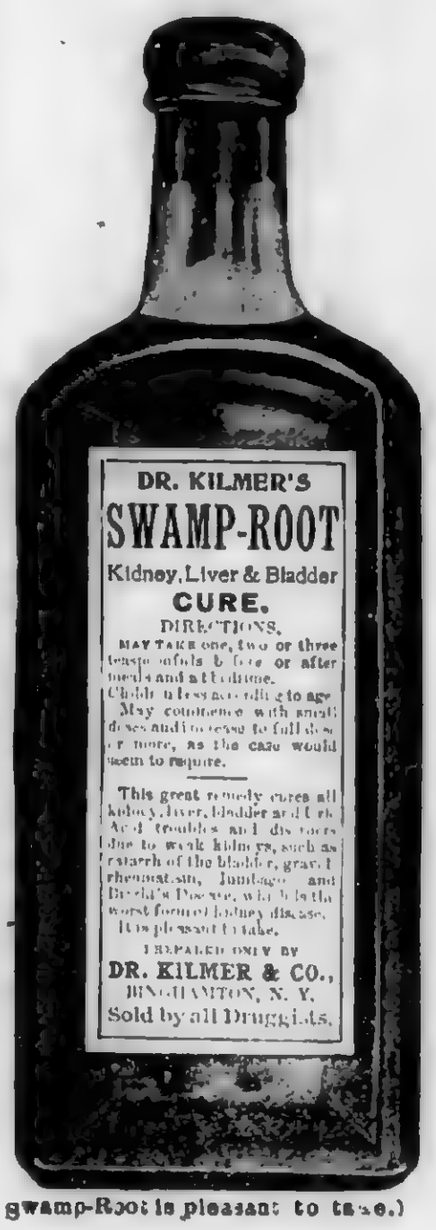
Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of Southwestern Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free by Mail.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

Didn't Know I Had Kidney Trouble.



I had tried so many remedies without their having benefited me that I was about discouraged, but in a few days after taking your wonderful Swamp-Root I began to feel better.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root, as above stated. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Gratefully yours,

MRS. A. L. WALKER, 21 McDaniel St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

How To Find Out

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in aglassorbottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

EDITORIAL NOTICE.—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases, that to Prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle.

In writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., besure to say that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

NOTICE.

All persons connected with the Woman's Home Missionary Society wishing to communicate with me concerning the society will please address me at 2924 Park avenue, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O. I am yours in Christ,

HATTIE HAHN.

NOTICE.

The members of the Board of Examiners of the Florida Annual Conference will please observe the requirements of the Discipline. You are requested to meet in the church at the seat of the conference at 8 o'clock sharp on the 31st inst. Those to be examined are to meet at the same place at 9 o'clock a. m. Feb. 1, the day before the session opens.

JEFFREY GRANT, Chairman.

CHURCH CERTIFICATE BUREAU

Many of our members from other points and especially from Mississippi are moving into Memphis, and not knowing where our churches are, drift into other denominations and are thus lost to the membership of our church In order to prevent this, a church certificate bureau has been established at 270 Calhoun street. Let all the pastors find the addresses of their members, as far as they can, who have moved here, and send the names and addresses to the Church Certificate Bureau and we'll look after them. It would be best for the pastors to give their members certifiates with the address of the bureau on them and they will have no trouble in finding our churches. Urge all of your members to get certificate before they move.

Yours truly,

M. WILLIAMS, Memphis, Tenn.

Jerre M. Lyle, Pastor, Nashville, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference was held Dec. 24-25, with splendid results. The business of the conference was conducted with perfect satisfaction. Raised during the quarter for all purposes $65; for missions, $5. Average attendance in Sunday school, 72. Epworth League in very good running order, also Junior Epworth League. The Ladies' Aid Society has been organized. Mrs. Excie Cullam is president. Additions to church, three: Southwestern subscribers, five. On Sunday night the presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Smith, preached to the delight of all. Our Nashville district is standing alone with Rev. Smith, our worthy elder, at the head. Paid him $8.56.

Doings of the Workmen.

W. McDonald, Pastor, Ardmore, I. T.—I was transferred from the Upper Mississippi Conference to the Lincoln Conference 19 months ago and stationed at Ardmore. I found an indebtedness of $380 on the church property. We've succeeded in paying every dollar due. The church is now free of debt. We found 60 members and the greater number poor and discouraged. We had two revivals, with 54 added to the church, which greatly strengthened it. As a reward for our untiring efforts the members raised on Dec. 4 nearly $100 on pastor's salary. At present the church is in a prosperous condition. We expect to go to conference with full reports. On Dec. 4 C. K. Brown, D. D., of Guthrie, O. T., was with us and rendered valuable service. This is a great country for the Negro. We hope to see them flock to these territories by the thousands to take up this fine land now unsettled. We ask the prayers of the church for the success of Methodism in the territory.

E. Williams, Reporter, Marche, Ark.—Our church work is alive, and with our leader, Rev. A. R. Ray, we will raise all of our benevolence. He is a good worker and a splendid preacher. Rev. Ray is serving his first year here with us and we do earnestly hope that he will be returned to us, for he has accomplished a great work. We have had 24 conversions and 25 accessions to the church. Have put a new covering on our church and painted it.

E. I. Powell, Pastor, Mt. Sinai M. E. Church.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 20-23, with C. D. Shallowhorne in the chair. Raised during the quarter, $65. The elder preached at night one of his soul reviving sermons. the work is spiritually and financially alive. We have paid Rev. Shallowhorne in full, $72.

Baxley, Ga.—Rev. J. W. Green came to us in 1902 and is to-day a welcome guest in every home he enters. Three years ago the M. E. Church around and about Baxley was in a dilapidated condition. The membership was at an ebb and only brave men cared to venture; yet as a bold soldier of the cross, a giant in the cause of Christ, and with such pillars upon which to commence the structure as S. H. Loftin, D. C. Cooper, Jeff Thomas and Alvis Tonney, the Rev. Green set to work with about 25 members, and the outcome to-day is astounding. Elder Green is in every respect a hustler. Profound in the pulpit, logical in reasoning, and a great financier, amid the various discouraging circumstances which have confronted him he has ever proven himself equal to the task. By his tireless singing and praying, preaching and teaching, our fold has been increased to 65 valiant-hearted souls—men and women of whom the church may rightly feel proud. It has been our misfortune for the third time to have our church here at Baxley blown down by storms prior to our present pastor's coming; but we are indeed encouraged to believe that the magnificent little edifice erected here by Rev. Green at an expense of $500, will stand the test of such storms as frequently visit our town and county. The good people of Baxley, white and black, Baptists and Methodists, know no limit to their aid when it comes to helping a good cause. Our pastor has been heard in every colored pulpit of our town to the delight of all his listeners, and, by the way, our pockets have been thrown open to him, and we have reason to believe that he feels we appreciate his presence among us. He has raised this year nearly $400 for all purposes. The spiritual strength of the church has been renewed and every indication predicts yet greater success if Rev. Green is returned, but, if not, we pray God's blessings upon him wherever he may go. Z. H. Fitzpatrick; trustees, S. H. Loftin, D. C. Cooper, Jeff Thomas, Alvis Tonney.

H. E. Erwin, Smyrna, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference was held at Lillard Chapel Dec. 17-18, with Rev. W. R. Smith, presiding elder, in the chair. Reports showed the work to be in a good condition and spiritually alive. Rev. Smith on Sunday seemed to be at his best and preached two wonderful sermons with good results. Collected during the conference, $22.55; raised this quarter for all purposes, $81.66.

Chester Cannon, Recording Steward, St. Mark Church, Baton Rouge, La.—Our watch night service was a happy one that lasted throughout the following day, Sunday. Each one expressed himself freely as a renewal of the covenant as workers in the Master's vineyard. Elder Reddix preached a glorious sermon at night. Three persons joined the church; 100 communed at the Lord's table. Collection for the day, $40.05.

J. H. Nichols, Pastor, Freeman, Miss.—We had a grand rally at Mount Zion M. E. Church Dec. 11 and raised $40.50 for the purpose of building a new church at that place. We had with us Rev. Isaiah Lewis and Rev. Allen Nichols. The people were aroused to the need of building a new church and we had a grand time. We held our fourth quarter on Nov. 18, with Rev. J. C. Hibbler presiding. The brethren were all present with good reports. Paid presiding elder his salary, $8.50; benevolent funds, $6.45, and $4.50 on his new suit of clothes.

W. H. Higgins, Presiding Elder, Helena, Ark.—Rev. T. J. Thompson, our pastor, has built a new church 24x34, in North Helena, and named it in honor of his deceased wife, Rachel Thompson Memorial M. E. Church. We have been trying to build in this town for the past 20 years. The church was erected in less than three months. Rev. J. R. Fields has also built a fine frame church at Clarendon, Ark., during the past three months. These brethren have done well.

W. S. Leake, Pastor, Mills, Miss.—I wish to express my thanks to the brothers and sisters who donated to the erection of the Industrial Hall at Rust University. The following contributed $1.00 each: E. Calhoun, C. L. Johnson, J. C. Cook, S. L. Wilkins, S. Allen, C. Johnson, J. C. Benjamin, M. B. Williams, J. Williams, R. Branch, A. Gains, C. Hefna and S. Cross, of the Baptist Church; F. Melton, 50 cents; J. Hunter, 50 cents and one for the writer. Total, $15.

Addie B. Wells, Reporter, St. Paul M. E. Church, Tinnin, Miss.—On Sunday, Jan. 1, 1905, we observed at our church "Emancipation Day." Speakers: "The Treatment and Affairs of Slavery," Father George Bassett and Bro. L. House; Essay, "Slavery," Miss Addie B. Wells; address, "Privileges of To-day Compared with Forty Years Ago," Bro. David Bassett. The pastor, Rev. I. L. Pratt, made a few remarks, after the program had been nicely rendered. We are very well pleased with our pastor.

Harriston, Miss.—This work is advancing on all lines. We have raised this year for all purposes $587.25 and will pay the pastor up before conference. We held the fourth quarter at Harrison, and paid the elder all of his apportionment. The pastor and family were very sick for three months, during which time the good members and friends stood by us. I have built one new church and added two rooms and a hall to the parsonage.

Edythe R. Hammond, Reporter, Nauticoke, Md.—The third quarterly conference of Asbury M. E. Church was held Nov. 26, with our presiding elder, Rev. J. R. Waters, in the chair. All the leaders and officers were present with written reports, which showed that the work had made considerable progress since the second quarterly conference. We have paid our presiding elder in full up to the fourth quarter and he is proud of the work. Sunday morning Rev. Waters preached a soul-stirring sermon to a large and interested audience. It was a sermon that will live in the hearts of all who heard it. The whole church seemed to be inspired all day long. At night we had an old-fashioned Love Feast. We closed the services with grand success, having six conversions. This is only the beginning of the great revival which we are working for this winter.

M. A. Johnson, Hand, Miss.—We have just held our fourth quarterly conference at Snowdon church on the Fort Stephen's work. Elder J. C. Hibbler was with us, also our pastor, R. B. Anderson. Rev. Hibbler has been with us six years, Brother Anderson two years. He has built one church at Snowdon, bought one bell and accomplished much good otherwise. We hope that he may be returned.

A. H. Banks, Pastor, Campti, La.—Rev. H. Daniels, presiding elder, was on time to hold our fourth quarterly conference. He found the church in good condition; every department of the church was looked after. Elder Daniels preached an eloquent sermon that will not be forgotten soon by those who heard it. We are closing up in good shape. Our benevolent money is in hand. The elder and pastor are paid and we are ready for conference.

I. L. Pratt, Pastor, Bolton, Miss.—We are closing our year's work with much success. Our church is to-day out of debt. In December we burned notes and mortgage amounting to several hundred dollars. Also some improvements have been made. Added 59 souls to our church. Rev. R. P. Threlkeld, presiding elder, was with us and filled his place well. Our benevolent report was good. The SOUTHWESTERN comes to many homes in this section and it it a great help to me in my work.

L. F. White, Pastor, Itta Bena, Miss.—My fourth quarterly meeting was a success. The presiding elder, Rev. J. N. Winbush, was at his best on Sunday. Collections for the day, $46.50; paid the elder in full, $20; paid pastor during quarter, $260; old debts paid except $7.50; $67 benevolence in hand; grand total during quarter, $346. The pastor left Dec. 23rd with every dollar of his money in hand. Mrs. Nellie Whitehead, a noble-hearted Christian woman, gave the pastor $5.

Tired Nervous

When you feel languid, tired, nervous and irritable, your vitality is low—your supply of nerve energy exhausted, and your system running down for lack of power,

The organs of the body are working poorly, or not at all, and you are not getting the nourishment needed. This soon impoverishes the blood and instead of throwing off the impurities, distributes it all through the body. This brings disease and misery.

Feed the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine, a nerve food, a nerve medicine, that nourishes and strengthens the nerves, and see how quickly you will get strong and vigorous.

"My wife suffered with nervousness previous to a recent attack of typhoid fever, but after her recovery from the fever, she was much worse, and could hardly control herself being exceedingly nervous when the least excited. She was very restless at night, and never had a good night's rest. She also suffered much from nervous headache. Dr. Miles' Nervine was recommended by a friend. After the first three doses she had a good night's rest, and at the end of the first week's treatment she was wonderfully improved. Continued use of Nervine has completed her entire cure."

I. J. Arnold, District Steward, Hoschton, Ga.—We had a glorious watch-night meeting which opened with devotions led by Brother I. J. Arnold and the pastor, Rev. W. M. Wimo. Sermon by the pastor, subject "Crown the old year with thy goodness." Preached with great power. A large audience filled the church, all praising God for his goodness. The pastor says our charge shall be in rank and up on all lines of Christian duties. This is a new field of labor for him. He is laboring earnestly for its success and has the support of his members and also those of Old Western Chapel.

H. R. Pinckney, Pastor, Mound City, Kansas.—The fourth quarterly conference for Mound City Charge, Topeka District, Lincoln Conference, convened in pleasant session Dec. 27-28, Rev. H. South presiding. The reports showed that the charge is endeavoring to measure up to the requirements along all lines. The elder spoke of the year's work and urged the church to be faithful and loyal in doing its whole duty. A review of the work in the Topeka District discloses a splendid showing, as the largest district in the conference. Rev. Henry South, presiding elder, has been most active and energetic. Already large property interest has been added to the work. At Colorado Springs we have a splendid new church and parsonage, aggregating thousands of dollars. At Hastings, Nebraska, where we had not a member, nor a dollar, we now have church property, and a parsonage, amounting to over three thousand dollars with a splendid territory to draw upon. All this has been accomplished this conference year. A new church has just been dedicated at Pueblo, Colo., with a bright outlook. At Fort Scott, Kansas, a parsonage has recently been secured, and all along the line the watchword is "onward," and the district has never been in better condition spiritually and financially in its history. In our write-up of Rev. H. South, in The Lincoln Conference Bulletin, we erred in saying that Rev. South served as a delegate to General Conference, several times; we intended to say that he had attended all the General Committees last November a year ago, showing his deep interest in the work of the church as a presiding elder, endeavoring to inform himself, so that he might the better discharge the duties devolving upon him.

B. M. Pegues, Pastor, Yammessee Charge, S. C.—After the adjournment of the South Carolina Conference I went directly to the Yammessee Charge, where I was assigned, and met a very warm reception by members and friends. I spent three nights on the work, preaching each night, and collected $43 for moving expenses. The first Sunday morning in the new year I spent on my old charge at Noffncy, with the new pastor, Rev. J. M. Dore, and the afternoon at Spartanburg, where Rev. J. F. Page is pastor. This is one of the finest congregations in the state. Sunday afternoon the pastor preached a most excellent sermon to a packed church. This is the beginning of his fourth year. Two persons joined the church. The Sacrament was administered to one hundred communicants. I preached at night to a very large congregation. This is a strong church financially. After raising a large collection for their pastor, they donated the writer $4. Rev. Page is a strong man of high Christian standard and has here, as well as elsewhere, won the confidence of the entire people. This church has a noble set of officers. The Sabbath school presented their superintendent, Mr. C. C. Bowman, with a gold-headed cane, as a token of their appreciation for his thirty years' service.

E. C. Atlas, Secretary, Joyce Chapel, Lake Providence, La.—We are progressing nicely and our church is now alive. Though few in number, yet, under the administration of our beloved pastor, Rev. D. W. J. Lloyd, and this is his first year with us, we have completed our belfry and finished the parsonage nicely. Every interest has been looked after, and he is doing all he can to place the thoughts of our people higher along all lines. We are proud of such a pastor, who is a safe race leader as well as a worthy church leader. Our little chapel is second to none in the northeastern part of this state. We hope for his return.

D. W. Lloyd, Pastor, Lake Providence, La.—I take this method of thanking the committee for their kindness in presenting the pastor a purse containing a neat sum of money. The presentation was by an esteemed young lady of Winterfield, Miss., R. A. Atlas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Atlas, a prominent farmer of this place.

S. B. Beauford, Pastor, Cave Springs, Ga.—On Sunday, Jan. 1st, we had a great day at this place. I administered the Lord's Supper to 68 persons. At night I had 17 to come forward for prayer. On the 7th of this month I moved my family here, and a great crowd of sisters and brothers met us at the depot with a hearty welcome to their little town. We were conducted to the home of Sisters Davis and Sanders, for the evening. The following morning I went across the country for 3½ miles to Chubb Town, where I have another strong church and a corps of able men and women. The men at this place own their own homes and from 40 to 300 acres of land. Prof. F. M. Gordon, teacher of the Deaf and Dumb School, is a Christian gentleman. He owns three or four farms here.

Joel Perkins, Pastor, Lagrange, Ky.—Our Christmas tree and program, which was conducted by Miss Nannie Van Cleves, was good in every particular and greatly pleased all. Miss M. E. Van Cleves presided at the organ and rendered sweet music. Our rally on Christmas day closed with success, both spiritually and financially. God is blessing the work that is being done here.

G. H. Lennon, Pastor, La Grange Circuit.—Our first quarterly conference convened at Louise M. E. Church, Dec. 31-Jan. 1, with the Rev. R. R. O'Neal, presiding elder, in the chair. The business session was greatly enjoyed by all present, and the officers responded to roll call with good reports. On Sunday, at 11 o'clock a. m., the presiding elder preached a soul-stirring sermon, and again at 7:30 p. m. These sermons were spiritual and intellectual treats. Collection for the day, $20.00. Mr. Steven Beasley is a very successful farmer. On a two-horse farm he raised quite a large crop of corn, 30 bales of cotton, and killed three hogs which weighed almost 1,000 pounds.

A. Roach, White Point, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference was held Nov. 5-6 at Dutch Bottom, Clark's Chapel. Our new presiding elder, Rev. W. A. Weber, preached a soul-reviving sermon on Sunday, and made a great impression upon the people. They think well of him. Paid him in full. Paid pastor $6. This is my second year on the Newport circuit. The people seemed to receive me with glad hearts. Revivals held last year resulted in two hundred and fifty-six conversions.

J. T. M. Willis, Wetumpka, Ala.—On reaching my new work here I met many good warm friends. Immediately we began to plan for a good year's work. We have a large debt on our churches at this place, but we have also some good members who are yet willing to pray, work and pay for the Master's cause. We want to raise all of our claims this year on all lines. Our members love to read the SOUTHWESTERN. My first quarter was held at New Style, Dec. 31-Jan. 1, with Elder Teague presiding. Saturday a number of the brethren were present with written reports. Sunday was a fine day; the elder preached a good sermon and the Lord's Supper was administered to 76 communicants. Collection for the elder, $16.81; pastor, $4.30.

They Live in Our Memory.

New Orleans, La.—Bro. Leon A. Vignes, a probationer of Union M. E. Church, died in great peace on Jan. 2, 1905, aged 53 years. He was a loving father and a devoted husband. He leaves a large family and a host of friends to mourn their loss. They are sustained—the God of Jacob is their stay. The burial services were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Drs. R. E. Jones, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, and A. L. Demond, pastor of Central Congregational Church, and Rev. C. W. Reeves, pastor of Williams Chapel. VALCOUR CHAPMAN, Pastor.

Franklin, La.—Bro. James Raynol, a faithful member of Asbury M. E. Church, died Jan. 10, in full hope of heaven. R. C. WORSHAM, Pastor.

New Orleans, La.—Miss Polly Brewer, aged 35 years, died Dec. 18, after an illness of about five months. She was a faithful member and Sunday school teacher of Haven Chapel M. E. Church. She died trusting in God. The funeral was attended by the presiding elder, Rev. J. F. Marshall, and the pastor, Rev. John McKee.

Fort Stephen, Miss.—Bro. Daniel Alexander, a faithful member and a class-leader of Ebenezer M. E. Church, after five days' illness, died Wednesday morning, Jan. 4. He leaves a wife and other relatives and friends. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, R. B. Anderson.

New Lewisville, Ark.—Sister Lizzie Jones departed this life Dec. 12. She was a member of the Shady Grove M. E. Church. A husband and a large number of children and friends survive her. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Lee Nelson.

WM. B. SMITH.

Bunkie, La.—Brother William Clark, a member of Booneville church, died trusting in his Saviour. He was a young man of much promise. He was shot by Alex Crocket, another member of our church. Brother Walter Dotson, a local preacher and class leader, died in peace Saturday, Jan. 7. He leaves a wife and seven small children. Sister Jeannette Carroll died Dec. 28. She was a consistent Christian. She leaves seven young children, a husband and a host of relatives and friends.

CHAS. H. MONROE, Pastor.

Shreveport, La.—Sister Dorcas Sims departed this life Dec. 30. Also Mr. Charles Lindsay, son-in-law of Brother John Clark, died Jan. 4. The services were attended by B. M. Hubbard.

Magdalene, Miss.—Brother Thomas Sims, a faithful member of Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church, fell asleep in Jesus Jan. 3. Bro. Sims was true to his church. He leaves many children and grandchildren.

J. I. GARRETT, Pastor.

Byington, Tenn.—Bro. Luther Gadson, who has been ill for many months, sank gently to rest Saturday morning, Dec. 11. He was a devoted Christian and a member of Haven's Chapel M. E. Church. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor. Mr. Harras Golaher died Dec. 18. He was not a Christian. F. A. HATCHER, Pastor.

PERIL IN THE HAND-SHAKE.

Not long ago Dr. J. N Hirsch, of Chicago, said: "The most delicate perfume upon the hands is not a sign of freedom from germs, and the most refined are not free from disease of lungs or throat, and the germs are rapidly spread by touching the hand that has handled the handkerchief of one afflicted with a cold, catarrh or consumption. The breath one inhales from the lungs of another may contain germs of disease." You will not only be able to resist the germs of consumption, but many thousands of cases have been known where persons who were suffering from incipient phthisis, or the early stages of consumption were absolutely cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It maintains a person's nutrition by enabling him to eat, retain, digest and assimilate food. It overcomes the gastric irritability and symptoms of indigestion, and thus the person is saved from those symptoms of fever, night-sweats, headache, etc., which are so common.

An alterative extract like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, will assist the stomach in assimilating or taking up from the food such elements as are required for the blood, will assist the liver in throwing off the poisons in the system.

Do not permit some designing druggist to insult your intelligence by offering you a remedy which he claims is "just as good"—because he made it up himself, or ten chances to one you will get a medicine made up largely of alcohol, which will only weaken the system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is heartly recommended by every person who has ever used it and it has stood the test of thirty-eight years of approval from people all over the United States.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

White Pine, Tenn.—The following members of our church have died during the past year: Bro. William Harris died March 19, leaving a wife and two sons and grand-children to mourn their loss. He said he was ready to ruary. Two children survive her. go. Sister Laura Harris died in Feb-Sister Sisly Lynch was called home Nov. 24. A husband, children and many friends mourn. Sister B. C. Franklin, a true Christian, passed from time into eternity Dec. 8. A husband, children, sister and borthers mourn their loss. A. ROACH.

Field Notes

E. W. Maxson, Reporter.—A grand celebration of the Emancipation Proclamation was held at the colored M. E. Church Jan. 2, Rev. F. Smith, pastor. Mrs. H. L. Vaultz, organist for the occasion, conducted the singing with credit to herself and the church of which she is a member. The following program was a credit to the race and greatly delighted the large audience. Prof. G. W. Brown and E. W. Maxson were masters of ceremony. Rev. A. J. Ready, invocation; music, "America," by audience; Mr. J. W. Winston read the Emancipation Proclamation and a paper on the subject; solo, Miss L. C. Winston; "The Fidelity of the Slaves," Mr. S. D. Snell; duet, Mrs. A. J. Ready and Mrs. Frances Johnson; "The Negro as a Citizen," Judge Joseph Graves; solo, Mr. G. W. Wingate; "The Negro as a Christian," Mrs. Aline Winston; duet, Mrs. Ida Burton and Mrs. L. C. Williams; "Forty-two Years of Freedom," Mrs. H. L. Vaultz; "The Union Soldier," Mrs. Ida Burton; music, by choir; "The Negro's Progress," Mrs. Joanna Mundy; solo, Miss N. R. Royal; "Education the Negro's Salvation," Prof. G. W. Brown; "Why Should We Celebrate the Emancipation Proclamation, E. W. Maxson; closing song, "John Brown's Body," was sung by the audience.

S. P. Branch, Many, La.—We have ceiled our church at Fort Jessup and with a few more dollars on its improvement it will be about as neat a church as any on the district. The young people have raised money to pay for a $6 lamp that is ordered for the church.

A BEAUTIFUL FACE LOSES ITS BEAUTY WHEN UNADORNED WITH A HANDSOME HEAD OF HAIR. GLOSSINE is a true hair food, and consequently a true hair tonic, which feeds, invigorates, vitalizes, permeates, fertilizes, resuscitates, enlivens, and stimulates the bulbs, glands, oil sacs, follicles, adjuncts, and roots of the human hair. When the plant is withered, sickly, drooping, and dying, we give it water ere it die. Just so should we apply GLOSSINE to the harsh, unsightly dropping, dying hair, for on this principle of common sense was GLOSSINE formulated by one of America's most noted pharmacists—not from lead, mercury, bismuth, and other mineral poisons, but from vegetable and botanical products only, which can work no injury to the human hair. Cupidity and the desire for quick wealth have tempted many people, ignorant both as to pharmacy and chemistry, to sell to the people so-called hair tonics, which (on account of their low price) contain mineral poisons, the immediate effect of which cause the hair to grow quickly, but whose certain end is falling hair and a bald head. There is only one safe course to pursue—use only on your hair an absolutely guaranteed vegetable remedy for the hair, such as GLOSSINE really is, which can only do good, and work no injury. Which is the cheapest to buy, GLOSSINE, a genuine, meritorious hair tonic at a moderate price, or a worthless, hair-killing nostrum at a penny? GLOSSINE cures all diseases of the hair and scalp, and gives to the hair length, lustre, life, vitality, and beauty. It makes the hair grow quickly, thick, long, and luxurious; covers all bald spots; gives to it that beautiful, shiny gloss (from which it takes its name), and causes the hair to grow so long and so soft that it can be dressed with ease and as you please. GLOSSINE makes the hair soft, wavy, straight, glossy, and gives to it a texture as fine and pliable as the softest silk. Price for large box, 50c.; price for the complete treatment (3 large boxes), only $1.00. We pay all charges.

NOTE.—Many druggists may try to sell you something else, on which they make more profit, or because they may not have GLOSSINE in stock. If your druggist cannot supply you, send the price, with your name and address and name of dealer, and we will send same promptly, prepaid.

Crescent City Notes

The services at Mallalieu Chapel on last Sunday were well attended, especially so at night. The collections were good, more than thirty dollars being raised. One person was received into the church. The Stewardesses were installed. The benevolences are a little in advance of last year. Peace and good will prevail and the wish of the officers and people is that their present pastor, Rev. H. J. Wright, be returned.

Services at Haven Chapel Sunday were well attended. The year's work closed with excellent results. The benevolent collection is good. Collection for the day, $30. Theodore Roosevelt Albert, the infant son of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. P. Albert, was baptized at the home by Rev. John McKey.

The Daughters of Zion had their annual sermon preached Sunday evening, at Wesley Chapel, by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. The Society collected $10.36; total collection for the day, $66.51.

The concert given recently at Williams Chapel by Mrs. A. E. Brazely was successful. The pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, takes this method to thank her and her assistants for the amount realized. Miss S. A. E. Brazely, who had charge of the programme, and all those who participated, did their work well. The fourth quarterly conference was held on the 20th inst., with Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder, present. All reports were received. Stewards' report showed the following amounts raised: Pastor, $700; presiding elder, $60; sexton, $55.30; incidentals, $44; benevolence, $114; paid on old debts, $144; on improvements, $124.40. Prayer meeting Sunday at 5 a. m., Sunday school at the usual hour. At 11 a. m. the presiding eledr and N. McNeal preached. Steward sisters' speaking meeting at 3 p. m., led by the pastor. At night Rev. Butler preached an inspiring sermon, which was well received. Thus closed in good shape one of the best years at Williams Chapel. All bills paid. Resolutions were read by Mrs. A. Howard and Master J. Obee, approving the present administration and earnestly requesting the pastor's return. Two subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Two persons joined the church. Collection for the day, $57.62.

A great convention of cotton growers and factors is in session here this week to devise some plan for relief from the prevailing low price of the staple. There was some falling off last week, though there has been little change since the big drop last month. It was 6 9-16 here on Monday.

NOTICE.

The district stewards of the Jackson district and as many of the pastors as possible will please meet at Jackson, Central Church, Feb. 9th, 1905, at 9:30 o'clock. Dear brethren, let us begin at once to do our duty, that we may have a glorious year. The Lord be with us. Yours,

J. C. HINSLER.

D. Royal, Pastor, Sayreton, Ala.—The good members of Sayreton M. E. Church began to bring in pound after pound to the parsonage until we had altogether 444 pounds of groceries. For the same they have our sincere thanks.

Field Notes.

B. J. Donnell, Pastor, Colbert, I. T.—My fourth quarterly conference was held at Atoka, I. T., on the 7th and 8th inst., by Rev. A. J. McAllister, presiding elder. The various reports showed advance in all lines of church work. The elder preached an able sermon on Sunday. He is an excellent presiding elder. His preachers and people love him. His great interest in the advancement of his district religiously and financially commends him to all. Rev. Dr. J. A. Gallon, and his estimable wife, a relative of our Rev. W. H. Gallion of the Mississippi Conference, has united with our church. They formerly belonged to the Baptist church. Rev. Gallion is a strong and influential minister. We have good reports for the Annual Conference to be held in Colorado Springs.

Rose Mack, Reporter, Savannah, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference was held by Rev. S. S. Rideout with great success, and the people were well pleased. The work bids fair for success. The reports were good.

J. B. Shepherd, Reporter, Greenville, Miss.—The young people of Revel's Memorial M. E. Church entertained Mr. and Mrs. Beall, of St. Paul, Minn., also their beloved pastor and wife, Rev. J. M. Marsh, who is about to take his departure for the Annual Conference. The affair was nicely carried out, the church was beautifully decorated and the table laden with rare delicacies. The choir furnished music for the occasion. Able speeches were made by the guests; response by the hostess. The church highly esteems Rev. Marsh and we trust that he may be returned to us for another year. We also extend to Mr. and Mrs. Beall a hearty welcome while in our city.

D. F. Turner, Reporter, Morristown, Tenn.—The forty-second anniversary of the Emancipation was duly observed in the chapel of Morristown Normal College, Jan. 2. The welcome address was delivered by Rev. D. T. Turner. Messrs. L. C. James and J. O. Walker delivered stirring addresses, which showed thought and ability. The proclamation was read by Mrs. H. R. Walker. Prof. H. J. Forrest delivered the annual oration, which was replete with the necessary information. The Professor was at his best, and had the closest attention of his hearers. The audience was large and appreciative. The music under the direction of Miss Moore was up-to-date. The Negro national hymn was sung to the great delight of the large audience. Prof. A. F. Fulton, master of ceremony.

S. Smith, Pastor, North Topeka, Kans.—The fourth quarterly conference for Asbury Chapel convened Saturday evening, Jan. 7th, Rev. H. South presiding. The attendance was good, and the business of the session was transacted promptly and in a nice manner. Elder South thoroughly understands the duties of his high office. The reports rendered showed that Asbury charge has measured up to its responsibilities for the conference year. Raised for all purposes over $1,200. The elder's claim was met in full and our benevolent claims of $50 are in sight. The Bishop Hamilton Sewing Circle of this charge is one of the best in the conference. They have raised so far $107, and have now in bank $37, which amount will be increased to $50 or more before conference. Since the Annual Conference we have made some improvement on the church; have now electric lights and the church has been papered. The Woman's Home Missionary Society has done a grand work. On the whole the charge is in a good spiritual and financial condition. We have had some accessions by letter and by conversion, and our people are endeavoring to do their full duty. Asbury charge expects to make a round report at the next conference.

C. H. Hurd, Pastor, Tug River, W. Va.—Our second quarterly conference was a grand one. The presiding elder, Rev. W. E. Mitchell, was on time and the work proved a success on all lines. We have organized a church at Welch properly, and it is in good shape. We are looking into every interest of the church. Have organized one Epworth League Chapter with a good membership, also the Woman's Home Missionary Society. We have a good people on this charge, good leaders and one good Sunday school. Raised this quarter for pastor, $51.84. For the elder, $10; on church, $6.

Catharine Boren, Reporter, Farming, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference convened in Simpson Chapel M. E. Church Nov. 12-13, with Rev. A. Phillips, presiding elder, in the chair, and a majority of members present with written reports. Sunday the elder preached two excellent sermons. Quite a number partook of the Lord's supper. Paid Rev. Phillips in full. Rev. W. D. Pellus, our energetic pastor, is one of the great leaders of our race. The young and old love him and his amiable wife. We observed Thanksgiving. Raised for missions $10.

(Mrs.) Mary Bryan, Reporter, Franklington, La.—We held a grand "Woman's Day Rally" last Sunday, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Bryan, which was a success. The tribes were represented by captains, whose names and the amounts raised follow: Dan, Esther Masters, $3.45; Gad, Cassa Ann Magee, $1.25; Joseph, Corine Magee, $4.25; Benjamin, Mary Bryan, $10.20; Zebulum, Alice Ervins, $1.25; Asher, Martha Crain, $1. This meeting was the first of its kind given here. The women wore badges and had entire charge of the whole affair. The church is alive again. Rev. Taylor, of the A. M. E. Church, preached for the tribe of Dan, and C. D. C. Bryan for Benjamin. The house was filled with the Holy Ghost. The women can do a great deal if they will only try.

Russa is threatened with a revolution. The overnment troops and the insurrectionists clash equently. Hundreds have been killed. The sorder, tho claimed to be under control, is by means quelled. Opposition to the Governent is gaining ground and perfecting its organation. It will tax the utmost strength of the ussian empire to settle its internal difficulties d at the same time face the Japanese at the ont. The Czar realizes, as well as his chief visers, that his life is in danger.

Every true American points with pride to the ung, vigorous and brave Governor of Misuri in his effort to free that State from political rruption. Governor Folk, beyond a doubt, presents the best in American life. In investiting conditions in a certain department, the ad of which had controlled $600,000 out of 00,000 expended for salaries, the Governor s asked, "Who are you for?" "For no one," replied. "Enforce the law as it stands and port to me if you have any interference from y one."

On account of the large crop of cotton, the gest in years, the South is embarrassed by a ll in price. A convention of cotton growers s held in this city last week, and a reduction acreage was determined upon. The trouble s in the fact that the man who puts his entire rm in cotton must depend upon other farms for food supply. It would be better for the price cotton and better for the farmer if the crops re diversified. This would reduce the acreage d put the farmer in better position if necessary hold his crop.

Maxim Gorky, the famous Russian author, o was arrested for attacking the policy of Russian Government and convicted of trea-, will not be hanged. Hundreds of telegrams m Europe and America pleading for mercy Gorky and intercessions from various rces have reached the Czar and he has nged his mind with reference to the sentence this Russian author. So much for the rela- that exists between the nations, and an evince that the nations are coming closer and ser together, so that opinion is to be respected, n tho it be that of a foreign nation.

President Roosevelt has transmitted to Conss a message urging that means be provided the collection of statistics on marriages and orces in the United States. A glance the laws of the several States and rritories confirms the contention that it hard to maintain a strict divorce law a State while an adjoining State grant divorces for so many reasons. For tance, the divorce laws in Oregon, Nevada Utah are more lax than the laws in other tes, and residence for divorce in these States only six months is required. We see the wis- of the President in urging uniform action in matter of divorce.

GOOD MORNING

The hand shake, the smile, the word of greeting, how much they mean to us all. How dreary life would be without them. Have you ever thought of this? To arise in the morning and to begin the toil of the new day with no word or look from anyone; to go from place to place to mingle in the busy throngs of men and women with none to take you by the hand or speak to you, this would be unbearable. In the home, at church, on the street, to be ignored, passed by, treated as though you had no existence, how barren and empty and joyless would life under such conditions be. We make this suggestion. The next time you shake hands with a fellow man, put something of heart into the hand shake. Look him in the eye with the frank and honest glance of a true frined and let your soul smile into his. When you wish him a good morning, or inquire as to his wellbeing, make him feel that there is at least one man who is genuinely interested in him. When Christ is in the heart his love and kindliness will be in the handshake, the smile and the word of greeting.

RESULTS COUNT

The world admires the individual who can accomplish something. He who flinches in the face of difficulties and hesitates when opposition is his will not command the patience and sympathy of the anxious throng that wait to see something accomplished. The man who does not bring something to pass certainly has a very small place in American life. If he is a man of plans he must be able to work his plans. The characteristic of Mr. Roosevelt that has won for him a warm place in the heart of the American people is that he has the ability to make plans and the strength to execute them. This is equally true of Booker T. Washington. Whatever else may be said of Mr. Washington, he has accomplished much that makes for permanency in the uplifting of our people. In addressing an audience of colored people Mr. Washington said: "There is still doubt in some quarters as to the ability of the Negro, unguided, unsupported, to hew his own path and put into visible, tangible, indisputable form the products and signs of civilization. This doubt cannot be much affected by mere abstract arguments, no matter how delicately and convincingly woven together. Patiently, quietly, persistently, through summer and winter, sunshine and shadow, by self-sacrifice, by foresight by honesty and industry, we must reinforce arguments by results. One farm bought, one house built, one home sweetly and intelligently kept, one man who is the largest taxpayer or has the largest bank account, one school or church maintained, one truck garden profitably cultivated, one patient cured by a Negro doctor, one sermon well preached, one life cleanly lived—these will tell more in our influence than all the abstract eloquence that can be summoned to plead our cause.

DEATH REAPS A HARVEST

The Louisiana Conference has just closed its session, which opened rather pathetically. When the Bishop requested the secretary to call the roll, he proceeded to call the names of those who had passed away during the year. These are the names of those who have been transferred from the active roll of the Louisiana Conference to the roll of the Church triumphant: C. M. Angrum, M. T. Fairfax, William Harrison, S. E. H. Morant, H. A. McClellan, J. H. Pierre, John Sparks, H. O. Williams, and, on the eve of the Conference, Samuel Bell and A. H. Banks. In all, ten have fallen during the year, eight of whom were in the active work. Rev. William Davis, a soldier during the Civil War, and who had served many years in the active work in the Louisiana Conference, was placed upon the superannuate list several years ago. Upon his request his relation was changed to that of effective at the Conference that closed Monday of this week, and was given an appointment, which he accepted with good cheer and in a hopeful spirit. He will never go to his appointment, for Monday night he was transferred to the Church triumphant. And thus eleven have fallen in less than twelve monhs, and death in its mighty reaping goes on without let or hindrance.

A GREAT EVENT IN NASHVILLE, TENN.

To Mr. Charles Wickham, of the Meharry Medical College of Walden University, Nashville, Tenn., is due very largely the success of a very unique but enjoyable entertainment given a few days ago. The affair was gotten up for the benefit of Dr. N. D. Merriam of the class of 1904, now in Cape Palmas, Liberia, Africa. It is proposed to build a hospital in Cape Palmas, to be called the Hubbard, in honor of Dean Hubbard of the Meharry Medical College, who has been a great benefactor to Dr. Merriam. The large new auditorium was filled with some of the best people of Nashville, who were delightfully entertained by Mr. Wickham and several ladies and gentlemen of the medical class. A neat sum was realized and forwarded to far-away Liberia.

There are now in the City of Mexico 5,000 Americans and Britishers, and five churches are maintained in the English language. The pastors of these churches and the missionaries have begun a campaign of aggressive evangelism and propose to commence a series of public services and a house-to-house visitation on the 12th of Febaruary. Our pastors are beseeched by these faithful workers in the City of Mexico to pray for divine blessing upon this campaign, and especially urge that on Sunday, February 12th, prayer be offered in all our churches for God's blessing upon the movement.

The Epworth League Movement in the South

By Irvine Garland Penn, Lit. D., Assistant General Secretary.

THE FIELD.—Our work is among the young people to be found in the twenty colored Conferences. These young people, who are eligible to membership in the Epworth League and Junior League, are all descendents of slaves, themselves representing the first and second generation this side of emancipation. It is therefore to be borne in mind that this field as yet is strictly a missionary field. Let it be borne in mind, also, that what two hundred and fifty years of slavery did for our people cannot be undone in forty years. Our young people, especially in the rural districts, are for the most part yet in the beginning of things when it comes to doing anything on the ideal fashion. In the city and country among the educated there is too much a disposition to take one's-self from the masses, or to look or speak over their heads, while among those who would do, if they could, there is lacking, first, the education, and, second, the tact, so indispensable to the use of that which we know. We would not have it understood that this is the condition to a man, but that these are the prevailing difficulties in this field, especially in the country. That such difficulties, and these are but few of them, should be in a large measure among our people, but forty years removed from slavery, is not to be wondered at, in the light of the fact that the very same difficulties are sometimes encountered among our white people. With these conditions facing us we also have a conspicuous lack of interest upon the part of too many of our lay and official members in local churches to appreciate the value of such work as a helper in the salvation and training of their sons and daughters, and likewise a lack of interest on one hand and ability on the other in some of our ministers to appreciate the young life used in and consecrated to the work of their churches. We have gone forward an optimist, and said to every preacher and church, "Go forward; there can be an Epworth League and a Junior League in each church." We have insisted that if Christ could use the old preacher, once a slave, to the building up of churches and school-houses in the South, He can use us, through the League, in the making of these churches stronger, better and more able to come with modern conditions in the world in the training and salvation of ourselves and those about us. The one thing necessary is to put ourselves in His hands by organizing the Leagues and working them in the spirit of beloved Bishop Simpson, "To make our church the greatest power in the land."

RESULTS IN ORGANIZATION.—At Philadelphia, in May, 1903, we reported 2,085 chapters of the Epworth League, and one hundred and fifty-three have been organized since. Since the General Conference we have sent to the General Office for thirty charters. We know that these figures do not represent the total strength of League work in the South, as many applications for charters go direct to the Central Office, where the charters are issued, and many of the Leagues organized have not secured their charters, due to lax business methods on the part of the officers or pastors. We have an approximation of five hundred Junior Chapters, many of which are not chartered. Very few letters have gone from our office on League work in five years but what we asked if the League is chartered and if the charter is framed and hanging up in the church. Our League membership will approximate 75,000. It is safe to say that in three-fourths of our churches there are organized chapters of the Epworth League. Their success as helpers of the church and actual forces for good in the community depends almost entirely upon the kind of pastor the church has. We have known pastors among us to go to churches and have flourishing and successful chapters of the League, when other pastors before and after them had Leagues in name only. So much depends upon who is pastor in this work, as in so many other interests of Methodism.

THE LEAGUES AS WORKING FORCES.—Our Leagues are doing more positive work now than ever. Many examples arise where they have been foremost in revival work, raising benevolences, helping in one way and another in the temporal affairs of the church. One pastor wrote us this summer that for three consecutive Sundays there were conversions in the League. In New York City our League at St. Marks has made a specialty of looking after the newcomers to that great city of our young colored people from the South, finding them positions and looking after their life; Leagues in Atlanta, Waco, Texas, and other points have put in organs and pianos in their churches; the Leagues in Arkansas have given Philander Smith College a farm known as Epworth Farm, while all over our territory our Leagues have taken a prominent part in helping our institutions of learning by raising funds, etc. We have been diligently collecting and noting facts upon what the League is doing with a view of beginning a series of articles in the SOUTHWESTERN and Herald giving these facts to the church.

BIBLE AND MISSION STUDY CLASSES.—We find that this work can be prosecuted among us only by interesting individuals and Leaguers so far as the use of the text-books are concerned. In very rare cases, and then only in cities and educational institutions, can you find a sufficient number of youg people who are willing to form classes and purchase the books. Some classes have been formed, but for Bible study work generally in the Leagues we have had to use the leaflets rather than the text-books. We have, however, had students of the text-book in both the Bible and Mission Study Classes, for we have placed 2,114 copies of "Studies in Life of Christ" and "Apostolic Church" and 325 copies of "The Price of Africa" and "Princely Men in the Heavenly Kingdom." We think, however, our organization now justifies and permits a more rapid and successful pushing of this forward work of the League than ever, especially in the city and village churches and the educational institutions. We have many Christian Stewards and Comrades of the Morning Watch.

SOME SPECIAL LITERATURE NEEDED.—While upon this question, we should say that experience teaches us that for more successful work some special literature is needed in the South apart from that we get out for the General Epworth League. It is no reflection upon us as a people to admit the vast ignorance yet among us, which calls for simple methods and plans. We are an infant people. Sensible colored men admit it. How could it be otherwise? Our Year Book, "How to Make the League Go," "Fifty Literary Evenings," "Fifty Social Evenings," and the Department of Methods in t*Herald,* etc., contain many things we can do a are doing, but for the masses in the country need something in addition to what we ha which will bring possibilities in League wo down from the standpoint of the log cabin a one room church. We have Leagues in o the one room church. We have Leagues in o $100,000 church in Baltimore and in church of equal or less intelligence and strength to using all our publications, but plead now for o people in the log cabin church of Georgia, Mi issippi and other portions of our South who wa to do, but see so many things suggested they a not equal to, the confuse it with that they can and decide they can do nothing, and that t League is above them.

CORRESPONDENCE AND OFFICE WORK.—Mu time has been spent in the office since the Gene Conference getting our work up to date and la ing the plans and methods and systematizing t office, that results might be far-reaching th Quadrennium. In other words, we have be planning for the campaign. Since our last r port at Philadelphia, one year and a half ag our office has received 3,652 letters, of whi 1,447 came since the General Conference. W have mailed from our office nothing less th 10,000 pieces of mail, including supplies and ci cular letters to pastors, of which 2,992 have be since the General Conference. We have been tr ing to get accurate records of Conference, Di trict, Local Chapter and Junior Chapter officer We are ambitious to locate the individual preac er and League officer in the League work and h position upon same, so that our system of fili correspondence is now so arranged that we c tell what is the condition and history of a giv charge, as to League work, for years. Likewi we shall know what interest a given preach takes in the League work for years. We ha already located some who take no interest in t work at all. For once we have wished that w were clotheed with episcopal powers and prero atives. In other words, the campaign for the f ture, is to be conducted so that if there is n an Epworth League or Junior League in church, we will be very apt to know the reas why. At Conferences, we are now making a re hot speech upon the necessity of answering c correspondence, with aview of pushing the bat home to the remotest church on a Georgia cott plantation or a Louisiana sugar farm.

We have endeavored to raise our Epwor League expenses and have reported to Mr. L. Price, Assistant Treasurer of the Special Fun $416.40. We expect to see the day when we w not have to draw on the Book Concern for an thing for expenses. We are steadily approac ing it by educating our Leagues to report $1 per year to take care of the office and travelli expenses. It should also be remembered that o of the amount raised on general Epworth Leag expenses we have bought Constitutions and B Laws of the Epworth League, as well as Cons tutions of the Junior League, in order to ha some League helps to give-away at Conferen and through the mail. We purchase from t Book Concern and charge the same in our e penses account as a part of the office expense.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION.—Much i terest is being taken in our territory in the for coming International Convention at Denver. W shall be disappointed if we fail in having t largest attendance we have yet had at any of t meetings. Some of the District Conventio meeting this last summer chose delegates, wh inquiries come now from individuals seeking i formation as to rates, etc. We hope to be at t Convention in large and representative numbe as usual. Our Jubilee singers are ready, and t were never in better shape to bring up our e

Personal Recollections of the William Taylor Friends of Africa Society

By D. E. Osgorne.

It was in the winter of 1890 and '91, when we were all at home, like a large family, at the New Orleans University, Dr. Adkinson being the President at that time. The new building had just been completed, and everything was in fine running order. Our beloved Bishop Mallalieu was our honored guest for several months, New Orleans being his official residence. His presence made a hallowed influence, and he took an active interest in every department of the school; notwithstanding his arduous duties as Bishop, he also had time to think of his colleagues and fellow-workers in every land, and especially of the modern Saint Paul, Bishop William Taylor, and could see away in to the future, and of what advantage to our African work the students of our Southern schools would be and the good they could accomplish in the land of their forefathers. During the last fifteen years the wisdom of his plans has been demonstrated.

It was to this end that the notice was given in the chapel above to organize "The William Taylor's Friends of Africa Society" for the cause above mentioned. Everything was done decently and in order, as is only possible in Christian lands. There were very few rules and by-laws. But one very important point was, "That all members should agree that at the call of God and of the church, I will go to Africa as a missionary." Among the charter members, aside from Bishop Mallalieu and Dr. Adkinson, was Prof. Camphor and the lady who later became his accomplished help-mate in that dark land, "Bishop" Clemens, who held "Conference" every month among the New Orleans University boys, to the amusement of the school in general, Frank B. Smith, Mr. McDonald, and the Augustine brothers, several other students and teachers, including the writer. Meetings were held weekly upon Friday evenings, with more or less interest, for it was very little any of us knew about Africa. But the society grew in interest and members; other societies were organized in other schools. We would have regular programmes, sing the usual missionary hymn,

From Greenland's icy mountains,
To India's coral strand;
Where Afric's sunny fountains
Roll down their golden sand, have papers, speeches, etc., which always proved "worth while," and when the founder (our Bishop Mallalieu) was present, we always enjoyed a feast. I do not remember ever taking part in a programme, however, until my return from Africa years afterward (1899 and 1900) when I received a royal reception and was invited to speak many times, neither did I have the honor of holding any office, though I was once nominated as treasurer, but was defeated by choice of Mrs. Adkinson, but did have the honor of being the first member of the society to go to Africa as a missionary. When but fourteen years of age, I felt a distinct call of God to go to Africa, and never for a day did the thought leave me, and I was led in many marvellous ways of preparation or the calling. When the church made the call I was ready, though it came rather suddenly and unexpectedly, as I had been engaged for another year as superintendent of the Industrial Department in New Orleans University. It was after a letter or so, to the New York office, with a reference regarding the work to Bishop Mallalieu. Dr. Hartzell (later Bishop) and Dr. Adkinson, were each consulted by Bishop Taylor, and I received a request to meet Bishop Taylor in New York in two weeks time, and to be ready to sail for Africa. I attended the World's Fair a few days with my Japanese friend, bade farewell to parents and friends, and met the Bishop upon the appointed date. This grand servant of God saw me embarked in a few days for the sunny African shores. My last view of the home land was off Sandy Hook. I had a pleasant voyage to London, overland to the Liverpool port and boarded the steamship "Calabar," for Liberia, having an uneventful voyage, except in Biscay Bay. We landed on the rock-bound cosat, at Monrovia, September 7, 1893, not knowing a soul in the whole continent, and if ever I felt homesick or lonesome it was while in the little Custom house on the river bank, at the foot of the hill upon which was the residential portion of Monrovia. But upon climbing the hill in the hot, sweltering morning sun, followed by an almost nude Krooman (carrier), with a part of my luggage on his head, I was soon confronted with a missionary from my own country, Miss Mary Sharp, who met me at the gate with a smiling face, gave me the right hand of fellowship, invited me in, and told me I had come a long ways to find my grave, pointing down the other side of the hill, where lie the mortal remains of the immortal Melville V. Cox, first missionary of the M. E. Church to any foreign land, who gave his life for Africa, succumbing in three months to the deadly African fever. I was also told that Bishop Taylor, his work and workers amounted to but very little, and that the whole mission was about to go under, and I was advised to return home by the very first steamer. I had embarked from the steamer before breakfast and by noon, notwithstanding my new surroundings, I was really hungry, Miss Dr. Patton, of Nashville, Tennessee, was present, and we three sat down to the same amount of food as did the 5,000 mentioned in Luke 9-13, except there were two small loaves and five much smaller fishes, and there was no miracle about it; for I was about as hungry when all had disappeared as when we began; and when we laid down our forks at least one half-dozen little native boys made a dash for our plates to gather up the fragments. Among them were some of earth's heroes' namesakes, T. DeWitt Talmage, Horace Greeley, Sam Jones, Fred Douglas, Robert Lee and General Grant. I am thankful to say that later, and in other parts of Africa, I fared much better. But the meal I most enjoyed was after a hard day's march through the jungles in the interior among savages and stopping at a native village for the night. A native woman prepared me a supper of rice, palm butter and meat, the latter was so good that I asked what it was, and found that I had feasted upon the hind quarter of a red-haired monkey.

I was sent out as Superintendent of Building and Mission Architect, a work very much needed as most of the mission dwellings were in a dilapidated condition. In the first three years I succeeded in building eight new houses, erecting one iron church and repairing the three seminary buildings, one each at White Plains, Monrovia and Cape Palmas. This work took me from one end of Liberia to the other, and some distance into the interior, sleeping for months at a time on my work bench as my only bed, not seeing a civilized person, nor hearing English spoken for over three months, but, on the whole, I fared very well and enjoyed the work very much indeed. We received our mail once a month on the average, and heard a sermon once a year (Conference time). After two years living alone, I was married to Miss Alma Lawson, Principal of the Cape Palmas Seminary, by Bishop Taylor, we three being the only Americans present, though we had present representatives of the European nations, as well as four different African tribes—Grebos, Veys, Mandingo and Congo subjects.

Many long journeys on foot it has been my pleasure to take with Rev. Bishop Taylor in the African jungles. He was always received as a father and loved and feared as the true "God man" because he had power to remove his hair and teeth, which would make hundreds of people hold their breath, and then run for fear God would call them to sudden judgment. (This man of God always wore a wig.) His presence was ever a divine inspiration, and he laid a great and wise foundation for our African work, and only in glory will all the good be revealed. It was early in the year 1887 that one morning out in the harbor at Monrovia, that we had the pleasure of meeting our newly elected Bishop Hartzell, and with him Dr. and Mrs. Camphor, the first ones I had known in America to meet me in Africa. It was the next best thing to being at home again. At that Conference my appointment was to Barraka, the largest and best equipped native station in Liberia. We had previously erected two new houses, built a school-house and accomplished many improvements. We had also a good day school and industrial plant. Preaching services, Sabbath school and class meetings each Sabbath, weekly prayer meetings. Medical work among the villages was a great help to our usefulness among the people. This work was attended to carefully by Mrs. Osborn. Together we gave fourteen years of service to Africa. Mrs. Osborn gave eight years, myself six, and during this time in beautiful Africa, for it is a pretty country naturally, we saw many of her sons and daughters come to the knowledge of a Savior, and a general advance along all lines in both native and Liberia church work, and could see God's hand in the plan of calling for the students of our Southern schools for this great work, and may he call for many more, for wide is the field and great is the harvest that has not yet been touched.

Great diamond fields all over the African continent! God wants his select Diamonds hunted and polished—saved for the Master's service, and in his Kingdom we shall all meet again.

The collections from Children's Day last year amounted to $71,541.44, the largest contribution ever received from this source by the Board of Education.

The common problem, yours, mine, every one's
Is not fancy what were fair in life
Provided it could be, but, finding first
What may be, then, find how to make it fair
Up to our means, a very different thing!
My business is not to remake myself.
But make the absolute best of what God made.

CHRISTIAN LIFE

Postal Card Sermon

By Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, D. D.

Theme: An Ancient Exhortation. (2)

Text: John 12 : 35.

The desire for light is one of the natural, indestructible instincts of man. All men prefer light to darkness in their soberest moments, yet the majority of mankind are living in darkness, and do not seem to object to the inconvenience and danger to which they are exposed now and eternally. A heathen is said to have earnestly prayed that if he were to be put to death he might be slain in the light, and not in the darkness. Every effort of the Lord Jesus was to help men walk while they had the light.

Christianity is a simple thing, and its only object is to bring man back to the path that leads to God. The light of the Gospel shines rather upon the will and conscience of man than upon his intellect, is why so many are unwilling to heed its warnings, and to accept its terms of salvation.

"While" means an opportunity to study, to receive and to serve Christ; to yield to the gentle commands of God, and to accept the companionship of the Holy Spirit. It means the privilege of insuring yourself against every foe, every emergency, and of entering into the Kingdom of God. It means a glorious and auspicious occasion; one given only for the time, to be soon withdrawn for ever. It means a short amnesty, a cessation of hostilities and an opportunity to make peace on terms most honorable to the conquered.

"Darkness" means to tear down, to humiliate, to expose to a countless number of dangers, the concentration of all the powers of sin and of hell against the sinner, and the inexorable, unwelcome intruder, Death. Darkness has overtaken man quietly, silently, without giving the least offence; suddenly and unexpectedly. There are so many kinds of darkness, therefore, "Walk while ye have the light."

Sincerety

To be sincere. To look Life in the eyes
With calm, undrooping gaze.
Always to mean
The high and truthful thing.
Never to screen
Behind the unmeant word, the sharp surprise
Of cunning, never tell the little lies
Of look or thought. Always to choose between
The true and small, the true and large, serene
And high above Life's cheap dishonesties.

The soul that steers by this unfading star
Needs never other compass. All the far
Wide waste shall blaze with guiding light, tho' rocks
And sirens meet and mock its straining gaze.
Secure from storms and all Life's battle-shocks
It shall not veer from any righteous ways.

—Mourice Smiley, in the Ohio Educational Monthly.

The Gethesman of Life

For every one of us, sooner or later, the Gethsemane of life must come. It may be the Gethsemane of struggle, poverty and care; it may be the Gethsemane of long and weary sickness; it may be the Gethsemane of farewells that wring the heart by the death-beds of those we love; it may be the Gethsemane of remorse and of well-nigh despair for sins that we will not, but which we say we cannot, overcome. Well, my brethren, in that Gethsemane—aye, even in that Gethsemane of sin—no angel merely, but Christ Himself, who bore the burden of our sins, will, if we seek Him, come to comfort us. He will, if, being in an agony, we pray. He can be touched, He is touched, with the feeling of our infirmities. He, too, has trodden the winepress of agony alone; He, too, has laid face downwards in the night upon the ground, and the comfort which then came to Him He has bequeathed to us—even the comfort, the help, the peace, the recovery, the light, the hope, the faith, the sustaining arm, the healing anodyne of prayer.—Dean Farrar.

The Tribute of Suffering

It is those whom we love most upon whom we lay the heaviest burdens. We do not turn to strangers or untried acquaintances when we would lean hard on some one in a crisis of life. We tax most those whom we trust most. And what is true of our relations with each other is true of the Father's relations with His children. He does not send stress and burdens to weaklings. "God must love you very much to trust you with such suffering," said one to a friend whose burden seemed unbearable. But God does for us what we cannot do for each other; with the suffering he sends the strength to bear it. Every fresh burden is proof of his love, of his confidence in us, of his plans for our refining. Every new test brings with it more than enough of His strength to meet it triumphantly. And as we look back at our past experiences, we see now the reason for rejoicing in every such experience. Could we order our lives better.—Sunday School Times.

The Best Thing to Give

The best thing to give to your enemies is forgiveness; to an opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to your child, a good example; to a father, deference; to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you; to yourself, respect; to all men, charity.

The Encouragers

In this great world there are a few people who always and everywhere do the work of Jesus—the little radiant and transfigured band of the encouragers. Their hearts are sensitive, their minds are thoughtful, and their eyes are quick; grace is seated upon their lips, and their faces are smitten with the sunlight. They are fitted to the high ministry of goodness, their lives are infused with the spirit of Jesus, and a moment is long enough and a commonplace big enough to provide them with an ample and sufficient sphere. Every day is a myriad-chanced opportunity for their beneficent service, and every night the recording angel carries to God the story of multitudinous benedictions. They drop their beautiful words like fruitful seeds by every wayside; their sweet speech is full of gracious inspiration and heartening, and to meet them in the hardest way is to be rifled of our despondency and despair, and to feel the touch of gracious inspirations and victorious compulsions. These are they who trail behind them clouds of radiant glory, make dark places of despondency reminiscent of the optimism of heaven, and shoot through the black darkness of defeat with rays of conquering hope. Their gentle heart and their kind words are rare instruments for the upbuilding of goodness, and speech upon their lips one of the constructive energies of the kingdom of God.—Methodist Recorder.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

BY REV. J. H. SCOTT, D. D.

Lesson Topic February 12

Christ a Servant, and We Are Servants.

Scripture Reference—Phil. 2: 3-11.

We have for our lesson some very important exhortations and the reason for them forcibly illustrated by a perfect example. The heed we give to these exhortations and the inspiration we received from this perfect example will determine what we shall be and what we shall do for the establishment of the kingdom of God upon the earth.

True spirit of service. The essential spirit of acceptable service to God is humility. This grace is not popular. It is more than self-abnegation. It is self-forgetting love. The great apostle exhorted us to do nothing through strife and vainglory, but everything through humility. Humility is service, unselfish, unostentatious. Beecher declared: "Those persons who do the most good are least conscious of it. The man who has but one single virtue or charity is very much like the hen that has but one chicken. That solitary chicken calls for an amount of clucking and scratching that a whole brood seldom causes."

Christ our model. Christ gave up the throne of the universe to become a servant. He voluntarily gave up heaven for earth. He who was equal with God took upon Himself the form of a servant and was made in the likeness of man. He who created all things humbled himself and became obedient, even unto the death on the cross—the most cruel and most shameful death. What greater self-abnegation is possible? Dr. Vaughan says, "Consider the manner in which Christ as a man took the lowest place and did the meanest part. Here is the most beautiful feature in all the exquisite portraiture of His humiliation: that at the time He did any of the acts of His wonderful life the humiliation was never prominent and seldom apparent. Had you met Jesus on one of His usual walks of mercy, or sat with Him at the meal, or listened to Him as He spoke, I do not imagine that you would have been impressed at once and very consciously with the lowliness of the transaction, as though He were doing some very wonderfully condescending thing. That is what we often do—a posture, a garb, a studied word—and we call it humility. But there would have been a depth of self-forgetfulness in all which Christ said and did and was, which would tell on you in a way which you could scarcely clothe in language, but when you looked quietly back upon it, it would amazingly grow upon you in the greatness of its quiet modesty. And this is the truth of the grace of a humble mind; it is too humble to look humble; it hides itself so well that the act which hides it is not seen—"the humility is humbled."

Our privilege. It is not only our duty but our great privilege to be like our Master, a servant; like Him to have a single aim—the glory of the Father. With Him, self was nowhere, but love and service were everywhere. We are to be like Him; so the apostle exhorts, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ." We are to be humble and willing workers.

Condescension is not degradation, and so let us be Godlike and come down to those whom we may save.

Glorious result. Those who have humility, the true spirit of service, are rewarded with a contented spirit. They can work anywhere and serve any one. They do not fret and worry about not being appreciated. They are thankful because they acknowledge themselves constant recipients of God's grace. We need in every League, in every department of the Church, more humble and willing workers to work anywhere they can glorify the Master. Because they humble, God will exalt them. Remember our Lord, who so humbled Himself for our redemption. "Wherefore God also hath highly exalted Him and given Him a name above every name."

Mississippi Conference Items

The entire Conference was delighted with Bishop Spellmeyer. The Bishop's wife was also present.

Rev. W. P. C. Morrison, pastor at Natchez, with a small membership, did well in caring for such a large body of people. The friends of the other churches generously aided. Brother Morrison deserves much credit for the work he has done at this point. To assist him in paying off the church debt the Conference subscribed about $1,000, setting the fourth Sunday in May to raise additional amounts for the same purpose.

Dr. W. P. Thirkeld delivered his noted lecture, "The Black Sampson," which was heartily received by a large audience.

Dr. D. Lee Aultman expressed the sentiment of many when he said to the sexton, who addressed him as "boss," "I am not a boss, but a brother." Dr. Aultman is a cordial, generous, fine gentleman.

Doctors E. M. Jones, W. W. Lucas, J. P. Wragg, I. L. Thomas and I. G. Penn each made impressive addresses in the interest of the causes they represent.

Dr. G. G. Logan arrived late, but made a strong plea for his cause. His presence and personal contact with the brothers quickens interest in Missions.

Dr. R. E. Gillum, of St. Louis, on Saturday evening spoke in the interest of Aggressive Evangelism, greatly interesting his hearers, who applauded him enthusiastically.

The choir at St. John's is among the best. Pros. J. R. Ross is a great helper in his church.

Brother J. C. Hibbler was chosen by the brethren to preside at the morning session of the first day, Bishop Spellmeyer being delayed.

Dr. W. W. Lucas and his genial wife were both at the Conference and shared equally the love and esteem of the brethren. They are doing a great work at Meridian Academy and deserve the heartiest support that the Conference can give. Over 300 students are in attendance in the school at present. A new boys' dormitory has been provided, a truck farm established, and the sisters of the Woman's Home Missionary Society are planning to open a home for girls.

The following ladies were present and active in the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society: Madames J. E. Threlkeld, I. H. Lucas, E. L. Smith, S. H. Cannon, H. May, M. J. McInnis, V. Ross, Carrie Drayden, Esther White, L. V. Cooper and M. O. Wilson, Miss Naomi Watts and others. They are doing great work for the Conference and ought to be assisted in every way by the brethren.

Three new presiding elders were created—Revs. G. W. Smith, J. B. Brooks and R. N. Jones. Each is a strong man with a creditable record back of him.

Mrs. P. H. Davis, of Yazoo City, was not present, but sent in her usual large list of subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN.

The Gulfport, a new district, was made, with Rev. R. N. Jones its president.

Remember still, in addressing the Revs. J. C. Hibbler and J. M. Shumpert, to use the term, "Mr. President."

The interest of the SOUTHWESTERN was faithfully looked after. When the assistant business manager indicated fear that the Conference report would fall shorter than last year, four of the presiding elders handed him a check for $5 apiece and one, Rev. G. W. Smith, a check for $10.

Among those who brought large lists of subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN were: Revs Wm. McMorris 13, S. H. Cannon 12, W. N. G. Lipscomb 10, L. Speed 6, H. E. Morgan 7, N. W. Ross 13, D. F. Dudley 8, P. H. Davis 9, G. M. R. Husbands 6, N. Toole, 7, J. B. Brooks 10, W. L. Lamb 6, N. D. Hopkins 4, J. A. Robinson 5, W. L. Mills 5, G. W. Smith 12, J. C. Hibbler 8, J. M. Shumpert 8, R. P. Threlkeld 8. Many others brought smaller lists.

Revs. S. A. Cowan and A. Davis have greatly improved the districts over which they have presided for the last six years and now retire with honor. Brother Cowan takes charge of Meridian, Brother Davis of Crystal Springs.

Rev. D. F. Dudley took charge at Hattiesburg five years ago, with 68 members; he leaves it with 300, a good Sunday school, a church worth $2,000, a parsonage valued at $1,500, and a $325 organ.

Mr. T. G. Ewing, of Vicksburg, has opened a new bank, the Union Savings Bank, with a capital of $10,000. Dr. C. Henri Woods is its president, W. H. Lanier, first vice president, Wesley Crayton, second vice president, and L. J. Rowan, assistant cashier. The bank has an encouraging beginning, numerous depositors and trustworthy and substantial stockholders.

If we measure our work for God by our ability to do it, we must not be surprised if God takes us at our word, and the results are small; but if we art trustful enough to believe that it is God, and not we, by whom the work is done, we shall surely find the blessing to be according to His power, and out of all proportion to our strength. —Braithwaite.

Little self-denials, little honesties, little passing words of sympathy, little nameless acts of kindness, little silent victories over favorite temptations—these are the silent threads of gold which, when woven together, gleam out so brightly in the pattern of life that God approves.—Canon Farrar.

There is a cheerfulness which, even when things go seriously wrong, can keep from sinking into mere fret and worry and bitterness. Some people talk of this as if it were all a matter of temperament. Of course there are some to whom it comes easier than to others; it is so with every quality. But apart from that, cheerfulness is a duty, and a duty which no one can weave into a settled part of his life without something of a cross.—Brooke Herford, D. D.

The Master's footprints in our daily ways,
No knotted scourge nor sacrificed knife,
But the calm beauty of an ordered life,
Whose every breathing is unworded praise, and treble this number, notwithstanding all the
A life that stands as all true lives have stood—Firm-rooted in the faith that God is good.

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

YOUNG FRIENDS

He Always Told the Truth.

BY ANNE H. WOODRUFF.

He was not very quick to learn,
  Nor "promising," 'twas said;
He was not of a brilliant turn,
  Nor one to "go ahead;"
Defects—if they must be confessed—
  In plenty had the youth,
But this one virtue he possessed—
  He always told the truth.

In every way he seemed below
  The average of boys,
In intellect, and "push," and "go,"
  And all that youth enjoys;
But no one ever doubted him,
  Because they knew, forsooth—
Yes, even those who flouted him—
  He always told the truth.

"Uncouth" and "awkward," how it hurt
  When on his ears it fell!
Who could the fact not controvert,
  Was sensitive as well.
But one there was who sympathized,
  Who knew right well the youth—
His mother this great comfort prized—
  He always told the truth.

A slow but steady plodder, he,
  Along the path of life;
In business ever seemed to be
  Behind-hand in the strife;
But then he won his fellows' trust,
  They honored him in sooth—
The man unlearned, but noble, just,
  Who always told the truth.

For the Sake of a Little Child.

[From the Epworth Herald.]

[Artaban, the "other wise man," bearing a sapphire, a ruby and a pearl to present to the Christ child, set out to join the "three wise men" in their quest that led to Bethlehem. The incident given is but one of the deeds of mercy that hindered his journey and consumed his gifts. "The Story of the Other Wise Man," by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, from which this selection is taken is one of the gems of American literature.—ED.]

It was the third day after the three wise men had come to the place, and had found Mary and Joseph and the young child, Jesus, and had laid their gifts of gold and frankincense and myrrh at his feet.

Then the other wise man drew near, weary, but full of hope, bearing his ruby and pearl to offer to the King. * *

From the open door of a low stone cottage he heard the sound of a woman's voice singing softly. He entered and found a young mother hushing her baby to rest. She told him of the strangers from the Far East, * * and how they said that a star had guided them to the place. * *

"But the travelers disappeared again," she continued, "as suddenly as they had come. * * The man of Nazareth took the babe and his mother and fled away that same night secretly, and it was whispered they were going away to Egypt." * *

Artaban listened to her gentle, timid speech, and the child in her arms looked up in his face and smiled, stretching out its rosy hands to grasp at the winged circle of gold on his breast. His heart warmed to the touch. * *

"Might not this child have been the promised Prince?" he asked himself, as he touched its soft cheek. "Kings have been born ere now in lowlier houses than this. * * But the one whom I seek has gone before me; and now I must follow the King to Egypt." * * Suddenly there came the noise of a wild confusion and uproar in the streets of the village, a shrieking and wailing of women's voices, a clangor of brazen trumpets and a clashing of swords; and a desperate cry, "The soldiers of Herod! the soldiers of Herod! They are killing our children."

The young mother's face grew white with terror. She clasped her child to her bosom, and crouched in the darkest corner. * * But Artaban went quickly and stood in the doorway.

* * * * * * * *

"I am all alone in this place, and waiting to give this jewel to the prudent captain who will leave me in peace." He showed the ruby glistening in the hollow of his hand like a great drop of blood. The captain was amazed at the splendor of the gem. * * The hard lines of greed wrinkled about his lips. He stretched out his hand and took the ruby.

"March on!" he cried to his men, "there is no child here. The house is still.

The clamor and the clang of arms passed down the street. * * Artaban turned his face to the East and prayed: "God of Truth, forgive my sin! I have said the thing that is not, to save the life of a little child. * * I have spent for man that which was meant for God."

But the voice of the woman, weeping for joy in the shadow behind him, said very gently:

"Because thou hast saved the life of my little one, may the Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord make his face to shine upon thee and be gracious to thee; the Lord lift up his countenance upon thee and give thee peace."

"I think it would be a good plan to send Willie up into the country for a month," said Willie's father: "he's never been on a farm, and it would be a novel experience for him." Willie hesitated, and when pressed for a reason, said: "I don't want to go. I've heard about the country, and I don't want to go where they have threshing machines." It's bad enough when it's done by hand."

Labor and Wait

Of all the lessons the young man who would succeed in life has to learn, one of the hardest and most indispensable is that which the hero of Blenheim, Ramillies and Malplaquet so thoroughly learned—the lesson of patience. "To know how to wait," says De Maistre, "is the secret of success." "He that can have patience," says Franklin, "can have what he will." In business, at the bar, in medical practice, in the ministry, and in every other calling, the secret of success is, not in brilliancy of talents, in promptness of action, or even in energy, needful as that is, but in ability to bide one's time. Time is an important element in all solid achievement. The fruits that are best worth plucking ripen slowly; therefore the man who would win a great and lasting success must learn both "to labor and to wait." He must put his faith, not in brilliant genius, in tricks and devices, in occasional splendid spurts and dashes, but in regular, measured persistent effort—unvarying and never-failing—not necessarily slow, but never made at a faster rate than can be maintained to the end, "reminding you of the steady, never-accelerated movement of a great engine's eccentric beam."—William Mathews, in Success.

Woman's Dominion

Lexington Conference, Woman's Home Missionary Society.

Dear Treasurers:—Several auxiliaries have failed to report to me this quarter. Some have said they would report at Louisville. I will not be at the Louisville Conference and there will be no representative there for me. In order that your pastor may get a full voucher from me, please send your money to me at once. I shall mail vouchers to all pastors who have auxiliaries in their charges February 10th. Any money reaching me later can not be credited to your pastor's account this Conference year.

Please let your pastor have a full and creditable report, by sending your report to me not later than above date. Yours for Him,

MARTHA A. SISSLE,
Indianapolis, Ind. Conf. Treasurer.

After a long silence, we can say with songs of thanksgiving, that our Epworth League is a live one and doing active work. Our President has some good ideas of how to make the wheel revolve. The Spiritual department is in excellent condition, and every one seems to have awakened to a sense of Christian duty. The Social department is doing its best that others may be happy. The Mercy and Help department is working as never before, and sad to say, "The harvest is truly great, but laborers are few." In this departmen we seek not only to "Look up," but to "Lift up." New Year's Day, at the suggestion of the President, a collection of $10.00 was taken. Later, a committee visited the homes of the needy ones, and after several songs and prayers, their tokens of love and good cheer were presented in the form of bedding and groceries. The beaming faces, the hearty "Amens," the "God bless you, come again," made us realize that it is indeed "More blessed to give than to receive."

CORA J. BAILEY.

Take what is left of baked or boiled fish; remove the bones and skin and warm the fish in hot milk enough to moisten; turn it out on a platter; poach three or four eggs, lay them on the fish; mix one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a few grains of cayenne, a little salt, with two tablespoonsful of butter melted; pour this evenly over the eggs and serve at once and very hot.

It is while you are patiently toiling at the little tasks of life that the meaning and shape of the great whole of life dawns upon you. It is while you are resisting little temptations that you are growing stronger.—Phillips Brooks.

The habit of letting every foolish or uncharitable thought, as it arises, find words, has a great deal to do with much evil in the world. Check the habit of uttering the words, and gradually you will find that you check the habit of thought too. A resolution always to turn to some distinctly good thought when a complaining or unkind one arises in the mind, is a great help—as it is to turn every thought condemnatory of our neighbor into a prayer for him. We never can long continue to dislike people for whom we pray.—H. L. Sidney Lear.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

sson VII— Feb. 12, 1905. Title—The Second Miracle in Cana. (John 4: 43-54). Golden Text—"The same works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me." (John 5: 36).

When the disciples returned to Jacob's well, nd found Jesus in conversation with the woman f Samaria, they were surprised, but asked no uestions. The woman went into the city and sked the people to come and see the man that ad told her all the past of her life. She desired o know if He was not the Christ. The disciples egged Jesus to eat bread. This He refused to o at that time, and let them know it was His ieet to do the will of God. He told them the elds were white unto the harvest: the Samari- ns and Gentiles were ready to enter the king- om of God. That both the sower and the reaper ould receive wages, and rejoice together. The oman became a witness for Jesus and caused any others to believe in Him. He abode with ne Samaritans two days, preached the Word nto them and many were saved.

I. Going into Galilee. (43-45). 1. Jesus id not at this time enter Nazareth. Galilee was orth of Samaria. There Jesus had been raised, et He seems to have been but slightly known out f Nazareth, His native city. He did not at this ime enter this city because a "prophet hath no onor in his own country." This ought not to e. Those whom God honors should be held in igh esteem by the people. But the opposite has lways been the rule followed by the world. Jo- eph was hated by his brothers, David was de- pised by Eliab, John was beheaded for reprov- ng Herod, Jesus was spoken slightly of by His indred, Stephen was stoned by the Jews, and Paul was persecuted by his countrymen. Man's ride often makes him scorn the instruction of hose who were once his playmates.

2. The people of Galilee receive Jesus gladly. They had attended the feast at Jerusalem, and ad seen the miracles He wrought there. This efers likely to the cleansing of the temple, and other miracles worked at that time. These di- ine manifestations caused Nicodemus and many others to believe in Him. The miracles of Jesus ave always been considered one of the strongest proofs of His divinity. The passage also points o His prophetic work. He showed profound visdom as a teacher, a foreteller of events, and a 'discerner of the thoughts and intents of man's eart." He traveled throughout the cities of Galilee, teaching in their synagogues. The bur- den of His preaching was the "gospel of the kingdom of God." He told them the time was fulfilled, and the kingdom of heaven was at hand. He exhorted them to repent and believe the Gos- pel.

3. Jesus in closing His first missionary tour n Galilee entered Cana, where He had turned water into wine. He probably lodged in the very ome where this miracle had been wrought. He had likely been out of this city about three months. When He returned to it He no doubt found warm friends and true believers. While resting there the man of Capernaum found Him. Note—It is the duty of a minister to preach the Gospel, and the obligation of the people to repent and believe the same. The minister may make himself without honor, and cause many homes to reject him by so doing, but this will not excuse him from this great work. He will on the other hand make friends who will receive him kindly.

II. Healing the noble man's son. (46-54). Going to Jesus. Nobleman here means ruler, or little king. He was probably one of the stew- ards of Herod Antipos. His name may have been Chuza, if so, the name of his wife was Jo anna. She seems to have been one of the noble women who administered unto Jesus. Caper- naum was about twenty miles northeast of Cana. It was at this time a very prosperous city, but has now utterly passed away. Its site cannot be located with certainty. No city can long remain under the curse of God. This nobleman had a son who was very sick. He was at the point of death. We know not the nature of his affliction. This nobleman heard that Jesus had returned out of Judeah into Galilee. Our Lord had been out of His native country three or four months. On His return He preached in the cities of Galilee, and paused for a while in Cana. Here the noble man found Him. Note—All classes need Jesus. Parents may go to Him in the interest of their children. All are afflicted with the malady of sin, and will die forever if Jesus does not heal them. We may learn of Jesus through His word, His gospel, and His spirit.

2. Stating our request. The nobleman be- sought our Lord to come and heal his son. He had some faith in Jesus. He believed He could do this work. But he likely thought Jesus had to go to the child, touch him, speak to him, and give him curatives, in order to heal him. Jesus mildly rebuked this weak faith by telling him he would not believe except he saw signs and wonders. The nobleman exhorted him to lose no time, but to come immediately, ere his son should die. He felt that delay would be fatal. When Jesus saw his earnestness, and the degree of his faith, he told him to go his way, his son would live. Note —When we approach Jesus we should tell Him our desires. He may mildly chide us for unbelief and yet grant our request. We should feel our great need, and realize that a moment's delay will cause us to perish.

3. Receiving His blessing. The man be- lieved what our Lord said, and set out on his journey home. On the way he met some of his servants who told him his son lived. He learned that the fever left him the very hour Jesus said: "Thy son liveth." This miracle caused him and all his house to believe in our Lord. This was the second miracle wrought by Jesus in Cana of Galilee. Note—Jesus is a wise, tender, accessi- ble physician. His remedies are easy, and He never lost a case.

We often give ourselves a great deal of trouble and lose much peace by worrying over questions which can only be solved by time and will be so if we have patience.—Rev. Alexander McLaren, D. D.

While suffering the bodily pains of this uncer- tain life, there is nothing that brings such un- speakable joy to the heart, and such radiant sun- shine to the soul, as the divine assurance that "this mortal shall put on immortality."—Anon.

The characteristic of heroism is its persist- ency. All men have wandering impulses, fits and starts of generosity. But when you have chosen your part, abide by it, and do not weakly try to reconcile yourself with the world. The heroic cannot be the common, nor the common the he- roic. Yet we have the weakness to expect the sympathy of people in those actions whose excel- lence is that they outrun sympathy and appeal to a tardy justice.—Emerson.

Human sympathy is of the faintest kind, com- pared with God's sympathy. Perhaps you have never thought that he is sorry for you in your weakness, or sickness, or disappointment, or trouble. But he is sorry for all of us. And yet not sorry in the sense that will prevent him from doing the best thing for us. God loves us enough to discipline us.—Anon.

"Free to serve!" These words were uttered by a thoughtful woman as she saw a great vessel tossed from its stays and plow its way into the ocean. The ship was made for the ocean. In the water only could it find its native element. It was in bondage until it was launched. It found its freedom in its preparedness for service.

A man is like that ship. He is not free when he is his own, withheld from God. His truest freedom comes by submission, his emancipation by surrender; he has a man's will only when he submits his will to God's will. God's will is the ocean to him, his native element. Once in that element, once fully yielded to God, he, like the ship in the ocean, is indeed free. He is "free to serve," and in serving finds his highest liberty.— Rev. G. B. F. Hallock, D. D., in Christian Ob- server.

1—All business letters should be addressed to Eaton & Mains, and all communications intended for publication to the Editor.

2—In sending matter for publication, write plainly on one side of the paper, and make your communication as short as the subject will allow.

3—When the ADVOCATE does not arrive regularly, notify us promptly.

4—Methodist pastors are our authorized agents, to receive subscriptions and collect dues for the ADVOCATE.

DEAR BRETHREN—We have written each of you asking that you bring to your conference from two to twenty subscribers. Will you do it?

Let us make this the best year in the history of the paper. Begin now. Get all the old subscribers on your charge to renew and as many new ones as you can.

Send names of all you secure so they may get the paper at once. You may hand us their money at Conference.

THE ATLANTA LETTER

Central Avenue, formerly Lloyd Street Methodist Episcopal Church, continues to prosper. Dr. J. A. Rush is in his seventh year and his hold upon the congregation was never so strong as now, and the future never so bright. Dr. Rush is showing remarkable strength in handling his people and is forging to the front as one of the leading pastors of Methodism.

Plans are now being laid for a great spiritual revival. The Epworth League, the Sunday School and the Church are all working together with this end in view, and it is safe to say the greatest soul-saving series of meetings will be held in this church that have been seen in this city for a long time.

The various auxiliaries of the church are in a splendid condition. The Epworth League is one of the most prosperous in the entire Southern States. At a meeting recently held a new cabinet was elected. James W. Woodlee was re-elected president.; Mr. E. W. Hatchett was re-elected to the office of third vice president, while Mr. Linden Hill, Mrs. John Finley, Miss Florida Starr, Mr. William Greenwood, and Mr. Jesse L. Releford were given positions in the new cabinet. Mr. Releford was re-elected as secretary. Mr. John Finley will again be musical director, and Miss Marie Hill will be the pianist.

The League is rapidly reducing the debt on the new $300 Conover piano recently installed.

Miss Anna E. Hall, deaconess, is again the superintendent of the Junior League as well as the superintendent of the Sunday school. The latter is in a very prosperous condition.

Dr. Rush, the pastor, is a minister whose strong personality impresses his audience at every service.

The newly appointed pastors of the other city churches are rapidly gaining favor with their members. Fort Street Church and Warren Chapel each promise to do a great work this year under Rev. Wadkins and Rev. Petty, their respective pastors.

The American Bible Society is making an urgent appeal for funds, which it so much needs and so richly deserves. Splendid work is being done by this society in all parts of the world in the spreading of the Scriptures, and no work is more effective than that being done in our own country. This splendid organization should not be embarrassed by the lack of funds, and we therefore urge the pastors throughout our territory to take a liberal collection for the American Bible Society.

The Young Men's Christian Association, Colored Branch, of Atlanta, Ga., is enjoying remarkable prosperity under the leadership of Rev. R. T. Weatherby, its general secretary. The enrollment has increased in two years from 105 to 200, while the enrollment of boys has increased from 166 to 375. There were last year 48 conversions, 81 attending night school, the total receipts being $1,584.76. The total attendance upon all meetings reached 16,157.

THE LITTLE ROCK CONFERENCE

The Little Rock Conference held its twenty-seventh session at Fordyce, Ark., and was presided over by Bishop W. F. McDowell. The Bishop received a cordial welcome. His addresses were beautiful in language, clear and vigorous in thought, and greatly delighted all. His sermon on the Sabbath morning was evangelical and delivered with great power.

The Conference held its session in Cox Methodist Episcopal Church, a new structure that has been built under the heroic leadership of Rev. C. W. Whithead, the pastor. The church is brick, with stained glass windows, and is said to have cost in construction $3,000, there being at present only a debt of $350. This has been done with a membership of not more than twenty-five. Brother Whitehead found only ten members when he was assigned to the church two years ago. Among those who visted the Conference were Dr. J. W. Jennings, of the Kansas City Book Depository; Dr. W. P. Thirkield, Dr. R. E. Gillum, Dr. I. G. Penn, Dr. I. L. Thomas, Dr G. G. Logan, Mrs. H. M. Nasmyth, Prof. A. J. Jacques and Prof. D. W. Boatner.

The transfer of Dr. Reed to the Liberia Conference was announced, and he was called upon to make farewell remarks. The scene was touching. A consecration service was held, prayer was offered for the protection and guidance of Dr. Reed, and interest was strengthened in the father-land. Dr. Reed goes from the splendid Wesley Chapel at Little Rock, from which church Dr. J. C. Sherrill went to Africa some years ago.

In the organization the following officers were elected: Secretary, J. W. Jackson; assistants, G. T. Saxton and L. G. Hodges; statistical secretary, J. J. Freeman; assistants, J. W. Burns, D. W. Nelson and W. McIntosh; treasurer, W. H. Morris; assistants, S. McDonald, A. T. Stephens and W. H. Simpson.

Changes in Membership—Received on trial, William B. Smith, James Stokes, George W. Jackson, Charles L. Kyles. Received by transfer, J. L. Wilson, from the Lexington Conference.

Ordained Deacons—Tilman D. Wesson and Samuel Nelson.

Ordained Elders—Archie R. Ray, Samuel J. Brown, Zachariah H. Field and Samuel M. Cain.

John H. Reed was transferred to the Liberia Conference.

Orders Recognized—John W. Whiting, an elder from the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church; James H. Green an elder from the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

The treasurer's report showed the following amounts raised: Missions, $636; Church Extension, $142; Sunday School Union, $18; Tract Society, $17; Freedmen's Aid Society, $668; Public Education, $184; Children's Fund, $117; American Bible Society, $13; Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, $5; Woman's Home Missionary Society, $147; other benevolences, $213; General Conference expenses, $25; Conference Claimants, $50; Episcopal Fund, $33.

Our work among the colored people of the South, says the Bible Society Record, under the Rev. J. P. Wragg, continues on about the same appropriation as last year, but with every prospect of an enlarged distribution. His colportage is vigorously pushed all over the South so far as the funds at his disposal will allow, but it needs to be greatly enlarged and the number of our colporteurs doubled. "In August," Mr. Wragg writes, "our circulation is about double what it was for this month last year," and although this is not true of every month, the total will be a large one.

Personal and General

Paul Laurence Dunbar is improving in health.

The address of Rev. J. T. L. Dunham is Gaffney City, S. C.

Rev. John Watts, our pastor at Augusta, Ga., who has been quite ill for some time, is now slowly convalescing.

Something like $13,000 from bequests was paid into the general treasury of the Woman's Home Missionary Society during the last fiscal year.

The congregation at Brookhaven entered their beautiful $3,000 church on January 8th, and on that day collected $237.50. Pastor L. W. Price is shouting happy.

Arrangements are being made for the immediate erection of a new dormitory at Tuskegee Institute, the gift of Miss Elizabeth Julia Emery, of Europe.

Rev. B. F. Rawlins, former assistant editor of the Western Christian Advocate, of whose serious illness we made mention some weeks ago, died January 11th.

The Chautauqua Institution was given the grand prize at the World's Fair. This is the greatest honor awarded to any institution by the international jury of awards.

Reading rooms have been opened recently in Montgomery, Ala., for the benefit of the reading element of its colored residents. The enterprise is supported by the public.

The Wiey University community is rejoicing over the advent of a son into President Dogan's home. The heir apparent was born January 15th. President Dogan is a happy man.

Mr. William Pickens lectured before the Young Men's Christian Association of Atlanta, Ga., on the evening of January 23d, on "Some of the Encouraging Aspects of the Race Problem."

Miss Ida Page and Miss Celia Dumas, of Natchez, Miss., have gone to Houma, La., after spending a week pleasantly in the city, the guests of Mrs. Effie Farden and her sister, Mrs. Mary Martin.

Saturday, February 4, has been designated as a Day of Prayer and Fasting for Christians throughout the United States. The desired aim of this movement is that God may speedily revive His work in our land.

Plans are being laid for the erection of improved tenement houses for the working classes of New York City and for the general betterment of the tenement house situation. Toward this movement Henry Phipps contributed $1,000,000.

In our reference in a recent issue to the German Church of this city as a magnificent giver to the cause of missions, we gave credit to the Second German Church, instead of the First German Church, of which Rev. W. J. Moers is pastor.

Noble Sissle, of Indianapolis, Ind., the son of Presiding Elder George A. Sissle, is doing splendidly in selling the SOUTHWESTERN from house to house each week. He is making money for himself and circulating the paper. Oher boys could do likewise if they would.

Rev. M. S. Jordan, the Conference president of the Epworth League of West Texas, has done good service in all respects for the Church. At the last session he was appointed pastor of St. Paul, at Dallas, Tex. He is a faithful worker and will do the church at that point great good.

Prof. T. A. Green, of Los Angeles, California, has been appointed second assistant journal clerk of the Senate of the State of California. He is the first Negro to be appointed to a clerical position in the legislature of that State. Prof. Green is making a splendid record in the far West.

The fourteenth annual session of the Tuskegee Negro Conference will convene at Tuskegee, Ala., Wednesday, February 22. The Workers' Conference, which has for its purpose the educational, moral and civic uplift of the Negro, will be held the following day, Thursday, February 23.

A new Industrial Home has been opened within the bounds of the West Texas Conference. It is located in Austin, Tex., and is called the "Eliza Dee Home," in honor of Mrs. Dee, who gave $3,000 towards its purchase. The Home will at present accommodate but fourteen boarding pupils.

Colonel James Lewis of this city has been re-appointed Surveyor General of Louisiana. Colonel Lewis held the same position under Presidents Garfield, Arthur and McKinley, and his friends are delighted that President Roosevelt has recognized his worth and citizenship. Congratulations, Colonel!

Bishop James N. FitzGerald and Mrs. FitzGerald sailed from New York Jan. 28 by steamer Ponce for San Juan, Porto Rico. They were accompanied by their two daughters, Miss Cornelia and Miss Bessie, by their son Raymond, and by John E. Andrus, Jr. Bishop FitzGerald is to preside at the annual meeting of the Porto Rico Mission, which convenes in Arecibo Feb. 15.

Ex-President Sam of Hayti is in the position of a man without a country. He has been condemned to imprisonment for life at hard labor for the alleged issue of fraudulent bonds. His wife is sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment, and several members of his Ministry and other high functionaries have been condemned to terms of imprisonment ranging from five to fifteen years.

Our church at Lamar, S. C., was destroyed by fire on January 17th. The membership is anxious to rebuild and is planning to begin work soon. They have already $300 subscribed, and any person desiring to help a worthy enterprise may send any amount to Rev. W. M. R. Eaddy, the pastor, at Lamar, S. C., or to the presiding elder, Rev. W. G. Valentine, No. 401 W. Liberty street, Sumter, S. C.

We have received a copy of the book written by Mrs. Isabella Webb Park, entitled "The Story of Joseph." The very beautiful putting of the Bible account of Joseph is most helpful and inspiring. Hundreds of these books ought to go into the hands of our young people. Mrs. E. J. Cox, of Marion, Va., has already ordered thirty. This book may be ordered of any one of our book depositories at 25 cents per copy, net.

Prof. E. H. McKissack, of Rust University, has been appointed one of the two auditors of America for the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows. It will be remembered that Prof. McKissack is in charge of the endowment department of the Order of Odd Fellows for the State of Mississippi. He has had remarkable success, and it is a fitting recognition of his business ability that Prof. McKissack has been appointed to this responsible position.

The permanent return of Bishop Vincent to the United States from Zurich will make it possible for him to be at Chautauqua, N. Y., in 1905, and during all future seasons. He will, as in previous years, preach one Sunday morning sermon during August, conduct devotional hours during recognition week, have general charge of the famous Sunday vesper service in the hall in the grove, and preside over many other of the religious and secular meetings.

Dr. John H. Reed and family, of Little Rock, Ark., and Dr. Joseph C. Sherrill and family sailed from New York Saturday, Jan. 28, by steamship Campania. They are on their way to Liberia, where Dr. Reed will become vice-president of the College of West Africa. Dr. and Mrs. Sherrill are returning to the field after their first furlough. Dr. Reed for a number of years was a member of the faculty of Wiley University. Later he has been pastor of Wesley Chapel, Little Rock.

Bishop and Mrs. J. M. Walden spent a week at Claflin University, Orangeburg, S. C., the guests of President and Mrs. Dunton. He examined the growing assets of the institution and assisted in planning for additional buildings and equipments for both the literary and manual training departments. The Bishop preached or lectured every day to the great delight and profit of both teachers and students. He was greatly encouraged by the fact that 48 new converts professed Christ and 90 per cent of the 700 students are Christians. The Bishop and Mrs. Walden left for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville and Atlanta, where they will inspect the work of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society and that of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of which Mrs. Walden is a prominent member.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

Analyzed by the health officers of New York, Boston, Chicago and London and found a pure, cream of tartar powder, of highest healthfulness and leavening strength.

Care for your family's health requires constant watchfulness to exclude from your kitchen the unwholesome alum baking powders which are declared by physicians to be productive of nervous and digestive diseases.

Farm and Fireside

TO GET RID OF COTTON STALKS.

Oats might very successfully be sown in drills between the cotton stalk rows. Wait until a freezing morning in February and then knock the stalks down as low as possible, first threshing off the larger branches. The stalks are very little in the way of cutting with the ordinary hand grain cradle. In suggesting the sowing of oats in cotton fields I have in mind ordinary uplands on which the cotton stalks would be a small problem. Next to burning the stalks, the quickets way to get in shape to plow under is to run over the corn rows with a stalk cutter, of which there are a number of makes. Not a bad way to dispose of corn stalks when preparing for cotton is to have the stalks picked up and laid in the open bedding furrows and so dispose them that they may be covered completely when listing. Use the stalk cutter as advised for corn stalks.—B. C. Butler.

HOW TO CURE AND DRY HAMS AND SHOULDERS.

When your meat has absorbed all the salt it is going to take up, take it and wash it in warm water thoroughly, getting all the salt off, then hang it up and smoke it at once while it is yet damp; have your fire of oak or hickory and have it hot enough to cause some grease to run over the surface of the meat. Fire all you are going to fire—say two or three days—at once; then take down as soon as you quit firing and then put this mixture on, warm: Take some good molasses and mix ground black pepper, say one pound of pepper to one gallon molasses. Take a rag and thoroughly smear this mixture on every part and then pack down for a week or ten days, then hang them up and you will not be bothered with skippers. The molasses will add greatly to the flavor of the meat. The hams and shoulders might then be placed in sacks, one to a sack, as a double precaution; the sides will not need it.—J. T. Cardwell in Atlanta Constitution.

Literary Notes

BOOK REVIEWS.

"The Dream of Dante," by Henry F. Henderson. Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati, Ohio; Oliphant, Anderson & Ferrier, Edinburgh and London, publishers. Price, 60c net.

Whoever has read the great allegory wishes to read it again and this interpretation seeks to furnish an "open sesame" to the treasures contained in the Dream of Dante. The book brings us in close touch with Dante, his life, the manner of the times in which he lived and the influence of his dream upon the people of that age. The author, from the beginning to the end, shows that his chief aim is to make us know that Righteousness is the object for which Dante contended and that his dream is based upon Righteousness and its opposite force—Wickedness.

"The Story of Joseph," for Young People, by Isabella Webb Park. Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati, O., publishers. Price 25c net. The old, old story of the beloved son Joseph told anew and so beautifully that it will appeal at once to young people and to older people, either, for that matter. This bright, crisp, vigorous study of Joseph is admirably calculated to advance the cultivation of Sunday reading in the home and every alert Christian parent will see that this book is added to the young people's library.

"Baby Bible Stories," by Gertrude Smith. Published by the Henry Altemus Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

These little stories are beautiful lessons which any young child can easily understand. They are written in a reverent, child-like style that will endear them to hundreds of mothers. It is at the quiet hour of bed-time that childish minds are easiest impressed and these Bible Stories are just the truths to be read or related at that time. The book is well-printed and beautifully illustrated.

"The Atlantic Surfman," by Edward Augustus Rand. Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati, O., publishers. Price, 50c net. An interesting story drawn from the daily life of an Atlantic surfman, written in a style that will hold the reader. Among several interesting characters stand out two surfmen, ordinary, commonplace fellows one thinks at first, but who prove themselves heroes by losing their lives that others might live. This story is peculiarly interesting to those who live near the ocean and who can appreciate the many dangers to which a surfman is exposed in the discharge of duty.

Among recent valuable finds in the old world is that of a fresco representing the origin of Rome, recently discovered in Pompeii. The picture was brought to light under the then director of the National Museum of Naples, and of the excavations at Pompeii, Professor Ettore Pais. Professor Pais, now Professor of Ancient History and Classical Antiquities in the National University of Naples, and a member of the Academy of Sciences there, has prepared for the February Century a popular account of this interesting painting. A reproduction in color of the fresco will be a notable feature of the number.

You Can Be Cured.

Mrs. Etta Finnegan

No. 11 Cedar Terrace,
Hot Springs, Ark., April 28, 1904.

When I was first married I found that my strength and health were gradually diminishing. I became nervous and irritable, and was in bed a week and sometimes ten days of every month, and had intense bearing down pains.

My husband had the best physician for me and I used his medicine for nearly four months, but I gradually grew worse, had less strength, and finally, I was unable to leave my bed at all.

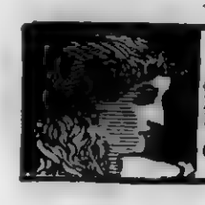
A friend who was calling on me brought me a bottle of Wine of Cardui and was so loud in its praise that I told her that I would take it to please her.

I was surprised and pleased that before I had used the bottle I really felt better, so I kept on using it. Eight bottles brought back my lost health and strength, and I have not had a sick day in six months.

Etta Finnegan

Treasurer, St. Andrews' Society.

WINE of CARDUI



Mrs. Finnegan had little hope of relief because she knew that every time she had those spells of menstrual suffering with attendant bearing down pains she was weaker. And every month the pain was growing more severe.

But Mrs. Finnegan was cured by Wine of Cardui. She is now so well that there are few women who would not be glad to have the health she has. And any woman who has those dreaded bearing down pains can have the same relief.

You can be free from menstrual irregularities if you take this pure vegetable wine. Why don't you take it when you see what it has done for others? Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

"A Nation's Idol," by Charles Felton Pidgin. Henry Altemus Co., Philadelphia, Publishers. A romance which makes us live nine years of happiness with Benjamin Franklin at the court of France. It shows him a splendid diplomat, a tender, sympathetic friend and interesting acquaintance. It is a story with a fascinating love interest too, with exciting incident and adventure, the principal actors in which are a patriotic young American and the girl he loves. One of the chief interests of the romance is the homage that Franklin received from the French people.

Doings of the Workmen.

(Mrs.) Della Anderson, Clinton, La.—Bishop Mallalieu appointed Rev. F. Walker to this charge Feb. 1, 1904, and he is known almost everywhere in Louisiana as a good pastor, a great church worker and an earnest preacher. He found our church almost at a standstill, but in a little time the work showed that every wheel had been set in motion by him. Every family takes the SOUTHWESTERN and too much cannot be said about him as an honest man. I pray God's blessings upon him wherever he is sent.

Jesse W. Price, Pastor, Humboldt, Tenn.—Our watch meeting service was conducted by the pastor. Services on Christmas day were memorable. The Christmas trees at Humboldt and Kenton, Tenn., were grand. For the first time a Christmas tree program of our Book Concern was rendered. Mrs. Ollie Stigall, of the city school, had charge of the music with the church choir. Miss Allie Balridge, chorister, Miss Maudie Balridge, organist. Sunday, Jan. 1, the pastor preached with much power a New Year's sermon. At 2 o'clock p. m. the Emancipation Proclamation services were held. The pastor gave the introductory address, followed by the city pastors and the old people. The occasion will be long remembered. The church has been wonderfully revived.

E. H. Langston, Pastor, Cary, Miss.—This circuit is still alive. The subject of education has been so impressed upon the minds of the people that on Sunday night, Jan. 1, after the sermon, the Sunday school gave Perler Harris a nice reception. Rev. F. P. Brook made a timely talk, and Mr. Moses Johnson read an interesting paper Monday morning Mr. Harris left to attend Meridian Academy.

J. W. Stone, Pastor, Calvert, Tex.—I was appointed to this work on Dec. 17, 1904, arrived here Dec. 30, and met my officers that night. A more friendly, warm-hearted church-loving set of men and women I have never met. Plans were soon effected and money raised for traveling and moving expenses to the amount of $24.62. Watch meeting was well attended and a glorious time enjoyed. The first Sunday was a glad day with us. Mrs. Stone came Jan. 6 and we moved into our excellent parsonage. On the evening of the 9th we were aroused by the sweet strains of music. The door was quickly opened and a large sack of flour hit the floor, bacon, sugar and other groceries too numerous to mention and money also followed. Prayer was offered by R. Pirkens. Presentation speech made by A. W. Young; response by the pastor. The faces of Dr. E. A. Durham, A. W. Young, R. Pirkens, S. N. Nash, J. W. Walton and E. Foster were recognized, and many others.

J. F. Barnes, Pastor, St. Paul M. E. Church, Palestine, Tex.—We have raised $23 on old church extension debt. The church is moving along nicely. Seventy-four were present at the watch meeting service. Collection was taken by little Willie Howard, aged 12 years, and Roberta Hassell, aged 11 years. The meeting was a spiritual benediction. When we thought all at home rested, to our surprise soft, sweet voices rang out singing, "The Comforter Has Come," and a host of good people came into the parsonage with packages, a large basket and a large box of groceries. The pastor made brief remarks and all returned home. We hope The Comforter will come again.

Chilton, Texas.—We are glad that Rev. J. S. Medlock has been returned to this charge for another year. He is loved by all who know him. Our hearts were made glad last Sunday morning by his sermon; subject, "Oneness of Human Life." At three o'clock we held an old-fashioned speaking meeting, after which our pastor made an address from which the following excerpt is taken: "My Christian friends, the evening shadows have gathered over 1904 and each of us will do what we always do at close of the year, reviewing the record of our twelve months' journey. We have met with many disappointments; we have lost many golden opportunities; we have not been successful as we desire; we have not read the books we intended to read. Hence we have fallen below our set mark. Behind us lies the old year with its defeats and its victories, its shadows and light, its finished and unfinished work. Before us lies the new year with its golden opportunities. Let us forget the old year except in so far as the memory of its victories may cheer us, or its failures admonish us and let us march into the new year with outstretched arms and open hands to do the work of the Master."

R. L. Green, Reporter, Brown, N. C., Empire Charge.—The Rev. S. K. McCorkle was sent to this charge last October and has had wonderful success. He commenced a revival at Piney Ridge, Dec. 25th, that lasted until Thursday, Jan. 5th. Eight souls were saved and the church was wonderfully blessed, both financially and spiritually. Raised for our pastor, $25.25. May God continue to bless the work.

W. H. Riley, Pastor, Flemingsburg, Ky.—I am sure that the heart of our great church will sympathize with our people at Flemingsburg, Ky., when it is known that on Sunday, Jan. 15, our beautiful and cozy little church was seriously damaged by fire. The fire originated from a defective flue and broke out just as our Sunday school was enjoying an interesting lesson. The church was not entirely destroyed, yet it is not in a condition to be used. We are out of doors, but thank God no one was injured. Our church here has done a splendid year's work. Flemingsburg Methodist church is one of the best in Methodism. Pray for us.

A. E. Gibbs, Pastor, Madisonville, Texas.—In obedience to the call of the church I have entered upon my second year's work as pastor of the Madisonville circuit. I rejoice to say that the outlook for material advancement on all lines of church work is better than ever. The Woman's Home Missionary Meeting, held at Navasota, Texas, during the recent session of our annual conference, is already bearing fruit. A great missionary spirit has been awakened throughout the circuit and our auxiliaries are planning to push the mission cause with might and main. Sister Mary Burrell, one of the most enthusiastic missionary workers in the bounds of our circuit, gave $10 for missions last year. Sisters Eveline Olophant and Annie E. Grace are presidents of the Ladies' Aid Societies. I look for great growth. The Sunday schools and Epworth Leagues are doing well. The SOUTHWESTERN is steadily gaining in popularity. Subscriptions have more than doubled and the canvass for new subscribers is being pushed. We are, thank God, spiritually alive. Several members have been added to our church since annual conference. We are planning to make the great Wiley rally, in the forthcoming district conference a deided success. Our beloved presiding elder, Rev. L. S. Blakeney, has won a very warm place in the hearts of these people. Our motto: "Many souls for Christ, all of our benevolences raised and the SOUTHWESTERN in every home."

S. P. Branch, Pastor, Many, La.—The following named young ladies of Bayou Scied have given two beautiful lamps to the church, valued at $7.77: Misses M. G. Broach, Octavia L. Bass, R. R. Poter, Lula Lewings, Bianah Woods, P. L. McGough, A. I. Glover, Louisa Woodfen. There are but few like these. May the Lord still guard and bles them until all have found a place in his church.

W. H. Woods, Sunday School Supt., Hattiesburg, Miss.—Rev. D. F. Dudley has been a faithful worker in the St. Paul M. E. Sunday school of this city. He has made Hattiesburg what it is. He has remembered the poor and needy. We feel that the Conference will also remember him. Have raised altogether this year $72.85; paid out, $68.72. The same old roll of officers are for 1905. They have served faithfully for two years.

Maud Geeston, Secretary, Columbia, Miss.—The Woman's Home Missionary Society of Columbia Valley Church gave an entertainment on the fourth Saturday night of November and raised $11.50 for our local treasury. Our pastor, Rev. E. M. Dukes, preached for this organization on Jan. 1. We had a grand time. Raised $4.35. Paid pastor $2.15 on an overcoat.

C. H. Pyles, Pastor, Washington, Ky.—On the second day of January the Emancipation Proclamation exercises were held at the M. E. Church, conducted by Prof. J. C. Crawford. It was a successful affair. The people were in great crowds at the church. Chorus by the choir. Devotions by Rev. C. H. Pyles, who also made a few appropriate remarks. Prof. H. W. Rose spoke on the landing of Negro slaves in the United States. Prof. Crawford's witty remarks caused a ripple of merriment. Miss R. J. Ford's subject was "The Emancipation Day." She handled the subject well. Mrs. Leelar Wadsworth spoke on the "Fatherhood of the Negro." Mrs. Wadsworth is an impressive speaker and one of our sweet singers. Mr. W. R. Lane spoke on the subject of how many "Negroes were set free in 1865." Rev. C. H. Pyles spoke largely on the "Progress of the Negroes in the South." He is an able speaker. Prof. J. Crawford said many things for the good of the race. The exercises closed with music. The ladies had a nice table set to accommodate the many friends. Committee: Prof. J. C. Crawford, chairman; James Lane, Alfred Lane.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT.

An interesting letter to our readers from Mrs. E. Austin of New York City:

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 9th, 1902.

A little over a year ago I was taken with severe pains in my kidneys and bladder. They continued to give me trouble for over two months and I suffered untold misery. I became weak, emaciated and very much run down. I had great difficulty in retaining my urine, and was obliged to pass water very often night and day. After I had used a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which you so kindly sent me on my request, I experienced great relief. I immediately bought of my druggist two large bottles and continued taking it regularly. I am pleased to say that Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I can now stand on my feet all day without having any bad symptoms whatever. You are at liberty to use this testimonial letter if you wish. Gratefully yours,

Mrs. E. Austin.

19 Nassau St.

The mild and prompt effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Recommended and taken by physicians, used in hospitals and endorsed by people of prominence everywhere. To prove what Swamp-Root will do for you a sample bottle will be sent absolutely free, by mail, also a book telling all about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and be sure to mention reading this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

I Cure Women

OF FEMALE DISEASE AND PILES

I Will Cure You So That You Should Stay Cured—Women No Longer Need Submit to Embarassing Examinations and Big Doctor Bills.

To Show Good Faith and to Prove to You That I Can Cure You I Will Send Free a Package of My Remedy to Every Sufferer.

I hold the secret of a discovery which has seldom failed to cure women of piles or female weakness. Falling of the womb, painful menstrual periods, leucorrhea, granulation, ulceration, etc., are very readily cured by my treatment.

I now offer this priceless secret to the women of America, believing that it will effect a cure in almost any case, no matter how long you have suffered or how many doctors have failed.

I do not ask any sufferer to take my unsupported word for this, so will send you some of the medicine free. If you will send me your name and address I will mail you a trial package absolutely free, which will show you that you can be cured. Do not suffer another day but just sit down and write me for it right now.

Mrs. Cora F. Miller, Box N 24, Kokomo, Ind.

G. D. Dunn, Pastor, Durham, N. C.—Our church has made excellent growth during my pastorate here. I have by the Father's help got the church in pretty good condition and its future prospect is bright. In less than ten months have raised $130, with one member to begin with; have also lathed and plastered, whitewashed and ceiled the church, built pulpit and altar, and made other improvements. We are now preparing to put in the pews and think that with the aid of $160 we can complete the church, and we are striving to raise that amount. The membership is gradually increasing. I have also organized the Epworth League since conference, and within a few days the Woman's Home Missionary Society will be organized.

J. O. Richards, Pastor, Hurst M. E. Church, Plaquemine, La.—The fourth quarterly conference and Love Feast was held Jan. 4-5. The presiding elder, Rev. H. Taylor, was on time. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. T. G. White of Bethel A. M. E. Church, this city. The Love Feast was a spiritual benediction. Rev. White and members took an active part. The fourth quarterly conference was in keeping with Hurst. Stewards, trustees, class leaders and other officials were present with written reports. The presiding elder, in his remarks, reviewed the six years' work on the district. Rev. H. A. Sorrell, of Jackson, La., was with us. On the 29th of December the King's Daughters of Hurst M. E. Church had their annual sermon preached by Rev. N. Ford, after which the following officers were installed: President, Tena Baily; vice-president, Esther Tolls; secretaries, Malissa Woods; treasurer, Virginia L. Walker. After the installation refreshments were served. Through the president and secretary, the auxiliary presented the pastor a purse. I take this method of thanking them for the same.

LADIES' VICTORIA WATCH 6 size, gold filled hunting, 10 year case, engraved in an assorment of handsome scenic and floral designs, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement, 7 jewel, nickel finish, stem wind, lever set. Your jeweler would charge you from $10 to $20.00 for a watch like this, yet it is FREE to you for selling only 16 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

Which had you rather do?—Do business with a firm that does exactly as claimed, or with a firm that claims to do one thing and does another? We do exactly as claimed. Every offer and statement in this advertisement are facts. There is no "pulling the wool over your eyes." We do not describe a watch in beautiful language worded in such a way as to make you believe one thing and mean another. We state plainly the facts. There can be no misunderstanding. 10,000 agents are now selling Chief Elkhorn's Indian Wrang Tang Liniment. In another year 15,000 will be doing it. Over a million bottles have been sold through agents in the Southern States, and millions more will be sold. Agents who commenced years ago to sell it are still selling it today. We do not make a practice of giving premiuns. During the year 1905 we will only give the watches mentioned here. We do not make money when you work for a watch. We prefer that you work for the cash. If you need a watch—work for one. If you don't—work under the cash plan. Read what we have to say below, and if you then desire to join the company, send in your application for the agency--if you are not already an agent.

WRANG TANG LINIMENT. Strong, Powerful, Penetrating.

It's medicine—it's not water—it's not weak. It is so strong and powerful that it goes through the skin, through the flesh and into the very bones—every drop—not a sign left on the skin—no oil—nothing. That is why it's Action is Magical. Its like Gold to Silver. A 20 dollar gold piece is 20 times as valuable as a silver dollar, yet a silver dollar is larger. It's not the size of a thing that makes it valuable. It's the Quality. One Bottle of Wrang Tang Liniment is worth 20 bottles of Water Stuff. Every drop is medicine—medicine that's powerful—medicine that's strong—medicine that's magical.

May the Lord continue to lead us and may all work as never before. I will be glad to help each one in this great work. Yours for Christ, R. N. JONES, P. E.

Heart Weakness.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has made many hearts well after they have been pronounced hopeless. It has completely cured thousands, and will almost invariably cure or benefit every case of heart disease.

Short breath, pain around heart, palpitation, fluttering, dizzy, fainting and smothering spells should not be neglected. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and see how quick you will be relieved.

It cannot make a new heart, but will restore a sick one by strengthening the heart nerves and muscles, relieving the unnatural strain, and restoring its vitality.

"I had a very bad case of heart trouble. For six months I could not work. Last July I was plowing corn and feeling bad all day; in the afternoon in plowing one row I had to lay down, or fall down, three times. My heart throbbed as though it would burst through, and I had difficulty in getting my breath. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and before I had used half of it I could lay down and sleep all night. Previously I had to get up from five to ten times a night. I have taken several bottles, and my heart is as regular as clock work. I feel like a new man, and can work considerable for an old man, 84½ years old."

H. D. McGILL, Frost, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

Dear Brethren: We have just closed a most successful year in the history of this conference, but there are many more things yet to be done and among them are these: Easter, Missionary Day. Please lay plans to raise every dollar of your apportionment. Get subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN; get money and students for Philander Smith College. Please be ready to give me the membership of your charge. Let us work and pray together as brethren. If any changes I will notify you. I am yours truly, S. MCDONALD, P. E.

TUPELO DISTRICT.

FIRST ROUND.

Pontotoc, Jan. 27-29; Pontotoc Cir., 28-29; New Albany, Feb. 4-5; Ripley, 10-12; Ripley Cir., 11-12; Corinth, 17-19; Corinth Cir., 18-19; Tupelo, 25-26; Nettleton, March 4-5; Amory, 10-12; Amory Cir., 11-12; Union Grove, 18-19; Belle, 25-26; Okolona, Mar. 31-Apr. 2; Okolona Cir., Apr. 1-2; Cottonplant, 5; Houston, 8-9; Houston Ct., 11; Tupelo Ct., 15-16. Dear Brethren: Let us thank God for the success of last year and trust him for greater success for this year. The way to succeed is to begin now. Begin planning to raise your benevolence. Our missionary apportionment is larger than last year; we should determine to raise it all and also our full apportionment of all other benevolent claims. Remember our duty to Rust University. We are asked to raise $230 on the new building fund. Our plans for raising this will be the same as last year, only each department will be asked to raise more. Dr. Foster has great faith in us; let us sustain that faith. We must not forget the SOUTHWESTERN; continue the canvass. Dr. Jones said at Columbus that we were standing nobly by the paper. This is our duty. We should not be satisfied with what we have done. Let us do more. Don't forget the district motto, "Work! Work! Work!" Yours for the Master. W. C. CLAY.

STARKVILLE DISTRICT.

FIRST ROUND.

Weir, Jan. 28-29; Whites, Feb. 4-5; Liberty Hill, 11-12; Hopewell, 18-19; Kosciusko, 25-26; Kosciusko Ct., 22-23; Ackerman, March 4-5; Starkville, 10-12; Bradley, 9; Starkville Ct., 26-26; Little Rock, 2; Rock Hill, 18-19; Belle Cir., 11-12; Louisville, April 1-2; Cedar Bluff, 22-23; Mathiston, 14; Bellefontaine, 12; Eupora, April 15-16; Green's Burrough, 13; Kilmichael, 8-9. Dear Brethren: Easter Sunday is the 4th Sunday in April. Please raise all benevolences. Begin now. Get the programmes at once. Don't take the Easter collection with the pastor's; 1,500 conversions, $1,100 for benevolences, 300 SOUTHWESTERN subscribers, $230 for the new Rust Building and 100 students for Rust University is the work for this year. Let us do it. We can if we will. The first district conference will convene at Ackerman, July 25-30. May God bless you all this year. Yours,

THOS. W. DAVIS.

ABERDEEN DISTRICT.

FIRST ROUND.

Center Ridge, 22-23; Aberdeen, Jan. 27-29; Aberdeen Cir., 28-29; Athens, Feb. 4-5; Strongs, 11-12; West Point, 17-19; West Point Cir., 18-19; Caledonia, 25-26; Columbus, March 3-5; Columbus Cir., 4-5; Columbus Mis., 2; Crawford, 11-12; Brooksville, 18-19; Macon, 24-26; Macon Ct., 25-26; Mashulaville, April 1-2; Schuqualak, 8-9; Hickory Grove, 15-16. Dear Brethren: There are a great many reasons why we should make this the greatest year of our ministry. Souls are to be saved, the temporal affairs and the spiritual life of the church are to be looked after and the benevolences. Begin to plan now to make Easter a great day. Take all your benevolence on this day if possible. Remember, brethren, each of us will stand on our merit; therefore great things are expected of us. If you are in a new field take hold and master the situation by work, love for God and faith in the triumph of his cause. Yours for the Master's cause.

NOTICE.

The ministers of the Navasota District are hereby notified to meet in Hempstead, Tex., on Feb. 8, at 10 a. m., to organize a Ministers' District Institute. This is for the betterment of our district spiritually, financially and temporally. The presiding elder is in full sympathy with us and will be present. Ministers from other districts and other denominations are cordially invited; also local preachers of the district. Come, brethren, let us get together and understand each other.

W. E. HUTCHERSON.

NOTICE.

Pastors and others attending the 42nd session of the Washington Conference to be held April 12, at Winchester, Va., can go and come on one and one-third fare card orders furnished by me; tickets to be bought from trunk line points in Maryland, District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia. Tickets sold good going April 10 to April 19, returning April 20, inclusive. The pastors will at once notify me how many of these card orders they will want for their respective charges. S. H. NORWOOD, Secty.

NOTICE.

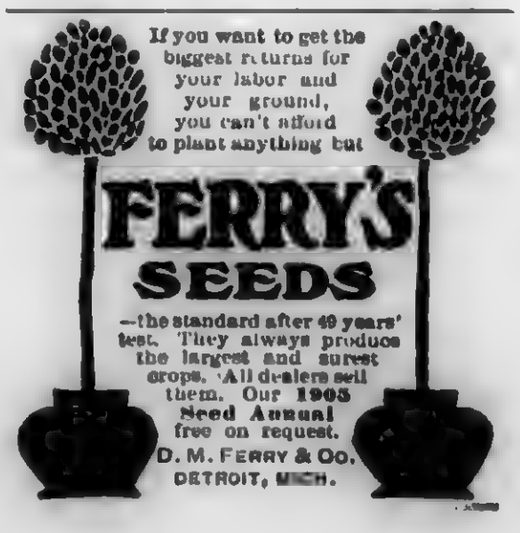
The district stewards of the Houston District, Texas Conference, will meet at Trinity M. E. Church, Houston, Tex., Feb. 22, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of estimating the amounts for the support of the district, etc.

EDWARD LEE, P. E.

Field Notes

J. A. Y. Dickens, Secretary, Sardis, Miss.—We thank the Father for sparing us to see the year of 1904 close with preacher and people all in good health. We are also thankful for the wise administration of our presiding elder, Dr. N. H. Williams. We ask the prayers of our brethren for success during the present year. More than ever our charge is moving along nicely on all lines of church work.

Rev. R. V. Doakes, Pastor, Spring, Texas.—Our first quarterly conference was held Dec. 17-18, with W. A. Fortson, P. E., presiding. Our quarterly report was small, owing to the death of one of the sisters of the church, but we hope for success in the near future.



E. H. Forest, Clinton, Tenn.—We have just closed one of the most successful revivals in the history of this place. During the two weeks 32 souls were converted, the greater number of whom were heads of families, some 50 and 60 years of age. The pastor is under many obligations to Presiding Elder Webber, who was with us for one week and rendered most excellent service. This is Bro. Webber's first year on the district, but he is holding the reins with the skill and ease of a veteran. He is an honor to the church and an inspiration to the people.

S. J. Jenkens, Pastor, Dickson, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference convened Jan. 14-15. Rev. A. Phillips, our beloved presiding elder, was on time, full of life and power. Everything had been arranged for an old-fashioned quarterly conference, that is to fast and pray Friday for the Lord to be with us. Our prayers were heard and we had a pentecostal shower. The elder was at his best and preached an eloquent sermon. Paid the elder his quarterage.

Baldwin, La. — Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst Mrs. A. H. D. Godman, wife of Rev. W. D. Godman, D. D., President Emeritus of Gilbert Academy and Industrial College, and formerly Professor of Physiology in said college, sharing therein ably, and faithfully, the great labors of her excellent husband, and whereas, the bereavement is painful and sorrowful to us all; Resolved, That we, the faculty and students of Gilbert Academy and Industrial College, deeply sympathize with our beloved Doctor Godman and Miss Inez, his daughter, and other members of the family, and that we most earnestly pray that God may graciously comfort them in their sore grief and affliction. Pierre Landry, H. W. McDonald, Bertha A. McNeil, Effie P. McGann, Virginia J. Landry, G. L. Cowan, Eula Alston, committee.

Covington, La.—Rev. Samuel Bell, our pastor at Mandeville, La., died on Wednesday, Jan. 18th. He said that he was crossing Jordan without fear for Christ was with him. Sister Bell has lost a devoted husband, his sister a good brother, the church and conference a faithful worker, an upright, true and loyal co-laborer. The funeral service was conducted by Revs. Alfred Vincine and Jones of the A. M. E. Church and B. R. Jackson, pastor.

Village Spring Ala.—Sister Hannah Carrethers died Dec. 26. She was the loving wife of Dan. C. Carrethers, one of the oldest local preachers on the charge. Sister Correthers died in full triumph of the faith. She was a member of the M. E. Church 32 years. Eleven children survive her, one of whom, Rev. B. C. Carrethers, is our pastor at Center and Howells Crossroads. The burial service was attended by the pastor, assisted by M. M. Fentress, Elder B. Maddon and Obb Vann of the Baptist Church. Bennie Maddon, a nephew of Elder Maddon, died in peace and was buried on Monday, Dec. 26. W. M. Stores, Pastor.

Fairfield Tex.—Sister Francis Mims, one of the oldest members of the M. E. Church, died January 6th, after a long illness. She was ready to meet her God. Seven children survive her. She was about 57 years of age and had been a member of the M. E. Church from childhood. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. G. B. Doggett.

James Jones.

Jackson, La.—Death has visited our ranks and taken from us Sister Ellen Dunn, one of the faithful members of our church, who died Wednesday, Jan. 4th. A father, mother, husband, three small children, sisters, brothers and other relatives survive her.

C. C. Barnes.

Monroe, La.—Bro. Andrew Logwood, a member of Jones Chapel, was struck and instantly killed by the "cannonball" train on Friday night, Jan. 6, at Logtown, La., 16 miles below Monroe, Louisiana. Brother Logwood was an industrious young man and was highly respected by both the white and colored residents of this city. He was for six years a faithful member of the church, which by his death loses a staunch friend. The funeral service

It is much easier for a woman to confide in the average man than in the average woman. She knows that the man will respect her confidences and keep them to himself. He is strong, has more experience of the world and can help the woman who needs advice. There is every reason why women should not trust their delicate constitutions in the hands of unskilled persons. It requires a thorough medical education to appreciate and understand the womanly organism. When a woman has ills and pains that she cannot bear—when life seems dark for every woman, she should confide her troubles to a physician of standing in the community, or one who has a national reputation. Certainly it would not be the part of wisdom to confide in an ignorant person without medical education simply because she was a woman. There is every reason why she should write to some great specialist, one who has made the diseases of women a specialty for a third of a century, like Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. All his correspondence is held sacredly confidential, and he gives his advice free and without charge.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

was attended by his pastor, F. M. Lashington, in St. James M. E. Church. He leaves a wife, father, mother, brothers, sisters and a host of friends.

F. M. Lashington, Pastor.

Shreveport, La.—Brother Adam Hall, a probationer in St. Paul M. E. Church, died Jan. 12th. Also Sister Polly Anderson, a member of the same church, departed this life in full assurance of an eternal reward in heaven. The bereaved are commended to Him who doeth all things well.

B. M. Hubbard, Pastor.

Coal Creek, Tenn.—Mada, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Whitson, died in the Christian's faith on Sunday, Jan. 15th. In her death this community lost one of its most charming girls, the church one of its most promising members, and the family a bright star from its circle. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, assisted by Bros. Whitfield, Mac Clain and Harris. E. H. Forrest.

Natchitoches, La.—On Jan. 13, Mrs. Maria Jackson, a member of our church here, died, aged about 65 years. Also on the 15th inst., Mr. Joseph Bell, at the age of 34 years, died. Mr. Bell was a member of one of the best families in this city. He leaves a mother and brother here, and two sisters and a brother who reside in New Orleans, La. He professed Christ before he died.

W. J. M. Price, Pastor.

Jeanerette, La., St. Peter M. E. Church.—Sister Louisa Key, an old member of St. Peter's Chapel, died in peace Jan. 18. She has been a faithful member of the church for forty years. She was 80 years of age. She leaves several sons, daughters, grandchildren and also many friends. Interment was made in St. Peter's cemetery.

G. J. Rogers.

Port Allen, La.—Harriet Britton died Jan. 7 in full triumph of faith. Scott Chapel has lost a faithful member. She is survived by one daughter and a host of friends. C. Spears, Pastor.

Rosenberg, Tex.—Rev. John Steward of the Baptist Church departed this life Jan. 22nd, and on the 23rd his funeral was conducted from the St. Luke M. E. Church by Rev. G. W. Smith of the Baptist Church and the pastor, Rev. Steward. The deceased leaves an aged wife, four daughters, a son and a host of friends. The church of his choice loses a willing worker; Heaven gains a soul. Peace to his ashes.

L. L. Givhan, Pastor.

Moberly, Mo.—On Dec. 27th Brother Frank Downing went home to his reward. He was indeed a true friend to his church and pastor. His presence, kindly advice and co-operation is greatly missed. His pastor conducted the funeral service, which was largely attended. Rev. Robinson of the M. E. Church, Rev. Lover of the A. M. E. Church, Revs. Green War of the German Church and J. Grant of the M. E. Church all paid high tribute to the memory of this noble old saint. He had been a member of the M. E. Church for twenty years and was 95 years of age at the time of his death.

William Wheeler.

Field Notes

S. M. G. Taylor, Pastor, Eola, La.—The Eola charge met with a serious misfortune Dec. 26th. Our church at Sunflower blew down, which thr[illegible] in an unpleasant situation. The church at Eola has been in a bad condition for some time. This gives us two churches to build next conference year. We have not one church on this work, yet I am coming up to conference with round reports.

D. McFarland, Pastor, Mayslick, Ky.—We have just closed a very successful revival in our church with eight souls converted and added to the M. E. Church. We have collected $12 for benevolence.

S. Tillman, Pastor, Cades, La.—The last work of Bro. J. H. Pease closed with good success. We administered Sacrament at the Lord's table to 53 persons, and there was a great spiritual uplift. We will raise every dollar of benevolence apportioned this work.

W. S. Jones, Reporter, Heidelberg, Miss.—Pleasant Valley M. E. Church.—On Tuesday night, Jan. 10, the wind blew a great storm of stormers to the parsonage with many good things, which caused the inmates to rejoice. This party was led by G. W. Myers, S. S. Jones, Joshua Jordan, Mrs. M. E. Husbands and a great many young people.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

"La Creole" Hair Restorer contains the ingredients used by the most famous Creole beauties. It will restore gray hair to its original color, stop falling hair, cure dandruff, keep the hair clean, soft and glossy and will make curly or kinky hair lie straight and smooth for a long time.

MISS NANCY RICE.

Nothing Takes Its Place.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owing very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

Has Done Wonders.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians, and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly."

UNITED FOR LIFE.

Holly Springs, Miss.—Mr. George Carmichael, of Canton, Miss., and Miss Willie Shumpert, of this city, were married on December 21, at the home of the bride's father, Rev. L. L. Shumpert. A large number of friends were present. The decorations were elaborate and beautiful. Miss Nathalie Doxey played the wedding march. The ceremony was performed by Prof. E. H. McKissack, of Rust University. Quite a number of beautiful presents were given the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael left on the evening train for their home in Canton.

A FRIEND.

Ripley, Miss.—Mr. S. J. Boyd and Miss Willie Blackwell, members of our church, were united in holy matrimony December 28, at the home of the bride. W. M. Lester officiated.

Dacula, Ga.—Mr. John M. Kemp was united in marriage to Miss Marie Thompson December 28 by the Rev. J. P. Lawson, pastor of St. Luke M. E. Church, Atlanta, Ga. The bride is a graduate of the Athen's schools and was also a student at Clark University. The groom who is a brother-in-law of the writer, is a highly esteemed young man. J. H. BRANDON.

New Orleans, La.—At the home of the bride's mother, Mr. William Stump and Miss Minnie Pinckney were united in marriage, Wednesday, Jan. 18. Rev. H. J. Wright officiated. The bride is a member of Mallalieu chapel. Mr. Stump hails from a long ancestry. Light refreshments were served. The young couple were the recipients of several presents.

New Orleans, La.—At the residence of the bride's sister, on Dec. 29, Mr. Peter Fobb and Miss Eleanor Branegot were joined in marriage by C. D. Crockett, pastor.

Alexandria, La.—Miss Fannie Hobbs and Mr. G. Green were united in marriage on Dec. 22. Also Miss Virginia A. Murray and Mr. Henry Pierce on Dec. 28. The brides are members of our church. P. W. CLARK.

Natchitoches, La.—On Sunday, Jan. 1, at the parsonage, I joined in holy wedlock Mr. Joseph Meek and Lena Lee, both of Claiborne parish, La. Also on Jan. 2, Mr. Roma M. Thomas and Mrs. Mary Hudson.

W. J. M. PRICE, Pastor.

Okolona, Miss.—Mr. George Walker and Miss Lucretia Wheeler were married Jan. 4, at the home of the bride. Mr. Walker is one of our best young men. The bride's father, Mr. Rob Wheeler, is one among the best citizens of our community.

J. M. WALTON.

Baton Rouge, La.—Mr. James Brown and Miss Nona Murrey were joined in holy wedlock on Nov. 24, in Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, which was beautifully decorated. A grand reception was tendered them by the family.

WM. HARRELL, Pastor.

Canton, Miss.—Mr. Werdell Henderson and Miss Maggie Peterson were united in marriage Dec. 26, at the home of the bride. Splendid conveyance accommodations had been arranged for the guests. A bounteous repast was served. The groom is the son of Rev. H. Henderson, our pastor at Morden. He owns here a handsome piece of property, valued at $1,000, and has a good situation in the city of Jackson. The bride owns a 40-acre farm seven miles north of the city. R. L. Tate officiated.

Mills, Miss.—Brother Cyrus Benjamin and Miss Martha West were united in marriage Jan. 2. The groom is a faithful class leader of Sand Hill M. E. Church. W. S. Leake officiated.

Hempstead, Tex.—Mr. Wiley Bryant of Double Bayou, and Miss Annie Quarles of Galveston, were united in marriage Dec. 27, at the home of the bride's mother. Rev. Wm. Bartley officiated.

Louise, Ga.—The wedding of Mr. Alex Beasley and Miss Lake Gates occurred at the home of the bride on Dec. 28. These young people are faithful and loyal members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

G. H. LENNON, Pastor.

As usual, the February Cosmopolitan covers many fields of human interest. With the interesting so-called "spiritualistic" and other psychic phenomena, Mr. Henry Ridgely Evans' essay, "The Rationale of Ghosts," is going to appeal to almost every one who sees the magazine. Adachi Kinnosuke gives a graphic account of the early days of Christian Missions in Japan. Fiction is contributed by Herbert D. Ward, Edward W. Townsend, Virginia Woodward Cloud, John Drexel Turner and John Brisben Walker.

A land of mystery and magic, the Everglades of Florida are almost as little known to-day as when the early navigators first charted the contour of the Cape. The February Century has "The Everglades of Florida" by Edwin Asa Dix and John Nowry MacGonigle, which the editors of The Century believe will give a wider range of information on the theme than has ever before been presented in a single publication. Illustrations from photographs.

ENQUIRY.

I wish to inquire for my people in Davis Bin. I left them on the northeast side of Meridian, Miss., and they were carried away by General T. W. Sherman's raid in 1862. I have not seen them since. My father's name was Samuel Maskengal; my mother, Malendia Maskengal; sisters, Annie, Charity, Lucy and Esther.

W. H. Jones, Pastor, Mechanicsville Charge, S. C.—We begin our second year on this charge with bright prospects for a successful harvest. Our people are loyal to the church and give liberally of their time and means to her support. Some of the leading men of the church are subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. Jan. 1-2 were epoch-making days for our church. Presiding Elder W. G. Valentine preached on Sunday and delivered the emancipation address on Monday. Quite a large congregation greeted him. There were also present Revs. F. Scott, of Sumter, and J. W. Brown, who preached in the morning quite an inspiring sermon. Brother Brown is a superannuate of the South Carolina Conference, in which he has seen thirty years of service and is loved by all. Elder Valentine preached in the afternoon a sermon which was both edifying and instructive. On Monday at 2 p. m. the church was crowded with those eager to hear the Emancipation address by the elder. His subject was "Some Essentials to race building." It was a speech rich in thought, forceful in delivery, yet plain and simple enough to be understood by the unlettered as well as by the learned. He emphasized as the essentials to race building, wealth, education, character and religion. The elder's speech was well taken. His words met a hearty response from the audience and will certainly do untold good. Elder Valentine is a young man. Level-headed, congenial, affable; and by his fatherly dealings with his brethren, and uprightness in character, he has won the hearts of all on the Sumter District, which is safe with him at its head.

The Cumberland River District of Tennessee Conference convened in its first semi-annual session for this conference year at Algood, Tenn., on the 9th day of November, and was called to order by Dr. H. W. Key, presiding elder, at 3:30 p. m. The devotional exercises were conducted by Bro. T. B. Blackman. The secretary of the last session being absent, the writer was elected secretary, with G. G. Gordon assistant. Ten pastors were present, 7 local preachers, 3 exhorters, 4 district stewards, 5 classleaders, 4 Sunday school superintendents and 3 Epworth League presidents. The reports were fair. The presiding elder was at his best. The people came from far and near. Some walked for miles to meet this conference. Bro. Thos. Belcher had everything well in hand and his people stood by him loyally. All were well cared for. There were a good many conversions. The collections were good. The ministers and people preached and sang and all were happy. This is what the people are needing if we are to hold the young and old of the church; it must be by preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The next session will convene at Liberty, Tenn., with Bro. H. P. Belcher and his people.

Editorial

The uprising in Russia is still on and is spreading throughout the Empire. Soisalon Soininen, Procurator General of Finland, was assassinated Monday. At Rostoff a mob of 600 angry women stormed Novikofs factory. The police dispersed the mob of women, but they collected again and this time the Cossacks were called in, and there was an encounter in which some were killed and others badly mangled. The end of the uprising in Russia is not yet.

Recorder Marmouget, of this city, has instituted a needed reform by setting apart a separate trial hour for juvenile prisoners. The Recorder is convinced that the presence of juvenile prisoners in the court while the trial of hardened criminals is proceeding, is productive of great injury to the youths that are still in their impressionable age. We believe that this is a step in the right direction, and the Recorder ought to have the support of the city government.

The Philippine Christian Advocate of January states that the Civil Commission of the Philippine Islands set apart as a holiday December 8th in honor of the Proclamation of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary. What next! Will the citizens of this country, Catholics and Protestants as well, permit such proclamations which are entirely out of harmony with all the spirit of Americanism? It is time that a firm hand was taken hold of the church situation in the Philippines in the interest of fair play.

It is not often that the United States suffers in a comparison with Great Britain or with any other country. But when the subject of accidents and deaths by railway is considered we make a bad showing. Only one person killed in every 198,000,000 of British railway travelers, whhile in the United States one is killed in every 1,883,000. One British railway traveler in every 1,623,250 is injured, while in the United States one is injured in every 97,244. In 1902 the number of railroad employees killed in the United States was 2,696, and in Great Britain 435. Perhaps we ought to take lessons in railroading from our English cousins.

The Japanese are conducting their side of the Russo-Japanese war with remarkable skill and intelligence. An official statement comes from General Oku, showing that in his entire army since May 6, 1904, only 40 deaths have occurred from diseases. This is the more remarkable when it is considered that General Oku had in his command 150,000 men and 24,642 have been on the sick list at one time. No statistics are at hand giving the number of wounded in battle, but the mortality of the wounded was less than 2 per cent. per thousand. This shows that the Japanese are not only competent in treatment of diseases but are skilled surgeons. Most of the operations are performed on the field. Civilization will be indebted to Japan for many things brought to light during the war.

GOD WILL REWARD

In acceptance of a kindness, a Filipino says, "Deus mag bayud" ("God will reward you"), and the answer usually received is "Gehapon" ("Always"). Of course, there is a certain reward that comes to one in life for a kindness shown, but the highest and best reward is of God. And while he may not literally increase the amount of meal in the barrel or the oil in the cruse as he did for the widow when she fed the prophet, nevertheless, no act of kindness shown to another goes unnoticed by our Heavenly Father, and He never withholds His reward. Indeed, we may do an act of kindness that neither the recipient nor any one else knows that we did it, but God does, and verily we shall have our reward. And the Filipino is right, God will reward every kind act.

SEEING ONE'S SELF

Conway Brown, of this city, was once a notorious drunkard. So completely was he under the dominion of intoxicants that he would wipe a rag around the place where the whiskey would overflow the cups and moisten his mouth. He was of a very high family and had a splendid education. His business outlook was inviting when his life was subjugated to strong drink. His family and friends exerted every possible means to redeem him from this blighting habit, but all to no purpose. His case went from bad to wrose. At last one day going up St. Charles avenue he encountered some furniture that was being removed from a residence and in doing so he fell and rolled into the gutter. In arising he faced a large mirror and saw himself bespattered with mud, a drunken wretch. And then the consciousness of his degradation came upon him and it is said that as he struggled along a few blocks further "he came to himself" and then he made a deep resolve, which he thereafter faithhfully kept, that he would drink no more. The mirror did it. Others had seen his degradation, but he had not till this time, and now he saw himself and set about in the only permanent way for reformation, that of a change of the personal will.

Could individuals see themselves occasionally as they are seen by others many idiosyncrasies would be laid aside, many peculiarities which are pet fads, would become disgusting, and many a moral and intellectual blemish would be remedied. There are times when a vile habit is so fixed upon the individual that he is unconscious of the degradation to which his sins have sunken him and also unconscious of the immediate danger which he faces. The conviction of wrong-doing rests largely upon the arousing of the conscience, and a consciousness of wrong-doing is fundamental to an awakened conscience. The individual's eyes turned within, therefore, will be helful toward many a reformation. The mirror did it for Conway Brown. It is not likely that the mirror will do it for everybody, but perhaps a moment of secluded meditation or perhaps a frank, and it may be, a severe statement on the part of a friend, will reveal one's weakness which would at once be changed, if the individual were only conscious of it.

THE RIGHT WAY

Jules Valentine (a Negro) some time ago charged with criminal assault upon a white woman, was within five hours after the committing of the crime lodged in jail, at Donaldsonville, La., the arrest being made upon circumstantial evidence. The sheriff of Ascension parish, in whose custody the prisoner was, kept down the mob spirit and a trial was soon ordered, which resulted in the conviction of the criminal and now the community is satisfied. The assaulted woman is avenged, if there can be an avengence for such a crime, justice is satisfied, the law upheld, and the community free from the stain of blood.

This is by no means an isolated example. There has been, however, recently an abatement of crime and likewise an abatement of mob rule. What the people in Donaldsonville have accomplished for law and order could be duplicated in all parts of the South, and if this policy were pursued it would be far better for all concerned; for every member of the community, white and black as well. When one is charged with crime let him be tried; if he be guilty let him be punished, but let civilized men respect the laws which they have made. The officials of Ascension parish have done no more than their duty, but they have done their duty where other men have failed. These men have proven that they are officials worthy of the trusts committed to them and to this extent they deserve the thanks and respect of the entire state of Louisiana and the South as well.

WANTED—1,000 SUBSCRIBERS

The Lincoln, Central Missouri, Lexington, Delaware and Washington Conferences are yet to meet. Our subscription list could be materially increased if the pastors and presiding elders of these conferences will co-operate with us. Briefly, here is how one thousand subscribers can be added to our list by these conferences: Let the brethren make at once a canvass of their membership, securing the names of those who will pay them before conference; send us the names and addresses at once; bring the money to the seat of the conference. Brother E. S. Williams, of Roanoke, Va., by this method will bring twenty-five to the seat of the Washington Conference. If every brother will do something the result will be gratifying. Send your list at once.

The Western Union Telegraph Company at Columbia, S. C., has dropped the Negro messenger boys from the service and replaced them with white boys. These boys, tho prompt and efficient in every way, were replaced simply because many of the patrons objected to being served by Negroes.

Fellowship and Education

By Bishop H. W. Warren, D. D., LL. D.

(An Address delivered at the banquet given in honor of the General Committee of Freedmen's Aid Society during its meeting held in Manchester, New Hampshire.)

This company aptly represents something of the highest there is in the world—the union of Christian people for aggressive work. It was the greatest gift that our Heavenly Father could bestow, to animate the bosoms of men with a desire to be fraternal, mutually helpful, and also to extend their influence far and wide, as he so beautifully set them the example.

So we are here from the various parts of the country, California and other parts of the country here represented. Two races are here, and yet joined together for the same blessed work. And if you had traveled as widely as my duties have taken me, you would know the blessedness of Christian fellowship and that fellowship is never lacking, where the spirit of Christ prevails. I sometimes walk in foreign cities and wonder how people as lonely as I, could consent to live, if there was no escape from that loneliness, and no finding of fellowship.

I have been in thirty-one of the great Capitols of Nations on the earth, but I have never been destitute of Christian sympathy, fellowship and love. Once going along the north shore of the Gulf of Regar from Stockholm, my steamer stopped a few hours, and at every place a committee met me on the arrival of the steamer, took me up into the city and introduced me to a Methodist congregation—they did this in every instance, until a Presbyterian on the steamer said, "I would like to know if there is any place on the face of the earth where a Methodist Bishop can go and not find a congregation waiting for him?" I said, "There may be, but as yet I have failed to find it."

This question we are met to consider here. It has a very much wider influence than we are apt to consider at first. You know that this Nation is the great educational factor of the world. Some years ago the President of the Argentine Republic, thinking to benefit his people, came North to Boston (of course) to get an idea of our common school system, and he there got acquainted with Horace Mann. After long conference, he said, "Now I think I understand it, I will go back and will introduce this system of common schools into the Argentine Republic." Mr. Mann said: "Would not it be better for you to take back a few products of the system and put them in charge of the normal schools to teach the teachers?" He asked Mr. Mann to choose twenty for him, and that was more than twenty years ago. In crossing the Andes a few years ago, I found two of those teachers that had gone out twenty years before, and had so thoroughly assimilated themselves with the system that one of them said to me, "I had a year's vacation to go away, and I went back and visited with an aunt. At length she said, 'I suppose you speak very good Spanish, but your English is perfectly abominable.'" I said to her, "Your aunt, so frank, so perceptive, was she a school madam?" "Oh, yes," said she, "that accounts for it."

* * * * * * *

So when we are touching springs of influence here, developing human minds, we are meaning it for the world. We are meaning it for all God's children everywhere. The briar's truest nature is shown by the rose, so everything shows its possibilities when developed.

But what concerning man? Man's nature under God's kindly care, no man can tell what it may develop. So we are here, good friends, to care for the education of a race, and we are coming to appreciate more and more the great possibilities everywhere in human nature under God's inspiration and man's kindly care. I am just up from Kentucky, where I held the Conference. You can imagine the great joy that came to that Conference because the Supreme Court had just finished its decision confirming the will of Mrs. Speed, giving $25,000 for educational purposes in the Methodist Episcopal Church in Kentucky. You know it has been said the Democrats in Kentucky and Tennessee are voting for Andrew Jackson yet. It will not be so any more under this higher training, and this better influence. A short time since, there came over here an Educational Commission from England to investigate our school system—they went back and reported three things distinguishing educational work in a remarkable way—first, the belief of the American mind that all human nature was educatable. I believe the man that had the most usable knowledge of the most things that I ever met, was the blackest man I ever met—Brother Mason excepted, perhaps. He was born in Central Africa—I found him in Cairo, and committed my destiny to him. He never failed me once, always right at hand. He translated one day a telegraphic message from English into French, and wrote it out as beautifully as it could be done. It is an American characteristic that we do believe in the educative ability of all people that God has made.

* * * * * * *

Some are surprised at the benevolence of the people, pouring out their money for education of those they know not. It is because the spirit of Christ has touched the people and that He who was rich, for our sakes became poor, and that spirit has spread until men everywhere believe that the highest thing they can do is to join themselves in the great work that Jesus Christ began, and that His church is carrying on.

We stand before you, feeling as the pastor said this morning, that we have come bringing high thoughts, elevated conceptions, high ideals and great achievements, and we are glad of this welcome, glad indeed that you have the same spirit and that you and we are working together for things that are not only high, but beyond this earth are everlasting.

The Power of the Pulpit

By Mrs. L. T. Miller.

It can be truly said that all of us wield an influence; some over a greater area than others, according to our different stations in life. This influence, we exert one upon another, is for weal or woe. Since we in the humbler walks of life each have a power over another, great indeed must be the power that the pulpit wields!

The pulpit—that sacred shrine towards which we turn, unconsciously, with a spirit of deep humility and humbleness. The pastor should be as the rays of the sun, darting forth here and there, awaking mankind to new endeavor and better efforts; not only spiritually but temporally as well; lifting us towards that higher plain of living and urging us on, bidding us keep step in the march of civilization.

The pulpit has the power to brighten or darken the six days intervening from Sabbath to Sabbath. The message given and received therefrom may be of such a doleful nature as to enshroud us with that impenetrable veil of dissatisfaction and unrest.

To the contrary the message given may carry with it that God-given spirit of peacefulness and joy; that joy which passes all understanding, and as we go about our daily tasks our minds will revert to that message laden with the spirit of peace that has come to us from the pulpit, and out of the overflowing abundance of our hearts our lips will sing: "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

The press and pulpit are allowed great freedom of speech and are potent factors in the framing of public opinion. The press tells of wars and rumors of wars, of the political opinions of men; the crimes committed; of deaths, births, and marriages; the press by failing to take a stand for right, sometimes arouses the baser instincts of man, urging them on to baser deeds and greater cruelties; turning men, heretofore of good repute, into human bloodhounds. The pulpit, on the other hand, stands for justice—teaching the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Lifting up its voice and crying throughout the world: "Peace on earth, good will to men."

The part of Africa and all other portions of the earth that have been redeemed, owe their redemption, through Christ, to the pulpit.

If there be any justice, any benevolence or Christianity in this country, it is due to the spiritualizing power of the pulpit.

We know not why, but there is a reverence we give the pulpit without the asking. It stands to us as a beacon light upon a hill; as a lighthouse upon some rock-bound coast. If we will but keep our eyes upon the Christ-like presence that hovers over it, breathing its benign benediction, we will at last be guided into pacific waters and safe harbors. Seeing, then, the mission and world-wide power of the pulpit, it remains with those who occupy it to determine its force for good. It remains with the ministers to say whether the power of the pulpit shall be for good or evil. They should in all truth be servants of God, men who are not too great to do a little thing.

Yazoo City, Miss.

True service means a putting away of all selfishness, a dying to one's old earthly nature, to be in all of this weakness, one of His useful ones.

It is a pleasant sight to see anybody thanking God, for the air is heavy with the hum of murmuring and the roads are dusty with complaints and lamentations.—Spurgeon.

Some Incidents in the Life of Mrs. Godman

It is said that Mrs. Godman received her first inspiration for work among the colored people from her father on his death-bed. She nursed him during a painful, lingering illness through the fall and winter of 1862-63, and reported to him faithfully on the news of the war. Every morning his enfeebled voice gave her the same greeting:

"My child, are the slaves freed yet?" and every morning through that long fall she gave him the same disappointing response, "No, father."

At last she could give an affirmative answer, and the old man died not long after in peaceful rejoicing spirit, leaving to his daughter a consecrated interest in the Freedman.

Perhaps there never was one small person who possessed more native power of authority than Mrs. Godman. In the first days of their labors in Louisiana, this power of control proved a great blessing. Dr. Godman had been an instructor for years, but always in colleges, with grown men and women for pupils. He knew nothing of the management of such an untrained, restless element as now confronted him, and until he had conquered the situation the wife ruled the turbulent spirits.

On one occasion a young woman whose deportment was generally ladylike, spoke rudely to the Doctor, and he called for an apology. The room was very quiet while the other students listened, but the young woman was obstinately dumb. Suddenly Mrs. Godman raised her head. "Why don't you do as the Doctor tells you?" she demanded. The student gave one glance into the firm grey eyes, broke down completely, and sobbed out her apology.

At another time a gentleman from the North visited the University and the students were called together to hear him speak. The room was not large enough, and the crowded, restless young people would not come to order. In vain the gentleman endeavored to speak. Then the door opened and Mrs. Godman entered, stepped upon the platform and raised her hand. Silence fell and the address proceeded amid quiet and attention.

At the close the gentleman pressed a roll of bills into Mrs. Godman's hand. "Madam," he said, "to see the power of your uplifted hand was worth my journey South."

Mrs. Godman's sense of humor was very strong and bore her over many hard places. At one time when she started for a walk with her husband and daughter, some of her wealthy Southern neighbors stretched themselves across the sidewalk so that she might be forced to walk in the gutter. Dr. Godman looked anxiously at his wife. Her proud spirit was not slow to resent insult from haughty Southerners, whose blood was no bluer than hers, and Dr. Godman desired to live in peace with his neighbors. There was danger of trouble. Now Mrs. Godman had a wondrously merry smile, and though the hot blood rushed to her cheeks for an instant, her smile broke through her anger as she looked at the row of handsomely dressed sneering women. The ludicrous aspect of the scene struck her. The ladies hesitated a moment; then the sneer faded, a smile came, and they retreated.

It was one of Mrs. Godman's favorite sayings, that she did not care who had the students during their eight hours of study if she might have their play hours, and she worked upon that principle. A girl who thought arithmetic stupid found it an entertaining subject in a numerical play after school hours; a boy who saw no sense in geography concluded that it was quite worth while to learn about cities, rivers, etc., that he might compete in a lively geographical contest in the dining room after supper; while many a student learned the parts of speech almost unconsciously during a merry game.

It was during these social hours that she influenced the manners of the students and taught them courtesy. At the close of the play hour there was always a quiet moment and a few words of song and prayer to thank God for the pleasant hour.

"These new teachers are all right in school, but they have their good times to themselves and won't play with us."

"Well," said Mrs. Godman, "they are with you all day and at night feel the need of a little change. They are tired."

"You folks never get tired of us," was the reply.

Mrs. Godman attacked the superstitions of the students in a rather unusual way. She was unexcelled in the art of story-telling, and made ghost stories a specialty. Many an evening after study hours a bevy of students would steal into her room and beg a tale. And after she had sent the shivers down one's back and made his hair to stand on end, she would cap the climax with such a commonplace explanation of it all that one would feel ashamed of his susceptibility. You would hear the boys muttering, "Oh, pshaw," as they went upstairs and hear an echo of her merry laugh following them. Not long since one of the students was heard to remark that she owed her freedom from superstitious foolishness to the Madam's ghost stories.

There was a certain reserve about Mrs. Godman's character that made it impossible to take liberties with her dignity, and by some she was called proud. If it was pride she never allowed it to stand in the way of her duty.

On one occasion a colored man came running into her home crying that he was a dead man. He acknowledged that he had struck a white man with a stick of wood, and that to make the case worse the white man was sick in bed at the time. Moreover the white man had arisen and endeavored to shoot him, but had missed because of his weakness.

It was a bad case, but Mrs. Godman put on her hat and went immediately to the white man's house. She found him propped up in a chair with bright spots of excitement on his cheeks, while a dozen grim fellows with rifles stood about the room.

As these men were all "'Cadians" and could speak but little English, Mrs. Godman tried to speak very simply.

"Do not shoot," she said, "send for the officer and have Peter arrested. We do not want a murder. He was very, very bad, but please do not shoot."

She might as well have reasoned with stones. The men were sullenly silent and the sick man shook his head.

For a moment she stood troubled, then with a quick movement stepped to the sick man's side, and dropped on her knees. "For Jesus' sake," she said.

"No, no," he cried wildly, trying to lift her up; "No, no, me Catholic; not same religion. Get up, oh get up."

"The same Jesus," she insisted, and after looking about helplessly, the man yielded and promised not to shoot.

After Mrs. Godman was released from the cares of the school, her energy sought new channels, and she took up the study of Greek and riding the bicycle. She was past sixty years old at the time, but was not to be discouraged. She rode the "wheel" like a bird, every one turning to watch her pass, and many a gray-haired woman saying, "I would learn to ride also if I could look as she does." As for the Greek, she learned to read slowly in her New Testament, and took great comfort therein.

A Distressful State

By Rev. C. H. Wethetbe.

It is a very unfortunate fact that not a few Christian people get into a state of mind which is both distressful to themselves and to others who come in contact with them. They do not appear to be actually bad people; indeed, they evidently intend to be very good, but their goodness is considerably soured. They have some elements in them which generate acid, and this gets into the better qualities of their nature and often controls all of them.

The editor of the Wesleyan Methodist says:

"Not so very long ago a brother reported to us that a certain minister had publicly denounced us as being backsliders. We inquired the date of his very wonderful effort, and upon comparison of dates learned that it was about the time that brother wrote us a most pitiful letter concerning the backslidden condition of the people to whom he was preaching, and three times in the letter begged us to pray for himself and his flock. Personally, we do not know how we would feel if we were to beg for the prayers of a man whom we believed to be so utterly backslidden as to deserve long and severe public denunciation. Indeed, in our present mood we have no desire to ever learn by experience anything more than we already know on that score. There is either something wrong with our comprehension of the fitness of things, or with that brother's sense of the just and sensible way of looking at men and religion."

I should say that the man was in great spiritual distress. It is clear to me that he feels very badly, and hence he lets out his bad feelings in the manner described. But should such a man be in the ministry? I think not, unless he gets immediately cured of his distress. His heart is in an unhealthy condition. Physical disorder may have something to do with his spiritual wobbling, but I suspect that the main seat of his infirmity is in his heart. As the case now stands, he is too bilious to continue to preach. All preachers should be free from such distress.

Lord, for to-morrow and its need
I do not pray;
But guide me, guard me, keep me, Lord,
Just for to-day.

—Bishop Wilberforce.

CHRISTIAN LIFE

The Castle of Content

'Tis but a cot, with narrow walls and poor,
  Yet Life and I dwell here in converse blest.
Love gilds the daily tasks, and evening's close
  Brings the sweet blessing of a peaceful rest.
The miser wakes to count his shining store,
  The statesman ponders on the morrow's schemes;
Here in this dwelling, which is called Content,
  There are no cares with train of evil dreams.
Nor have I treasure here to guard save this,
  A jewel rare, that on my heart I keep,
A peaceful conscience and the love of God,
  Each night I clasp it in my hand and sleep.
And lo, each morn, by some strange change, there lies
  Within my palm a gift my life to bless,
A priceless gem of pure unclouded ray,
  Unsought, unbought, the pearl of Happiness.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: John 12: 35. Theme: An Ancient Exhortation. (3)

Light is the first born thing of all the universe. God made it for the purpose of beautifying and blessing all creatures that He would create in time to come. Light as the first born resembles its great Creator in purity, beneficence, brightness, and power. Jesus is the light of the world. He is the spiritual Sun that drives away the darkness of ignorance, superstition, misery, and death, with which the minds of men are overcast and terribly afflicted. Christ is not the light of human philosophy which alone stimulates the intellect, but does not affect the heart and conscience of man; He is not "the light of Asia," which aims only at the moral nature of man, and leaves his spiritual powers unmoved; He is not the light of intense enthusiasm which destroys the healthful vigor of the mind by going headlong into extravagance and speculation that end in shame and death; He is not the light of the Jews only, but of all the world, and like the rising sun, He is destined to shine upon, redeem, and save all the nations of the earth.

The darkness spoken of in the text may come when man least expects it; it may come in the morning, at midday, in the afternoon of life; it may come while he is busy at work, or in bed fast asleep.

The man who walks while the light is shining shall be blessed, for the light will enter into his life, and he shall become a lamp, and the light in him shall be a fire, making him a fountain of glory.

Therefore, let us walk in the light while we have it, lest it mysteriously disappear in the terrible gloom of night.

Greenville, S. C.

Mr. Moody's Short Sentences

Many a backslider never slid far forward.

Everything in the world but the human heart obeys God.

A man can do more business if his head is cleared by prayer every morning.

Many think it is the Bible that says, "Do as the Romans do."

A purpose in the head and not in the heart does not last long.

"Policy" was not in the dictionary that Daniel studied.

A man can not live for God in any age or country without enemies.

Many people seek an experience instead of Christ.

If I could understand the Bible I should give up the idea that it was Divine.

Satan gets people into the cradle of an excuse and rocks them to sleep.—Western Advocate.

Never Off Guard

Forgetting and remembering are two prime duties in life. And they are both in force as duties at the same time, and all the time. Self is always to be forgotten; service for God is always to be remembered. The mother of one widely known for good works has left this stirring advice for us all: "Work as though you would live for ever, and live as though you expected to die to-morrow." That was the way Paul of Tarsus worked and lived; therefore his works live. Such a rule leaves no room for being caught "off guard." It brings impartiality into life, and leads lives into immortality.—Ex.

Talking With God

Have you ever really talked with God? Has your praying ever risen to the plane of actual communion with a personal Father in heaven? Or has it been a mere one-sided expression of your wants and purposes? There is even a great difference between praying to God, or toward God, and holding personal communion with God. "In order to commune with God, we must have something to say to him concerning our actual life." If we believe in God, it strengthens that faith to tell him about it. If we have doubts and fears, there is no other way so effectual for getting rid of them as to tell our Father all about them. Simply spreading them out before him often dissipates them altogether. But even though clouds and darkness still abide, we may yet talk with God, and the Comforter will take of things of his, and declare them unto us. Public prayer is in God's order, and should not be neglected, but the real inner experience of the individual Christian depends upon his personal interviews with him who is the very life of our life—the living God. Instead of talking things over privately with the enemy of our souls, who is constantly urging his views upon us, and agreeing with so much that he says about God, let us listen to what God says about himself, and as the infinite Father opens up his heart to us, and reveals his feelings toward us, let us do the same with him. This heart-to-heart talk is a divine method for changing our sinful hearts until they shall beat in unison with the heart of God.—Advent Review.

Danger-Proof.

Worry as we may, God's plans are best. If he has placed a child of his where it seems as though every circumstance is against that one, why should we question?

"God plants us where we grow.
It is not that, because a bud is born
At a wild brier's end, full i' the wild beast's way,
We ought to pluck and put it out of reach
On the oak-tree top—say, 'There the bud belongs!'"

Growth is God's plan for us, whether we are to be here for a few years or many. Only one real harm can come to us, and that is when we try to improve upon his plans by substituting our own.—The Sunday School Times.

God has to put many of our treasures in Heaven to make our hearts stay there.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Be Kind

Little children, bright and fair,
Blessed with every needful care,
Always bear this fact in mind:
God commands us to be kind—
Kind not only to our friends,
They on whom our care depends;
Kind not only to the poor,
They who poverty endure;
But, in spite of form or feature,
Kind to every living creature.
Never pain or anguish bring,
Even to the smallest thing;
For, remember that the fly,
Just as much as you or I,
Is the work of that great Hand
That hath made the sea and land;
Therefore, children, bear in mind,
Ever, ever to "be kind."

Beautiful Names

BY FRANK E. GRAEFF.

The "Doctor" was the new preacher who just come to the church, and all the people of town were talking about him, and wonde what kind of a minister he would be. So, first Sunday, the church was filled with pe and they went away well pleased with him had made a very favorable impression.

The following Thursday evening, when Doctor arrived with his family, he found the sonage in the hands of the church members, had arranged a reception to welcome him. affair had proved such a success that the morning it was the theme of conversatio many breakfast tables.

"Why didn't you take me, father?" asked Stark.

"Because it was night, dear, and you had t in bed early. And, besides, children might annoyed the Doctor, for he has none of his o you know," replied her father. Then he on to tell what a splendid man the new mini was.

Amy had seen the new preacher at Sun school, and he had spent a few minutes in primary department, had spoken pleasantly to children, and said he hoped to know them soon.

"I don't think he would have been one 'noyed if the children had gone to his except do you?" she asked her dearest friend, E Adams, one day the next week, as they were t ing about the reception.

"I think he likes children, for he put his h on my head when he went out of our room Sunday," answered Edna.

"An' he said he was glad to see us, didn't h asked Amy.

"Yes, he did, an' he looked glad, an' sm beau'ful, too," declared Edna, positively.

After a moment's quiet thoughtfulness, A asked:

"Don't you think he must be lonesome in big house without any boys or girls to talk t and there was something very like sympath her voice; "I would!"

"'Deed he must be, an' I wish he had s boys an' three girls, an'—an' twins, too, just us." The twins expressed the fullness of Ed well-wishes for the lonesome preacher.

"It is just dreadful to be so lonesome!" clared Amy.

he thought of the Doctor's lonely life inspired a to action, and she proposed: "Let's go to the Doctor, will you, Amy?"

would like to, but—but—I wish there was e of us—an' I'm not 'quainted with him," re- d Amy, hesitatingly. "Let's ask Beatrice and to go with us; shall we?"

O, yes, an' Sallie an' Liz'beth, too," joyfully wered Edna, "an' it will seem like a real— —what do you call it, Amy?"

A exception," promptly answered Amy.

Then you go for Beatrice an' Ida, an' I will over for Sallie an' Emma, an' let's take our ies with us, shall we?"

t did not take many minutes for the little girls get ready, and soon a very happy company nt down the street; but when they got in sight the parsonage they timidly hesitated, and al- st gave up their intended visit.

'Don't let us be afraid, for I am sure he is a e man—an' lonesome, too."

So, encouraged by Amy, they went on, and g the parsonage bell.

'We want to see the Doctor," said Edna, tim- , to the lady who opened the door.

'Come right in, and I will call him," replied lady pleasantly, as she ushered the six little ls into the parlor, and bade them be seated.

In silence they waited for the Doctor's coming, d when they heard his quick footsteps on the irs their hearts gave great thumps of expect- cy, and they clasped their dollies tightly; but fore they could do more than look at each other Doctor was in the room.

'Good morning, my little friends. I am very d to see you." And he shook hands cordially th them; and as they heard his voice, and oked up into his face so full of smiles, they felt ite at home.

"Now we shall have to introduce ourselves," ughingly said the Doctor. "I am your new eacher, and you all know my name; but who e you?" And he looked from one little girl to e other.

"I am Elizabeth Foster," that little girl finally , and then the others in succession answered: "I am Amy Stark;" "I am Beatrice Jones;" "I Ida Vaughan;" "I am Edna Adams;" and en, in a half-whisper, the last little girl said: Iy name is Sallie Williams."

"I am very glad to know you," said the Doctor, he shook hands again with each, and then ked: "What are your dollies' names?"

Promptly in order, beginning with Elizabeth one end of the group, they answered, as they ld their precious dollies toward the Doctor: Mine is Wilhelmina." "Mine is Angelina." Mine is Clementina." "Mine is Frances E. illard." "Mine is Ruth." "Mine is Martha ashington." And the Doctor, much to the de- ht of the little mothers, shook hands with the llies.

After they had told him where they lived, and whose classes they were in Sunday school, eir shyness wore off. They grew confidential, d informed him of the number of persons in ch family, how many dollies they had, where eir grandmothers lived, and——

"Wouldn't you like to come up to my study?" en asked the Doctor, to divert their conversa- n and start them on a new theme.

"Yes, indeed," they all replied.

"Go right up to the second-story front room, d I will be there in a few minutes." And he rected them how to go, then ran back to the ning-room for a moment, and soon came smil- g into the study, where his visitors stood gaz- g at the hundreds of books that filled the elves about the room.

"Do you have to study all these lessons?" ked Amy.

"I am afraid I don't study them all, but I have ad a great many of them," answered their host. nen he said: "Let me see if I remember your mes." And he began, and got along very well; t when he came to Sallie Williams he said: nd this is Dollie Williams."

All the children laughed at his mistake, all but llie, and she said: "I only wish it was Dollie, stead of what it is." Then Ida Vaughan said: Her name's Sallie."

"Sallie? What a beautiful name!" exclaimed e doctor. "I suppose it is really Sarah?"

"Beautiful! Sarah Jane beautiful!" And there was deep scorn in Sallie's voice and manner. "I—I—just don't like my name at all."

"But it is beautiful, indeed. Perhaps you little girls don't know what your names mean. Let us find out about them, shall we?" he asked, as he opened a large dictionary on a table.

"Who is first? Let us take them by the letters of the alphabet," and he ran his finger down the list, while the children crowded about him, and read:

"'Amy—beloved;' surely a little girl with such a name tries to make herself beloved!" And Amy's smiling face met the Doctor's questioning eyes, and she answered:

"I'll try."

"'Beatrice—making happy," and Sallie whispered loud enough to be heard by all: "I knew yours meant something nice; wish mine was as pretty."

"'Edna,'" continued the Doctor, "pleasure,'" and Beatrice said: "Isn't it almost like mine?"

"Elizabeth—worshiper of God.' That is good," commented the preacher.

"'Ida—godlike,'" and Ida was surprised that her name meant so much when it was so short.

"Now for Sarah Jane," and the Doctor put one arm about the little girl, and drew her toward him, for she moved away at the sound of the name she so much disliked. He turned a leaf, and his finger moved slowly down the page, and he read:

"'Sarah—a princess,'" and then turned back to the "J's," and found Jane, and read: "'Jane—feminine of John.'" Swiftly he turned the leaves, and found John among the "Names of men," and read: "'John—the gracious gift of God.'" Then he looked at Sallie, and the other girls exclaimed: "Why, it is beautiful!"

Sallie's face was wreathed in smiles as she said:

"It is—is—pretty, and I like it ever so much better than Dollie."

"Shall we find out what the dollies' names mean, too?" asked the Doctor.

"O, yes; please do," they all answered eagerly.

"Wilhelmina is no doubt named for the dear young queen of Holland; Frances E. Willard and Martha Washington bear the names of two of the noblest women of America; Ruth is a Bible name, and means 'beuty;' Angelina means 'angelic,' and Clementina means 'mild,'" explained the minister, to the pleasure of his visitors.

"You didn't tell us what your name is, nor what it means," whispered Ida.

"My name is Samuel, and it means 'asked for of God.'"

"Why, it is something like mine, isn't it?" joyfully exclaimed Sallie.

"Aren't our names splendid?" said Elizabeth Foster.

"Would it not be nice if each of us tried to be just what our name means?" the Doctor asked.

"I'm going to try!" declared Beatrice; and so said they all.

Just then a movement was heard in the hall, and the doctor's housekeeper appeared with a try, on which were lemonade and cake, so the dictionary was quickly closed.

When the refreshments were all gone, the little girls said, "We must go now," and they gathered up their dolls, bade the doctor "Good morning," and went happily down the street.

"He does like children," declared Amy, "an' I'm going to tell father so."

"Didn't we have a nice time, Sallie?" asked Elizabeth, as they were parting.

"'Deed we did, but I wish you would call me Sarah Jane—I like that better," answered Sarah Jane Wiillams.—Epworth Herald.

Faith in human love and tenderness may take its flight, but if a soul has once put its trust in its Saviour it will only cling closer through the waves that threaten to engulf it, and the revelation of the divine tenderness, the realization that tenderness is extended to oneself, and that it is just as real a thing as the clasp of a mother's arms about her child, gives one a believ in the love of God that is far more precious than any earthly possession.—*M. EPWORTH LEAGUE

BY REV. J. H. SCOTT, D. D.

Lesson Topic, February 19:

Glorifying God in Our Home

Scripture Reference: Eph. 6: 1-9.

The Word. Paul is dealing with some plain duties of home and family life. It will be well to read the preceding chapter, which properly belongs to this section. Here the duties of husbands and wives, of masters and servants, or parents and children are defined and emphasized. Our lesson deals especially with children and servants. Obedience to parents; filial honor and respect; wise guidance by parents; faithful service to employers; and recognition of the fact that all service is unto the Lord, are the special injunctions of the lesson.

Our Homily: The Model Home. If the injunctions of the apostle were fully carried out in spirit we would have many more instances of the "model home" than we find now. The various duties and relationships of the different members of the family are here set out, and if they can be fully realized we have all the elements of a happy Christian home.

Husbands and Wives. Mutual love, honor, and regard are essential to a model home. The two bears, "bear and forbear," must be in evidence. The husband and wife are different, but living in absolute harmony if true love and mutual forbearance characterize their relationship. Here is the foundation of a true home.

Parents and Children. There are mutual duties. The children are to obey, not from fear but from love and respect. And this should be insisted on. A healthy family discipline is one of the great needs of our modern family life. The parents are to set a good example. They are to be patient and not provoke to anger. Many of the troubles of our modern homes are due to the unfitness of parents. When the relations are happy and mutually helpful you can find joy and peace.

Servants and Masters. No relation is so strained in the social world to-day as this. And it is largely because we have failed to obey these apostolic injunctions. When employers are considerate, forbear threatening, and treat servants as brothers; and when employees are not "eye-servants" but faithful to their master's interests, we find happy conditions. When these are violated there is trouble. There should be no clashing of interests. There will be no domestic turmoil, no labor troubles, no "strikes" and riots when these injunctions are heeded. We can glorify God in the home when as parent or as child, as master or as servant, we do what Christ would have us do. The home life is the real life. Here we lay aside restraint. Here we act the real nature. Here is the real test of religion. Here we can best glorify Christ. "Learn first to show piety at home."

Seven Golden Rules of Home Rule.—Begin, continue, and end with prayer. Begin early: "As the twig is bent," etc. Be tender: Love makes all rules easy. Be firm: Under the glove have an iron hand. Be united: Father, mother, children in harmony. Be impartial: All treated with justice in love. Instill reverence and ambition to be good.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson VIII—Feb. 19, 1905. Title—Jesus at the Pool of Bethesda (John 5: 1-15). Golden Text—And the great multitude followed Him because they saw His miracles. (John 6:2.)

In some respects this is a very hard lesson to prepare. The section of which it is a part includes the entire fifth chapter of St. John, which records a brief visit of Jesus to Jerusalem during His Galilean ministry. Jesus wrought a miracle, (1-9); the Jews charged Him with Sabbath desecration, (10-16); and cited Him before the Sanhedrin where this defence was made. (17-47). The entire chapter should be studied together.

I. The miracle. (1-9). 1 Time: "After this." The events of this lesson likely occurred three or four months after the healing of the nobleman's son at Capernaum. My teacher's Bible puts the following events between our last lesson and this: The miraculous draught of fishes, (Luke 5: 1-11); The call of Peter, Andrew, James, and John, (Matt. 4: 18-22); The healing of a demoniac in the synagogue (Mark 1: 23-28); The healing of Peter's wife's mother and many others; The healing of a leper (Mark 1: 40-45); The healing of a paralytic let down through the roof (Mark 2: 1-12); and the call of Matthew (Matt. 9: 9).

2. Occasion: "A feast of the Jews." It is not certainly known to what feast this refers. Penticost, Passover and Purim have been named. The larger number favors the Passover, which began this year on 29th of March and continued one week. This is in the early part of the second year of our Lord's ministry. Jesus is now between 31 and 32 years old. He has taught us by example to attend religious assemblies.

3. Place: At the pool of Bethesda, or house of mercy. The last clause of verse three and all of verse four are not found in many ancient manuscripts and versions. The R. V. has omitted it. Dr. Whedon thinks it is an explanatory note, inserted in the second century, and then gradually became incorporated into the text. But reference is made to it in verse seven, and Dr. Clarke believes it should be retained. The place of this sheep market, or sheep gate, is uncertain. Many believe it to have been St. Stephen's gate on the eastern side of city. This pool can not now be located with certainty. Many associate it with the "Fountain of the Virgin," under the eastern wall, and south of the temple. This fountain is intermittent to this day. Various travelers have seen it rise from five inches to a foot in five minutes, and then as quickly subside. At certain times this movement is repeated two or three times a day. The source of this sudden rising and falling is probably an underground water course traceable from the pool of Siloam to a fountain head north of Jerusalem. The geysers in Iceland and in Wyoming are examples of intermittent springs. Medical waters are common in many parts of the world. These healings seem to have been miraculous: (1) This water healed all kinds of disease, (2) Its power only extended to the first that entered. (3) It only healed immediately after the water had been troubled. And (4) the healing was likely produced by dipping was instantaneous and lasting. Bethesda was probably a house, having a number of booths or porches, erected for the sick, by the charity of the people.

4. Miracle. (1) Subject. A certain man, who had been afflicted thirty-eight years, was brought to this pool. This does not mean that he had waited at this fountain all this time. He had likely been but a short while at the spring. He was probably afflicted with paralysis. From verse fourteen it seems that this disease was a result of his vices. He is a type of Israel wandering in the wilderness, through unbelief, for almost forty years. (2). Question. Jesus saw him, knew he had been thus afflicted for many years, said to him: "Wilt thou be made whole?" This seems to be a strange question to ask a sick man. It was not put for information, but to prepare the way for that which is to follow. It implied that the man was not whole, that he could be made whole, and that he must comply with certain conditions. Jesus is to-day asking the same question, through His word, His church, and His ministers. The word whole is derived from the same root as heal, hail, and health. (3) Answer. The impotent man was very helpless. He would be made whole but could not. He had no friend to help him down into the pool where the waters were disturbed. But while he would be hobbling down another would step in before him and receive the healing virtues of the water. We need the help of friends in coming to Jesus. One sometimes gets in the way of another in approaching the Lord. Many say self first, and friend next. (4) Command: "Rise, take thy bed, and walk." If the man had said: "Sir, I have tried many times to arise but I cannot. I have often endeavored to walk, but it is impossible," he would not have been healed. See his faith in Jesus: he believed he could do what he had been told to perform. So with the man with the withered hand (Mark 3: 5). When Jesus gives the command to do, He also gives the power to obey. (5) Effect: "Immediately the man was made whole, took up his bed, and walked. His mind, soul, and body were all healed. What a change. So sudden. Without a curative. Just a word. his bed was probably nothing but a small rug. Long had it borne him, but now he is commanded to carry it to show the completeness of the miracle. The disease, and the weakness caused by it were gone; while health, and the strength produced by it, had taken their place.

Note—1 This pool is a type of Jesus, who through the plan of salvation wrought out by His sufferings and death, has "opened a fountain to the house of David, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and for uncleanliness." (Zach. 13: 1). 2 This Bethesda is a figure of the church with its hospitals, schools, and asylums, which are or should be places of refuge for the people. 3 This afflicted man is a symbol of the human family, which is sick and dying with the malady of sin, which is invited to come to this fountain of life, but is unable to do so without divine and human assistance. 4 This cure teaches the power of Jesus to heal all who come to Him as He directs. He is able to save to the uttermost those who put their trust in Him.

II. The charge. (10-16). As the healed man went on his way bearing his bed, the Jews told him it was not lawful for him to carry his bed on the Sabbath. They based this assertion on these words: "Take heed to yourselves, and bear no burden on the Sabbath day." (Jer. 17: 21). This the Jews applied to matters as small as wearing shoes with nails in them. But it should be explained in the light of another and later prophet: "I saw in Judah some treading wine presses on the Sabbath, and bringing in sheaves, and laiding asses; as also wine, grapes, and figs, and all manner of burdens which they brought from Jerusalem on the Sabbath day." (Nehem. 13: 15).

The healed man gave them a wise answer: "He that made me whole said unto me, 'Take up thy bed and walk.'" He who possessed divine power, also had superhuman authority. Jesus is Lord of the Sabbath day, not to destroy it, nor to teach a loose observance of it, but to rightly interpret it. They wished to know who had told him to carry his bed on the Sabbath. They likely believed it was Jesus and hoped in this way to get something against Him. The man could not tell for Jesus had conveyed Himself away. A day or two after this, Jesus found him in the temple, likely making the proper offering to the priest, and told him to "sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto him." The man, desiring to add to the fame of Jesus, told the Jews who had healed him. But they took the opposite view of the matter and went about to slay our Lord. With them the work done was right, but the time of doing it was wrong.

Note—1 The Sabbath is a day of rest. Only works of necessity, of mercy, and of charity, may be done on that day. This was a work of mercy, done at the house of mercy, and by the Lord of mercy. 2. The Sabbath is a day of devotion. We are commanded to assemble ourselves together for worship. This we can do on the "Lord's day" better than at any other time. 3 The Sabbath is a day of remembrance. On this day we should meditate over the goodness of God shown to us in the past of our lives. 4 The Sabbath is a day of bright anticipations, a type of the Sabbath of eternal rest that awaits us in the world to come.

The St. Louis Colored Orphans' Home has come into possession of twenty-five feet of ground and two story brick houses valued at $4,000, and also a gift of $2,600 from the Soldiers' Orphan Association.
News Notes.

Here is my work to do, to worry over . . . . . "My work," I say. But if I can know that it is not my work, but God's, should I not cast away my restlessness, even while I worked on more faithfully and untiringly than ever?—Phillips Brooks.

The very peace that fills the Father's own glorious nature—the peace which in the experience of human hearts is so closely allied with love will settle down on the troubled, restless heart, as the evening, with its cool air and majestic beauty, settles on the fevered landscape.—Anon.

Why should we hesitate to say "good-by" to each other? Are we not pagans, to think that a word has power over God's quiet purposes, and that saying "good-by" smells of death? Must men die intestate because they think that making their wills is cutting out their shrouds? If we were old Romans, who thought "vale!" meant "forever," we might be shy of such a word, but "good-by," even if it should be for the last time on earth, is only the difference between "good-night" and "good-morning." Say it, then, like a Christian, and, if it still comes hesitatingly, stretch it out into the loveliest of wishes, "God be with you."—Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D.

Contemplate the love of Christ and you will love. Stand before that mirror, reflect Christ's character, and you will be changed into the same image from tenderness to tenderness. There is no other way. You can not love to order. You can only look at the lovely object and fall in love with it and grow into likeness to it.—Henry Drummond.

Louisiana Annual Coference.

By B. M. Hubbard, D. D.

The thirty-seventh session of the Louisiana Annual Conference was called to order in the St. James M. E. Church, Rev. D. G. Taylor, the popular pastor, Monroe, La., Jan. 25, at 9 a. m., Bishop Henry Spellmyer, D. D., presiding.

The Bishop, assisted by the presiding elders and Dr. L. G. Adkinson, administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The Conference organized with the following officers: J. J. Obee, Secretary; assistants, W. S. Chinn, J. A. Lindsay; M. C. Harrison, Statistical Secretary; D. J. Price, Treasurer; C. W. Reeves, Railroad Secretary; C. D. C. Bryan, Conference Postmaster; G. A. Payne and B. M. Hubbard, Reporters.

The standing committees were called for by the Bishop and Henry Taylor, secretary to the presiding elders, read the list of nominations. The Conference confirmed the same.

Mr. O. C. Dawkins, editor of the Monroe Evening News, and W. S. Chinn delivered appropriate welcome addresses. The Bishop in very choice terms responded. The Conference was graced with the presence of the following general officers: Drs. M. C. B. Mason, of the Freedmen's Aid Society; I. L. Thomas, of the Church Extension; R. E. Jones and W. F. Waters, of the SOUTHWESTERN; G. G. Logan and E. Caldwell, of the Missionary Society; J. P. Wragg, of the American Bible Society; E. M. Jones, of the Sunday School Union; R. E. Gillum, of the Department of Evangelism; D. L. Aultman, of the Book Concern; Prof. I. G. Penn, of the Epworth League. The speeches from these officers for the most part carried the Conference by storm. To simply mention Dr. Mason's name is a guarantee for a good audience. The SOUTHWESTERN cannot fail in its circulation in the hands of Drs. Jones and Waters.

Dr. Thomas is sweeping things before him in the interest of Church Extension. No one can hear Dr. Logan plead for missions and not give. The Epworth League, the American Bible Society, Sunday School Union, the Department of Evangelism, are in safe hands.

The Bishop had not been in the chair long before the Conference had been completely captivated. His sympathetic heart, brotherly love and fatherly advice are just so many living monuments builded in the heart of the Conference. I am quite sure I voice the sentiments of the Conference when I say that the return of Bishop Spellmyer would gladden the hearts of the brethren. The Bishop is attended by his estimable companion, who seemed to be quite at home among us. Mrs. W. S. Chinn, Mrs. W. R. Butler, Mrs. Dr. B. M. Hubbard, Mrs. C. W. Reeves, Mrs. C. D. Shallowhorne, Mrs. W. H. Lang. Mrs. S. Woods, and Dean Landry's daughter were to be seen among the visitors.

The following were received into full membership: F. M. Lashington, J. B. Johnson, T. F. Robinson, T. H. Munson, and I. B. Henderson.

The following are the names of those who completed the Conference course of study and were elected and ordained elders: J. C. Brown, L. L. Green, Wm. Harrell, W. H. Lang, R. F. Long and J. D. Wilson.

The Bishop preached a great sermon at 11 a. m., Sunday, which was well received, after which he ordained the deacons and elders.

The Conference love feast was a meeting of great spiritual power. J. A. Tircuit and W. S. Chinn preached the missionary sermon. T. J. Johnson preached acceptably to a crowded house Sunday night.

Presiding Elders H. Taylor and C. D. Shallowhorne were given substantial tokens for the esteem in which they were held by the pastors for their respective districts. The new presiding elders are: J. J. Obee, of the Alexandria district; J. W. Turner, of the Bafon Rouge district; J. O. Brown, of the Monroe district. S. Duncan, who had been presiding elder of the Alexandria district, asked to be given a supernumerary relation, as he has been sick since last June.

The Conference Treasurer reported the following:

Missions	$2,289
Church Extension	716
F. A. & E Society	1,003
S. S. Union and Tract Society	311
American Bible Society	149
Episcopal Fund	184
Conference Claimants	388

The Statistical Secretary reported the numerical strength of the Conference to be:

Full members	18,000
Probationers	1,434

The amount of $1,403 was distributed among the Conference Claimants.

Wesley Chapel, New Orleans, was selected as the seat of the next session of the Annual Conference.

After devotional exercises and the reading of the appointments, the Conference stood adjourned, sine die.

Seventh International Epworth League Convention, Denver, July 5-9, 1905

It is now time for the Epworth hosts to prepare to overflow Denver. The time as given above is definitely fixed. The International Committee confronted a problem of the first magnitude when it undertook to surpass the programs of our former conventions. The best of the old program builders were there and they went at it with determination and separated confident that they had found the road to success. The program will be evangelistic—tremedously so—in the best and highest sense of the term. It will be strikingly practical—the current of League life will run deeper, broader and stronger because of it. Every life under its inspiration will adjust itself to a sublimer outlook and enter upon a nobler career. Pursuant to a recommendation from our Board of Control, longer time will be allowed many of the addresses and the program will be notable for the masterly handling of mighty themes by strong men.

Denver is meeting the opportunity in a way beyond criticism. Ample accommodations are placed at our disposal. We shall have the finest group of auditoriums ever occupied by any of our International Conventions, all centrally located and adjacent. The best available building will be devoted to an Epworth League Exhibit. Every possible convenience will be provided. Denver will undertake to entertain all who come up to 50,000. Provision will be made for ten thousand at the rate of one dollar a day for lodging, breakfast and supper. All hotels and boarding houses will give reduced rates.

The railroads have entered into a conspiracy to prevent any one staying at home. Rates have been made for the round trip of $15.00 from the Missouri river, $21.00 from St. Louis, $25.00 from Chicago, and proportionate rates from other points. Excursions at very low rates will be run from Denver to all points of interest in Colorado, to the Grand Canyon, Yosemite, Yellowstone Park, and other resorts in the mountains or on the coast. Excursion tickets will be sold from Denver to the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, or tickets may be purchased to Portland from your home station with stopover privileges at Denver.

Throughout the League a splendid spirit of enthusiasm is now awakening that promises to pass the high water mark when the convention assembles. The great state of Iowa is foremost, having already engaged headquarters at Denver and definitely contracted with a railroad company for twenty-two cars. They intend to bring a delegation of twenty-five hundred. But others are not far behind. Transportation committees in Texas, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Kansas, Nebraska, and other states are already hard at work and report a good degree of progress. Let everybody begin to prepare for and to create interest in this great convention. Such inducements to go have never been offered before.

For information concerning entertainment or local matters, address the Rev. E. E. Bean, Y. M. C. A. Building, Denver, Colo. For information concerning the program or for miscellaneous information, address the Program Committee, Central Office of the Epworth League, 57 Washington street, Chicago, Ill.

EDWIN M. RANDALL,
Gen. Secretary of the Epworth League.

The Convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Mississippi Conference held its second session in Hattiesburg, Miss., Oct. 5-9, 1904. An excellent program had been prepared for the occasion, and the work of the Society was discussed with much enthusiasm. Mrs. L. P. May, the conference organizer, deserves much credit for her energetic efforts and the interest she has manifested in the great work of this Society. A number of delegates were present who seemed to have the work at heart and spoke encouragingly of the good being accomplished by the different auxiliaries. The manifestation of the Holy Spirit was felt by all present. Rev. J. I. Garret and Rev. D. F. Dudley rendered valuable service and helpful and instructive sermons on Temperance and Mission. Rev. D. F. Dudley and his good people entertained this convention royally. May the blessings of God abide with them continually. Yours for the work, SADIE JONES, Secretary.

BISHOP SCOTT IN MONROVIA

Bishop Scott has arrived at Monrovia. A letter written on the night of his arrival states that he is in good health and found the workers, including Mrs. Camphor, all well. He says: "I am quite well and stood the trip very well indeed. It was too dark when I reached land for me to see the place, tho the general impression is favorable." A letter dated a few days later gives the news that the Bishop has received a hearty reception at the hands of the people of Monrovia of all classes. A magnificent banquet was given in his honor at the Executive Mansion of Liberian Republic. President Barclay and several of his cabinet were present.

NEW TO METHODISM

Bishop C. S. Smith, of the African Methhodist Episcopal Church, was assigned by the last General Conference of his church to the Thirteenth Episcopal District, which included the Transvaal, Cape Colony and all the South African Conferences. Bishop Smith left shortly after the adjournment of the General Conference, with $5,000 in hand for the work, for the South African field. He has recently returned to this country and, according to the Monitor, published in Nashville, Tenn., states as the reason for his returning that the presiding elders of South Africa said to him that the church did not need a resident Bishop in South Africa. Bishop Smith submitted to the judgment of the presiding elders, contrary to the voice of his church, and is now in this country.

This is quite remarkable, especially so when the discipline provides that those who are ordained in the Methodist churches pledge themselves that they will reverently obey the chief ministers unto whom is committed the charge and government over them. This certainly is a new procedure on the part of a Methodist Bishop. It looks rather like forsaking his field and also not appreciating an opportunity, which no doubt is great.

THE TUSKEGEE NEGRO CONFERENCE

The fourteenth annual session of the Tuskegee Negro Conference will be held at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., Wednesday and Thursday, February 22-23. Announcement is made of one and one-half fare plus twenty-five cents for the round trip. Principal Washington extends a hearty and cordial invitation to all who are interested in the welfare and uplifting of the masses of the race. The Tuskegee Negro Conference has become a powerful and elevating force in the lives of Negro men and women throughout the rural districts of the South, and especially the country adjacent to the institute. The Workers' Conference, which is held on the second day, is composed mainly of presidents of schools and teachers from all over the South, who are interested in the education, moral and civic uplift of the Negro. These Workers' Conferences are especially interesting and helpful, and their influence is recognized more and more each year.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE LIGHTS

"What are you going to do about it?"—Louisiana Conference.

The address of Dr. M. C. B. Mason on the F. A. & S. E. S. was a masterly presentation of the spirit and purpose of the schools of our church and the relation of our ministry to them. It was pre-eminenlty appropriate, and the enthusiasm of the immense audience which greeted him was intense.

Drs. J. P. Wragg, I. G. Penn, E. M. Jones, I. L. Thomas, L. G. Adkinson, G. G. Logan, D. L. Aultman, and F. H. Knight, represented the church in splendid speeches which the Conference much enjoyed.

Revs. C. D. Shallowhorne and D. G. Taylor spared neither pains nor purse in making the stay of the bishop and his wife comfortable and delightful. Mrs. Spellmeyer is a gracious and kind woman. She took a keen interest in the Conference, being a constant visitor to its sessions.

Rev. W. R. Butler, the aggressive president of the South New Orleans district, rendered us very valuable services in collecting for the SOUTHWESTERN.

Mesdames W. R. Butler, C. D. Shallowhorne, W. S. Chinn, C. W. Reeves, and W. H. Lang were among the Conference visitors, also Mrs. B. M. Hubbard, who gratified the great crowd on Sunday evening with sweet and inspiring singing.

Prof. Landry, son of Dean Pierre Landry, had charge of the Conference choir, and Miss Lillian, the Dean's lovely daughter, performed at the organ.

Dean Landry made a strong speech for Gilbert College, showing what the school is doing in self help and economy in maintaining itself.

Rev. C. D. C. Bryan is the most efficient Conference postmaster we have known.

Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne and H. Taylor, after serving six years on the Monroe and Baton Rouge districts, leave them in fine condition. They have done good work and deserve much credit.

Revs. J. A. Tircuit, B. M. Hubbard, T. J. Johnson and J. O. Brown each raised over one hundred dollars for missions this year.

The Conference made a generous response to our call for subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN, many of the pastors bringing from two to fifteen names.

Great applause was made when the bishop announced Rev. D. G. Taylor's return. Bro. Taylor is a good man and is doing a good work at Monroe.

Rev. C. W. Reeves is to be greatly thanked for kind services rendered the Conference as Railroad Secretary.

Rev. J. F. Marshall, D. D., president North New Orleans district, and Rev. H. Daniels, of the Shreveport district, made creditable showings for the work. Their men love them and are faithful and loyal to the interests of the church.

Dr. R. E. Gillum, of the Central Missouri Conference, by his forceful sermons and addresses made a splendid impression for the cause of aggressive evangelism.

The presence and counsel of the lordly and efficient presiding elder, S. Duncan, were greatly missed. Bro. Duncan has presided in the Conference for many years, but owing to ill-health had to give up his work for the present.

Rev. P. W. Clark did excellent work as presiding elder of the Alexandria district, in Rev. Duncan's stead. Bro. Clark goes back to Alexandria, where he has wrought a great work and is well beloved.

Revs. J. J. Obee, J. O. Brown and J. W. Turner were appointed presiding elders of the Alexandria, Monroe and Baton Rouge districts respectively.

Rev. Frank Walker returns to Clinton, where he has worked faithfully. Mrs. D. M. Walker was missed, as there was no Woman's Home Mission representation.

The following presiding elders showed their hearty interest in the record of the Conference this year for the paper handing us checks: Revs. W. R. Butler, $10; H. Daniels, $5; J. W. Turner, $5; J. J. Obee, $5.

W. F. WATERS.

THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

The Mississippi Conference convened January 18th, in St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, Natchez, Miss. Bishop Spellmeyer was unavoidably detained on account of the railway connection, and he did not reach the Conference in time for the full morning session of the first day. On the third ballot, Rev. J. C. Hibbler was chosen to preside.

In the organization of the Conference the following were elected:

G. W. Smith, secretary, with L. W. Price, N. Toole, N. N. Sidney, D. F. Dudley and H. L. Kennedy as assistants.

P. W. Baldwin, statistical secretary, with B. W. Robertson, P. F. Robinson and W. H. Smith assistants.

J. I. Garrett, treasurer, with A. J. McNair, S. Jossell, J. K. Comfort, W. P. C. Morrison and J. B. Brooks assistants.

Among the visitors were Rev. W. P. Thirkield, D. D., Rev. Adams, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. I. G. Penn, Dr. G. G. Logan, Dr. R. E. Gillum, Dr. E. M. Jones, Dr. D. L. Aultman, Dr. F. H. Knight, Dr. R. E. Jones and Rev. W. F. Waters.

The Conference transacted its business with ease and intelligence and at the same time a warm spiritual atmosphere pervaded the entire session. The addresses and sermons were evangelical and tended toward the inspiring of aggressive evangelistic work. The missionary sermon preached by Rev. A. J. McNair, for three years pastor of St. Paul's Church, Meridian, was well received. Brother McNair is now pastor of the great church at Yazoo City. During his three years at Meridian he raised $1,025 for benevolences and 250 souls were converted.

One new district was created, the Gulfport district, and Rev. R. N. Jones is the presiding elder. Rev. J. B. Brooks and Rev. G. W. Smith, D. D., are the two new presiding elders who are serving the Shubuta and Brookhaven districts.

The Mississippi Conference is in many regards one of our leading Conferences. The brethren are loyal to every interest of the church and show great consecration in their service for the Master. Mississippi is particularly a fertile field for the SOUTHWESTERN. Many of the pastors take great pride in securing subscribers.

Our church at Natchez, under the heroic leadership of Rev. W. P. C. Morrison, bids fair to be a strong appointment. The pastor deserves great credit for the admirable manner in which he entertained the Conference, and especially when the size of our membership in Natchez is considered. The church is struggling under a heavy purchase debt toward the liquidation of which the Conference subscribed $900, and there is no more worthy enterprise in which a Christian philanthropist can invest and expect greater returns than at this place.

The Conference treasurer reported the following amounts: Missions $1,194; Church Extension, $154; Sunday School Union, $87; Tract Society, $32; Freedmen's Aid, $1388; Public Education, $53; Children's Fund, $139; American Bible Society, $43; Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, $27; Woman's Home Missionary Society, $75; Other Benevolences, $111; General Conference expenses, $23; Conference claimants, $84; Episcopal Fund, $77; total Conference collections, $3,346.

A new journal has spread its sails. Its banner reads thus: "The Colored Catholic Herald," published in the interest of the colored Catholics in America. Its editor is Augustine Joseph McNorton, and the business manager is Edward E. Cooper, formerly editor and publisher of The Colored American. The Colored American is merged into The Catholic Herald.

Miss Hattie E. Emerson, who has retired from the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society on account of ill-health, and is now recuperating at Briarcliff Manor, New York, is writing a sketch of the Woman's Home Missionary Society's work in Florida, giving her experiences during the twenty years of service in Florida. Her volume is looked forward to with interest.

In another part of our paper we give an account of the death of Mrs. Neville Smith, of this city, who was one of our representative citizens. Her daughter, Mrs. Emma B. McKoin, of St. Louis, reached New Orleans before the death of her mother, and is now spending a while with her father at No. 2831 Dryades street. Mr. William McKoin also came down from St. Louis. The family has the heartfelt sympathy of the SOUTHWESTERN.

Rev. A. Becks, A. M., of the Washington Conference, has built and remodeled eleven churches, two parsonages, bought two lots, two bells and three organs and has raised $15,000. The largest church was built at Withville, Va., 90 by 65. Brother Becks also engineered the construction of another church at Charleston, Va., which is 75 by 56. He has just completed his last church, on which there is a debt of but $350.00, at Hinton, W. Va., a town of 75,000 inhabitants.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Crampton, of Pittsburg, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Agnes Blanche, on January 24th, to the Rev. Chauncey I. Withrow, D. D., pastor of the Augusta Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Staunton, Va. The ceremony was read by Dr. C. W. Smith, editor of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate. Dr. Withrow is favorably and well known to our readers. Miss Crampton comes from one of the substantial and most representative families of Pittsburg. She is cultured and refined and will no doubt prove a helpful companion to Dr. Withrow in his ministerial labors. On reaching Staunton, on January 31st, the couple were given an elaborate reception by the members of Dr. Withrow's church.

NEWS NOTES.

There is a movement to remove Sing Sing Prison to some other point. Its present situation is low and unsanitary.

At Newport, Ark., a few days ago, a colored coroner's jury was appointed to hold an inquest over a member of their own race. A white man presided.

An educational rally in the interest of Morris Brown College was held in Atlanta, Ga., recently. The attendance approximated 3,500 people, and a subscription of about $1,000 was raised for the institution.

It now looks as tho Negro troops from Georgia will not be allowed to attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt. Governor Terrell does not want the state of Georgia represented on such an occasion by Negro troops.

The California State Library is preparing to open a free circulating library of embossed books for the blind of California. It is now engaged in listing the names and addresses of all the blind people in the State.

Boley is the name of the town located on the Fort Smith and Western Railroad, in the Creek nation, governed and inhabited exclusively by Negroes. It is scarcely a year old, yet contains two churches, several large stores and other business enterprises. At the new passenger station a Negro ticket agent and baggage master will be employed. The population of this town is 400 law-abiding citizens.

Claflin University has just closed its twenty-second consecutive annual revival meeting. During this time over 2,000 students have publicly professed Christ as their personal Savior. Ninety per cent of the 700 students now in attendance are Christians. The meetings rarely last more than ten days and are conducted by the president and teachers. Frequently four or five meetings are in progress during the day in different classrooms at the same time. At night the entire student body is assembled in the College Chapel, where a short sermon is preached, followed by testimonies, singing and special prayers for seekers. It is an interesting fact that nearly all of the educated colored people of this country have been trained in distinctively Christian schools.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE ITEMS

The Conference surpassed all previous records in subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN, giving 280.

Mississippi Methodism is aggressive, vigorous, and evangelical.

Revs. J. C. Hibbler, J. M. Shumpert, R. P. Threlkeld, and J. Brooks, all presiding elders, in addition to subscribers brought to the Conference, gave us a check for five dollars each for names to be sent in later.

We were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dumas. More excellent and generous attention I have never received. Mrs. Dumas is a charming and graceful woman, an ideal homemaker. Their home is the finest of ours in the city, its value entire being estimated at $6,000. Dr. Dumas and his brother operate what is known as Dumas' Pharmacy. A prosperous business is done, averaging over 10,000 prescriptions filled a year. The one is a practicing physician, graduate of Illinois Medical College; the other a pharmaceutical graduate of Meharry. Dr. Dumas' office is supplied with all necessary implements including an X-ray machine for treatment of diseases and surgical operations. The telephones at his residence and downtown office are constantly calling for his services.

We breakfasted on Sabbath with Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Miller. The meal was elegant and appetizing. At the table were Drs. J. P. Wragg, G. W. Smith, J. C. Houston, the distinguished Lawyer Winston, of Greenville, and his accomplished daughter, Miss Charlie. Experiences at Natchez are never to be forgotten. W. F. W.

Farm and Fireside

The subject of grasses and pasturage is rapidly becoming one of great importance to the people of the South, and more now than ever before in the history of the country. This is another good sign of the times. With pasturage and hay will come more cattle, sheep and hogs, and with these there will be more manure and better crops. More than this, with more pasturage there will be less area in tilled crops, but not necessarily less cotton and corn, farming will become more diversified, there will be more than one crop to sell during the year, and farmers will become nearer able to pay as they go for whatever they will have need to buy, and when the market is down for cotton or tobacco, the owner will be able to store and hold in his own barns. The passing winter affords the young farmer a fine opportunity to take up the study of grasses and forage plants adapted to the South. And it will pay to give some attention in the meantime to our native grasses. There are a great many of these, some of them quite valuable, and all worthy of attention, as an aid in getting a pasture established, to serve until better can be introduced. Every young farmer ought to possess some work on grasses, as Flint's or Beal's, or even the bulletins and volumes that have been put out from time to time by the national department of agriculture. But while resort may be had temporarily to the native grasses, the broomsedge, bermuda, etc., get in a patch here and there, as fast as you can, of the best cultivated sorts—red clover, timothy, orchard grass, red top. Sow down the vacant lots and corners to some of these. Even a half acre will be found of great value in feeding the milch cows or the work team. Resort to the clovers, especially the old and reliable red clover, the scarlet or summer clover and the rest. Much is being claimed for alfalfa. Try it. Experiment, not largely, but judiciously, until you get some personal knowledge of the sort you are growing. And as material for forage and crops for improving the soil, there are few things better than oats, rye and field peas. The first two are excellent cover crops for the land in winter, they make good hay or good grazing for small stock, and they supply the land with a good amount of stubble to the turned into humus. Field peas follow nicely after these, and the two crops may be grown all in one season, thus securing an abundance of vegetable matter in the soil in the cheapest way possible. Great attention is being paid to the field pea of late, and it well deserves all that is claimed for it. As a soil improver, a feed for hogs, sheep and cattle, and a cheap form of human food, the field pea has few equals. With winter rye and oats and field peas, grasses and other forage plants may be ignored or employed in a small way only. Let every farmer choose for his use such things as may suit best his farm, or fit in best with the rotation he may have adopted. Not all or many varieties, but the best for his conditions, is the rule for each one to follow. The study of grasses is an interesting one. But experiments and trials of them is often fascinating. —B. W. J., in Home and Farm Journal.

Literary Notes

"Lucanus: A Friend of the Christ." By J. F. Stout. Jennings & Graham, publishers, Cincinnati, Ohio. Price, $1.00.

A remarkable story of the time just before the crucifixion of Christ. It is the ever-sorrowful recital of the sufferings of the Lord Jesus, portraying so vividly the beauties of His nature and His exceeding love for mankind. The dramatic intensity of this story grows with each succeeding chapter, developing with unusual power and sweetness the love of Lucanus and Mary of Magdala, both followers of the lowly Nazarene. The book is full of strength and tragic beauty.

Marion Harland contributes a charming Southern romance entitled "A War-Time Evangeline," to the February Lippincott's Magazine. "The Siege," by Will Levington Comfort, is a tale of Manchuria. A story of city politics, which is particularly bright and keen, is written by Arthur Hendrick Vandenberg, entitled "The Shrewdness of Hawkins." Prof. Albert Schinz, of Bryn Mawr College, writes a woman's paper under the title "Miss or Mistress." This is a discussion of the question whether a woman who is old enough to be married (and is not) shall be called "Mrs."

The Delineator for March, containing authentic reports of the spring and summer styles, is of special interest to women, and a most attractive number throughout. The story of Charlotte Elliott's famous hymn, "Just as I Am," as related by Allan Sutherland, is of greatest interest. "The Game of Politics as it is Played in Washington"—and more particularly woman's part in it—is at interest just at this time of coming inaugural. There are the usual departments and other matter of interest to women within and without the home.

Field Notes

Georgetown, Texas.—After the adjournment of the West Texas Conference at Fort Worth, I went immediately to my appointment and held watch meeting. My members tell me that this meeting was the best in the history of the church. The Holy Ghost came down and set our hearts on fire. From that night we started our revival which continued eight nights. Fifteen souls were converted and 20 added to the church. Rev. Dr. Johnson, the presiding elder, held my quarter Jan. 14-15, and preached three soul-stirring sermons. We paid him in full.

N. H. TOWNSEND.

Waynesboro, Ga.—Much joy and pleasure has come with the new year to the inmates of the parsonage of Haven M. E. Church. On the very dawn of the New Year, before the iron-tongued bell could finish its proclamation of glad tidings to all, the people there was found a handsome lot of groceries and wearing apparel on the front porch. Again, the night of the 4th was made very pleasant by a band of happy sisters, who called at the parsonage with delightful gifts for pastor and family. Among the many contributors were Miss Mae R. Reese, Mesdames T. Williams, E. Walker, B. Bell, F. Cherry, J. Jackson, M. Johnson; Messrs. A. Quarles, S. Cherry and others. Come again all.

Godfra McCoy, Rosedale, La., Hartzell Chapel M. E. Church.—Rev. H. Taylor, our presiding elder, was with us on the 2d of January, held our fourth quarterly conference and preached a good sermon. This is the fourth year that our pastor, Rev. S. Green, has been with us. We are not tired of him yet. We raised during his administration up to date $4,050. The young friends of Hartzell Chapel M. E. Church presented their pastor, Rev. S. Green, with a $25 suit of clothes for Conference. [We would gladly publish the names of the leaders of this movement if space permitted.] May the Lord bless these kind people.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

And Bladder Diseases at Home at Small Cost—One Who Did Gladly Tell You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (the Clothier), East Hampton, Conn., says if any suffering man or woman will send him their address, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect cure he so successfully used. We advise every one to take advantage of this free offer, for Mr. Hitchcock is positive it will result in their permanent cure.

Princeton, Ind—We have just closed our revival. Eighteen souls were happily converted and joined the church. Our church is alive along all lines. Rev. J. L. Wilson, our pastor, has made a great impression in our city. He will have a full round report to carry to the Annual Conference at Louisville. The Epworth League is doing good work.

Mrs. Lucy Venable, Reporter, Woodside, La.—One of the merchants of Woodside, Mr. W. A. White, a true Methodist gentleman, also Mrs. Lue Williams, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, presented the pastor serviceable gifts. I pray God's blessing on them.

LUCIEN ROLLAND, A. T. A.

F. M. GUERRY, D. P. A.

Doings of the Workmen.

Henry A. Henley, Pastor, Troy, Mo.—We are rapidly coming to the finale in our conference year's work in Wesley Chapel M. E. Church. Jan. 22 was our fourth quarterly meeting for this conference year. Rev. C. M. Keeton, presiding elder, was with us. Though somewhat weak, as a result of recent illness, he entered heartily into the services, which were well attended, and the presence of the Holy Spirit was manifestd. A large percentage of the church membership communed. Our love feast was one of the best we have witnessed in this church in years. The quarterly conference was full of interest. Every department of the church but one was in action. The reports showed progress, financially and otherwise. Our account with the elder has been settled in full, the benevolent assessment is well in hand and the pastor's salary will be met. The trustees have their work in good condition. The Woman's Home Missionary Auxiliary is active, and a good report of its year's work is anticipated. The SOUTHWESTERN is growing in popularity here. Death has greatly invaded our ranks this conference year. Those who have been called Home were: Mary Giger, Matilda Bragg, Mary Anderson, Ellen Powell, Carrie Lee Hutt, Beverly Sydnor and Henry Shelton. A vote of confidence was taken, which was quite flattering for the return of the pastor and family.

J. C. Epperson, Pastor, Daingerfield, Tex.—I have not been able to preach but two sermons this year. The smallpox has been in this section since December, hence I have been delayed in my work.

Cumberland, Tenn.—On Jan. 7-8 the first quarterly conference of the Cumberland-Furnace circuit was held in Stone's Chapel with Rev. A. Phillips in the chair. Reports showed that the circuit was in a good condition, both spiritually and financially. Rev. Phillips was at his best and preached two good sermons. Raised for all purposes during the quarter, $80. Organized one Epworth League, which is doing fine work, with Mrs. Emma Edmonson at its head. Our Sunday schools are doing fairly well.

Bulah Morris, Reporter, Sparta, Tenn.—Our church is yet in winter quarters, tho much new life has been added since the Rev. J. L. Massey has been our pastor. He is a faithful church worker. Altho the weather has not been at all favorable our pastor has not missed one of his appointments, although it is 21 miles from one end of the circuit to the other. He has supplied all four Sunday schools on the circuit with good literature and is doing all he can to get subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. We feel assured of great success in our church work.

F. L. Kirkpatric, Pastor St. Andrew's Chapel M. E. Church, Fort Worth, Tex.—The West Texas Annual Conference convened here December 14th, and Bishop Wilson handled the Conference with such brotherly care that we would be glad for him to come again. The great speeches from our general officers made a lasting impression on the people of Fort Worth, deepening the influence of Methodism in the hearts of not only our people but many others. Since Conference we have received 11 into the church, one converted, and have raised a good portion of our benevolence. Our people are proud that the Conference left the writer here for the third term. They have increased the pastor's salary, and we are moving along well. Last Monday night at a late hour a large host came to the parsonage with sweet songs. They were admitted and, led by Mrs. G. C. Echols and Mrs. S. Thomas, loaded our table with many good things. After a short program all returned home.

J. W. Stone, Pastor, Calvert, Tex.—Our first quarterly conference convened Jan. 28-29. Rev. J. H. Swann, presiding elder, was present. This is said to have been the most successful business session in two respects in the history of our church. Our fifteen classleaders were all present with good reports, and, as a result, more money was raised than in any previous business session. The conference was a grand success. Elder Swann is wide-awake to every interest of the church. He preached three excellent sermons on Sunday, administered the Lord's super to 82, and secured three annual subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. I have been here one month, and we have raised about $100. Paid the presiding elder $25. Mr. Quence Henry and Mrs. Ruthie Trent were united in marriage Sunday night just before the elder preached.

O. J. Prince, Macon, Miss.—On my return to my work, the good people of Macon charge, both Methodist and Baptist, came about 9 o'clock to the parsonage and left more than a hundred pounds of groceries. The storm was led by Edith Alston, Callie Smith, M. Estes, Mariah Scott and others.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Have You Uric Acid, Rheumatism or Bladder Trouble?

Pain or dull ache in the back is unmistakable evidence of kidney trouble. It is Nature's timely warning to show you that the track of health is not clear.

If these danger signals are unheeded, more serious results are sure to follow; Bright's disease which is the worst form of kidney trouble may steal upon you.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney and bladder remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. A trial will convince anyone—and you may have a sample bottle free, by mail.

Swamp-Root Entirely Cured Me.

Among the many famous cures of Swamp-Root investigated by the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, the one we publish this week for the benefit of our readers, speaks in the highest terms of the wonderful curative properties of this great kidney remedy.

Gentlemen—I attribute my present good health to Swamp-Root. I suffered many years with kidney trouble and had an almost constant pain in my back. Your great remedy, Swamp-Root, cured my trouble, and I have since been perfectly well.

Yours truly,
B. H. Chalker, Ex-Chief of Police,
Ozark, Ala.

Lame back is only one symptom of kidney trouble—one of many. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are obliged to pass water often during the day and to get up many times at night, inability to hold your urine, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid, constant headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness, poor digestion, nervousness, irregular heart-beating, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science

To Prove What SWAMP-ROOT, the Great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, Will do for YOU, Every Reader of Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Absolutely Free by Mail.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. The Proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

A. J. Proctor, Secretary, Mason, Tenn.—The first session of the West Tennessee District Conference convened in Key Chapel M. E. Church at Humboldt, Tenn., Jan. 26, 1905, with the Rev. J. A. W. Moore, presiding elder, in the chair. Opened with devotional exercises conducted by the elder, after which he gave an instructive talk to the conference. As this was a mid-winter session, only a few were present. However, it was a good session. The reports of the brethren showed the district was alive and that a goodly amount of the benevolences had already been collected. Good spiritual sermons were delivered by Revs. M. Williams, S. M. Stayhorne, S. B. Brown, R. B. Ross, W. E. Edwards and Rev. Ridick. A. J. Proctor was unanimously elected secretary, with Revs. S. M. Strayhorne and A. J. Goodholl, assistants. We are to raise $1,000 for Walden University on the fifth Sunday in April. This district is asked to raise $250, as follows: Centenary, $25; Mason, $15; Martin, $15; Alimo, $14; Brownsville, $8; Humboldt, $10; Friendship, $15; Dyersburg circuit, $5; Fowlks, $10; Burdett's Chapel, $15; Warren Chapel, $15; Pleasant Grove, $15; Galloway, $10; Union City, $15; Springville, $8; Paris circuit, $12; Wildersville circuit, $8; Lexington circuit, $8; Selmer, $15; Molandtown, $1; Memphis (East Missions, $2; Annisdale (East Mission), $2. Dr. Logan is to hold missionary conventions on the district this spring at Mason and Martin, respectively. Every pastor is asked to attend each one. Due notice will be given through the SOUTHWESTERN. The conference closed, alive spiritually, to meet in its next session at Kenton. Tenn.

A. McNeal, Pastor, Commerce, Ga.—Our first quarterly conference was held in Warren Chapel Jan. 20-22, with Dr. G. W. Arnold, presiding elder, in the chair. Mrs. M. L. Wilson was elected secretary, and officers were present with written reports, which gave evidence of a splendid beginning for a successful year's work. Dr. Arnold preached, Sunday night, an eloquent sermon that delighted his audience We raised our full assessment for the quarter. Total raised, $19.15.

A. C. Mitchell, Reporter, Hahnville, La.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held with Rev. Dr. Marshall in the chair. This year has been a great success with us. Rev. T. B. Cooper has broken the record. Have paid the presiding elder and pastor in full. St. James is on top. Raised for all purposes, $765.63. Sister Cooper is a loyal worker in the church. The old folks' concert which was given by her was a great success.

NOTICE TO THE SEDALIA DISTRICT.

Dear Brethren—In a few brief weeks the Lord willing, we shall have assembled at the 19th annual session of the conference. It will be gratifying should we have full and complete reports in all departments of the church and more especially will the heart of each member be greatly delighted should we lead the van. Therefore, my beloved, let me appeal to you, and urge upon you for the last time in this conference year, through this medium to come to the conference with good reports. Let every benevolent cause be full. The church looks upon us now, not as children, but as men. Do not come with excuses, but come with a bountiful harvest. With such the Lord will be pleased and the church will rejoice. Brethren, do not fail to preach, or cause to be preached, the Annual Educational Sermon, and take a collection. Yours brotherly,

W. H. SMITH, P. E.

Reward will be paid to any person who can find one atom of opium, chloral, morphine, cocaine, ether or chloroform in any form in any of Dr. Miles' Remedies.

This reward is offered because certain unscrupulous persons make false statements about these remedies. It is understood that this reward applies only to goods purchased in the open market, which have not been tampered with in any way.

Dr. Miles' remedies cure by their soothing, nourishing, strengthening and invigorating effects upon the nervous system, and not by paralyzing and weakening the nerves as would be the case if these drugs were used.

For this reason Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are universally considered the best pain remedy

"I have suffered for 25 years with severe pains in my head, heart and back, and have tried everything I could get and could not find any relief until I got a box of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I suffered as long as 12 hours at a time with such severe pains that I feared I would lose my mind. The Anti-Pain Pills gave me relief in from 10 to 20 minutes. I do not have to use Morphine any more. I wish you would publish this so that other sufferers may find relief."

Field Notes

A. B. Beauford, Pastor, Cave Spring, Ga.—We had a great quarterly conference Saturday and Sunday. Our presiding elder, Rev. C. W. Adam, preached with so much power Sunday that a great revival broke out, and two persons, man and wife, joined the church. All were made happy. Our presiding elder is a new man in every way. He and I have been together twenty-one years, but I was made to wonder during our conference if he was the C. W. Adam I once knew. We wound up the quarterly conference Sunday night with $51.05.

(Mrs.) Lucy Venable, Reporter, Woodside, La.—The pastor, Rev. A. B. Venable, preached a good sermon on his last Sunday night here before the Conference convened. Collection, $29.60. The stewardesses at Mason Chapel M. E. Church presented the pastor $5.35. The stewards of Sumners Church gave him $8.25. Five cash subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN were secured. Raised for all purposes, $860.05.

A. W. Bird, Pastor, Cleveland, Ky.—Our presiding elder, Rev. L. M. Hagood, was not with us at our third quarterly meeting at New Providence M. E. Church, but, having some good officers connected with our church, such as Rev. H. White, C. Boyce and J. Pinkston and others, we raised our elder's money and several dollars over.

J. H. Brandon, Pastor, Tallapoosa, Ga.—On Friday night, Jan. 20, the parsonage was stormed by a committee headed by Prof. C. W. Harper, principal of the City School. This committee was composed of both Methodist and Baptist friends: Brother M. Brooks, head steward; Lossen Parks, M. Proctor, Mrs. Eliza Tollaver, Mrs. Lucy Brooks, Miss Rosa Harper and others. The pastor was called upon to make a few remarks. A song and prayer were offered. Proctor Brooks and Prof. Harper made brief remarks, and all bade us good-night, and we were left to gather up our numerous packages.

Edna D. Hinton, Nolensville Circuit, Tenn.—Our first quarterly conference was held Jan. 21-22, with our new presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Smith, in the chair. On Sunday morning and night, the elder preached two of his most eloquent sermons. He also gave us a good lecture on the education of our children and loyalty to our church and pastor. Many partook of the Lord's supper. We have raised this quarter for the pastor, Rev. R. H. H. Hinton, $69.17; presiding elder, $13; other purposes, $36, making a total of $118.17. We hope to make a better report next quarter. Pray for our success.

Cloverport, Ky.—There was a grand reception held last Saturday night, Jan. 14th, at the Asbury M. E. Church, for the benefit of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, which was a grand affair. Quite a number of out-of-town guests were present. Mrs. Eliza Bates was hostess for the evening; Mrs. Mary Richardson received the guests. The reception was given in honor of Misses Beatrice and Marsellar Walker. These present were: Misses Annie Adams, Cincinnati, O.; Alma Brown, Huntsville, Ala.; Clara France, Louisville, Ky.; Beatrice Walker, Nashville, Tenn.; Cornelia Pope, Dominion of Canada; Germany Kline, Germany; Christina Richardson, Gallatin, Tenn.; Ellen Roberts, St. Louis, Mo.; Francina Pope, Halifax, N. C.; Mary Singleton, Chicago, Ill.; Ellen Christina Bard, Chicago, Ill.; Lucel Reed, Nashville, Tenn.; Carrie Reed, Evansville, Ind.; Carrie Mable Brown, St. Louis, Mo.; Consuella Neusom, Philadelphia, Pa.; Susie Owens, Chicago, Ill.; Marceller Walker, St. Louis, Mo.; Elmimie Russell, London, England; Gracie Mitchell, Indianapolis, Ind.; Adermus Singleton, New Orleans, La.; Hazel Fisher, Chicago, Ill. Some time was spent socially. At 10 p. m. a bell was rung and the curtain was drawn, revealing a lovely table, laden with all the delicacies of the season. Rev. Wm. Ballom, of the Westine Baptist Church, delivered the toast in a very pleasing manner. Lunch was served to all the guests. The affair was the grandest ever held in Cloverport, and the guests all left for their different homes saying the Woman's Home Missionary Society entertained them to the very highest degree, and that they are doing grand work here. The reception and entertainment raised a neat little sum for the society. We thank kindly all of our guests and friends for their attendance. Mattie B. Pope, Pres.; Lucy Walker, Sec'y.

They Live in Our Memory.

Manchac, La.—Mrs. Hannah Reed, the wife of Phillip Reed, was born May 7, 1837, and departed this life Jan. 5, 1905, aged 67 years. For 54 years she lived a faithful and consistent Christian member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She was a most painstaking mother and a devoted wife. Her children were trained in the Christian life from early childhood. As a worker in the church she was always faithful. She was president of the Stewardess Board of Daily Chapel and served until death called her home. The deceased leaves a husband and four children, namely, Rev. J. H. Reed, of Little Rock; Mrs. Charles L. Porch, of Baton Rouge; Prof. P. C. Reed, of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. S. S. Wright, of Manchac. These, with a host of grandchildren and relatives, mourn her departure. The funeral was largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. C. Wright, the pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell of Baton Rouge, and Rev. Paul Woods, of Manchac. A great and good woman has fallen in Israel. She rests from her labors.

C. WRIGHT, Pastor.

Cumberland, Tenn.—Sister Winetter Suggs, a member of Promised Land Church, departed this life Jan. 25. She had been a loyal member of the M. E. Church for about 36 years. A husband and several children survive her.

J. R. REASONOVER, Pastor.

Starkville, Miss.—Mr. W. M. Thompson was born in the year 1865 and died Dec. 25, 1904. He joined the conference in 1901 at Aberdeen, Miss., under Bishop Hurst, and was sent to Indianola where he remained two years. He lived close to God and died in peace, leaving a wife, four children and many friends.

A. J. TRICE.

Mouzon Langston, the baby child of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Langston, died Jan. 8. The writer conducted the funeral service in St. James Church on the 9th ult.

L. G. GREGG.

Pootscamp, Miss.—Sister Missouri Houston, a member of our church at Pottscamp, died in Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 24. The funeral service was conducted by the writer. She leaves a husband, daughter and a host of other relatives. Bro. M. H. Harris died Dec. 17. He was a loving father, a devoted husband and faithful Christian. He was laid away with Woodmen honors. Bro. Samuel white, who was killed at Pontotoc Jan. 2, was a young man of noble character, a devoted husband and a Christian gentleman. He leaves a wife and a host of relatives.

W. T. ISAIAH.

Campti, La.—Rev. A. H. Bank, pastor of St. Paul M. E. Church, was taken sick on Thursday, Jan. 19, and died Jan. 23. He leaves a wife, two children, sisters and two brothers. His body was carried to Plaquemine for burial.

PHIL JOSEPH.

Daingerfield, Texas.—Brother Fred Owens, a faithful local preacher and district steward, died recently. He leaves several children. His mother died a few days previous of smallpox, which disease occasioned also the death of Sister Texanna Smith. Sister Abbie Allen was born Feb. 1, 1878, and died Jan. 14, 1905, aged 26 years, 11 months and 13 days. She leaves a husband, mother, sister, father, one child and other relatives and friends. The funeral service was conducted by J. E. Epperson.

Hub, Miss.—Brother Harrison Brown, a local preacher of New Hope M. E. Church, after lingering for four months, fell asleep in Jesus Jan. 27. He was a devoted Christian and a loving husband. We in the church will miss him. He is survived by a dear wife, ten boys, two girls, brothers, sisters and a host of friends. This dear brother's funeral will be preached later on by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Moody, and others. We pray God's blessing upon the family and extend them our deepest sympathy.

R. B. ANDERSON.

Mayslick, Ky.—On Jan. 11, 1905, Bro. Richard Williams, aged 75 years, died in peace January 11, after an illness of two years. He was a loyal and faithful member of our church. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. James Allen.

Bermuda, La.—Mr. John Francis Aver Campbell, Sr., the father of our esteemed friend and borther, Mr. Jno. F. A. Campbell, Jr., died Saturday, Jan. 14, in full triumph of faith, after a lengthy illness. He was conscious of his approaching death and when questioned would say, "I am waiting and leaning on the Lord." In his early life he was conspicuous in politics and also taught public and private schools. The deceased was 61 years of age at his death. We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family, which consists of a son and three daughters, all of whom are married.

JAS. APPLESSES.

Rocky Mount, La.—Sister Mary Carr joined the church Jan. 6, and died Jan. 17, in full triumph of faith. Her funeral service was attended by Rev. Johnson of the Baptist Church, and the pastor, Rev. W. C. Turner.

E. J. Kight, Pastor, Hampton Charge.—Our first quarterly conference was held by the new presiding elder, Rev. P. H. Tras. The quarter was a success. The elder was paid in the quarter $22.50. The elder preached an able sermon Sunday at 11 o'clock. There were three accessions to the church. Raised this quarter $110. The revival spirit was prevalent throughout the quarter. The church work is moving on nicely. We are preparing to build a new church at O'Neal Chapel.

There is no disputing the fact that man's heart is often reached through the stomach. Happy the housewife who can please her husband's appetite with well cooked food for the table. Many a man is grouchy, ugly, nervous, suffering from distress after eating, heart palpitation, and all through the overworked stomach.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which helps the digestion of food in the stomach, assists the blood in taking up the proper elements from the food, helps the liver into activity, thereby throwing out the poisons in the blood and vitalizing the whole system. This assimilation helps in the oxidation of the red blood corpuscles, the poisons in the system are eliminated, the heart gets the right kind of blood and the person feels invigorated and stronger in consequence. As a tissue builder it is far preferabl to cod liver oil or any alcoholic compounds or tonics, because it gives the blood and the tissues the food elements they require and maintains a person's nutrition by enabling him to eat, retain, digest and assimilate nutritious food. It overcomes the gastric irritability and symptoms of indigestion. Because of the good effects from using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery upon nutrition and the building up of the tissues, catarrh, consumption, weakness or debility and symptoms of fever, night-sweats, headaches, etc., disappear.

"I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a blood purifier," writes L. J. Smithwick, Esq., Accountant, of Norfolk, Va. For years I was a sufferer from a very obstinate form of skin disease, commonly known as tetter, which, being confined to the palms of my hands and fingers, was very annoying. In cold weather the skin would become hard and dry and would break or crack, which was very painful.

"I wrote to Dr. Pierce, stating the case and requesting his advice. He advised me to use his 'Golden Medical Discovery' to purify the blood after which he thought the skin trouble would all disappear, and I am grateful to say that after the fourth bottle there was no sign of the disease left."

Much of the physical beauty of man or woman is dependent on the hair. Keep this "crowning glory" in best condition with "La Creole" Hair Restorer, the preparation used by famous Creole beauties. It makes the hair lie straight and smooth for a long time, cures dandruff, prevents falling hair and restores original color to gray hair.

Unexcelled for Purpose

Mrs. Melissa Dancy, of 281 Orleans street, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the most prominent women in the colored society of this city, in both a social and reljgious way; Mrs. Dancy has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for many years and takes pleasure in saying:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is unexcelled for the purposes for which you recommend it, viz., to keep the hair in a soft and glossy condition and to prevent it from falling out."

MRS. MELISSA DANCY.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

MR. JAMES BACON.

Splendid Hair Dressing

To the old patrons of the Peabody Hotel, Memphis, Tenn., this is a familiar face—that of Mr. James Bacon, who has had entire charge of the dining room in that celebrated hostlery for over twenty-five years, and who, by his courteous manner and polite attention has secured the friendship and respect of every one with whom he comes in contact. Mr. Bacon says:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is a splendid dressing for the hair and I have received great benefit from its use."

His address is 98 St. Paul street, Memphis.

"La Creole" Hair Restorer retails at $1.00 per large bottle. If your dealer cannot supply you, we will send by prepaid express, to any station in the United States or Canada—

One bottle for $1.00; 6 bottles for $5.00.

Crescent City Notes

At Wesley Chapel M. E. Church Sunday evening the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, assisted by Rev. Samuel Davage, administered the Sacrament to 216 communicants.

Bro. Geo. W. Forrest has been appointed pastor at Mandeville, La., and will at once enter upon his work. Success is expected.

Mrs. Martha Smith, beloved wife of our worthy and esteemed friend and brother, Neville Smith, fell asleep in Jesus Jan. 22nd, 1905, and was buried from her late residence, 2831 Dryades street, this city, Jan. 23rd. Mrs. Smith was a lady of excellent parts, and was an ideal wife and model housekeeper. True to her home and family, a devoted wife and affectionate mother. She was converted a few days before her death. So very sweet in disposition, amiable in manners, cool and sober in temperament, that any one would have thought her a consistent and devoted Christian. She leaves a husband, two children and several grandchildren to mourn her loss. Mrs. Emma B. McKoin (nee Smith), residing in St. Louis, Mo., was telegraphed for and arrived in time to see the last of her loving mother. Our heartfelt sympathies are hereby extended to the grief stricken family, and commending them to the loving care and tender mercies of Him who doeth all things for the better, we pray that sustaining grace may be given them in this gloomy hour of sad bereavement. The night may be dark but the morning cometh soon.. Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder New Orleans South District, and Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor First Church officiated.

At Pleasant Plains Church a circle was organized July 25, 1904, known as the Helping Hand Aid. Their first sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. G. A. Payne. They have accomplished good results. Their first work was to have a cistern made at a cost of $15.00. To the pastor they gave $8.00. Repairing gutters around building, $5.00. Another gift to the pastor valued at $2.50, and several other little things have been put in shape by them. They report having raised $50 since organizing and are paying now a bill of $6.00 for the church. Mrs. H. J. Dutch, president; C. C. Louis, secretary. Two subscribers for S. W. C. Advocate.

Rev. C. W. Reeves was received cordially for the third year at Williams Chapel. Sunday services as usual. On account of inclement weather the Sacrament was postponed until the second Sunday. The pastor preached at 7:30 p. m. One annual subscriber for the Southwestern. Collection, $17.30.

Literary Notes

The more notable among the articles in the February magazine number of "The Outlook," in addition to its usual historical review of the week and editorial treatment of timely questions, are: "Who Is Father Gapon?" by Madam Breshkovsky, the woman Russian revolutionist; "The Sailor of the Great Lakes," with many pictures from photographs by the author; "A Story of the Sea Islands," "Three Impressions of Theodore Thomas," "Canoeing in Ottawa Waters," and "The American Country House," by Katharine C. Budd, an American woman architect. The number also contains an amusing story, "Nixie of the Neighborhood," by Agnes M. Daulton.

The February "American Boy" is a Washington's Birthday number and is replete with matter of historical interest. It has also a story of Lincoln's boyhood. The cover is an interesting one, as it represents Washington at prayer in the Valley Forge days. Sprague Pub. Co., Detroit, Mich.

The convention of people interested in higher prices, by resolving to hold back the present crop and plant less the coming season, has already produced some results, though we imagine that the persistent buying of Brown and Hayne has had as much as anything to do with the advance in price.

Hempstead, Tex.—The district stewards' meeting of the Navasota district was held at Bethlehem M. E. Church January 17th, with the presiding elder, J. E. Bryant, present. The various points were well represented by the stewards and pastors and the elder was much pleased with the expressions of the brethren as to their earnest desire to make this the greatest year for success in the history of the district. After arranging our work for the year the meeting adjourned. J. E. Bryant, P. E.; A. W. Carr, Sec'y.

Editorial

According to President Roosevelt, during the last three months the returns show a smaller number of lynchings than for any three months during the last twenty years. So much in favor of the creating of sentiment against mob law.

The Arkansas legislature failed to endorse the radical proposition of Gov. Davis for the applying of the school fund for the races in proportion to that each race pays for taxes. It's a hard lesson for some, but they will learn it, that all men are not controlled by prejudice. Some legislators are at least fair.

No great battle has been fought during the past week in the Far East, altho there were several skirmishes, and at the European capitals there is talk of peace. The Japanese, of course, can now accept a closing of the war with honor. Russia faces even more humiliation than the present, for, with continued internal uprisings, and with Field Marshal Oyama and 365,000 Japanese in the field, Russia faces a most serious situation, and perhaps she could get better peace terms now than hereafter.

It is reported that the labor situation in Russia is improving. Several important decisions have been reached by the Russian Ministers looking toward the betterment of the laborer's lot. The scheme proposes the decrease of working hours, the alteration of existing laws as affecting economic strikes not accompanied by public disturbances, medical assistance for the workmen and limitation of the rights and duties of factory inspectors. The imperial ukase summoning a joint commission of masters and workmen chosen by themselves to investigate the cause of discontent among the laborers has created a favorable impression. There has been an increase of wages in the government shops and also in the pay of railroad employees of from 15 to 20 per cent. There is a partial resumption of work at Warsaw.

The Times-Democrat of this city has this paragraph in one of its leading editorials of a recent issue:

"That higher license for retail liquor dealers is the true solution of nearly all the problems that face New Orleans, assuring, as it does, a better paid and more efficient police force, more schools, and better pay for school teachers, more money for street cleaning, cleaner streets, with the result of comfort and convenience and lower sick and death rates, we have already shown."

Just as tho the betterment of one class should be by the destruction of another in the use of intoxicant liquors. Why not license death and destruction in other forms in order to increase the revenue of the city? If the saloon is an evil its curtailment should not be by high license, but by annihilation.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ON THE SOUTH AND THE NEGRO

As a guest at the Lincoln Birthday dinner of the Republican Club of the city of New York President Roosevelt took advantage of the occasion to deliver an address touching upon his relation to the South, and amplifying his position on the race question. The public has been expecting that Mr. Roosevelt at some time would clear the mist of misunderstanding with which the South has enshrouded him. It was heralded far and near and made a part of the recent campaign thunder that President Roosevelt was an enemy to the South, and the only basis for this plea was that he was friendly toward the Negro. Friendship toward the Negro is not incompatible with friendship for the South in general, nor is friendship for the South incompatible with friendship for the Negro. In this address the President presents himself in a right light before all the citizens of this great Republic, South as well as the North. And the Negroes of this country will not misunderstand him nor believe him less a friend than when he was the subject of such unnecessary abuse, all because he tried to give every man, regardless of his color, a square deal. The President, in this remarkable address, declares: "I believe in the Southerner as I believe in the Northerner," "for fundamentally our people are the same throughout this land." In the same spirit the President further says: "All good Americans who dwell in the North must, because they are good Americans, feel the most earnest friendship for their fellow-countrymen who dwell in the South, a friendship all the greater because it is in the South that we find in its most acute phase one of the gravest problems before our people." We are delighted to have the President express himself thus concerning the people of the South, for we believe he owes it to the South as a part of the great Republic to be President of the whole people; not only so, but to have the friendship of all sections, if this can be done without sacrificing any vital principle of our American life. We believe him sincere and trust that this statement will do a great deal towards putting him in a better light and on more friendly terms with the people on this side of the line.

President Roosevelt pays a high tribute to the immortal Lincoln, who was especially remembered in the recurrence of his birthday on last Monday. The President says some very practical, helpful, statesmanlike and friendly things concerning the colored man of this country. "In dealing with all of our citizens," says the President, "white or colored, we should show just the same qualities that Lincoln showed: His steadfastness in striving after the right, and his infinite patience and forbearance with those who saw that right less clearly than he did; his earnest endeavor to do what was best, and yet his readiness to accept the best that was practicable when the ideal best was unattainable; his unceasing effort to cure what was evil, coupled with his refusal to make a bad situation worse by any ill-judged or ill-timed effort to make it better."

Mr. Roosevelt states a position on the race question which could be taken by all with justice to every person concerned. "The problem," says the President, "is the dealing with the man of one color as to secure him the rights that no one would grudge him if he were of another color." This granted, and the Negro asks no more, for what the Negro desires in this country is not special favors because of his color, but, on the other hand, that he be not discriminated against because of his color. We protest against special legislation. All that the Negro can ask in justice and fairness is that he be treated as a man, and according to his ability and intelligence be given the same chances for labor and political preferment that are given to other men.

The President was right when he referred to the difficulty and perplexity of the problem and expressed sympathy in the embarrassment that the South faces with the problem that is so closely connected with its development. He utters a kindly word when he says that there should be the "highest respect for those brave and earnest men of the South who, in the face of fearful difficulties, are doing all that men can do for the betterment alike of white and black." For be it remembered that while the general tenor of the Southern press and of Southern sentiment is not on the side of justice toward the Negro, that there is a class of Southern citizens who make an earnest effort to deal fairly with all peoples, and one of the gravest charges that can be alleged against the South in general is that it seeks to throttle opinion and muzzle men who are brave enough to speak their clear convictions on the Negro question. In this respect the South shows great signs of antiquity, if not of dotiness, for altho a man may be southern born and all of his people had been most ardent supporters of the Confederacy, and, further still, life supporters of southern democracy, nevertheless, if he dares transgress the one law of southern life, as it concerns the black man, then he brings to naught all his past record. In this regard the South is intolerable; and the men who have been brave enough in their position as judges, ministers, statesmen, editors and private citizens to voice an opinion now and then in the name of a common manhood and in the recognition of the God who is the common Father of us all, are they who ought to have the sympathy of all good citizens, North and South, and especially the prayers and appreciation of the colored men for whom they have spoken a kind word.

The President does not believe that any of

The Claims of the Pastor

By Rev. W. H. Smith, Presiding Elder.

The relation of pastor and people is very broad and sacred. It is a divinely appointed relation.

The preacher of the Gospel is called of God, and by Him commissioned to proclaim the glad tidings of salvation to his fellow-men, and to be a spiritual counselor and guide of such as are committed to him from time to time by the Church. He is expected to devote all his time and strength to the work of the ministry.

As the servant of God, he is entitled to the confidence and respect of his flock. His relation to God, the Church at large and his immediate congregation claims the sympathy, co-operation and support of those over whom he is appointed. It is wrong, as well as unfaithful, for a minister of the Gospel, who takes the sacred oaths and obligations at an annual conference, "to devote his whole time to the work of the ministry," and especially to that people and congregation who are able and do give him a comfortable support, to devote his time and energy to everything but to the work which he has been called of God to do, and sent out by the Church to accomplish.

Great and grave responsibility is attached to the relation of pastor and people from both sides. Each is debtor to the other. There is no escape from these responsibilities.

Answer for them is to be made to God, as well as to men. The claims of the servant of God upon His people cannot be dismissed at the pleasure of the individual on the basis of likes or dislikes, as some seem to presume and undertake.

The obligations devolving upon the people from their relation to the pastor have to do with God as well as the pastor himself, and do not change with our personal feelings, but stand and demand faithful discharge of duty, regardless of our feelings of unfriendliness which may have sprung up between ourselves and the pastor, as is sometimes the case.

The first impulse that arises in heart and mind when some people become displeased with their pastor for any cause, is, generally, to withhold support. That is dishonest and un-Christian. Self-respect breaks down where such a course is pursued.

Even though the preacher should be greatly at fault in complaints against him, yet that would be no justification for seeking to hinder him in his work and refusing to pay what is due him. Those who do these things thinking to get some satisfaction out of revengeful acts are the greatest sufferers in the end. Unworthy acts always hurt their author more than the intended victim.

But mistreatment of the pastor always results in injury to the whole congregation as such, and tends to destroy its influence in the community. Thus the cause of God suffers, and who knows what the cumulative effects will be? Individuals and congregations having mistreated their pastors are not in a position to make requests of the conference for special favors in the appointment of pastors for them. Yet that is what the dissatisfied and such as have been most unfair and unreasonable in the treatment of their pastors are most certain to do.

People who have not paid their pastor and who have otherwise misused him should have no hearing in their request for special favors at the hands of conference. There is a great difference between willingness and inability to pay pastor and presiding elder and ability and unwillingness to pay. Spiteful and indifferent and stingy deficits are intolerable.

But more important than the financial claim of pastors is that of sympathy and earnest co-operation. This directly affects the spiritual results of the pastorate. What can be worse than personal antogonism to the pastor, hindering his work as a servant of God and the Church? Who is willing to answer for that?

"Then, let nothing be done through strife, or vain glory, but in lowliness of mind. Let each esteem others better than themselves. Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding, abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the Power that worketh in us. Unto Him be glory in the Church by Christ Jesus. Throughout all ages. World without end."

Getting Hindrances to Revival Out of the Way

By W. P. Thirkield, D. D., Corresponding Secretary, Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society.

It was my first Quarterly Conference. Official members had come from all the four points of the Circuit to Germantown, Cincinnati Conference. We were waiting for the Presiding Elder, who was late. A messenger came and startled and dumbfounded us with the announcement that calamity had befallen him, and that our Presiding Elder had been arrested and was in jail in Dayton. He was afterwards thoroughly vindicated. But that did not help us in that dark hour. The formal questions in the Conference were soon over. The young pastor then said: "For the several months of my pastorate I have carried a heavy burden. I may bear it, but the church can not. Two members of this church, brothers-in-law, and here present as members of this Board, hate each other and are at war one with the other. Their families are divided. Their children are suffering It is the scandal of the church. Ungodly people in this community mock at us. The pastor's efforts and prayers to bring them together have not availed. It stands in the way of all spiritual progress and power in this church. Now, brethren, this hour of darkness may be made bright if these members will forgive and clasp hands. This is not the time to discuss the merits of the case. It is the hour for prayer, for mercy and forgiveness. Let us pray that this breach may be healed."

And, oh, how we did pray! We arose from our knees and then pled for reconciliation. But hard-faced and stubborn, these enemies faced each other, unsoftened, unsubdued. Again the word "Let us pray" brought us to our knees, and we agonized in prayer. We arose. They seemed to relent a little and started to discuss the merits or demerits of the case. Declining to allow this, the pastor, after tearful exhortation, again called all to prayer. Soon the fountain of the great deep was broken up. A wave of love and sympathy swept all hearts. The hard, cold hands of the brothers-in-law reached out and grasped each the other. Then in loving forgiveness they embraced. We all shouted and sang the doxology. The victory of that hour thrilled the membership. The love-feast the next morning was memorable. At the night service, one bowed at the altar and was converted. The pastor announced that the revival services would be continued. The entire town and community were stirred as in the days of Allen Thompson, twenty years before. The wave of revival power swept over the entire circuit. Hundreds were converted, and all because this dissension in the church and hindrance to the Lord's work was swept out of the way.

We must not be in a hurry to fix and choose our own lot; we must wait to be guided. We are led on, like the little children, by a way that we know not. It is a vain thought to flee from the work that God appoints us, for the sake of finding a greater blessing to our own souls; as if we could choose for ourselves where we shall find the fullness of the divine presence, instead of seeking it where alone it is to be found—in loving obedience.—George Eliot.

You will find that the mere resolve not to be useless, and the honest desire to help other people, will, in the quickest and delicatest ways, improve yourself.—John Ruskin.

If we would be generally good, we must be careful to be good in every small particular, for generalities are made of bundles of partculars.—The Standard.

THE DAY OF LIBERTY (Dan. 2:44); "LET GOD BE MAGNIFIED." (Psa. 70-4.)

BY LANDON WEST.

(This hymn may be sung to the tune "Blow ye the trumpet blow," with the chorus, "The Year of Jubilee has come.")

Of all our words so dear,
And heard on every side,
These ones are full of cheer:
"Let God be magnified." (Psa. 70:4.)

Chorus:

The day of Liberty has come,
The day of Liberty has come,
And now the sinners may come home.
(Isa. 55:1; Rev. 22:17.)

Let nations see the light,
Now shown o'er land and tide,
How God doth show the right,
And thus be magnified.

Let sinners heed the call,
Now given far and wide,
How love for great and small Makes God be magnified.

But let all heed the sound
From which no one can hide,
In all the world around
"Let God be magnified."

Let each one do his part,
All fear be set aside,
In every home and heart
"Let God be magnified."

And let each altar share
That gift once crucified,
And each soul give a prayer
That God be magnified.

Let each tongue give its praise,
And in this love confide,
For grace these latter days
When God is magnified.

So let all love this Friend,
And in His grace abide,
Let thanks and praise ascend,
That God be magnified.

Washington Letter

The Washington Conference will hold its 42nd session in Winchester, Va., April 12, 1905, with Bishop David H. Moore presiding. The presiding Elders are: E. W. S. Peck, D. W. Hayes, L. W. Briggs, Alfred Young, J. W. Waters, Wm. H. Gaines. Revs. P. G. Walker, N. M. Carroll, R. H. Robinson, three of the organizers of the Conference in 1864, in Old Sharp Street Church, Baltimore, with Bishop Scott presiding, are still active pastors. They have always been prominent members of the Conference. In them is found the ideal pastor, preacher, financier. The schools of the Church and State and forty-two years have failed to furnish the Washington Conference with their superiors. Other prominent members of the Conference are John A. Holmes, J. H. Brooks, J. W. Galloway, M. W. Clair, A. Dennis, S. R. Hughes, L. J. Valentine, Wm. T. Harris, E. S. Williams, H. A. Carroll, Wm. H. Draper,, J. W. E. Bowen, Moses Lake, W. M. Moorman, S. P. Huskins, Daniel Wheeler, Wm. P. Ryder, C. G. Key, Philmore Diggs, A. Becks, S. H. Brown, J. W. Colbert, B. T. Perkins, Samuel Aquilla, M. J. Naylor, L. E. S. Nash, C. C. Brown, B. F. Myers and others. The average salary of pastor is $523, including parsonage; on the Staunton district, $450; on the Alexandria $405; Annapolis, $534; on the Washington, $560; on the Cumberland, $615; on the Baltimore, $621. The Conference last year raised for all purposes $176,925, has 333 churches and 86 parsonages, valued at $1,138,855; 30,000 lay members, 23,000 Sunday school pupils, 245 local preachers, 138 effective preachers, 8 superannuates, 1 supernumerary. Eleven hundred Sunday school pupils were converted, 900 members added to the churches. We have a Preachers' Aid Society worth $1,500. The wives and daughters of the preachers have one also. The Woman's Home Missionary Society is strong and doing a good work, already supporting two deaconesses. Three members of the Conference, Revs. W. R. J. Williams, H. C. Conor and J. H. Randall, have died this year. There will be seventeen candidates for admission. As the settled pastorate is growing so very strong, a few changes are looked for. The appointment of Rev. I. F. Thomas to the Field Agency of the Church Extension Society makes a vacancy at Sharp Street Memorial Church that will be filled possibly by W. H. Brooks, of St. Marks, N. Y., or Wm. P. Ryder, of Wheeling, W. Va. Of the 148 charges, 17 are filled with supplies, some very good charges, too, are thus filled, against which practice there is a strong sentiment. But the strongest of all sentiments is against receiving preachers from other denominations unless they come recommended by the respective denomination. This practice is detrimental to the work, to the race, and unfair to our own candidates for the ministry. Feeling is also strong against making so many local deacons and local elders. Candidates for admission from our theological schools are too few to supply the demands of our Conference. Delegates to the General Conference of 1908 will represent all grades of appointments. The Conference will be amply looked after by Rev. J. W. Waters, P. E. of the Staunton district, and Rev. C. E. Hodges, pastor at Winchester, the seat of the Conference.

What's Worth While?

By Mrs. Maud Simon Thompson.

The young men and women in college are much like infants who have not yet completed their first lessons in standing alone. They have for years been leaning and depending upon their instructors and are not able to stand alone. Soon the lessons will be over and they must go out to face life alone, and must realize the responsibility which rests upon them as individuals.

When we see the yearning souls waiting to be helped by us, lives for which we are living examples, the first questions which enter our eager souls are: What should I endeavor to add to my life to make it stronger and nobler? and what should I strive to avoid that I might make my life a fair example for this mighty throng for which I am a guide? What's worth while?

The first picture that presents itself to me is that of an idler. Does idleness add any thing to life? Idleness, that evil which has robbed wives of husbands and mothers of sons and daughters, who, not meaning to do wrong, but since they were idle, found themselves indulging in evil practices? Idleness makes way for evil thoughts and so come evil deeds. Knowing that over half of the wrongs committed in our land are committed by those who are unemployed, we ought not to be willing to be found idle. We can readily see that idleness will lead us to crime and disgrace and that it will soon destroy the structure which we have spent a life time in building. Idleness is not worth while. Could we but be as the "Village Blacksmith:"

"Toiling, rejoicing, sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes.
Each morning sees some task begun,
Each evening sees its close.
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose."

To know that we have performed some task makes us content to rest and wait for the blessings of another day. There is not a great monument erected to the honor of every worthy workman, and yet our labor, if honestly and faithfully done, is to our day and generation indispensable. Those of us who are industrious and active, filling every moment with some thing which will enlarge our lives, some thing which will bring sunshine o'er a dark and troubled day, which may be found in some one else's life, may be able to gather much satisfaction from living.

Neglect: Is neglect worth while? Every day some duty presents itself to us, which, if performed, then would be complete forever and would give time and place to something else. The more promptly we attend to things which present themselves to us, the more we shall be able to accomplish in a life time. And what are the most excellent lives that are lived? "Those who accomplish the most in a life time," we say. How satisfied the soul who feels that he has grasped his every opportunity. Whittier said that he was in this world to do something, and that was the secret of his success. We are all here to do something, but if we neglect our opportunities for service, when the sun of our lives is sinking our record will be but a formidable and tormenting ghost to us. Sheer cruel neglect often eats into holes the golden chain of lives destined to adorn and fittingly beautify centuries. Can we allow the monster neglect to linger with us, sapping our life blood, leaving us to die on a sea of woe, sinking into eternity with a life of regret and remorse, because of energies only half way spent? No, neglect is not worth our while.

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'It might have been.'"

Fretting and worrying unfit us for our daily tasks; they not only throw a shadow over us, but over all of those with whom we come in contact. Those persons who are always looking for deformities, discords and shadows can not be content and cheerful; all nature seems to them to frown, every one they meet seems ready to speak some word of harshness and unpleasantness. When they begin to search for the real cause of the worrying and fretting, it is often found in themselves. They have failed to cultivate that buoyant frame of mind which makes all phases of life seem superb. Fretting and worrying do not add anything to our lives, but take much away. "If a word or two will render a man happy," says Frechman, "he must be a wretch indeed who will not give it." If fretting and worrying can not change the past, and render unpleasant the present, then fretting and worrying are not worth while. "Blessed are the joy-makers," says Oliver Wendell Holmes, "mirth is God's, every body ought to bathe in it." We all agree that those who are permanently good are those who are uniformly happy. Happiness does much toward lengthening our lives. The enthusiastic, joyous people make us able to see beauty, harmony and light on all sides of life; they make the most despondent, discouraging hours of our lives bright and happy. The most homely, most insignificant person may appear graceful and winning by possessing the virtue of cheerfulness. Cheerfulness adds so much more to our own lives and to the lives of others, and it is indeed worth while.

It is worth our while to study ourselves, find out the possibilities within our own selves to be cultivated for the betterment of mankind, that we might make the world feel our presences in it. "If man possesses the consciousness of what he is," said Schelling, "he will soon also learn what he ought to be." It is worth while, therefore, to lay aside idleness, neglect, worrying and fretting. Such things are a menace to our Christian social fabric, a direct route to life's Utopia, and suicide to a long and useful career.

Is it not worth while, to cultivate industry, promptness to duty and cheerfulness, practices which add harmony, beauty and light to our lives and to the lives about us?

"Be you only whole and sufficient," says Emerson, "and I will feel you in every part of my life and fortune; I can as easily dodge the gravitation of the earth as escape your influence." One great character, permeated with thoughts and practices of thrift, alertness to duty and cheerfulness, is worth a nation, race, community or home what Napoleon's presence was worth to the French army. "As there is nothing in the world great but man, there is nothing truly great in man but character," says Evarts.

Let us, therefore, concentrate our efforts in the building of industrious, prompt and cheerful characters—such efforts are worth while.

Personal Improvement

BY REV. J. W. E. BOWEN, D. D., PH. D.

Intelligent mankind has advanced beyond the immature stage where the ipse dixit of a race or of an individual settles the status of a man or race. Questions of inferiority and superiority cannot be determined on the wholesale. We are swinging away from the unreasonable method of an unsettled democracy of counting men en masse, and we have purified the Greek individualism and have made it the true basis of reckoning. Thus we have come to recognize that a man's a man, not because of his blood and race connections, but because the essentials of manhood are found to exist in him, and this may be found independent of antecedents and present environments. For he who can say "I will" may break all the chains of hereditary binding and unmanacle at once his shackled soul.

Let the race remember that Norton, Gliddon and Nott, the so-called ethnologists, but mere ante-bellum novices, together with Prof. Winehill, have not fixed the destiny of the race. Further, Tillman, Vardaman, Gorman, Dixon and Davis cannot stem the tide of right development in the race.

There is no such thing in the common understanding as race superiority or race inferiority. Race superiority and race inferiority are determined by personal superiority and personal inferiority. A man may make himself superior or inferior. Superiority is not a material thing. It does not necessarily follow that a good bank account or a heavy tax list and good character are Siamese twins. A bank account and a strong tax list are not to be despised. On the contrary, they should be legitimately sought after. But elements of personal character cannot be tabulated in the census table nor footed up in the tax list. They are not of the earth, earthy; they are spiritual. Despite the fact that this race is a poor race as wealth is counted, its greatest need is not gold, but heart; not lands, but mind; not wealth, but character.

The prime duty, then, is not the improvement of the material condition of the man, but the personal improvement of the man himself of the cultivation of the virtues of self-respect, honor, purity; it is the ornamentation of the character. Therefore, let the race lift as its shibboleth for the New Year this cry:

"Truth before wealth;
Honor before position;
Character before lands;
God above all."

When Confession Is Not Well

Confession is good for the soul—when it is my soul and my sin that are under consideration. But most of us prefer to confess other people's sins. That helps neither others nor ourselves, but hurts both. The man who talks freely, in season and out of season, of others' defects, is blinding himself to his own, while all unconsciously he is confessing aloud to the world his own faults. Mediocrity thinks most about imperfections; power alone can recognize power.—The Sunday School Times.

Great occasions do not make heroes or cowards; they simply unveil them to the eyes of men. Silently and imperceptibly, as we wake or sleep, we grow and wax strong, we grow and wax weak; and at last some crisis shows us what we have become.—Canon Westcott.

CHRISTIAN LIFE

Our Father's Love

As deep as the fathomless depths of the sea,
  As high as the sky up above,
As wide as the world from pole to pole,
  Is our Father's wonderful love.
As bright as the flowers that bloom on the way,
  And as fragrant as incense rare,
Is the mercy he shows to the one gone astray
  From the way to the home over there.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: Matt. 19: 16-22. Theme: The Rich Young Man.

Riches are dangerous things in the hand of any man, but more especially are they dangerous in the possession of a young man. The world is full of mistakes and sins of young men. Riches are deceitful and often taking themselves and fly away just when man most needs them. Riches often create seas of doubt and sorrow, into which men have been known to plunge themselves, and thus eternally drown their souls in the whirlpool of death. The love of the world worketh death, and the love of money is the root of all evil. The young man mentioned in the text was rich in worldly goods, but was miserably poor toward God.

This young man was thoughtful. He came to Jesus. He was industrious. He wanted even more to do, ver. 20. This young man asked two very important questions: "What good thing shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?" "What lack I yet?" This young man was full of anxiety. He came running to find out the way to eternal life. He knelt at the feet of Jesus, and seriously talked with him, about an eternally important matter. This young man of great wealth was told just what he must do to enter into eternal life, which is never given, or obtained by inheritance. He was told to keep the commandments; to be perfect in heart and mind; to go and sell all that he had; to divide his riches with the poor; to lay up treasure in heaven; come to Jesus, and follow Him faithfully, bearing his cross. Each of these things, except one, was a mountain of sacrifice across the path of the young man, and he was unwilling to do them,, ver. 20-22. The things this young man sought and found made him sorry and grieved him to his heart. The thought of having to give up his large accumulations of wealth and the hope of eternal life grieved him terribly, but he decided to go away from Jesus, to keep his great possessions, to eat and to drink, to be merry and to take his ease in this world, to forfeit eternal life, and to live and die as the fool liveth and dieth.

A Prayer

Lord Jesus we thank Thee that Thou art within hearing, Thine ear is ever open to our cry. Hast Thou not said, "Him that cometh unto Me I will in no wise cast out?" May we be docile, teachable, earnest inquirers. Give to us the Spirit of Life. Speak the word that shall give us new vision and the understanding heart. Open the way of life before us; may we find the key of every gate and open the lock and pass on under Thy leadership until the threshold of Heaven itself is reached. Amen.—The Ram's Horn.

Making a Sturdy Soul

It is an old saying that into the making of and oak tree go winds and cold quite as necessarily as sunshine and showers. There needs to be in the atmosphere something which checks rapid growth as well as that which feeds growth. When the fibres are compact, when the bark is thick and impenetrable, when the roots drive deep and far, then we have a tree for a century and wood fit for endurance in a ship's bottom or in house timber And storms and ice and hard soil are the stimulants to these qualities. Into the making of the sturdiest type of a soul must go the forces which teach patience, courage, fortitude, thoughtfulness of others, indifference to present comfort and convenience, quite as much as the forces of gentleness and health; and no man will learn to be brave who never has a danger to confront, nor to be patient when he has never a pain to bear, and everything is prepared to his liking at the very moment he express a wish.—Rev. George A. Thayer, in Christian Advocate.

The Flower Called "Heart's-Ease"

You cannot, by fellowship with an energy, produce that exquisite little flower called "heart's-ease," which was so prolific and abounding ni the life of the Apostle Paul. The prophet of the Old Testament hints at the coming of the flower in his illumined phrase, "He that believeth shall not make haste!" What a word for our own day! He shall not get excited, become fussy, or be thrown into panic. "He shall not make haste!" There shall be progress without much perspiration! There shall be strenuousness without srain! There shall be running without panting! "They shall run and no be weary, they shall walk and not faint." They shall be fed with "hidden manna." In the very midst of the turbulence shall heart's-ease grow. "He that believeth shall not make haste!"

"O blessed life, the heart at rest
  When all without tumultuous seems!"

I say you cannot grow that flower in co-operation with an influence or a force, but only in the strength and grace of a glorious companionship. It is not the product of an energy; it is born of a communion. It is "peace in the Holy Ghost."

Do you see much of this flower called "heart's-ease" about to-day? When the world gazes upon us, the professed disciple of the Master, does it see just a reflection of itself, its own wear and tear, its own strain and worry, or does it stoop to gaze upon a rare flower, and to wonder and inquire about the soil in which it was grown? Is there anything about our speech and behavior to suggest that "wear and tear" are counteracted by a secret renewal, the renewal of the Holy Spirit, "the inward man being renewed day by day?" Speaking for myself, I have to say that even when for a day I enter upon my inheritance, and realize the ineffable nearness of the great Companion Spirit, the strain not only goes out of my mind and heart, but I feel the very wrinkles and care lines being smoothed out of my face. If we were children of Pentecost, living up to our spiritual times, heart's'-ease would bloom just within our gate, and the weary wayfarer would be stopped by its perfume, and would question us as to the secret and manner of its growth.—Rev. J. H. Jowett, D. D., in Zion's Herald.

"The life which flows out to others, bearing light and warmth and fragrance, feels itself in the blessings it gives that which is self-centered stagnates like a pool, and becomes the habitation of doleful creatures."

YOUNG FRIENDS

St. Valentine, His Love

In the old days of cruelty and gloom,
When those who owned Christ's faith on bended knees
Were by the Cæsar's barbarous decrees
Tortured, and hurled upon a doleful doom,
On Valentinus, in the summer bloom
Of his well-doing, did the soldiers seize
And mete out judgment. In Saint Praxedes
Lovers to-day strew flowers upon his tomb.

There would I lay a garland wreathed of sweet
Blue violets that twin my true love's eyes,
And delicate wild roses, faintly red;
Such offering unto the saint were meet,
Since through his intercession, whisper-wise,
Loves dearest word unto mine ears was said.
—Clinton Scollard, in Christian Advocate.

Some Junior Valentines

LENA BLINN LEWIS.

The Juniors of First Church had adopted a missionary, and this meant much planning, much sacrifice, and much work, and all of these turned into money to be sent to far-off India, but there was not a member of the league who was not more than interested in the work, and ready to do their part.

A meeting was called to make arrangements for some sort of an entertainment to be given which would bring more funds into the treasury, and when Miss Hastings suggested a Valentine Fair, there were many exclamations of delight, and each Junior listened attentively to the splendid plan.

"You know," Miss Hastings said, "that a valentine is but a gift of love, and we are to make our gifts to God in the form of something which others can give to those whom they love and wish to please, and so we will sell on the evening before Valentine's Day all the pretty little gifts which we can collect, and the money will be dedicated to the missionary cause of our league."

A committee was appointed to call on the merchants and ask for contributions of valentines, and besides these each member was to donate something for the sale, be it ever so little.

Some of the girls were to make candy, and others manufactured pretty baskets out of tissue paper, which were to be filled with the candies and tied with ribbon, making a pretty and appropriate valentine for anyone.

One florist gave some carnations and smilax, and these were used to decorate the pretty tea-tables, from which were served tea, cakes and wafers, and it seemed everyone had a part to perform ,and the fair promised to be a success in every way.

The rain fell in a dreary, dismal way and at almost every step one ran across a great puddle of melted snow and mud, and it was all one could do to keep out of trouble.

"Splash!" and Tommy Gardner had set his foot right in the middle of one of those very February puddles, but Tommy was thinking too hard to care very much, and trudged along home, his face about as cloudy as the sky, and all on account of the Valentine Fair.

He had thought and thought, but not a bit of good did it do; he had nothing to give, and he almost wished he was the missionary.

"Oh, I am so glad you have come, dear," his mother said, as he threw his books on the table. "Do try and amuse baby while I finish this bit of ironing; it must go home to-night."

Tommy tried to be cheery, for he knew his mother was very tired, but the baby would not be amused with anything he might do; the truth of the matter was that Tommy's heart was not in his work, for somehow he could only think of the valentines, and then suddenly he remembered the new kittens; the baby would like to see them, and he hurried out to the shed and brought the big basket into the kitchen by the stove, and as he put it on the floor he had a new idea, and he almost forgot the baby in his hurry to tell his mother of his plan.

Mrs. Gardner was greatly amused, but did not discourage Tommy, as she saw his heart was set upon giving the kittens to the missionary cause, but she feared no one would wish to buy them, and then Tommy would feel worse than before, but she realized, too, that he was making his first real sacrifice, for the kittens were his only treasure and so she told him he could do as he pleased, and that is the reason that there was one corner at the Junior fair from which came many sounds of laughter. The kittens seemed to enjoy it as well as the young people, and made a pretty picture, posing as missionary cats.

Someone asked: "Are these dear little things for sale?"

"Only one dollar each?" and one young man, fancying the pretty basket, paid an extra dollar for it, and with the little white kittie inside it made a very pretty valentine for someone he wished to remember.

Miss Hasting was not surprised, after the story of Tommy's sacrifice and effort to help had been quietly told about, that there were a good many coins dropped in behalf of the basket of kittens, and when she looked into Tommy's smiling face she thought it was surely true that it was more blessed to give than to receive, and she felt that the Valentine Fair would sow good seed in many paths.

Tommy looked a little longingly at his treasures, as one by one they were carried away, but in his heart was a satisfaction and a peace, because he had been able to do his share to help the cause along, and he joined heartily in the closing song of—

"All the world for Jesus, Let our watchword be,"

and he wondered if, after all, it wasn't nicer to be just a Junior than a real missionary.

Cleveland, O.

Wondrous is the strength of cheerfulness, altogether past calculation its powers of endurance. Efforts, to be permanently useful, must be uniformly joyous—a spirit all sunshine, graceful from very gladness, beautiful, because bright.—Thomas Carlyle.

God accepts our homeliest, poorest gifts or services if they are indeed our best, and if true love to him consecrates and sanctifies them. We need to care but for two things—that we do always our best, and that we do what we do through love for Christ.—J. R. Miller.

Every real and searching effort at self-improvement is, of itself, a lesson of profound humility. For we cannot move a step without learning and feeling the waywardness, the weakness, vacillation of our movements, or without desiring to be set upon the rock that is higher than ourselves.—*W. E. Lesson Topic—February 26:

Medical Mission

Scripture References—Matt. 11: 2-5; Acts 3: 1-8.

The Word.—Matthew declares that the message which Jesus sends to St. John the Baptist, as evidence of his Messiaship was that the blind received their sight, the lame walked, the lepers were cleansed, and the dead were raised up. When one looks at it, it is wonderful how the whole ministry of Jesus was largely a ministry of physical healing. Jesus was the first medical missionary. So in the apostolic church the very first evidence they gave of divine power was the healing of the lame man at the gate of the temple, as described in our lesson. What a type was this lame man of the helpless and suffering sinner at our doors. How much the gospel now needs to be a physical ministry to the bodies of men as a preparation for spiritual healing! Let us read these lesson thoughtfully. Treasure up this word in your mind and heart.

Medical Missions.—If the good Samaritan had sat down by the side of the wounded man and preached to him of his sins he might have done him little good; but when he bound up his wounds, took him to the inn, and cared for his physical need he became a true medical missionary. Medical missions are the natural and logical expression of Christianity. The gospel has a message to the body as well as to the soul. The deplorable physical condition of many heathen, the superstitions and prejudice of the peoples concerning medicine and disease, make this phase of missionary work doubly important. In many cases the body must be doctored before the soul can be saved. In many more cases the healing of the body opens the way to the soul. In other instances the only form of missionary work possible is medical work. Hence the missionaries of all churches have found the medical work the right hand of evangelism. Much of our missionary work, both by parent board and women's organization, is by hospital and dispensary. In Africa and the islands of the sea medical missions break the power and destroy the prestige of the medicine man and witch doctor. It takes no high culture to see benefits of surgery and medicine. In China medical missions have been the open door through which the gospel has reached the better classes. In Mohammedan lands they have disarmed fanaticism. Worldly people may look askance at some forms of our missionary work, but they cannot help but applaud our medical work. Far out on the picket line of the missions fearless men and women are doing the most heroic work of missions in grappling with cholera, smallpox, plague, leprosy, diphtheria, and other contagious and terrible diseases.

Some Pioneer Medical Missionaries.—Jesus and the Good Samaritan were the first. Luke was the "beloved physician." In all ages the doctor has been the helper of the minister. As early as 1785 an East Indian Company's ship surgeon, Dr. John Thomas, gave up his position and became a missionary. He set the arm of Krishna Pal and told him of the Great Physician, and thus won the first convert baptized by Carey. Livingstone went to Africa as much doctor as evangelist. At least one hundred and twenty-five medical missionaries have gone into China, following Dr. Peter Parker, who went in 1834, and "opened up China at the point of a lancet." Hudson Taylor, who opened up the China Inland Mission, was a medical missionary. Drs. Lenora King and McKenzie, two medical missionaries who saved Lady Li, the wife of Li Hung Chang, did more than any other missionaries to turn a favorable tide in China to missions. In India it is only the medical missionary who can reach the secluded women who are shut off from medical attendance by caste. The diseases and plagues of this great land are being healed by Christian medical science and a door opened for the gospel—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

Lesson IX—Feb. 26, 1905. Title—The Miracle of the Loaves and Fishes (John 6: 1-4). Golden Text: "I am the Living Bread which came down from Heaven."—(John 6; 51.)

Our last lesson closed with Jesus in Jerusalem, this opens with him on the shore of the Sea of Galilee. A very busy year in our Lord's life has passed between these two lessons. Jesus gave the apostles special instruction, endued them with divine power, and sent them forth two and two, into the cities of Judea and Galilee. They were to preach the gospel, cast out evil spirits, and heal the sick. It is not known how long they were out on this tour. In the course of time they began to return to Jesus at Capernaum. They continued coming two by two until all were again with him. They told of the death of John, of the works they had done, and of the doctrines they had taught. There was a strangs mingling of sadness and gladness in their story. Sad because John had fallen and glad because devils were subject to them. This lesson is one of our Lord's greatest miracles, and is the only one recorded by all four of the evangelists.

I. The retirement of Jesus. Notice some probable reasons for this withdrawal. (1). The death of John. Herod had caused John to be cast into prison, and after eighteen months to be put to death. Yet he continued to hear strange stories of mighty works done by someone, and supposed that John had arisen from the dead. He desired to see Jesus that he might kill him also. (Luke 13: 31). Jesus went out of Herod's dominion. (2). Rest for the disciples. They had just returned from a hard missionary tour and needed quietude. This they could not get where the were, for "there were many coming and going." Ministers after hard work in a protracted meeting, need a vacation. (3.) An opportunity to instruct the apostles. Jesus taught them as they were able to bear it. He had given them instruction before sending them forth on this mission of mercy. Their experience had prepared them for greater information, hence the invitation, "Come apart into a desert place and rest awhile." All who teach the will of God should search his word daily. (4.) Communion with God. Jesus lived in the habit of secret prayer. He spent the entire night before choosing the twelve apostles in secret prayer. (Luke 6: 12.)After this miracle he departed into a mountain to pray. (Mark 6: 46.) He has commanded us to pray in secret. (Matt. 6: 6.) Family and public prayer are desirable, but secret prayer is most valuable.

II. The place of this miracle. It was a "desert place apart." Jesus and the apostles reached it by ship. The multitude went to it on foot. It belonged "to the city called Bethsaida." It was likely on the north-eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee, near where the Jordan empties into it. There was close to it a grassy plain, and mountains were back of it. It had at first only a few houses, but was raised to the dignity of a town by Philip the Tetrarch, and by him named Bethsaida Julius, after the daughter of the Roman Emperor.

III. The assembling of the people: "Jesus lifted up his eyes and saw a great company coming unto him." He was at this time very popular in Galilee. John had been put to death and many of his disciples had turned to Jesus. The Passover was nigh and every highway and byway was crowded with pilgrims. Jesus has always been an object of search. Here love, curiosity, popularity and sustenance caused the multitude to seek him.

IV. The sympathy of Jesus: "He was moved with compassion towards them." His plans for rest, for instruction, and for communion with God, were all broken up, but he cared for none of these if he could do the people good. Compassion is a sensation of sorrow, excited by the distress of others. It is the positive side of the Ten Commandments. The love of Jesus for that assembly was caused by the fact that "they were as sheep not having any shepherd." As sheep they were valuable, inoffensive, teachable and willing to be led into the right way. The Pharisees and Scribes claimed to be their true shepherds, but they were poor keepers of the flock. They shut the kingdom of heaven against men; they devoured widows' houses; they made long prayers; they compassed land and sea to make proselytes, and when they were made they were two-fold more the children of hell than themselves; they paid tithes of mint, anise and cummin, and omitted the weightier matters of the law; and they taught that it was not wrong to swear by the Temple, but if they swore by the gold of the Temple they were debtors. They were like whited sepulchres. I fear there are teachers of to-day who are blind leaders of the blind. They, like Apollos, need an Aquilla and Priscilla to expound unto them the way of God more perfectly.

V. The preaching of Jesus. The subject of this sermon was the "kingdom of God" (Luke). Not one word of his discourse has come down to us. After the sermon the multitude was determined to "take him by force and make him a king" (John 6: 15). The discourse no doubt had something to do with this ldetermination. They probably thought the kingdom of God was of this world. In this they were of course mistaken. Matthew and Luke say "He healed their sick." We know not who were ill or how they were afflicted. This shows the kind of heart and sympathetic nature of our Lord. He went about doing good.

VI. The power of Jesus. (1.) The request of the disciples "Send the multitude away." The apostles were constantly making mistakes. When Jesus said: "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees," they thought it was because they had taken no bread. When he said, "Our friend Lazarus sleepth," they said, "Lord, if he sleep he will do well." When he told them he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things, "Peter took him and began to rebuke him." Jesus bore kindly with them. (2.) The question of Jesus: "Whence shall we buy bread that these may eat?" These words were addressed to Philip. He was of the town of Bethsaida. It was not asked for information, but to try his faith, and to prepare the way for that which follows. Philip told him two hundred pennyworths, about thirty dollars in our money, was not sufficient to feed them. Andrew told Jesus of a lad who had five barley loaves and two small fishes, but asked: "What are they among so many?" (3.) The order of Jesus "Make all sit down." It was the spring of the year. "Thev sat down in ranks," that is "like flower-beds." As they sat on the green grass, in their bright robes of red, blue and yellow, they looked like beds of flowers. They sat in companies of hundreds and of fifties. Women and children did not then, and do not now, eat with men in the east. (4.) The work of Jesus: He took the loaves and fishes and blessed them. He then broke and gave to the disciples, and they to the multitude. This was a Passover in the desert, and the people had with them the true Paschal Lamb. It was no doubt the benediction on the loaves and fishes that caused their increase. Jesus gave and kept on giving. All ate and were filled. There were taken up of the fragments twelve baskets full. Jesus gave to this people in an hour what he gives to us in a year. The manna in the wilderness, Elijah at Zarephath, Elisha and the widow's oil, and the feeding of the four thousand, are similar miracles.

That is a very lovely disposition which excuses the faults of others, albeit severe with its own, on the plea that there is some reason, unseen and unsuspected, which were it revealed, would go far to modify a harsh judgment. We are told of, or we observe in some fellow-creature, actions which our tastes of our principles condemn; or, we are pained by something which a friend says or does. Let us not have patience only, but also let us be tolerant, since we cannot know the difficulties with which another must contend; nor can we estimate the weights with which another is. handicapped in the race of life.—Great Thoughts.

Love is the great master-secret of all beautiful things in character; love deals also with the manner of life's expression, as well as with its acts. Many good deeds are done in a very unbeautiful way. Some people do kindnesses in such an unkindly way that those they help wish they had not tried to help them. There is a great deal of thoughtlessness, too, in many people. They love their friends and are ready to do for them anything the friends need, even at much cost or great sacrifice, but they fail utterly in the amenities and graces which are the charm and sweetener of all beautiful helpfulness. Love in the heart should always inspire whatsoever things are lovely in behavior, in conduct, in disposition, and nothing that gives pain to others, either in act, word, tone, or manner, can be lovely.—Selected.

About costly gifts to Christ what can be said? Is he worthy of our choicest and best? What really gives the value to what we give to Christ? Should we follow the impulses of love for Christ? Should we give expression to them? What would men think of it and ought we to care? What does Christ think of it? Does love glorify our gifts and deeds? Are they peculiarly opportune times in which to honor Christ? What are they? Need the Christian hesitate when love inspires a deed? Is love inventive in Christian serice? Must all serice be in the prescribed ways? Does your soul honor Christ? Do your deeds honor Him? Will you stand by Him when men are about to crucify Him?—Selected.

The rain and the sunshine visit every heart, and the choicest blessings are those of which no external circumstances can ever deprive us. Despondency, hopelessness dejection and gloom do not come from heavy sorrows or acute disappointments. They are often most fully developed in those who have every outward means of happiness; while some who have suffered the most intense anguish, and been deprived of the most precious oys, have yet the light of hope in their eye and the energy of life in their step.—At Dawn of Day.

Every harsh and unjust sentiment, every narrow and unworthy thought consented to and entertained, remains like a stain upon the character. —Selected.

An Inferior Spirituality

The highest grade of pure spirituality in any Christian consists in a most humble estimate of one's virtues. The possessor of such a type of spirituality never assumes that he is in more perfect accord with the will of God than are those believers who lament their weaknesses and confess their sins. So, then, he has an inferior grade of spirituality who seeks to convey the impression to others that he possesses the most exalted type of goodness, and that he has no need of asking God to forgive him any of his sins. From an editorial in the Standard, of Chicago, I take these words: "Phariseeism has not perished from the earth. The man who thanks God that he is not as other men is living in the twentieth century, and is a citizen of America. Of course, he would not use that phraseology in expressing his consciousness of his religious superiority, for that particular form of words has become obnoxious. He is more prudent than the egotist whom Jesus immortalized, and calls attention to his spiritual pre-eminence in other ways. His most common method is to charge those who do not pronounce his shibboleth or worship in his way with being unspiritual. The inevitable inference is that he is spiritual; otherwise it would be only another illustration of that historic incident when the pot called the kettle black." It is a noticeable fact that when modest and ordinary Christians refuse to admit that the professors of the most lofty grade of piety are any better than others who do not claim such an attainment, the latter accuse the former of persecuting them. But the real ground of complaint is that those who declare that they have a far more exalted grade of goodness than the most of their brethren have, are greatly over-estimating their spirituality, and hence that they are assuming an unwarraned attitude. All unbiased judges of piety, in any community, promptly declare that those Christians who say nothing in favor of their own goodness, but are people of uniform integrity, are the ones who possess the best type of spirituality.

Woman's Home Missionary Society

Will each pastor see that his church gives at least one dollar to our society this year?

I kindly ask each church that has no auxiliary to send us half as many dollars as there are members, which number will perhaps represent the female members of the church who should belong to the Woman's Home Missionary Society and pay one dollar each year for this wrok.

Our reports already surpass all of last year's reports. If possible, please send the money to me before March 1st, so I can send your receipts before conference. For love of Christ and His name,

MRS. ANNA HENLEY,
Treas. Woman's Home Missionary Society.
Cen. Mo. Conf.

To the Auxiliaries of the Texas Conference—Greetings:

Permit me, sisters, to call your attention to our promise made at the last annual meeting to raise $30.00 (thirty dollars) to finish the sitting room in King Home, Marshall, Texas.

Miss Robertson, the superintendent, is anxious to have this money sent in as early as possible that the room may be ready for use in the early spring.

Now, let each district begin at once to raise its apportionment of :5.00 and send it to the conference president, Mrs. Logan.

MRS. J. M. JOHNSON,
Conference Treasurer.

Sterling Industrial College

The dedication services of Sterling Industrial College were held recently, also a successful bazar and concert. This college is situated in the healthiest part of Greenville and is destined to be one of the leading schools in South Carolina. Its arrangements for study rooms are the most complete that I have seen in any institution. This institution is well conducted by Dr. D. M. Minus and his teachers, Miss Minnie Minus, Miss Phoadum, and Miss Earl. On Sunday morning, January 22nd, at 11 o'clock, Rev. Edwin Poteat, D. D., President of Furman University, preached the introductory sermon: subject, "The Necessity of Industrial and Christian Education." The Doctor was at his best and handled his subject well. A large congregation was present at 2 p. m. The dedication sermon was preached by the Rev. C. C. Jacobs, D. D., Field Agent of the Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church. His subject was: "The True Source of Success." The chapel was packed with a large and appreciative audience. The institution was dedicated by Dr. Jacobs, assisted by the Rev. A. G. Kennedy, of Blaney, S. C. At night, Dr. Jacobs addressed the different Sunday schools that meet at Sterling. The Doctor gave us some plain facts in regard to the Sunday school and its work. At each of these services a collection of over $50 was raised. The total collections during the day amounted to more than $250, including a check received from Dr. J. B. Middleton, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Sterling College. We hope others will contribute something to this worthy institution, to which we should all point with pride.

A Message For To-Day

This is a great world, canopied and paved with beauty, having hints of eternity in its measureless past and future, packed with powers inexhaustible, hourly served by a sun a million times greater. It evidently took an almighty and an all-wise God to make it, an infinite Christ to die for it. Divine efforts unwordable are momentarily expended upon it.

But this world is not a finality. A greater world is to follow. What is this world for? Not for itself. It shall pass away. It is a part of the starry vesture that is to be folded up and laid away. It is only a kindergarten. There is a child to be grown and expanded. Even his garment of flesh is the result of a thousand painstakings past our finding out. It is to be laid aside also. What is to be kept and be worth keeping? Power to know, power to will and to do, and power to love. This alone is Godlike. This alone is worth keeping.

To that end to-day should find power to know more developed. This world offers itself as a gymnasium and the stars for trapezes on which mind may swing itself through infinities. To-day power to will and to do according to that knowledge must grow toward a strength that lions cannot daunt nor furnaces of fire shrivel.

To-day power to love must be received as the utmost product of the present creative work of a loving God. So of every to-day. Compared with such a product the whole world would not be gain.—Bishop Henry White Warren, LL. D., in The Epworth Herald.

There is no happiness in having and getting, but only in giving; half the world is on the wrong scent in the pursuit of happiness.—Henry Drummond.

To take up the cross of Christ is no great action done once for all; it consists in the continual practice of small duties which are distasteful to us.—J. H. Newman.

Be patient with every one, but, above all, with yourself. I mean, do not be disturbed because of your imperfections and always rise up bravely from a fall. There is no better means of progress in the spiritual life than to be continually beginning afresh and never to think that we have done enough.—Francis de Sales.

Sufficient for each day is the good thereof, equally as the evil. We must do at once, and with our might, the merciful deed that our hand findeth to do, else it will never be done, for the hand will find other tasks and the arrears fall through. And every unconsummated good feeling, every unfulfilled purpose that His Spirit has prompted, shall one day charge us as faithless and recreant before God.—J.H. Thom.

Truth which only doth judge itself teacheth that the inquiry of truth, which is the love-making or wooing of it; the knowledge of truth, which is the presence of it, and the belief of truth, which is the enjoying of it, is the sovereign good of human nature.—Bacon.

THE BETTER DAY

The one day that is surely coming is "the better day." The influences that are to usher it in have long been at work and the dawn is at hand. Some things, however, must be said, always in Christian charity, but firmly and very clearly. The "better day" will not reach its meridian until our preachers and people discourage the relating in our speaking meetings of "visions" which have no basis in fact, and which are frequently unscriptural and even grotesque. Our young people, so far from being helped in the Christian life by such talk, are actually hindered. They have learned to discriminate between the pictures of a vivid imagination and reality. They are taught in our schools that reality alone has value, that fiction is not fact, and that those who declare with so much assurance that they have actually and literally heard the voice of God, and literally seen angels or devils, are, to say the least, utterly mistaken. The school and church must agree in this matter. The position of the school is this: Pure imagination is pure imagination and nothing more. Fact is fact, and pure imagination must not claim to be fact. Sin, repentance, conviction, confession, faith, salvation, these are facts. "Seeing things," hearing mysterious voices, these are imaginations and not facts. No one is justified in givnig the "amen" to an imagination when such imagination claims to be a fact. He who is guilty of this evil practice is retarding the oncoming of the glory of the "better day." Those who love the truth as it is in Christ Jesus and who refuse to declare anything in their testimonies which has not its counterpart in actual Christian experience should be encouraged by the ministrations of pastors who also love the truth and who in every wise way discourage all that is not truth. Brothers pastors, hasten the coming of the full glory of the "better day."

BISHHP SMITH MAKES A CORRECTION

In our last week's issue there appeared an editorial entitled "New to Methodism," based upon an editorial mention of the Monitor, published in Nashville, Tenn. We would not knowingly misrepresent the humblest preacher of one of the obscure circuits, and certainly we would not wrong a bishop of any church. We take pleasure, therefore, in publishing herewith a letter from Bishop C. S. Smith:

Editor SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE: Dear Sir—Your editorial, "New to Methodism," issue of Feb. 9, 1905, is misleading. The statement, from whatever source it may come, that I left South Africa because the presiding elders of my church there told me that they did not need a resident Bishop is absolutely false. The Bishops of the A. M. E. Church have been fully advised as to the reasons for my returning, and beyond this I have nothing to say, except that the presiding elders in South Africa never dreamed of dismissing me. C. S. SMITH.

the present methods for the solution of the problem in our time will yield a satisfactory result, but he says, and truthfully, that there can never be such solution at all unless it be with the same fair and equal justice to all men and to demand of them in return fair and just treatment, and then he hangs out a sign of hope to the Negro in the following striking sentence: "As a people striving to shape our actions in accordance with the great law of righteousness we cannot afford to take part in or be indifferent to the oppression or maltreatment of any man, who, against crushing disadvantages, has, by his own industry, energy, self-respect, and perseverance, struggled upward to a position which would entitle him to the respect of his fellows, if only his skin were of a different hue. Every generous impulse in us revolts at the thought of thrusting down instead of helping up such a man."

Proceeding further, the President goes at the very heart of the relation of the races in the following striking paragraph:

"To deny any man the fair treatment granted to others no better than he is to commit a wrong upon him—a wrong sure to react in the long run upon those guilty of such denial. The only safe principle upon which Americans can act is that of 'all men up,' and not that of 'some men down.' If in any community the level of intelligence, morality and thrift among the colored men can be raised, it is, humanely speaking, sure that the same level among the whites will be raised to an even higher degree; and it is no less sure that the debasement of the blacks will in the end, carry with it an attendant debasement of the whites."

This is a law that has been tested by the ages and has proven to be absolute. For no chain is stronger than its weakest link. Paul is right when he says "no man liveth to himself," and whether we will it or no, we are irrevocably joined together. We go up or down, and this, too, has nothing whatever to do with social preferences. It does concern, however, very vitally the solidarity of the human race. And he is a juggler in the study of civilization who for once believes that he can crush one part of humanity without at the same time doing violence to the other part. But, further, the greatest hurt is likely to be not upon those who are oppressed and persecuted, but upon those who oppress and persecute.

We all agree with the President that in the adustment of the relation between the races the different ethnic type should be neither abridged nor jeopardized. He says: "The problem is so to adjust the relations between two races of different ethnic type that the rights of neither be abridged nor jeopardized; that the backward race be trained so that it may enter into the possession of true freedom, while the forward race is enabled to preserve unharmed the high civilization wrought out by its forefathers."

And to this we say yea and amen, for there is no desire on the part of our people to degrade civilization, however high the type; on the other hand, the desire is to measure up to the highest standard.

PROF. GEORGE H. TREVER, D. D., Ph. D.,
Professor of Exegetical Theology, Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga.

PROF. GEORGE H. TREVER

Dr. Trever entered upon his work as Professor of Exegetical Theology in Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., at the beginning of the present term, and we have heard only words of praise for his work. We are glad to have him labor among us, and believe that he has a post in which he can serve the kingdom of God in a very large measure. Gammon Theological Seminary sustains a very vital relation to our work in the South, and has the cordial support of all of our Conferences. We are anxious, therefore, that its faculty shall be generally known to our territory, and for this reason we are giving a brief account of the splendid career of Dr. Trever.

George H. Trever was born in Newcastle, Staffordshire, England, 48 years ago October 13th last. When 13 years of age he was brought by his parents to America and settled in Calumet county, Wisconsin, on a backwoods farm. After 15 years of age he did not go to school again, with the exception of five weeks, until almost 21. He then went to Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis. Took the whole preparatory and ancient classical college course in four years and one term. For four consecutive years he took the first prize over the whole school for scholarship, an achievement never before or since equalled in that institution. Graduated in 1881 at the head of his class. Then went to Boston University School of Theology and took the three years' course in two years. The next year he took from Boston University the degree of Ph. D. United with the Wisconsin Conference on trial in October, 1883. Soon took the leading charges, preaching in Fond du Lac, Janesville, Oshkosh and Milwaukee. He was pastor of Washington Avenue, Milwaukee, six years and then, at his own request, was changed and appointed to Whitewater, Wis., from which place he was called in September, 1904, to the Chair of Exegesis in Gammon Theological Seminary.

Boston University elected him a Fellow for study in Europe. So, in 1891-93, he spent two years abroad, one year in Oxford University and the British Museum, and one in Berlin University. Has traveled extensively in Europe one year since, namely in 1904.

Lawrence University gave him the degree of D. D. some twelve years ago. Was a member of the General Conference in Cleveland in 1896, a reserve delegate in 1900, and a delegate in 1904. Is the author of a work entitled "Studies in Comparative Theology," which has had a good sale. Author of numerous articles in magazines and church papers. Also prepared the Epworth League notes for the first half of the year 1904, January to June. He was offered other professorships in secular institutions, but did not feel free to accept until Gammon Exegetical chair was offered him.

The recent rainfall at Pasadena, Cal., was the heaviest known for many years. The North Pasadena Methodist Church was destroyed during the storm by lightning.

Personal and General

Rev. E. C. F. Troupe, our pastor at Grenada, Miss., is seriously ill.

Bishop Scott on a recent Sunday baptized, at Monrovia, Liberia, twenty natives of the Kroo tribe.

Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Luster, of Smithland, Texas, are rejoicing over the advent of a fine baby girl January 29.

Rev. P. W. Clark, who was returned to Newman Memorial, Alexandria, for the fourth year, was most cordially received.

Dr. John P. Wragg represented the SOUTHWESTERN at the Florida Conference and did it well. He has the thanks and appreciation of our entire office force.

The number of divorces and judicial separations in England and Wales increased from 825 to 7,477 a year between 1893 and 1903.

Gen. Lew Wallace, the author of "Ben Hur," is seriously ill at his home in Crawfordsville, Ind. Gen. Wallace is a member of our church.

The appointment of Mr. Walter L. Cohen to succeed himself as Register of the United States branch land office at New Orleans has been confirmed by the Senate.

President Roosevelt will deliver an address before the Convention of the National Congress of Mothers, which will be held at the national capital March 10-17.

During one week of the Torrey-Alexander mission, in Liverpool, which closed recently, 1,500 persons publicly professed Christ, the total number of converts being more than 6,000.

Rev. J. W. Dawson has resigned the pastorate of Highbury Quadrant Church, London, in order to devote himself to evangelistic services, for which purpose he is now in this country.

The late E. A. Goodnow, of Worcester, Mass., bequeathed over $150,000 to charity and benevolence. Of that amount Tuskegee Institute receives $5,000, Hampton Institute $10,000.

Mr. Jacob Brown, a Negro resident of Henrietta, Indian Territory, paid recently a bonus of $1,500, his portion of the sum required by the N. O. and C. Railway to insure its passage through his city.

Dr. A. B. Leonard has been confined to his house for more than a week with an abscess in his right ear. His physician has ordered that he cancel all engagements for pulpit work for the next four months.

Mrs. L. M. Dunton, Financial Secretary of Claflin University, passed through this city on Friday of last week enroute to California, where she will spend two or three months in the interest of the University.

Rev. and Mrs. James M. Harris, of Burns' Chapel, Kansas City, Mo., have moved to 1828 Woodlawn avenue, and desire their friends to address them at that number instead of 1108 Highland avenue, as heretofore.

At the convention of the United Mine Workers of America, held at Indianapolis, Ind., recently, a resolution was adopted requiring all members who are saloon keepers or bartenders to withdraw either from the liquor business or from the organization.

Benjamin W. Payne, a native African, a graduate from the Central Tennessee College and the Meharry Medical College, now a self-supporting medical missionary in Liberia, was recently commissioned medical attendant to the Annual Liberian Exhibition.

Governor Davis of Arkansas, in his message to the General Assembly, urged the passage of a bill providing for the separation of school taxes on racial lines, making Negro schools dependent on the taxes paid by them. The bill was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 54 to 26.

Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, received from Wiley University this year $100 for missions, which he says is the largest amount contributed by any other Freedmen's Aid Society along this specific line during his two years' connection with the work.

The baccalaureate sermon of the Alcorn Agriculture and Mechanical College, of Westside, Miss., will be preached by Rev. W. F. Waters, of the SOUTHWESTERN, and Dr. M. C. B. Mason, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's' Aid Society, will deliver the commencement address.

Rev. John H. Shilling, D. D, of the class of 1897 of Gammon Theological Seminary, died recently. Dr. Shilling had served as Acting President of Taylor University, Upland, Ind., and was later serving a pastorate in New York.

The Daily Search Light is the name of a paper published in Muskogee, Indian Territory, and so far it is meeting with success. It is one of the few Negro dailies of the country, and we wish it success. Messrs. F. T. Gordon and H. A. Clark are the editors, and Mr. W. H. Simmons is business manager.

Dr. William H. Sheppard, of Staunton, Va., who has been for fourteen years a Presbyterian missionary in the Congo Free State, presented recently to President Roosevelt, a handsome rug, a coverlet of palm fibre linen, and a unique pipe, each article being manufactured by the natives of Africa.

Dean Pierre Landry, of Gilbert Industrial College, was in the city this week attending the session of the Orphans' Home Board. The Dean reports his work in prosperous condition. The enrollment is larger now than it was last year at the close, and one-half of the students are self-supporting.

Dr. Booker T. Washington has received a very cordial invitation from President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University to be the guest of the Tavern Club at some time when in Boston. This club is composed of professional men, musicians, authors, artists, etc., and recently entertained Prof. Barrett Wendell and Mr. James Bryce, a member of the British Parliament.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Johnson, pastor of Ebenezer Church, Marshall, Texas, is receiving unstinted praise for his lecture on "Touissant L'Overture, the Uncowned King of Santo Domingo." Dr. Johnson is an eloquent speaker, and in this lecture, to which he has given considerable time, he has been greeted with large audiences in most of the large towns and cities of Texas.

Rev. A. B. Harris, the newly appointed pastor of Camp Parapet, this city, has been sick and confined since the Annual Conference, but he has been at work. When the friends would call upon him he would ask for a contribution for the Missionary Society, and has already reported through us $5.00 for that cause. Brother Harris is up and hopes to be at his church soon.

Dr. R. E. Gillum, chairman of the Board of Examiners of the Central Missouri Conference, calls the attention of the examiners to the assignment of the work, which appeared in the SOUTHWESTERN of October 20th, on page 14. The examiners are requested to be present in St. Louis on March 7th, at 9 a. m., to commence work. If there is any delay, papers should be sent.

In the publication of the Louisiana Conference appointments some mistakes were inadvertently made. The copy we published was from the secretary, but it is not complete. The following appointments should also appear: South New Orleans District, Centerville and Verdenville, C. C. Landry; Shreveport District, DeRidder, W. H. Simmons; W. D. Godman, President Emeritus; Pierre Landry, Dean of Gilbert Industrial College; L. G. Adkinson, President of Gammon Theological Seminary, and Thomas McCary, Conference evangelist.

Dr. J. M. Shumpert entertained at his home recently, Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, Bishop E. Cottrell, Drs. I. G. Penn, J. P. Wragg, E. M. Jones, W. W. Foster, I. L. Thomas, S. A. Cowan and G. G. Logan, together with a number of other friends who were there by invitation. Upon this occasion the youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Logan was baptized by Bishop Spellmeyer, assisted by Bishop Cottrell, of the C. M. E. Church, and Dr. W. W. Foster, Jr., President of Rust University. Shumpert Logan is the name of the little boy.

The Pioneer Loan Association of Greensboro, N. C., in its first annual report, shows that the movement is in a healthy condition. The total receipts for the year amounted to $4,793.62, which has in turn been disbursed principally in loans on real estate and in building homes. There are three series of shares. Dr. J. Elmer Dellinger is president. Prof. James B. Dudley, secretary and treasurer, D. B. Yancey, vice-president, and Mr. George H. Mitchell, attorney. Besides the officials named, others of the Board of Directors are as follows: C. H. Moore, W. B. Windsor, G. W. Farrish, W. S. Smith, P. E. Robinson, E. B. Williams, Adam Watson, Martin Beville and H. F. Fuller.

Just as we go to press we learn that a very sad accident has happened to Miss Marie Adele Scott, daughter of Bishop Scott, who fell while skating. Miss Scott is at present a student of Spellman Seminary, Atlanta, Ga. An operation had to be performed, and at present the danger point has not passed. Miss Scott's mother and Dr. Josie Wells, of Nashville, are at the bedside. We are sure that prayers will be offered throughout our entire territory that Miss Scott will be blessed with speedy recovery.

Mrs. Lucy Thurman, of Jackson, Mich., the National Superintendent of Temperance Work among colored people, will spend the month of March in the state of Texas in the interest of the cause of temperance. Mrs. Thurman is an enthusiastic and interesting speaker, and will no doubt meet with a warm welcome in the "Lone Star" state. The state organization among our people in Texas is named for Mrs. Thurman, of which Mrs. E. E. Peterson is president and Miss Mamie C. Jones is corresponding secretary.

Our church at Pensacola, Fla., was destroyed by fire just on the eve of the last session of the Mobile Conference. The pastor, Rev. G. W. Lewis, B. D., has gone to work heroically to rebuild and is meeting with his usual success. The unanimity with which the membership has set about for the rebuilding of the church is indicated by the recent gift of Mr. W. H. McKinney, who left Pensacola some time ago in the service of the United States navy on the battleship Brooklyn. He writes the pastor from Bahia, Brazil, and encloses a check for a neat sum toward the erection of the church. That Brother Lewis will succeed we have no doubt.

Mr. E. B. Thirkield, father of Dr. W. P. Thirkield, died Sunday, January 29, at Franklin, Ohio, in which place he was born in 1823. Altho in the eighty-second year of his life he was full of vigor to the last, being at his desk only one week previous to his death. He died from an attack of acute pneumonia, which lasted about three days. The Franklin Chronicle speaks of Mr. Thirkield in the following language: "A man of clean habits, unquestioned integrity, unswerving fidelity to the right; a man of liberality, charity, truthfulness and square-dealing, is it any wonder the community pauses to-day to pay tribute to his memory?" In honor of his memory all the business houses of Franklin closed on the day of the funeral. Many of our preachers remember Mr. Thirkield from his frequent visits to Gammon Theological Seminary, in which he took keen interest. Especially was he interested in the Tuesday evening prayer meetings in the Seminary, as well as the general class work of the institution. The family has the heartfelt sympathy of our territory and our prayers for the comforting presence of the Holy Spirit.

NERVOUS PEOPLE.

"If nervous people would only drink more water they would not be so nervous," remarked a trained nurse the other day. "Nearly every physician will recommend a woman who is suffering from nervous prostration or nervous exhaustion to drink lots of water between meals, but many women who do not come under a doctor's care would feel better and look better if they would drink, say, a quart of water in the course of the day. Water seems to be a nerve food, like good butter. It has a distinctly soothing effect, when sipped gradually, as one can test for herself. I am not enough of a scientist to be able to tell you the reasons why it does this, but water sipped slowly and gradually has somewhat the same quieting effect as deep breathing."

THE SHEEP TICKS.

Farmers who have small flocks of sheep will do well to examine them for ticks. I say "small flocks," because those who raise sheep on a larger scale are supposed to have adopted the dipping tank. This is a season when the tick seems to get in its most effective work; probably because the sheep usually gets less nutritious and a smaller variety of food and is less able to bear the discomfort and the devitalizing effects occasioned by this pest.

All sheep are more or less affected with the tick, but sometimes they are so tormented by them that no amount of feed will overcome it. The writer has caught as many as 220 ticks off one sheep. Picking them by hand is a tedious job, but it beats throwing away feed and probably losing a sheep. One man can handpick fifteen or twenty in a day, and it is as valuable as any labor ever expended on a farm. One picking is not sufficient. After one has picked forty or fifty off one sheep and thinks he has it clean, he often can get the same number in two or three weeks again. However, two thorough pickings should last for the winter. Neither is dipping once a year sufficient. Sheep dipped last May are heavily infested now. I cannot speak for other seasons or other states, but it is that way in Kentucky this year. A languid look and a lack of flesh (where feed is abundant) is a good indication of the presence of ticks. In this condition a sheep is unable to combat disease, and many losses are attributable, primarily, to the emaciated condition brought about by the ticks.

A WONDER-WORKER OF SCIENCE.

Scarcely ten years ago Luther Burbank was denounced as an enemy to all true scientific progress, a misleading prophet of a new order of things that could never come to pass. To-day he has become the foremost man in the world in the production of new and interesting forms of fruits, trees, flowers, vegetables, grasses, and nuts. California's pride in him is growing and manifesting itself. He is acknowledged abroad as a genius of high rank. Carnegie Institution has appropriated for his work one hundred thousand dollars, available in sums of ten thousand dollars each year for ten years. This remarkable man and his unique work in creating new forms of plant life will be the subject of two authoritative papers by William S. Harwood in The Century, the first article appearing in the March issue. Added to unusual opportunities for familiarity with Mr. Burbank and his work, Mr. Harwood has brought to his articles on "A Wonder-worker of Science" keen interest and warm enthusiasm. Numerous illustrations from photographs will add to the interest and value of the account.

Literary Notes

The New England Magazine for February appears in its old-time, familiar cover. The opening feature is an illustrated article on that latest stupendous enterprise—just completed—of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, "The East Boston Tunnel." This is followed by an interesting account of "Olive Culture in California." The fiction is distinguished by its usual variety and excellence. "He of the Faint Heart," by Charles Kemble, is a Southern story of mistaken identity, telling how an innocent negro, suspected of a crime which he did not commit, is narrowly saved from the terrible fate of lynching.

The February number of the Southern Workman, published by the Hampton Institute, has an illustrated article giving much interesting information about the trucking industry in Eastern Virginia. Another tells of the strange customs and ceremonies of the Cora Indians of Mexico, a trible which is holding its own against the encroachments of the white men. A number of thoughtful editorials complete the number.

TO THE EPWORTH LEAGUERS OF THE WEST TEXAS CANFERENCE.

Dear Epworthians—We are called upon to do a greater work for the Master's cause this year than last. We accomplished a very good year's work last year considering all things—yet, we must excel ourselves each succeeding year. We have our same material, only better, because we have all doubtless made new vows, especially to our heavenly Father, that we would be better and do better work. Now, as to how far these vows extend depends solely upon your energy this year. You cannot wait, because the days are passing swiftly.

The influence of our Samuel Huston College is being felt by the many everywhere. We must push its claim until its halls shall be crowded with our boys and girls from every quarter of our proud state. Our boys' dormitory must be upon the heart of the entire membership of the West Texas Annual Conference. Our Eliza Dees' Home must not in the least be forgotten. Our friends from the North have come with their thousands and poured them into our coffers but where are ours? It is high time for us to awake to the law of reciprocity and to reciprocate not to them but to ourselves and children. We will never rise above our level unless we aim at something. Our future in this Southland depends absolutely upon the brain, hand, mind, soul and strength of the Negro. If we man the forces which are before us, better things await us.

We should all strive to be something in the M. E. Church. Anxiety brings prestige and tact; and they set in motion thrift, push and frugality, and the final result of the whole consists of a man for the place and a place for the man.

Our model presiding elder, Rev. Dr. J. W. Weakly, will do much in his rounds to stimulate the work of the Leaguers over the San Antonio District. We bespeak another successful year for him on this district. Remember our model, Miss Darcas N. Walker, who has done a great deal and is yet strong to put life into Epworth Leagues over this district. Let the president of every local chapter forward one dollar at once to be used by the Executive Board in the month of April for the League programs and other incidental expenses. "The Epworth League and Sam Huston College" shall be our cry.

AN INQUIRY.

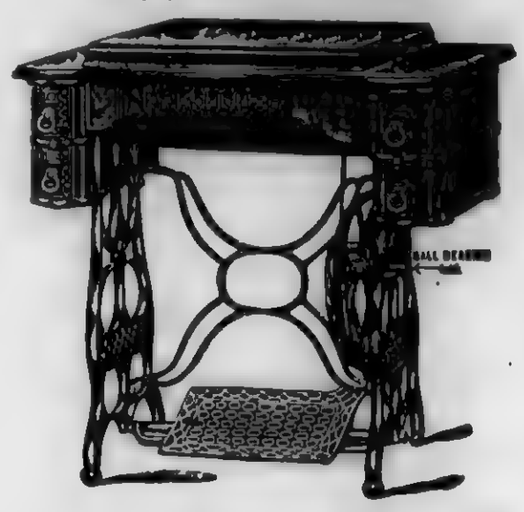
I want to find my son who left his home in St. Petersburg, Fla., in January, 1900, and went to Cuba, from there to New York and thence to Spruce Creek, Pa. From there he journeyed to Clarksburg, W. Va., I have not heard from him since September of 1900. His name is George Murphy; father and mother are named Alexander and Lavania Murphy, respectively. I hope each pastor who notices this inquiry will read the same from his pulpit. He is my only son and any news of his whereabouts will be gladly welcomed by me.

St. Petersburg, Fla. L. Murphy.

BROTHERS WANTED.

We have two brothers whom we have not seen for nine years. The last time we heard of them they were living in Louisiana and Texas. Willie Armstead was in Laland, La., in 1895. Will Hudson was in Austin, Texas, five years ago. Willie Armstead is about 24 years of age, and Will Hudson is about 27. Willie Armstead generally signed W. R. Armstead, and Will signed his name W. H. Hudson. Any information leading to their whereabouts will be thankfully received. We ask that every pastor please read this from his pulpit, that we may find our brothers. Will Hudson is my brother and Willie Armstead is my wife's brother. Address me at Kilmichael, Miss. James Henry Applewhite, care Rev. G. W. Baker.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.



Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

Doings of the Workmen.

A. Roach, White Pine, Tenn.—Our second quarterly conference was held at White Pine, Tenn., Harris Memorial M. E. Church, Jan. 28-29. Presiding Elder A. W. Weber was in the chair; most of the members of the quarterly conference were present with written reports, which showed the work to be in good condition. The elder preached on Sunday at 11 o'clock, an eloquent sermon. Forty-one communed. Paid the elder in full; paid pastor $33.21; total, $42.71. A Ladies' Aid Society has been organized with Mrs. Rebecca Smith as chairman and Mrs. Mary Moore, secretary.

M. L. Easley, Reporter, Paris, Tenn.—Our quarterly meeting was held on Dec. 30-Jan. 1. Our presiding elder, Rev. J. A. W. Moore, was present. Owing to very cold weather but few were out on Sunday night. The elder preached a wonderful sermon. Collection for the day $7.50. A reception was given the pastor, R. B. Ross. The hams, chickens and a neat little sum of money presented him brought happy smiles to his face.

W. W. Pope, Pastor, Lumberton, N. C.—Our first quarterly conference convened at Lumberton, Jan. 21-22. Our presiding elder, Rev. I. W. Wells, presided. The majority of officers were present. The reports, which were good, were as follows: Pastor, $100; presiding elder, $36; benevolence, $18; total, $148. Sunday was a high day. The elder was at his best and preached two soul stirring sermons to the delight of all present. Our collection on Sunday was a grand success. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity. We are preparing to put in pews for the accommodation of our people who are anxious to hear the Gospel.

Griffin, Ga.—Heck Chapel M. E. Church is fully alive. The Epworth League, with Dr. A. M. Wilkins, president, Miss Marie George, Miss Mattie McGinty, Miss Estella Henly and Miss Bertha Grant as vice-president, Mrs. L. C. Wilkins, superintendent of Junior League, can expect nothing but success. Then, too, with such a pastor as Rev. J. A. Richie, success is assured. The congregation is larger now than it has been in 10 years, with the best league and Sunday school we have ever had. Rev. Richie has made a deep impression on the people of this city. He is a straightforward preacher and leader. We want him here at least six years. The outlook for this year is the best in history of the church. Our pastor was sick for two or three weeks just after conference, but the Lord has restored him to health and strength again. Of Mrs. Richie too much cannot be said as a faithful helpmate. She has been principal of the school at Stockbridge, Ga., for two years now. When she is at home she is faithful in Sunday school, League and church. Long may these servants of God live, to do work for the Master.

B. H. S. Ferguson, Aberdeen, Miss.—I arrived at Aberdeen on Sunday after the adjournment of the conference. I met an eager congregation and a warm reception. I was well received and cared for by Mr. E. D. Coleman, one of the stewards, and his interesting family. On Thursday night we had a good official meeting and Friday night our first quarterly conference was held with the Rev. F. H. Henry, presiding elder, in the chair. His manner of presiding was all that could be wished for and perfect satisfaction prevails. The committee fixed the pastor's salary at $700 and that of the elder at $100. Episcopal funds and conference claimants, $10. We are in for a successful year, the Lord willing.

R. C. Worsham, Pastor, Franklin, La.—On Feb. 2 a surprise party was given in honor of the pastor, who was returned to Asbury M. E. Church for the second year. The affair was under the auspices of members and friends.

Lucy Black, Reporter, Milford, Tex.—On the night of Jan. 21 we called on our pastor with a surprise party and left many good things on the table. Mrs. M. T. Reed made a most gracious address. A few remarks from the pastor and all knelt in prayer. We hope to do a great deal more.

Wm. Reed, Pastor, Milford, Texas.—I returned from the conference and found my people awaiting my return. Although the weather has been so unfavorable that we haven't all been able to get together so far, yet the outlook is good. Our first quarterly conference was held Jan. 28-29, Rev. L. H. Richardson, in the chair. We had a good time. Raised for the pastor this quarter, $26.55; for the elder, $20.57; total raised, $47.12. The dear old SOUTHWESTERN was not forgotten. The elder preached two strong sermons on Sunday. Thirty communed.

(Prof.) J. C. Crawford, Secretary, Washington, Ky.—The grand birthday exercises of our pastor, Rev. C. H. Pyles, last Friday night, Jan. 20, celebrating the 48th anniversary of his birth, was the occasion of a pleasant time. We had fine music. Miss Manmia Hicks read an excellent paper on the past history of the M. E. Church of Washington. Miss R. J. Ford, a paper giving an outline of the pastor's ministerial life. Rev. Pyles made interesting and impressive remarks along the history of his ministerial life. Prof. J. C. Crawford gave a short talk on "The Past Events." The ladies had prepared a nice supper. Total amount raised, $29.73.

W. M. Josey, Pastor, Arthur City, Texas.—My first quarterly conference was held at White's Chapel M. E. Church, Jan. 21-22. Rev. F. Parker, presiding elder, was on hand. Owing to cold weather, the attendance was small. On Sunday at 11 a. m. the elder preached a good sermon. A nice crowd was present. At the close of this service the Lord's Supper was administered to 35 communicants. At night an old-fashioned love-feast was conducted by the pastor. Rev. Parker gave a good talk.

The fourth quarterly conference and Epworth League and Sunday School Convention, which convened at Bridgeport, O., Jan. 12-18, 1905, was a marked success in every particular. The first two days were devoted to the work of the Epworth League and Sunday school. The program was carried out in full and many subjects of vital importance were discussed. The reports of delegates showed the work to be in a prosperous condition. Nelson Howard, president of the sub-district, who has held the office for some years, proves to be the right man in the right place and deserves the esteem of all. The fourth quarterly conference showed the church to be in a very healthy condition, spiritually and financially. The receipts for the session were $66.31. Presiding elder paid in full. Thus ends one of the most successful quarterly meetings and conventions held here for some time. The sacramental services held on Sunday were characterized by marked interest and great religious ardor. One of the special features of the conference was a reception given in honor of Dr. H. W. Simmons by the local leagues. The church and table were beautifully decorated. Each person present received a souvenir in the form of a nail tied with a pink and green bow. During the evening sweet music, addresses and solos were rendered. The principal address being delivered by Dr. H. W. Simmons. At the conclusion of the program the presiding elder was given a handsome present by the young men of the church. Those who sat down to the tempting lunch were the ordained ministers and their wives.

CECIL H. MARCELLUS, Jr., Reporter.

H. L. Vainford, Corinth, Miss.—We, the leaders and members of Mt. Moriah M. E. Church, have started out with our earnest pastor, Rev. H. B. Hart, in the lead, to do more this year than ever before. We want to serve notice on all of the leading charges of the Upper Mississippi Conference to look out. We are going to first repair our church, raise our benevolences, pay our presiding elder and pastor. We ask the prayers of all for our success.

J. M. Watson, Pastor, Radford, Va.—The ministerial official and laymen's institute was quite a success. The ministers present were J. F. Prigmore, H. Harrison, J. D. Star, A. W. Randolph, C. H. Jones and W. E. Johnson. The literary exercises were good. The Epworth League was reorganized with a large body of officers, each of whom have the work at heart. The people of Radford threw wide their doors and gave the delegates and friends a cordial welcome. On Sunday morning an interesting Sunday school service was held. At 11 p. m., 3 and 7 a. m. eloquent sermons were preached and souls were made happy. Collection $27. The services closed Sunday night. Rev. J. F. Prigmore, president.

W. H. Pleasants, Pastor, Graham, Va.—We are still alive at this place, spiritually and financially. The good people of this charge are determined to push the work forward. The Sunday school and all departments of the church are in a flourishing condition. On the 21st and 22nd of January our second quarterly conference convened at Anderson Chapel, with the presiding elder, W. E. Mitchell, presiding. The members of the conference were present with written reports which showed that the work was in good shape. Sunday was a glorious day with us. The elder preached a stirring sermon at 11 a. m. and at 3 p. m. Rev. W. T. Tifney preached ably; at night the pastor filled the pulpit. Raised during the day, $75.00; paid the pastor this quarter $76.00, making the total this quarter $151.00.

Swamp-Root, discovered by the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, promptly cures kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles.

Some of the early symptoms of weak kidneys are pain or dull ache in the back, rheumatism, dizziness, headache, nervousness, catarrh of the bladder, gravel or calculi, bloating, sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, suppression of urine, or compelled to pass water often day and night.

The mild and extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but if you have kidney, liver, bladder or uric acid trouble you will find it just the remedy you need.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and a pamphlet that tells all about it, including many of the thousands of letters received from sufferers cured, both sent free by mail. Write Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and please be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

F. J. GEORGE, La Vergne, Ills., Pub., Department G.

The district stewards and pastors of the Paris District met with Bishop Jones' M. E. Church of Bonham, Tex., January 27, 28 and 29, at the call of the Rev. F. Parker, presiding elder. Friday and Saturday were spent discussing earnestly the work of the church and district: how best to obtain helpful results from prayer meetings, helpful class meetings, etc. Brother Moses Murray and Rev. J. L. Owens presented well-prepared papers on "What Can the Sunday School Do In Promoting Revivals?" Rev. J. E. Beal, "What Is the Greatest Danger to the Spiritual Condition to Young Christians?" and Rev. W. L. Duncan, "Epworth League and Temperance Reform." Mrs. L. A. Tyson spoke on the "Junior League and The Boy Problem," "How May We Circulate the Books and Papers of the M. E. Church Among Our Members," and "How to Provide a Better Support for Conference Claimants" were discussed generally. Hon. R. L. Smith presented an able and helpful paper on "Church Benevolences." Our pastor, Rev. J. L. Owens, has made a splendid start in his new field; he has his work well in hand. He made ample arrangements for the meeting. Sunday was a glorious day. Able sermons were preached by Revs. J. E. Beal, W. L. Duncan and Dr. Freeman Parker, presiding elder. Rev. J. A. Lindly of the C. M. E. Church and his people worshiped with us at 11 a. m., and at night we were with them, and Rev. F. Parker preached to the delight of a full house. Resolutions of thanks were offered for the kind manner in which the people of Bonham entertained the meeting and endorsing the kind favors of the presiding elder by Rev. J. E. Beal, Miss Elma Tyson, Bro. Moses Murray. The presiding elder's salary, including house rent and traveling expenses was estimated at $1,014.

Dear Brethren—See well to Easter. The great church of our choice is depending on us to do well our part. Organize well your Sunday schools and Epworth League Chapters. See that one Sunday in each month be devoted to missionary exercises and a liberal collection taken for missions. Our chief aim this year is to raise every cent of our entire apportionment. The very God of peace bless, preserve and help you to succeed. Your friend and brother in the cause.

J. E. BRYANT, P. E.

NOTICE, MOBILE CONFERENCE.

I take this method of notifying the brothers of the conference that the minutes are delayed because the statistical secretary failed to leave with me the statistical tables. I wrote him immediately after the conference adjourned to send them, but failed to hear from him. I then wrote his presiding elder asking him to have the matter attended to at once and he said in reply that he, himself, had written to the statistical secretary three times since conference and had failed to get a reply. I write this solely to let all concerned know that the minutes are ready save for the statistics and would have been sent out last week if I had had them.

G. W. LEWIS, Secty.

NOTICE

To the ministers of the Upper Mississippi Conference: Please remember that the fourth Sunday in February, the 26th, was set by a unanimous vote, as the day on which to lift a collection for our Revels Memorial M. E. Church, in Greenville, Miss. In case the weather is inclement the 4th Sunday in March will be used. Brethren, please come to our rescue. Send the amounts taken to the Rev. J. M. Marsh, pastor, Greenville, Miss. Yours in His name.

J. W. WINBUSH, P. E.

NOTICE.

The Board of Examiners of the Lincoln Conference will meet in Colorado Springs, March 1, at 9 o'clock a. m., to examine all candidates for admission on trial and all undergraduates who must meet on the above date or else wait until next year.

J. C. Williams, chairman of Board of Examiners.

NOTICE.

Holly Springs District, Greeting: Dear Epworth Leaguers—The year 1904 has gone and another year's work is before us. Let us start with the year. Put your leagues to work, hold your cabinet meetings as often as practicable; consult your pastor, make known to him all your plans; have some one to read a paper on Missions, Education, Sunday School and Epworth League work. Remember this is the year for the international Epworth League Convention, and other meetings of importance. Please don't forget your obligation made at Duck Hill last July to send a delegate to Denver, Colo. You will be reminded as to your claim in time. We must be faithful to all our obligations as Leaguers. Doubtless we will have an Annual Conference Epworth League Convention ere long at some suitable place, and each charge should send a delegate. We can't afford to miss these meetings that are within our reach. Begin in time, making the necessary preparation for your district meeting.

J. W. TERRELL, Cor. Sec.

HUNTSVILLE DISTRIST.

SECOND ROUND.

Montgomery, March 4-5; Conroe, 11-12; Spring, 18-19; Dodge, 25-26; Willis, April 1-2; Lovelady, 8-9; Corrigan, 15-16; Colmesneil, 17-18; Josserand, 22-23; Livingston, 29-30; Camilla, 29-30; Prairie Plains, May 6-7; Huntsville Ct., 13-14; Huntsville Sta., 20-21; Jasper and Newton, 27-28. Dear Brethren—Make Easter Sunday, April 23, a great day for missions. Put your committees, Sunday schools, Epworth Leagues, and all members to work for missions. Try to raise every dollar apportioned for that cause Easter Sunday.

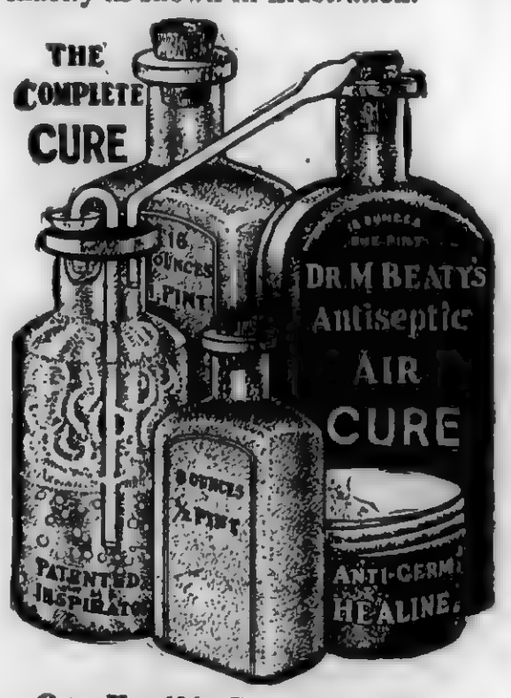
PAPOOSE POPCORN



A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

FREE

To introduce my great Antiseptic Aeriform Medication and to prove beyond doubt that it will cure consumption, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh and weak lungs, I will for a short time give One Month's Treatment Free, including Inspirator and all medicines complete, exactly as shown in illustration.

One Month's Treatment Free.

Do not delay, but write at once, and tell me the nature of your lung, throat or head trouble, and how long the disease has had a hold on you. The Month's Free Course is intended to prove the genuine merits of the cure, and costs nothing to afflicted ones, who enter upon a course of treatment.

I will keep in close touch with my patients during the progress of the treatment and will make no charge whatever for my professional services, consultations and all correspondence. Address Dr. Marshal Beaty, Specialist, 218 West Ninth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

T. Larkins, Abbeville Circuit, La.—The cornerstone of Powell's Chapel was laid Jan. 22nd. Raised $30. Rev. I. Mathien of the Baptist Church rendered good service. We left for conference in good shape.

Field Notes

Greensboro, N. C.—A grand celebration was held by the Epworth League Society of High Street Mission on Jan. 23. Organist Miss F. S. Smith conducted the singing with credit to herself and to the delight of the large congregation present. Programme was conducted by Mr. John M. Moffitt. Music by the audience. Solos were sung by Miss Emma Coble, Miss S. V. Dick and Mr. James Smith; quartette by four young ladies. The subjects presented were interesting and instructive.. The League was organized about three years years ago, with Rev. R. D. Bethea pastor, about four joining, out of only ten church members. Since then the Epworth League has helped the church buy and pay for a plot of ground on which to build a new church. They now have Rev. W. T. Lomax for their pastor, with nearly 100 League members, and are raising money to help build a new Methodist Episcopal Church. The young people of East Greensboro are doing well for the church, Sunday school and the League. Our presiding elder, Rev. M. J. Bullock, visits us occasionally and preaches to and instructs the people to the delight of all who hear him.

F. L. Bost, Readville Circuit.—I came to this charge the fourth Sunday in October and found each church in splendid order. Many members whose names are recorded are not now on the circuit, so the membership has decreased considerably. So this small membership, this being a self-supporting charge, will, doubtless, be somewhat burdened by its obligations. Our first quarterly conference was held December 17 and 18. Our beloved elder, M. J. Bullock, was on time and in good spirit. He urged all the officers and leaders to do their whole duty; he did not forget the SOUTHWESTERN. The elder left us early Sunday morning, so the writer preached at 11 o'clock to a good audience and the Spirit of the Lord was poured upon us. The Lord's Supper was administered to quite a large number. I have been hunting for everyone who has once been a member and was not expelled from the church, trying to persuade them to renew their covenant, and the Lord is helping us along this particular line of work. Pray for our success.

(Mrs.) G. A. Hall, Dallas, Tex.—Rev. M. S. Jordan, who has been appointed to Dallas, is one of our best ministers in the West Texas Conference; and our work is moving on nicely. He has met with every department of the church and has put everything in working order. He favorably impressed all. Dallas only wants good moral and intelligent ministers. We are proud of Rev. Jordan and sincerely believe that we will be successful this year spiritually, financially and numerically.. Our presiding elder is the right man in the right place.

R. L. Dickerson, Pastor, Cleveland, O.—Cleveland is the center of a group of progressive churches. They are all doing remarkable work. Our Methodism in this section of the Ohio district is taking front rank. We are winding up our second year at Cory Chapel under very encouraging conditions. We paid off the long-standing debt of $1,500 last year. This year we have remodeled and beautified the church, put in more lights and a nice piano and increased our attendance to 409. Have just close the best revival in the history of the church, with 70 conversions and accessions. Much credit is due our energetic presiding elder, Dr. W. H. Simmons, who was present and rendered able assistance in the starting of our revival. Our report will pass that of last year.

Convulsion, Fits, then Epilepsy.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has been so successful in curing these brain-wrecking diseases that there is every reason to believe that even the most hopeless cases can be benefited, if not fully restored.

We will be pleased to refer any one thus afflicted to many who now enjoy the blessing of health, after years of hopeless suffering.

"I have a son that had brain fever when two years old, followed by fits of the worst type, and he was pronounced incurable. I spent hundreds of dollars for him, without relief. After about fifteen years he became so bad that we sent him to Longcliff hospital for the insane, at Logansport, Ind. He was there nearly three years, but he continued to grow worse, so we brought him home July 30, 1902, in an awful condition. He had lost his mind almost entirely. He hardly knew one of the family; could not even find his bed; was a total wreck. He had from 5 to 10 fits a day. We were urged to try Dr. Miles' Nervine, and before the first bottle was used, we could see a change for the better. We have given it to him ever since, and he has had but two very light spells since last August, 1903, and then he was not well other ways. We pronounce him cured, as he can work and go anywhere. If any one wishes to ask any questions concerning this, they are at liberty to do so."
E. H. BUNNELL, Lincoln, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind

W. R. Clay, Pastor, Holly Springs, Miss. — On Monday night we were suddenly disturbed by the sweet music of many voices. The door was opened and in crowded a number of people of all sizes and ages from all of the town churches, led by Mrs. Julia Oglesby Elliott, Mrs. (Professors) McKissack, Greene, Williams and Hall, Mrs. (Drs.) Woolfolk and Williams, Mesdames Wilkins, Wesley and Hall. many C. M. E. and Baptist friends and a host of young people. They left in their wake abuot 250 pounds of the most choice viands of the season. The pastor and wife made short talks. Rev. Elliott and Mesdames McKissac, Oglesby and Elliott replied. They pledged to us their prayers and untiring work for success this year, and we promised to labor willingly for greater success this year than any previous one.

B. Preston, Kosciusko, Miss.—During the three years' pastorate of Rev. W. M. Campbell on this charge, he made an enviable record, and sustained an unblemished character. His life here has been an inspiration to all. He erected a church at a cost of $900.

E. N. Miller, Pastor, Grantville, Ga. —I reached my work Dec. 31st. Had a cordial greeting. The people are congenial, loyal and intelligent Methodists. We are anticipating great results, which, by the help of God, we shall attain. Jan. 21-22 our first quarterly conference convened. The Rev. E. H. Oliver, our beloved presiding elder, was with us. We had quite an interesting and successful conference. The attendance was large. The presiding elder was at his best. Sunday, at 11 and at 1 o'clock he preached able sermons. The power of the Holy Ghost fell upon us, and we all said, "It is good to be here." Raised Saturday and Sunday $34; raised within the three weeks, $70.

L. L. Givhan Pastor, Thompson's Tex., Richmond Circuit —Rev. Ed. Lee, our presiding elder, held our quarterly conference at Mt. Vernon M. E. Church, Richmond, January 21. All officials made good reports. On the 22d the elder preached an able and soul-stirring sermon, after wh'ch he administered the Lord's Supper to 30 communicants. A collection of $4 was raised for the presiding elder. The work so far is in a prosperous condition, and both points always receive me cordially. God being our helper, we expect to make an all round report at the coming Annual Conference.

W. R. H. Harvey, Pastor, Norwood, M. E. Church, La.—On the night of the 18th, at a late hour, a lively storm struck the parsonage and the table was covered with 50 pounds of nice groceries. The crowd was led by Sister Annet Green and Sister Tempy Barror.

W. E. Blackson, Pastor, Denison, Tex. After the adjournment of the Annual Conference, we went to Austin, our old home, and, of course, we met many old friends. I had the privilege of lecturing to our great school, Samuel Huston College. In coming back to Denison, the place I had served three years, I found my people in waiting with happy hearts and glad faces. On Friday night they filed in the parsonage until it was filled to overflowing, and left on the table many good things. This band was led by Sister L. M. Walls and Sister A. Jackson.

Baldwin, La.—Sunday morning, January 22, a memorial service was held in Trinity Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church at Winsted, La., in memory of Mrs. Hannah Augusta Dexter Godman. The services began at 11 o'clock. Rev. Andrew Jackson conducted the devotional exercises, Rev. E. B. Richards, the pastor, directed the exercises and called on the following named persons, citizens of Baldwin and Winsted, who were personally acquainted with Mrs. Godman and her labors here: Mr. N. B. Veille, Mr. Harry Baker, and Mr. Sam Kinchen. These testified in loving and tender expressions to the self-sacrificing and noble deeds of Mrs. Godman while here in the work with her husband. Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., was next introduced and spoke of the noble character of Dr. and Mrs. Godman, and Miss Inez. He recounted tender and loving memory of his first conference with them, how his heart burned with inexpressible gratitude for the value of such noble, Christian hearts that counted it all joy to help an oppressed and ignorant race. He said further that no history of Methodism, no history of the educational and Christian uplift of the Negro race will be complete without the record of the unselfish and life-long labors of the Godmans. Music was furnished by the college choir. The church was appropriately draped in mourning by Rev. Richards, Mrs. Virginia Landry, and the girls of the school. A large audience, including some white citizens, joined in the services in evidence of their high regard for Mrs. Godman. Brother W. S. Posey and V. T. Hoge spoke at night, also Bro. Morga of the Baptist church.

E. B. RICHARDS.

Arthur City, Tex.—Little Gonister Sim, aged 3 years, fell asleep in Jesus Jan. 14. A father, mother, two sisters and one brother mourn his departure. Also Sister Larcenia Daingerfield died Jan. 15, aged 15 years. She leaves a widowed mother, six sisters and four brothers. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, W. M. Josey.

The Effective Remedy

WASHINGTON, IOWA, April 4, 1903.

I was troubled for over a year with so scanty a flow that it was virtually suppression. A heavy cold superinduced this condition and nothing I could do seemed to help me.

The only effective remedy I ever found was Wine of Cardui. Within two weeks I felt the good effects of the medicine and after I had used 13 bottles in all I was as healthy and regular as any woman could wish to be.

My sister used it while expecting to become a mother and found that it made childbirth comparatively easy and after the child was born she found that it helped her to regain her strength.

Jennie Root

GRAND WORTHY ASSOCIATE, SONS OF TEMPERANCE.

WINE of CARDUI

Wine of Cardui cures nine out of every ten cases of the disorders of menstruation. These cures are permanent, whether the trouble is complicated or not.

Wine of Cardui cures the sickness of young girls, relieves the weakness of adults, banishes leucorrhœa, headaches, backaches and nervousness and eases the crisis attendant on the change of life.

Thousands of mothers besides Miss Root's sister have found grateful relief from the pains of childbirth and have had a quick and happy recovery from its use. You cannot afford to suffer when $1.00 bottles are sold by all druggists.

They Live in Our Memory.

Shreveport, La.—Sister M. I. Riptoe departed this life Jan. 28. She had been a faithful member of St. Paul, but recently had moved to Marshall, Tex., and united with our church there, Dr. J. Mercer Johnson, pastor. She was buried from St. Paul church upon the return of the pastor from conference. The funeral was largely attended. Also Brother Peter Johnson, one of the old members of St. Paul, died in peace Feb. 5. Brother Johnson was one of the trustees who assisted in buying the site for St. Paul M. E. Church. The bereaved are commended to the sustaining grace of Almighty God. B. M. HUBBARD, Pastor.

Griffin, Ga.—Wednesday night, Feb. 1, Mr. Mebry Scott, an old citizen of Griffin about 65 years of age, fell from the top of a three-story building, sustaining injuries from which death resulted Saturday night, Feb. 4.

Anderson, S. C.—Sister Hettie Boseman, aged 65 years, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for many years, and a much beloved and highly respected member of the community, died Jan. 21 in great peace. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. M. M. Mouzon, presiding elder. Her friends were many. A. E. QUICK, Pastor.

Opelousas, La.—The death of Sister Teny Andress occurred recently, after an illness of one year. She joined the M. E. Church early in life and lived a good and faithful member until death. Thre daughters, three sons and a number of grandchildren survive her. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, E. C. Goins.

Draper, Va.—Aunt Jennie Clark, age 94 years, was found dead in her home on January 8. She was baptized by her request, during the month of October. Sister Matilda Smith died Jan. 11 at the age of 70 years. She said she was ready to go. A sister, son and grandchildren survive her.

W. E. JOHNSON.

Anderson, S. C.—Sister Esther Perrin, aged 80 years, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 35 years and a Christian for more than 50, departed this life Jan. 29. Her funeral service on the 30th ult. was largely attended. She was a loving mother and a faithful servant in the church, society, and in every place where duty called. She was buried with the honors of the Daughters of Wesley. Her life was great and her death triumphant. Dr. Divoill and family with whom she lived for some time, paid very high tribute to her memory.

A. E. QUICK, Pastor.

Opelousas, La.—Mr. Thomas Jones, age 30, died Jan. 17, leaving a mother, one brother and two sisters. Also Sister Fannie Mitchel died Feb. 4. She was a member of St. Mark M. E. Church in Washington, La. She leaves five little children, a mother, husband, two brothers and a host of friends.

E. C. GOINS.

Union City, Tennessee.—At the first semi-annual session of the West Tennessee District Conference at Humbodlt, Tenn., Jan. 29, Memorial services were held in memory of the late Rev. C. B. Wilson, A. M., D. D. The following resolutions were adopted: Whereas, our kind heavenly Father has deemed it best to take from us to his divine abode one who has labored with us about twenty years, and whereas, he flagged not nor faltered in the performance of the great task he had undertaken, dreading no opposition, fearing no foe, making no compromise with sin; therefore, be it Resolved, that we revere the memory of Dr. C. B. Wilson and bowing in submission, do mourn his departure. Respectfully submitted, Rev. J. P. Price, Chairman; Rev. J. P. Gress, Rev. S. M. Strayhorne, Sec.

New Orleans, La.—Mr. Howard Green died Jan. 29 in the Christian faith. Also Johnnie Pullen and Mrs. Fannie Thompson died recently in the full triumph of faith.

MRS. ELIZA GOLDEN, Reporter.

Ocean Springs, Miss.—On the first day of February little Shumpert Quinn, a son of Rev. A. M. Quinn, went home to rest. He was a sweet, intelligent child of eight years, loved by all who knew him. His remains were taken to Crawford, Miss., for interment. Five brothers and two sisters mourn the absence of this little one.

New Orleans, La.—Sister Rebecca Fisher, aged 49 years, a faithful and loving member of Williams' Chapel, died on the 8th inst., in peace. She sang to the last. Sister Fisher was an ideal Christian, never complained about church duties, but with Christian fortitude she did her best for every cause. She was a member of the stewardess board and filled her place with great credit. The members of the stewardess board attended the service in their uniforms, together with the two societies of which she was a member. Her funeral took place at Williams' church, conducted by Revs. B. Brown, Williams, F. Walker, D. Young, Houston, E. J. Brown, H. Taylor and the pastor. Our church is left in mourning. The husband and many relatives who mourn the demise of this their loved one, we commend to the God who is able to comfort them in these hours of sorrow.

C. W. REEVES, Pastor.

Greenwood, Miss.—Brother Christopher Lackey, the son of Rev. N. L. Lackey, the conference evangelist of the Upper Mississippi Conference, departed this life in Greenville, Miss., Feb. 2, aged 20 years. For twelve years he was a member of the M. E. Church, and during these years lived a pious life. He had a good business education and a keen eye to business, and was, therefore, a very prosperous young man. Brother Lackey was a member of the Masonic fraternity, also the Odd Fellows. Rev. S. H. Nevils, presiding elder of the Greenwood District, attended his funeral service Feb 6. His remains were deposited in the family cemetery in Greenwood, Miss. He leaves parents and a host of friends to mourn their loss. The family have our deepest sympathy.

B. F. WOOLFOLK.

Forrest City, Ark.—Anthony Randolph, a trustee of Kynett Chapel M. E. Church, departed this life January 26, in the triumph of a living faith. He was the founder of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this city and was made a trustee upon its organization, in which office he remained until death. He is survived by three daughters, one son and four grandchildren. He was buried by the Masonic fraternity, the funeral service being preached by his pastor. Peace to his ashes.

J. W. JACKSON, Pastor.

"A SECRET."

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such, for instance, as the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The change from maidenhood to womanhood is one that involves the whole body. The strain at this time upon the blood-forming structures may be too great. Disorders of the functions peculiarly feminine are nearly always dependent upon defective nutrition. In all such cases Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the vegetable tonic for the female system.

"I cannot express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Dr. Pierce's medicines" writes Mrs. Julius Webrly, of Cambridge, Dorchester Co., Md. "I took 'Favorite Prescription' and feel that a perfect cure has been effected. I feel like thanking you for the kind and fatherly letters which you wrote."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was the first exclusively woman's tonic on the market. It has sold more largely in the past third of a century than any other medicine for women. Do not let the druggist persuade you to try some compound that has not had the test of so many years' success.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

Much of the physical beauty of man or woman is dependent on the hair. Keep this "crowning glory" in best condition with "La Creole" Hair Restorer, the preparation used by famous Creole beauties. It makes the hair lie straight and smooth for a long time, cures dandruff, prevents falling hair and restores original color to gray hair.

Unexcelled for Purpose

Mrs. Melissa Dancy, of 281 Orleans street, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the most prominent women in the colored society of this city, in both a social and religious way; Mrs. Dancy has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for many years and takes pleasure in saying:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is unexcelled for the purposes for which you recommend it, viz., to keep the hair in a soft and glossy condition and to prevent it from falling out."

MRS. MELISSA DANCY.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

MR. JAMES BACON.

Splendid Hair Dressing

To the old patrons of the Peabody Hotel, Memphis, Tenn., this is a familiar face—that of Mr. James Bacon, who has had entire charge of the dining room in that celebrated hostlery for over twenty-five years, and who, by his courteous manner and polite attention has secured the friendship and respect of every one with whom he comes in contact. Mr. Bacon says:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is a splendid dressing for the hair and I have received great benefit from its use."

His address is 98 St. Paul street, Memphis.

"La Creole" Hair Restorer retails at $1.00 per large bottle. If your dealer cannot supply you, we will send by prepaid express, to any station in the United States or Canada—

One bottle for $1.00; 6 bottles for $5.00.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

Norwood, La.—Brother Levy Barror and Miss Gracyan Drake were united in marriage December 14 by the pastor, Rev. W. R. H. Harry. On the 18th of December Mr. Wiley and Miss Matta Mays were joined in marriage. Also Mr. Robert Shannel and Miss Emma Wetherspoon, on January 12. W. R. H. Harry officiated.

Lexington, Miss.—Mr. Willie L. McGee, of Durant, Miss., and Miss Mary M. Rowe, of Lexington, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock Wednesday night, Jan. 25, at the Baptist Church, of which the bride is a member. Rev. C. E. Moody, pastor of the M. E. Church, officiated. Mr. McGee is a prominent member of the M. E. Church and quite a number of friends witnessed the ceremony. The contracting parties are highly connected.

C. E. MOODY, Pastor.

Bermuda, La.—At the home of the bride, Mr. Prince Bolden was united in marriage to Miss Susie Jones, on Wednesday, Jan. 11. Rev. Sam Jones, of the A. M. E. Church, officiated. The bridesmaid was Miss Alvaney Ricks and the groom's best man was Mr. Arnold Washington. The bride is a third degree member of the Brothers and Sisters of Honor of the World, which society pays to its members of the third degree $100 as a marriage endowment claim. The same was presented the bride immeditely after the ceremony. She was the first young lady from St. Paul No. 10, also the first young lady in the state, to take that degree. May God bless the young couple.

JAMES APPLESSES.

Pottscamp, Miss.—Mr. Robert Smith and Miss Lizzie Estes were united in marriage Dec. 3 at the home of the bride, who is a charming young lady and a faithful worker in the church. The groom is a leading young man of this place. W. F. ISAIAH, Pastor.

Browning, Miss.—Mr. James Oliver and Miss Ellen McClough, members of the Morning Star Baptist Church, were married Dec. 18, 1904. J. H. Hall officiated. The wedding of Nettie Annie Oliver and Beverly Garner, members of the same church, occurred on Dec. 28.

J. W. OLIVER.

Grand Cour, La.—Mr. Elijah Londoth and Miss Minnie Durham were joined in holy matrimony on Jan. 11 at the residence of the bride's father. The groom is one of the bright and promising young men of Shady Grove and the bride is one of Bensonville's charming young ladies. Irvin Honderson officiated.

R. L. Perkins, Pastor, Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, Mobile, Ala.—On Monday night, January 9, the members and friends of Wesley Chapel attended at the parsonage a reception given in honor of Rev. A. W. McKinney, presiding elder of the Montgomery district, Mobile Conference. The occasion was of a high type, indeed, and we believe that there is yet a bright future for Wesley Chapel under the pastorate of such an efficient young man as Rev. R. L. Perkins. He has the pluck, and may God give him the grace to achieve. The following program was rendered: Singing, led by Mrs. Mary Scott; a five minutes' address by Rev. W. D. Bell, of the A. M. E. Church; solo, Miss Mary Doyle; address by Rev. A. C. Carter; solo, Miss Mary Scott; address by Rev. A. W. McKinney, A. M. presiding elder. These songs and speeches were indeed a treat to those present. A committee of ladies served delicious refreshments. Then followed a recitation from Dunbar by Miss Mary Doyle, and closing remarks by Rev. R. L. Perkins. Benediction by Elder A. W. McKinney.

Scooba, Miss.—On the evening of Jan. 4, at the residence of the bride, Mr. R. H. Griggs and Miss Mary Neeley were married. The bride is one of our public school teachers and is also a member of the M. E. Church. The groom is an excellent young man.

P. R. CRUMP, Pastor.

Evergreen, Ala.—Miss Minnie B. Davis, daughter of Rev. S. D. Davis, pastor at Newberne, Ala., was united in marriage to Mr. J. C. Moore at the home of her parents on Wednesday, Jan. 11, Rev. J. C. Chuman officiating.

NEW ORLEANS, FEBRUARY 23, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 8

Editorial

A godly life is an eloquent sermon. The Christian Church has many, and as these are increased in proportion will be increased the influence of the church.

In the opening of the fourteenth annual session at Tuskegee on Wednesday of this week, Booker T. Washington said "Calmness and confidence are powerful factors in the progress of a race as well as in that of an individual." This is a very strong way of summing up the internal force of a successful life.

Representative Blount and Senator Chambers, of Texas, are now striving to prohibit the employment of Negroes by railroads and other corporations. But of course the fate of this bill need cause no concern, for the thinking white people of that state surely cannot desire to deprive the Negro of any opportunity to earn an honest living.

After all is not much that we call benevolence simply the outcome of selfishness? Do not some people give, not because they desire to accomplish so much good for those for whom the gift is made, but are they not moved by a selfish desire to perpetuate their own name? True benevolence, large or small, finds its example in the spirit of Christ. And some of the world's greatest philanthropists are not known because they have not seen fit to publish their giving.

We have received a copy of the Chicago Daily Review, which enters upon a career to give to the American people a newspaper divested of glaring accounts of criminals and news that is vicious and sensational, and at the same time providing the readers with all news worth reading. The Review goes a step further and refuses to accept advertisements of liquor and of tobacco as well as all other objectionable advertisements. The price of the paper is $1.00 per year. We wish the enterprise unstinted success.

The Russo-Japanese war is overshadowed by the internal difficulties of Russia. On last Saturday Grand Duke Sergius, an uncle of the Czar, was assassinated in Moscow. This is the eighth assassination of officers of high rank of the Russian Empire since June 16th. It is reported that others of the Imperial family are condemned by the revolutionists. The Czar is remaining within his palace under the strictest guard. Another feature, showing the internal embarrassments under which Russia labors, is that the University at St. Petersburg has closed and the students and professors have joined the revolutionists. With Russia facing these embarrassments it is hoped that peace is not far distant.

BISHOP STRANGE'S PRACTICAL SUGGESTION

President Roosevelt in his recent address before the Republican Club, of New York, quoted the Right Rev. Robert Strange, Bishop Coadjutor of North Carolina, in a very striking and forceful paragraph, to the latter part of which we desire to call especial attention. It is this: "Finally, the best white men of the South should have frequent conferences with the best colored men, where in frank and sympathetic discussion they might understand each other better, smooth difficulties and so guide and encourage the weaker race." Perhaps this suggestion, in the main, is not new, but we have never seen it stated so clearly and forcibly before by a Southern man. It is at once practical, friendly and patriotic. This done in the proper spirit and a long step will be taken toward bringing the races on amicable terms.

Two stubborn facts face us. First: The Negro is in the South to stay. Second: The Southern white man wants him to stay in the South and needs him for the South. As to the first, the Negro is in such large numbers that his leaving the South is almost impossible and his footing would make his leaving almost impracticable. He has been here so long, as John Jasper used to say of his relation to his church, "that he's done taken root." And if the situation was properly adjusted, the Negro has no desire to leave. As to the second proposition, the Southern white man needs him because of his adaptation to Southern farming, notwithstanding all that has been said in favor of foreign immigration to the South to supplant the Negro he will never be supplanted. Now if these two facts remain, and we believe they will stand the severest tests, then the common sense thing to do is to so adjust our relation that there shall be peace and harmony between the races. This is necessary for both, and as necessary for the one as it is for the other. And if there is to be harmony what would be a more practical way to set about to accomplish it than the suggestion of Bishop Strange's? Let it be understood in the outset when the Conference is on and terms of peace are being discussed that the Negro will surrender some things for which he now contends, and on the other hand the white man will recede from some of the positions to which he now so tenaciously holds.

There is a sensitiveness on the part of the white man in the South in his meeting the Negro and discussing moral and religious questions. It seems that reason, and certainly the love of Christ should remove all barriers. If the Negroes are men, and they are, and if there are racial differences, and this no one will deny, then why not fall in with the spirit of the age and arbitrate? There could be nothing but good to come from a conference between the best white people and the best colored people. We would come to understand each other better, we would be the better able to interpret each other's feelings without depending upon the press, which in this case is very often misleading.

If a conference is agreed upon, then who shall call it? That's the question. It doubtless would have to be done in this way: Some judicious colored man, who is interested in this matter, must bring it to the attention of a few white men whom he can easily approach. In turn a small committee of white and colored men could get together and arrange for the place and time of meeting. We would like to see just this thing done.

IF NOT REDUCTION, WHAT

Considerable discussion is on as to the reduction of southern representation. There is a division of opinion among the Negroes on this question, but the larger majority is opposed to the reduction as the proposition now stands. If not reduction, then what? First, "we favor such congressional action as shall determine whether by special discrimination the elective franchise in any state has been unconstitutionally limited." That is, has the Negro been discriminated against in the passage of franchise laws and the application of them, and if he has, then a decision on the part of Congress and the Supreme Court, or either, would be a great moral victory in the favor of Negro citizenship. We believe in a qualified suffrage. But this said, we hasten to say, if the suffrage is qualified then it must be administered alike to all men, and no man or party or set of men must ask any other man to relinquish his right to suffrage, only upon such grounds as concerns all men, "regardless of race, color or previous condition." In plain English the Negro is a citizen, and when he has property and intelligence he must have the right to vote without fear and intimidation. That it is the purpose in some quarters of the South to take from him the ballot, cannot be denied. Upon this plea most of the suffrage qualifications were passed. And while ignorant colored men are deprived of the right to vote, equally poor and ignorant white men are permitted to vote. And while poor and ignorant white men are permitted to vote, in some quarters, intelligent and property holding Negroes are not permitted to vote. This is undoubtedly wrong and contrary to the form and spirit of the American government. If not reduction, then what? Then the exposition of the discriminations as they exist; an appeal to the higher law, the law of reason and justice; an appeal not to the North or the South, not to the Democratic or to the Republican party, but an appeal to justice, fair play and the fundamental structure of the American Republic.

It is to be regretted that the directors of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, Portland, Ore., have decided to open the fair to the public on Sundays.

The Twentieth Century Demand of the Christian Ministry

By Rev. David H. Hargis

The communication of religious and moral truth is the most important office committed to man. The Son of God came into the world not to legislate for nations, not to command armies, not to sit on the throne of an universal monarchy; but to teach religion, to establish truth and holiness. The highest end of mankind is the glorification of God, and he who effectually labors for this participates in the noblest work. The Christian ministry, then, which has for its purpose the salvation of the race, its weapons being of heavenly temper, deserves to be ranked among God's most honorable labors.

The present state of the world compared with the past, may be called enlightened, and therefore requires an enlightened ministry. Wonderful have been the developments of the age. Statesmanship has gathered up its political appliances; civilization has exhibited her humanizing arts; philanthropy has reared her educational institutions; amiable dreamers of the Pantheistic school have mapped out in cloud-land man's progress from transcendentalism up to the Divine; and Democracy has flung over all the mantle of her apparent charity. The Czar of Russia has sent forth his unparallelled challenge to the rulers of the world, terminating in the Peace Conference at the Hague; the immortal Maceo has fallen from the stirrups, crying "Cuba liber;" Dewey has sailed into the very jaws of the enemy; bearding the lion in his den; while the thunder of Schley's guns and the shouts of his triumphants have awakened the civilized world; Spanish tyranny has been decapitated, Romanism dethroned. The Boxer and Boer wars have been amicably settled. The signs of the times predict the supremacy of Japan in the Eastern struggle. And thus a great door and effectual has been opened unto us for the dissemination of the glorious principles of our own Protestantism. Therefore, we want teachers who are able to discern and unfold the consistency of revealed religion with the new lights which are effulgently breaking in from Nature; teachers who will be able to draw from all sources illustrations, analogies and arguments in support of Christianity. God is the author of both Nature and Revelation. He has established such a harmony between them that their beams commingle and shed a joint radiance. Consequently, other things equal, that teacher is best fitted to dispense Christianity whose compass of mind enables him to compare what God is teaching by His works with the lessons taught by His Word, and to present the precious truths of His religion as having the modifications and restraints which other acknowledged truths require. Let it not be said that Christianity has an intrinsic glory, a native beauty, which no art or talent of man can heighten; that it is one and the same by whatever lips it is communicated. Every mind is invested with peculiar associations. The same truth is a very different thing when exhibited by men of diverse habits of thought and feeling. Who does not know that the sublimest truth falling from some lips loses all its grandeur? The propagation of any system is dependent upon its orderly arrangement, the broad and consistent views taken of it, its connection with other truths, the illustrations which enforce it, and the clearness and energy of the style in which it is conveyed. It is claimed by some that nothing is needed in religion but the naked truth. In the earlier stages of its development, Christianity was entrusted to monks shut up in cells, placed in the hands of a priesthood cut off by celibacy from the sympathies and deeper relations of life; universities, enslaved by a scholastic logic, taught their students to place wisdom in verbal subtleties. These took Christianity into their keeping. At their chilling touch, this generous religion, so full of life and affection, became a dry, frigid, abstract system. But who would fail to note the difference between that same religion now wrested from the custody of cloistered monks by Prostestantism? Under the Monastic system its adherents were reduced to a religious servitude and notions of a cruel superstition. But with Luther, Knox and Wesley religion is liberty. It now gives a higher and more intelligent conception of human responsibility, a brighter and more glorious hope of immortality. Thus Christianity entrusted to Protestantism should come to us clad in the rich drapery of the imagination, reason and incorruptible moral principles of the teacher; it should come to us with the light and warmth of the affection which it has produced in the soul. The highest evidence of religious truth is found in the ethical laws of our nation. Therefore, if Christianity fails to operate upon our deepest wants and noblest capacities, it is deficient in the chief characteristic of Divinity.

The age in which we live demands a ministry capable of perfecting our whole nature, of wakening and purifying the intellect, imagination and heart, of developing every capacity of our social and religious nature.

It demands not only an enlightened, but an earnest ministry for it is pre-eminently an age of earnestness and excitement. Men feel and think at present with more energy than ever before. The political revolutions which are leveling the broad distinctions in our age, have sprung from a newer and deeper working in the human soul. Men, athirst for untried good and impatient of long endured wrongs, are breaking out like the volcanic fires of Mont Pelee, convulsing the world. The imagination can no longer be confined to the acquisitions of the past ages. Multitudes, unwilling to wait time's sluggish steps, are taking the work of reform into their own hands. The reverence for antiquity, the devotion to time hallowed institutions, and the passion for change and amelioration are now arrayed against each other in open hostility. All great questions affecting human happiness are being discussed with a more than partisan zeal. The character of the age is indelibly stamped on its literary productions. It refuses to waste itself on trifles, or to minister to mere gratification. All that is written has a bearing on some great interests of humanity. Fiction is no longer a mere amusement. Transcendant genius, accommodating itself to the character of the age, is seizing upon this department of literature, transforming fiction into a mighty sun, whose rays are heating the age with a thirst for the new, communicating the spirit and lessons of history, unfolding the operations of religious institutions, and defending or assailing new theories of education and morals by exhibiting them in life and action. Thus the poetry of the age has a deeper and more impressive tone than comes to us even from the Augustan age of English literature. The regular harmonious strains, which delighted former generations, are now charged with appealing too little to the deeper emotions. Men demand a more thrilling note, a poetry which pierces to the depth of the human soul, laying bare its mysterious workings, borrowing from the whole outward creation fresh images and correspondences with which to illustrate the secret of the world within us. They have now learned by experience that civilization and refinement are not incompatible with sensibility; that the intellect may grow without injury to the emotions. Religion must not be exhibited in the dry pedantic division of a scholastic theology. It must not be set forth in the light drapery of an artificial rhetoric and in the form of the elegantly insipid essay. No, it must come from the soul in the language of earnest conviction. The spirit of age demands a more exciting administration of Christianity. "The repose of the pulpit" has been disturbed. In such an age, earnestness should characterize the ministry. By this I mean not a louder voice or a more vehement gesture. I mean no trick of oratory, but a solemn conviction that Christianity is a glorious institution. The most important part of a theological education even in this enlightened age, is not the communication of knowledge, essential as that is, but the conversion and exaltation of the religious ideals into a living, practical and soul-stirring conviction. The minister should deliver his message with the sincerity and earnestness of a man bent on great effects. He should speak of God, of Christ, of the dignity and loveliness of Christian virtue, of heaven and redemption, not as tradition and historical records, about which he has only read, but as realities which he understands and feels in the depth of his soul.

The present is an age of free and inquiry on the subject of religion, an age in which the extremes of skepticism and bigotry, a multiplicity of sects, and a diversity of interpretations of the sacred volume must be expected. These circumstances influence and modify the duties of the ministry. Free inquiry can not exist without creating a measure of skepticism. 'Tis a duty of the Christian ministry vigorously to antagonize this influence; it is his duty therefore to search out and thoroughly understand the true foundation on which religion rests. Just in proportion as the human mind makes progress, do the inward evidences of Christianity become important. I refer to the evidences which are drawn from its excellence, purity and happy influence; from its adaptation to our spiritual needs, to the weakness and greatness of human nature; from the original and unborrowed character, the greatness of soul, the celestial loveliness of its Founder. I allude to its unbounded benevolence corresponding with spirit of the universe; to its views of the perfection of God's character—views manifestly tending to the exaltation and perpetual improvement of our nature, yet wholly opposed to the character of the age in which they were unfolded. The historical and miraculous proofs of Christianity are indeed essential. But without superceding these, the inward proofs of which I speak, are becoming more and more necessary and they will exert a greater power in proportion as the moral discernment of man is strengthened. If this be true, then Christianity is endangered and skepticism fortified, by nothing so much as by representatives of a religion, which sully its native lustre and darken its inward signatures o a heavenly origin. Accordingly, the first and most solemn duty of its ministry is, to rescue it from perversions; to see that it be not condemned for doctrines for which it is in no respect responsible; and to vindicate its character as an eminently rational religion, a religion consistent not only with itself, and consonant with the great principles of human nature, but accordant with God's acknowledged attributes. A professed religion, carrying contradiction on its front, and wounding the sentiments of justice and goodness, the highest test of moral truth, is not destined to endure. Those who thus exhibit Christianity, however pure their aim, are shaking its foundation more deeply than its open and inveterate foes.

Free inquiry not only provokes occasional skepticism, but much more a diversity of opinion among the believers in Christianity. For opposing this, the ministry must have a special adaptation. In such an age the ministry must in a sense be controversial. But let it not be understood that I would have the ministry given chiefly to controversy by turning the pulpit into a battery for the perpetual assault of opposing sects. O, no, other strains than those of warfare should predominate the sacred place. A minister may be faithful to truth without brandishing perpetually the weapons of theological disputation. There is a silent, indirect influence surer and more powerful than direct assault on false opinions. The most effective method of expelling error, is not to meet it sword in hand, but gradually to instil great truths beside which it cannot exist. Men who have discarded false systems, will generally admit that the first step of their deliverance was the admission of some principle that seemed not to menace their opinions formally held but prepared the mind for the entrance of another and still another truth, until they were brought unwittingly to look upon the essential doctrines of religion with more generous eyes. Instead of spending his strength in refuting error let the minister who would serve the cause of truth, labor to disseminate loftier and more enlarged views of our religion. Let him especially set forth the great purpose of Christianity, always teaching, that Christ came to deliver from the power of sin more than from the punishment of sin; that the most important operation is within us; and that the highest end of his mission is the erection of God's throne in the soul. In addition to this, let him strive to communicate the just principles of interpreting the scripture, that men reading them more intelligently, may read them not only with more interest, but with more profit as well, and he will have discharged his chief duty in relation to controversy.

The age is, in many respects, a corrupt one. It demands in the ministry a spirit of reform. The age, I say, is a corrupt one, not because I consider it as falling below the purity of former ages, but because it is grossly defective, when measured by the Christian standard, and by the advantages which it enjoys. I know nothing to justify the cry of modern degeneracy; but I am rather inclined to believe that the science of religion was never stronger than at present. In comparing different periods with respect to virtue and piety, regard must be had to diversity of circumstances. It would argue little wisdom to expect the same freedom from luxury and dissipation this opulent and flourishing city, as marked the first settlement of our country, when the inhabitants were scarcely sheltered from the elements, and almost wholly cut off from intercourse with the civilized world, could command little more than the necessaries of life. Yet it is through superficial comparisons in such particulars that the past is often magnified at the expense of the present. I mean not to strike a balance between this age and former ones. I look on the age in the light of Christianity, as any one ought to look. Yet, while I see much around for encouragement, I see much to make one mourn. I see much to stir up the servants of Christ to the most prayerful endeavor.

Who does not know what our increased comforts, improved arts, and overflowing prosperity are often abused by licentiousness; and Christianity is with many a mere name and form?

Who is not aware that a practical materiality, which lives, cares, provides for the present state, abounds on every side of us; that much that is called morality springs from a prudent balancing of the passions, and a discreet regard to worldly interest, and that education instead of guarding and rearing the moral and religious nature as its supreme care, often betrays and sacrifices it to the accomplishments and acquisitions which relate only to the present life?

Is there anyone so ignorant as not to know that there is an alarming prevalence of looseness and intemperance; that the very religion of peace is made a torch of discord; and that the fires of uncharitableness are burning down the palace of hope?

Let every man be at his post, ready by the help of an Almighty God to stop this terrible holocaust. By the quenching power of the glorious gospel of the Blessed Redeemer, hurl as hand grenades by the servants of the Divine One, tomorrow, as new hope and happiness may come from above, pouring out through the gates of this, the Twentieth Century opened gloriously wide.

Bishop Fowler on Mormonism

I think we have one of the exceedingly difficult problems to handle. I think the Mormon people are just as conscientious as any other people that may associate themselves together and call themselves a church. I think is would be safe to go into the hierarchy and hang those high ecclesiastics and try them afterwards. The rank and file are conscientious. Let me state the case. Most of them are from across the sea, converted to Mormonism by missionaries who go out with the spirit of self sacrifice. For instance, they go to England and especially to Wales. They live with the people. They go into the stables and into the kitchens. They support themselves. They preach a Christianity that is very difficult to drive out on the basis of the New Testament. They preach repentance, salvation by faith, baptism by immersion and the laying on of hands. They say very little about Mormonism in itself. They talk about the Prophet in the Valley of the Jordan. They talk to a people who seldom see a minister except one supported by money extorted by law from their poverty, but these men sympathize with them, giving them these ideas and defending the four propositions I have named. They will have an old fashioned altar for conversion. They invite the people forward as our fathers used to do; they have a Christian experience of conversion—many of them seem to have—and the missionaries bring them to this country. I think they are converted. I have known a good deal about the Mormons. Pardon a personal reference. I think my mother was the only man in all that region or country that could "head off" the Mormons. We had a Baptist minister with great zeal. It was a frontier region. He had been a sailor and had courage and many sea phrases. My mother could give him the arguments and he would use the sea phrases and thus he would combat them and worry out the life of the apostles. It was thirty feet from my father's door to where they immersed their victims. My mother would watch and if any man had a family and was anything of account in the community and took off his coat to go and be baptized, I have seen her go out and say: "None of this foolishness; you will get over it in a few days. Come in here." But if somebody of no account came along, she would let him go, thinking perhaps, a good sousing would not hurt him. I know the doctrines and practisings of the Mormons, and I think the crust is thinner in Utah and Salt Lake City than anywhere else on the earth. Stamp heavily and you can almost make the brimstone burst out. It is a bad place, but I believe the many of the people came here as honestly as anybody ever went to a Methodist church. Now it is difficult to reach them. The hierarchy is as bad as it knows how to be. You will have to make a great and new moral sense before you can make much headway among the Mormons. I do not expect to see them disintegrate. I think that will be absolutely impossible. But I think they will be hedged about by a vital Christianity. They will cut off many of the evils of their system and there may be men now voting who will live to see quite a percentage of that church straightened up and orthodoxy be a kind of gospel for that people. That is a bad prophecy, I know. My view of the solution is this: To maintain our work in the centres and not to go back a single step. In every town and village I would establish a school; I would have a woman teacher there, who can fear God and work righteousness. I would appoint preachers, who would act as circuit preachers to go to these places where the women have the schools and preach there from time to time. I would follow up that work among the children and see how many of them we can bring into the Kingdom of God. I have little hope for success among the adults. I have talked about this matter with the leaders in every Protestant church in that territory, and I find this, that all the churches put together could not show of actual converts from adult Mormons a dozen converts after years of work by all the churches. It is a hard problem indeed. I think the way, however, to save them is to preach the Gospel. If you would not think it a little too severe, I would say in the language of Bishop Kingsley, "I would give them Hell." They need to understand that doctrine and the terrors there are in sin, and to know the difference between Christianity and Mormonism; to understand repentance and conversion, and if we thus indoctrinate the children by training in orthodoxy we will gain results.

The Christian Life

Heaven's Aid

To keep my heart content from day to day,
To put despondency and grief away,
I must have heaven's help. O Lord, I pray,
Give me Thine aid!

Help me to raise my thoughts in faith to Thee;
Turn at my call, and give Thy hand to me;
Where'er I go, there let Thy presence be,
And unafraid.

I can go where'er my duties lead,
Trusting to Thy fond care for every need,
Sure that my Father loveth me indeed,
Thro' weal or woe.

And surely in my soul should enter peace,
All discontent should flee, and grieving cease,
And faith and patience in my heart increase.
Lord, make it so!

Tell Me

EDWARD FRANKLIN REIMER.

Tell me all the good you can about the people that you know. Tell me only the good about the people of whom you speak. Tell me the things which will make me think well of people and of life. Tell me the things which will make my sun shine, my heart glad, and my soul to rejoice. Tell me the things which will straighten up my thinking, and give me the right principles of work and of play and of thought. Tell me the things which will make me ashamed of compromise and pretense. Tell me the things which will make it easier for me to believe in the religion of Jesus Christ as a working theory of life. Tell me the things which will harden into a steady conviction my belief in the Christianity of the Son of God. Tell me the things which will fortify my faith in man, in God, and in heaven. Tell me the things which make you cheerless and needy, and I will tell you of the Man who understands, and says, sweetly, seriously, and savingly to you, "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and will give you rest!"

The Waiting City

A city throned upon the height behold,
Wherein no foot of man as yet has trod;
The City of man's life fulfilled in God.
Bathed all in light, with open gates of gold,
Perfect the City is in tower and street;
And where a palace for each mortal waits,
Complete and perfect, at whose outer gates
An angel stands its occupant to greet.
Still shine, O patient City, on the height,
The while our race in hut and hovel dwells.
It hears the music of thy heavenly bells
And its dull soul is haunted by thy light.
Lo! once the Son of Man hath heard thy call
And the dear Christ hath claimed thee for us all.

"Now Mine Eye Seeth Thee"

BY EDGAR L. VINCENT.

Is it possible for one to mistake the real thought of his heart toward God? Can one think he is body, life and soul a child of God, and yet not know the true relation he sustains toward Him?

Job thought he loved God. In the very first verse of that sweet story we all know so well, it is written of him that he did fear God and eschew evil. It seemed to him that he was indeed a favored son of the Father. He says himself that wherever he went he was honored and respected. He tried to do all the good he could. He cared for the widow; he helped the lame and the blind. In return, God washed his steps with butter and the rock poured out rivers of oil for him.

In all his sky there was just one little bit of a cloud, and that was the fear that some time and somehow there would be a change in this picture of happiness, and the shadow would fall across the pathway now so lighted up by the sunshine of God's love. And that cloud darkened. The picture did take on a new form. The evil Job dreaded befell him. It was like many a dream we have. Almost beside ourselves in a delirium of joy we say, "It is too good to last long!" Now Job cries out:

"The thing that I feared is come upon me, and that which I was afraid of is come to me."

For a time it seemed almost as if God no longer loved His servant. How could He and let him be afflicted so? Everything of evil that mind could conceive of came thundering down upon the old man's head. Fire, death, intense bodily suffering, loss of earthly honor and friends, all he loved taken away at one fell blow—this and more wrought ruin in the home once so bright and full of gladness.

And the whirlwind almost did take Job's breath away. So intense was his grief that the friends who came to speak the best things they knew by way of consolation sat there in his presence for seven days and seven nights without a word, lest they should add to the sorrow they hoped to assuage.

It is helpful to follow Job as he now gropes his way through the awfulness of these dark days, until his feet reach the sure ground. Sometimes he is tempted to think that God never had really loved him. If He did, how could he let Job suffer so now? What about all those days of faithful service in the time when he was trying to help and bless men? Was it all for nothing that he had walked nearer to God and done all he could to make the world better? And was it not dreadful that now when he was an old man he should be called upon to witness this wreck of all he had done? His whole life's work seemed to have gone for nothing.

But slowly Job comes out into the light once more. And he sees that never before in all his life has he really understood God as he does now.

"I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear, but now my mind seeth Thee!"

What all those years of prosperity could not do to reveal God's love, greatness and power those few days of sharp suffering had brought to light.

Suffering is not a thing we ever ask God to send us. Our prayers voice our longing for peace, bodily comfort, money, home, friends to love us and earthly glory; but pain? Oh, no! From that we shrink and falter. How we linger when God says: "Go forward into the land which I shall show thee." With what trembling hands do we take the fingers of our dear ones in ours when the summons comes to go up with those loved ones to the altar of sacrifice! "Oh, spare us, Father in Heaven!" we cry, "Spare us from this agony!" But the shadow deepens and we must take our way out into the night of sorrow. With how much of murmuring, how much of pleading do we follow the path of His leading! The cutting is so hard! The chiseling so deep! And yet, it is the way appointed of God to bring us greater blessing, greater purity of character, greater humility than ever we knew before.

Can we, then, learn to love the hard things of this earth-life? Paul says he did. "I rejoice in tribulation," he tells us, for he knew what it would do for him. It would bring him qualities of heart that he could never otherwise gain.

God help us to have the spirit of Paul! God help us to understand the deeper meaning of life!

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text:—Luke 18: 18. Theme:—The Ruler's Important Question.

This ruler by his question showed that he believed in a future state; that he was greatly concerned as to how to obtain eternal life, and that something more had to be done by him to insure that life. He thought that he was willing to do whatever was required; but, alas, how fearfully he was deceived, even in himself! Truly, the heart of man is deceitful and desperately wicked.

This question is pregnant with life and large with matters that concern two worlds. It is the question of the ages. Men, princes and kings have all at some time in life asked this question of gravest importance.

Why did this ruler ask so important a question ?He knew and kept the Commandments from his youth up. It is an awful thing to know so much and then to do such a little that satisfies the soul. Outward religion does not save from despair. There is a great difference between asking "What must I do," and in doing that which must be done. There is a vast difference in asking, "What lack I yet," and in being willing to be taught how to obtain, and to whom to go to supply that need. There is an eternal difference in being anxious about being saved from wretchedness and despair and in striving to rid one's self from the slavery and death of unbelief. This ruler had more evil in his heart than he had any idea of, which led him away from Him whom he sought. In his heart were the seeds of sin; such as the cancer of selfishness, eating away every new spring of spiritual life; such as subtle unbelief, devouring all the graces received through instruction and knowledge; such as fear, which makes a trembling skeleton of the strongest man; such as anger, which, like the sleeping lion, only needed to be aroused; such as germs of vicious habits, that only needed to be touched, and then as the smallpox they would cover the whole of his body and his spirit; such as fretfulness, which only needed to be put to the crucial test, and then as the measles it was seen; such as foolish pride, which as rheumatism distorted his whole life; such as covetousness, which like the terrible gangrene was hidden far away, deep down in his heart of hearts; such as avarice, which like the deadly leprosy, clung to his soul, even unto death, for he went away—so far away from Jesus that no man has ever heard of him. "And when Jesus saw that he was very sorrowful, He said, 'How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the Kingdom of God.'"

YOUNG FRIENDS

Table Manners

The blue jay is a greedy bird; I often watch him eat.
When crumbs are scattered from our door he snatches all the treat.
He drives the smaller birds away, his manners are so rude.
It's quite a shocking thing to see him gobble down his food!
And sometimes, when I'm not polite, I hear my mother say:
"Why, now I see a boy who's eating blue-jay way!"

The sparrows are a noisy set, and very quarrelsome,
Because each hungry little bird desires the biggest crumb.
They scold and fight about the food, all chirping, "Me! me! me!"
And sometimes, when we children are inclined to disagree
About the sharing of a treat, my mother says: "Why, you
Are acting now the very way the silly sparrows do!"

The jolly little chickadees are perfectly polite;
They never snatch, they never bolt, they never, never fight.
They hold the crumbs down daintily with both their little feet,
And peck off tiny little bites—we love to watch them eat.
And when my sister's good at meals, my mother says: "I see
A little girl who's eating like a darling chickadee!"

Learned from Experience

A poor young man saw on a scrap of newspaper the sentence, "Push with patience; endure with pluck, and you can do anything that God approves." The words had been written by the president of Walden University. With three nickels in his pocket he plodded to Walden University. He eaned his first dollar cleaning up the cellar of a warehouse. He did it so well that he never lacked work, and graduated from college and seminary with credit. He had a goal, and pressed forward to it.—Ram's Horn.

Take Care of the Nickels

"Careful saving and careful spending invariably promote success," says Marshall Field. "It is not what a man earns, but what he saves, that makes him rich." John Jacob Astor once said that the saving of his first $1,000 cost him the hardest struggle. As a rule, people do not know how to save. The average young man of to-day, when he begins to earn is inclined to habits of extravagane. He gets the idea that he must indulge in habits corresponding to those of some other young man, without regard to what he earns; and he imagines he cannot be manly without. The five, ten or fifteen cents a day he squanders, while apparently a trifle, would, if saved, in a few years amount to thousands of dollars, and go far toward establishing the foundation of his future career. Too few realize that in order to acquire dollars one must take care of the nickels. The young man should begin to save the moment he begins to earn, be the saving ever so little, and if he does so the habit will be of incalculable benefit to him in after life."—Frank Carpenter, in the Record-Herald.

As we must render an account of every idle word, so must we likewise of our idle silence.—Ambrose.

Get Your Rights

A good many boys don't get their rights. They do not get what belongs to them. I believe in standing up for a boy's rights. Let me tell you what some of them are:

First, a boy has a right to a strong body. Anything that others do to prevent this, or that he does to hinder it, is a wrong to a boy.

Second, a boy has a right to a clear, strong brain. This means that he has a right to study.

Third, a boy has a right to tools. He deserves to have his fingers educated. He has a right to work.

Fourth, a boy has a right to friends—friends that will make him more manly. Because it helps friendships as well as bodily strength, he has a right to play.

Fifth, a boy has a right to character. He has a right to be measured not by what he can earn, but by what he can be.

Be sure you get your rights.—Sunday School Visitor.

Seven Minds

1. Mind your tongue. Don't let it speak hasty, cruel, unkind or wicked words.

2. Mind your eyes. Don't permit them to look on wicked books, pictures or objects.

3. Mind your ears. Don't suffer them to listen to wicked speeches, songs or words.

4. Mind your lips. Don't let tobacco foul them. Don't let strong drink pass them. Don't let the food of the glutton enter between them.

5. Mind your hands. Don't let them steal or fight, or write any evil words.

6. Mind your feet. Don't let them walk in the steps of the wicked.

7. Mind your heart. Don't let the love of sin dwell in it. Don't give it to Satan, but ask Jesus to make it his throne.—Michigan Christian Advocate.

The Real Good

"What is the real good?"
I asked in musing mood.
"Order," said the court;
"Knowledge," said the school;
"Truth," said the wise man;
"Pleasure," said the fool;
"Love," said the maiden;
"Beauty," said the page;
"Freedom," said the dreamer;
"Home," said the sage;
"Equity," said the seer.
Spake my heart full sadly,
"The answer is not here."
Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:
"Each heart holds the secret;"
"Kindness" is the word."

John Boyle O'Reilly in Philadelphia Methodist.

It Doesn't Pay

My young friend, there are many things in this world that it doesn't pay to do.

It doesn't pay to try to pass yourself off for more than you are worth; it tends to depress your market quotation.

It doesn't pay to lie, for your lies must all be kept on file mentally and in the course of time some of them are pretty certain to get on the wrong book. A liar needs a better memory than any one is apt to possess.

It doesn't pay to try to get a living without work. You will work harder and get a poorer living than if you did honest work.

It doesn't pay to be a practical joker, unless you can enjoy the joke when you happen to be the victim.

It doesn't pay to rest when you ought to be at work; if you do, you are apt to have to work when you ought to be resting.

It doesn't pay to cry over spilled milk, neither does it pay to spill the milk.

A man may often trample with impunity upon a woman's deepest sentiments, but let him beware of poking fun at her spring hat.—Dr. S. A Steele, in Work.

The true Christian studies the happy art of making the most of every one with whom he is thrown in contact—of recognizing in each soul and of eliciting from it that feature of heart and mind in which stands the relationship of that particular soul to God. It is this true self of our neighbor which we are required to love.—Edward M. Goulburn.

The Right Start

Obedience is the first condition of entering the Christian life—the start of the Christian race. Belief is not a condition. Feeling is not a condition. Willing, resolving, purposing—that is the condition, and the only condition. It is true that there are some people of gentle nature, of amiable disposition, of flexible will, who never meet that issue clearly; they grow into obedience, they know not how. It is true there are some persons who get a glimpse of the glory of God, and who pursue after it, and then, finding themselves hindered or impeded in their way by obstacles that arise within themselves, learn through love to obey. But unless one has learned to say, "Not what I will, but what thou wilt;" unless one has learned to ask the question, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" he has not put his foot on the lowest step that leads up to the temple. This is the very beginning of Christian experience, and no man—no matter what his belief—has begun the Christian race if he has entered it by any other door than this.—R. W. Dale, Northwestern Advocate.

Everywhere

Could I be cast where Thou art not,
That were indeed a dreadful lot;
But regions none remote I call,
Secure of finding God in all.

—Madame Guyon.

There is more cause for joy than for complaint in the hard and disagreeable circumstances of life. Browning said, "I count life just a stuff to try the soul's strength on." Spell the word "discipline" with a final g—"discipling." We are here to learn Time's lesson for Eternity's business. What does it signify if the circumstances about us are not of our choice, if by them we can be trained, learning the lessons of patience, fortitude, perseverance, self-denying service, acquiesence with God's will, and the hearty doing of it. Circumstances do not make character. Just where you are, take the things of life as tools, and use them for God's glory; so you will help the kingdom come, and the Master will use the things of life in cutting and polishing you so that there shall some day be seen in you a soul conformed to His likeness.—Maltbie Davenport Babcock, D. D.

Ruskin analyzed the mud of London streets, and found in it the very elements and substances out of which our precious gems are formed. So out of all the weariness and painful things of life, its toils, its sorrow, its hardness, its cruelty, God can make gracious adornments for our souls.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson X—March 5, 1905. Title—"Jesus at Feast of Tabernacles" (John 7: 37-46.) Golden Text—"Never man spoke this man" (John 7: 46).

Six months have passed since our last lesson. That was at the feast of the Passover, this is at the feast of Tabernacles. This half of the year was spent by our Lord chiefly in Galilee. Many noted events, recorded in the Synoptic Gospels, are passed over in silence by John.

The feast of Tabernacles came this year about the middle of October, and was very much like our Thanksgiving season. It was the feast of Ingathering, celebrating the harvest, and rejoicing over the providential deliverance of the nation. It was celebrated in booths, and everything about it was symbolical. The feast pointed to joy, gratitude and hope. The pouring out of water symbolized the gift of the Holy Spirit. The Temple illuminated typified the light of God. And the silver trumpet marshalled the hosts of God, and aroused from spiritual drowsiness.

This lesson, and three that follow, are parts of discourses delivered at this feast. These addresses begin with John 7: 2, and close with 10: 21. They occurred about as follows: Jesus going up to this feast (7: 2-13); first discourse to Jews (14-36); second discourse to Jews (37-53); woman taken in adultery (8: 1-11); third discourse to Jews (12-59); healing the man born blind (9: 1-41); and Jesus the good Shepherd (10: 1-21). Jesus is now nearing the close of the third year of his ministry. He is nearly thirty-three years of age, and has gone from Galilee for the last time during life.

I. Jesus giving the water of life (37-39).

1. Time: "The last day of the feast." The people had been together seven days, and it would be six months before another great feast—the Passover—would occur. Some would never attend another feast, and Jesus could have no other opportunity to address them. We should deliver every sermon as though it were our last.

2. Manner: "Jesus stood and cried." It was the custom of our Lord to sit while delivering a sermon (Luke 4: 20; Matt. 5: 3), but here the earnestness of his soul and the greatness of the occasion probably caused him to stand. St. Peter, on the day of Pentecost, stood while he delivered that wonderful sermon, which brought three thousand to our Lord (Acts 2: 14). Jesus stood and cried, or lifted up his voice, so that all the people could hear him. It was not our Lord's method to speak loudly when delivering a discourse (Matt. 12: 19). This was the exception and not the rule

3. Invitation: "If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink." (1.) This invitation is broad, "f any man," Jews and Gentiles, Greeks and Romans, Barbarians and Scythians, Caucasian, Mongolian, Indian, Malay, Negro. Rich, poor, bond, free, old young, all are invited to come to Jesus. (2.) This invitation is restricted to them who thirst: who have a burning desire to be saved. Six weeks before this, up in Galilee, Jesus said: "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled" (Matt. 5: 6. Jesus is the water of life, the bread of life and the Lamb of God. We feed on him by faith, prayer and thanksgiving. (3.) This invitation is personal: "Let him come unto me." He need not go to the ceremonial law which was being observed there, or to the daily sacrifices. They could not help him. The law made nothing perfect. Jesus is the only name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved. "He is the fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and uncleanness."

4. Accepting. (1) Believing in Jesus. Belief is by-live, and by-live is to live by. He that believes in Jesus will live by him; by the Bible, the church, the Sabbath, all the doctrines of the sacred Scriptures. "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Heb. 11: 1). Historical faith is a speculative knowledge of and bare assent to the truths revealed in the Scriptures (James 2: 17). Temporary faith has knowledge of, assent to, and joy in hearing and receiving revealed truth (Matt. 13: 20). Miracle-working faith is a firm assent of the mind to some particular promise concerning any miraculous event (1 Cor. 13: 2). Justifying faith is a saving grace wrought in the soul by the Spirit of God, whereby we receive Christ as he is revealed in the gospel to be our Prophet, Priest and King (Rom. 5: 1, Cruden). (2.) Believing in Jesus as the "Scripture hath said." Believing in him as the Seed of the woman to bruise Satan's head (Gen. 3: 15); as the Shiloh promised by Jacob (Gen. 49: 10); as the Prophet like unto Moses (Deut. 18: 15); as the Priest like unto Melchizedek (Psa. 110: 4); as the King like unto David (2 Sam. 7: 16); and as the wonderful child, like unto God (Isa. 9: 6). He that believeth in Jesus thus, (3) "out of his belly (from within him), shall flow rivers of living water." There are many passages in the Old Testament to which this statement likely refers. "I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh" (Joel 2: 28). "Living waters shall go out from Jerusalem" (Zech. 14:8). Waters issued out from under the threshold of the house" (Ezek. 47: 1-12). "The dry land shall become springs of water" (Isa. 41: 18). "Oh, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters" (Isa. 55: 1). The soul is as a "spring of water" (Isa. 58: 11), and the church is a "well of living water" (Cant. 4-15). The Jews, on the last day of this feast, had a solemnity which they called "the pouring out of water." They brought a golden vessel, filled with water from the Pool of Siloam, into the Temple, with sound of trumpet and other ceremonies, and poured it out upon the altar before the Lord with all possible expressions of joy. Some said this pouring out of water signified the law (Isa. 12: 3). Others said it symbolized the Holy Spirit. (4.) This water was a type of the Holy Spirit: "Thus spoke he of the Spirit, which they that believe on him should receive." Water and Spirit are closely allied in the Bible. "Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and a new spirit also will I give you" (Ezek. 36: 25-26). "I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance, but he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost" (Matt. 3: 11). "John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence" (Acts 1:5). "The Spirit and the bride say come, and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely" (Rev. 22: 17). Why this association of water and the Spirit? Because both are life giving, cleansing, thirst quenching and beautifying in their nature.

II. The division of the people (40-44). We have only an outline of the discourse of Jesus on this occasion. Those who heard it were divided in their opinions over it. Some said, "Of a truth this is the Prophet," or that Prophet. The one referred to by Moses when he said: "A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren" (Deut. 18: 15). Others said: "This is the Christ," the anointed of Jehovah. The one spoken of in Psalm 110 to be a King to rule, a Prophet to teach, and a Priest to offer sacrifice. But the objectors were there also, and asked: " Shall Christ come out of Galilee? Has not the Scriptures said that Christ cometh of the seed of David, and out of the town of Bethlehem?" Jesus was of the house of David and was born in Bethlehem. The gospel, when preached in its purity will please some and offend others.

III. The officers and the Council (45-46). These executors of the law had been sent out some hours before this, by the Chief Priests and Pharisees, to arrest Jesus and bring him before the Sanhedrin (John 7: 32). When they heard this discourse they decided not to lay violent hands on him. When asked why they had not brought Jesus, their reply was, "Never man spoke like this man." This answer reveals the captivating eloquence of our Lord. His profound wisdom, great power, convincing clearness and charming sweetness fascinated all who heard him. He did not teach as the Scribes and Pharisees, quoting Moses and the Prophets and the Rabbis, and going into long, dry, meaningless discussions; but as one having authority. Knowing the law, the Prophets, and the Psalms, and having the full right to interpret them.

The Making of a Christian: His Speech

Scripture References: Psa. 145, 1-12, 21; Matt. 10: 32,33.

The Word. Psalm 145 has been ascribed to David, but it is one of those acrostic psalms which seem to belong to the later times of the restoration. The author would glorify God with his utterances. He would "bless the name of God;" he would "speak of his glorious honor." He declares that men shall "speak of his might," and "declare his greatness." The Lord was set forth as nigh to "all that call upon him." Every word of the mouth to the psalmist was to be spoken to the honor of God. In Matthew we have declared the fact that whosoever, whether preacher or hearer, who "confesses" Christ, acknowledges in the face of persecution his Lord and Master, shall be confessed by him. He who fails to do this, and thus denies Christ, may expect nothing but denial by the Master. The heart may believe unto righteousness, but with the "mouth" confession must be made unto salvation. The whole trend of these Scriptures is that the words we speak are an important factor in the destiny of the soul. Two months ago we considered the birth as related to the "making of a Christian;" now we are to study his speech as related to that same end.

Our Homily: Our Conversation. No factor is more important in character making than that of speech. Man has been said to be the only animal that laughs; he may be also said to be the only animal that talks. Yet many a man is destroyed by an unruly tongue. James says it is untamable. The psalmist said, "I said I will take heed unto my ways, that I sin not with my tongue." "How forcible," said Job, "are right words!" And Solomon declared, "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver." Hence how important in building character there be right speech. Many of the sins of our lives are sins of the tongue. And Laurentius said, "There are as many kinds of sins of the tongue as there are letters in the alphabet." Consider—

1. Things to Avoid in Speech. This list will include certainly profanity ,falsehood, gossip and slander, obscenity and unkindness, and all the innumerable kinds of uncharitable conversation. The Christian must be careful to "cut out" certain things in his speech as well as to incorporate certain kinds of speech. All loosenesss, all cutting, uncharitable speech, must be avoided if we would make a Christian. A whole lesson might well be given to this one phase of the matter.

Things to Cultivate. In our speech let us cultivate prayer, praise, confession and thanksgiving. Let us frequently testify for Christ. Let us season our speech with the salt of charity. Let us speak well of one another or let us keep silent. Look up the bright things and talk about them. Let us use intelligent conversation. Avoid too much frivolity and nonsense. Cultivate a helpful, inspiring and refreshing style of conversation. Consecrate the tongue to useful speech.

3. The Secret of Right Speech. This lies in a right heart. Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. Get the heart made clean and the speech will be pure. The psalmist was a philosopher when he said, "Let the words of my mouth and the thoughts of my heart be acceptable unto thee, O God." As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. We may guard the lips never so closely, but the words we speak will be an index of the soul. If you would build up a strong Christian life you must get the fountain pure, then the stream of conversation will be pure. Get right; then you will talk right.

"Napoleon at Waterloo," Lecture at Centenary, Charleston, S. C.

By M. C. B. Mason

Our disappointment over Dr. M. C. B. Mason's unavoidable absence during conference was more than compensated by his presence and lecture on "Napoleon at Waterloo," Monday, Feb. 6, at 8 p. m. For nearly a month we had taken advantage of every opportunity to advertise this platform hero's coming; this famous Negro orator of the world, distinguished educator and Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The A. M. E.s are no more proud of resident Bishop Salter, Bishops Tanner and Coppin, who recently lectured here, than we are of our Mason, upon whom all our hopes were now centered for grave reasons.

More than one hundred distinguished citizens, of every denomination, including Bishop Salter, Collector of Port, the Hon. W. D. Crum, M. D., Prof. M. A. Holmes of Avery, presiding elders, pastors, Sunday-school superintendents, doctors, lawyers, teachers, dentists, government employees and business men, heartily co-operated with us as a committee of patrons. Our Inter-Denominational Ministerial Union cheerfully endorsed this enterprise and gave notices repeatedly during the Lord's Day services; The Southern Reporter and The Charleston Messenger gave us a strong helping hand; The Evening Post and The News and Courier placed their columns at our disposal to be used in any way we desired to boom Dr. Mason and his lecture; not on the old controversial subject, which breeds strife and confusion and often results in a misunderstanding, but something intellectually refreshing, "Napoleon at Waterloo."

Some twenty-five lithographs and more than two hundred placards with tickets were placed in conspicuous places; no church has a more devout body of ticket sellers than can be found among the elect women of Centenary; a great many reported two dollars and fifty cents, one went up to six dollars and another will go beyond fifteen dollars.

Some thought the lecture would fail because it was over-advertised, because the price was twenty-five cents for adults' seats on the lower floor, and ten cents for day and Sunday-school children in the galleries; as usual some saw a lion and others a stone in the way; so much hard work had been done beforehand, so much had been written by the pastor and the editors, so many of both races had pledged themselves to attend, we felt that only inclemency of the weather would interfere with our success; Bishop John M. Walden preached very acceptably for us about ten days ahead of Dr. Mason's arrival; he also spoke in glowing terms of Dr. Mason's ability, complimented the pastor on his method of advertising and added not a little to the growing interest of the coming man and his lecture.

Will he measure up to all that has been said and written of him? inquired the skeptical of the forward and backward races. The pastor wrote Dr. Mason, telling him to come a day ahead, rather than risk it on schedule time and take the last train; he wired an answer, and to the great satisfaction of the anxious ones was in Charleston at Centenary parsonage ten hours before the appointed time.

The News and Courier said in substance, sometime ago, that pre-eminent qualities in colored people credited the infusion of white blood in their veins; with a splendid chance and a magnificent man to disprove this, we wrote an open letter in its columns, urging upon the most skeptical of the whites to attend this lecture; certain members of the committee would even defray the expense of tickets if they would accept, and closed our article thus: "Nathaniel, 'Can there be any good thing come out of Nazareth?' Philip, 'Come and see.'" It was our aim not only to have the better and higher class sit in judgment, but also to bring about, if possible, a more friendly feeling among the races, and to begin it in the Church of God.

Those whose names did not appear on the placard, accused the writer (1) of giving free tickets to rich white people and making poor colored people pay, when to his certain knowledge only one white person of the many who attended accepted a complimentary ticket and he was a Roman Catholic priest; but (2) he was charged with discriminating in seating the people and threatened that this effort would be attacked in the public press. Since colored people attacked us, who are notorious for Jim Crowing their own race, or who were anxious for the lecture to fail, or who could not afford to pay 25 cents, or who knew it was a base slander to even intimate that Centenary would make any discrimination in seating her guests, no attention was paid to what was said by them, but the sequel proved that this cowardly thrust, for none dared to make it before the pastor's face, helped rather than hindered our plans; those who stayed away because of these charges, were not missed in the dense gathering that greeted Dr. Mason.

Never in the history of this great church did a more distinguished audience assemble to hear a lecture; professors, educators, lawyers, judges, clergymen were present; our ladies, too, were there, dressed for the occasion as on an Easter Sunday; you who have read Lord Macaulay's "Trial and Impeachment of Warren Hastings," his charming pen pictures of that brilliant galaxy of men and women in attendance, read it again, and transfer the scenes and persons to that famous night in Charleston, Monday, Feb. 6th, when Dr. Mason lectured in Centenary on "Napoleon at Waterloo."

"The place was worthy of such a trial;" it was a palace of light and beauty, of cheer and comfort; the people gave rapt attention; here in groups and there sprinkled among the people could be seen those of the other race, the higher and better class; a leading society postponed its annual supper on account of this lecture; a noble body of men performed the duties of its employee that he might be on hand; and the crowd was seen wending its way to Centenary, to see and hear the man of whom they have heard and read so much during the past month.

We were on trial; we wanted to prove by Dr. Mason, that in history, ancient and modern languages, romance, oratory, elocution, dramatic power, rhetoric and philosophy, we could measure arms with the best of the other race if we but take advantage of similar opportunities.

Dr. Burroughs led in prayer; in a few and well chosen words, Dr. Crum introduced the speaker of the evening and his subject, "Napoleon at Waterloo."

For nearly two hours Dr. Mason chained his great audience with matchless oratory; he swayed them like a field of grain before a mighty rushing wind; he held them spellbound; readily quoting classical French and brilliantly marshalling historical facts; he gave graphic and vivid accounts of the battlefield, of Josephine of Napoleon and other generals, of horse and rider: we heard the booming of cannon, the roaring of artillery, the thundering of shot and shell; we saw Marshal Ney, Blucher, the Duke of Wellington; we were spectators on the battlefield of Waterloo. The Doctor "poured forth such eloquence before High Heaven, as to make the very angels weep."

We thought Dr. Mason a great man, but he surpassed himself; the papers were unstinted in their praises of his masterly effort, and both races swelled the chorus that has come to us, telling how thrillingly this great man spoke and how genuinely he converted the most skeptical; going far beyond the most sanguine anticipations. Dr. Mason, the hero of the evening, diligently instructed, greatly delighted and wonderfully inspired the most critical, refined and cultured audience ever gathered in Charleston on such an occasion.

Hon. R. C. Browne offered a vote of thanks, which the whole audience endorsed by rising. Brethren, if you possibly can, get Dr. Mason to deliver this lecture for your people. It was a tremendous success from every possible standpoint; a great and decisive battle was fought, a great and many sided victory was won. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, well done! Come again! Two passages of Scripture tell our thanks and our feelings better than language: "We have never seen it on this fashion." "Never man spake like this man."

JOHN M. WALDEN, Secretary.

Southwestern Christian Advocate

1—All business letters should be addressed to Eaton & Mains, and all communications intended for publication to the Editor.

2—In sending matter for publication, write plainly on one side of the paper, and make your communication as short as the subject will allow.

3—When the ADVOCATE does not arrive regularly, notify us promptly.

4—Methodist pastors are our authorized agents, to receive subscriptions and collect dues for the ADVOCATE.

A PERSONAL WORD TO THE PASTORS

Why let any one in your charge give up the SOUTHWESTERN? Do you fully realize what loss it will involve?

Those of your members who read the paper are more appreciative of your services, more intelligent, more liberal, and more loyal to the cause of Christ.

A number of your people are hardworking, busy people, hence have not noted that the red tag on their paper markeed "Jan. 05" means that their subscription expired with the last day in December.

We are writing each an appeal; call and see them and show them that you, too, are interested in the matter. They recognize you as their leader and what you sanction they will likely take to, what you show lack of interest in they will likely do the same.

A failure to exert your inuence for this cuorse at this moment may mean great loss to us all—a loss fourfold: (1) Loss to yourself and your charge; (2) Loss to the people whom you serve; (3) Loss to the church at large; (4) Loss to the cause of Christ.

Brethren, can we afford this? Secure the renewals of the expired subscriptions in your charge at once.

THE COMING SPRING CONFERNCES

We are expecting the five Spring Conferences that are to meet soon to give us at least 1,000 subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. We thank the pastors of the following Conferences for lists already secured, for which they will pay at the coming sessions:

Delaware Conference — Revs. P. O'Connell, 52; Abram Chase, 9; J. E. A. Johns, 8; Jos. S. Cole, 4; J. W. W. Cox, 3; J. W. Cook, 2; J. E. A. D. Grigsby, 2; G. B. Coleman, 3.

Washington Conference—Revs. E. S. Williams, 17; C. E. Hensley, 10; J. H. Bailey, 10; Wm. E. Jefferson, 5; S. H. Norwood, 4; C. H. Pyles, 2.

Central Missouri Conference—Rev. A. R. Martin, 6.

Lincoln Conference—Revs. C. W. Neloms, 2; A. W. Talbert, 4.

LAUNCH FUND

The interest in the Launch Fund is increasing, and we sincerely trust that the friends will join in so that the Launch can be purchased at an early date and shipped to Bishop Scott at Monrovia, where it will meet a very urgent need. At the Florida Conference, Dr. C. C. Jacobs, Field Agent of the Sunday School Union; Rev. S. P. Pratt, and Rev. J. P. Patterson, of the Florida Conference, took special interest in the Launch Fund movement and it was through them that the magnificent list was published last week. Now let other subscriptions come in at once.

"CHILD LABOR VERSUS SCHOOLS"

Upon this subject Dr. J. H. Kirkland, Chancellor of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, delivered on the evening of February 14th, at the annual meeting of the National Child Labor Committee in New York, a very helpful and enlightening address. We give a few paragraphs taken from an abstract of the address, which are worth careful consideration:

"Child labor is our modern slaughter of the innocents. Against it we must rally the church, the school, the press, organized labor, and a universal public sentiment. Reformation in America is effected not by violence, but by thought.

"The school represents the state in its parental capacity. Our conceptions of government are changing. We no longer believe in a state whose duties are solely to protect life and property. The state must care for its own life, but for its higher life as well as its lower.

"In the work of education, the activity of the state finds its highest expression. Here it devotes itself to perfecting citizenship, to creating those elements that work for the highest national prosperity.

"All America believes in universal education. We believe in our public school system, the only way education can be made universal. We oppose child labor because it preys upon helpless childhood and begets an ignorant manhood. No child labor laws are effective that disregard the educational advancement of the child. Our problem is not simply to keep a child out of the factories, but to keep it at school. Labor is better than irresponsible idleness. The factory is better than the slums, sometimes better than the home—but it is never better than the school.

"A definite educational requirement should be demanded before allowing any minor to enter the ranks of labor. This requirement should be something distinctly in advance of present requirements of ability to read and write. The child who goes to work after learning to read and write will frequently forget what he has learned and drift back into the class of hopelessly illiterate. There are, no doubt, children under sixteen at work in every state in the Union who cannot read and write.

"From the standpoint of the schools, we urge: First, a more satisfactory educational test as a condition precedent to the employment of minors; second, that the enforcement of requirements be lodged with those interested in the education of children; third, that better schools be provided.

"The problems of the South are largely wrapped up in the great problem of education. For this we are working with a sublime faith and a heroic courage. We rejoice that we are assured of national cooperation and national sympathy. The bitterness of former differences will be most quickly forgotten by those working together in a great and holy enterprise. On the Nation's heart do we lay the burden of American childhood, helpless and ignorant to-day, but infinite in its possibilities for to-morrow."

The Doctor is right in his plea for an opportunity for the education of the child. And this is the greatest wrong that can be alleged to child labor. But all the ills to child labor are not to be found among the poor whites who are at work in the factory and mills. Many Negro boys and girls are hired out, in some cases for board, in many others for fifty and seventy-five cents a week. This in the face of the fact that schools are open and that the children are growing up in ignorance and will be a menace to the American institutions because of ignorance. When our people realize that the less they live upon and the more work they themselves do, not depending upon their children, and so give them an education, the sooner they will bring a brighter and better day.

Through an inadvertence an abstract from an old address on the Freedmen's Aid Society, delivered about fifteen years ago by Dr. J. M. Buckley, was furnished from the office of the Society and published in a recent number in the interest of the Lincoln Birthday Sunday. Certain conditions, obtaining at that time, were the subject of criticism which has no application to the work of the Society as it is to-day.

MISS MARIE ADELE SCOTT

In our last week's issue mention was made of an accident to Miss Marie Adele Scott, daughter of Bishop I. B. Scott, who was at that time attending school in Atlanta, Ga. The accident proved fatal and Miss Scott died last Friday in the hospital of Spellman Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., and was buried in Nashville, Tenn., last Sunday. Miss Scott was about 19 years of age, a very promising and accomplished young woman, showing signs of great ability, unusual steadiness of character, and a deep and earnest Christian life. She was quite matured for her age and was relied upon by all members of the home. In many respects she was a remarkable young woman.

This death comes as a very serious affliction to the family. It is only a little more than two years ago since Bishop Scott and his wife laid to rest in Carrollton cemetery of this city, their oldest daughter, a very charming and accomplished young woman. Following this affliction comes another, this time under very peculiar circumstances. The father, Bishop Scott, is in Africa, in answer to the call of the church and of God, seeking the upliftment of a benighted people, and it will be weeks, perhaps, before he hears of the death of this beloved daughter. Mrs. Scott is in this country without the comforting presence of her husband, which is so necessary in such an hour as this. God only knows the depth of sorrow through which a human soul must pass under such circumstances. May the sustaining grace of the Divine come in great comforting power to this stricken family.

THE WRITER OF BEN HUR PASSES AWAY

"I am ready to meet my Maker," were the dying words of General Lew Wallace, who quit this life February 15th, surrounded by his family and friends at his old home in Crawfordsville, Ind. General Wallace was a remarkable man, well and most favorably known throughout the Republic. He was a soldier of two wars and has a brilliant record for bravery and heroism in battle. He first entered the army at the beginning of the Mexican War as fiirst lieutenant of Company H, in the First Indiana Infantry. At the beginning of the Civil War he was appointed adjutant-general for the state of Indiana, afterwards becoming lieutenant-colonel in the Eleventh Indiana Volunteers. He was made brigadier-general of volunteers September 3rd, 1861, and led the center division in the capture of Fort Donaldson, and for ability and bravery displayed during this battle, was made major-general of volunteers. He was in the battle of Shiloh and throughout the war rendered brilliant service. He was Governor of Utah from 1878 to 1881. Minister to Turkey from 1881 to 1885, and was president of the Court of Inquiry which investigated the conduct of General Buell in 1862, and was a member of the court which tried those charged with complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln.

Though he had won great fame as a soldier, he was a writer of remarkable gift and if he should rest his fame upon "Ben Hur," a tale of the Christ, written in 1880, his name would be found among the immortals. He wrote the "Fair God," or "The Last of the Tzins," a tale of the conquest of Mexico, in 1873; "The Life of Benjamin Harrison," in 1888; "The Boyhood of Christ," in 889; "The Prince of India," in 1893, and "The Wooing of Malktoon," in 1898.

Personal and General

Rev. A. C. Mitchell, pastor at Booth, passed through the city this week and called in to see us.

From the auction sale of the first three parts of the late Bishop Hurst's library $28,000 was realized.

At the last session of the Louisiana Conference, Prof. William Porter was appointed principal of the Franklin Institute.

Mr. M. S. Alexander, of Maillard, passed through the city this week, enroute to the Tuskegee Conference, at Tuskegee, Ala.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Sherrill and their son Joe, Dr. and Mrs. John H. Reed and their two children, reached Liverpool after a pleasant voyage.

Rev. J. H. Thompson, the former pastor of our charge at Pleasant Hill, passed through this city last week, enroute to his new work at Wilson, La.

Dr. M. W. Dogan, president of Wiley University, Marshall, Tex., passed through the city this week enroute to Tuskegee, Ala., to attend the Tuskegee Conference.

Rev. O. N. Samples, a member of the Savannah Conference, died January 20th. He was a faithful and successful preacher of the Gospel and much loved by his brethren.

Miss Maud Reed, an attractive and accomplished young woman of Oberlin, Ohio, who has been for some time a student in the Oberlin College, will take up the study of medicine, in Cleveland, O.

The Rev. Richard Rymer, of Brixton, England, is said to be the oldest Methodist minister in the world. He became a minister in 1829, so that he is now in the seventy-sixth year of his ministry.

Rev. Amedeo Riggio, who has been the pastor of our Italian Church here for some years, now goes to New York as assistant pastor to the Rev. Filoleo Taglialatelo, who is the pastor of our Italian Church of that city, which has a membership of 400.

A welcome home reception was tendered Prof. W. E. DuBois, of Atlanta University, last Friday evening by 200 citizens of Boston, under direction of a large committee of arrangements headed by ex-Alderman Clement J. Morgan, of Cambridge.

Rev. Sylvester H. Norwood, pastor of Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church, on the corner of Sherman and Grant avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., extends a cordial invitation to all the friends to visit Simpson Church during their stay in Washington.

Rev. H. James reports the work at Baton Rouge encouraging. He was appointed to this field from Mt. Zion, New Orleans, where he did splendid work last year, greatly improving and beautifying the church property and strengthening the membership.

Mr. Gus Shaw, of Almont, Tex., offers to give 200 acres of land for the establishment of an industrial school for colored youths, and his wife offers to give $5,000 in cash for its support. Mr. J. A. Harman, a colored teacher of that place, is pushing the project.

Dr. J. W. E. Bowen delivered during the month of January three special addresses to the Young Men's Christian Association of Atlanta, Ga., upon the following subjects: "The Aristocracy of Youth," "The Aristocracy of Knowledge, and "The Aristocracy of Character."

Colored men are taking the places of foreign white laborers in the big plants around South Chicago. It is claimed that the Negro laborer will lessen the number of accidents about the plants and that they can more readily understand the instructions given than the foreigners.

The winners of the three prizes offered by Miss Helen M. Gould for the best three essays on "The Origin of the Bible" have been announced by Dr. Wilbert White, president of the Bible Teachers' Training School, through whom her offer was made late in 1903. The prizes amount to $1,750.

The Massachusetts Grand Army of the Republic has elected a Negro, J. H. Wolf, of Boston, department commander, and as Massachusetts will lead the parade at the national encampment in Denver, the unique spectacle will be presented of 25,000 white men marching under command of a Negro.

Miss Mary Holmes, of Boston, Mass., who ten years ago built and endowed the Monticello (Ark.) Seminary, being forced to abandon her earnest desire to permanently establish a seminary for colored boys and girls in that state, has returned home and this door of education is closed against the Negro.

Dr. W. H. Brooks has been appointed chairman of the Colored Men's Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association of New York, succeeding Dr. S. T. Walker, who has returned to Augusta, Ga. Dr. Brooks is eminently fitted for this responsible position, and will no doubt give good account of himself.

The Board of Trustees of the Woman's Home Missionary Society holds its meetings quarterly. The latest was from January 25 to 27, inclusive. These meetings are held in Cincinnati, O., at the Methodist Book Concern, and are attended by the trustees, bureau secretaries and others interested in the work of the society.

Bishop Harris has come into a large amount of hard and important work in his new field in Japan. His reception by the missionaries and the Christian community was heart-warming and generous. He is itinerating throughout his great field, and will have traveled it from end to end by the middle of the summer.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason lectured on Monday night, February 6th, in Centenary Church, Charleston, S. C., upon the subject, "Napoleon at Waterloo." The Interdenominational Ministerial Union of the city of Charleston heartily endorsed the lecture, and recognized Dr. Mason as one of the greatest men of his race regardless of denomination.

Miss Lettie M. Mason, a graduate of the Deaconess Training School in Boston, and for the past two years stationed in Lowell, Mass., sailed from New York on the steamer Teutonic, Wednesday, February 8, enroute to Angola, West Africa, where she will serve as a teacher in the Methodist Episcopal Mission at St. Paul de Loanda.

Dr. J. W. E. Bowen and Mr. J. Max Barber, editors of the Voice of the Negro, have bought an interest in that journal. While they always had absolute editorial control of the entire paper they are now closely related to it in a business way. We congratulate the Voice on its magnificent success, and believe it has a very bright and permanent future.

Dr. A. B. Leonard, Corresponding Secretary of the Missionary Society, for some weeks has been confined to his Brooklyn home suffering from neuralgia and an abscess in the left ear. He is now convalescing and hopes shortly to be at his desk again at the Mission Rooms. By order of his physician he will avoid platform engagements for the next three months.

Bishop John C. Keener, Senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was 87 years old on Tuesday, the seventh of February. He came to New Orleans prior to 1850, when it was a great risk to health to live in the city. He laid the foundation for Methodism here. During his active ministry he took keen interest in our people, very often preaching in our churches and otherwise helping in the uplift of the people. The Bishop, when his health permitted, made occasional visits to the SOUTHWESTERN office, and his coming was a source of genuine helpfulness and pleasure.

A six weeks revival that commenced on watch-meeting night, has just closed in St. Mark's Church, New York, of which Rev. W. H. Brooks, D. D., is pastor. No novel methods were introduced and no evangelist was employed. The pastor preached a short sermon every evening and urged unconditional surrender and immediate acceptance of the Savior. Over one hundred and fifty made a profession of faith and one hundred and thirty-two united with St. Mark's Church. The most remarkable feature of this revival was that the largest per cent. of those converted were young men. The care and training of these, of course, entail very heavy responsibility upon the church and upon the pastor.

Farm and Fireside

TO MAKE DRIED BEEF.

"For every twenty pounds of beef use one pint of salt, a teaspoonful of saltpetre, and a quarter of a pound of brown sugar.

"Mix thoroughly, roll, and then divide into three equal parts. Rub one part well into the beef for three successive days. Let the beef then lie in the brine it will make for a week, turning the beef every day. Then hang it in a dry place until it stops dripping."

The next step requires that it be hung up in a cool, dry position and be rubbed over with red pepper. Now "wrap in paper, put in a stout bag with a string attached to the top by which it may be hung up, and keep in a cool, but not very dry, place.

"The meat may mould some on the outside, but the mould can easily be scraped and washed off, and it will not in the least injure the flavor of what is left on the inside. If kept in a very dry place it cannot be cut by other than strong muscles. A cool cellar is a good place for this sort of service. Before chipping this meat for use, the outside ought always to be trimmed away.

"A leg of mutton is excellent cured thus. The dried beef is good chipped very fine and so eaten, or it can be put into a hot pan containing a little butter stirred about till brown. Sprinkle lightly with flour, adding some cream or milk. Let it boil up and serve."

We thus see how farmers may have dried beef, at the same time getting a suggestion of how it may be made to count.

The lambs that come in February are the ones that give large profits. The earlier they come the better, as the difference of two or three weeks in reaching the market may affect the value a hundred per cent. The young lamb must have warm quarters and be forced in growth. It is easily chilled if the weather is severely cold, and should such happen it will receive a check from which it will not soon recover. Warmth is more essential at first than feed, but after the lamb gets a start it will grow rapidly if the ewe gives an abundance of milk.

There is no safe method of determining the butter qualities of a herd except by churning the milk of each cow separately. The bulk of the milk is not a sure indication. Very often the cow that gives but a moderate quantity of milk may yield the larger amount of butter. In breeding up a herd a knowledge of the characteristics of each cow will enable the dairyman to breed for the best results, as the superior cows may be used for breeding to thoroughbred bulls. It does not pay to keep the calves unless the merits of their sires and dams are well known.

Evidently extracted honey should not be stored where there is any great amount of moisture in the atmosphere. Tests carefully made in Canada show that this sort of "honey exposed to such conditions" soon exhibited signs of deterioration, becoming thin and rapidly fermenting. Honey in the comb was similarly influenced, but resisted the effects of moisture for a much longer time." And so the recommendation is to store honey in an atmosphere both warm and dry.

Flavoring butter with the odor of fresh flowers is one of the arts of the French peasantry. The process is very simple, and consists of putting the little prints, which have first been wrapped in a thin cloth, into a tight porcelain dish on a bed of the roses, or whatever blossoms are chosen. Among the flowers which give the most desirable results are clover and nasturtiums.—Notes from the Home and Farm Journal.

The American University

Letters are coming to me from all parts of the country inquiring about the American University. I am greatly cheered by the interest indicated in many quarters. At a recent meeting of the Building Committee it was decided to call for bids from responsible firms for the erection of the McKinley Memorial. This was done and about the 21st of February the contract will be let and the work will go forward at once. This, our second building, is to cost over $220,000. We have $123,000 available for it now which the architect says is sufficient to purchase the material and put the roof on. We trust that our appeal for the money to complete the McKinley Memorial Building will meet so prompt and generous a response that there need be no cessation of the work until it is entirely finished and ready for occupancy. We want to dedicate it on the 4th of March, 1906, the anniversary of the inauguration of President Roosevelt. The President is one of our trustees and is greatly interested in our project. He laid the cornerstone of this building. Congress has now before it a bill making an appropriation to macadamize Massachusetts avenue past the University grounds. It is very probable that this bill will be passed. After this road is completed you can drive in twenty minutes from the Capitol of the nation to our grounds. The causeway across Rock Creek Chasm has already been completed. This shortens the distance very much. We are now ready to receive contributions for the McKinley Memorial Building and also for the endowment. On this business address me care The American University, Washington, D. C.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

And Bladder Diseases at Home at Small Cost—One Who Did Gladly Tell You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (the Clothier), East Hampton, Conn., says if any suffering man or woman will send him their address, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect cure he so successfully used. We advise every one to take advantage of this free offer, for Mr. Hitchcock is positive it will result in their permanent cure.

P. W. Clark, Pastor, Alexandria, La.—The members of the Newman Memorial M. E. Church, paid in all last year fourteen hundred and sixty-four dollars. Seven hundred and forty-six dollars on debts. I wish also to thank Mrs. Dr. Yarny for $20.00 on a suit of clothes; Miss Parker for $10.00 from the Sunday school; Miss L. E. Anderson for $5.50; Miss M. E. Lee for $6.50 on traveling expenses, and all the people of this city for what they did last year. I was received for the fourth year with much joy. Watch Alexandria.

R. L. Dent, Reporter, St. Paul M. E. Church, Augusta, Ky.—Another heroic year's work is accomplished. In 1901 our church was something over one thousand dollars in debt. The Lord has enabled us through the leadership of our pastor, Rev. H. A. Southgate, who is now closing his fourth year's work, which has broken the record of all preceding years and church was so involved in such a complicated manner that our hopes became blighted o ever recovering it; but by the wise plans of our Leader and strenuous and perennial struggle we have succeeded in reaching the ground of safety. On the 26th day of January, we settled a debt of $700.00, leaving us a balance of $300.00 to pay which saves our church. Taking into consideration the great spiritual work done the last year and the glorious financial record this year, causes us to be loud spoken in praise of our pastor. As was expressed by the members of our last Quarterly Conference that God in his wise providence would return to us Bro. Southgate; that the work so nobly started may be completed by him. Send us your prayers.

G. W. Townsend, Pastor, Davilla, Texas.—I have had two protracted meetings, one at Davilla, Tex., four conversions, six joined the church. A glorious meeting. The people say it has been seven years since any one was converted at Davilla. At Holland, Texas, another good meeting. Seven backsliders reclaimed and one conversion.

Doings of the Workmen.

Pasadena, Cal.—The first M. E. Church of Pasadena granted Scott M E. Mission, named in honor of Bishop Scott, of which Rev. S. B. Danley is pastor, the use of their church Sunday, Jan. 22. Bishop Hamilton was with them and greatly inspired the work and through his efforts $400 cash and subscriptions were raised, of which three-fourths has already been paid. They have bought a church building and hope to secure a lot soon to move it on.

The following resolution was offered by the Rev. J. F. Marshall in the New Orleans Preachers' Meeting on the recent expressions of President Roosevelt: Resolved, That we have read with profound interest and satisfaction the timely, wise, fair and patriotic words of President Roosevelt before the Republican Club of New York, on the occasion of the celebration of Lincoln's birthday, in which his broad views and spirit of fairness dictates a policy of even-handed justice to all citizens of our great country alike, regardless of section, race or nationality. Resolver, further, that we commend him to the continued favor of the God of Nations, to the end that his wise and humane policies may be fully realized.

W. R. Burger, Pastor, Princeton, W. Va.—Our second quarterly conference was held Jan. 28 by Presiding Elder, Rev. W. E. Mitchell, who presided with much care and dignity. As usual, the majority of officers were present with good reports, which showed the work to be in advance. The elder was at his best. His sermons were excellent. The result of which was one precious soul added to the church. Paid the elder in full. Collection for day, $11.52. Raised on benevolence this quarter, $11; paid pastor, $31.31. Total, $53.83. This is our second year on the Princeton Circuit. Pray that we may do even better this year than last.

A. Patten, Reporter, Hillsboro, Tenn.—The second quarterly conference and meeting of the Hillsboro Circuit was held by our most worthy presiding elder, W. R. Smith, D. D., on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 11-12. The business session convened about 4 o'clock p. m. on the 11th. The entire board of officers were present and presented written reports, which showed a wonderful advance in the work of the church during the last three months. Every department of the church is well organized and is doing effective work. Our financial standing is better than it has been for a number of years. We raised for all purposes during the quarter, $81.60. For the first time in the history of our circuit we paid our elder in full, $8.70. We are preparing to build a new church. Most of the material for it has been bought or donated. Brother A. D. Butler, our efficient pastor, is pushing things as never before.

(Mrs.) Lucy Venable, Reporter, Woodside, La.—On Jan. 22, $29.60 instead of $34.80 were raised. Also the stewardesses of Sumner's M. E. Church instead of the steward brethren presented the pastor the sum of $8.25. We desire all of our friends to address us at Maringouin, La. The SOUTHWESTERN is not forgotten. The pastor, Rev. A. B. Venable, is trying to get the good old paper into every home.

P. E. Morris, Recording Steward of Wesly Tabernacle, Galveston, Tex.—Rev. W. Hartley Jackson, the pastor, has just closed a meeting in which three souls were happily converted and 46 joined the church. Rev. Jackson is succeeding nicely and is much beloved by the whole congregation. We are having a big rally March 27 to raise $567.50, due the Church Extension. Mrs. T. C. Jackson, our pastor's wife, has organized the W. H. M. Society with more than 38 women of the church and now the pastor is organizing the children of the church for the Easter service and other active work. The inclement weather has hindered our work very much and there is a great deal of sickness in our congregation. Rev. Jackson is working hard to get subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN.

J. O. Richards, Pastor, Hurst M. E. Church, Plaquemine, La.—I take this method of thanking the following members for their liberality in helping the pastor get ready for the Annual Conference: Bros. M. Nelson, A. Bolden, Wm. Truehill, E. Smith, S. Varnado, Evered Hill and H. Walker, for a fine hat; the steward sisters, $2.45; the King's Daughters, $2.90. A. A. Moore, a pair of shoes, and the members and friends whose names we would publish if space permitted, for a fine suit of clothes. We sent you to the SOUTHWESTERN eight annual subscribers last year; we expect to send more this year; our canvass for the same is already on.

Wm. Perry, Pastor, Heflin, Ala.—Our first quarterly meeting convened in the New Bethel M. E. Church Feb. 11-12. Our presiding elder, J. W. Thomas, was at his post. The weather being unfavorable, we did not get the brethren from Sailico and Iron City, though we had a good conference. Sunday was a rainy day and we could not have service. Our presiding elder being ill and unable to preach, left for home Sunday night. Raised for all causes, $16.29. Pray for our success.

A. B. McQueen, Pastor, Statesville, N. C.—Our first quarterly conference was held Jan. 21-22, with Elder R. Smith presiding. The majority of the brethren were present with written reports. The elder dispatched business carefully and easily. Sunday was a happy day. Rev. Smith preached two grand sermons, to the delight of all the large congregation. Thirty-two persons communed, and one joined the church. Paid the elder $7.10; paid pastor, $32. Raised for missions, $2.

Silas J. Wilds, Mannville, S. C.—The first quarterly conference of Mechanicsville M. E. Church was held Jan. 30, with our presiding elder, Rev. W. G. Valentine. All leaders and officers were present with very good written reports, which showed that the work of this charge is progressing. Have paid our presiding elder for the first quarterly conference $30.80; for pastor, Rev. W. H. Jones, $27.90. Elder Valentine on Sunday morning preached a soul-stirring sermon to a large and interested audience. We are always glad to have him with us. Our work is alive again. We were glad of Rev. Jones' return to us this year.

J. S. Todd, Pastor, Jacksonville, Fla.—Bishop J. M. Walden and Dr. C. C. Jacobs have visited Ebenezer M. E. Church. On the eve of going to Conference my church was blessed with the presence of the good Bishop and Dr. Jacobs. The Sunday school was gathered at 9 o'clock and about 200 members of the school listened attentively to an able address by Dr. Jacobs. The Sunday school and people of Ebenezer are always delighted to meet him. His work is a success among us. After this address Dr. Jacobs preached an able sermon for our good people of Simpson Chapel Church. At night Bishop Walden preached a powerful as seven and eight hundred persons were present and heard him with great dewell as an instructive sermon. Between light and pleasure. Many persons came forward to the altar for prayer. No one thought of Bishop Walden as superannuated. With force he preached the word of God from the text of Romans 5: 10. Two members were received into the church at the close of the Bishop's sermon. Mrs. Walden was with the Bishop. Both the Bishop and Dr. Jacobs expressed themselves as being well pleased with our new church building and with the congregation of Ebenezer. We are always glad to have our brethren visit us when passing through the city. Now that our church building is completed we are planning for revival meetings. Sixty-seven members were received into the church the past year, and we carried $200 of benevolent collections to the Annual Conference. Raised for all purposes during the year $2,550. I am out for another year's hard work. We are to have Bishop C. C. McCabe with us next Sunday night.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove What Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will do for YOU, Every Reader of Southwestern Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

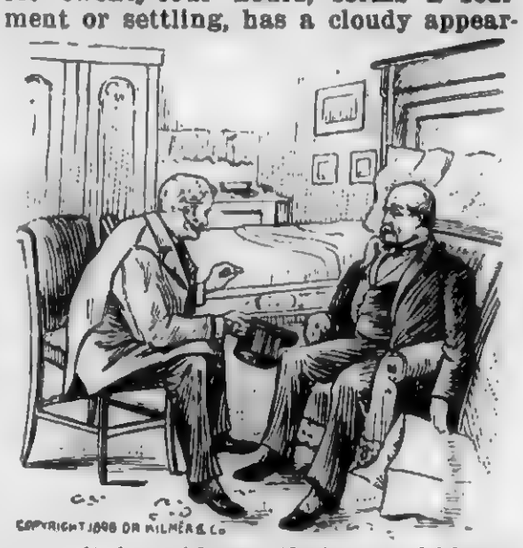
Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

53 COTTAGE ST., MELROSE, MASS.
DEAR SIRS: Jan. 11th 1904



"Ever since I was in the Army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In oder to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water to day and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp Root to all sufferers, I am, Very truly yours,
I. C. RICHARDS

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are, obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust, or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale the world over at druggists in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty-cent and one-dollar. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

Brookhaven, Miss, L. W. Price, pastor.—Two waves met in Brookhaven Sunday and Monday, February 12 and 13. One brought such freezing weather that none of the people came to church on Sunday. The pastor was caught with the crowd; but the wave Monday morning thawed up things and with the thaw there came to the parsonage flour, sugar, potatoes and many other things. It was an act of encouragement to the pastor, his wife and baby. This party was led by Sister Ella Canada, followed by Miss Bessie Shelton, Ed Blue, C. Nelson, Kid Wilson, W. B. Rembert and Lewis Watkins. The pastor, wife and even the baby, again thank these faithful members and friends for that good deed. Come again and let others come. They have served notice on the pastor that if they can't have service, he shall eat.

Conference Notices

NOTICE TO ROME DISTRICT.

Dear Brethren: In a few brief weeks the Lord being willing, we shall assemble in our various places of divine worship, to commemorate one of the greatest events in the history of our Christian religion, namely, Easter day This day has been set apart by the great church to which we belong as a day of missions. Our Lord said: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." St. Paul says, "how can he preach except he be called, and how can he go except he be sent." Now, let us remember first, the eyes of our church are upon us, and we are expected to do our part in helping to raise the largest missionary collection in the history of our church. Organize your committee on missions and let them begin work to-day. Brothers, please do not say, as some are saying, "We have time enough." The faithful servant in God's vineyard begins with the sixth hour and bears his burden in the heat of day. It will be gratifying to the church and also to the Atlanta Annual Conference to know that we have full and complete reports from every charge in our district, and more especially will our hearts leap for joy when we take our place in the Atlanta Conference. The minutes of the last Annual Conference will show that we rank third in membership and fourth in benevolence of the church. Therefore, my beloved brethren, let me appeal to you and urge upon you for the first time this conference year, that you as ministers of the Gospel of the Son of God do your duty to the church and make for yourselves a name. At our last annual conference we voted for an appropriation of $2.000 for the Missionary Society; one-fourth of that amount has been apportioned to our district. This amount we hope to raise on Easter day. Let us not be satisfied with anything else than our full apportionment. Let us give back to the church some results of the thousands of dollars that have been given to us. The church looks upon us now, not as children but as men. We are not expected to come with any excuse but with rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves. Send at once to our Book Concern, and secure Easter literature, programs and Easter envelopes, and such other things as you will need, and urge your young people to fall in line and keep in touch with the great church which we represent. Nineteen successive years in the Christian ministry in the Atlanta and Savannah Annual Conference have taught me that a failure on Easter day is the direct road to a failure at the end of the conference year. Let us not brood over the inclemency of the weather but lay plans now. Secure your preacher today and have an Easter sermon at every church. I would suggest that where we have more than one church on a charge that you secure the services of some good preacher to fill the pulpit and speak, preach and lecture on Easter the entire day. Remember, we have a large number of good preachers at Gammon Theological Seminary, some of them just out of the pastorate, and they are willing to spend Easter day on the district with you. Let Easter bells ring at every church and the Gospel of the blessed Christ be preached from every pulpit. Let our watchword be, Souls for Christ and the last dollar of our missionary money for the church. I stand ready at any time to come to your rescue. Remember, brethren, the District Sunday School and Epworth League Convention will convene May 26-28, at Temple, Ga.

C. W. ADAMS, P. E.

To the Pastors and Auxiliaries of Women's Home Missionary Work: At the last Annual Conference I was elected conference president of our Home Mission work. Our motto for the year is "Sow and reap." Already, since conference, we have planted twelve new societies. We called the Executive Board together Jan. 13-14 in Greensboro. At this meeting we decided to hold our first convention Aug. 30-31 in St. Paul church, Winston. At this session we expect dues and reports from all Auxiliaries, also one delegate from each society. Let all societies begin at once to get fully prepared for this great meeting, for we truly expect it to be great and glorious for us all. Dear pastors, organize and have your work represented, for the time has fully come when the church that does not get in along this line will be behind, do you see clearly? Well, come on up the line. Work and pray. Let me hear from each auxiliary. Yours in his cause,

A. G. MOREHEAD, President.

NOTICE.

The pastors of the Austin District, West Texas Conference, will kindly send to the address below the name and address of the Junior Epworth League Superintendent, in your respective charges, and also the president's address. If there is no Junior Epworth League the president of the Austin District would be pleased to organize at once. Let every pastor in our district see that this auxiliary lives and flourishes in its beauty. We have the children, we have the ability. Now, let's have the Junior Epworth League. Address Miss B. V. Cummings, Junior E. L. President of the Austin District, 604 E. 12th St., Austin, Tex.

OPELIKA DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Wetumpka, April 1-2; Alexander City, 8-9; Alexander City Cir., 15-16; Ecticlic and Birhill, 22-23; Dadeville, 29-30; Kelleyton, May 6-7; LaFayette, 13-14; LaFayette Cir. and LaNett, 20-21; Opelika and West Opelika, 27-28; Five Points, June 3-4; Lomax, 10-11; Central and Riverside, 17-18. Dear Pastors: Plan well for Easter Sunday. Let there be an Easter service not only in every charge but every church try to raise the full apportionment. It can be done and after raising it please send it to Dr. Leonard in New York. We make a mistake when we hold the money back until the Annual Conference. The ground is a little slippery between Easter and the Annual Conference.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

EATON & MAINS, - - New Orleans.

Conference, I am forced from present circumstances and conditions to pen a few lines touching our Conference Claimant's Fund, which to my mind means much to us all, for indeed, none of us know or can know just when we ourselves will be called upon by the conference we so dearly love to take this most dreaded relation; made so because of such meager support, arising especially from conference collections. My heart was moved with pity when we came together during the late session of our conference to consider these cases; when we had so little with which to relieve them—just think of it, $521 from the Book Concern and $45 only from conference collections, making a total of only $566, when it might have been, to say the least, $1,000, which would have been commendable if not sufficient for such needs as came up for our prayerful consideration and provision. You will please allow me to say as one of you, let us, for once in the history of our conference, make an effort for these worthy ones, who while in health or life, stood with us in this Christian battle militant and by their heroic endeavors helped to make us what we are as a conference. Then blessed be God, and Father, and Jesus Christ our Lord, and the Holy Ghost, our guide and comforter. Some day these worthy ones who are soldiers of the cross will rise up and call us blessed—to be followed.

Hot Springs, Ark.

McCool, Miss.—The news came from the joining county, Winston, in to Choctaw county, of the death of Mrs. Azzelee Thompson. A great many think the report true. I can gladly state that the report is false. The last account I heard of her she was getting along nicely. We have had about eight days of the roughest weather that we have ever witnessed in this part.. J. M. Kennedy.

GREAT $2 COMBINATION OFFER.

The Weekly Constitution, The Sunny South and The Advocate, All Three One Year for Only TWO Dollars.

A Living Monument.

If we were to assemble all those who have been cured of heart disease by Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and who would to-day be in their graves had not Dr. Miles' been successful in perfecting this wonderful heart specific, they would populate a large city.

What a remarkable record—a breathing, thinking, moving monument, composed of human lives,—that for which every other earthly possession is sacrificed.

The Miles Medical Co. receive thousands of letters from these people like the following:

"I feel indebted to the Dr. Miles' Heart Cure for my life. I desire to call the attention of others suffering as I did to this remarkable remedy for the heart. For a long time I had suffered from shortness of breath after any little exertion, palpitation of the heart; and at times terrible pain in the region of the heart, so serious that I feared that I would some time drop dead upon the street. One day I read one of your circulars, and immediately went to my druggist and purchased two bottles of the Heart Cure, and took it according to directions, with the result that I am entirely cured. Since then I never miss an opportunity to recommend this remedy to my friends who have heart trouble; in fact I am a traveling advertisment, for I am widely known in this locality."

J. H. BOWMAN,
Manager of Lebanon Democrat, Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"The Funeral: Its Conduct and Proprieties." By Joseph N. Greene. Cloth. 16mo. 109 pages. 50c net. Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati.

There is no occasion where any deviation from the proprieties or the correctness of things jars more or is more to be regretted than at a funeral—the one place of all where everything must be done "decently and in order." The little volume by Rev. Joseph N. Greene, just issued from the press of the Western Methodist Book Concern, makes the desired order both possible and easy. Suggestions are offered in the several divisions of the book to the Undertaker, the Minister, the Bereaved and the Friends, and a comprehensive index makes any point instantly accessible. The mission of the book is, therefore, not to the few, but necessarily to the many.

They Live in Our Memory.

Harrisburg, Texas.—Mrs. Isabella Howells was born March 15, 1837, in Sunderland county, Durham, England, and died in Navasota, Texas, Feb. 6, 1905. Her parents moved to London while she was still quite young and sent her to a Methodist Sunday school, and a little later she united with the Methodist Church. In 1870 she came with her husband to Texas. Both put their letters into the M. E. Church at Navasota, under Rev. J. K. Loggins. Mrs. Howells and her husband later started a Sunday school on the Brenham Circuit in Washington county. There they taught free school and Sunday school for several years. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Howells moved to Harrisburg, Texas, and taught Sunday school up until Easter Sunday in 1904. From that time her health gradually failed, until she passed peacefully away at th home of her sistr, Mrs. B. W. Burrow.

Galveston, Texas.—Mrs. Lucy C. Grant, a faithful member of Wesly Tabernacle M. E. Church, died during February, in perfect peace with God. Her husband, daughter, one grandchild, three sisters and a host of friends mourn their loss which was heaven's gain. The funeral service was conducted by the writer and Rev. Wm. Bartley, under the auspices of the Household of Ruth and the Daughters of Zion. It was a beautiful, solemn service. W. HARTLEY JACKSON, Pastor.

Lincolnton, N. C.—Sister Hattie Pope departed this life Dec. 24. She leaves a dear husband and a host of friends to mourn their loss.

M. H. HINTON, Pastor.

New Orleans, La.—Minerva C. Hite was born June 7, 1891. Although young, she had, by her kind and sweet disposition, won the love and admiration of all who knew her. She took sick during the short school vacation, but feeling better when the session opened, started off again. She struggled hard to regain her health, but the cruel hand of affliction was placed upon her for the last time. On seeing this, she began to break away from books and classmates, and looked to Jesus, her only friend. Rev. Chinn called to see her and questioned her concerning her soul. She then acknowledged Christ and was happily converted. On Monday Rev. Taylor administered to her the Lord's Supper. She seemed to be full of cheer and hope. On last Wednesday her grandfather asked her: "Minerva, are you still trusting in the Lord?" and she said, "I have nothing else to do." Then said he, "He will save you." Her answer was, "I am saved already." About ten minutes after twelve Saturday morning she quietly passed to rest with Jesus.

Marshall, Tex.—Bro. Ben Conner, a faithful member and trustee of Carner Chapel M. E. Church, died Jan. 14 in full triumph of faith. A wife, seven children and a host of friends mourn his demise. The funeral service took place on the 15th inst., at Carner Chapel M. E. Church, of which he was the founder. The funeral was conducted by Rev. R. Hillary, Pastor.

Dixon, Miss.—Sister Carrie Steel, daughter of Bro. Andy Steel, has been called from labor to reward. Three sisters and two brothers mourn their loss. The burial services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Jones. Bro. James Lewis, a faithful member and class leader of Cottage Hill M. E. Church, was called home on Jan. 10. He died trusting in the Lord. His wife survives him. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. Green. Bro. Bryant Stenis, a faithful member of Mount Zion Baptist Church, died in peace Dec. 6, aged 101 years. His wife, five sons and two daughters survive him.

SALLIE SLAUGHTER.

Sister Anna Crunk, wife of Mr. Elemore Simon, went home to rest Jan. 27. She was a devoted Christian, well loved by all who knew her. She leaves her husband, three little ones and a sister to mourn their loss. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. A Cato. The deceased was a member of Pleasant Valley Church.

A. WALKER.

Mansfield, La.—Sister Jane Walker, aged 80 years, died Jan. 27, trusting her Saviour. She was a loyal Christian woman highly respected by all who knew her. She was a member of St. John Baptist Church. A husband, two sons and a host of grandchildren survive her. The funeral service was attended by Rev. Wesley Magee and Rev. F. Smith.

New Orleans, La.—Thompson Chapel—Sister Angenetta Dowery departed this life a few days ago in the Christian faith. The deceased is the mother of Sister Dwight, matron of the Orphan Home at Baldwin, La. Revs. C. W. Reeves, J. A. Lindsay and Dr. J. F. Marshall, presiding elder, assisted the pastor in the services. Her remains were laid to rest in St. Roche Cemetery. Peace to her ashes.

D. M. SEALS, Pastor.

Morland, Ga.—Sister Jennie Stokes fell asleep in Jesus Feb. 14. She leaves a large family and a wide circle of friends. Sister Stokes was a mother, a neighbor, a friend and a power for good. Peace to her dust.

J. J. JONES.

Mills, Miss.—Sister Jennie Holdman departed this life Feb. 4 in peace, aged 26 years. She was a true and consistent member of Martin Grove M. E. Church. She leaves a husband, two children and a host of friends.

W. S. LEAKE, Pastor.

Grand Cane, La.—Sister Lala Gyse, aged 59 years, fell asleep in Jesus Feb. 10. She was loved by all who knew her. She leaves a husband, three sons, two daughters and a host of friends to mourn their loss. Bro. Aaron Oky died Jan. 6. "It was all right between he and Jesus." Age, 85 years.

D. Cobun, pastor, Meridian, Okla.—My First Quarterly Conference which convened February 11-12 was a very successful meeting. The presiding elder preached a good sermon and men and women all were inspired to do more for the cause. We have some lumber on the ground and money in treasury to begin building soon and ask your prayers.

Keep your blood clean as you keep your body clean. You don't wait until your body is foul before you cleanse it.

It is a matter of surprise that many people who are so careful to have clean bodies make no effort to keep the blood clean. Everyone knows that uncleanness breeds disease; that those who do not keep their bodies in a wholesome condition and who dwell in filthy surroundings are the first to fall when some epidemic of disease sweeps the country. But foul blood is more dangerous to the individual than a foul body. An unclean body is rather a passive than an active hindrance to health. But unclean blood is an active threat against the very life—it makes the body a prepared breeding place for disease.

It is part of Nature's plan for human safety that in many cases where the blood is impure or corrupt she sets a sign on the body in proof of the corrupt current that is flowing through the veins. Scrofula with its disfiguring sores and scars, eczema with its irritation, salt-rheum, tetter, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions are only the outward signs of the impurity of the blood. But often in the earlier or simpler stages of the blood's impurity there are no outward signs of this condition; only dull, languid, sluggish feelings, which are commonly attributed solely to the sluggishness of the liver.

Of all preparations for purifying the blood Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery easily takes the first place. It eliminates from the blood the elements which clog and corrupt it, and which breed and feed disease. It acts directly on the blood-making glands, increasing their activity, and so increasing the supply of rich, pure blood which is the life of the body.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

"La Creole" Hair Restorer contains the ingredients used by the most famous Creole beauties. It will restore gray hair to its original color, stop falling hair, cure dandruff, keep the hair clean, soft and glossy and will make curly or kinky hair lie straight and smooth for a long time.

MISS NANCY RICE.

Nothing Takes Its Place.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owing very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

Has Done Wonders.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians, and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly."

MR. LOUIS NEMORE.

If your dealer cannot supply you, we will send by prepaid express, to any station in the United States or Canada one bottle for $1.00; 6 bottles for $5.00.

Crescent City Notes

Rev. T. B. Cooper, our pastor at Hahnville, La., has been very ill since his return from Conference, but is now greatly improved. Also, his daughter, Miss Deborah, has been absent from school four weeks, owing to illness. She will be able to resume her studies in a few days.

Sunday services at Williams Chapel were greatly hindered on account of rain. Prayer meeting and Sunday school were held as usual. At 11 a. m. Brother R. J. Johnson preached and H. Parker at 3 p. m. Song service, under the management of Mr. J. Jefferson, was well attended. At 7:30 p. m. the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, preached. Two persons joined the church. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection for all purposes, $12.56.

On Sunday night, February 26, at Wesley Chapel Church, the anniversary sermon and installation of the Daughters and Sons of Conference will be preached by Rev. R. E. Jones, Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN. Rev. T. G. Johnson, pastor of Wesley Chapel. Next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the Wesley Chapel Sunday school will have their banner raised. They hope to have an enjoyable time. R. J. Nash is the superintendent.

A bill is introduced in Congress looking toward the increase of the President's salary from $50,000 a year to $100,000. And why not? The chief executive of our nation receives less than any of the heads of the large nations. The President of the French Republic, who has far less responsibility than the President of the United States, receives $120,000 a year. The Czar of Russia receives $12,000,000; the Sultan of Turkey, $7,750,000; the King of Great Britain, $2,600,000, and the King of so small a government as Roumania receives $237,000 a year.

The Board of Admirals appointed to investigate the North Sea incident has rendered its report, and very successfully does it straddle the fence. What was considered so grave an offense in the public mind as to give great concern, turns out to be, through the decision of the Commission of Admirals, a light affair. The Board holds that the Russian commander acted within the bounds of his rights in firing upon the supposed torpedo boats, while the fishing boats were entirely guiltless of any design on the Russian warships and were pursuing their peaceable avocation. Notwithstanding the Russian Admiral offered no assistance when he found that he was mistaken in his attack, no censure is offered, nor is there proposed any indemnity for the damage done the Hull fishing fleet. Verily, this is a good case of international white-washing.

On Sunday night the Stuyvesant Docks of this city, property of the Illinois Central Railway, were burned, there being an estimated loss of $4,000,000. The docks had a frontage of 4,750 feet and an area of 10 blocks. The grain elevators had an aggregate capacity of 250,000,000 bushels. In the fire, which swept all before it, besides the docks, 30 or 40 small dwellings were burned, 22,000 bales of cotton, 150 cars of cotton seed meal, 150 carloads of lumber, 12,000 barrels of sugar and 170 other cars, loaded with various cargo. Besides this, three fire engines of the city department were burned. It is estimated that on Monday of this week 100,000 people visited the scene.

Ten of the twenty-nine parishes of Louisiana, from a standpoint of prohibition, are "dry," while the parishes of Bienville, DeSoto and Red River have a minimum liquor license of $5,000.00 for each saloon; hence there is no saloon in any of the three parishes named, which makes practically thirteen "dry" parishes in the state. There are seven parishes that have a retail liquor license ranging from $1,000 to $2,000. The other nine parishes have a license ranging from $75, which is the amount levied in Assumption, to $750, the minimum tax in East Carroll. Ordinarily it would not be thought that Louisiana makes such favorable showing for prohibition, but it is nevertheless true. And in this regard Mississippi and Texas show up equally as well.

THE REVIVAL IMPULSE

The great religious awakening in Wales, in which more than 70,000 persons were converted, comes just at the time that it will give inspiration and courage to the evangelistic movement found in all parts of Christendom. It was a poor Welsh girl who, at a meeting in the village of Cardigan, gave the impetus that raised the revival spirit in Wales to flood-tide. In this meeting she arose and said, "If no one else will, then I must say that I love the Lord Jesus Christ with all my heart." The effect was instantaneous and tremendous. It shook the immediate congregation and indirectly stirred entire Wales. Just so! a great religious awakening cannot be mechanically worked up by brass bands, posters, tents, professional evangelists and other paraphernalia. It comes from within. Its greatest inspiration is that of burdened souls yearning for the conversion of Israel, and whose prayers continually reach the throne of God for the outpouring of His blessings. There is a certain kind of work, aggressive in character, that may be done by evangelists, but the great religious awakenings will come to our church when our membership here and there becomes burdened in soul, anxious in spirit, resting neither day nor night, praying for a general religious awakening. And as it has been unto Wales so may it be unto us.

TWO ADVANCE STEPS

On Friday evening of last week a young white woman was criminally assaulted in a violent and brutal manner in Jackson, Miss. The unfortunate victim of some dastardly brute was discovered a few hours later, whereupon the entire community was aroused. A search was instituted and circumstantial evidence led to the arrest of one Negro and then another; up to the present the guilt of neither has been established. It is not our purpose to discuss the crime per se, but we do heartily condemn in the most positive way such an atrocious encroachment upon womanhood wherever and by whosoever it is committed. We desire to make two observations: First, Governor Vardaman is making a record for himself in thwarting the purposes of the mob. He is dealing with the situation with a firm hand, protecting the lives of the suspects and saving the State and the South from reproach. When the mob spirit began to show itself he ordered the militia to be in readiness, which was supplied with sufficient ammunition. He offered a reward for the arrest of the guilty party, and at once issued a proclamation counseling order, "prudence and conservatism." "For only by that," said the Governor, "shall we be able to make a systematic and proper investigation. Nor can the wrong to the unfortunate young woman or the outrage to the community be redressed by the punishment of an innocent man." And thus the Governor adds another score to his record in the suppression of mob violence. Second: The attitude of the colored citizens in this instance is worthy of notice. Two public meetings were held by representative citizens in our Central Methodist Episcopal Church, presided over by Dr. S. D. Redmond, while Attorney S. A. Beadle acted as secretary. These citizens raised a reward of $250, which supplemented the reward of the Governor. They went further to condemn the crime, expressing regret that such should have happened and pledged their faithfulness in helping to ferret out the guilty party. And still another step they went in organizing a vigilant committee of twenty-five, composed of the best citizens, preachers, lawyers, doctors, merchants and other representative men. These in a body tendered their services to the Mayor. This is by no means the first time that colored men have been willing to arrest and bring to justice a criminal of their own race, but it is an incident worthy of notice. More such meetings will be held and more such committees will be appointed if there is the least evidence that when once a man is arrested the proper authorities will see to it that he has a fair and just trial.

THE RELIGIOUS EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

The Religious Education Association held its annual session recently in Boston. It was begun some three years ago under the leadership of the Council of Seventy of Chicago University. It is assuming a large scope of work, purposing as it does to direct the religious ideal of the many forces that look toward the Biblical education as well as the moral training of the people of this country. It purposes to put the religious stamp upon education, discarding obsolete methods. In the presentation of Biblical truths it seeks to introduce the advanced pedagogical methods. It may be that this organization is capable of much good. Certainly such an array of scholarship as appears on its program from time to time should challenge unbiased consideration. Thoughtful men ought at least to consider its program for religious education and look well before they refuse to accept that which may prove to be advanced and plausible methods in our religious education. It is to be regretted, however, that certain suspicions are cast over the organization. In some quarters it is feared that it is an attempt to bring under certain influences the entire religious life of Protestantism in this country. While some make no bone in asserting the fear that a certain non-conservative, extreme higher critic element enters too largely into the movement. Nevertheless, many good men, ripe in scholarship, pious in life, conservative in thinking, orthodox in belief, who are connected with this movement, may yet prove its utility. In an editorial upon the recent ses-

Samuel Coleridge-Taylor

By Mrs. Mary Church Terrell

Staid and conservative Englishmen who would not be accused by their bitterest enemy of indulging in fulsome flattery of anybody are declaring that Samuel Coleridge-Taylor is one of the greatest, if not the greatest composer whom Great Britain has ever produced. In originality and orchestration some say he is the equal, if not the superior, of Wagner. Be that as it may, it is a fact that this young man, who is not yet thirty years old, already stands on a pinnacle of fame which few can ever hope to reach.

The son of a full-blooded African, who was an eminent surgeon, and an English woman, this genius was born in London in the month of August, 1875. Like all other prodigies he gave unmistakable proof of his great gift, when he was a small child. As he himself says, he could read notes and play on the violin, before he knew the alphabet. Having won a scholarship in the Royal College of Music in London he pursued his course there and after a most brilliant career of four years graduated with high honor. He had not been studying long, before he wrote a composition for stringed instruments which was awarded a prize and which Dr. Standford, himself a noted composer and instructor in the Royal College of Music, considered of sufficient merit to render in public under his own direction. Before he was twenty-three, Coleridge-Taylor had written Hiawatha's Wedding Feast, the first part of the trilogy founded on Longfellow's poem which won him fame and which was produced with such brilliant effect in Washington a few days ago. In 1899 Minnehaha's Death, the second part of the trilogy, was rendered at the North Staffordshire Festival. The next year, Hiawatha's Departure, the last canto, was sung in London in Albert Hall by the Royal Choral Society, the premier musical organization of England and one of the most noted in the world. About one year ago this same society rendered Hiawatha for the fifth time under the most brilliant circumstances imaginable. Heading the list of persons was the king. Then the cantata was sung by 1,000 voices accompanied by an orchestra in which there were 150 instruments, at least. Next January the Royal Choral Society will sing Hiawatha for the sixth time, which establishes a record in this regard. Certainly the work of no other living composer has ever been rendered consecutively by this great musical organization so many times. Although the canto of Hiawatha is only four years old, it has already been sung in England more than two thousand times. It has also been rendered by some of the best choral societies in the United States, notably in St. Louis, Des Moines, Cleveland, Boston, Hartford, and elsewhere.

Concerning the orchestration of Hiawatha, which is as rich in variety as it is in harmony, musicians speak in the greatest admiration and unreserved praise. Although the music of this cantata lacks neither science nor scholarship, it is so simple, natural and unaffected that everybody whose souls can be moved by the concourse of sweet sounds can appreciate and enjoy it thoroughly. It would be difficult to find a better illustration of the musician's power to fit the music to the words than that afforded by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor in Hiawatha. In the Wedding Feast the bars describing Iagoo, the marvellous story-teller, are as perfect a portrait of a human being as music can possibly paint. When the chorus sings—

"None could run as fast as he could, None could dive as deep as he could,"

the humor and fun are so irresistible that one cannot repress a smile. We can almost see the handsome Pau Puk Keewis, as he begins his mystic dance, first "very slow in step and gesture," and then "more swiftly and still swifter, whirling, spinning round in circles." The tenor solo, "Onaway, Awake, Beloved," is one of the daintiest, dreamiest little love songs imaginable. Although Mr. Coleridge-Taylor can write music full of mirth and spirit and swing, he is strongest, when he describes the tragedies and passions of the human heart. In the prelude to the canto on Minnehaha's death the three chords in particular, which stir the soul to its very depths, Hiawatha's prayer for food, Minnehaha's dying song and Nokomis' lament are so thrilling and heart-breaking that few can listen to them with dry eyes. The burial of Minnehaha is as mournful a dirge as ever wailed forth the anguish of a broken heart. One would be obliged to search a long time before he could find music which describes more accurately and pathetically than this the utter desolation and poignant grief that are felt, when a loved one is laid in the cold ground and left there alone.

MR. SAMUEL COLERIDGE-TAYLOR

Altogether Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has composed fifty works, the greatest of which in his own opinion is his Atonement. In talking with him about his compositions one day, he said, "If you wish to know which work of mine I consider the most original and best, it is the Atonement. I think the people who heard it at the Albert Hall, when it was sung by the Royal Choral Society on Ash Wednesday last, were touched more deeply by it than they were by Hiawatha, in spite of many stupid newspaper critics. And I have had more kind things said about it than about most things. Of course it will never be so popular as Hiawatha, but popularity is far from being everything."

The Atonement was sung for the first time in the United States last February in St. Thomas's Church, one of the oldest and wealthiest churches in New York. On a list of the sustaining members of the society which rendered it were enrolled the names of such men as Andrew Carnegie, J. Pierpont Morgan, Bishop Potter and others of equal prominence.

When Coleridge-Taylor visited the White House and President Roosevelt saw him for the first time, he is said to have exclaimed in surprise, "Why, you are only a boy." That is precisely the impression the great composer makes upon everybody who meets him. Although he is twenty-nine, he looks like a boy in his teens. One cannot talk with him long, however, without discovering that his mental faculties are mature and his fund of information great. A more modest and unassuming man than Coleridge-Taylor it would be exceedingly hard to find. And he is as affable and kindly of manner as he is modest. One thing he will not do, however; he says he will not, because he cannot. He absolutely refuses to make a speech on any occasion for anybody about anything. In reply to a speech made by a young girl in the colored high school of Washington, D. C., who presented him with a beautiful, silver-tipped baton made from the wood of a tree which grew upon the illustrious Frederick Douglas's estate, he said: "I tried to make a speech in England once at eight o'clock in the evening. When I was half way through with it, I broke down. And so, it would be utterly impossible for me to make a speech at ten o'clock in the morning." Then he sat down. Something occurred a short while after that, which made him burst forth into speech, in spite of himself. The 500 pupils in the colored high school sang half a dozen choruses, which pleased him so much that he could not refrain from complimenting them and their director, Miss Harriette Gibbs. "I am delighted with your singing," he said. "I am sure one could not hear such singing from pupils of your age in all England."

In appearance Mr. Coleridge-Taylor resembles his African father rather than his English mother, for his complexion is brown and there is a decided curl to his hair. His features are fine, however, and his countenance is very pleasing indeed. In stature he is medium and is a bit thin.

If the Coleridge-Taylor concerts given in Washington proved one thing more than another, it is that there is no musical Parnassus too lofty or too steep for colored people to scale. By some it has been established as an axiom that the colored man's musical ability is limited to his skill in rattling bones, picking the banjo and twanging the guitar. But Coleridge-Taylor's marvellous achievements prove beyond a doubt that the colored man's ability has been greatly underestimated.

In decreeing that this genius should be born in England, the fates that spun the threads of Coleridge-Taylor's life were very kind indeed. In Great Britain his color constitutes no barrier to success. Since his genius first revealed itself to the musicians of his native land, he has had the same encouragement and incentive to develop his talents and press toward the highest possible mark that a white man under similar circumstances would have had. Since his first great composition was produced at the North Staffordshire Festival five years ago, he has been invited to contribute something to every succeeding event of the kind. And he has accepted the invitation.

Just before Coleridge-Taylor left England for America he was elected by an overwhelming majority conductor of the Handel Society, which next to the Royal Choral Society, is the oldest, wealthiest and most important musical organization in England. Naturally there were many musicians with years of service to their credit and of pure, unadulterated English extraction who aspired to this great honor. The fact that this coveted and important position was given to a man, who is hardly more than a youth and who is half African, at that, speaks volumes for his genius and the confidence in his ability which the English musicians repose.

Coleridge-Taylor is not thirty years old, as has been said, and yet he has undoubtedly written works which will be immortal. His future, therefore, is very bright indeed. What may we not expect him to contribute to his art in years that are to come?—In The Voice of the Negro.

A Trip South

What a pleasure railroad-riding in this country s become to what it was twenty-five years ago! the days of old the tracks were rough, and the aches were of an inferior quality, but now one n almost have all the conveniences of home life hile he is riding on the train. The Pullman aches are not only models of workmanship but ey are also palaces of comfort. Splendid by y and equally delightful by night. On our rough trains now are to be found dining-cars here meals are served equal, if not superior, to ose of the first-class hotels of our best cities. s a result a journey of a thousand miles now can e taken with great ease as well as dispatch.

Leaving Cincinnati on the Queen & Crescent e took our journey to the Southland to repre- nt the Methodist Book Concern at the confer- nces meeting in Mississippi and Louisiana. Our rst was the Upper Mississippi Conference which et this year at Columbus, Miss. When we eached the conference we found it well organ- ed with Bishop Spellmeyer in the chair, presid- g for the first time over a colored conference. he business was dispatched with the usual regu- rity of a Methodist conference and the work ing done we went to the other conferences. oing to Natchez for the Mississippi conference, Monroe, La., for the Louisiana conference, and ck to Gloster, Miss., for the Gulf conference. he first three of these conferences are among r colored people, while the last is our white nference having for its territory the states of ississippi and Louisiana and a part of Texas.

The work among our colored people is progressing finely and the conferences are improving each year. Our preachers are said to be the best in every respect among the colored people throughout the South. This is the verdict of the preachers and people of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, as well as the conviction of the people of other Negro religious bodies. Many of these preachers are graduates of our Freedman's Aid schools, while some of them have taken a theological course at Gammon School of Theology. These men, in the very nature of the case, are coming to the front. Of course there is some opposition, but everybody knows, all things being equal, that the well-educated man must in time come to the front. The great difficulty in the matter is that as a rule they are not willing to bide their time until circumstances bring them to the front where they properly belong.

Our benevolent societies now are well manned among our colored people. Rev. G. G. Logan, a young man of splendid ability, has charge of the work of the Missionary Society. His addresses are inspiring to his people and the missionary collections are increasing as the result of his presence among his people. Dr. Mason, always a favorite in the South as well as the North, ably represents our Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society among his own people. Dr. Thomas, recently appointed Field Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, is attending to his job and perhaps is really enjoying it now more than he will by and by when he finds out that most of the time his wife is a widow by reason of his absence from home attending to his work. Rev. E. M. Jones has taken up the work of the Sunday School Union with vigor and is pushing it to success. Dr. Wragg in his philosophical way holds fast to the American Bible Society and the collections for that worthy cause are increasing from year to year. While I. Garland Penn, Esq., a splendid combination of a Book Concern man and an Epworth League Secretary, is chief among ten thousand in his own country and among his own people. And what shall we say of the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN? Well, if the circulation is not increased by his earnest addresses and hard work it seems to us that there is not much use of anybody else going into the field. We had the privilege of listening to these men at all these conferences and their addresses are on a par with the addresses we hear in the North among our own people.

A visit to several of our institutions of learning during our trip South increased our admiration and love for the work of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. With all these agencies at work among the colored people in the South, and with the evangelistic spirit of our Methodism among the preachers, there is great hope for the colored people of this land. But, Mr. Editor, I fear this article is already too long, so I will cease further trespassing on the time of your readers.

D. L. AULTMAN.

Well-being is the only true wealth.

Gulf Conference

At Gloster, Miss., February 2nd, Bishop Henry ellmeyer presiding, the Gulf Conference open- its second annual session. It was the thirteenth nual meeting. Four years we met as a mission, ven years as a mission conference, and now ice as an annual conference. The weather, usual at this time of the year, was bad. On nday the storm of sleet and rain all but de- rred having any services at all. By majority one, Rev. F. F. Fitch was elected secretary; v. N. H. Oliver was elected treasurer; Rev. C. Mann was made statistical secretary.

Dr. E. S. Dunham, of Delaware, Ohio, held ntecostal services twice daily. These ser- es were very fruitful. The doctor won the arts of all the people who heard him. Rev. Lee Aultman, of Cincinnati, represented the ok Concern and the Freedmen's Aid. Mrs. D. Vennard, of St. Louis, Mo., principal of Epworth Evangelistic Institute, represented he Deaconesses' work. Her presence through- the Conference was an inspiration. Camp niel took occasion of her presence to se- e her services at their annual camp-meeting t August. Dr. McAdam, of Fort Worth Uni- sity, was on the ground presenting the inter- of the university of which he is the head. o in the interest of education, President J. Beeson, of Meridian Female College, and A. M. Beeson, President of the Male College, of Meridian, were present.

he Bishop by his kindly spirit, thoroughness real desire to be of help to the brethren made ideal presiding officer. The brethren learned love him. One thing noticeable was his announcement at the first session that he desired to expedite business, but that he was determined that on the last day of the Conference there should be no haste. "We will take time, brethren," said he, "to finish the business in good order."

The reports from the three presiding elders showed very substantial growth all through the Conference. In the matter of missions, the Conference has made a very enviable record. In the last three years the collections have gone from a few hundreds up into the thousands. Last year there had been an increase of some two hundred per cent., and this year there was a substantial gain over that. Dr. E. B. Caldwell, of the Missionary Society, by his presence in the Conference has done much toward bringing this about.

The report from the New Orleans District showed that in the last four years and a half, during which time we have been in Mississippi, that the increase on all money put into the Mississippi work had been over four hundred per cent., to say nothing of the more than four hundred members that we have there now.

On the Lake Charles District, a school has been started at Bell City. The intention is for it to become a college, and the outlook is good.

The Marshall District showed substantial gain all along the line, under the leadership of the new and young presiding elder, H. H. McCain.

As usual, all the reports showed good, healthy spiritual life, because of the revival spirit throughout the entire Conference. There are several camp-meetings within the bounds of the Conference. The Wesleyan standard of spiritual life, conversion for the sinner, a reclamation of back-sliders, and the sanctification of believers is held by this Conference. There is no fanaticism, wild-fire or come-out spirit among our brethren or people. To the core they are loyal to our Methodism, and believe in the old church of Asbury, Simpson, and the fathers of to-day.

The next session of the Conference is to be held at Welsh, La. If you want a time of spiritual refreshing, come over. We will give you the time later, as a resolution was adopted in the Conference unanimously asking for the time of our Conference to be changed to not later than December.

W. R. CHASE.

There are vast varieties of ministering for ministering spirits. The work of the social settlement is divine; but the poet and the painter, if they produce poems and paintings, cannot devote their time to its work. And the poems and pictures have their value, as well as service in giving food and clothing to those in need. The special gift does require special conditions, and it is not selfish to insist on those conditions, when the special work is held as unto the Lord. It often requires more heroism, more faith, more love, to deny than to accede to a given request. To yield is often easy; to be steadfast to one's own purpose, shining like a star upon the horizon, is not infrequently very difficult.—Lilian Whiting, in "The Life Radiant."

The Christian Life

Tell the God

Had I the gift of tongues, a Shakespeare's pen,
A seraph's voice to make heav'n ring again,
I could not tell the good I've found in men;
Their kind deeds have been numberless, yet still
I find myself sometimes recounting ill!

Had I the harp of Orpheus, a command
Of all the languages men understand,
The kind acts that I see on every hand
I could not even catalogue, yet still,
Sometimes, forgetting this, I name the ill!

A thousand thoughts come flocking to my mind
Out of the misty past that lies behind,
Recalling human kindness, yet so blind
Sometimes are human eyes I murmur still,
Forgetting good, rememb'ring only ill!

The heav'n I hope for is a lightsome place
Where smiles aye cling to every angel face;
Where, through eternity—and endless space—
Ten million tongues shall ne'er be still,
Always recounting good, forgetting ill!

The Golden Rule in Little Kindnesses

"Thank you so much," said one friend gratefully to another, in acknowledgment of very trifling favors.

"Don't speak of them," was the reply. "They are all such little bits of things."

"But sometimes the little things are much easier and pleasanter to take than great favors," persisted the appreciative friend.

Upon reflection the hearer was much impressed with the discriminating truth of the passing word. Is it not true, indeed? We all "just love" to do big favors, of course. We may really take delight in putting ourselves out to any extent to serve another or bestow a gift; but would we enjoy having others make a sacrifice or suffer a positive inconvenience for us? Here is where the Golden Rule has its fine and delicate application. There may be alloy of selfishness in the gold of our giving. Is it not more unselfish and kindly to please our friends in the way they choose and like best, rather than to insist upon our own way, though it may give us actual gratification? Measureless love, tact, and even self-renunciation, enter into the bestowal of kindnesses.

"You understand exactly what I like," said one who had received from another a simple gift of growing plants, instead of a more lavish gift which would have been gladly offered as a measure of love. But the giver knew how the sensitive receiver shrank from elaborate bestowals, and that if the receiver were to be the giver, she ought to give a trifle, too, in order to keep the golden rule.

If it is easier to take little kindnesses than large ones—since it requires great love indeed to receive without the burden of obligation, then let us be encouraged to do the little wayside deeds of love that cannot jar in the taking because they are so small. Yet are they very dear. "Pansies for thoughts" and roses for love may be sweeter than hothouse orchids.—Julia H. Johnston.

Forgetfulness of Self

Eagerness to help others often springs only from human generosity and a refinement of self-love, and that very same eager self-love would easily turn to vexation and despair. True charity is simple and equable as regards one's neighbor, because it is humble and free from self-seeking. Whatever does not spring from this pure love needs the knife of circumcision.

It is the circumcision of the heart which makes us children and inheritors of Abraham's faith, ready, like him, to go from out our native home, not knowing whither. Truly it is a grand lot to leave all, and abandon one's self to the jealous love of God, which is the circumcising knife! Our own hand always stops short in superficial prunings. Self-love stays the hand and spares us; it will not cut down into the very quick for itself. Moreover, there is always a choice, and an exercise of self-love in that choice, which deadens the blow. But when God's hand is lifted it deals unexpected blows; it knows precisely where to hit the joints so as to sunder the soul from self; it searches all things. Then self-love becomes the patient, and we must let it cry out. The great thing is not to stir beneath God's hand, for fear of hindering His work; we must abide motionless under the knife. Bear your own weakness and God's blows patiently. * * *

I always love to dwell on St. John's forgetfulness of himself for Jesus Christ's sake; he pointed to him; he was but the voice announcing him; he sent all his disciples to Him; and, therein, with his lonely, ascetic life, he was the greatest among the children of men. Forget yourself, and you will be a St. John in the desert.—"Fenelon's Letters."

At Sunset

It isn't the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you've left undone,
Which gives you a bitter heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flower you might have sent, dear,
Are your haunting ghosts to-night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way,
The bit of hearthsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say.
The loving touch of the hand, dear,
The gentle and winsome tone,
That you had no time or thought for
With troubles enough of your own.

The little act of kindness,
So easily out of mind;
Those chances to be angels,
Which every mortal finds—
They come in night and silence,
Each chill, reproachful wraith,
When hope is faint and flagging
And a blight has dropped on faith.

For life is all too short, dear,
And sorrow is all too great,
To suffer our slow compassion
To tarry until too late.
And it's not the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you've left undone
Which gives you the bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.

Showing Ourselve Friendly

Now, I think it would not be unfair to say that the people who groan and complain about the lack of social life in a church are, as a general rule, the people who have the least right to complain, because they are just the people who contribute least toward it. I have known not a few good men and women who will attend the Sunday services of a church, sit as near the doo possible, hurry out when the benediction is p nounced, exchange no word or salutation wi single soul, never show themselves at any of less formal and more homely meetings of church, and then, having thus done everyth they could to prevent the approaches of k hearts, speak in bitter terms about the coldn and stiffness of the people. It is too often f gotten that with what measure we mete, i measured to us again; and even a church is a li like the echo-bird, which sends back to us tones we utter or the chill silence which we out to it. If we desire friends, we must show o selves friendly. It is quite right that in co ship, the love-making should be all on one sid at the beginning, at least; but that rule is har applicable to a church. If we expect all brethren and sisters to be effusive towards while we are constantly coy and distant, i distinctly unreasonable, and the most gener Christian souls soon tire of that game. Th must be a little of give and take on both sides there is to be anything like geniality warmth.—Rev. J. G. Greenhough.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—John 3: 16. Theme—God's love for world.

God's love is broader than the measure man's mind, deeper than the thought of ang and higher than the imagination of archan cherubim and seraphim.

God's love is fathomless in depth, measur in breadth, and incomprehensibly great height. To fathom His love, one would hav go back far beyond the beginning of things terial, where infinity in its boundless eternity its unknown, inexpressible beginning. To un take successfully to measure God's love one m know more fully the mind of God than God H self has undertaken to make known to any of creatures. To fully comprehend God's love must know His essential being, which is an possibility. "For who hath known the mind the Lord, or who hath been His counsellor?"

In the text God tells us a little of the deep m tery of the hoary ages in the unexplored, p eternity. God tells how He was moved in te compassion for man before man had any be when as yet no seraph had clapped his wings fire, or angel in ecstatic joy shouted the prais Him that sitteth upon the throne; when countless worlds were as yet deeply hidden in thought of Himself, and the assembly of morning stars and the sons of God had not b held; yet He so loved the world of mankind t He was willing to give His only begotten S to all who should believe on Him in the fu ages, when He would create the world and p man on it. The text declares: 1. That God lo man before He made him. 2. That the gift Christ to the world was the result of God's l 3. That the death of Christ was necessary to s man from perishing. 4. That faith in Ch Jesus saves from death. 5. That Jesus died all mankind, in all ages of the world. 6. T salvation in Christ is limited only by unbeli man.

Thoughts of Gold: The love of God for is practical and magnanimous; is a missio salvation to all who are in prison under the s tence of death; is for the worst of sinners, as hate Him and have forsaken Him.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Before it is Too Late

If you have a gray-haired mother
In the old home far away,
Sit down and write the letter
You put off day by day.
Don't wait until her tired steps
Reach heaven's pearly gate,
But show her that you think of her
Before it is too late.

If you've a tender message,
Or a loving word to say,
Don't wait till you forget it,
But whisper it to-day.
Who knows what bitter memories
May haunt you if you wait?
So make your loved ones happy
Before it is too late.

We live but in the present,
The future is unknown;
To-morrow is a mystery,
To-day is all our own.
The chance that fortune leads to us
May vanish while we wait,
So spend your life's rich pleasure
Before it is too late.

The tender word unspoken,
The letters never sent,
The long-forgotten messages,
The wealth of love unspent,
For these some hearts are breaking,
For these some loved ones wait;
So show them that you care for them
Before it is too late.

A Boy's Remarkable Dream

I read of a boy who had a remarkable dream. He ought that the richest man in town came to him d said: "I am tired of my house and grounds; me and take of them, and I will give them to you." hen came an honored judge and said: "I want you take my place; I am weary of going to court day ter day; I will give you my seat on the bench if u will do my work." Then the doctor proposed at he take his extensive practice, and let him rest, d so on. At last, up shambled old Tommy, and id: "I'm wanted to fill a drunkard's grave. I ve come to see if you will take my place in these blic houses and on the streets."

This is a dream which is not all a dream. For very boy in this land to-day, who lives to grow up, me position is waiting, as surely as if rich man, dge, doctor, or drunkard stood ready to hand over s place at once. Which will you choose, boys? There e pulpits to be filled by God-fearing ministers, and ousands of other honorable places; but there are so prison cells and drunkard's graves. Which do u choose?—Selected.

"I Cant Afford to Go"

By Caroline A. Watters.

"Will you go with me to the theatre, John?" sked Frank. "There is a stirring play on the oards to-night," he added, noting the grave look n his friend's face.

"No, thank you, Frank," answered John. "I eally can't afford to attend the theatre."

Frank stared at his companion in surprise. The wo young men were employed in the same busiess house, and Frank knew that John was in reipt of a salary greatly in advance of his own.

"Can't afford to!" he repeated. "You're not eginning the miser-act so early, Jack, I hope."

"No, it isn't that," answered John with quiet ignity. "This is prayer-meeting night, you know, and I never allow anything to interfere with that. And, besides, I'm not a theatre-goer; and I don't believe I care to become one." The speaker's voice was deep and earnest as he continued:

"I am trying to make progress in the spiritual life, Frank, and I can't afford to do anything that might be a barrier in my way."

The words stirred Frank's conscience, but he refused to listen.

"Nonsense, Jack!" he exclaimed. "You can't make a hermit of yourself. I'm a Christian, too, but I don't see any harm in a good play now and then. Come along, like a sensible fellow."

And he continued to reason with his friend; but all to no purpose. John remained firm; and Frank finally left him, quite out of patience with what he called "ridiculous notions."

But were they such "ridiculous notions?" What does St. Paul say about "laying aside every weight," and "running the race set before us?" Have you ever met any one whom the theatre has made more prayerful, or more spiritiual minded? Have you discovered that the practice of theatre-going fosters devotion to Bible study, or love for the services of the church? Does it not rather tend to draw away the mind from religious duties?

If all this is true, then what right has a Christian to indulge in this amusement? Can we afford to lose any of our spiritual vitality? Can we afford to carry weights—Epworth Herald.

The Boy Who is Faithful

BY ALICE MAY DOUGLAS.

It is all right to be smart, but it is all wrong to be smart in the wrong way. I have seen boys who think that they are smart in ordering others around and boasting of what they are to do. If I had any work to be done I'd never hire a lad like that to do it.

It is true that our employers are in need of smart boys and ever on the outlook for them; but there are thousands of positions where boys of only ordinary ability are wanted. Boys that are too smart are often not desired, since they too often want to dictate and cannot be dictated to; they try to run the business to suit not their employers, but themselves.

There is a greater demand for faithful boys than for smart boys. There is nothing that one more appreciates in one under him than faithfulness. I once heard a gentleman say that he asked a friend why he paid his secretary such a very large salary when he could secure one for a much smaller sum. He replied that he could secure one for a less amount, but not one who would do the work as did this one. "When I am gone," said the friend, "everything goes on just as if I were here." Now if this secretary had been smart, rather than faithful, his employer might not have been able to say of him what he did. He might have been obliged to have said, "I can't leave him, for when I'm gone he tries to run matters to suit himself and to improve upon my methods, and it is not a partner that I want, but a secretary."

Where one succeeds because of his smartness, ten succeed because of their faithfulness.

And not at the boy's faithfulness alone does a would-be employer look; he desires a boy who is an all-around moral boy. He knows that it is of no use to hire one who smokes cigarettes, for these muddle the brain, cause heart trouble and kill the smoker at so early an age that he will be obliged to soon secure another lad. Nor does he care for a boy who gambles, for his funds would be too handy for such and the temptation to borrow them too great. Nor does the employer desire a boy who drinks intoxicants even in the slightest degree, for he thinks there will be a possibility of his making a mistake.

It may be that the man who is thus critical indulges himself in all of these vices, but he wants the boy he employs to be free from them. He knows more than any other to what they will lead, and it is probable that a boy who is inclined to them would obtain a position with a good man rather than from a man like this, for a good man would think that he might assist the lad to give up his evil ways.—The American Boy.

Pleasant Persons

It is a grand gift to be able to smile as the pleasant man or woman smiles. It is not the stereotyped "duty smile" of society, it is not the patronizing smile of careless tolerance, or the painful smile of bored politeness.

Whatever adds even in the smallest way to the world's brightness and cheer is worth while. One who says an encouraging word to a disheartened neighbor, gives a look of love to a lonely one, or speaks a sentence which may become strength, guidance and comfort to another does something worth while. It is always worth while to live nobly, victoriously, struggling to do right, showing the world even the smallest fragments of divine beauty.—Northwestern Advocate.

Sorrow is apt to be selfish. The soul, occupied with its own griefs, and refusing to be comforted, becomes presently a Dead Sea, full of brine and salt, over which birds do not fly, and beside which no green thing grows. And thus we miss the very lesson that God would teach us. His constant war is against the self-life, and every pain He inflicts is to lessen its hold on us.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

We must measure life by its fruits, and not by its weeds, writes Dr. Peloubet. An acre of desert has fewer weeds than any acre of the most fruitful garden in the whole land; but it is the garden that bears the fruit. It is not always easy to decide exactly what the fruits are. One bad apple on the tree does not prove the tree bad, but the plant that produces thistles we know is not an apple tree. One caterpillar's nest in a tree does not prove that the tree is not good at heart.

Then there is a difference in time as to when the fruit appears. In some trees it appears early in life, in others after long years. Moreover, the green fruit is very different from the same when ripe. It is the same with moral fruits. We must wait until they are ripe before we can fully judge. It sometimes takes years before we see the results of certain teachings. Most good people are like grafted trees, where some branches are not grafted, and it takes time to get rid of them.—Herald and Presbyter.

He who does a good deed is instantly ennobled. He who does a mean deed is by the action itself contracted. He who puts off impurity thereby puts on purity.—Emerson.

Have you ever had your day suddenly turned sunshiny because of a cheerful word? Have you ever wondered if this could be the same world, because some one had been unexpectedly kind to you? You can make to-day the same for somebody. It is only a question of a little imagination, a little time and trouble. Think now, "What can I do to-day to make some one happy?"—Maltbie D. Babcock.

Lesson XI—March 12, 1908. Title—"The Slavery of Sin." nacles" (John 8: 31-40.) Golden Text—"Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin." (John 8: 34.)

After delivering the discourse of our last lesson Jesus went into Mt. Olivet, and probably spent the night in Bethany, in the home of Martha, Mary and Lazarus. Early the next morning He came again into the temple. The people gathered about Him. He sat down and taught them. This is His third discourse during this feast of Tabernacles. It was no doubt the design of our Lord to speak of Himself as the Light of the world, but the Jews interrupted Him. No less than seven such interferences occur in this discourse. They give it a variety of unexpected turns, and change to a great extent its entire train. (1) Jesus asserts His own and His Father's testimony. 14-19. (2) He shows the fatal effect of rejecting him. 20-24. (3) He gives the sure evidence of His testimony. 25-29. (4) The promise of freedom to them who believe in Him. 30-32. (5) The corporeal seed of Abraham. 33-40. (6) Children, not of God, but of Satan. 41-47. (7) Jesus greater than Abraham. 48-58.

I. Those whom the truth makes free (30-36). 1. The servants of sin. Sin is the transgression of the law, the omission of duty, and the inclination of the heart to evil. It first exists in man as a depraved nature, then it is seen in vicious habits, and finally as a loathsome disease. It is active and leads to that which is wrong, passive and prevents that which is right, inbred and inclines the heart to evil and that continually. To be the servant of sin is to have it reign over us, rule in us, and work through us to advance its own cause. It is to make in the master and ourself the slave. Sin proceeds from Satan who is a lying, thieving, murdering master. He is governed by raging passions, insatiable appetites, and vicious habits. The slave to such a master deserves our pity, sympathy, and active efforts to free him. The slave has not the rights or privileges of a son; he may be punished, banished or sold. Every one whom the Son does not make free will be banished from the house of the Lord forever.

2. Hearing and investigating the words of Jesus. Our Lord had been teaching in the temple, and elsewhere, for three or four days. He had affirmed that He was the Light of the world, had showed the fatal effect of rejecting Him, and had promised mercy to those who trusted in Him. Many went to the temple and listened to His discourses with reverent attention. We should go to the place where the gospel is preached, and give profound attention to it. We cannot escape responsibility by staying away from church. We should not go to be entertained, or to be edified merely, but to worship God. We should not hear the words of Jesus with foregone conclusions as these Jews were doing. They had their fixed conviction of religious duties, believed they were right, and were too wise to be taught. They could not overturn the words of Jesus, hence they labored to turn them aside. "Take heed how you hear," said Jesus. We may be wayside hearers, stony ground hearers, thorny ground hearers, or good ground hearers. We should investigate the dcotrines of the gospel, reach the wisest conclusions, and act upon them.

3. Knowing the words of Jesus. They should be known historically. We should study them until we are familiar with every act of our Lord's life. Yet this knowledge is not sufficient. Satan is very familiar with the Bible, and many wicked men can quote Scripture. Something more than an external knowledge of the Bible is essential to salvation. We should have an experimental knowledge of the words of Jesus. We can realize in the soul their truthfulness. The letter of God's word kills, but the Spirit gives life. The law, that knows no mercy, demands more than man in his fallen state can perform. But the Spirit, which brings life from above, enables him to keep the law. The witness of the Spirit is sometimes direct as "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God." (Rom. 8: 16.) At other times it is indirect and fills the soul with "love, joy, peace," etc. (Gal. 5: 22.)

4. One result of the words of Jesus is freedom: "The truth shall make you free." The gospel does not bring despotic freedom; this belongs to the ruler whose might makes right. But it does bring Christian freedom, that is, a freedom restrained by law. Freedom from a depraved nature: it does not destroy depravity, but subjects it to reason, conscience, and will. It is freedom from the desire to neglect Christian duties. Freedom from vicious habits. It gives the drunkard power over the appetite for strong drink. It enables the profane man to quit swearing. It removes from the murderer his revengeful spirit. It helps children honor, respect and obey their parents. And it prevents the slandered from gadding about circulating evil reports. We should continue in the words of Jesus. The Christian life is a warfare to be waged. Eph. 6: 10-17; a race to be run, Heb. 12: 1; and a character to be built, 2 Pet. 1: 5-7.

II. The children of Abraham (37-40). The covenant made with Abraham was two-fold. He was promised the land of Canaan, which was to the Jews a type of heaven, "that better country" (Heb. 11: 16). He was promised a large posterity: his descendents were to become as the stars of heaven, or the sands of the sea—innumerable. This posterity was a figure of all true believers in the Christ (Gal. 3: 7). He was also promised the Messiah, for through him all the families of the earth were to be blessed. (Gal. 3: 16.)

The Jews were exceedingly proud of the fact that they were Abraham's corporeal descendents. The dignity of freemen shown on the brow of every one who bore the name of a child of Abraham. The Jerusalem Talmud taught that "all Israel were children of kings." They said that as "children of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, not even Solomon's feasts could be too good for them." The position of any bond-slave, to a Jew has always been very repugnant. It is exceedingly difficult to find a satisfactory Jewish servant. To serve a Gentile is reckoned by them to be very humiliating.

If they had been the spiritual descendents of Abraham, they would have believed in Jesus as the promised Messiah, and their faith would have been counted, or set to their account, for righteousness, as His was to him. But instead of trusting in Jesus for life they sought to kill Him, not because He had done wrong but because their own hearts were wicked.

A brave and clear sighted faith will look on difficulties as divine calls and opportunities; as challenges to soberness, thoughtfulness, and divine enterprise.—Rev. C. G. Ames.

Christ the Great Physician.

of the true Messiah could there be than the gr
Jesus in the synagague of Nazareth read a po tion of the prophecy of Isaiah, and declared that was fulfilled in Himself. What better evidenc of the true Messiah could there be than the gra cious words He spoke, the cures He wrought, th suffering He relieved, the words of healing an comfort He performed, the spirit He manifested—yea, the life he lived? It was He who was preach ing the Gospel to the poor, healing broken hearts opening blinded eyes, breaking the prisoner's fe ters and setting at liberty captives. He not onl ministered unto those who needed Him, but als to those who needed Him most. He is the Grea Physician, seeking and serving those who ar sick.

CURING BODILY ILLS.—Jesus while on the earth healed all manner of diseases. He relieved me of physical ailments, setting their bodies free
He is still working a healthy and helpful influ ence upon the physical condition of men. His Spirit in the community establishes and main tains hospitals and dispensaries for the relie of disease and suffering, and supports sanitar science and improved hygienic conditions.

Jesus is the Savior of the body as well as th soul. The practice of the principles which He taught and of which He was the embodiment produces healthy conditions and prevents dis sipation and vice, the generators of disease and crime. Obedience to Him will go far to rid th earth of physical ills.

CURE OF SOCIAL EVILS.—Jesus never joined i any discussion of how to reach the masses, o what to do to save the submerged tenth, or wha to do to bring about better social conditions. He came into personal contact with the masses. He made them feel He was their own brother. None was too low for Him to reach and come to their level. He ate with publicans and sinners. He preached the Gospel to the poor. He raised the standard of brotherly love and inculcated the principles which permeating society means the righting of all wrongs, the leveling up of all classes. Jesus is the only physician that has the panacea for all society's ills. Whether they are acute or chronic, whether they are produced by the "greed, selfishness and oppression" of the rich, or by "the violence, strife and lawlessnes" of the poor; whether they grow out of municipal misrule, crowded tenement houses, race-preju dice or social vice, Christ offers His never-fail ing remedy—the Gospel of love.

CURE OF THE SOUL'S DISEASE.—Sin, the soul's disease, is the worst of all. There have been many specifics tried, but none could bring the soul salvation. Jesus alone has provided the remedy. "He was wounded for our transgres sions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed." No case is too hard for Him. He can heal all who come to Him. He can illumine the understanding strengthen the will and purify the affections.
The Gospel of Jesus Christ is not meant exclu sively for respectable church-going folks, but there is no den in the vilest portion of the large city in which Jesus cannot work, "there is no loathsome haunt of sin too foul for him to cleanse." With such abundant provision for sal vation, with such a Savior ever ready, ever near, what hustling workers we ought to be. Every where we should go singing:

"The Great Physician now is near,
The sympathizing Jesus;
He speaks the drooping heart to cheer,
O, hear the voice of Jesus

REPORT OF BOOK COMMITTEE MEETING.

The annual session of the Book Committee was held at New York, February 8-13, 1905. The following members were present: A. T. Cass, C. S. Wing, C. C. Wilbor, A. S. Mowbray, W. F. Whitlock, J. A. Patten, W. H. Logan, Hanford Crawford, O. P. Miller, C. E. Bacon, J. E. Farmer, E. B. Tuttle, J. E. Andrus, J. W. Pearsall, Richard Dymond, J. N. Gamble. Temporary illness detained R. T. Miller, H. A. Salzer and J. F. Harmon. R. V. Watt was absent in Europe. The following General Conference officers were present at some time during the session: Publishing Agents Homer Eaton, G. P. Mains, H. C. Jennings, and E. R. Graham; Editors W. V. Kelley, J. M. Buckley, J. T. McFarland, C. W. Smith, Levi Gilbert, D. D. Thompson, C. B. Spencer, D. L. Rader, S. J. Herben, F. D. Bovard, R. J. Cooke; Secretaries W. F. Anderson, E. M. Randall; Bishops W. F. Mallalieu, C. H. Fowler, J. F. Berry and Henry Spellmeyer.

The duties of the Book Committee are not small. It has supervision of all the publishing interests of the Church, elects the Book Editor, fills vacancies that may occur in the editorial staff, establishes or discontinues depositories, fixes the salaries of the Bishops and General Conference officers not otherwise provided for, and makes apportionment to the Annual Conferences of the amounts needed for the support of the Bishops and of the amounts required for General Conference and other Church expenses.

The work of the Committee was done thoroughly and carefully—a large amount of work for so short a time. This was made possible by careful labor, long hours of application, and the prompt, courteous help of the Publishing Agents and other officials of the Church. An unsparing review of all our publishing interests shows soundness, wisdom, industry and economy in their management. The year has been one of solid prosperity. The gross results have not quite reached the unsurpassed record of 1903, yet we are able out of the year's work to appropriate to the Conference Claimants $10,000 more than was given last year.

The various publications of the Church have been brought to a higher degree of excellence than ever before. The periodicals as well as their editors are "going on to perfection." The increased excellence of these publications means increased cost, and unless there is a corresponding increase of circulation there must be a falling off in profits. Will the Ministers and members of the Church require their leaders to lower this standard? There has been a small decline in the earnings of the several periodicals, due partly to the fact that growth in circulation has not been keeping step with progress in other directions. The profits are reduced more largely by the fact that your publishers decline a large and profitable advertising patronage for conscientious reasons. We do not believe that statements of a questionable or misleading tendency are excusable in a religious journal, not even in an advertisement.

The year has not been an easy one in the publishing business, but added energy and economy have made a good showing. Each part of this complex business is made to pay its own way, or bear the responsibility of failure. The Committee declines to tax one to support another. It is believed in that way the best results are secured, both for the business and the Superannuate Fund.

The Committee was careful to bear in mind that declaring dividends is not the chief business of the Book Concern. The inspiration and enlightenment of our people through the varied agencies of the press is the chief aim. To this end all have labored with increasing experience, intelligence and zeal.

As a result of the year we are able to report that the volume of business done by the New York House and its depositories amounts to $934,652; the amount of business done by the Western House, including the associated depositories, $1,222,896.

The increased cost of the materials used in this work and the necessary sale at the same price when materials and work were cheaper make it evident that the net profits are not in proportion to the volume of business done. Still, we are highly gratified to be able to exceed all recent dividends to the Superannuate Fund and divide among the Conferences $120,000.

Among the desirable things accomplished at this session of the Book Committee may be named:

1. The transfer of the San Francisco Depository to the Western House on an improved basis.
2. The adjustment of rival claims of the two houses to the earnings of the Epworth Herald.
3. Careful plans for a more faithful study of the advertising problems as they relate to religious journalism.
4. The restriction of our Sunday school periodicals to their special field as lesson helps.
5. The apportionment to the Conferences of the sums needed for the Episcopal Fund and for General Conference and other Church expenses.
6. Careful and liberal provision for the needs of the Epworth League.
7. The salaries of General Conference officers were fixed as follows: Bishops, Publishing Agents, Editors of Methodist Review, Christian Advocate and Sunday school publications, each $5,000. Other editors as follows: Epworth Herald, Northwestern Christian Advocate, Western Christian Advocate, Christian Apologist, Central Christian Advocate, Book Editor, and Haus und Herd, $4,500; Secretary of Epworth League, $4,500; California Christian Advocate and Pacific Christian Advocate, $3,000; Southwestern Christian Advocate and Assistant Secretary Epworth League, $2,000.

Among the things the Committee regretfully declined to do was to open a new depository and book store in Baltimore to take the place of the one closed. The Committee felt that the old discounts and credits were unfair to the Book Concern, and to other cities refused such favors. It was persuaded that the voice of the last General Conference on this matter was clear and commanding, and that, in view of the well-established policy of the Book Committee, determined as the result of much expensive experience, it could not with either consistency or safety re-enter this field.

The year before us opens with bright prospects for increased business, profits, and usefulness. The work at no point is for personal gain. It is educational and philanthropic, and should command the utmost co operation and support of the whole Church.

W. F. WHITLOCK, Chairman.
A. S. MOWBRAY, Secretary.

ATLANTA LETTER.

Rain, snow and sleet have been our uninvited guests during the early part of February. Suffering, sickness and death have been their companions.

The most disagreeable weather in the history of the city has prevailed. Business has been greatly crippled and many avenues for earning bread have been closed, on account of the conditions, and a great many who are dependent upon their daily earnings for food and shelter have suffered.

On Saturday, February 6th, the rain fell and as rapidly turned into ice, until the smooth asphalt streets of the city became a dangerous, slippery block of ice upon which man and beast alike fell, and fractured limbs and sustained painful injuries.

The trees along the streets and upon the lawns were as giants cloaked in Frost's hoary mantle and adorned with his heavy icicle beard. When swayed by the slightest breeze the frozen branches (and in many places, whole trees were uprooted), fell to the earth, breaking down ice overburdened wires and making travel extremely dangerous and hazardous.

The electric cars as they attempted to operate under their trolley wires heavily coated with ice, flashed a dazzling light of greenish hue that reflected against the heavens and made a picture of indescribable beauty. However, they too, suddenly came to a standstill and loomed up in the darkness of the city as the remnant of a stranded caravan.

Very soon after dark it was announced that the city lights would not burn on account of the danger of the falling live wires and at this writing the resident portion of the city is in darkness, though repairs are being hastened by the corporation owning them.

A relief fund was inaugurated and a nice sum was subscribed to aid those in distress. Our churches have exerted every effort to care for the unfortunate members and have fairly succeeded, but the number of persons who are sick has greatly taxed the churches in this noble effort.

The pastor of Central Avenue M. E. Church appealed to the younger members to render all the assistance they possibly could. Dr. Rush has a strong following of young people. Some of the most brilliant young people of the city are under his pastorate.

In a later letter the personnel of Atlanta M. E. Churches will be given, and the world will know that the young people of Atlanta are progressive and religious and that they are members of the M. E. Church. A statement sometimes questioned by our sister denominations.

WOODLEE.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Legally, Monday was Lincoln's birthday, but Sunday, Feb. 12, was actually the ninety-sixth anniversary of the birth of the immortal emancipator. Perhaps never before in the history of the city was the day more earnestly observed or the spirit of his teachings so deeply impressed upon the people. On Sunday, Lincoln was the subject of sermons and addresses in the churches and before large audiences meeting elsewhere. At St. James Presbyterian Church, a patriotic service was held all day. All the professional and business men of the city were invited to be present and several of them appeared on the programme as speakers.

Dr. James Edward Mason, secretary of Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C., addressed an audience in one of the largest Y. M. C. A. buildings in the city. His subject was "Darkest Africa," and he predicted its redemption by Negroes. He spoke of the progress of the race since the emancipation and offered as a remedy for the present evils of the race, the Bible, the spelling book and the home.

President Roosevelt came to the city Monday and was the guest of the Republican Club at a Lincoln dinner given at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. In his speech he once for all cleared the minds of those skeptics who were in doubt as to his true attitude on the race question and proved himself to be the greatest and most fearless President since Abraham Lincoln.

Finding encouragement in the bill introduced in the Senate last December by Senator T. C. Platt of New York, which dealt with the disfranchisement question, and gleaning hope from the remarks of President Roosevelt at the Republican dinner, the colored citizens of this city have arranged a mass meeting to take place on February 21, in Mount Olivet Baptist Church, to discuss the suffrage question. James H. Hayes, the counselor from Virginia, who is conducting the disfranchisement fight in his state, is to be the guest of honor and it is planned to give him $1,000, raised by subscription. This is to help him in the cause.

In this City of Millionaires, great philanthropic movements are not uncommon. But one of recent date and peculiar interest is the announcement of Mr. Henry Phipp's gift of $1,000,000 to establish a fund for the erection of improved tenement houses for the working men of New York. The New York Herald says, in speaking of the gift:

"Mr. Phipp's gift is important, not so much for the amount of money it represents, as for the conscious philanthropy which impelled it and for the precedent as a guidance to other multi-millionaires."

The object of the movement is for the regeneration of the housing and sanitary conditions of fully three-quarters of the population living on Manhattan Island. It is interesting to know that an effort is being made to secure at least one of these proposed model houses for use of Negro tenants. If part of this magnificent gift should be used in improving the living conditions of the colored people of New York, it would be the fulfillment of a long and keenly felt want. The Negroes must at all times pay high rent, for small and inferior apartments, the houses frequently being filthy and neglected. Mr. Phipps' plan is to have the rents reasonable and within the reach of the working man, and the buildings will be so constructed that they will pay about 4 per cent. on the money used.

A novel but effective charity movement was introduced here by Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army. Mr. Robert Hunter estimated that fully 70,000 hungry children went to the public schools in this city. Miss Booth came forward and inaugurated the "meal ticket" for school children and by giving immediate relief proved its efficiency. Eight stations were organized and scattered over the city and several thousand little ones are fed bread and soup each morning before seeking their class rooms.

The signs here all point to an extensive religious revival. The extraordinary awakening in Wales has excited the greatest interest in England and Scotland as also in this country. One hundred ministers have planned a great revival to take place in this city and will hold their meetings in Madison Square Garden, which has a seating capacity of 7,000, and in Carnegie Hall, where several thousand more may be accommodated. Famous evangelistic workers from all over the country have been engaged to aid in conducting the services. The idea is to have just such a religious awakening as was experienced when Moody and Sanky first came to New York.

THE RELIGIOUS EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

sion of the Religious Education Association, Zion's Herald says:

"As the work of the Association is still in an inchoate stage, almost any judgment passed upon it must be qualified with a 'perhaps.' It marks a great advance in religious pedagogy—perhaps; it maintains the spiritual experience at the heart of the mechanical methodology—perhaps; it correlates the superfluity of learning in the universities with the lamentable lack of understanding among the masses—perhaps; it will improve the Sunday school without removing it away—perhaps; it will conduce to a better brotherliness between denominations without doctrinally de-Christianizing Christianity—perhaps; it will religionize education more than it will intellectualize religion—and again we say perhaps. All these ends may be realized in the work of the Association in the future, and we are hopeful that all the advantages indicated will be attained without the disadvantages possibly yet not necessarily attendant upon them. Yet there is danger that the progress sought to be made may be misdirected into by-paths or lost in meaningless meanderings, only after many days and delays returning to its original and ideal quest; and it remains to be seen whether the Religious Education Association peters out in vapid generalities, half-meant protestations of inter-denominational love, molluscus formulations of indefinite moralities which cannot furnish their own steam, or, on the other hand, keeping depth amid the breadth, power to push the principles, loyalty to Jesus Christ to sanction the ethics, and love amid all to constrain to social ministry, shall disprove in time all hasty criticisms, and exhibit itself, as its enthusiastic advocates prophesy, as great a movement in its way as was the founding of the American Board, the origination of the Y. M. C. A. movement, or the inauguration of Sunday schools."

Again the attention of our pastors is called to the fact that a large deficit still remains on the General Conference expenses. It was necessary at the close of the last General Conference to borrow $12,000 to clear all outstanding bills. This amount it was hoped would have been paid by collections coming from the Conferences and churches that had not already met their apportionment of the General Conference expenses. And now the commission makes another very urgent appeal, which we desire to reinforce, if possible, and urge all the charges of our territory which did not during the past quadrennium raise their full apportionment of General Conference expenses, to do so at once, and forward the same to any of our Book Concerns or to Mr. Oscar P. Miller, Treasurer, Rock Rapids, Ia.

There are now nine Young Men's Christian Association secretaries working among Japanese soldiers at five important military bases in Manchuria, including Dalny and Newchwang. They are well received by the soldiers and the officers.

A diamond has been found near Pretoria, South Africa, which weighs 3,032 karats, or about a pound and a half. It is said to be pure white and is valued at about four million dollars.

FLORIDA ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The thirty-third Annual Conference, of Fla. Methodist Episcopal Church, convened in Zion Methodist Church, Ocala, Florida, February 2nd, Bishop C. C. McCabe, D. D., of Philadelphia, presiding. The real business of the Conference was preceded by a half-hour devotional service The holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was duly administered to the ministers and all Christians present. The Bishop delighted the audience with his sweet "Songs of the Soul." Everybody wanted to hear him sing; one of the songs long to be remembered which the Bishop sung was "I'll be there, I'll be there," etc. Preparations for the services in all particulars were completed by the pastor, Rev. Williams Osburn Bartly, and his excellent committee on arrangement.

Upon roll-call 46 members and 9 probationers answered present and 2 were reported deceased. The Conference proceeded to organize with much enthusiasm. Many young and promising men were aspirants for offices of service and trust. Jos. M. Deas was easily re-elected secretary by a large majority. J. E. A. Kealer was re-elected Statistical secretary and Jas. F. Elliott was re-elected Conference treasurer. All of these gentlemen have given the Conference long and continued services in each department. Rev. Kealer served as statistician in the South Carolina Conference, and Rev. Elliott was statistician in this Conference for fourteen years. J. M. Deas has been the acceptable secretary of the Florida Conference for eleven years, and the General Conference Committee on Conference Journals reported the Florida Conference Journals as correct.

The Conference enjoyed the presence of many distinguished visitors and General Conference officers. Aside from the official presence of Bishop McCabe, the charm of the session was his systematic and rapid manner of doing the work of the Conference and his singing. His voice has an abiding charm. The genial, clever and sweet-spirited Rev. Dr. C. C. Jacobs, of Sumter, S. C., field secretary of the S. S. Union and Tract Society, was warmly greeted upon his arrival. His addresses before the Conference in the interest of his cause and his deep and profound discourse on Sunday evening before the large audience will long be remembered by all who heard him. Dr. J. P. Wragg, Dr. E. Caldwell, missionary from Japan; Dr. H. N. Ogden, representative of Methodist Book Concern; Rev. J. T. Dockings, Ph. D., president of the Cookman Institute at Jacksonville, Fla., were present and gave able addresses and sermons, and ably represented their several causes. The Conference was signally favored with the presence of Mrs. Bishop McCabe, who was introduced and greeted with cheers. Special mention should be made of Mrs. Jenkins, president of the Florida Conference Woman's Home Missionary Society. Her address was womanly and inspiring.

The reports from the ministers of the charges showed marked progress in spiritual and temporal work. The membership increased and the benevolent collections increased to $1,882,000. There were 128 conversions.

The past year was a prosperous one.

This Conference, by the Enabling Act of the last General Conference, set apart, from the East and West the Southern portion of the State, and now there is the South Florida Mission. Rev. Jeffrey Grant was made superintendent of this mision. On the whole, this was one of the best sessions ever held. The Conference will meet next year at Fernandina. The Bishop gave the members of the Ocala Church the sum of $100 to assist them in completion of the new church at this place, and thereby established the fact that the great M. E. Church is still helping our people in the Southland.

Sunday was truly a great day in Zion. The day opened with a glorious old-time love-feast. Many strong and helpful testimonies were given by ministers and laymen. At 10:45 a. m., Bishop McCabe preached a great sermon, which was followed by the ordination to the office of deacon of the following members of the M. E. Church: Gaims M. Hearst, Aaron H. Evans, Arthur Miles, Levi C. Haile, Anthony W. Williams, Anthony Demps, Boston Frazier, and Henry W. Bartly. Preceding the afternoon services, assisted by elders, the Bishop ordained as elders Geo. W. Covington, Thomas E. Dubose, Isaac P. Furgerson, Albert Emanuel, Allen R. Rutledge, Andrew J. Williams, Thomas W. Williams, Israel S. Smith and William P. Holmes.

JOS. M. DEAS.

TO PRESIDING ELDERS AND PASTORS

Before the General Conference Commission of the past quadrennium goes out of existence it is compelled to make one more presentation and plea.

At the close of the session at Los Angeles, as was stated before, there was a deficit of $12,000. We were directed by a vote of the General Conference to borrow this amount and appeal to the churches to raise and pay their apportionments. The whole embarrassment has arisen and continues because some churches and almost entire Conferences seem indifferent to this claim.

We asked at first, and ask now for the apportionments; nothing more.

The spring Conferences will soon meet. Will not presiding elders and pastors make then the best report possible? We also request deficient charges in the fall Conferences to report to the publishing agents or to Oscar P. Miller, Treasurer, Rock Rapids, Iowa, by May 1st, that then all contracts may be fully cancelled and the last dollar paid.

This missive is not for Conferences and charges having paid their apportionments. We hope it may be the last needed appeal to all others. Now, as formerly, we, as servants of the church and under the direction of its authority, come to you in behalf of the church's interest and good name.

HENRY SPELLMEYER,
W. F. WHITLOCK,
OSCAR P. MILLER.

Personal and General

Rev. M. J. Dyer spent a few days in the city last week.

Peace in the Far East is not in sight. Both Japan and Russia say it is death to the ditch.

Rev. H. L. Ashe, of the North Carolina Conference, mourns the loss of his mother, who departed this life February 18th. He has our sympathy.

Rev. S. T. Clanton, D. D., formerly of this city, has been recently appointed Field Superintendent of the John C. Martin Educational Fund for the Southwest.

Mamie Alberta is the name of the new daughter that has recently come into the home of Rev. Dr. E. B. Burrougs and wife, of Charleston, S. C., bringing sunshine and cheer.

There are in England twenty-nine cities that have Methodist Mayors, and in the Japanese Parliament there are four Methodist members, and thus Methodism is proving itself to be world-wide.

Georgia made a clean sweep at the St. Louis World's Fair, winning the grand prie for the finest display of marble and the best collection of mineral resources on exhibition at the big Exposition.

The colored citizens of Washington, D. C., are preparing to entertain on a large scale in Convention Hall, the largest in the city, the great number of visitors who will attend the Presidential Inauguration, which promises to be more magnificent than any previous one.

Rev. J. A. Rolax passed through the city last week enroute to his charge at Hubertville. He was accompanied by Mrs. Rolax. During their stay in the city they were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Henry Taylor.

The journal of the last session of the Texas Conference has reached our desk. The secretary, Dr. M. W. Dogan, puts up a most excellent minute, while the Wiley University printing office deserves commendation for the most excellent and mechanical appearance.

Rev. W. W. Russell, a former pastor of the Mount Joy colored Baptist church, in Edwardsville, Texas, passed creditably the civil service examination for the position of general foreman of construction crews on the Isthmian Canal work. He will leave for Panama soon.

Rev. Alfred Gray, of the Louisiana Conference, has passed to his reward, departing this life February 25th. Brother Gray had closed a splendid year at Washington, and at the recent Conference was appointed to another field. His body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Eola, La.

Three thousand persons signed the pledge of acceptance of Christ at Denver during the first fortnight of the revival still in progress there. Denver is a busy city, yet it closed its stores one week-day from half-past eleven till two in the afternoon that the clerks and employees might attend the meetings.

Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D., First Assistant Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, will represent that cause at the following Conferences: Lincoln, Central Missouri, Kansas, Missouri, South Kansas, St. Louis, Southwest Kansas, Northwest Kansas, North Indiana, East Maine and Vermont.

The Negro Educational Review, a new monthly magazine, edited by Mr. David B. Bohannon, of Vincennes, Ind., in the interest of universal education and teachers of the race, has reached our exchange table. The January number contains several worthy articles from the pens of thoughtful men of the race.

Rev. Nathaniel N. Carroll, D. D., of the Washington Conference, is having his usual success as pastor of Asbury Church, Annapolis, Md. Since June an indebtedness of $2,273 has been paid and the mortgage has been burned. On the Sunday on which the church was declared free of debt Rev. A. Dennis preached at the morning service and Rev. Edward Cooper preached in the evening.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason, awake to the many interests and needs of the schools of the F. A. and S. E. Society, has spent some time at Claflin University, Orangeburg, S. C., looking after the several buildings now in process of erection at this institution. He agrees fully with President Dunton that in order to make the other enterprises complete, the next most urgent need is a central heating and lighting plant which will cost about $5,000. Will not some friend of Southern education supply this need?

We have received an invitation to the Meharry Medical College commencement. There are in the graduating class of medicine 61; dental, 13; pharmaceutical, 8. The exercises took place in the Meharry Medical Auditorium Tuesday night.

Judge Swayne, of Florida, against whom impeachment proceedings were instituted, was acquitted by the Senate on Monday of this week by a decided vote. This trial has attracted considerable attention, the House previously finding Judge Swayne guilty.

The trustees of the Broad Street Methodist Church at Rome, Ga., have been advised by Congressmen that the claim of the church for $2,500 damages had passed. The church was destroyed by Federal troops during the war, and the government was asked to make good the loss.

Rev. S. M. Bolden, one of the successful ministers of the Texas Conference, recently lost his mother and just a few nights ago lost by fire his home and all its contents, sustaining a loss of nearly $2,000. In this series of afflictions Brother Bolden will have the prayers, sympathy and brotherly help of his many friends.

The song service of Williams Chapel, Rev. C. W. Reeves, pastor, this city, drafted a set of resolutions which were unanimously passed, expressing their sympathy for Bishop and Mrs. Scott in the loss of their daughter, Miss Marie Adele. Miss Scott when a resident of this city was an active member of the song service and contributed no little toward its success. It is therefore fitting that she is remembered by this company of young people.

Attorney F. B. Smith won a signal victory a few days ago before the Civil District Court of this city. It was a case in which an old colored woman had been defrauded out of her property. The party in possession had employed two of the leading lawyers at the New Orleans bar. The case occupied the entire day. Both sides put up a stubborn fight. But the court decided in favor of Attorney Smith's client. This case involved several technical and difficult points, which Mr. Smith handled with fine balance of judgment and execution.

On Wednesday night, Feb. 22, Mr. Henry O. Franklin, formerly Lieutenant of the Ninth United States Volunteers, and Miss Marie Celeste Harris, were united in marriage at Handsboro, Miss., the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN reading the ceremony. Miss Harris is a graduate of New Orleans University, and for some years taught in Thomy Lafon School of this city. She is a young lady of accomplishment and stands high in the social circles of the city. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin will live in San Francisco, Cal., where Mr. Franklin will enter into business.

Berea College of Kentucky has been fined $1,000 for violating the law that prohibits the co-education of white and colored races in that state. The college demurred in the indictment and the question of constitutionality of the law was raised. The case will go before the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, and should that court declare the law constitutional it will be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Cleveland Journal, published in Cleveland, Ohio, brings out, under date of February 25th, a Woman's Edition. The issue is profusely illustrated with striking cuts of many of the leading women of our race. Pictures of Mrs. Josephine Salome Yates and Mrs. Booker T. Washington are among those that grace the first page. The articles, all of which are written for the most part by our women, present the race problem from a woman's standpoint. This issue will be an inspiration to the movement of the National Association of Colored Women, as well as a stimulus to all of our people in whose hands it may chance to fall. Mrs. Carrie W. Clifford, who is editor-in-chief, of this edition, has certainly done her work well and deserves the credit and appreciation of the race at large. Copies of this magnificent issue may be had at five cents each by addressing the Journal Publishing Company, No. 216 American Trust Building, Cleveland, O.

NEWS NOTES

The keynote of the Denver Epworth League Convention is "Evangelize."

In the first month of prohibition in Charlotte, N. C., the city criminal docket showed a decrease of a little over 56 per cent.

The Kansas Legislature recently passed a bill providing for a separate High School for Negro pupils at Kansas City, Kan.

Bishop Moore plans to hold a Methodist Congress during the Lewis Clark Exposition in Portland, Ore., next summer, to last ten days.

Madame Stoessel, the wife of the gallant Russian defender of Port Arthur, has adopted six children, the orphans of officers who fell at Port Arthur.

The Methodists of Minneapolis and St. Paul have decided to publish a local Methodist newspaper. If this venture is successful the paper will be continued.

According to press notices the City Council of Greenville, S. C., voted to disband the Negro Fire Company in order that the pay of the white companies may be increased.

Since Andrew Carnegie began founding or enlarging public libraries he has given $39,325,340 for this purpose, three-fourths of which have gone to the United States.

In keeping with a custom of many years' standing each member of the recent graduating class of the Military Academy at West Point was presented a Bible. The American Bible Society donated the Bibles.

A fine site has been purchased on Sixth and Oak streets, Kansas City, Mo., on which is to be erected soon a first-class hotel for the accommodation of colored people.

The state of Illinois is to devote $5,000 to the purchase of grain for the birds. The cold weather and ice have worked a great hardship on the feathered creatures, and such a measure is commendable.

A piece of property has been purchased in Nashville, Tenn., by the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament, with headquarters in Philadelphia, and will be converted into an institution for the education of our girls.

The colored voters of New York and adjoining states came together recently for the purpose of drafting a constitution and by-laws for a Negro political organization of national scope, to be known as the National Colored Voters' League.

W. H. Newman, president of the great Vanderbilt system of railroads with its more than 20,000 miles of trackage and more than 100,000 employes, has, it is said, been guaranteed a salary of $10,000 per month, a palatial residence in New York and a sumptuously fitted private car.

The Ninth Cavalry has been ordered by General Chaffee to take part in the inaugural parade on the 4th of March. This, it seems, was the suggestion of the President, who has not forgotten the gallant service of the Negro regiment at El Caney and San Juan Hill.

The decision of the Board of Judges appointed to select the three best essays for which Miss Helen Gould offered three prizes, on the question, "Which is a better representation of the original of the Bible, the American version, or the Catholic, known as theDouay Bible?" was in favor of the American version.

Japanese doctors use finely powdered charcoal, obtained by the slow combusion of straw in closed furnaces. Small bags filled with it are applied to the wounds, and its antiseptic and absorbent qualities generally effect a rapid cure. At a cost of 25 cents Japanese doctors can dress the wounds of 250 men.

At the mines of Virginia City, Ala., a terrific fire damp explosion occurred on February 20th, and it is believed that at least 150 men, one-fourth the population of the town, were entombed. Scores of bodies have been recovered, but they are so horribly mutilated and discolored that colored men cannot be distinguished from the white men. One hundred families and three hundred children are left destitute. A relief fund has been started for them at Birmingham.

Farm and Fireside

One of the resolves of the recent great cotton growers' convention in this city was to use less fertilizers in the effort to reduce the size of the cotton crop. This appears not wise, for the cost of tilling land thus rendered unproductive will be as serious as a low price for the staple. Sound advice is to enrich the soil as much and as cheaply as possible, then grow crops that will yield a profit, either directly or indirectly. Surely all grain crops are remunerative; also any crop that can be consumed by the family or the growing stock on the place. People whose farms yield the food that the family requires are always prosperous.

Double the manure pile and you may double the crop. It is better than buying a new farm.

An exchange argues that it costs no more per pound to raise a colt than a steer, and the colt will sell for four times as much as the steer, if the colt is of the right kind.

Rotation of crops, says a successful farmer, is based upon the idea of food equilibrium. Each species of plant has its food in a given ratio, and different from the ratio of another species.

Clubs and milking stools are poor pacifiers for restless cows. If your cow is restless there is excuse for it. Quiet her by intelligent and humane methods and she will yield better results. If vicious beyond correction, convert her into beef—don't sell her as a "fine family cow."

Just what to do about cotton the coming season—whether to reduce or keep up the acreage—is of vital importance to the majority of our subscribers, and no one can give infallible advice. There are a multitude of advisers, in conventions and by circulars, and none fully agree. Theodore H. Price, of New York, advises selling the unsold crop at present prices, while Martin V. Calvin, of Georgia, takes the opposite view and urges a large reduction of acreage. A wise course would seem to be to adopt a conservative course for awhile at least. Sure dependence can be placed on a diversified crop. If there is plenty of corn, meat and vegetables on the place, it won't much matter whether cotton is high or low.

INQUIRY.

I wish to enquire for my brother, whose name is Henry Willis. The last time I heard from him he was near Elizabeth, Mississippi. I wish to ask the pastors and members of the M. E. Field Notes

George Edwards, Reporter, Belleville (Tex.) Circuit.—We held our first quarterly conference Jan. 28-29. Rev. W. E. Hutchson, pastor, and Rev. J. E. Bryant, presiding elder. The majority of officers made good reports. The elder gave a very good lecture on the raising of missionary money and how to make a church progressive. Such lectures, delivered by the presiding elders on every circuit, will be of excellent help to the pastors and members. On Sunday the Rev Bryant preached an able sermon. Rev. F. F. Morton, of Belleville, and Rev. Samples, of Bastrop, were with us. Paid the presiding elder in full $18, and $3.65 for missions. All the officers are pledged to do more for the upbuilding of the great church than ever before.

B. M. Hubbard, Pastor, Shreveport, La.—We are planning for a great year's work at St. Paul, both from a spiritual and a temporal point of view. The membership and friends in general welcome our return.

William Churchill, Reporter, New Roads and Morganza Circuit, La.—Sunday, February 19th, was a high day. Sunday night the spirit of the Lord was with us. The Lord's supper was administered by the pastor. The work is now moving on nicely. Of course our membership is small at present on this circuit, but under God's guidance we will succeed. Stewardess board: Celia Churchill, president; C. C. Reed, vice-president; Emma Smith, treasurer; Josephine Albert; S. S. Robinson, secretary. The welcome address in behalf of the church and pastor was delivered by Prof. Wm. Churchill and responded to by Sisters S. S. Robinson, C. Churchill and others. We had one of our strong brothers, namely, Brother D. D. Robinson, to loan us the sum of $125.00 on behalf of the new church. Also, Brother Joseph Kaitone, one of our trustees, gave us a donation of 1,200 bricks for the foundation of the new church. Our Sunday school is in bloom. I believe Methodism has now become a world-wide power.

Greenwood (Miss.) Ct.—Sister Arian Hardy departed this life recently. She leaves a husband, one sister and eleven children to mourn their loss. The burial ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Weatherby. J. W. MABRY.

Chilton, Texas.—Sister Elen House, a member of St. Paul M. E. Church, departed this life February 6th. She was loyal to her church and a good neighbor. Three children survive her.

Doings of the Workmen.

Pickens, Miss.—We are sorry to announce the sad fact that the Misses Mary Sarilla and Fanny Robinson lost their home and all its furniture by fire on the 18th ult., at about 12 o'clock in the day at Pickens, Miss. Each of these young women are faithful laborers for their church and race, and have worked hard to sustain themselves. Any contribution from friends will be gladly received. Among the articles lost in the fire was a good piano, organ and a choice collection of 300 books. The friends and co-workers who cannot afford to help with money could send a copy of some nice reading matter.

Denison, Tex.—To the Brethren of the Dallas District and Members of West Texas Conference: Let us awaken and rally to the needs of education this year as never before. Christian education is the controlling power of the universe. It produces thought, thought produces action, and action, rightly applied, will lift the dark scales from our eyes as from St. Paul's. Then we will be better able to see the great need of this educational light. When we see clearer and understand fully the work of the Freedmen's Aid Society, then we can the better present its claims. No one can present the claims of his or her church well unless they have studied the same. There are two things needed in order to convince your audience that your claims are right and just: First, get the interest of the work deep into the soul, study it carefully, and there will be produced a strong and forcible argument. Without these two elements, the claims of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society that the church has put upon us will fall short, and this should not be. Brethren of the Dallas District, as my name is one of the two sent in to the Secretary of this society to arrange for a great educational rally during our district conference, which will be held at Pilot Point some time in July, let us renew our strength for this great cause. The presiding elder will give us a special night. We want every charge to report in full at the district conference and as much over as possible. We cannot raise too much for our schools. I will keep in touch with each pastor. The Dallas district stands on the front line of the West Texas Conference, so let us retain our position. Yours for the church,

W. E. Blackson.

J. S. Todd, Pastor, Ebenezer M. E. Church, Jacksonville, Fla.—Bishop C. C. McCabe, D. D., LL. D., who presided over the Florida Conference, spent the Sabbath, the 12th of February, with us in Jacksonville. He dedicated the new buildings of our Cookman Academy. The Sabbath was a busy one for the Bishop and a delightful one to us. At 11 a. m. the Bishop preached for the white people of our church at Snyder Memorial Church. At 3 p. m. a large crowd gathered at the school and there assisted by Dr. C. C. Jacob, Dr. J. M. Kemper and the writer, the Bishop dedicated the beautiful buildings and raised a collection of $253.00 for the school. His address was a masterpiece. Christian education for the colored people as for any other people was greatly emphasized by him. To illustrate the good work done by our schools and the blessed effect wrought among us and upon us, the Bishop stated that 10,000 persons had been educated in the schools of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church and not one had been arrested and found guilty of crime. We have concluded that this is the best work the church can do. Give more of them Christian education and crime is lessened. Give all the Negroes Christian education and we will have no more crimes committed. At 7:30 p. m. the Bishop was with us in our New Ebenezer and preached an able sermon to the large congregation, to the delight of all and to the glory of God. We have been specially blest at the close of the old and the beginning of the new Conference year. Two of the Bishops have visited us and preached for our people; and Dr. Jacobs, our true friend, also spent two Sabbaths with us and preached each Sabbath able sermons and presented the cause of the Sunday School Union to the people in a very helpful way. I am delighted to have the general officers of the church visit my people. They help us very much. Come again, my brethren. We have started out at Ebenezer for another year's victory for the church and Master.

Thos. P. Thomas, Pastor Asbury M. E. Church, Richmond, Va. — Our fourth quarterly conference was held on the 1st of February, Rev. D. W. Hays presiding. Reports indicated that affairs are in excellent shape. This is the most prosperous year the church has ever witnessed. The outlook is cheering and we are encouraged. Rev. W. A. C. Hughes, Ph. B., of Jackson St. M. E. Church, and Rev. G. D. Pinkney, D D., of Leigh St. M. E. Church, were present and spoke encouraging words. All departments of the church are alive. The stewards have paid the presiding elder $40.00, looked after the poor, paid pastor up-to-date $360.00, and will raise their full apportionment of benevolence for conference. Trustees have raised $680.00 this year. Sunday school and Epworth League are alive spiritually and financially. The membership has increased from 150 to 200, not including the work at Manchester. Dr. Hays is a most helpful presiding elder to both pastor and people. After the conference a royal reception was tendered by the Ladies' Aid Society, which was enjoyed by many delighted guests. The church presented the elder, Rev. D. W. Hays, D. D., with a beautiful and valuable present. We shall do our work well as the days go by for merit is the standard of promotion.

J. P. Patrick, Dickinson, Texas.—I reached my new field of labor, December 24th. My people received me pleasantly indeed. We have our own work in good shape and everything is moving along smoothly. On the 21st of January a storm of blessing struck the parsonage. About ten o'clock Saturady night we were awakened by the sound of sweet voices singing "Let the stranger in." This was one of the grandest "Pound Parties" I have ever witnessed. In a few minutes the tables were so heavily laden that they fairly groaned under their burden. Miss Lillie V. Felix and Mrs. J. L. Crawford were the leaders of this grand party.

C. L. Angrum, Pastor, Sterlington, La.—A surprise party was given in honor of the pastor, who was recently appointed to Mt. Sinai M. E. Church, led by Brother Perry Mitchell and a host of other friends. I was cordially received by the brothers and friends on the 15th of February.

M. A. Wesley, Reporter, Osborn, Miss.—Rev. L. J. Terrell, pastor of West Point Circuit, made his first visit to his new work on the first Sunday in February. The people received him gladly. Our first quarterly conference was held February 19th, with our new presiding elder, Rev. F. H. Henry, in the chair. He was cordially received at this place. The committee fixed the pastor's salary at $475.00 and that of the elders at $60.00. We hope for a year of great success, both spiritually and financially.

Mrs. Mary Anna Williams, Reporter, Asbury Charge, Waynesboro, Ga.—Rev. W. H. Brown is closing his last year with us as presiding elder of this district. We regret to lose him, for he is a good, kind and considerate administrator, and no one can better fill his place.

Greenville, Miss.—Whereas: Providence has seen fit to restore to us our beloved pastor, Rev. J. M. Marsh, and whereas, he has gained favor in our eyes, as a young minister equal to the emergency; we thankfully acknowledge that since he has been the pastor of Revels Memorial Church that it has been strengthened spiritually as well as financially, and we deem it eminently befitting that we record our appreciation of him. Therefore, be it resolved, That the members and friends of our church do hereby offer a vote of thanks to the conference for their courtesy to us in our struggling condition. Be it further resolved, That we offer to the Rev. Marsh a vote of thanks in advance for his cheerful and encouraging remarks, with the assurance that his leading will be endorsed by our hearty co-operation.—J. B. Shepherd, Reporter; E. C. Pierce, Supt. S. S.; C. M. Griffen, Pres. Epworth League.

A. Davis, Pastor, Gate City, Va.—Our second quarterly meeting was held in Fifth Street M. E. Church, at Big Stone Gap, Va., Feb. 18-19. Rev. R. A. Swan, our beloved presiding elder, was present, and looked carefully into every department of the church work. The conference was one of unusual interest. We raised for all purposes this quarter, in spite of the severe winter, $90.57. We were able to pay the elder in the quarterly conference. Sunday was a great day for Methodism in Big Stone Gap. Just a year ago we had only seven members in this town, with no church building. Now we are worshipping in a $1,000 church, with a membership of twenty-seven, a good Sunday school with fifty scholars enrolled and with an average attendance of thirty. The elder preached two wonderful sermons and administered the sacrament to nineteen communicants. Four came forward for prayer. A collection of $19.70 was taken. Thus closed the best meeting held on this charge so far.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

HOW TO SLEEP.

A Book For Tired, Sleepless People.

Contains fifty simple remedies for sleeplessness without use of drugs; also chapters on Sleeping Habits and Hours; Getting ready for Bed; Position in Bed; the Bedroom, Bed and Bedding; Care of the Bedroom; Sleep for Children; Bedtime Stories, Songs and Poems. "The only simple, practical, helpful book on Insomnia published. If not troubled with sleeplessness yourself, hand this card to someone who is, or better still, send the book as a Christmas gift." A dainty book for the bed-room or library table. Green cloth covers, poppy design in colors. Price 55 cents postpaid.

NOTICE TO THE SAVANAH ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: The minutes for 1904 were issued from the press February 16th, and sent out to the presiding elders. I am not therefore further responsible for their delivery to you.

Respectfully,

J. D. JENKINS, Con. Sec.

Dear Brothers of the Louisiana Conference: I bought twelve Disciplines and one Methodist Hymnal during the recent session of the Louisiana Conference at Monroe. I was taken very sick at the depot and lost the books mentioned while en route home. If through mistake the same are in the possession of any brother or if any one can give me any information concerning them please let me hear from you. I am thankful to be able to say that I am getting better and I ask the prayers of the entire conference that I may be fully restored to health. I am your co-worker for the Master,

WM. EMMETT.

Flourney, La.

NOTICE.

To the Pastors and Friends: I will be around again soon to preach to your congregations on the subject of "Infant Baptism." My attempt last year, I feel, resulted in some good and this year I hope the results will be greater. I have so far this year a number of invitations from different churches to preach on this subject and am beginning this year's work hopefully. I want to work for God as long as I live and probably my days here now are not many. So help me to spread the word along this line. It will help every cause of our church.

M. ADAMS,

Okoloua, Miss.

NOTICE!

The new minutes of the Anniston Session of the Central Alabama Conference are now about ready and all who are in arrears on minutes fund, will please send it direct to the Secretary at 405 Locust Street, Huntsville, Ala., at once! It is my earnest hope that these minutes be sent out earlier this year than they were the two preceding years. It is those in arrears who are causing the delay in getting out early minutes. Please send on the money. The book will contain about 60 or 65 pages I am told.

Yours truly,

W. T. TRAMMELL, Sec. Con.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

The American University

THE FIRST MILLION.

BY BISHOP C. C. M'CABE.

Stephen Girard is reported to have said, "There is no trouble about getting rich after you have gotten your first million." What is true of individuals is true also of a university. Give us the first million of an endowment and all will be well. It will grow of itself then. While the stately McKinley Hall of Government is going up let every friend of the American University subscribe to the endowment. We will take pledges and subscriptions of any amount from five dollars to a million dollars. When we get our first million well invested we will be able to open the University for work. By that time the McKinley Memorial will be completed and there will be at the disposal of the Faculty eighty rooms for university work. Massachusetts avenue will be macadamized clear out to our campus. The bill for this is now before Congress. Then it will be possible to drive in twenty minutes from the Capital of the nation to the University grounds. A trolley line will be started, and dwelling houses are going up in the vicinity so that there will be plenty of places where students can room and board. It will be a University that will stand for the Protestant religion and for the open Bible as the Word of God, and for religious liberty for all mankind. We appeal to every member of our church and of all churches to help us to speedily raise our first million. Over half of it is in hand and in sight now. Give us the other half and we will begin work. On this business please address me, care The American University, Washington, D. C.

Don't Neglect Yourself.

1668 Second Street,
LOUISVILLE, KY., April 14, 1903.

I have been weak and sickly for the past four years, caused by irregularity and carelessness regarding the laws of health, but about five mo ths ago my condition became very serious. I had severe backache and suffered a constant dull pain in my head. I spent weary, painful days, and miserable, restless nights. The doctor told me that I must have patience.

His medicine did not, however, give me even temporary relief and as I had been told of the curative qualities of Wine of Cardui I decided to try it.

I found that it relieved me of pain. As my general health improved my other troubles were gradually diminished and after five weeks' use of the Wine of Cardui I was once more a well and happy woman.

Mrs. C. M. Thurston

WINE of CARDUI

Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow, banishes headaches, backaches and bearing-down pains. Severe headaches, bearing-down pains, indigestion, loss of appetite and nervousness are symptoms of female weakness and should be given prompt attention. If you are troubled with menstrual irregularities do not let them run on. They will certainly grow into dangerous and chronic troubles. Get a bottle of Wine of Cardui and begin treatment at once.

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

POPULAR TALKS ON LAW.

(Copyrighted by William C. Sprague, President The Sprague Correspondence School of Law.)

Self-Defence.

It is a matter of importance that one know how far he may go in using force against force in the defence of himself, his family and his property. The right of self-defence will occur to us as being a natural right. One could scarcely be expected when attacked, either in person or in property, to say "I will wait for the law to punish the aggressor," for the one attacked has no means of knowing how far the attacking party may go in the use of violence, as he even may go to the extent of taking life.

Then, too, the law recognizes a weakness in human nature—or shall we call it strength rather?—that impels one when attacked to defend himself by the use of force. Self-preservation is truly the first law of nature.

The law of self-defence is an old one, recognized from the beginning. It extends not only to one's own person but to one's family and possessions. The old law speaks of a man's home as his "castle" and gave him the right to defend it, even to the extent of taking life; with certain limitations, which we will learn, that right still exists.

Of course there must be a limitation put upon the right of self-defence or it will be abused, and men, under cover of the excuse that they were put to an act of violence by necessity, will cover up acts which are unjustifiable and hence punishable. The law, broadly speaking, limits the right to cases where necessity exists, and it will only excuse a man when he uses that violence which under the circumstances would appeal to a reasonable man as necessary for his self-protection. Nor will a court compel him to exercise the best of judgment at the time, for it recognizes that when the occasion for self-defence presents itself, the mind of the one attacked is more or less disturbed and the even balance of his judgment shaken; but where the means taken to defend one's self are manifestly more than necessary, as where one slapped in the face draws a revolver and kills, the act will be considered unjustifiable and the perpetrator of it held to account; but if the person attacked has reasonable grounds for fearing that killing or felony is being attempted by the attacking party, the defence may go to the extent of taking life. It is well decided that where one is merely struck with the fist and has no reasonable grounds for believing that he is in danger of being killed or of a felony being committed, his use of a gun, or a knife, or deadly weapon is unjustifiable.

The fact that the person defending himself was mistaken as to the intentions of his assailant does not affect his right to take life if there appeared to him at the time reasonable grounds to believe that unless he did so he would be killed or a felony would be perpetrated against him. It has been held that the mere fact that the assailant put his hand in his pocket was not sufficient to justify the taking of the assailant's life on the ground that the assailant was believed to be reaching for a weapon.

Suppose that the person called upon to defend himself had been himself the provoker of the quarrel or the immediate cause of the attack, would his subsequent use of violent means in self-defence be justified under the rules laid down? The question has arisen in many cases and has usually been decided in the negative. The person himself must be free from fault in order to justify himself for killing another.

The cases go to the extent of saying that anyone who brings on or provokes a personal encounter cannot rely upon the plea of self-defence. We can quickly see that if the law were permitted to be otherwise, one desiring to kill another would only have to provoke that other sufficiently to cause him to use violence in order to take his life and escape the consequences. The main question as to whether or not the force used could have reasonably been deemed necessary is a question to be left to the determination of the jury in all cases.

It is also of interest to ask whether a man attacked is bound to retreat. It is quite well decided that when a man is attacked with a dangerous weapon he must retreat as far as he can safely do so before using like means in defending himself; but where the one attacked has reasonable grounds for believing that he cannot safely retreat he is justified in using violence in self-defence. The right of self-defence goes to the extent of excusing a man for resisting arrest by violence where the attempted arrest is unlawful.

How far one may go in the defence of his property, or possessions, is reserved for treatment in a subsequent article.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting.

This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.

Allay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

They Live in Our Memory.

Nanticoke, Md.—Mrs. Leah Nutter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Elsey, died January 27, and was buried January 29. Mrs. Angie Lucretia Elsie died February 9 and was laid to rest February 12. Both were members of Asbury M. E. Church and died without fear for Christ was with them. Their funeral services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. D. Hammond.

Monticoke, Md.—Philip Archie Hammond, the beloved son of Rev. Solomon and Mrs. Lena Rozelle Hammond, born October 31, 1881, at Clarkesburg, W. Va., died January 6, 1905, after a long and painful illness. He was converted January 4, 1901, and has lived since a consistent Christian life, obedient to his Master's will, and also to that of his parents, to whom he was passioately devoted. He led a pure and blameless life and was a lover of truth and righteousness. Wherever his father was stationed, he took a deep interest in church work, especially in the Sunday school and Epworth League. When his health began to fail and he realized that he could not get well, he thoroughly consecrated himself to God, made a complete surrender and said with his whole heart, "Lord, Thy will be done." His last moments were spent in a perfect ecstasy of joy and praise. He was conscious to the last, and died very quietly and peacefully. He leaves a father, mother, three sisters, one brother, several relatives and a multitude of friends to meet him on the other side. His funeral services were conducted January 9 from his late residence by Rev. D. A. Ridout, of Laurel, Del., assisted by Rev. J. E. A. Johns, of Salisbury, Md., and Rev. J. A. Jeffers, of Quantico, Md. He was laid to rest January 10, in Mount Auburn Cemetery, Baltimore, Md.

Lamar, Ala.—Brother Charley Coverson departed this life January 29, in the Christian faith. He was about 85 years of age. A wife and a host of friends mourn his loss. The funeral service was conducted by our pastor, Rev. J. W. Landom, and Rev. H. H. Thompson. L. J. Freemon.

Staunton, Va.—Mary Jane Irving fell asleep in Jesus, Thursday morning, February 9, aged 60 years, 5 months and 13 days. She was quite a sufferer for about seven months, but bore the illness with patience and was ready and willing to go to her Father. She was a devout Christian, a dear, loving mother, wife, sister and friend. She was a faithful and loving member in her church, and the societies of which she was a member. She was always anxious about the welfare of her loving family. She was a dear loving friend to all with whom she was connected. She leaves a dear, loving husband, a devoted daughter and son, a sister and a large circle of friends to mourn their loss.

At rest, sweet one, at rest,
On Canaan's peaceful shore;
Where sorrows never come,
And weeping is no more.
Sweet peace to her soul.

REV. O. N. SAMPLES.

Valdosta, Ga.—Rev. O. N. Samples, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, died at his post Sunday morning, January 22, in full triumph of faith after an illness of three months. He said that all was well between him and his God. Rev. Samples was a loving father, a devoted husband and a faithful Christian minister. A wife, four sons and a daughter survive him. His remains were deposited in the city cemetery by the Rev. A. B. Allen, presiding elder of the Waycross District, Rev. W. A. Holmes, J. A. Peak and others assisted. The bereaved ones have the deepest sympathy of the church and many friends of both races. We commend them to God who is able to comfort them in this hour of sorrow.

B. C. Roberts.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE OF "MA" IRVING, BY GRACE CUMMINGS.

All the fret of life is over,
Fold the weary hands to rest;
Torn and bleeding hearts that loved thee
Still must whisper, "God knows best."

For thy life of loving labor,
Home and church thy Master praise;
Memory shall lighten sorrow
In the brightness of its rays.

Farewell, mother, friend, companion,
Thou art home at last, but we May not yet put off the armor;
Still must fight for victory.

O, Thou Savior, who stood weeping
In the home of Bethany,
Speak the word of consolation
To the hearts that mourn to-day.

Thou did'st break Death's band asunder,
"Thou of life the Fountain art;"
May Thy resurrection glory
Comfort every broken heart!

Mary E. Dawsey.

HOW TO WIN A HUSBAND.

Woman's sphere in this 20th century is not limited any more than is man's. She can occupy almost any business position or profession, and yet the popular view of womanhood is that she best fits the position of wife and mother and head of the household. Every girl should know her heart and also know that her womanly system is equal to the strain of marriage. If a girl is nervous and irritable ten chances to one it is due to some trouble peculiar to womanhood.

Cupid has no place in a girl's heart if she is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down, worn out for no reason that she can think of. The weak back, dizzy spells and black circles about the eyes are only symptoms. Go to the source of the trouble and correct the irregularity. Stop the drains on the womanly system and the other symptoms will disappear. This can be done easily and intelligently. So sure of it is the World's Dispensary Medical Association, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that they offer $500 reward for women who cannot be cured of leucorrhea, female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of the womb. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"After confinement I gained no strength," writes Mrs. A. Davis, of Sweetwater, Ala. "Even when my baby was a month old I could hardly do any work. I don't know what to call the disease. I had a weak feeling in the pit of my stomach, felt miserable all over. I was sick three months and a lady friend told me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as it had done her so much good. I did so, and after taking three bottles was cured. This was about five years ago and I have had no return of the disease. Am very thankful for the remedy. I cannot praise your 'Favorite Prescription' enough. It is a wonderful medicine for women."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are gently laxative.

Crescent City Notes

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Knox, in Hagan avenue, this city, a grand birthday celebration was given Wednesday, February 15th, in honor of Mr. H. R. Knox. The house was beautifully decorated. Rev. T. J. Johnson and his wife were present, also Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Tabor, Mrs. L. Hilburn, Miss J. Hilburn, Miss Bertha Williams, Messrs. J. Watts, J. Bermont and others. The speakers of the evening were Rev. Johnson, W. M. Tabor and J. Bermont. Mrs. T. J. Johnson rendered several instrumental selections and others vocal music. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

At the home of Mr. M. Anderson, corner Third and Galvez streets, Mr. Moses Anderson and Miss Antoinette Bolden, in the presence of a few select friends, were joined in holy wedlock. The groom had been confined to bed for some time. The occasion was a very quiet but unique affair. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jno. A. Lindsay, pastor Malden Chapel, on Feb. 22, 1905. The bride is a faithful member of our church. We pray for their success.

The members and friends of Simpson Chapel are delighted with their new pastor, Rev. Henry Taylor, as was evidenced by a grand surprise and pound party last Friday night, Feb. 24, led by Brother A. Robinson and Sister L. F. Murray. Despite the unfavorable weather the services are well attended and the collections are excellent. The Sunday school and Epworth League have elected their teachers and officers for the ensuing year, with Miss Ellen Guesnon superintendent and Mr. R. Armstrong president of the League. The Epworth League, assisted by the auxiliaries of the church, will tender Rev. Taylor a reception Friday evening, March 10, at 8 o'clock. They take this method of inviting the pastors and many friends to be present. An excellent program will be rendered. Sunday, March 5, speaking meeting at 11; communion Sunday evening at 7. "The forces are mobilized, the flag hoisted, the command given. Gen. Taylor is at the head. Victory will be ours."

COTTON.

Cotton has held pretty steady during the past week and was 7⅛ on Monday. There is some prospect or rather it is claimed that a strong combination is being formed to "bull the market," which means that all offerings of the real stuff will be taken and held for a rise. It is claimed, too, that the mills did not stock up when the price was the lowest, and are yet short. This, if true, must mean a higher price later on.

Miss Lydia Dunbar gave our office a pleasant call last week.

Services at Williams Chapel were well attended Sunday. Prayer meeting and Sunday school at the usual hours. At 11 a. m. the pastor preached. At 3 p. m. the Steward Sisters held their monthly meeting. Mrs. A. E. Brazely presided. At 6 p. m. song service, led by Mr. J. Jefferson and Miss S. E. A. Brazely. At night the pastor preached. Four persons joined the church. One subscriber for the Southwestern. Collection, $10. The King's Daughters, Sons and Daughters of Conference and Mrs. C. Matthews, B. Williams, S. Obee, C. Johnson and Mrs. C. Lambert and others gave the pastor one of the largest pound parties that has been given at that parsonage. Many pounds of choice groceries were presented. Brother W. M. Matthews led in prayer. Miss Mabel Powells made the presentation speech. Response by the pastor. Rev. Reeves takes this method of thanking these friends for this token of their respect and prays God's choicest blessings upon them. The pastor's wife thanks the friends for a purse coming from the children, King's Daughters and Sons and Daughters of Conference.

The Church Extension Board of the Louisiana Conference is hereby notified to meet at the office of the Southwestern Christian Advocate at 12 o'clock, March 9th. By order of the president. F. B. Smith, Secretary.

Editorial

No life is so narrow as the life that excludes God and no life is so full and so manly as the life that is under the complete dominion of the enthroned Christ, the legitimate ruler of every man's heart.

Man is a social being, 'tis true, but any sociality which excludes the presence of the Holy Spirit is at once sinful and should not be tolerated. What can not be done in Jesus' name should not be done at all.

According to the census bureau, of the total Negro population, 45.2 per cent. are classed as bread winners, as against 37.3 per cent. for the whites, and 34.2 per cent. for the Southern whites, or nearly 10 per cent. in favor of the Negro.

It has been brought to light recently that the capturing of Negroes when labor is needed on the plantations has been the practice for some time in the lower part of Madison county, Texas. The captured Negroes are worked only during the cotton-planting season, they are then released, but when needed again are recaptured. Sheriff Payne seems determined to break up this new kind of peonage, and we hope he will be successful.

Rev. Dr. H. H. Proctor, a prominent and scholarly minister of the Congregational Church, is doing the race and public in general a splendid service in opposing dance halls in Atlanta. These infamous places, run for the most part by white men as a source of revenue, prove to be schools of crime and veritable pest-holes. The dance halls in Memphis, St. Louis and New Orleans are a menace to civilization, and likewise a millstone about the necks of the Negro race. We wish Dr. Proctor all success in his manly fight.

After all, do we treat the unfortunates in the manner that is most conducive towards their reformation? Sternness and unwarranted rebuke often hardens the heart and stiffens the will of those we seek to reform. 'Twere better that we receive those who have sinned in the spirit of forgiveness and clothe them in the mantle of charity. A gentle rebuke of their misdoing, with a kind word of encouragement, will effect more easily and permanently a reformation than a stern condemnation. No more tender account of dealing with a fallen one is found than that of the Master, who dealt with the woman polluted with a sinful life in a tender way and at the same time rebuking her sin, brought her to repentance and no doubt to a genuine reformation. It never hurts any way to be kind in spirit and gentle in dealing with those who have sinned.

THE EX-SLAVE PENSION FRAUD

Quite a few frauds have been perpetrated upon the ignorant people of our race. There are many unscrupulous individuals who are living on their ability to prey upon the ignorant. But of recent date there has been no fraud perpetrated that has more elements of the highway robbery than that of the ex-slave movement. There are a considerable number of persons who have no organic connection, save that of a purpose to rob, who are going here and there through the country collecting fees from the ex-slaves, purposing to help them to secure through a Congressional bill to be passed, an indemnity for all ex-slaves for their labor during bondage. One old soul out of her penury has accumulated $7.00, which she had neatly tied up and hid away. One of these unscrupulous rascals representing the ex-slave movement came around. These supposed agents usually size up the pile and that was true in this case. And so the old woman gave this fellow her all, the seven dollars, saying "God bless you, honey; take it and do the best you can for me." He took it and she has not heard of him since. A recent arrest in Virginia discloses the fact that two white men have been operating in that State. They were attired in blue coats and brass buttons and had application blanks as well as credentials, duly authorizing them to examine ex-slaves who had attained the age of 55 and who were not worth over a thousand dollars. These men have literally swindled innocent colored people out of thousands of dollars. They have been indicted under thirty different cases. One of the men since arrest, tried to commit suicide, but failed.

These items are cited in order that our preachers may wage war on these men who are swindling our people.

There is not the ghost of a chance for the ex-slaves to be pensioned and all money paid to supposed agents is just so much poured into a rat hole and even worse. Let the people desist from such payments and chase the rascals from the community.

BISHOP ISAAC W. JOYCE, D. D., LL. D.,

Presiding this week over the Central Missouri Conference at St. Louis, Missouri

THE VICTIMS OF ACQUITTALS

Mr. Frank W. Mack, of New York, in Everybody's Magazine, is emphasizing the disadvantages of persons who are accused, tried and acquitted. "They suffer," he says, "not only the expense of the defense, but ever thereafter they are covered with suspicion." He believes the State should indemnify every innocent person arrested and acquitted of crime.

Mr. Mack's idea as to the indemnification of the "suspect" acquitted may not be very practical, nevertheless, it savors of a deal of hard common sense. Too frequently charges are made, based upon the flimsiest kind of testimony, and although it is said that every person is innocent until proven guilty, the very moment a charge is made there is a division of opinion as to the innocency trouble of meeting with rebuttal the testimony, of the person accused. The accused is put to the circumstantial and manufactured, by the prosecution, and is at no little trouble to prove his innocency. There are two observations: First, our laws are not perfect. Human institutions and governments are at their best full of faults. Second, so long as we are under the dominion of sin so long will there be inequalities in the adjustment of human relations, and true enough the innocent suffer with the guilty. There is too much proneness on the part of general humanity to make accusations, and many an innocent person has suffered untold anguish and inconvenience by some hasty and unwarranted charge, and these departed to an untimely grave with a sorrowing heart under a cloud from which they were never able to deliver themselves.

IS IT A RACE WAR

The Sunday morning dispatches told in glaring head lines of the possible race war at Senatobia, Miss. One paper is headed "IMPENDING RACE RIOT," another paper puts it "RIOT RUNS WILD." The whole trouble seems to have been that an obstreperous Negro struck a white man with a pair of brass knuckles, who was fired upon in turn by the white man, the shot taking effect, but not very seriously. Whereupon the dispatches say, "in the brief space of a half hour a company of young men had rounded up most of the objectionable characters of the community, giving each of them a severe whipping and notifying all of them to mend their ways or suffer the conse-

The Cookman Institute

By Miss Mary Neff, A. B.

The present year is a memorable one for this institution. It opened its fall session under most favorable and promising auspices, and the fondest hopes of all are more than being fulfilled in the high degree of prosperity which it is now enjoying.

Sunday, February 12, was a great day. It was the occasion when the two beautiful new buildings were dedicated. The old buildings were destroyed by the disasfrous fire which swept over Jacksonville some three years ago, carrying in its wake the old buildings which had been such a source of inspiration and encouragement to the colored people for so many years. But the Freedmen's Aid Society generously and heroically sought at once more suitable and larger quarters upon which to erect the new buildings. The land includes 7½ acres, a fine site for school purposes, with a large campus overlooking the city. The main buildings, as seen in the above illustration, stand one hundred feet from the street, and present an attractive and imposing appearance.

The interior of the main building is admirably arranged and well equipped for school purposes, having on the first floor four large, airy and well-lighted recitation rooms, which are occupied by the students of the graded department. The halls are spacious, having on one side the president's office and bookstore, and on the opposite side the music room. On the second floor is the chapel, with a seating capacity of 300, and two beautiful recitation rooms set apart for the academic students. The third floor is used as a dormitory for the boys and apartments for the teachers who have charge of the building.

The smaller building in the picture includes the president's private study, dining hall and kitchen on the first floor; on the second floor are the teachers' apartments and the girls' dormitory. All of these living rooms in both buildings are well adapted for the health, comfort and convenience of their occupants. Both buildings are heated throughout with furnaces and lit by electricity. The cost of the lot, together with the new buildings and their equipments, will exceed $30,000. These large buildings, which present such a rich and rare opportunity to the more enterprising colored youth, are now crowded to overflowing with ambitious students eager to secure an education at any price. The enrollment at present is 331, which is much larger than in many years past. Nearly every part of the state is represented, the different homes ranging from Key West to Georgia.

An educational institution of this character, having such high moral aims and Christian ideals, never lacks students. The Cookman Institute has ever stood as a center of Christian influence, aiming to mould and shape the characters of its young people as well as to train the intellect. The school, like the factory, is known by its products, and those who have been touched by its influence have gone out with new and improved ideals both of character and conduct. Its students have gone forth to teach by example and precept the poor and ignorant of their race the high art of noble living. Besides, they have served to arouse and inspire their fellow men to moral responsibilities and patriotic duties.

The services on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 12, marked an important event in this famous institution, which claims the honor of being the oldest school for colored people in Florida. The chapel was filled to overflowing with a fine representative audience, including many visitors and Northern patrons of the school. Bishop McCabe preached the sermon, after which he conducted the dedicatory services, assisted by the Rev. Dr. J. S. Todd and Rev. Dr. Charles C. Jacobs, of Sumter, Ga. The Cookman chorus of sixty voices rendered choice music.

COOKMAN INSTITUTE AND PRESIDENT DOCKING

Of course Bishop McCabe could not conduct a service without a collection, and after he had been in Florida attending the two Conferences he had learned much of the grand and glorious work this school has done for our Florida Methodism. Now that he had come and saw what the institution might accomplish with greater facilities and larger accommodations, he became enthusiastic in his pleading for generous gifts. The people responded quickly and freely, and soon about $250 were subscribed.

The outlook for the school was never brighter. Its future prospects are full of hope and encouragement. With its new buildings, so admirably located, and with its new president, the Rev. J. T. Docking, Ph. D., who comes with a kind of enthusiasm that is catching and has already imparted new life and new hopes, the school and its friends are confident that a new and prosperous era is dawning.

Instead of bewailing the passing years, the old should be chary of losing any that remain. Age should beware of rusty tools and of empty hands. To ignore the flight of time and keep straight on with your work, is to erect the best barrier against time's attacks. "Do thy work," whether old or young. "Improve the shining hour." Leave all the rest to God.—Margaret E. Sangster.

"Oh, don't let us always be a talking about bearin' His will, and sufferni' His will. Let's talk about enjoyin' His will. When the baby is pinin' away and sickly, an' dyin', that be His will, perhaps; but that be His will, too, when the baby be a great big, thumpin' boy, and thrives uncommon. It be God's will, perhaps—if it ben't our own carelessness—when the house be burnt down, and we escape with our lives. But it be the Lord's will, too, all the days that we come and go, and find all safe and sound. The Father's will isn't that we should be out in a far country perishin' with hunger. His will is the best robe and the fatted calf; the comin' home, and the bein' merry. 'My meditation of Him shall be sweet.' You may say what you like about sufferin' the Lord's will; I shall talk about enjoyin' it and delightin' in it."—Daniel Quorm.

Our life is but the childhood of our eternity, the school days preparatory for the immortal years beyond.—Canon Farrar.

Some one has said: "The soul in its highest sense is a vast capacity for God." I would add the word "elastic;" the soul is a vast and an elastic capacity for God. The more we fill in the blank, the more room there is for further filling in; the more our heart is crowded with the Divine Presence, the greater room there is for more of that Presence.—Thomas S. Hastings, D. D.

Many of us are walking in the shadow of death; all of us know something of its gloom. To us each and all there comes the proffer of guidance and cheer from Him who has passed through a lifetime of death's shadow, and who knows what of its imaginings have any basis of reality, and what are needless fears.

"Christ leads us through no darker rooms
Than He went through before."

Ministerial Faithfulness

By Rev. Joseph Courtney, D D.

he consideration of this subject is of great im-tance. The call to the ministry embraces sev- things. A great world of wickedness is be- us, and God has devised ways and means for redemption. The minister is not only called preach the Gospel, but he is to have the special e of souls. In fact, he, under God, is the er of souls—that is, he is instrumental in ir salvation. He is an official, authorized of l to administer divine truth both to the church among the people at large. This high office ries with it grave responsibilities, he is to ren- an impartial account to God for the faithful formance of his duties. He is warned against dling the Word of God deceitfully. He can- be instrumental in bringing glory to God and fication to the church by practicing deception. may under such a strain, succeed in a way, he is at the same time under condemnation ore the bar of his conscience. "Be not de- ved; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a n soweth, that shall he also reap."

here is a grat deal of fault-finding with the ple to-day by many of thie ministers. They m that no remedy can be found to remove ny of the evils which are supposed to be prac- d by scores of church members. To my ught, one of the best remedies adducible is isterial faithfulness in the performance of y, which would obviate many of the evils of ich there is so much complaint. Many of the churches and ministers are doing but little to reach and train the young people and the children as they should be religiously, hence the fundamental cause for much of said complaints. Can we hope to have a better church in the future, except we now educate and properly train the recruits who are to compose it?

Because this is not being done as generally as it should be—there are insome instances apparent manifest indifferences on the part of many, especially the young people, in the deep affairs o the church. And because of this, it is reported that many of the younger ministers with ability are turning aside from their high calling to other pursuits. Why should this be? Should not the strong bear the infirmities of the weak? Could not such young men bring great honor to themselves and glory to God by helping develop and strengthen their weaker brethren? Is God a failure? Is His church a mere myth, and not a divine reality? What is the history of the church in the past? Has not God uncovered His arm in the defence of His people? Has not the church triumphed gloriously over all forms of opposition? They have been great and many; but thank God here is the church to-day in front of the world's progress, leading on to glorious victory over sin. The Methodist Episcopal Church has set forth in its discipline, on "Pastoral Fidelity," some things well worth serious and prayerful consideration by every pastor. It is not strange to be confronted by difficulties in all lines of business, and the church is not an exception to the rule. We quote the following from this Discipline: "'We shall find many hindrances, both in ourselves and the people.' 1. In ourselves their is much dullness and laziness, so that there will be much ado to get us to be faithful in the work. 2. We have a base, man-pleasing temper, so that we let people perish rather than lose their love; we let them go quietly to hell lest we should offend them. 3. Some of us also have a foolish bashfulness. We know not how to begin, and blush to contradict the devil. 4. But the greatest hindrance is weakness of faith. Our whole motion is weak, because the spirit of it is weak. 5. Lastly, we are unskillful in the work. How few know how to deal with men, so as to get within them, and suit all our discourses to their several conditions and tempers; to choose the fittest subjects and follow them with a holy mixture of seriousness, terror, love and meekness."

How easy it is for pastors to prepare themselves by a careful study of the above to successfully meet many of the difficulties which confront them in their work. We are co-workers with God in the exangelization of the world. Let us be faithful and measured success will be ours to enjoy. "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

Atlanta Conference

he delegates from the various auxiliaries re introduced. It could be seen by this num- of wide-awake ladies and their excellent re- ts that the vice-presidents had their districts e and at work. The report from the Confer- e Organizer was very encouraging. Every ny was carefully accounted for by the treas- r.

Mrs. Rev. n Crolley was present from the Savannah nference, and spoke feelingly of her efforts to vance the work in the charges where she has n sent.

Rev. George Standing was at his best. He ught many fresh, good thoughts from the old ntry. He was given the Chautauqua salute. e solos by Mrs. Dr. W. F. Penn, Mrs. N. J. lley and the duet by Misses Mendell and odard were a rare treat to the Convention. r dear sister Julia Montgomery is a faithful rker, and the sisters are always glad to shake hands and hear her tell of her struggles to p the society going where money is so scarce and women have so little time to call their own. Our prayer service before each session was much enjoyed. Every interest of the Woman's Home Missionary Society was looked into by the president, and each lady was requested to ask questions, and to discuss freely any part of the work of this great society. These questions and discussions were indeed helpful. Our two deaconesses, Misses Annie E. Hall and Martha Drummer, were present at all times, and were great factors in making the meeting a success. The Corresponding Secretary was busy from the start to the finish in helping the ladies to plan for their new work. The meeting was well taken care of by Rev. J. H. Matthews and his faithful members.

The following officers were elected for 1905: President, Mrs. E. H. Oliver; President at Large, Mrs. L. J. Price; Vice-president of the Atlanta District, Mrs. J. N. C. Coggins; Vice-president of the Gainesville District, Mrs. G. W. Arnold; Vice-president of the Griffin District, Mrs. J. E. Watkins; Vice-president of the Rome District, Mrs. S. A. Kane; Corresponding Secretary, Miss F. Mitchel; Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. P. Wragg; Treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Rush; Conference Organizer, Mrs. A. P. Melton; Secretary for Young People's Work, Miss M. I. Hardwick; Secretary of the Mite Box Department, Mrs. R. T. Weatherby.

After singing "Blest be the tie that binds," the Convention adjourned.

How She Managed It . . . . . .

"You are always invited everywhere," said one girl to another, enviously. "How do you manage it?"

"I don't manage at all," replied the other, rather resentfully; "but when I am asked I try to earn my bread and butter!"

This, of course, meant that the speaker tried, by being as agreeable as she knew how to be, to make some return for the hospitality she received. A girl who goes everywhere in a critical spirit cannot expect to be a very welcome guest. If it happens that her own especial friends are not present and she will not exert herself to be nice to the other guests, even if they are not of her "set," it is not probable that her hostess will be in any haste to ask her again. There are some girls, on the other hand, who diffuse an air of friendliness and of being pleased with everyone and everything that is delightful. They are not insincere, either, but they have the blessed faculty of getting the best out of everybody with whom they are thrown in contact. One of our most brilliant women, one whose name is a household word in almost every American family, once said to the writer, "I have never yet met anyone who, no matter how stupid he or she might appear at first, did not prove, on closer acquaintance, to know at least in one line far more than I do!" It would be well if we could all take to heart this lesson in gracious humility and try to learn from those we consider our inferiors, rather than to condescend to them.—Harper's Bazar.

There are many people in the world who don't know what they really are till circumstances show them.—Jean Ingelow.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Kneeling at the Treshold

THOMAS GUTHRIE.

I'm kneeling at the threshold, weary, faint and sore;
Waiting for the dawning, for the opening of the door;
Waiting till the Master shall bid me rise and come
To the glory of his presence, to the gladness of his home.

A weary path I've traveled, 'mid darkness, storm and strife.
Bearing many a burden, struggling for my life;
But now the morn is breaking, my toil will soon be o'er;
I'm kneeling at the threshold, my hand is on the door.

Methinks I hear the voices of the blessed as they stand,
Singing in the sunshine in the far-off sinless land:
Oh, would that I were with them, amid their shining throng,
Mingling in their worship, joining in their song!

The friends that started with me have entered long ago;
One by one they left me struggling with the foe;
Their pilgrimage was shorter, their triumph surer won,
How lovingly they'll hail me, when all my toil is done!

With them the blessed angels that know no grief or sin,
I see them by the portals, prepared to let me in.
O Lord, I wait thy pleasure; thy time and way are best;
But I'm wasted, worn and weary; O Father, bid me rest!

How to Sweeten Life

Open all the doors to the religion of Christ. It will make this world a paradise. It will sweeten the every day trials of life, the little perplexities and annoyances, little sorrows and trials, little disappointments and mistakes. Nature ever helps the tiny objects. A small flower blossoms at my feet. The clouds gather swiftly in the sky to water it; infinite chemistry works at its roots to nourish it; the mighty power of gravitation and other equally incomprehensible forces hold it and guard it; the sun rises and shines to paint beauty upon its cheek; the winds are marshaled to fan it; everything is made to contribute to the comfort of this tiny flower. The religion of Christ is suited to tired men and women and children. It is suited to the office, the cradle, the sewing-machine, the headache, the heartache, the nursery, the schoolroom, the lonely attic, the evening ramble. It should sweeten all the moments, thoughts and feelings, the voice, the conversation, the toils and afflictions of life ,the temper, and the heart; and all may have and enjoy it.—Ram's Horn.

The Upper Way

BY W. C. STILES.

THE FREEDOM OF A MAN.*—"This was the great secret of thyself. Into thee, as into no other, God by his plan of love put the element of the risk and the faculty of freedom. That is to say, he made thee capable to be his Friend. He made thee so that thou couldst not be forced to love him, even though he wrought on thee with infinite power infinitely multiplied. Into this dust-formed man, as into no other, he put his own breath of will and spirit, and by this he provided that thou shouldst never be coerced. Not even himself was excepted. He put it out of his power to coerce thee, just as truly as it is beyond the power of any ordinary friend of thine."

GOD TOOK THE RISK.—"There is no ape in all the African forests that can make God suffer. There is no fish that swims the sea, nor any bird that sweeps the air, out here where we walk under the canopy, that can bring a pang to God's heart and God's love. And had he never made thee, and beings like thee, he would have entered upon no risk of suffering. But on that far day when into this dust-formed art shape, soon to be a man, God, to make it man, breathed his own free life, and the art shape awoke from his sleep of nothingness and found that he could say, even feebly, and only as a cry, 'I can,' and 'I will,' in that hour God took the risk. At last here is a being who can cause God to rejoice—and who can also cause him to suffer. God took the risk."

THE TASK OF ATONEMENT.—"How shall God apply the bond of his love, of his transcendant glory, of his holy character, of his perfect spiritual order to a man? The man is as yet unordered. More, he is viciously disordered, so far as he has sinned. How shall God induce him to put himself in order; how shall God bring him up to the ordered way? How shall he give him a right standing side by side with himself in the perfect order of heavenly life?

"Now I conceive that any philosophy of an atonement must answer these questions. The Atonement that God may provide must be supposed capable of restoring the order, that is the broken law, of a man's life."

THE SINNER, THYSELF.—Are you not a sinner, my friend? Do you see nothing yet higher to reach after? There is ignorance, colossal and binding, and death comes after swiftly. Caught you are in the great nature pang of the universe, and you cannot escape. There is life on the mountain, and somewhere a fount of perpetual youth, but where is our strength? It is absurd to pause and say, 'This is religion,' or 'This is theology.' Remember Thyself. Tissue of vanishing atoms, whirled in the bosom of endless years—where art thou? Struggling in quagmires, while thou hast not been able to hide thine eyes from the light that burns on mountain tops! It may be religion to consider how thou wilt get home, but is not the question interesting?"

THE BESETTING GOD.—"A man may turn away and say: 'Go to, let us be wicked. Let us have no more to do with God. Let us take the risk. Let us drive him entirely away.' How daring! And how futile! We dream a dream the first uneasy night, and wake to say: 'It was a strange dream. How could it be if there is no God?' Sudden revolt from our audacity comes unaware, and we fling ourselves in the green grass and cry out: 'But there is! There is!' And somehow, after all our effort, when the psalmist speaks to us, 'As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God,' we assent with a groan. O, that we might be rid of him! O, that he would let us alone! But he will not let us alone. Not a day goes by without a mystery, and something is behind it that we cannot explain until we have uttered the Ineffable Name."

Sowing and Reaping

BY REV. E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D.

I wonder if out in the highways,
Or whithersoever I go,
I must gather the strength of the harvest,
Whose fruitage, is that which I sow.

If of toil, and of tears and of sorrow,
For the sake of the souls that I know?
Will my Savior His tender compassion,
And His wonderful mercy bestow?

In the morn, and at even-tide sowing,
Nor with-holding from weaker, or strong;
A harvest of bounty; all growing,
With grateful, and jubilant song.

Some day, when the sowing is over,
And life's toilsome quest be no more,
I shall enter the rest of the faithful,
That remains, on that beautiful shore.

Postal Card Sermon

BY B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: John 14: 27. Theme: Christ's Legacy to the World.

It is said that good counsel is the best legacy a father can leave for his child. The best and only thing Jesus had to leave, to bequeath to the world, was His peace. He was too poor in earthly goods to leave anything else in His last will and testament.

Augustus, the emperor of Rome, when about to die bequeathed as a valuable legacy to his successors, the advice of confining the empire within those limits which nature seemed to have placed as its permanent bulwarks and boundaries, but they sought to get more, and lost all. Our Savior, the King of Kings, before He died had nothing better to give his followers than His peace, which they have to-day, after nineteen hundred years, in its original form and essence.

Christ's legacy holds the first place in the galaxy of Christianity. It was the theme of the angel's song on the plains of Bethlehem. It was the voice that hushed the howling cyclone and the raging waters on the sea of Galilee. It was the mighty instrument that took David up out of the horrible pit. It is the power that reconciles God to man. It is the dove of our salvation, and God's best gift to the world. Christ's legacy in its operation gives rest to anxious souls; assurance that satisfies, and comforts man in sorrow, and inspires, and animates his hope, and is the life of genuine repentance.

The strength and duration of Christ's legacy is seen in that it is able to satisfy the soul, strengthen the heart, lift up the spirit in death, illuminate the grave, bridge the river of death, open the gates of heaven, and bring man home to God the Father in heaven.

Have you received the great and wonderful legacy of the world's Redeemer, which he left for you, nearly nineteen hundred years ago? If so, keep it and use it; if not, get it and appreciate it.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Open the Door of Your Heart

Open the door of your heart, my lad,
To the angels of love and truth;
When the world is full of unnumbered joys,
In the beautiful dawn of youth.
Casting aside all things that mar,
Saying to wrong, "Depart!"
To the voices of hope that are calling you
Open the door of your heart.

Open the door of your heart, my lass,
To the things that shall abide;
To the holy thoughts that lift your soul
Like the stars at eventide.
All of the fadeless flowers that bloom
In the realms of song and art
Are yours, if you'll only give them room.
Open the door of your heart.

Open the door of your heart, my friend,
Heedless of class or creed,
When you hear the cry of a brother's voice,
The sob of a child in need.
To the shining heaven that o'er you bends
You need no map or chart,
But only the love the Master gave.
Open the door of your heart.

A Hint For Little Tapers

Remember that every one—not almost every , but every one—is shining upon somebody ly or brightly, every day. If you are follow- of Christ, so much the more are you, young old, "the light of the world."

One night a man took a little taper out of a wer and lighted it, and began to ascend a long, ding stair.

"Where are you going?" said the taper.

"Away, high up," said the man, "higher than top of the house where we sleep."

"And what are you going to do there?" said little taper.

"I am going to show the ships out at sea where harbor is," said the man, "for we stand at entrance to a harbor, and some ship far out the stormy sea may be looking for our light n now."

"Alas! no ship could ever see my light," said little taper; "it is so very small."

"If your light is small," said the man, "keep burning brightly and leave the rest to me."

Well, when the man got up to the top of the hthouse—for this was a lighthouse they were —he took the little taper, and with it he lighted great lamps that stood ready with their pol- ed reflectors behind them. And soon they were rning, steady and clear, throwing a great, ong beam of light across the sea. By this time lighthouse man had blown out the little taper d laid it aside. But it had done its work. ough its own light had been so small, it had en the means of kindling the great lights in the of the lighthouse, and these were now shining er the sea, so that ships far out knew by it here they were and were guided safely into the rbor.—The Wellspring.

Rothschild's Rules

A well-known New York millionaire gives to ch new employee a set of rules of conduct, en- aved on a square of stiff white cardboard. he rules are those that the founder of the great nking-house of Rothschild formulated and be- queathed to his children. They read as follows:

"Carefully examine every detail of your business.

"Be prompt in everything.

"Take time to consider, but decide positively.

"Dare to go forward.

"Bear troubles patiently.

"Be brave in the struggle of life.

"Maintain your integrity as a sacred thing.

"Never tell business lies.

"Make no useless acquaintainces.

"Pay your debts promptly.

"Employ your time well.

"Do not reckon chance.

"Work hard. —Newark News.

Make Your Opportunities

The opportunities are here yet. But there are no opportunities for the boy who sits down and grumbles about there being "no chance of rising in this business." Opportunity will never come to those fellows.

Men make their own opportunities by hard work and by conserving their employers' interests. No matter how many men are employed in an establishment, the employer will keep watch of the man he finds working two hours overtime. The man working just wants to work without telling the employer anything about it. The employer will find it out.

When the man is sent to do a thing he ought to do it without asking how it ought to be done, even if he makes a mistake. If he is doing the work wrong he will be told so quick enough. Let him just jump into the breach and do it to the best of his ability. Let him work every day as if he was "carrying a message to Garcia."—Harlow N. Higinbotham.—Northwestern Advocate.

Some Sins of the Tongue.—Slander: How easily we speak slightlingly of another!

Slang: How common this loose and vulgar fault!

Blasphemy: How thoughtless some good-meaning people!

Profanity: A foolish and wicked habit.

Falsehood: How common the "white lies" of a worldly and wicked society!

Uncleanness: Only a bad heart will tolerate the bad joke and story.

Complaining: How forgetful we are of the mercies of God!

Some Right Uses of the Tongue.—Thanksgiving: Praising God for His mercies.

Testimony: Confessing Christ before men.

Invitation: Asking others to come to Christ.

Comfort: Cheering up the soul of the sad.

Consolation: Encouraging the despairing to trust.

Witnessing: Convicting the wickedness of sin.

Reproof: Kindly given, not in anger but sorrow.

Singing: Offering the tribute of praise and worship.

Oh, how many are the will-o'-the-wisps that rise up in the way to frighten the Christian from the path of duty! Yet they are but mists that vanish, or are seen only at a distance, and to which we never catch up. We see before us some great temptation, and looking through the magnifying glass of our imagination we think that we shall never be able to overcome it. We only think of our own weak selves, forgetting to trust in the strong arm of our Father in heaven, who will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able; but with the temptation will also make a way of escape.—G. B. F. Hallock, D. D., in "Upward Steps."

Home Mission Notes

By a special invitation, Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk was one of the guests at the unveiling of the statue of Frances A. Willard, in Statuary Hall, at the Capitol in Washington, D. C., on February 17. At the special services held in Miss Willard's honor in the evening at Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, Mrs. Fisk was invited to the platform, and was one of the speakers of the evening.

The Home Mission text-book for 1905, entitled "The Burden of the City," appears to be meeting a general want. The demand for it is large, and it is spoken of in terms of strong commendation by the auxiliaries who have taken up the study. It may be ordered of Miss Van Marter, 150 Fifth Ave., New York. Price 50 cents, cloth; 30 cents, paper, net. The postage is 7 cents for the cloth edition, 5 cents for the paper.

Bishop and Mrs. Walden, who have been visiting institutions under the care of the church in the South, made the teachers and students of Browning Home, Camden, S. C., very happy by their presence and their inspiring sympathy. The superintendent of Browning Home writes, "They were so genial, so interested, and so sympathetic in everything that we shall carry the joy of their visit through all the year."

There is a family of eighty-four girls in Browning Home this year. This means constant and painstaking work on the part of the five teachers. There are 270 pupils in the day-school. A number of applications to the Home have been refused for lack of room. It is hoped that another year four additional rooms may be furnished, thus providing sleeping rooms and a dining room to accommodate one hundred girls. A delightful revival has recently occurred in which were thirty conversions among the Home girls. Every member of the Home is now a Christian. The girls and teachers have sent their contributions to the Silver Birthday offering.

The beautiful Silver Birthday offering card prepared by Mrs. C. W. Gallagher especially for the use of Young People's Societies is meeting with great favor. The card is in national blue, printed in silver, bearing upon its face the answers to several questions concerning the work, and at the bottom "25 YEARS" in large letters, which are adorned with twenty-five stars, each to be punched for no less than ten cents, thus making the amount of $2.50, which is the required amount from auxiliary and circle members. The cards are supplied free to the Young People's Societies. Auxiliaries desiring to purchase them can do so by applying to Mrs. C. W. Gallagher, 1146 Capitol Street, Washington, D. C., or to Miss Van Marter, 150 Fifth Ave., N. Y., and sending the purchase price, which is at the rate of fifty cents per hundred.

The Oriental Home in San Francisco is doing excellent work. Six young girls to remain permanently in the Home have been received during the last few months. This is not a small matter—to receive into a Christian Home the girls from a heathen land, doomed to destruction in this land of the free, and train them in Christian life and knowledge of Christian home-making.

Marcy Home Kindergarten, Chicago, Ill., is made up almost entirely of Jewish children. They have a delightful sunny south room, fitted up with ferns and palms and bright pictures, in which they come to work and play five mornings of each week. The sewing school and kindergarten connected with the Home are full of interest, and give promise of great good. The Home is a center of busy activities, and in and through all the religion of the Lord Jesus is being quietly and effectively taught.

The Medical Mission, 36 Hull street, Boston, Mass., hopes some day to have a summer home of its own to which weary mothers and sick children can be taken for a little needed rest. Many of the families of the Mission live in two dark, miserable rooms, where they have but little light or air. In one such family a little boy of nine years, during the illness of the mother, attended to all the house-work, and took care of three younger children. The connection of this family with the Mission was a boon to them indeed. Dr. Harriette J. Cooke is still the capable and greatly beloved superintendent of the Mission.

Lesson XII—March 17, 1918. Title—"Healing of the Man Born Blind." (John 9: 1-11.) Golden Text—"I am the Light of the World." (John 9: 5.)

Jesus is still at the feast of tabernacles. The time is a Sabbath in October A. D. 29, probably soon after our last lesson, and near the close of the third year of our Lord's ministry. There had been warm contention between Jesus and the Pharisees. They took up stones to cast at Him, but He passed through their midst and went away.

I. The miracle (1-7). 1. The man born blind. It is likely this miracle was wrought soon after Jesus left the Pharisees. This blind man was a beggar. He frequented the temple, and was well known to the Jews. To heal him was a blessing to him and a relief to the public. His condition very forcibly illustrates the state of the unsaved.

2. The question of the disciples: "Master, who did sin, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" Many of the Jews believed that all diseases and afflictions could be traced back to some great sin. They taught that God visited the iniquities of the fathers upon the children. Many diseases, or a field for them, are inherited. But how could they think it possible for a man to sin before he was born? We must exist before we can act. Some Jews believed in the transmigration of souls. I do not suppose any of the disciples thus believed. Possibly they claimed this man was being afflicted for sins committed in a former body. False doctrines are dangerous and hard to remove. God may suffer any one to believe a lie and be condemned.

3. The answer of Jesus. (1) "Neither this man hath sinned, nor his parents." This blindness was a result of sin, but not of actual transgression on the part of his ancestors. Adam sinned. This man was not responsible for it, yet he suffered from it. Sin is in the race, it is no fault of ours that it is here, yet we feel the bad effects of it. (2) "But that the work of God should be made manifest." This man was not born blind that the glory of God might be displayed. The Lord never does evil that good may come of it. But because of existing evils this man was blind, and the power of God will be clearly seen as a result of this blindness. (3) "I must work the work of Him that sent me while it is day." The works of God are largely to seek the salvation of our soul, to use the means of grace, and to be charitable to the poor. To work the works of God is to discharge every obligation we are under to Him, and to His creatures. We should do these works "while it is day," or during this life. This was the blind man's opportunity. If he had missed it he probably would never have been healed. We should improve every chance to do good. When passed they are gone forever. (4) "The night cometh when no man can work." Night here no doubt means death. Every man's work on earth is finished, so far as individual effort goes, when he departs this life. But our words and deeds live after us, and produce their good or bad results while we sleep in the grave.

4. The healing of the blind man. (1) The act of Jesus: "He spit on the ground, made clay of the spittle, and anointed the eyes of the blind with the clay." It is not certainly known why Jesus did this. He could have healed this man as He did the two men at Jericho some time later. But Bartimus had given abundant evidence of faith, and this man had not shown his confidence in Jesus in any way. This work may have been to test his belief. There was no virtue in the clay. The miracle was clear, and the people so understood it. (2) The command: "Go wash in the pool of Siloam." This pool is just south of Jerusalem. Its sides are walled with stone. It is fifty-four feet long and eighteen feet wide, and is likely fed with water from the temple mount (Whedon). Elisha told Naaman to wash in Jordan seven times (2 Kings 5: 10). When Jesus commands we do well to obey. (3) The blind man did as Jesus directed. He went, he washed, and he came seeing. This clearly showed his faith. He felt sure he would be healed if he obeyed. Sinners if they would be saved must believe in Jesus and do His will.

II. The Investigation (8-11). 1. By neighbors and others. (1) "Is not this he that sat and begged?" They were undecided about this man. They did not think it possible that he could be the blind beggar. They were divided. Some said, "this is he;" others said, "he looks like him." When the man was called and questioned he said, "I am he." This man, though a blind beggar, was of good material. When Jesus brings us out of the darkness of sin into the light of truth we should tell others about it. (2) "How were thine eyes opened?" Many of the greatest discourses of Jesus are results of accusations by His enemies. The parable of the Prodigal Son, and that of the Good Samaritan, and that of the Vineyard, would likely never have been spoken if all men had been friendly to Jesus. We may be fairly inquisitive, but should always show prudence, wisdom and goodness in our questions. The man's answer to this question showed courage and firmness. He never denied Jesus, or gave an uncertain sound as to who healed him. His parents showed weakness, even cowardice. But the healed man suffered persecution, and expulsion from the synagogue, for being true to Jesus. The grace of God can work wonderful changes in the heart of man, so great is the reformation in his life. They should give Jesus the glory for all He does for them.

2. By the Pharisees. (1) The friends of the healed man took him before the Pharisees to ascertain if in their judgment a miracle had been wrought, or to hear their explanation of this strange work. We should seek the opinion of others in matters we do not understand. (2) This miracle was wrought on the Sabbath day. The Jews taught that works of necessity, works of charity, and works of devotion, might be done on the Sabbath. This was a work of charity. The Sabbath was not broken when the man was healed. We can be over zealous on Sabbath observance. (3) The Pharisees asked the man how he had been healed. He related to them the whole matter. He told the same story every time. He was perfectly true to Jesus. It is well to get all the facts possible in a case before we give a decision. (4) They reached different conclusions. Some said: "This man is not of God because he keepeth not the Sabbath." This accusation was not true. Jesus had not broken the Sabbath. But this was the only point they could make against Him, and they made the most of it. It is easy to draw wrong inferences from the work of others. Others said: "How can a man that is a sinner do such miracles?" This was another false accusation. Jesus was not a sinner. He never broke a divine law. The Pharisees just called Him a sinner. Many false accusations were brought against Jesus. The man who had been healed said: "He is a Prophet." He can foretell events, teach the people, and exercise the power of God. He is more than man. Only those who come in touch with Jesus know Him.

Glorifying God in our Daily Work

Scripture References: Matt. 5: 13-16; Rom. 12: 11.

The Word.—A part of the Sermon on the Mount, our first Scripture selection enjoins certain duties upon the "blessed ones." After the benedictions come the injunctions. They are "salt" and "light," and as the former they must purify and preserve, and as the latter they must illuminate. The passage from Romans is in the consecration chapter, and deals with consecration applied to our business. We are exhorted to be zealous, fervent, and faithful in our daily business. Both unite to emphasize the fact that we are to be faithful to God in every secular relationship, and thus glorify God in our daily life.

Our Homily: Salt and Light.—Salt and light are the two most essential elements in the world for life. Each element expresses a quality which is essential in the Christian and practical in its relation to our everyday work. Notice the Christian—

As the Salt of the Earth. Salt is a nourishing substance. It is a universal condiment. It renders food palatable and healthful. So the Christian makes the world a fit place in which to live. Salt preserves and keeps from corruption. So the Christian is the conservator of society. The church saves the world from moral putrefaction. Salt has also a biting and consuming power. It is an irritating force when brought in contact with a wound. So real Christianity has an irritating power to disturb sin and the enmity of wicked men. If we are what we should be as Christians we will oppose and stir up wickedness. We are to be as salt—nourishing, preserving, and consuming.

As the Light of the World. Light is the great illuminator. Whether the natural light of the sun or the artificial light of oil or electricity, it uncovers and discovers. It displaces the darkness and cold of the night. It gives life to the world. So the Christian is the light of this moral world. He uncovers the hidden things, and illuminates the mind discovering sin to men. There are some things that all may not do, but every Christian can shine. In any humble place, under any condition, you may be the light of your little world.

This Influence to Be Exerted in Daily Life. We are not to be religious only when on exhibition. We are to be the "salt" and "light" in our everyday business life. We are to exemplify our religion in our working clothes. In the home, in the store, in the school, and where duty may take us, there we are to be the light and salt of life. We are to make our religion an everyday affair. In practical ways we are to glorify God everywhere and everywhen.

Salt—

When unused becomes useless and valueless.
Has a preservative power and keeps from death.
Has a biting and consuming force to stir up.
Is a type of the wide-awake Christian.

Light—

Is but a reflection of the great sun.
Discovers the truth to men.
Helps another to find the way.
Causes the darkness to go away.
Is a type of the influential Christian.

The Daily Life—

Is the real life.
Is more potential than what we say.
Is making character and destiny constantly.
Is the only real test of the Christian's life.
Is the best and really only place where we can glorify God.—From Notes On the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

Our people in and around Clow, Ark., are doing remarkably well. It is estimated that they own in that vicinity 2,000 acres of land, while in an adjoining county, known as Walnut Grove, they own about 1,500 acres. Clow is the seat of Clow Academy, which is a feeder to Philander Smith College.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has authorized President King of Oberlin College to state that all moneys which have been lost by students through the failure of the Citizens' National Bank, which closed its doors at the time of the Chadwick exposure, would be paid by him on presentation of their passbooks. It is also stated that Mr. Carnegie will also pay the losses, by the bank's failure, of widows, old soldiers, and others who would have been impoverished by the bank's failure. He also reimburses the Young Men's Christian Association to the extent of about $3,000, which was lost in the failure. This generous action on the part of Mr. Carnegie is prompted by the fact that the failure of the bank was due to the fraudulent use of his name in securing loans by Mrs. Chadwick.

The nine landscape paintings of William A. Harper, a Negro artist of some distinction, have been awarded blue ribbons by the Municipal Art League of Chicago, and ordered hung in the Institute. Mr. Harper will go to Europe and competent judges say he will win fame in a few years.

Of the 13,204 living persons who were catalogued in Mr. John W. Leonard's book, "Who's Who in America," 10,618 furnish data concerning their educational advantages: 73.41 per cent. of these were college men. Among the others 11 per cent. had a classical education in academies, 1 per cent. in normal schools, 3 per cent. in high schools, leaving only 10 per cent. from the common schools and about 3 per cent. who had private education. This is a very striking example of the advantage of college training. All men are not constructed for classical education, but the small per cent. who are thus favored forge easily to the front.

Across the St. Lawrence at Quebec there is now in course of erection a cantilever bridge, which will contain the largest span of any bridge yet erected. Its length over all is 4,220 feet, the total width of the floor is 80 feet, and through it will be laid a double track railway, two roadways for vehicles, and two sidewalks.

The Chicago Board of Education has under consideration the establishment of a department in the Normal School in which teachers will receive instructions that will enable them to impart to dumb pupils an oral method of communication. This system is already installed in the public schools of Chicago and by its use dumb children are growing up and entering the ordinary walks of life and dispatch the duties of the same with almost as much ease as their less handicapped fellows.

President Roosevelt has received from Senor Quesada, the Cuban Minister, a gift which will increase in value each year, in the shape of a handsomely bound Russia leather volume, on the pages of which is the correspondence between Cuba and the various powers of the world when that new Republic became a part of our great nation.

The colossal plaster casts of statuary, which were among the main features of the St. Louis Exposition, have been secured by the Inaugural Committee of the Presidential Inauguration and will line the route of the inaugural procession. Each night during inaugural week the whole city of Washington will be brilliantly illuminated and the fireworks, which will be the special features of one evening, are expected to exceed in splendor anything of the kind ever witnessed in this country.

MISS SCOTT'S TRIUMPHANT DEATH

The funeral of Miss Marie Adele Scott, daughter of Bishop I. B. Scott, took place at Clark Memorial M. E. Church, Nashville, Tenn., Sunday, February 19th. The spacious auditorium was filled with sympathizing friends, who, in a very tender and pathetic way, gave demonstration of their profound sympathy with Mrs. Scott and family. The exercises begun with that beautiful hymn, "Nearer my God to Thee." Dr. J. A. Kumler, president of Walden University, offered a fervent prayer. The choral class of Clark Memorial rendered very sweetly the hymn, "I Would Not Live Alway." The pastor, Rev. T. W. Johnson, read 2 Cor. 15th. Dr. Josie Wells and Rev. G. W. Henderson, D. D., dean of the School of Theology of Fisk University, both of whom were intimate friends of the family, spoke feelingly of the character and life of the deceased. Remarks were made also by President Kumler and by Dr. G. W. Hubbard, Dean of Meharry Medical College, and Rev. Ruston Taylor, pastor of Lee Avenue Christian Church. The solo, "Thy Will Be Done" was very beautifully rendered by Dr. Hardy, of Meharry. A touching letter from Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, of Gammon Theological Seminary; resolutions of sympathy from Spellman Seminary, of which the deceased had been a student, and the hymn, by request of the family, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," were a sad but fitting finale to the beautiful life so suddenly ended. The floral offerings were profuse as well as expressive of the high esteem in which the family is held by their many sympathizing friends. The obsequies were unusually impressive, and prayers were fervently offered to the Throne of Grace for Mrs. Scott and her children, as well as for the father, Bishop Scott, in his distant field. The casket was then borne to the Greenwood Cemetery.

METHODISM IN ITALY UNITED

Word has been received at the Mission Rooms of the final consummation of negotiations which have been going on for more than a year, looking towards the uniting of the Evangelical Church of Italy with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Italy and with the Wesleyan Methodist Church. The matter first came before the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society for consideration at the February meeting in 1904. A special grant of $5,000 made by the General Missionary Committee at Boston for the support of this work becomes available from the first of January, 1905. The churches and stations which come to the Methodist Episcopal Church by this union are scattered all over Italy from Udine in the extreme north to Scicli, the southeastern point of Sicily. By far the larger number of the stations, however, are in central and northern Italy, most of them within the bounds of the Rome District.

By this union there have been united to our church sixteen stations, having a total membership of about 500, besides 200 probationers. There are good schools at three points. In six of the cities or towns there is good church property, estimated to have a total value of about $47,000. The most valuable church properties are in the cities of Venice and Leghorn, in the first of which the Methodist Episcopal Church has no church property, and never before has it had any work in Leghorn. Of the sixteen stations already mentioned, only two of them are in cities, viz.: Venice and Pisa, where our church is already at work. But in each of these two cases the union of the churches will decidedly strengthen our activities.

OUR WORK IN INDIA

Bishop Frank W. Warne, after holding the North India and the Northwest India Conferences, writes that both were seasons of peculiar interest. There have been increases in practically every direction. In the North India Conference during the year just closed, there were 3,466 baptisms and in the Northwest India Conference 9,111 baptisms, and an increase in the Christian community in the North India Conference of 2,355 and in the Northwest India Conference of 7,911, or a total increase in the Christian community of 10,266. The Christian community of the North India Conference is now 47,619 and of the Northwest India Conference 72,222, or a grand total of 129,841 in the Christian community of these two Conferences. "Beyond that," says Bishop Warne, "there are within the bounds of these two conferences 50,000 enquiriers, at a very low estimate, whom we cannot baptize because we have not workers trained to care for the applicants for baptism who desire to become Christians. Was there ever anything more wonderful in Church history? Thirty-five dollars a year will put a man and his wife in training to become pastor teachers, and we have hundreds we could train from among our Christians if we had the money to support them.

"We are making a specialty of the Jubilee in India. We have made a call for one hundred and fifty thousand rupees from our Indian Christians, and have fully organized and are expecting to raise the full amount of an average of one rupee for every member of the Christian community. We have made a call for ten thousand rupees from the children of the Mission in India, and ten thousand children's hearts for Jesus. We began fifty years ago without a Christian, but we will begin the second half-century with well on towards two hundred thousand Christians and another one hundred thousand enquirers. Who can estimate what shall be done during the second half-century? I have never seen such enthusiasm and hopefulness among the Indian missionaries as there is now. There is great rejoicing over the new recruits who have recently come to us from America."

SHALL THE NEGRO HOLD OFFICE

The Christian Advocate, published in Nashville, Tenn., in a recent issue, commenting upon the President Lincoln's Birthday speech, says:

"It is singular that neither Bishop nor President can see that if by 'civil privileges' is meant the holding of public office, then the distinction cannot be maintained. Here precisely is the crux of the problem. Southern people do not especially object to the Negro's voting, provided he has qualified himself for it. But so long as he is outlawed socially—as he will be always—just so long is he ineligible for office, outside the limited number of offices which would bring him into contact with his own people only. Is this unreasonable? So is race antipathy. Is race repulsion deep-seated, ineradicable? So is the objection to Negro officebearers. The sooner the President comes to understand this, the better for his peace of mind and for his relations with the people of the South."

There seems to be considerable confusion as to what is meant by social equality, and credit is due the Advocate for clearing the mist just a little. The Advocate includes under the term of "social equality" office-holding, for the reason, it is alleged, that office-holding because it brings white and level. We wonder if our confrere has not shut his eyes just a little bit to the circumstances around him. He objects to office-hohlding because it brings white and colored people in contact with each other. As a matter of fact there are a number of official positions in the discharge of which there are no social functions whatever connected therewith. On the other hand they are discharged upon the same principle that the ordinary commercial business is transacted. Purely that and nothing more. This granted, we beg to call the attention of our confrere to the fact that there are Negro business houses in many parts of the South that are supported very largely by the Southern white population. There are grocery stores, dry-goods stores, butcher shops, and institutions of like character where the races come in contact with each other, and where there is no thought whatever of the idea of social equality. And for our life we cannot see where it can be alleged that the handling of any phase of the United States Government business partakes any more of social equality than does the ordinary business of our towns. Indeed, there are instances where Negro physicians have served white patients. This will be permitted at times, when, on the other hand, it is alleged that postmastership savors of social equality. The Negro is anxious for the preservation of the race purity and of both races as the white man is, and he does not clamor for social equality. But when he seeks an opportunity for earning a living, in order that he may provide for his family and properly educate his children, then his motives must not be misinterpreted and adjudged as desiring social privileges.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT INAUGURATED

President Roosevelt was inaugurated last Saturday under the most favorable circumstances. The crowds attending the inauguration are said to have been the most representative and perhaps the largest in the history of the nation. One report claims it was the first national inauguration since the Civil War. Just as President Roosevelt was about to leave the White House for the Capitol he was presented with a ring by Secretary Hay. The ring was worn by President Lincoln at the time of his assassination, at which time Mr. Hay was his private secretary.

The demonstration was hearty and sincere. Citizens of all rank and all sections vied with each other to do honor to President Roosevelt and Vice-President Fairbanks. It is said more southerners were in the parade than since the Civil War. The second division of the parade was in command of Gen. Joe Wheeler, and there marched with the Georgia Cadets a grandson of Stonewall Jackson. Besides these there were a number of Southern Governors with their brilliant staffs, all of which went to make the parade a national affair. The colored man was by no means left out. The Ninth Cavalry was given a conspicuous place, and these heroes of San Juan were heartily cheered throughout the march, while the third division of the parade was under the command of Mr. Judson W. Lyons, Register of the United States Treasury. This is the first time since the inauguration of President Lincoln that the colored man was given a place in the parade.

And now Mr. Roosevelt is President, not by an accident, but by the most popular vote that any President has ever received at the hands of the American people. There need be no fear as to his administration. He is one of the most remarkable men of the century and is undoubtedly a world character. If he lives to retire from the Presidency four years hence he will have so established himself in American history that he will be read of and admired for centuries to come. He is a genuine man, with manly sympathies for every type of citizen under the American flag. He is a man emancipated from fear and endowed with a keen and remarkable intellect, reinforced by a sound body. A man who pays allegiance to that which is right and who fears both man and God when he is in the wrong. Theodore Roosevelt represents more largely the spirit and aggressiveness of the American idea than any man before the American people.

THE FLORIDA MISSIONS

At the last General Conference twenty-five enabling acts were passed, four of which concerned work among our own people. Provision was made for the organization of a Mission Conference, including the colored work in California, New Mexico, Arizona and other western sections. An enabling act providing for the division of the South Carolina Conference, upon a two-thirds vote of the members present and with the approval of the Bishop was passed. This matter will be determined at the next session of the South Carolina Conference. The Louisiana Conference was granted an enabling act to divide, but it looks as tho the division is dead, at least for a while, in this Conference. An enabling act was also passed granting the Florida Conference the privilege, on the two-thirds vote of the members present and on the approval of the Bishop, to establish a Mission in Southern Florida. At the last session of the Florida Conference it was unanimously voted to establish the Mission, which embraces that part of the State of Florida south of parallel 29, including the established charges, to-wit, New Smyrna, Dayton, Ormond, and DeLand Circuit. Rev. Jeffrey Grant was appointed superintendent. Brother Grant is one of the prominent members of the Florida Conference, having served in the presiding elderate and all the best charges of his Conference, and with experience and genuine ability he will give a good account of himself as the superintendent of the Florida Mission.

FLORIDA CONFERENCE NOTES

Rev. S. A. Huger commences his fifteenth year as presiding elder of the Florida Conference.

Mrs. A. R. Rutledge, Mrs. A. E. Jenkins, Mrs. homas Holsendorf and Mrs. J. E. Debose, wives of the ministers of the Conference were in attendance upon the session.

Rev. J. S. Todd, D. D., is giving eminent satisfaction as the pastor of Ebenezer, at Jacksonville.

Dr. W. P. Thirkield was detained from the Conference by the death of his father. The Conference adopted appropriate resolutions of sympathy.

Bishop B. T. Tanner and Bishop L. J. Coppin, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, were among the visitors. Each delivered an inspiring address. The Bishops of our sister church were most cordially received.

The sermon by Rev. T. B. H. Walker was a special feature and received favorable comment.

A splendid program was rendered by the teachers and students of the Emerson Home, of which Miss C. M. Buckbee is the superintendent.

It was largely through the untiring efforts of Presiding Elder S. A. Huger that the Florida Mission was authorized by the last General Conference. That it was the wish of the brethren is established by the fact that the session of the Conference unanimously voted requesting the Bishop to set apart the Southern Florida Mission.

Rev. A. S. J. Allen and Father London Roper, a superannuate, passed to their reward during the year.

IS IT A RACE WAR

quences." And enroute searching for the Negro who did the assaulting the mob "attacks several Negroes." The whole matter seems to have quieted down with three Negroes being whipped, one house perforated with bullets and the wife of Orange Bruce, a Negro was shot in the hip. The sheriff should be given the credit of dispersing the mob.

And here it is again. The old, old story of a "race riot," occasioned only by the conduct of one man, and, as it generally has been, no doubt innocent people have suffered because of his crime. Why should "objectionable characters" be "rounded up" by "a company of young men?" Only this—that's a way some communities have of doing things without reason or warrant. There was no riot; there was, however, a brutal assault upon Negroes, brutal even though they were "objectionable," for there are laws meeting all cases of eliminating objectionable characters.

Wiley University, Marshall, Texas, through the Mercy and Help Department of the Epworth League, is doing much to relieve suffering among the extremely poor of the city. The students give willingly to assist in this charitable work.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society is doing most excellent work in many parts of the South, but in no place is the work more effective than that done at Asheville, N. C., in the Allen Industrial Home. This institution is more than the name of Home would signify; it is really a school of considerable proportions and is meeting a vital need of the people in that community. Under the superintendency of Miss Alsie B. Dole the work has grown continuously. At present all of the buildings are crowded to their utmost capacity, and now plans are being laid for a new building, which is to be ready for occupancy by the fall. Miss Dole quietly and unpretentiously is doing an excellent work.

Mr. Green, a member of the legislature of Illinois, has introduced a bill to suppress mob violence. It designates any company of five or more assembled for unlawful purpose as a mob and that the legal heirs or adopted children of such persons who lost their lives by means of a mob shall recover from said counties or cities in which the lynching occurred damages to an amount not exceeding $10,000, and further provides that lynching shall be conclusive evidence that the sheriff was derelict in duty and the Governor shall declare the office vacant at once. But the bill also provides that, if the sheriff proves ten days thereafter that he did his utmost in defense of the accused, he may be reinstated.

Rev. A. L. Martin has enjoyed a remarkable pastorate of seven years at Waugh Methodist Episcopal Church of the Delaware Conference, located in Cambridge, Md. When Brother Martin went to that place he found the church with an indebtedness of $1,400 of some years standing, all of which has now been paid. The parsonage has been tastefully remodeled, the cemetery has been enclosed and beautified, the church hall renovated and the church grounds improved by fences and trees. His last enterprise is that of the construction of a modern church, which, when completed, will cost $10,000, toward which $7,000 have already been raised. The white people of that community have given of this amount $1,300. The church is 83 feet by 63, pressed brick front, stone trimming, slate roof, inclined floor, and lecture room and auditorium connected by folding doors. An appeal signed by the Mayor of Cambridge and many of the representative citizens states that when this church edifice is completed it will be "an ornament to the town." Brother Martin's Conference, the Delaware, meets soon at Dover, and he has been requested to return for the eighth year. He sends us a large list of subscriptions from his church.

Personal and General.

Rev. M. H. Hinton, our pastor of the Lincolnton charge of the North Carolina Conference is aggressively pushing his work.

The Boston Colored Citizen of a recent date gives a splendid write-up of Rev. Robert F. Long and his church, of Monroe, La.

The property in the center of the wholesale district of Indianapolis, Ind., which was destroyed by fire, was valued at $1,100,000.

Bishop W. F. McDowell was chosen in succession to President Cuthbert Hall, president of the Religious Education Association of America.

A bill has been introduced in the Indiana Senate to prevent marriage between natives of the Philippine Islands and the American white women.

President Judson S. Hill, of Morristown (Tenn.) Normal and Industrial College, spent several days in Chicago recently in the interest of his school.

Mrs. Barnes, of Vicksburg, Miss., the mother of Mrs. Robert Thomas, is in the city this week at the home of her sister, Miss Ora J. Wilson, No. 1729 Bienville street.

President Roosevelt received in person on February 22, the degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Pennsylvania, and made a speech on the navy in accepting it.

Mrs. Marion Golden, of Grenada, Miss., was among the visitors to the city during Carnival week and was the guest of Mrs. W. R. Butler, at her residence 1924 Sixth street.

Dr. M. W. Dogan, of Wiley University, Marshall, Texas, delivered the address to the graduats at the recent commencement of the Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn.

Rev. C. W. Reeves, pastor of Williams Chapel, this city publishes annually an itemized statement showing the contributions of each member to the different departments of the church.

Mrs. O. M. Fitzgerald, the mother of Bishop Fitzgerald, celebrated her ninety-second birthday recently, not in the usual way, but by a prayer and praise service at her home in Newark, N. J.

The date of the first meeting of the Commission on the Unification of the Book Concerns, called by Rev. Dr. Day, the member-at-large, to meet in New York, has been changed from March 22nd to April 26th.

Mrs. Person, of Jackson, Tenn., and her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Watkins, of St. Louis, Mo., who is accompanied by her son, Mr. J. P. Cordie Watkins, are in the city this week, the guests of relatives and friends.

Rev. W. P. Clark has been appointed district missionary secretary of the Alexandria district, Louisiana Conference, and Rev. W. J. M. Price has been appointed district secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the same district.

Rev. Dr. Silas C. Swallow, for many years editor of the Pennsylvania Methodist, announces that that paper will suspend publication with the last issue in March, and will be succeeded by the Church Forum, of which Dr. Swallow will be the editor.

The Afro-American Ledger, published in Baltimore, gives Governor Warfield, of Maryland, a rap for his recent utterance in regard to the race problem now confronting Maryland. The argument of the Ledger is convincing and has great carrying force.

The Joint Commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, held its meeting in Cincinnati, some days ago. A hearty welcome was given to them by the Preachers' Meeting and the Methodist Social Union.

An entire congregation has come over to us from the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, at Worcester, Mass., and Rev. W. B. Perry is the pastor. The congregation has connected itself with the Philadelphia District of the Delaware Conference.

Rev. J. M. Harris is vigorously pushing his work in Kansas City, Mo. Recent mention was made of this congregation securing new quarters and as a result splendid crowds attend each service. The present membership is 230 with an outlook for a rapid increase.

The New York Age reproduces in pamphlet form its series of contributions and editorials on the "Reduction of Representation in Congress." Fortune and Peterson, of New York, are the publishers. The volume contains reading matter of intense interest.

Rev. C. N. Grandison is in Pittsburg, Pa. He has filled the pulpit of Rev. Dr. W. H. Reese, has conducted evangelistic services in Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church, and is at present engaged in a series of meetings in Warren Methodist Episcopal Church.

The John C. Martin Educational Fund has as its object the supplemental education of 30,000 Negro preachers. Dr. S. T. Clanton is the general superintendent for the Southwest, and Rev. D. B. Boatner is the professor of the John C. Martin chair in Philander Smith College.

Overweighted by an unusual crowd gathered on Monday night, February 27, in the Fleet Street A. M. E. Z. Church, Brooklyn, New York, the second floor of that structure gave way and precipitated five hundred people to the floor below. Ten persons were killed and forty were injured.

Bishop Berry has been ill in Syracuse, but has sufficiently recovered to go to his home in Buffalo. Engagements for a few weeks have been necessarily cancelled. We sincerely trust that the Bishop may be able soon to resume his work and to this end he has the prayers of our brethren.

The Missionary Society has published an interesting program for the Easter Missionary Service, under the title of "Light and Life." The music has strength and beauty, while the arrangement of the program is excellent. Programs may be ordered of the Missionary Society, the price being $1.00 per hundred copies, postpaid.

The graduating exercises of the Flint Medical and Pharmaceutical College will be held in the Chapel of New Orleans University this evening. There are seven in medicine and one in pharmacy. Dr. J. T. Newman will deliver the address to the class, the exercises beginning at eight o'clock. in the next week's issue a full account of the exercises will be found in our columns.

Miss Beatrice Ross and Miss Blanche McArthur, of Bay St. Louis, Miss., Rev. J. C. Houston and his daughter, Miss Edwina, of Pass Christian, Miss.; Rev. J. E. Holmes, of Bay St. Louis; Mr. D. B. Watkins, of Poplarville; Rev. J. M. Shumpert, presiding elder of the Meridian District; Mrs. Dr. L. T. Miller, of Yazoo City; Dr. Henri Woods, of Vicksburg, and Rev. T. B. Cooper, of Hahnville, La., were among the Carnival visitors.

The good news comes of a glorious revival at John Wesley, Baltimore, Md., of which Rev. S. H. Brown, D. D., is the pastor. One hundred and sixty were converted, ranging from five to seventy years of age, one hundred and twenty-seven of whom joined John Wesley. The pastor preached a series of sermons on "Prodigality," and at each Sunday morning service the church was packed to its limit. There was no evangelist, Dr. Brown conducting the meeting throughout.

Rev. R. L. Dickinson, D. D., closed on Sunday an excellent year's work at Cory Chapel, Cleveland, Ohio. The doctor goes to his Conference (the Lexington) which convenes this week in Louisville, Ky., with the largest benevolence fund this church has ever raised and all other claims paid in full. The total receipts and disbursements for the year just closed aggregate $2,200. Rev. Dickerson has indeed merited the high esteem and love of this people who hope for his return.

Rev. J. H. Blake, under whose inspiration the Colored Men's Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, of Montclair, N. J., was organized February 25th, with fifty-two members, is a useful and important member of the new committee of management. Dr. Blake's church is gaining strength under the inspiration of a most successful revival. Rev. William Waff, an evangelist, assisted Dr. Blake. The church has been crowded each night. Many souls have been gathered in and the effect of the revival is felt throughout the entire town and men and women of adjacent towns are crowding to the altar crying for mercy. So far seventy-five have been converted and the fire is still burning.

Farm and Fireside

A well hen, if not too fat, is full of life. Sick hens mope.

No young animal is profitable that is not growing steadily.

Plowing under a good sod is one of the cheapest ways of manuring.

It is estimated that the wheat crop of the world is 4,000,000 bushels short of the usual demand.

A New York dairy farmer secured a supply of ice, which lasted nearly all summer by packing it in one end of the shed which was floored with poles, filling with ice, partitioned with slabs battened with boards, the spaces around the ice filled with sawdust.

It is neither profitable nor always entirely safe to keep great numbers of hogs together. Besides the liability to disease getting among them, there is always a certainty that the stronger will crowd the weaker from their feeding places, so that the inequality in size will increase instead of decrease.

A farmer from western Massachusetts writes that he has successfully fattened turkeys on sweet acorns, with very little other food. The turkeys would go to the oak groves in the morning, and stay there nearly all day, and soon get themselves into fine market condition. As soon as they are well fattened they should be sold off, as they show a tendency to go off condition when the supply of acorns begin to fail.—Notes from the Michigan Advocate.

PERSIMMONS AND MULBERRIES.

Articles have heretofore appeared in the Agriculturist showing the remarkable fattening properties contained in the common persimmons that grow wild around the farms. If the reader has an abandoned acre of land, now is the time to go to the woods, dig up the persimmon trees and transplant on that worn land. In a few years that acre of persimmon trees will fatten more pigs than an acre of corn.

The Russian mulberry trees will feed chickens, turkeys and keep hogs in good flesh. Do not neglect to set out a dozen of this variety of mulberry trees.

Cotton seed meal can be fed to lambs and ewes in limited quantities. It should not be fed in large quantities to ewes for several weeks before parturition or immediately thereafter. A handful or two fed along with a little corn meal and oat chop will give variety to the ration and will prove beneficial to both ewes and lambs. Most persons who are not acquainted with cotton seed meal feed it in too large quantities. From quotations furnished me, you should be able to obtain cotton seed meal for less than the price indicated in your letter; $21.50 per ton, in carload lots, is the most recent quotation received.—Notes from the Southern Agriculturist.

Insanity is an alarmingly increasing result of the monotony of women's lives on the farm. Make vanity of thought and action by new interests. You can find them right there about your farm, among your neighbors, in the books you must read and the good magazines.

BOOK REVIEWS.

JUST A MINUTE, by Charles Frederic Goss, D. D. Published by the Sunday School Times Co., Philadelphia. Price, 75c.

A collection of little sermons on various passages of Scripture, happily written for the multitude of those who are busied with many daily cares, and would not have time to read a book of long sermons. They contain a wealth of illustrations. Every sermon gives the spirit an uplift.

THE MASTER-WORD. By L. H. Hammond. Published by the MacMillan Company, New York City.

The author has produced in this book an intensely interesting work. No piece of fiction has so adequately described the position in which one so nearly white as is the heroine of this story is placed. Of illegitimate fatherhood, living all of her life among white people, caring naught for the people of whose blood she possesses so small a part, this young woman finds herself a misfit, and it is upon this and the sin of her white father in giving her such a heritage that the absorbing interest of the story hinges. The unselfishness and the great nobility of soul of the white wife of the father of this girl appeal to one with great strength. This story is a splendid interpretation of certain phases of southern life.

THE QUEST OF JOHN CHAPMAN. By Newell Dwight Hillis. Published by the MacMillan Company, New York City.

This is an excellent story, vital and moving, carrying us with it in sympathy and admiration until the end. Rude characters, descriptions of lonely and beautiful scenery, and a simple yet thrilling love story, in which love and the greed of man play strong parts, make this worthy of the pen of Dr. Hillis. The action takes place in the latter part of the 18th century, ending in the 19th, and while for the most part fiction, it is still historic. The chief charm of the book centers about the hero, John Chapman, and Dorothy, the girl whom he loves. A cruel father separates them and John goes in quest of her, in the meanwhile dropping and planting apple and fruit seeds and hedging them about so they may be ready for the settlers as they come. He finds Dorothy, only to lose her by death, and he continues his travels, planting seeds and vines as he goes. The public will not grow tired of American history if all tales founded on it are as good as this one.

THE SILENCE OF MRS. HARROLD. Published by Harper Brothers, Franklin Square, New York.

The scene of this story is laid for the most part in New York City, giving very interestingly the lovely life of a man and his wife, surrounding them with many friends and interests It is clearly and forcibly written, and is a story of great dramatic power and is also a tale of curious psychological interest. The wife has lived a life of which, because of a severe illness, she can recall nothing, and partly about this hangs the interest of the story.

THE FINEST BABY IN THE WORLD. By Theadorer. Published by Fleming H. Revell Company, New York City. Price, 50c.

This consists of a unique collection of letters from a man to himself about his own baby, a little girl of whom he of course is very fond. They are pretty bits of conceit that mothers will love to read. It is delightfully and simply written and through it all the man revels in fatherhood, realizing that he to whom God sends little ones is blest.

Field Notes

W. J. M. PRICE, PASTOR, NATCHITOCHES, LA.—We desire to thank the people of Natchitoches, led by Mrs. S. V. Rivers and Miss Evalina Murdrick, for a surprise which was tendered us Thursday night, February 23. We received 209 pounds of choice groceries, some dry goods and a purse. Prayer was offered; refreshments were served. All were invited to come again. God bless these good people.

Phill Joseph, Campti, La.—Our new pastor arrived on Thursday, February 2, but on account of bad weather has not been able to preach as yet. He has now gone back to his old home to bring his family. The widow of Rev. A. H. Banks is yet at Campti, where she is getting along very nicely, teaching a private school and has 44 students. She is expecting to teach in our public school. The brothers and sisters are doing all they can to make it pleasant for her.

Doings of the Workmen.

ARKANSAS.

FLORENCE E. THOMPSON, DANVILLE, ARK.—On my arrival here we were met at the train by Brother Moore and Brother Irvin and were carried to the home of the latter, where a nice supper was prepared for us. After which the young people rendered some excellent music for our benefit. At the parsonage we found many good things in store for us. Too much credit cannot be given to the good people of Danville for their kindness.

Mrs. L. H. Hunly, Reporter, Roanoke, Ala.—On last Saturday we were aroused by hearing a low knock at the door. When we opened the door who should we see but two of our class leaders, Bro. Nelson and Bro. Patton, with hands full, arms full, and all around their feet upon the ground lay fodder, corn and horse food. "We are storming," they said, and we at once grasped the situation. They had not only thought of the pastor and his family, but of the "Circuit horse" also. We were indeed truly glad to see the brethren, as we have been able to have but very few services this year on account of the weather. God bless you brethren. Come again.

GEORGIA.

ARAGON, GA.—Rev. C. W. Adams, our new presiding elder held his first quarter at the Shady Grove M. E. Church February 25-26, and on Sunday morning met the Sunday school and delivered an interesting lecture. At 11 o'clock he preached to a crowded house, also at 7.30 p. m. This winter has been the coldest we have experienced, but it did not stop Rev. R. T. Jackson, the pastor. He and the District Steward made the Elder leave with them a clear receipt for his first trip at Shady Grove. So Elder C. W. Adams has broke the record of all the presiding elders who preceded him. And the church is planning to do its best this conference year on all lines. We have a good Sunday school with a large attendance which is the equal of any school on the Rome District. We have also one of the largest day schools with an enrollment of from 75 to 140 children. Our teacher, Mr. W. S. Lester is a young but competent man. The presiding elder, pastor and writer spoke for the SOUTHWESTERN in highest terms. Raised for the quarter, or, during the meeting, $15.55. Success to C. W. Adams and Rev. R. T. Jackson.

G. H. Lennon, Pastor, LaGrange Circuit, Ga.—We have just completed a splendid job of painting on Union Chapel. The inside of the church has been beautified with an appropriate variety of colors suitable to the building. We have a loyal set of members at this church who are always ready to put their shoulders to the wheel and assist in bringing things to pass. Mr. E. P. Jenkins, our teacher at this place, has a large school and is doing excellent work. We have made some improvements at Louise Chapel, together with new lights. Our public school at this point is taught by Miss M. L. Parham and Mr. Lewis Parham. The attendance is large and encouraging. May there be a united effort to push the intellectual, moral and spiritual needs.

Rev. F. R. Bridges, Pastor, Culloden, Ga.—On February 21, late in the night, after the family had retired, a storm struck the parsonage of the M. E. Church, with a large host of its members and friends singing "The Lord will provide." They brought many pounds for their needy pastor. There are some loyal Methodists in this place, and we are always ready to open our doors for such welcome visitors. The pastor was also presented with a purse of money by the stewards. Our church is alive and we are striving for nothing less than success this year. The Sunday school is very good, the Epworth League has been re-organized with Bro. E. H. Hampton as president. He is a man worthy of the position and is ready at all times to extend to his pastor a helping hand. Charlie Owen, first vice-pres.; Mrs. F. R. Bridges, second vice.; Johanna Hampton, third vice.; Sallie Woodwards, fourth vice; Florence L. Hampton, secretary. The League has put on new life, the future is bright. Pray for our success this year.

KENTUCKY.

CHARLES PYLES, PASTOR, WASHINGTON, KY.—The 12th of February was the day set apart for Freedman Aid collection and at 11:30 a. m. the exercises opened. Devotions conducted by Rev. Pyles. It was quite an occasion in the M. E. Church. Rev. Pyles made a good talk on the condition of the people in the South and "the Plans of Education in the M. E. Church." Miss Laura Moore read a paper on "The Manhood of Lincoln." Mr. William Wadworth presented an excellent paper on "The Boyhood of Lincoln." Prof. J. C. Crawford spoke of "The Emancipation of 4,000,000 Negroes in 1865." Collection, $4.00.

LOUISIANA.

S. GREEN, PASTOR, WASHINGTON, LA.—I take this method of thanking and expressing my appreciation to the young people of this place who on the night of February 24, marched to the parsonage, awakening its inmates, and surprising us with a goodly collection of fine groceries. May the blessings of the good Master be showered upon them and may they all be converted this year. You may come again; be sure of a cordial welcome.

G. W. FOREST, PASTOR, MANDEVILLE, LA.—Sunday night, 7:30 p. m., after Rev. James, of the A. M. E. Zion Church, preached, your humble servant went in for soul-saving. Nineteen souls bowed for prayer, five of whom were converted and added to the church. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN.

T. H. Morrison, Pastor, Marthaville, La.—I arrived here on February 10, and was met by the brethren and cordially recived. Everybody seemed to be in good spirits and are looking forward to a year of great success. In the midst of our rejoicing in the hope of the future, some clouds arose to darken our sky. On the morning of the 14th inst. Sister Laura Phillips, who had been sick for seven or eight months, fell asleep in Jesus. She was a member of Union Chapel M. E. Church in this place and lived a consistent Christian life. She was loved by all who knew her. She was a sister to the Rev. J. P. Calvin, once a member of the Louisiana Annual Conference, and now a member of the Texas Conference, and located at Kildare, Tex. She leaves five children, a husband and a sister and a host of friends to mourn her demise. Her funeral service was conducted by the pastor.

M. S. Goins, Pastor, Napoleonville, La.—On February 21, a welcoming party was given by the members and friends of the Wesley M. E. Church in honor of the new pastor. Many pounds were brought to the parsonage and made glad the hearts of the pastor and family. The party was led by Bro. Andrew Welch, Alic Hickman and many other friends. All are invited to call again. The church is alive and we are beginning where the Rev. D. M. Seals left off.

E. B. RICHARDS, PASTOR, BALDWIN, LA.—We are starting off all right. Our old organ has been repaired. It plays like a new one. We received a donation of $12 from O. W. Hankins.

OLIVER, LA.—We wish inquiry for Mr. Paul Hamilton, a member of the Rising Sun Tabernacle No. 45. We heard that he had been accidently killed. Any information concerning him will be gladly received. A. S. LEWIS, W. S.
W. D. PIGGEN, F. S.

J. C. Williams, Pastor, Statesboro Charge, La.—Our first quarterly conference was held Jan. 7-8, with Rev. W. H. Brown, presiding elder, in the chair. On Sunday morning and night the elder preached two of his most eloquent sermons, he also gave a good lecture on "Loyalty to our church." We raised this quarter for pastor $110, for elder $20; total $130. On Tuesday night the parsonage was stormed by a committee representing the four churches in the city, the M. E. church, the First Baptist Church, the A. M. E. Church and the Thomas Grove Baptist Church. Remarks were made by the pastor and wife and Sister Nellie Taylor then recited. After a song by Bro. Henry Hill all bade us goodnight and we were left to gather up our numerous packages of groceries and dry goods.

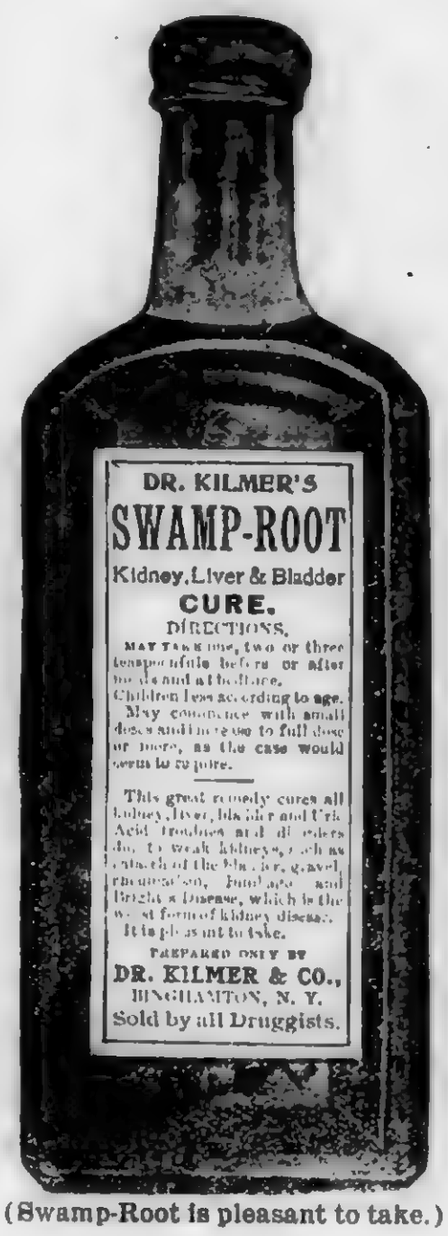
ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of Southwestern Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free by Mail.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.



Didn't Know I Had Kidney Trouble.

I had tried so many remedies without their having benefited me that I was about discouraged, but in a few days after taking your wonderful Swamp-Root I began to feel better.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root, as above stated. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Gratefully yours,
MRS. A. L. WALKER, 21 McDaniel St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

(Swamp-Root is pleasant to take.)

How To Find Out

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in aglassorbottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

EDITORIAL NOTICE.—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases, that to Prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle.

In writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., besure to say that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SECOND ROUND.

Ebenezer, March 25-26; Daingerfield, April 1-2; Harlton Ct., 8-9; Jefferson, 15-16; Lodi Ct., 22-23; Texarkana St. Paul, 29-30; DeKalb and New Boston, May 3-4; Queen City Ct., 6-7; Kildare Ct., 11-12; Marshall Ct., 13-14; Mallalieu Ct., 14-15; Hawkins Ct., 20-21; Tyler, 21-22; Pittsburg, 27-28; Woodlawn Ct., 28-29; Longview Ct., June 3-4; Mineola Ct., 4-5; Lasater, 10-11.

Dear Brethren: Allow us to suggest a kind word to you. We all will admit that this last winter has been hard on us, and our work has been hampered. Unless we are active in the cause of the Master we will lose a great deal. Let every pastor send at once to the missionary secretaries, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, and get Easter programmes and make Easter a great day in the church. Now is the best time to plan for Easter. To delay means defeat sometimes. You are all experienced pastors, and we believe will plan wisely for this year's work.

You Must Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develope into nervous prostration.

Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality.

Dr. Miles' Nervine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion.

It is also a nerve builder; it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs.

Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"During the past winter I had two attacks of LaGrippe which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My wife, after trying different remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out, and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and she brought home a bottle. I had not slept for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nervine the pain was not so severe, and I slept. I am now taking the second bottle, and am very much improved."
HENRY M. SMITH, Underhill, Vt.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

LADIES' VICTORIA WATCH 6 size, gold filled hunting, 10 year case, engraved in an assorment of handsome scenic and floral designs, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement, 7 jewel, nickel finish, stem wind, lever set. Your jeweler would charge you from $10 to $20.00 for a watch like this, yet it is FREE to you for selling only 16 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

Which had you rather do?—Do business with a firm that does exactly as claimed, or with a firm that claims to do one thing and does another? We do exactly as claimed. Every offer and statement in this advertisement are facts. There is no "pulling the wool over your eyes." We do not describe a watch in beautiful language worded in such a way as to make you believe one thing and mean another. We state plainly the facts. There can be no misunderstanding. 10,000 agents are now selling Chief Elkhorn's Indian Wrang Tang Liniment. In another year 15,000 will be doing it. Over a million bottles have been sold through agents in the Southern States, and millions more will be sold. Agents who commenced years ago to sell it are still selling it today. We do not make a practice of giving premiuns. During the year 1905 we will only give the watches mentioned here. We do not make money when you work for a watch. We prefer that you work for the cash. If you need a watch—work for one. If you don't—work under the cash plan. Read what we have to say below, and if you then desire to join the company, send in your application for the agency--if you are not already an agent.

Here you are! A dandy, good enough and fine enough to please any lady. Ladies' 0 size, (exactly size of cut above) gold filled 20-year case, artistically engraved, and fitted with the reliable New York Standard 7 jewel movement. A watch like this is generally sold by jeweler at from $18 to $25 yet you can get it FREE for selling only 32 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

AFFIDAVIT

I, the undersigned, manager of The Wrang Tang Liniment Company, St. Louis, Mo., solemnly swear that every statement made in this advertisement, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is the truth; and further, if you accept our offer to act as agent under either the cash plan or watch plan, you will be dealt with honestly, and our promises will be kept faithfully. Yours sincerely,

W. R. PONDER, Mgr.

$100.00 REWARD

Will be paid if either watch as described on this sheet is not exactly as represented. When we say that a watch case is warranted to wear 10 or 20 years, we mean that it will wear 10 or 20 years before it turns brassy. If we say that the famous New York Standard 7 jewel movement will be put in the watch, we mean that it will be put in it. If you do business with us you know exactly what you will get.

WATCH OFFER NUMBER 1 and 2.

In order to obtain a watch free under offer 1 and 2 it is necessary for you to sell 16 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $8.00. When you have sold the Liniment and sent us the $8.00, the watch will be sent you immediately. ☞ 2 extra bottles of Liniment are added to the box Free to cover express charges. Read cash offer below.

Watch Offer 3 and 4

In order to obtain a watch free under offers 3 and 4 you must sell 32 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $16.00. When you have sold this quantity of Liniment and remitted us $16, your choice of watches will be sent you immediately, and 4 extra bottles are added free to cover express charges.

WRANG TANG LINIMENT. Strong, Powerful, Penetrating.

It's medicine—it's not water—it's not weak. It is so strong and powerful that it goes through the skin, through the flesh and into the very bones—every drop—not a sign left on the skin—no oil—nothing. That is why it's Action is Magical. Its like Gold to Silver. A 20 dollar gold piece is 20 times as valuable as a silver dollar, yet a silver dollar is larger. It's not the size of a thing that makes it valuable. It's the Quality. One Bottle of Wrang Tang Liniment is worth 20 bottles of Water Stuff. Every drop is medicine—medicine that's powerful—medicine that's strong—medicine that's magical.

Do you know what Elgin means in watches? It means the best. Well, here is a 20 year gold filled handsome engraved Elgin case, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement. Gents size.

NOTE—The movement in each 4 watches are idenically the same, except in size. The only difference is the case. A 20 year case will wear 10 years longer than the 10 year case. ☞ You have to sell 32 bottles of Liniment to get the 20 year case.

$4.00 CASH PLAN.

For the benefit of those who prefer the cash to a watch you can accept the agency under our cash plan.

A box of Liniment contains 18 bottles, but two of the 18 bottles are added free to cover express charges. The remaining 16 bottles when sold at 50 cents each, will amount to $8.00. Out of the $8.00 you send us $4.00 and keep $4.00. Of course, when the box arrives at the express office you must advance the money to pay the express charges on it which will vary from 40c. to $1.00. According to the distance from t. Louis, but the 21 extra bottles in the box when sold will pay you back, making the express cost you nothing.

They Live in Our Memory.

Forrest City, Ark.—Mr. Henry Mallory, the son of Bro. John Henry Mallory, departed this life January 19, 1905, aged 21 years. For seven years he was a member of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, during which time he lived a pious life. He was a worthy young man, loved by all who knew him. The church and Sabbath-school, of which he was Secretary, have lost a faithful member. The deceased leaves a father, mother, brother and many other relatives and friends The funeral service was conducted by the pastor of the A. M. E. Church.

FANNIE B. STOKES.

New Orleans, La.—Mr. E. H. Anderson, Jr., son of Bro. E. H. Anderson, Recording Steward of First M. E. Church, and President of the State Epworth League, died January 29, at his father's residence in this city, after a brief illness. Brother Anderson, Jr., was reared in the First St. Sunday-school, and was brought up in a well regulated home, surounded by the influence of Christian parents, which early developed in him religious piety and a vigorous Christian character. He was converted at an early age, but like many drifted somewhat away upon reaching his majority. But when wasting disease gave warning to him that Death would soon proclaim the mortgage upon his earthly existence, he returned to God, and gave evidence of his acceptance in the assembly of the righteous. Peace to his ashes! Our heartfelt sympathies are hereby extended to the bereaved family. Revs. W. R. Butler, presiding elder, and J. A. Tircuit, pastor, officiated.

Forrest City, Ark.—Brother John Henry Mallory, born October 1883, joined the great silent army Jan. 19, 1905. He lived a model Christian life. His mother, who died during his infancy, was a member of the M. E. Church. When he professed a hope in Christ he united with the church of which she was a member of and remained a loyal member of the same until transferred to the church triumphant. Brother Mallory had been connected with Wesley Chapel about ten years. He lived at peace with all men and was by them honored and respected. Peace to his ashes! Rev. Wilburne, of the A. M. E. church, attended the funeral service.

HENRY WEST.

REV. A. GRAY.

Washington, La.—God in his infinite wisdom has summoned from our midst our friend and brother, Rev. A. Gray, one of Christ's embassadors, who bore the commission, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." He was 54 years of age and one of the old ministers of the Louisiana Conference, having served many years in the itinerary. At the recent session of conference held at Monroe, he was given the superannuate relation on account of ill health. On the morning of Feb. 25, just before his soul took its flight he said to his wife, "There is not a shadow between me and God. My way is clear. Do the best you can for yourself and children, and try to educate them. The Lord will provide for those who trust in Him." The memorial services were held at St. Mark M. E. Church, Washington, where he served as pastor until the last Annual Conference. The memorial sermon was delivered by Rev. E. C. Goins. Rev. L. C. Campbell, of the Baptist Church, was present and assisted in the service. The pastor, Rev. S. Green, made the closing remarks and the remains of our brother were conveyed to the depot and from thence to Eola for burial. A faithful wife and three children mourn their loss.

JOS. H. AUGUSTUS.

Baton Rouge, La.—Mrs. Mary Jordan, an old member of Wesley Chapel, died in the faith Feb. 3. Mrs. Delia Vanburn, also a member of Wesley Chapel, died in peace, Feb. 10. Servants of God, well done; you are crowned at last.

H. JAMES.

Flat Rock, Tenn.—The Reaper whose name is Death, visited our community Sunday, February 26, and claimed as his own Sister Jane Burns, one of the oldest members of Patterson Chapel M. E. Church, aged 64 years. She professed a hope in Christ 34 years ago. The deceased leaves a husband, mother, one sister, two brothers, four children and a host of friends. She was a worthy member of the Benevolence Society. Funeral services were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. S. L. Howard.

F. N. COLLIER, Pastor.

Sharon, Tenn.—Sister Mollie Hunt, one of the members of Lenston Chapel M. E. Church, died in full faith Saturday, Dec. 24. She leaves a mother, one child and a host of relatives and friends. The funeral was largely attended. S. M. STRAYHORNE, Pastor.

Charlotte, N. C.—Mrs. Margaret O'Neal died Feb. 7, and was buried the 10th inst. Sister O'Neal was a devout Christian and for more than twenty-five years a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She loved the church and upon it her affections centered. She died in great peace, having suffered patiently during her long illness. The deceased is survived by three loving daughters and two sons. Sister O'Neal was also a member of the Household of Ruth, which paid special tribute to her memory. G. B. McLean officiated, Rev. Drs. A. J. Warner, P. P. Austin and Alexander assisting.

Kansas City, Mo.—Palmyra Scott and Annie Edwards, both good, strong members of Asbury M. E. Church, recently departed from this world. The death angel came calmly to their bedsides and conveyed them gloriously to their long resting place. Both funerals were conducted by the pastor and very largely attended. That of Sister Scott being one among the largest ever held in Kansas City. Seldom has one died who is missed so keenly as Sister Scott. May both of these mothers long live in our memory.

WM. H. WHEELER, Pastor.

Clinton, La.—Sister Mary Seals was called Home on Feb. 15. She was a faithful member of Mt. Carmel church for three years. Age, 18 years. The pastor was not present. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. E. H. Hall and J. Tutson.

The American Farmer the Best in the World.

The American farmer is the greatest man in the world to-day because he is master of the soil—he is gaining in intelligence quite as rapidly as his products are increasing in magnitude. Our recent combines of capital in United States measured in money are enormous, yet such figures sink into insignificance when compared to the money, brain and brawn invested in agricultural industries. For instance, the farmers of Minnesota and Dakota have received $300,000,000 for their products in a single year. The farmer knows what Nature will bring forth for him from his experience in the past. He knows if certain seeds are planted and properly cared for that Nature will take care of the rest. In the same way you are master of your own destiny.

Providing your blood is in good order, it only needs a little effort on your own part to keep healthy and strong—rid your body of the poisons that are apt to accumulate and your system is ready to ward off the attack of the germs of disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes rich red blood—by increasing the number of red blood corpuscles. There is no alcohol in this great tonic to shrivel up the red blood corpuscles. As an alterative extract, made only of herbs and roots, it goes about its work in nature's way. It stimulates the liver into proper action, and feeds the worn-out nerves, stomach and heart on pure blood. Used for over a third of a century it has sold more largely than any other blood medicine in the United States. More bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are sold to-day than ever before—that is a true test of its medicinal value after thirty-eight years of deserved popularity.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

GREEN-WHITFIELD.—By Rev. L. L. Neal, February 16, 1905, Mr. Jesse Whitfield, a member of our church, and Miss Lee Green, a member of the Baptist Church. Both are residents of Queen City, Texas.

GRAY-BOYKIN—At the Baptist church, near Homewood, Miss., February 16, 1905, by Rev. N. Toole, Mr. Allen Gray and Miss Carrie Boykin.

GRAY-BOYKIN. — Near Homewood, Miss., at the Baptist Church, Mr. Allen Gray and Miss Carrie Boykin were united in holy wedlock Feb. 16.

YOUNG-ESPRIE.—By Rev. E. C. Goins, Opelousas, La., February 23, Mr. Johnnie Young and Miss Rosa Esprie.

NASH-GARDNER.—By Rev. E. C. Goins, February 23, Mr. Joshua Nash and Miss Mamie Gardner, prominent and highly respected young residents of Opelousas, La.

MANTELL-ROOSE.—By Rev. E. C. Goins, February 17, 1905, Mr. R. Mantell and Miss Stella Roose, both of Opelousas, La.

BROWN-HAYS.—By Rev. J. W. Burns, February 14, Mr. J. H. Brown, of Altheimer, Ark., and Miss Evelina Hays, formerly of Tennessee. Mr. Brown is one of our best business men, whose success in farming places him in the foremost rank of that profession. The better part of his life he has spent in the M. E. Church. The bride is of sweet address, pure character and devoted to the Christian work. They carry with them the best wishes of all.

LEWIS-REED.—On February 26, at the residence of the bride, Brookston, Tex., in the midst of over one hundred people, Mr. Sam Lewis and Miss Lillie Reed were married. Miss Reed is a faithful member of the M. E. Church at Ambia. The groom is a member of the Baptist church. G. R. Turner officiated.

EARLYCUT-WILLIAMS.—At Lettsworth, La., Thursday evening, Feb. 23, 1905, by Rev. J. J. Woolridge, at the church, Mr. Anderson Earlycut and Miss Lily Williams. Many were in attendance. After the ceremony we heard a soul-reviving sermon by the pastor. This work is improving.

SMITH-JONES.—At Boyce, La., Feb. 3, Mr. Warner Smith and Miss Lee Jones. Bro. Smith is a member of our church. Miss Jones was secretary of our Sunday school. We pray God's choicest blessing on them. The pastor officiated, assisted by Rev. Wm. Emmett, our pastor at Flournoy Circuit, La. REV. M. L. BALDWIN.

MCREE-BRIDGETT.—Mr. George McLee and Miss Zonia Bridgett, at Poland charge, on Feb. 9. Also Mr. Horcas Haug and Miss Henrietta Bowie. We ask God to bless them all. W. Hampton officiated.

GLOVER-LOVELADY.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Howard Lovelady, Miss Helena Lovelady and Mr. Fred Glover were united in wedlock. We wish them success in life. N. Toole officiated.

PARKS-BUFORD.—At the home of the bride's parents, Ebenezer, Miss., February 15, 1905, by Rev. G. N. Hurst, Rev. J. W. Parks and Miss Julia Buford. God bless them ever.

BOOKIE-BRANCH.—At the residence of the bride's sister, Clinton, La., January 5, by Rev. J. Tutson, Mr. Louis Bookie and Miss Carrie Branch. The bride is a member of the Macedonia church.

RIVIERE-STONE.—Dennis Mills, La., February 20, by Rev. J. D. Banks, Mr. Alphonse Riviere and Miss Carrie Stone. Both are members of the Methodist church.

BENARD-WASHINGTON.—At the residence of the bride, Eola, La., Feb. 16, 1905, by Rev. S. M. G. Taylor, Mr. Robert Benard and Miss Lena Washington.

Crescent City Notes

Miss Lydia Dunbar is sending in interesting reports of the work of Simpson Chapel.

Miss Lillie Humprey and Miss Jones graced our office with their presence this week.

Mrs. Rosa Miller has gone on a visit to Natchez, Miss., where she will spend a few weeks with her friends and relatives.

Sister Margaret Smith, of Houma, La., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. L. F. Murray, one of the active members of Simpson Chapel.

We regret to learn of the illness of Rev. M. L. Baldwin, at Boyce, La. He has been unable to attend church services since his return from Conference.

At Wesley Chapel Sunday evening the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to 241 communicants. The collection for the day amounted to $52.41.

To the Pastors of the New Orleans South District: You are hereby called to meet at Morgan City, La., March 30, 1905, instead of March 9. By order of the presiding elder, W. R. BUTLER.

The surprise party given Rev. Henry Taylor by the members and friends of Simpson Chapel was led by Brother A. Robinson and Sister Amanda Swanson, instead of Sister L. F. Murray.

At Pleasant Plain, Thursday night, Feb. 24, Brother D. B. Phillips preached an excellent sermon, and Sunday evening the new pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, preached his introductory sermon to a large congregation. Collection for the day, $8.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher gave a birthday party in honor of Mr. Fisher at their home in this city. A large number of friends were present and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all. Mr. Fisher was the recipient of many handsome presents. Mr. Wm. Tabor delivered the address of the evening.

At Clinton Street M. E. Church Sunday general speaking meeting was held at the early prayer meeting hour, also at 11 a. m., conducted by Rev. A. Lester and Wm. Mathews. Sunday school at the usual hour was well attended. At 3 p. m. the Stewardesses held an extra meeting. The following new members were added to their band: Mesdames S. F. Charles, R. Morant, M. D. Miller and C. Terrence. At 7:30 the Holy Communion was administered to a large number. Four annual subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection for all purposes, $36.35.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 22, at Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, a grand reception was tendered the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, by the different auxiliaries. Master of ceremonies, Mr. T. N. Higgins. The program consisted of short addresses, made by Mrs. O. Tolbert, Mrs. M. E. Higgins, E. Wittenberg, Mrs. M. Johnson, Mr. R. J. Nash, Mrs. L. Green, Mr. J. Bamberg, Mr. Andrew Green. Prayer by Rev. Harrold, pastor Pleasant Plain. Excellent music was rendered by the choir under the leadership of Mrs. L. Crayton. Refreshments were served in abundance. Bertha Williams, reporter; Mr. H. R. Knov, president Trustee Board.

At Simpson Chapel Sunday morning, Feb. 26, the sermon preached by Rev. W. F. Waters was indeed helpful and inspiring to all who heard him. Logical, forceful, instructive and eloquent. Sunday, March 5, speaking meeting. The Spirit of the Holy Ghost descended and permeated the church, every one present was made to rejoice. Several unconverted ones came forward for prayer. At night every available seat was taken, and the Lord's Supper was administered to over two hundred waiting souls. Rev. Taylor should indeed feel proud and greatly encouraged at the manifestation of enthusiasm and earnest desire of his congregation. Six subscribers were added to the list of the SOUTHWESTERN.

Editorial

Don't complain because you can't do what other persons are doing—do what lieth nearest you; you will thereby be happier and more successful.

The forty-fifth ballot has been cast in the Missouri Legislature for a United States Senator and still there is no election. It seems to be a new version of the dog in the manger.

From present indications foreign immigration to this country for the present year will reach the one million line. A mighty horde to be assimilated by American life. Our wide invitation to the world may yet have to be withdrawn for the safety of our national type.

At St. Louis a lawyer does a big divorce business. The total fee in his shop for a divorce is $48, and he tells his client what should be done in order that separation may be secured. His method is "cheap and quick." The sooner the licenses of such lawyers are revoked and they be given passports, the better it will be for the communities afflicted by their presence.

A new step was made a few days ago by a delegation headed by Bishop A. Grant of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, who called upon President Roosevelt, requesting that a commission be appointed by Congress to investigate the race question in the United States, with the view of suggesting some plan for the betterment of the condition of the colored people and to bring about a more harmonious relation between the races in this country.

The Japanese have shown great desperation in their attack upon the Russian position at Mukden and victory is theirs with a frightful loss of life on both sides. Kuropatkin's army has been surrounded and, if not annihilated, it is demoralized to the extent that it cannot again make a successful stand. From Tokio comes a dispatch stating that the Japanese have taken in the battle of Mukden 60,000 prisoners, including General Nakhimoff, and the Russians suffer a further loss of 90,000 killed and wounded. The Japanese give the following partial list of spoils: Flags, 2; heavy guns, about 60; rifles, 60,000; ammunition wagons, 150; carts, 1,000; shells, 200,000; rounds small-arm ammunition, 25,000,000; cereals, bushels, 75,000; fodder, bundles, 275,000; light railway outfit, miles, 45; horses, 2,000; maps, cart loads, 23; clothing and accoutrements, cart loads, 1,000; rations of bread, 1,000,000; fuel, tons, 70,000; besides, tools, tents, bullocks, telegraph wire and poles, timber, beds, stoves and numerous other property. No report from the Singking direction has been received. With this decided victory we may have peace.

THE FAMILY ALTAR AND REVIVALS

Many plans in aggressive evangelistic work have from time to time failed. Revivals cannot be forced; they cannot be brought on at stated times of the year and by professional methods. Spring or autumn cut a very little figure in helping or hindering a revival when all else is right. A revival hinges upon one thing—the spiritual attitude of the church. A church set on fire for the conversion of souls will have a perennial revival, the power of which sinners cannot resist nor can the purpose be thwarted by the devil. There are many means of grace that worketh toward the spiritual development of the Church, but if the family altar were set up in every home it would offset many defects along other lines. Set the church a-praying on its knees at home. There is a directness in family prayer that is at once powerful and uplifting. There is a peculiar force to a prayer offered in the public congregation that has been previously offered in the home.

REV. R. E. GILLUM, D. D.
Pastor Union Memorial Church, St. Louis, Mo.

The family altar, blessed in the past so signally by the Almighty, still holds its place in these modern days. First of all, what a source of strength it is if the heads of the family, under their own vine and fig tree, lift their voices in song; prayer and Scripture reading. There is in this a personal touch with the Divine. Its worship, free from all form, is an approach to God free from all ecclesiasticism; it is an unembarrassed family talk with God, the most interested friend of every family. Then again—What a sacred influence there is thrown about the children when the father and mother take them thus to the throne of grace. It is a recommendation of Christianity that needs no argument to produce conviction. The child may not have a personal experience of acceptance, but no child reared around a family altar will doubt the integrity of the Scriptures, the divinity of the Christ and the fact of regeneration. The leading of the young to Christ is ten-fold easier when they have been warmed by the fires of a family altar. On the other hand, it is an up-hill road to conduct a revival when prayer is neglected in the home. Young people whose professed Christian parents neglect devotions have almost a justifiable hesitancy in their slow acceptance of Christ. It is an outrageous inconsistency for people to lead the singing, praying and exhorting of a revival in the church who neglect to pray and sing and exhort at home. Such inconsistency is a stumbling block to many sons and daughters. Let the fire burn brightly on all family altars and then it cannot help burning in the church.

WORTHY OF EMULATION

The citizens of Jackson, Mississippi, are setting a very timely, practical, patriotic and worthy example. It will be remembered that some weeks ago a white girl was assaulted and the colored citizens formed a committee of twenty-five to assist in search of the guilty. (So far, after the utmost persistency, all effort to place the guilt upon some colored man has failed.) But the committee has now become a permanent organization. A convention was held in Mt. Helm Baptist Church, with Prof. J. A. Martin presiding, and the following platform and constitution was adopted:

"Article 1. In order to reach a higher standard as a race, reduce the opportunities for committing crime and lawlessness among our people, and to obtain the protection and respect which we merit, we, the undersigned colored citizens of Jackson, Miss., do make, publish and declare this to be the constitution or articles of agreement of the Citizens' Reform League.

"Art. 2. The obejcts and purposes for which this organization is created are those of honorably co-operating with the city, county and State officials in all matters whereby crime and lawlessness may be reduced among our people in this city. Also all duties properly belonging to an organization of similar character.

Aggressive Evangelism

By Rev. J. P. Brushingham

The movement for aggressive evangelism is taking a deep yet quiet hold upon Methodism. No denomination is more actively co-operative in the revival movement led by Dr. Chapman, in the large cities, than our own Methodism. We are being represented by such strong men as Rev. Henry Ostrum, Bishop Warren, Rev. C. B. Allen and others. The movement which swept Denver and is now stirring the Coast, was met by Methodist sub-commissions organized immediately after the adjournment of the last General Conference. Important however as is the concerted movement in great centers of population, still more important is the deep interest in local churches and conferences throughout the entire connection. There needs to be an overwhelming sense of individual responsibility which cannot be relegated to any outside assistance. The time has come for the doing of things, and for every Christian minister and worker to stand in their places and see the salvation of God. It is time to "perform the doing of it," and not merely to study how it shall be done. A single soul is worth a hundred methods. The sub-commissions upon aggressive evangelism, appointed from the annual Fall Conferences, are proving that God's power and blessing is with the movement. Reports which come to the Secretary of the General Conference Commission from all quarters, contain appeals to the churches, urging immediate revival effort, asking for organization for personal work, and for every day evangelism to meet the multitudinous counter-actions of the day.

The Commission from the North Indiana Conference is carrying on its work largely by issuing and distributing tracts, seeking to reach and arouse every department of every church in the Conference. The following series has been prepared:

1. "Conditions—The Basis for Evangelism," by the Presiding Elders.

2. "Everyday Evangelism," by Edwin H. Hughes, D. D.

3. "Evangelism in the Sunday Schools," by W. E. Carpenter.

4. "Evangelism in the Epworth League," by E. M. Randall, D. D.

5. "Evangelism in the Home," by Bishop Mallalieu.

5. "A Soul-saving Church," by the Committee on Aggressive Evangelism.

These tracts are published in lots of 10,000, and cost about $1.50 per thousand.

Many pastors are preaching upon them, and organizing for personal work.

The District Sub-Commissions from the Detroit Conference send cheering news. The Rev. W. F. Stewart, president of the Saginaw District Commission has inaugurated a co-operative plan for revival meetings throughout the district, without the aid of professional evangelists. The secretary reports at the present time that fifteen series of meetings are in progress under this plan, and others have closed. Over 350 conversions are reported, and the entire section is being stirred. The seating capacity of the churches is being taxed to accommodate the audiences.

Commissioner Robert Stephens, of Danville, Illinois, writes urging that the four Conferences of the State of Illinois shall unite in a great convention at Springfield, and plan for a campaign in the State

Commissioner R. L. Selle, of Denton, Texas, sends news of having received the long-coveted District Tent, to be used under the direction of the Commission on Aggressive Evangelism, and moved from point to point, as in the judgment of the Commission it can be made to serve its purpose best Muncie District, North Indiana Conference, has arranged a three days' meeting at Gaston. Bishop Henry Spellmeyer will be present. The programme has been carefully prepared, and includes reports of work done by Presiding Elders, pastors, exhorters, local preachers, Sunday school superintendents, Epworth League presidents, class leaders, Ladies' Aid Societies, deaconesses and committees.

Presiding Elder L. C. Burling, of the Freeport District, Rock River Conference, has arranged for a district ministerial meeting to be held at Galena, Illinois, April 25th, with a strong evangelistic programme.

The Sunday School Temperance Society

By Rev. E. M. Jones, D. D.

Doubtless the greatest evil in the world is the liquor traffic. It is the mother of nearly all other vices. It is the hot-bed of many crimes. It is God's greatest foe and the church's greatest hindrance. The home and society have never had a greater enemy, and nothing in all the world has blown out the lamp of hope in the hearts of so many as the drink habit. Nothing in all the world unfits men for life's duties and drags them down to degradation so much as intemperance. It is more devastating than diseases and more destructive than war. Its cost to the world in money stretches into billions of dollars, and its ruin and destruction of bodies and souls cannot be computed. Eternity alone will tell the history.

The open saloon is the young man's greatest temptation, and through it many millions go to ruin. The saloon ought to be closed for the wrongs it is doing the world and for the injuries with which it is afflicting humanity. For, lo, these many years the church has been contending for the abolishing of the rum traffic and for the closing of the saloon. The church, in many respects, has had large success, but has not succeeded in closing the saloons.

MAKE THE YOUNG STRONG ENOUGH TO RESIST. If we cannot close the saloons, raise up and train the young to resist their temptations. If we raise and train a generation of young people to hate the saloon and love the cause of temperance, we are safe, and right triumphs over wrong just the same. I know no institution in all the world more capable of doing this than the Sunday school. Hence every Sunday school should organize a temperance society and special efforts should be put forth to train the youth in the principles of sobriety

The pastors and Sunday school superintendents should have in every Sunday school "The White Shield League." This is the name of the Sunday School Temperance Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. No Sunday school should consider itself complete until it has a well organized temperance society connected with it, in which our young people shall be taught the effects of drunkenness

The temperance pledge cards are sold by our Book Concern for twenty-five cents per hundred, and the badges for $1.25 per hundred.

Let all of our Sunday schools organize at once the "White Shield League," and send for the cards and badges.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I.—Temperance work shall be carried on under the name of "The White Shield League of the Sunday School of ———— Church."

ARTICLE II.—The officers shall consist of President, Secretary and Treasurer.

ARTICLE III.—Any member of the Sunday school may become a member of this League by signing the following pledge:

"I hereby declare that with God's help I will abstain from the use of all alcoholic liquors as a beverage, and will use all honorable means to discourage their sale and use by others."

ARTICLE IV.—Meetings of this League shall be held quarterly during the session of the school on the Sunday devoted to the temperance lesson.

ARTICLE V.—The badge of the White Shield League shall be a white shield in the form of a pin or button.

ARTICLE VI.—The White Shield League shall be in affiliation with the Temperance Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

It is outlook, not inlook, which stimulates and sanctifies. The monks of Chartreuse built their cloister a hollow square, with windows looking only on the inner court, and none at all looking toward the mountain glories which surrounded them on every side. So, many Christians try to build their characters. That will not do. We must open wide our minds and hearts to the "Light of the world," and He will illumine and warm and revivify our whole being.—Thomas S. Hastings, D. D., in Union Seminary Addresses.

"For we have not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feelings of our infirmities; but one that hath been in all points tried like as we are." Therefore every one of us is privileged to say: "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me." In the deepest gloom of the valley, as we grope through it with those who are dearest to us, we can hear the ring of our Shepherd's staff, as He finds the way for us; and we can gain comfort from the touch of His rod, even while the darkness of the hour shuts Him from our sight.—S. S. Times.

Who is the happiest of men? He who values the merits of others and in their pleasure takes joy, even as though it were his own.—J. S. Blackie.

Facts and Figures Concerning the Work of Our Twenty Negro Conferences

By Mrs. Hilda M. Naysmith

It has been part of my labors for the past four ears to stir up the inactive workers of the Wom-'s Home Missionary Society within our own onference (Little Rock), through our good OUTHWESTERN. Feeling it is rather narrow and lfish to be limited by just one's own little here, I now address myself to all our ladies, d well wishers, including preachers and pre-ding elders, in our twenty conferences in the outh.

It is a well-known fact that for more than twen- years has this Society given unto us some of e best type of consecrated women to labor nong our girls in the various Industrial and lodel Homes scattered over this land. The ood these women have done in energizing and spiring our women to higher and better ideals life, eternity alone will reveal. Think only of e splendid work that has been done in our hayer Home at Atlanta, Ga., where, since the ry beginning of that Home's existence, our be-ved co-worker, Miss Mitchell, has poured out r best energies, prayer and thought. Think of e uplifting influence that institution has had nong the people of that State. How many neat d beautiful homes have come from the ideas ceived by our girls while there. What woman-ess, what upward tendencies, what nobler con-ptions of life, what religious piety, what beau-ful accomplishments acquired, what grace, what gnity, what sweet humility, what powers for efulness and service has not our dear Miss itchell been able to instil in those girls who ve been privileged to come under her care. nd see the recognition and reverence that has me to our women my reason of their training ere, and what we say of this Home can also be id of all the rest of our Homes in the other tates. All praise to the noble women who came ars before the writer was able, to engage in this ork, and made it possible for hope's sweet eam to be realized in the heart of every girl's som—that of being a well-trained young oman.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society has ven its thousands so gladly, so willingly, to this ork. Our sisters of the Anglo-Saxon race did t give of their affluence to make these bless-gs possible to us, but many gave from limited comes, and some gave though they themselves ere exceedingly poor. They gave for love of od, for church, for country, for home, for fire-de; they gave their money gladly (and do so t) that the spirit of justice and goodwill should me to all. They gave of their means that merica's people should glorify God in their omes, thus making this nation an example of the st and highest type of Christian civilization. Ve have encouraged the hearts of our friends their labors and gifts unto us, in the lives of e hundreds of good women we have sent into r cities and rural communities to help our ople by the lives they live as wives, mothers, achers and keepers of home, but that is not ough. The time is now fully ripe that we out our worldly goods must also endeavor to help is Society to enlarge its work. We must not ways be receivers—that shows weakness. We ust now become givers and helpers and auxili-y forces for the development of other parts of r land that need the ministration of our Wo-an's Home Missionary Society. It is an en-uraging fact and worthy of note, that out of r twenty conferences, seventeen reported at the last annual meeting of the Board of Managers of the Society, as helpers in this noble work. My heart was made to rejoice when I looked over our annual report and found that only three conferences had neglected to make some report of moneys collected for this Society, for, readers, you know majority rules, and that means that these three silent conferences will, ere our fiscal year closes July 15th, 1905, make reports, so we can all be a united whole in this matter. It will, no doubt, be interesting to our readers, especially to pastors, to see just how much we raised in different conferences, for that reason I give you the following table of statistics:

Atlanta Conf. raised during the past year.	$245.56
Central Alabama	33.75
Central Missouri	59.71
Delaware	90.00
East Tennessee	115.00
Florida	85.00
Louisiana	70.00
Lexington	170.00
Little Rock	247.00
Mississippi	20.75
North Carolina	82.45
South Carolina	26.30
Tennessee	8.00
Texas	177.00
Upper Mississippi	8.00
West Texas	232.00
Washington	262.00
Lincoln	.00
Mobile	.00
Savannah	.00
Total from 17 Conferences	$1,934.15

Now then, for every dollar of this money given to our Society, the Society gave to us in our different Homes, in the way of salaries of teachers, student aid money, for incidentals and repairs, $15.00. Think of it, $15.00 to every one dollar. May we not hope that we will not only double, but double many times this amount by another year. It will be noticed that the Washington Conference leads with $262.00, our own, the Little Rock Conference, comes next, with $15.00 less than Washington, then comes Atlanta, with $245, and West Texas with $232. May we not hope that our two Carolina Conferences, Mississippi Conferences and Lexington Conference will raise at least $275.00, and none less than that which the Washington Conference raised last year. Let us provoke one another to good works for the glory of God and for the welfare of our people. A race with intelligence, manhood, womanhood, refined and cultured homes—not a few of them, but many—must have perfect liberty, must be respected and honored among peoples of the earth. It is that our people may be fitted to take proper and merited rank among other nations—not a few of them, but the majority—that we so earnestly entreat you to awake and labor mightily in the interest of this good society. My brethren, presiding elders, pastors: We must look to you for assistance, for help. Our work is not thoroughly understood by the majority of our women, but you who travel our districts, who stand in our pulpits; you who marry our sons and daughters, visit our sick, bury our dead and baptize our infants, you know the value of our Society's work to the people. Will you not represent the work in our behalf, will you not take a collection for it and send it to our National Treasurer, Mrs. Geo. H. Thompson, in Cincinnati, Ohio; or, if the Conference Society is organized, to your Conference Treasurer of the Society. I have faith in you to believe that you will. One of our Presiding Elders made it a part of his duty to take up a collection for the Woman's Home Missionary Society twice a year in his district, when no auxiliary had been organized, and, as a result, his district is our banner district in the Conference in that sphere of endeavor.

I shall study our reports with diligence and see what you will do this year, and the God who gave Christ to the world will, if you sacrifice to make others better and nobler, surely compensate you, both in "basket and in store," and finally give unto us all the welcome plaudit, "Well done."

Tuskegee Conferences

BY REV. M. W. DOGAN, A. M., P. H. D.

The fourteenth session of the Farmers' Congress and Workers' Conference was held at Tuskegee, February 22-23. The Farmers' Conference was devoted to talks and discussions by practical farmers, and was full of interest from beginning to end. Dr. Booker T. Washington, the chairman, in a short address, outlined the plan and object of the Conference, and urged all to feel at home in the meeting. A remarkable degree of interest was aroused as one farmer after another arose and stated in his own language the conditions in his community. Many told of the amount of land owned, and how they secured it. The Public School System came in for a great share of discussion, and many helpful suggestions were given. These Conferences are of incalculable benefit to the farmers, and the pleasing growth in attendance shows the benefits being derived. Aside from the farmers, many visitors were present. On the platform were teachers, preachers, lawyers and doctors, and they seemed deeply interested in the proceedings.

The second day the Workers' Conference was held. This Conference was composed of teachers. The subject for discussion was, "The Conditions of the Public Schools and How to Better Them." There were present many college presidents and high school principals, as well as teachers in the public schools, and all seemed deeply interested in the subject. It was brought out in the discussion that the Public School System in many of the Southern States, as regards the Negroes, was not in a very healthful condition. Suggestions were made as to how conditions could be bettered. There is great suffering because of the inadequate distribution of the Public School Fund. In many cases, supplemental aid had to be secured to maintain anything like an adequate system. Surely much good will come of these discussions.

Dr. Washington has greatly benefitted our people by these conferences which are held from year to year. The attendance has steadily increased. People are present from all parts of the country, so there is no section but that feels the good effects. There were farmers present from Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and South Carolina, and they were made to feel so much at home that free and frank expression was easily secured.

Again all present were benefited by the opportunity to inspect the work as carried on at Tuskegee, the most famous institution of its kind in all the world. All were delighted with the cordial treatment received from both teachers and pupils, and favorable comments of the visitors will insure increased attendance at the conference next year.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Songs in the Night

Night is a time of darkness an uncertainty, and in many places it is a time of danger and terror. It is a time to be silent and shudder. Who shall sing in the night? In the night of adversity and pain and sorrow men sigh and wail. But there are men and women who find it in their hearts to sing even in the night.

The Christian sings in the night because he has solid comfort. "Unto the upright there ariseth light in darkness." The sun is gone down, the lamps are extinguished, the darkness is impenetrable, but God is near. "I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." Madame Guyon was a cultivated, spiritual, holy woman who went about doing good; but because her teachings seemed to be adverse to the doctrines of the Roman Catholic Church she was thrown into prison. Released through the intercession of a powerful friend, she was again shut up in prison, and for many years kept in dungeons, part of the time in the Bastile in Paris. Her cell was narrow, damp, and bitter cold in winter, and covered with the mold of ages. She was denied all privileges, all books, and all recreations. She expected to remain in prison until such time as it should please the authorities to take her out to her execution. This was a long dark night, but the light of holy consolation shone within her soul, and she sang in prison as sweetly as when free. "I feel no anxiety in view of what my enemies shall do to me," said she. "So long as God is with me, neither imprisonment nor death shall have any terror."

So sang Paul and Silas in the night at Philippi, though they were in the inner dungeon and their feet made fast in the stocks. So sang one of the suffering Christian poets, who had never known freedom from pain and sorrow:

"Thy gracious presence, O my God,
All that I wish contains;
With this, beneath affliction's load,
My heart no more complains.

"This can my every care control,
Gild each dark scene with light;
This is the sunshine of my soul;
Without it all is night."

The Christian sings in the night because the darkness is a blessing as well as the light. We murmur and cry like children in the night, when we should be singing our sweetest songs. We do not see the goodness of nature's dark side nor taste the sweetness of the honey from the carcass of the conquered lion. The noblest characters have been wrought out through the agonies of sanctified affliction. It was when Paul Gerhardt had been driven from his church and his home in Berlin, and his broken-hearted wife, not knowing whither they could turn, sat down in the night to weep, that he went out under the stars and composed that wonderful hymn of faith and hope:

"Give to the winds thy fears;
Hope, and be undismayed;
God hears thy sighs and counts thy tears;
God shall lift up thy head."

Little do we know what is best for us in this world. The stings of misfortune and adverse criticism may do more to fertilize our souls and make our lives fruitful than all the comforts we have.

The Christian sings in the night because he has a bright hope. The night may be dark and lowering, but the morning cometh. The darkness covers thee now, but the light shall shine round about thee to-morrow. Thy head is crowned with thorns to-day, but it shall be crowned with glory to-morrow. Thy garments are dust-covered and travel-stained to-day, but to-morrow thou shalt be clothed in fine linen, clean and white. Thy feet are sore and weary with the the rough and thorny journey, but soon they shall go through the gates of the New Jerusalem and march up to the great white throne. Thine eyes are dim with tears to-day, but to-morrow they shall see the King in all His beauty and the land that is afar off. Thy hands are paralyzed with the battle and the toil of life, but soon they shall grasp the harp of gold and wake the music of the skies. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

Even the night of deathh as no terrors for the Christian, for it is only a momentary darkness which precedes the dawn of eternal day.

"Then let this feeble body fail,
And let it faint or die;
My soul shall quit this mournful vale,
And soar to worlds on high;
Shall join the disembodied saints,
And find its long-sought rest,
That only bliss for which it pants
In the Redeemer's breast."

The Christian should sing in the night because the night song is the sweetest and best. Anyone can sing in the daytime, but it takes a nightingale to sing in the darkness. The song in the night cheers the weary pilgrim. Bunyan tells us how Christian was cheered in the Valley of the Shadow of Death by a low, sweet song. A song in the night is the best evidence of Christianity. The Christian who murmurs and whimpers in the night casts a reflection on his Lord, and shows that his profession of religion is not very sincere. But the Christian who sings in the night honors God and proves that his religion is genuine and infinitely valuable. Many a weak arm has been strengthened, many a fainting heart has been encouraged, many a sinner has been converted by a song in the night from the lips of a suffering or dying saint.

Then sing on in the darkness as well as in the light.

"Sing on in sunny days;
Sing on in darkened ways;
Sing on, His name is Love;
Sing on, He reigns above.
Sing, sing."

The Christian Advocate.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—"Yet doth He devise means that His banished be not expelled from Him."—II Sam. 14: 14. Theme—God's Heaviest Punishhment.

The punishments inflicted by God are never inflicted merely for the sake of punishment, but are doubtless designed to secure obedience to divine law, and to uphold the dignity of moral order among all created intelligent beings throughout His boundless universe. Punishment is the divine spur of justice used to vindicate the honor, and the glory, and the perpetuity of righteousness among all beings, holy and unholy, in time and in eternity. Punishment is exasperated justice, in its relation to mercy and love, at its extremity using its utmost strength in the defense of the helpless in the midst of wrongdoers.

Separation from God is the greatest punishment that can be inflicted on the soul of man, and this punishment has in it degrees of intensity and duration.

There are divisions in the punishment of God. Some, although they are banished, desire to return to God; others having no desire, are still wandering away from God in their banishment; and yet there are some, who, like the prodigal son and the repentant backslider, seek and avail themselves of the first opportunity of returning home to God. There are some who have by sin expelled themselves, and by reason of that they do not desire to return to God. Before their expulsion they had closed their eyes and hearts against the truth, traduced their conscience, and wilfully forfeited their life.

There is such a divine punishment known as judicial banishment. It is not final. It is bitter, but may be cured; it is severe, but full of love and mercy; it is dangerous in that man may go so far away from God as not to desire to return to Him; it is imminently dangerous in the fact that one while in it may lengthen and deepen his own punishment till he may get beyond the reach of mercy, beyond the recall of love, beyond the circle of assimilative attraction, beyond the point where the banishment becomes expulsion.

There is such a thing in divine punishment known as judicial expulsion. It is inflicted on those who have knowingly and wilfully forfeited their life, having hated God, spurned the Lord Jesus Christ, and outraged the Holy Spirit. God's plan is original, and was devised that His banished might return to Him, fully restored to the happiness of heaven and the favor of God. Jesus died that the banished from Eden might not be expelled from God, for expulsion is an unknown word in the glorious language of heaven.

We are always wanting wings to fly with in God's service, and we have only hands and feet. The Lord Jesus Christ comes into the world to teach us, by those thirty years of life as the Carpenter, that the loftiest service of God can be lived out in the lowliest conditions—that to do one's work honestly and thoroughly and cheerfully is as much the service of God as the life of the angels before His throne.—Mark Guy Pearse, in "Gentleness of Jesus."

YOUNG FRIENDS

How to Have Your Own Way

I have a secret which I would like to whisper to the boys and girls, if they will put their ears down close enough. I don't want father and mother to hear, for it would be a surprise to them.

You have long wanted your own way. You have become tired of hearing mother say, "Come right home after school," "Don't be late," "Be sure to tell the teacher." It is "Do this" and "Don't do that" all the time. You are sick of it, and would like to have your own way.

Well, put your ear down while I whisper the word "Obey."

O, you think I am making fun! No, I am not. I know a boy who decided to do just what his father said. He never offered excuses, never tried to get out of work, until finally his father came to trust him perfectly. His father said, "I know that Harlie will do what is right." When he went out at night, or to school, or to play, his father never said a word, for he had come to have perfect confidence in his boy.

Honestly, obedience is the road to freedom. If you want to have your own way, just begin to obey.—Selected.

The Angel of the Slums

Miss Eva Booth, who has been put in charge of the American division of the Salvation Army, has had a remarkable career. She began her work in the Salvation Army when a little child, in the slums of London, where, with her sweet voice and tambourine, she participated in the street meetings, and won many followers for Jesus Christ. She went with her father in his tours for several years, and always made a deep impression with her singing, and then she gave herself entirely to slum work, in which she was remarkably successful. Then, after ten years, she went enthusiastically into other phases of Army work, and so successful has she been, that, after serving as commander in Canada she comes to this country as the supreme head of the American division.

This interesting bit of romance has come to light in connection with Miss Booth's transfer to the American work: "When she was near her twentieth year she won the love of a young student of sociology who was pursuing his studies in the London slums. The young man saw the girl whose voice and presence swayed the crowds that gathered, and promptly lost his heart to her. He attended the meetings of the Army, joined in the choruses of the songs, and finally avowed his love and asked Miss Booth to become his wife. But the bar of the Army's regulations was between them. The young man was unwilling to take up the task of soul-saving, and Eva Booth was so devoted to her work that she would not become the wife of any man who could not engage with her in her labors.

"Eva Booth continued in her efforts in her chosen field, and the sociologist sadly went his way. Miss Booth is now the only one of General Booth's daughters in the Army who has not married."—Epworth Herald.

So long as we love, we serve; so long as we are loved by others I would almost say that we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Home Mission Notes

Health and happiness reign in the New Jersey Home, Morristown, Tenn., while Kent Home, Greensboro, N. C., with its repairs and furnishings and larger number of pupils, is in a most helpful condition.

King Home, Marshall, Texas, has seventy boarding pupils, one hundred and twenty-eight in plain sewing, fifty-three in dressmaking and fourteen in millinery. Prosperity and progress characterize this Home.

The Reading Circle has added to its list, upon recommendation of the Secretary, Mrs. Levi Gilbert, "The Burden of the City," by Isabell Horton; "Making of an American" and "Battle With the Slums," by Jacob Riis; "Souls of Black Folks," by W. E. B. DuBois.

To strengthen the stakes and lengthen the cords, a call is made for a Silver Offering of $200,000 to mark the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of this organization. The plan is that each member contribute on an average twenty-five of the smallest pieces of silver, equalling $2.50.

The Eliza Dee Industrial Home, Austin, Tex., has entered upon its first year of usefulness with fifteen boarding pupils and one hundred and eight in plain sewing, twenty-three in dress-making and five in drafting. During the observance of the week of prayer for colleges, twenty-two girls were converted.

The inspiring thought of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church is the Silver Anniversary and its fitting celebration by the 85,000 loyal, devoted and self-sacrificing women who constitute the membership, together with the enthusiastic army of young people, 40,000 strong.

The first Silver Offering paid into the treasury was the sum of $25 from a generous friend in First Church, Chattanooga, Tennessee; the last reported at the meeting of the Board of Trustees, January 25th, 26th and 27th, 1905, held at the Western Methodist Book Concern, Cincinnati, O., was the sum of $1,000 from the surplus fund of the Publisher of Woman's Home Missions.

The report of the Treasurer, Mrs. Thompson, exhibited receipts from August 1, 1904, to January 1, 1905, as $120,637.50; disbursements, $118,-179.23; balance on hand, $2,458.27.

Number of mite boxes distributed, 23,000.

Letters of gratitude from the ministers testify to the good work done through the department of supplies under the care of the Secretary, Mrs. H. C. Jennings.

The Training School building at Kansas City, Mo., is completed at a cost of $15,900; $900 of which stands for the liberality and generosity of local friends who received the grateful acknowledgments of the Board. The new structure was named Fisk Hall—a tribute memorial to the lamented Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, no less than the devoted and honored President of the Woman's Home Missionary Society.

FLORIDA CONFERENCE.

Among the many delightful occasions of the recent session of the Florida Conference, held at Ocala, Fla., the seat of Emerson Industrial Home and School, was the anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, held on Friday evening, February [illegible]

The large church was filled with an enthusiastic audience when the hour for opening arrived, and the presence of our beloved Bishop McCabe added much interest to the occasion.

Mrs. Anna Jenkins, Conference president, in her annual address, told of the work that had been done during the year, and reminding her people of benefits received, exhorted them to renewed efforts for the upbuilding of the Society, whose work among them in the past and present has been and is so potent for good.

Miss C. M. Buckbee, superintendent of Emerson Home and first vice-president of the Society, made the next address, taking for her subject, "The Wonderful Growth of the Woman's Home Missionary Society"—this year being its silver birthday anniversary, when a special effort is being made to raise a silver thank-offering.

The music for the evening was furnished by the choir of Emerson Home, whose singing received many warm words of commendation. Several readings and recitations were also rendered by students of the Home.

The closing address, full of help and encouragement, was made by Mrs. Mabel Hilbish, a general organizer of the Woman's Home Missionary Society

Thus closed what was pronounced "the best" anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society ever held in Florida.

A pleasant incident of the Conference was the reception at Emerson Home, Saturday afternoon, to the Bishop, members and visitors of the Conference. A short [illegible] of vocal and instrumental music and recitations was given, at the conclusion of which Bishop McCabe was made master of ceremonies. He commended the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, and told of the good influence the Society's schools are having in the South, and urged the preachers to help in every way possible this much-needed work.

After favoring the company with one of his inspiring songs, the Bishop called on several of the older members of the Conference for speeches, who responded felicitously. "The Prodigal Son" was sung, to the delight of all, by Rev. W. O. Bartley.

Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all.

At the business meeting officers for the ensuing Conference year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Anna Jenkins, Waldo; first vice-president, Miss C. M. Buckbee, Emerson Home; second vice-president, Miss Carolina Bowago, Key West; treasurer, Mrs. J. P. Patterson, Fernandina; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Richard DuBose, Orlando; recording secretary, Miss Anna M. Owens, Emerson Home.

ANNA M. OWENS, Rec. Secretary.

How much more powerful a motive in human actions is love than fear! How much more readily does the heart of the man or of the child respond to kindness than to harshness! There is a very remarkable reflection attributed to the Emperor Napoleon when, as an exile at St. Helena, he looked back on his past life. He is reported to have said, "My empire, and those of the other great conquerors, Alexander the Great, Cæsar, Charlemagne, were all founded on fear, and all have perished! There was only one based on love, that of the Great Author of Christianity; and that alone continues, and will endure."—Great Thoughts.

There is no other way in which one's life will be so surely, so quickly transfigured, as in the faithful, happy, cheerful doing of everyday tasks. We need to remember that this world is not so much a place for doing things as for making character. Right in the midst of what some people call drudgery is the very best place to get the transformed, transfigured life. The doing of common tasks patiently, promptly, faithfully, cheerfully, makes the character beautiful and bright. But we must take heed always that we do our tasks, whatever they are, with love in our heart. Doing any kind of work unwillingly, with complaint and murmuring, hurts the life.—J. R. Miller.

We are always wanting to be doing, to be giving, to be planning for the future, to be mapping out all your life; instead of resting and receiving day by day, leaving the morrow to our God, and rejoicing in Jesus Christ amidst all our falls and failures. Instead of going on rejoicing in Jesus, we are tempted to despond, and to go on despondng, after every failure, negligence and sin.—George H. Wilkinson.

What can any man better follow than the guidance of law, duty, conscience, these cherubims of God.

Lesson XIII—First Quarterly Review, March 26, 1905

GOLDEN TEXT: "But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through His name." (John 20: 31.)

Lesson I.—Title: "Christ the Light and Life of men."

GOLDEN TEXT: "In Him was life; and the life was the light of men." John 1: 4.)

A live student has the spirit of a student. The the Christian has the spirit of the Christ.

It is only the spirit within that gives significance to forms without.

Light reveals things which would otherwise remain undiscovered.

Christ brought to light life and immortality.

He threw light on the value of human life.

He threw light on the relationships of human life.

He showed to men God's estimate of man.

Lesson II.—Title: "The witness of John the Baptist to Jesus."

sacrifice were significant only as they fore-Christ died for men that men might live to God.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." (John 1, 29.)

The lambs were offered by the Levites in sacrifice wer significant only as they foreshadowed the sacrifice of God's Lamb which taketh away the sin of the world.

The "Lamb of God" shows the love of God. Christ ried for men that men might live to God. "The Lamb of God" represents the life of God which he freely gave to save the souls of men.

"The sin of the world" is infidelity to the character of God.

"The sin of the world" is indifference to the claims of God.

"The sin of the world' is ingratitude for the gifts of God.

"The sin of the world" is unresponsiveness to the love of God.

"The sin of the world" is disobedience to God's commands.

"The sin of the world" is transgression of God's law.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by taking away the love of sin.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by imparting a positive love for the Savior.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by establishing in man's heart the law of love.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by establishing in man's heart the love of law.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by pardon.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by purification.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by power.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by redemption.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by regeneration.

"The Lamb of God" takes away the sin of the world by righteousness.

Lesson III.—Title: "Jesus Wins His First Disciples."

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Thou are the Son of God: Thou are the King of Israel." (John 1, 49.)

The Son of God is the only rightful Ruler of the sons of men.

The Son of God's love represents the sum of God's love.

Alas that chosen Israel should reject her chosen King!

Only the King of Israel had power to make Israel kingly.

Lesson IV.—Title: "The First Miracle in Cana."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it." (John 2, 5.)

Saying and doing constitute the twofold evidence of sincerity.

The performance without the promise is better than the promise without the performance.

The word of the doer is empowered by his being a doer of the word.

The "sayings" of Christ warn against the ways of sin and invite to the ways of salvation.

Lesson V.—Title: "Jesus and Nicodemus."

GOLDEN TEXT: "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3, 16.)

It is highly significant that God so loved that he gave.

The deepest love of life may keep a man back from the highest life of love.

Only the life of love is good enough to last forever.

Lesson VI.—Title: "Jesus ot Jacob's Well."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely." (Rev. 22, 17.)

Every man's destiny turns on the pivot of his will.

Lesson VII.—Title: "The Second Miracle in Cana."

GOLDEN TEXT: "The same works that I do bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me." (John 5, 36.)

What a man does most is indubitable witness of what he most is.

Lesson VIII.—Title: "Jesus at the Pool of Bethesda."

GOLDEN TEXT: "And a great multitude followed Him, because they saw His miracles." (John 6, 2.)

More multitudes will follow the Master when they really see who He is.

Lesson IX.—Title: "The Miracle of the Loaves and Fishes."

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am the Living Bread which came down from heaven." (John 6, 51.)

God is always sending His life down to us that He may lift us up to Him.

Lesson X.—Title: "Jesus at the Feast of Tabernacles."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Never man spake like this man." (John 7, 46.)

It is the meaning in a man's soul that gives might to his message.

Lesson XI.—Title: "The Slavery of Sin."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin." (John 8, 34.)

That a man shall have some master is not for him to choose; but who or what that master shall be, the man's choice determines.

Lesson XII.—Title: "Healing the Man Born Blind."

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am the Light of the world." (John 9, 5.)

The light of Christ will come full-circle when the night of sin is gone.

LESSON TOPIC.

March 26th.

Scripture References—Matt. 28, 19; Acts 1, 8; 1 Cor. 16, 9.

The Word.—Our first scripture is the "great commission," the basis of missionary enterprise and the marching orders of the church. The great work of the church is not self-existence and perpetuation only, but world-wide conquest. The early church so understood it, and in the first century went out to the uttermost parts of the world as they knew it. The gospel belongs not to one race, nor to any one nation, but to "all nations." In apostolic days they were witnesses "in Jerusalem, in all Judea, in Samaria, and to the uttermost parts of the earth." The apostles literally and speedily obeyed the great commission. The last selection has reference to the open doors of opportunity, which were never so signally inviting as to-day. The whole world is open now to the missionaries. Not only does the missionary call come to us from the Word, but Providence has opened every nation and laid on the Protestant church the responsibility of going to the ends of the earth as an evangel of Christ. But, as in Paul's day, there are "many adversaries." Opposing forces face the church; but the promise of victory is with us. Let us hear and heed the missionary call!

..Our Homilys The Great Commission.—The story goes that a missionary was on his way to India when on board the ship he conversed with Lord Wellington. Expressing his fear lest the conditions then existing there should hinder his work, and asking the advice of Wellington as to whether he should proceed, the Iron Duke said, "Sir, what are your marching orders?" The missionary repeated this great commission. "It is your business to obey your orders, and leave the results to God," replied Wellington. So to-day this commission has never been repealed. It is the call of the church to-day just as much as in apostolic days. We are not to discuss it and quibble at its meaning, but to obey it. Certain imperative duties are upon us:

1. To Really Believe in the Call. Many in our modern churches have no vivid personal conception of the missionary call. They do not believe that their duty is to evangelize the world. They need missionary conviction. Bishop McCabe always insisted when missionary secretary that every one needed a second conversion, a conversion to missions. Not only are many unconvicted, but many actually oppose the work of missions. They need to study this great commission. One imperative need in church and in League is to get our people to really believe in the missionary idea, to hear the missionary call.

2. To Begin to Fulfill the Commission. There is a pressing duty to get under the burden and to give some fairly creditable answer to this call from God. Instead of giving a thoughtless dollar and imagining our duty done, we need to give by tens and hundreds. Instead of playing at missions we need to get down to business and do something worthy of a church of large ability. We would not depreciate what the church is doing, but surely we have not yet measured up to opportunity and ability. Thousands of our best young students need to be sent to the foreign field. Many churches could support alone a missionary in the field who are now giving only a few dollars. If we are to really obey this call we must multiply by the ten, twenty and hundredfold our offerings for missions. We must push this work. Organize mission study classes! Circulate missionary libraries and literature! Talk missions, think of missions, dream about them, get really in earnest, and then we hope to lead the church to obey the great commission. We trust that this lesson may be a real inspiration to every chapter. Look at the open doors. Consider your duty. Do it quickly.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topic.

The International Committee of Methodist Women

The work of the International Committee of Methodist Women is to obtain information of the work of all women in the various branches of Methodism that are represented at the Ecumenical Conferences of Methodism. As is well known, our Methodism in relation to Ecumenical Conferences is divided into the Eastern Section and the Western Section. The women of the Eastern Section of Methodism are represented in a committee of which Mrs. Hugh Price Hughes, 8 Taverton street, Gordon Square, London, W. C., is president, and Mrs. Geo. Patterson, 149-151 Highbury New Park, London, N., is secretary.

The Western Section is composed of the following twelve branches of Methodism: Methodist Episcopal Church, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Methodist Church in Canada, Methodist Protestant Church, United Evangelical Church, Union American Methodist Episcopal Church, Primitive Methodist Church, Free Methodist Church, African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, African Union Methodist Church, Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, African Methodist Episcopal Church.

In view of the great and increasing work of the women of our churches, it becomes of importance to the church at large to know with what interests these women are engaged, what results they are obtaining in the various branches of service, and also cultivating a certain comity and sisterhood among all Methodist women throughout its various branches. The results that are reached will furnish inspiration for all women to faithfully continue their patient labors toward winning hearts for Christ and achieving triumphs for our Savior.

The first report that was made was the tabulated statement of work for 1902. The former report gave returns from but four branches of Methodism—the Methodist Church of Canada, the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the United Evangelical Church. Through the earnest efforts of those concerned in this work, especially of the secretary, Mrs. R W. MacDonnell, statistics are made of seven of the twelve branches of Methodism for the year 1904.

We earnestly urge upon the authorities of those branches of Methodism whose woman's work is not reported in the statistics that they take measures to nominate a woman of each church to serve on this International Committee, and to forward such names to the secretary of the committee for the Western Section, Mrs. R. W. MacDonnell, 346 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., so the next report sent out will contain statistics from each one of the twelve branches of Methodism belonging to the Western Section.

We take from the statistical report the following figures: The number of auxiliaries belonging to the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church are 9,155; members, 217,093; last annual income, $492,493; number of boarding and day schools, 604; pupils enrolled, $1,500; missionaries and teachers employed, 265; deaconesses and probationers, 23; deaconess institutions, 12; hospitals and dispensaries, 30; Bible women, 1,000; Home Missionary Society: auxiliaries, 3,658; members, 99,036; last annual income, $377,090; boarding and day schools, 54; pupils, 5,990; missionaries and teachers employed, 167; deaconesses and probationers, 40; hospitals and dispensaries, 5; patients treated, 3,292.

Chou Fu, a Chinese Viceroy

By Rev. H. Olin Cady

One thing that characterizes Protestant missionary work, and distinguishes it from that of the Roman Catholics, is the attention paid to the wide distribution of the Bible, both as a whole and in portions.

One of the means to reach the most influential classes is the present of a portion of the Bible, with a suitable tract, to each of the contesting students at the great triennial examinations at the Chinese provincial capitals. This requires, at Chentu, for each examination about 15,000 copies, which are generously donated by the Bible societies.

For one examination a committee of the missionaries at Chentu procured the printing of a special edition of Martin's "Evidences of Christianity." Besides this, it is our habit to present to the officials at Chentu copies of the New Testament, and such books as Faber's "Civilization East and West." Among those who have received there the New Testament is Chou Fu, recently governor of Shantung, the native province of Confucius, but now appointed Viceroy of the Liang Kiang Provinces, one of the most important positions in China.

I do not know that this was the first time he had seen the New Testament, nor do I know the relation of the herein related events, except that they occurred afterwards.

In June of 1900, that memorable year, the superintendent of the West China Mission being on a visit to Chentu, and desiring to call on the Viceroy Kwei Chuin, we sent our cards to him, asking for an interview at such a time as would suit his excellency's convenience.

Promptly at the hour designated we arrived in sedan chairs at the gate of the viceregal Yamen. At the word chin (invite) the series of double doors flew open, revealing a double line of "braves" resplendent in their uniforms of crimson, green, and black.

Between these lines we walked through the courts to where, at the farther end of the upper court, before the reception room, the viceroy stodd to receive us. We were ushered in and seated at a table spread in supposedly American style; the viceroy at the head, and on either hand in the seats of honor the missionaries. There were also present the chiefs of the provincial foreign office and two interpreters, for which latter, to the pleasure of the viceroy, there was no need, since we all spoke the Mandarin. Partaking of the viands and conversing with the viceroy about the province and our work and purposes, we spent a pleasant hour—more pleasant than if we had known what was taking place at about that time in the Yamen of the governor of Shansi, the bloody "U," or if we had known what was in the next room and concerning which the viceroy was thinking. We had at the time received no intimation of the storm that was bursting on our fellow missionaries in North China, and of course our host did not introduce the topic.

As we returned to our chairs, on looking about I remarked to my companion that the viceroy had shown us high honor in receiving us at that hour, for I recognized the official chairs and escorts of many of the highest officials of the province. From this we knew that they were in waiting to see the viceroy.

A few days afterward the viceroy's proclamation was posted throughout the province, commanding all officials to spare no efforts to protect all foreigners in their jurisdiction and also all churches and native Christians, threatening to hold each official personally accountable for any disorder in his particular jurisdiction. In all those trying months not a missionary was injured, and, to my knowledge, not a church destroyed throughout all that vast province of Szchuan.

Some time later I learned through one of the high officials of the province the cause of the assembly of officials on the day we visited the viceroy. While we were dining with him, on the table in the adjoining room lay the empress dowager's edict commanding the viceroy and all officials to "cruelly exterminate" all foreigners. The edict had arrived the day before, and Chou Fu, treasurer of the province, to whom a copy had also been sent, had hastened to the viceroy to Kwei Chuin to urge that the cruel decree be ignored. So strong an impression had he made that the viceroy had called a council of all the high officials, and here they were to consider the question of our lives and the lives of all other foreigners in the province.

At the first only Chou Fu stood for ignoring the imperial command. But by the force of his character and will he finally persuaded them all, so that the result was a unanimous decision to defy the edict and protect all Christians.

It is the general opinion of those conversant with the situation, whether foreigners or Chinese, that Chou Fu saved West China from a worse fate than befell North China.

After the Boxer power had been broken Chou Fu was transferred to the treasurership of the province of Chile, in which is Pekin, in North China. While in this position he ordered some eminent Chinese scholars to prepare a new translation of the Bible, to be published at his expense; but this was too great a task for those he appointed to accomplish, especially as the time was limited. Upon Yuan Shi Kai being appointed viceroy of Chihli, Chou Fu succeeded him as governor of Shantung, and last September he sent to Shanghai a request to be supplied with sufficient copies of the New Testament to furnish one copy to every official and candidate for office in the province, from the rank of county magistrate upward.

"For," said Governor Chou Fu, "by studying the Book which the missionaries hold sacred, a better understanding will prevail, and peace and harmony result."

"Coming as a present from the governor, the books will surely be read. But many of those who receive the Testaments will echo the eunuch's answer to Philip's question: "Understandest thou what thou readest?" "How can I except some man should guide me?"

shall be a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and chaplain.

"Art. 6. The chairmen of the sub-committees, together with the officers of the league, shall constitute an executive committee."

Officers of the league were elected as follows: Prof. J. A. Martin, president; Rev. William McMorris, vice-president; William J. Latham, secretary; Rev. A. J. Johnson, treasurer; Rev. C. P. Jones, chaplain.

We most heartily commend this movement. There are some who think that such a movement is unnecessary, contending that Negroes have not been guilty of condoning the crime and concealing the criminals of the race. This position cannot be entirely ignored. The endorsement of the movement must in no sense be taken as a confession that Negroes have been derelict in duty in condemning crime, for in positive language and under all circumstances the better element of our people has condemned the crimes of the race; but there has been a feeling that any man having been arrested, his arrest alone meant execution at the hands of the mob. For be it understood that the better element of the race is not so closely in touch with criminals as to definitely single out the guilty, and, fearing the shedding of innocent blood, such a movement has been slow in forming. The time is ripe, however, for our people to most heartily join in this movement. There has been a general awakening of conscience against lawlessness. The Southern press, pulpit and statesmanship have been sincere and zealous in the attempt to check mob violence, and the effect has been gratifying. Lynching has been very considerably decreased. A fair trial is given the accused. The courts are protected, if necessary, by the militia. Under these circumstances we can afford to meet this growing sentiment half way and help to remove the bloody stain from the Southland. But more, the better class of Negroes can not only afford to endorse this movement, but must do so. If good white men seek the suppression of the lawless of their race, then we must throttle the criminal of our race. Neglect along this line will put us in bad light. Let the Citizens' Reform League become general.

President Roosevelt's words along this line are very appropriate here:

"Laziness and shiftlessness, these, and above all, vice and criminality of every kind, are evils more potent for harm to the black race than all acts of oppression of white men put together. The colored man who fails to condemn crime in another colored man, who fails to co-operate in all lawful ways in bringing colored criminals to justice, is the worst enemy of his own people, as well as an enemy to all the people. Law-abiding black men should, for the sake of their race, be foremost in relentless and unceasing warfare against law-breaking black men. If the standards of private morality and industrial efficiency can be raised high enough among the black race, then its future on this continent is secure, the stability and purity of the home are vital to the welfare of the black race, as they are to the welfare of every race."

NOT AN UNUSUAL CASE

It takes a great deal of grace for a Negro to agree to the suffrage movement, even though he may sincerely believe in a qualified suffrage, when he is fully aware of the fact that qualified suffrage is directed, not against the ignorant and irresponsible, but against those who are fully qualified to meet all the requirements. We take the following extract from the Huntsville, Ala., Journal:

"We would do as law says, but that they do not and will not do. A colored man who goes there to register, who owns property and pays taxes, the registers tell him that they can't register him unless the probate judge will certify that there is no encumbrance on the property, and this the judge refuses to do because it is not the law. As for educational qualification, these registers are the judges and no colored man can satisfy them that he possesses the required qualifications. We have graduates from colleges, and yet these registers refuse to register them. Colored men all over the country that own and control more than the law requires, and yet they can't register."

This is not an isolated case. It could be duplicated again and again, and he who runs may read.

THE CENTRAL MISSOURI CONFERENCE

Methodism in the border states among our people may not be very strong numerically, but it is of a vigorous and healthy type. If the church had been alert and housed our colored membership as it moved northward, all of our border Conferences would to-day be stronger in members. The Central Missouri Conference embraces the states of Missouri and Iowa and the southwestern portion of Illinois. This Conference enters upon its nineteenth year as a worthy division of our common Methodism. Its preachers partake of the stalwartness of the western life—tall, broad-shouldered and capable of enduring much hardship. Our work is scattered and in many palces very, very poor, but these men have constructed a Conference only thro toil and sacrifice. While the fathers manfully bore the deprivations of a pioneer western life; still there is a younger class of men who serve the church on small and obscure appointments whose heroism could be constructed into a story of thrilling interest. So these men came to St. Louis with song triumphant and with shouts of victory. Hardships melt and are forgotten in an Annual Conference and new hope and strength are found for the coming conflict. Bishop Joyce presided, and he filled the bill perfectly. And what a delight his presidency was. Led by the Bishop's deep spiritual earnestness, the Conference was evangelistic throughout. During all the business the fire burned and the afternoons were given over to the Pentecostal services.

The session was held in Union Memorial Church, St. Louis, of which Rev. Dr. R. E. Gillum is the pastor. This is one of our big churches. Thirteen hundred members! The union of Elliot Avenue and Wesley churches some years ago has proven to have been a wise movement, and a royal host indeed was Union Memorial. The Conference was simply charmed by the attention of Pastor Gillum to every detail and the effort of the membership to provide for their guests. It looked as tho the church had given itself up to one thing, and that was, the entertainment of the Conference.

The following officers were elected: Secretary, B. F. Abbott; assistants, F. S. Bowles and A. J. McAllister; treasurer, G. W. Reeves; assitants, W. A. Bohanan and W. R. Rivere; statistical secretary, R. E. Gillum; assistants, S. P. Johnson, H. A. Henley and J. M. Harris.

The changes in membership are noted in the following items:

TRANSFERS—A. J. Williams from the Florida Conference and Tobias W. Fulghen from the Lincoln Conference.

RECEIVED ON TRIAL—Henry T. Reeves.

ADMITTED INTO FULL MEMBERSHIP—John C. Guyton, Silas P. Johnson, Martin L. Jackson, Martin T. Hooks.

ORDAINED—Deacons, John C. Guyton, Monroe Denney, Preston Overton, George W. Wynn, Henry L. Billups; elders, John H. Boone, Alonza A. Tolson.

DECEASED—James A. Dorsey and Isaac Caito.

The pastors reported in the aggregate the folloing amounts for the benevolences:

Missions	$580.00
Church Extension	385.15
Freedman's Aid	304.35
Sunday School Union	14.75
Tract	22.85
American Bible	13.45
Woman's Home Missions	88.75
Woman's Foreign Missions	27.95
Episcopal Fund	71.12
Conference Claimants	170.45
General Conference expenses	20.25
Total this year	$1,699.07
Total last year	1,962.34
A decrease of	$263.27

In membership the Conference makes a slight increase:

Full members—
This year	5,639
Last year	5,497
Increase	142
Probationers—
This year	808
Last year	769
Increase	39

CONFERENCE NOTES.

Dr. R. E. Gillum presided at the statistical session.

Every phase of the church's activity was faithfully and in several cases eloquently presented.

Rev. W. A. Bohanan preached the missionary sermon to a large audience. It was a strong and burning message.

The second annual session of the Woman's Home Missionary Society was held. The anniversary service took place Friday afternoon. Mrs. J. E. Chambers, a member of the General Committee for Colored Deaconess Work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society; Miss Nell Foster, secretary of Young People's Work in the St. Louis Conference, and Mrs. M. L. Curl, president of St. Louis Conference, Woman's Home Missionary Society, made brilliant and encouraging addresses to the women. This work is growing and the outlook is bright. Mrs. J. M. Harris was elected president and Mrs. H. A. Henley, corresponding secretary and treasurer.

Dr. I. G. Penn showed genuine spiritual leadership in the manner of conducting the devotional services.

Give God a chance on you. He will make something of you if you will only let Him have His way.

If you would spend as much time in preparation as you spend seeking a position, then you would get more to do.

The number of conversions in the great revival in Wales it is now thought will reach 75,000.

Personal and General.

Miss Lizzie Miles and Mr. Harvey C. Johnson, of Baton Rouge, were in the city last week, the guests of Mrs. E. M. Whiteside.

Mr. Charles Stewart, the well-known newspaper correspondent, and his wife, of LaMarque, Tex., are the proud parents of a fine baby boy.

Mrs. T. J. Wilson, of Meridian, Miss., and Mr. W. A. Hardy, a student of New Orleans University, were pleasant callers at our office last week.

The date of the Delaware Conference will not be postponed but will convene at Dover, Del., March 29, 1905, as previously announced, Bishop J. F. Berry presiding.

The family of the late Governor Pattison has received $20,000 from some of his Pennsylvania friends as a testimony of the high esteem in which they held him.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, of Canada, thinks that the lynching, murder and divorce evils of the United States are probably due to the absence of religious teaching in the common schools.

Mr. W. E. Shallowhorne, a student of Flint Medical College, class '07, has gone to Shreveport, where he will spend his vacation with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Shallowhorne.

Thomas Pearson, the first Negro admitted to practice in the United States District Court, at San Francisco, is spoken of as a man of education and ability. He was admitted January 18.

Mrs. E. G. Dickerson, of Canton, Miss., Mrs. L. D. Miller, of Yazoo City, Miss., and Miss Anna Dotson, of Greenwood, Miss., visited New Orleans during Carnival week and were entertained at the home of Mrs. C. V. Garrett.

Mrs. V. Porch of Homer, Rev. E. Hutcherson of Bunkie, Rev. D. S. Sloan of Jeanerette, Rev. S. Goins of Napoleonville, Rev. R. W. Young of Franklington and Dean Pierre Landry of Gilbert Academy, Baldwin, were among our visitors last week.

The February issue of the Liberia and West Africa says: "Bishop Scott made a trip up to Gardnersville on the 18th ult., in the interest of the Church. The Bishop has been kept very busy during his stay in the Republic and he has been blessed with good health."

Rev. A. G. Glenn, D. D., our pastor at Marion, Ala., will preach the commencement sermon of the Marion Institute on Sunday, May 21, and Prof, R. M. Davis, A. B., will deliver the annual address of the M. C. B. Mason Debating Society at the commencement in May.

Mrs. Emma Chambers of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Ella Jordan and Mr. W. J. Walker of Shreveport and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Evans of Meridian, Miss., called at the SOUTHWESTERN office last week, and we were pleased to have them do so.

Mr. Charles Arthur Robbins, of Terre Haute, Ind., a graduate of De Pauw University, class of 1904, sailed from New York for South America on the steamer Advance Tuesday, March 7. Mr. Robbins is under appointment as a missionary teacher in the English College at Iquique, Chile.

Mrs. Winston Smith and Mrs. F. J. Hill, of Kettleton, Miss., accompanied by T. J. Mayo, Travillo and Wallace Smith, spent a few days in the city last week at the home of Mrs. D. Curtis. While here they visited the office, and we were pleased to have Mrs. Smith renew her subscription.

Rev. J. W. Lewis has begun his second year's work at Zachary under very favorable conditions. He was cordially received by the members and friends of Albert Chapel and this work is now in a flourishing condition. Plans are being laid for the erection, in the near future, of a new church in Zachary.

Samuel Taylor, of Indianapolis, Ind., who represented Shortridge High School in the State Oratorical Association, and won second place last year, was elected recently to the position of secretary of the Shortridge Senate, being the first time in its history that a colored student has been elected to an office.

Mr. John C. Dancy, Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, was tendered a banquet on the evening of March 1st. The same was an acknowledgment by Mr. Dancy's many friends of Washington of his worth as a citizen, churchman and public servant. Judge Robert H. Terrell was the toastmaster.

Dr. Samuel W. Siberts, of Mercedes, Argentina, who has been in the United States since November, 1904, sailed from New York on the steamer Byron, Friday, March 3, returning to the mission field. Mrs. Siberts remains for the present at Evanston, Ill., to make a home for a daughter who is attending school.

The Rev. Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, will fill the following appointments on the Alexandria District of the Louisiana Conference: Natchitoches, March 25; Preachers' Meeting, Bunkie, 26-27; Eola, 28; Cheneyville, 29; Booneville, 11 a. m., March 30; Alexandria, 8 p. m., March 30.

Dr. William Goodell Frost, president of Berea College, Kentucky, lectured on "The Negro Problem," in Hartford, Conn.' some days ago. The Hartford Post says Dr. Frost gave a masterly outline of the Negro problem and that the startling revelations and charges which he made gave this widely-discussed question fresh interest.

Rev. J. J. Obee is in from a brief trip on his district. Work at Lake Arthur has been opened with Rev. T. G. Oneal as pastor. A church site has been purchased. Rev. Carter Dorsey has been placed in charge of Oakdale and Rev. John Coleman in charge of Newtown. This makes a total of 40 appointments on the Alexandria District.

The Christian Index, Rev. R. T. Brown, D. D., editor, the official organ of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Richmond Planet, of which the Hon. John Mitchell is the editor, each has installed a linotype machine, the work of which adds to the appearance of the journals named, and indicates progress in the field of racial journalism. Here's a hand of hearty congratulation and a word of cheer and of God speed.

Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society recently secured space in twenty-one daily newspapers for representation of the work of the society. The Board of Managers at its last meeting passed, unanimously, resolutions thanking Dr. Mason for the aggressive methods which he has pursued in the promotion of the Lincoln Birthday observance.

Mrs. Ernest F. Herman, who has been teaching for more than five years in the Colejio Americana, the Methodist Episcopal School in Concepcion, Chile, arrived in New York with her two daughters on the steamer Keenigin Luise, Thursday, March 9. Mrs. Herman's homeward journey took her across the Andes, then by ship from Buenos Ayres to Genoa, Italy, and from Naples to New York. Her present address is Sugarloaf, Pa.

The members and friends of St. James Church, Shreveport, are manifesting their pleasure over the return of Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne after an absence of twelve years by loyally helping him in the work. Through the untiring efforts of the Stewardesses and King's Daughters the parsonage has been renovated and newly furnished. Also the church and fence have been neatly painted. Rev. Shallowhorne paid our office a visit last week and reported every department of the church in good working order and the outlook as bright for one of the most successful years of his ministry.

NEWS NOTES

President Roosevelt used at his inauguration the Bible that he kissed when inaugurated Governor of New York, Jan. 2, 1899.

Cerebro-spinal meningitis is said to be epidemic in New York, there having been more than 1,000 deaths from it in the course of the last two months.

The great Simplon tunnel through the Alps, which is twelve miles in length, is expected to be inaugurated March 24, 1905. It is considered the greatest engineering feat of the age.

Governor Hanly of Indiana, in rejecting an applicant for an appointive office recently, announced his decision that the man who drinks at all cannot receive recognition at his hands.

The Board of Health of New York City, in making scientific tests of greenbacks, discovered that a bill will carry millions of deadly germs with power of contagion for at least a month.

Mr. Charles W. Anderson, a member of the race, has been appointed collector of internal revenue for the Second district of New York at a salary of $4,500 a year, to succeed Chas. H. Treat.

Miss Mary Williams, a St. Louis colored girl, who graduated from the Provident Hospital Nurse Training School, has been appointed by the government to a position in Oklahoma Territory.

The new Methodist Hymnal, which has been prepared for the joint use of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be ready for delivery on Sept. 1, 1905.

According to medical authorities, consumption is the cause of more deaths than all the wars and diseases to which the human race is exposed. There are at present 150,000 deaths annually in this country from consumption alone and probably a million throughout the world.

The Bordentown Pottery Company will open in a few days a factory in Bordentown, N. J. Rev. I. W. L. Roundtree and the Rev. J. H. Morgan, well-known colored men, are at the head of this enterprise, which has as its object the uplift of the people of the race through the agency of industry.

The members and friends of John Mann M. E. Church, Winchester, Va., are much elated to know that they are to receive $1,800 from the government, having a war claim for damages to that amount. This church is being renovated and repainted in preparation for the Washington Conference, which is to convene there on April 12.

At the recent commencement exercises of the College of West Africa the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon Miss Clavender L. Sherman, daughter of the late Hon. R. T. Sherman. Miss Sherman is the first person to successfully complete the full course of this college, and is also the first Liberian young woman to graduate from the college course in Liberia.

The sudden death of Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford, widow the late United States Senator Leland Stanford, in Honolulu, February 28, was due to poisoning. The Senator and Mrs. Stanford founded the Leland Stanford, Jr., University at Palo Alto, Cal., to perpetuate the name of their son, gave millions for its buildings and equipments, and, it is estimated, about $30,000,000 for its endowment.

March 24th is the eighty-fifth birthday of Fanny Crosby, the world-famous blind hymn writer. It is proposed by many to make the following Sunday a "Fanny Crosby Day" in her honor—singing her hymns and praising God for her useful life. The world owes her a debt that it can never pay, but it can acknowledge it. A Fanny Crosby Day Committee has been formed by her townspeople, to whom her friends can send incidents of the influence of her hymns or any other testimonial of regard. Printed matter will be forwarded to all who apply to the committee. All letters may be sent to 756 State street, Bridgeport, Conn. H. Adelbert White, secretary.

SHIPPING EGGS.

During the next few months fanciers will be busy packing and shipping eggs.

For the benefit of those just starting in the fancy trade will give my method of packing in baskets. I keep several sizes of market or grape baskets on hand, also a lot of excelsior. When there is an order to be filled, I make a thick pad of the excelsior to fit the bottom. When packed in firmly it should more than half fill the basket. Then I take a small bit of excelsior and form into the shape of a bird's nest, put in the egg, small end down, and pull the excelsior well up over the other end. Have the egg entirely covered; pack down well at the side and end of basket a roll of excelsior, and make a thick pad for the top. For the cover take a piece of cheap muslin, cut about three inches larger than top of basket; with a knife push the cloth well up under the rim of basket, which is very easy to do, and when it is on smooth and tight, makes a very presentable looking basket. I sew a card on the cloth with the address on it on one end; on the other a card with "Eggs for Hatching—Please Handle With Care," which makes the express company more careful with the basket. Eggs go safely in these baskets; very few are ever broken and they hatch well. MRS. L. SIMMONS.

HOW TO GROW EARLY TOMATOES

People residing in the country cannot purchase tomato plants as city people can but they can fill shallow boxes with vegetable mold and plant tomato seed in boxes, keeping the box of plants in the house, where the temperature is generally 15 degrees warmer than out of the house. So soon as the plants are several inches high, begin pinching off all the shoots, leaving only the stem. Then put a cane or small stick by each plant, tying with a piece of old cloth so as not to cut the plant. When the tomato plant is a foot high, if the weather is warm enough, transplant with the stick that has supported it. Continue to keep shoots pinched off. By keeping the plants tied up, the sun wil hasten their bloom and ripening of fruit, and they will ripen when the fruit is selling at ten cents a quart.

SWEET POTATOES.

Southern farmers may not know the fact that sweet potatoes in the city of New York are selling for $4 per barrel. The sandy soils of the Southern pine region are especially adapted to growing from 100 to 200 bushels of the best keeping and most palatable sweet potatoes in the world. It is now time to begin bedding the potatoes for the coming crop, and the acreage should be 50 per cent. larger than all the history of the South—Notes from the Southern Agriculturist.

When a colt is growing the hoofs should be looked to occasionally to see if they do not require trimming.

Cows go dry more from mismanagement than from any other cause. Irregularity of milking and failure to "strip" when milking, will cause any cow to dry off. The richest milk is the last drawn from the udder, and for that reason alone the dairyman should strip closely. Changes of food, when made suddenly, will also cause the cows to fall off in yield, but in winter the cause may also be due to extreme cold and insufficient shelter; while in summer the use of netting in the windows, to protect the stables against the entrance of flies and other insects, will serve to prolong the milking period.—Michigan Advocate.

Field Notes

SOUTH CAROLINA.

W. M. R. Eaddy, Pastor, Lamar, S. C.—My first quarterly conference was held by Rev. W. G. Valentine, presiding elder, Saturday, February 11, at Asbury M. E. Church. Devotions were led by the presiding eldre and pastor. Bro. W. L. Lucas was elected secretary. Elder Valentine dispatched business in his usual manner. His ruling is enjoyed by all. It was a splendid gathering of the members. While the brothers showed that they came to prove their fidelity to the cause, Asbury's sisters came for the same purpose and well did they prove that they mean advancement in the cause of Christ. Reports were few, owing to the inclemency of the weather. Paid the elder $12.20; pastor, $58.96. On Sunday we drove over to Sandygrove where we found many waiting the elder's arrival. At this place he excelled himself; indeed, it was a masterly sermon. Quite a number of young men came forward for prayer. There has been some material improvements on the charge since last quarter: the committee on parsonage furniture has put into the parsonage and paid for the same, $30 worth of furniture. A nice heater has been put into Asbury church, also a bell. A nice bell has been put into Sandy Grove M. E. Church, also. Miss Mary Mouldraw, of Sumter, S. C., is doing efficient work, teaching at Sandy Grove in the day school. Miss Hattie Smith, also of Sumter, is at the head of the Enoch school. She, too, is doing good work. Mr. R. E. Howell, of Timmonsville, has in excellent shape the town school of this place. Mr. Clarence Davis, of Darlington, S. C., closes his school on Wednesday night of this week. He has made an enviable record. Other schools near us are doing well.

GREENVILLE, S. C.—On the 27th ult. a number of friends planned to surprise Dr. B. F. Witherspoon; this date being his twenty-fifth anniversary in the Christian ministry. It was one of the most enjoyable occasions of the season. The following gentlemen made impromptu talks on the following subjects: "Why We Celebrate," A. B. Davis; "The Ministry," J. C. Martin; "The Ladies," T. J. Bryant; "Our Church," Rev. M. M. Mouzon, P. E.; "Our Hostess," J. C. Thompson; "The Men, God Bless Them," Mrs. M. C. Davis; "May You Live Long and Prosper," J. W. Duncan. Dr. Witherspoon responded in his happiest and most thoughtful strain. The program was interspersed with delightful music rendered by Misses Cecelia A. Johnson and Lelia E. Sneed, after which light refreshments were served. A shake of the hand, a God bless you and the untiring, ever ready and beloved Witherspoon started on his twenty-sixth year of preaching and soul-saving for the Master.

MISSISSIPPI

J. A. PATTERSON, PASTOR, EDWARDS, MISS.—Friday night, February 24, a great storm came from the East, swept the parsonage door open and there fell upon the table sugar, rice, meat, fruits, flour and many other things. It was an act which greatly encouraged the pastor and his wife. This shows the spirit of unity that exists between the good people of Edwards. The sweet songs rendered were from both Methodists and Baptists. This party was led by Brother Albert Parks, Sisters M. B. Parks, Leonard, Miss Louisa Perkins, and many others whom the pastor mentions. Come again kind friends.

J. S. THOMAS, PASTOR, HAZLEHURST, MISS.—Dr. G. W. Smith, our new presiding elder, held our first quarterly conference February 19-20. Owing to the cold weather but few members attended, yet those present accorded the elder a warm reception. It was quite a compliment to the preachers and laity to receive him as a presiding elder. Everything seemed to be on the look up on all lines. Rev. Smith delivered a noble sermon and gave an interesting talk on the SOUTHWESTERN. I think our list of subscribers will be increased this year. Colection, $13.20. Paid pastor, $5.65; presiding elder, $8.20.

Popular Talks on Law

Copyrighted by Wm. C. Sprague, President of The Sprague Correspondence School of Law.

DEFENCE OF ONE'S HOUSE.

In our last talk we discussed Self-Defence. Akin to the right of a man to defend himself against an unlawful attack is the right to defend his home. The constitutions of twenty-seven of the states provide that one has a natural right to protect his property. "A man's house," says the old law, "is his castle, and he may take such steps as are reasonably necessary in the defence thereof against unlawful intrusion." Indeed the law regards an assault on a man's habitation for a felonious purpose as an assault on his person or on the person of an occupant.

One is never bound to retreat from his house, and in general may even kill to prevent a forcible and unlawful entry. The exercise of the right to protect one's home must not exceed the bounds, however, of defence or protection, so that the kind of force that one may use depends somewhat on the nature of the attack and the purpose of it. Where an entry is by force and the purpose of it is to commit a felony, killing, if necessary to prevent it is excusable and any one in the house, even a lodger, is justified in the protection of the house by any means found necessary. One who has a reasonable fear that a felony is intended need not wait until the assailant gets within the house, but may meet the intruder on the threshold and use means fatal to the assailant if necessary to protect himself from death or great bodily injury. If the assailant, however, can be repelled otherwise, and the one assailed does not use any other means of defence, the latter is not justified in killing. If the intruder flees the person assailed is not justified in pursuing and committing an injury.

It is held that the term "house" includes a place of business or a rented room occupied as a bedroom. Where one is attacked in the yard the courts hold that he should before taking life retreat into the house, if there is a reasonable opportunity so to do. Where one has peaceably entered the house the owner or occupant is not justified in using force to expel him, without first demanding or requesting that he leave; but where the entry was by force a preliminary request is not necessary before using force in ejecting the intruder. Where one or more persons assemble about a house and threaten to break in, the occupant is not justified in shooting until he gives warning.

A man was held to be justified in killing where on returning home at night he found the door fastened against him, broke it open, entered and in a fight that ensued killed the intruder. It has been held that the act of entering at a window in the night will not excuse the use of a deadly weapon without first warning the intruder to desist. Where a house is occupied in violation of law, as for gambling purposes, the occupant, or owner, cannot justify force used in putting out a person from a gambling room for disorderly behavior.

Decisions are pretty well agreed that a man cannot defend his real property, other than his dwelling, to the extent of taking life; but in a Michigan case a building thirty-six feet away from the dwelling, in which the owner's servants slept, was declared to be a part of the dwelling. As to personal property, one may not take life in defending his rights, save where the effort is to deprive him of his property by a forcible felony such as robbery or burglary.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT.

MRS. E. AUSTIN.

An interesting letter to our readers from Mrs. E. Austin of New York City:

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 9th, 1902

A little over a year ago I was taken with severe pains in my kidneys and bladder. They continued to give me trouble for over two months and I suffered untold misery. I became weak, emaciated and very much run down. I had great difficulty in retaining my urine, and was obliged to pass water very often night and day. After I had used a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which you so kindly sent me on my request, I experienced great relief. I immediately bought of my druggist two large bottles and continued taking it regularly. I am pleased to say that Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I can now stand on my feet all day without having any bad symptoms whatever. You are at liberty to use this testimonial letter if you wish. Gratefully yours,

Mrs. E. Austin.

19 Nassau St.

The mild and prompt effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Recommended and taken by physicians, used in hospitals and endorsed by people of prominence everywhere. To prove what Swamp-Root will do for you a sample bottle will be sent absolutely free, by mail, also a book telling all about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and be sure to mention reading this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Doings of the Workmen.

LOUISIANA.

J. TUTSON, PASTOR, CLINTON, LA.—Macedonia Church.—Our first quarterly conference was held February 25-26. Presiding Elder, J. W. Turner, presided with much care and dignity. The majority of officers were present with good reports and the elder was well pleased with the same. Sunday he preached an excellent sermon and nineteen precious souls came to the altar for prayer. The Rev. D. S. Kilbon also was with us and preached. Paid the elder in full, $10. One cash subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN. We are trying to get the paper into every home. This is my second year at Macedonia and the outlook is bright. Raised last year for all purposes $650.25. The pastor's salary last year was $450.00, this year $500.00.

(MRS.) DELLA E. ANDERSON, CLINTON, LA.—It has pleased the Almighty for Bishop Spellmeyer to return to us our worthy pastor, Rev. F. Walker. Our first quarterly conference was held February 20th. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. W. Turner, our new presiding elder. The leaders and officers were present with very good reports, which showed that the work of this charge is progressing. Revs. G. A. Payne and D. S. Kilbourne were with us and assisted in the Love Feast. We are well pleased with Rev. Turner and believe him to be the man for the place. His words of instruction and encouragement were highly appreciated by all.

J. C. BROWN, PASTOR, PINEVILLE, LA.—When I was appointed to this place I said I was going to the city of the dead, but I find that the living are here also. On the night of February 23 we were visited by a host of friends, young and old, led by Bro. A. F. Tillman, J. Brown, W. Brown, Sisters L. Green, L. Oliver and others. They presented us seventy pounds of choice groceries, also a handsome purse. May God bless these young people of Pineville. The pastor made a short address. Brother Brown and Tillman responded. Prayer was offered and shortly afterward our friends departed. Watch Pineville.

JULIA DOTSON, POLAND CHARGE, LA.—On the night of February 24 a great storm struck the parsonage and after prayer the brothers and sisters were invited to come again with their good things.

E. H. CLARK, PASTOR, PECAN POINT, LA.—During the month of December, the brethren presented the pastor a new $3.00 hat to wear to the conference. Bro. W. C. Archie was the prime mover. Also the stewards sisters, led by Sister Ann McElroy, presented him a purse of $6.00 to assist in his preparation for conference. Brother Dan Jinkings' present was a fine shirt and collar. The pastor was very thankful for all of the above. God bless them.

MARYLAND.

FREDERICK CITY, M4.—Dr. I. L. Thomas, the field agent of the Board of Church Extension delivered a remarkable and eloquent address by special invitation at the anniversary of the Colored Hospital Committee February 9th. A very large audience greeted the Doctotr and heard him with profound interest and special delight. Dr. Thomas is a natural born orator and inspires young and old who are so fortunate as to hear him. The hospital enterprise is advancing grandly under the leadership of the popular physician, Dr. Bowen, supported by Revs. T. O. Carroll, J. F. Wagonor and the prominent citizens both colored and white.

MISSISSIPPI.

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.—W. A. Moore, recording steward of Hesterville charge.—We held our Quarterly conference February 25-26 with our loving presiding elder, S. H. Nevils, in the chair. The brothers were not all present on acount of the bad roads but those with us had bright faces and written reports showed that the work is steadily growing. The elder preached two impressing sermons and administered the Sacrament to fifty-two. Paid pastor $26.45. Paid presiding elder in full and every interest of the church was looked after. Elder Nevils spoke highly of the SOUTHWESTERN and Rust University. We have with us this year Rev. R. J. Stokes whom the people welcomed with loving hands as though they think him the man for the place. Grand total raised this quarter $43.45. This is Hesterville Circuit and she means to get on the main line and go up the hill.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

Dear Brethren: We have been greatly hindered in our work during the winter months but must submit ourselves to the will of God. Now that this unfavorable season has passed we should begin our work again upon all lines at once. Easter Sunday is April 23rd, and we should make it a great day for benevolent causes. Remember our Sam Huston College and collect something for the same by commencement. Remember also the SOUTHWESTERN. Respectfully yours,

J. W. WEAKLEY, P. E.

MARION DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Marion, April 8-9; Old Town, 15-16; Walthall and Allen, 29-30; Wedgeworth, May 6-7; Oak Grove, 13-14; Eutaw, 20-21; Union (St. Paul), 27-28; Clinton, June 10-11; Gainesville, 17-18; Demopolis and Uniontown, 20; Selma, 21; Mt. Sterling, 24-25. Let every church and Sunday school observe Easter Sunday and each member of the church pay from 50 cents to $1.00. Have no division in the collection. Send money direct to New York and present receipts to conference. Dear brother pastors, please see that every one does something.

H. N. BROWN, P. E.

Orange, April 1-2; Beaumont, 8-9; Beaumont Mission, 8-9; Liberty, 15-16; Richmond, 22-23; Richmond Circuit, 22-23; Kendleton, 29-30; Thompson, 29-30; Columbia, May 6-7; Roeville, 6-7; Tabernacle, 12-14; St. Paul, 13-14; Galveston, Central Mission, 13-14; Trinity, Houston, 21-22; St. James, Houston, 21-24; St. Mark, Houston, 23; Mallalieu, Houston, 20-21; Wallisville, 27-28; Crosby, 28-29; Harrisburg, June 3-4; Boynton, 4-5; Velasco, 6; Mt. Vernon, 12-13; Sloan St., 12-14; Sour Lake, 8; Hamilton Chapel, 18-19. Dear pastors, please collet and send to Brother O. P. Miller, Rock Rapids, Iowa, $1 each from the smaller charges and $2 from the larger ones, to make up the deficit of $12,000 of the General Conference fund; also push the subscription for the SOUTHWESTERN. Put it in the homes of our people. It will help you to succeed in your work; try it if you have not. EDWARD LEE, P. E.

DALLAS DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Mexia Circuit, April 1-2; Hubbard and Dawson, 1-2; Pelham Circuit, 8-9; Corsicana and Ennis, 15-16; Milford and Italy, 22-23; Fort Worth, City, 29-30; N. Fort Worth and Aberlien, May 6-7; Fort Worth Circuit, 13-14; Pilot Point and Denton, 20-21; Denison, 27-28; Sherman Circuit, June 3-4; Dallas, St. Paul, 10-11; Waxahachie Circuit, 17-18; Lancaster and S. Dallas, 24-25. Dear brothers, arrange to have every one of the benevolent committees report something at each quarter; arrange to have love feast in connection with each conference. The weather was so bad that we could not observe Lincoln's birthday in February, so plan otherwise. I have been asked by Drs. Mason and Thirkield to appoint two pastors to conduct a Freedmen's Aid Anniversary during our district conference, which meets July 18-23, in Pilot Point, so I have appointed Revs. W. E. Blackson and T. S. Moore. Please bring to that meeting all claims for that fund. Dr. Logan will be there, so bring all of your benevolent money or receipts for the same. Make special preparation for Easter, our missionary rally day, April 23. The 28th day of May was set apart by our Annual Conference as Woman's Home Missionary Day. Help the sisters with their work. Remember also that our conference voted that we observe Children's Day without fail. Please keep these dates well in mind and arrange well for them. Don't say "can't," but "I will try." God bless you.

Every Heart-Ache

Every pain in the breast, difficult breathing, palpitation, fluttering or dizzy spell means that your heart is straining itself in its effort to keep in motion. This is dangerous.

Some sudden strain from overexertion or excitement will completely exhaust the nerves, or rupture the walls or arteries of the heart, and it will stop.

Relieve this terrible strain at once with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. It invigorates and strengthens the heart nerves and muscles, stimulates the heart action, and relieves the pain and misery.

Take no chances; make your heart strong and vigorous with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"I suffered terribly with heart disease. I have been treated by different physicians for my trouble without results. I went to a physician in Memphis, who claimed that I had dropsy of the heart. He put the X-ray on me, and in connection with his medicine he came near making a finish of me. Some time before this a Mr. Young, of St. Louis, was in our town. He saw my condition, and recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure to me. I gave it little attention until my return from Memphis, when I concluded to try it, and am pleased to say three bottles cured me.

CHARLES GOODRICH,
Caruthersville, Mo.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

I CURED MY RUPTURE

I Will Show You How to Cure Yours

FREE

I was helpless and bedridden for years from a double rupture. No truss could hold. Doctors said I would die if not operated on. I fooled them all and cured myself by a simple discovery. I will send the cure free by mail if you write for it. It cured me and has since cured thousands. It will cure you. Write to-day. Capt. W. A. Collings, Box 743, Watertown, N. Y.

To the Ministers of the Upper Mississippi Conference—Dear Brethren: The Minutes of the conference are now ready for distribution, but I have not the money to send them out. I have not received a dollar since the conference and fully one-half of the ministers failed to pay then. So you will do yourselves credit, save me and the presiding elders a deal of worry, and get your journals earlier by sending the money to me just as soon as you see this notice. This applies only to those who have not paid.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

Dear Brethren of the West Tennessee District: Fellow laborers in the Master's vineyard, I want to call your attention to the pledge each one made at Gallatin, which I am sure you made in good faith. That was to raise one thousand dollars for Walden University on the Fifth Sunday in April. Now brethren, success only comes to those who plan and work until it is won. Let us prove to the church that we are thankful for Walden University and for what it has done and what it is still doing for us as a race. I hope no one will fail to do their whole duty on the Fifth Sunday.

Your fellow laborer in Christ,

NOTICE TO THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

The conference minutes will of necessity be late in coming out this year, on account of the fire which took place here on the 24th inst., in which the conference minutes and the proceedings of the last session, which were placed in the hands of the printer were burned. I shall have to recollect the matter as best I can, and for that reason they will be late.

LEXINGTON CONFERENCE WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Dear Treasurers: No woman is a full member of the Woman's Home Missionary Society who does not pay $1.10 per year It is just as much your duty to collect the ten cents as it is to collect the dollar. Please do this and forward me five cents for every member you report to the Conference Corresponding Secretary. If this is fully done next quarter it will not be necessary to make an assesement to defray the expenses of our May meeting. I am sure any woman who is made to understand this will readily pay her ten cents. Let us do our whole duty as treasurers.

NOTICE.

PINE BLUFF DISTRICT.

Dear Brothers: I want to warn you of what I call negligence in duty. Let nothing hinder you from raising every dollar of your Mission and Easter money April 23. Get the programs in time so you can practice the children. Arange for the collections in time; get subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN; you can if you try. Study your Bible and the literature of the church and instruct the people. There are many things we can do in helping our young people. Put your Epworth League to work. This will enable you to get ready for the District Convention that will meet in June. And I want every man to come with his delegates and money for the Epworth Farm. Let us labor for conversions of souls to Christ's church. Any way I can help you I am ready and willing to do so. There will be a calling of the roll in May at the closing of the school. Don't fail, brethren. We shall succeed by the help of God, with your help. Report to me after your Easter collection. I am yours in Christ,

S. M. MCDONALD, Pastor.

Field Notes

W. H. Gilliam, Starkville, Miss.—The people of Starkville know how to make things pleasant for their pastor. A surprise party led by E. C. Collier and others came to the parsonage, and brought many good things, which left the pastor and family with delighted hearts and smiling faces. Come again. You have a standing invitation.

Guilford College, N. C., Summerfield Charge.—Our second quarterly conference convened at Collin's Grove, Feb. 18-19, with M. J. Bullock, our presiding elder, presiding. The brethren from the different churches were on time with splendid reports in spite of the ice and snow. We had a good session. The elder was at his best and preached a wonderful sermon on Sunday. Paid him $12.50; pastor, $48.45.

W. H. Jones, Pastor, Morgan City, La.—On my return here for the second year, my people received me gladly. Sister E. Lyons and Caroline Robinson led a pound party to the parsonage on the 8th and on the night of the 17th Mrs. Laura Robinson and Miss Alice Simms gave us another pounding. A pleasant time was enjoyed. Refreshments were served. We have begun this year's work by improving our side walk, which adds greatly to our property. Our motto here is, Souls converted, all claims raised and the Southwestern in every home possible.

CHESTER CANNON, BATON ROUGE, LA.—On the night of February 15th, the young people of St. Mark surprised Miss Estel Reddix, the daughter of Rev. B. J. Reddix, and presented her a nice purse in token of the high respect in which she was held among them. The family is soon to depart for their new field of labor. Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Misses Ella Primust, Daisa Primust, Sarah Davis, Pearler Lampkins, Carrie Lampkins, Lena Matthew, Francis Nelson and Messrs. Frank Primust and Robert Davis, Jr.

TALK IS CHEAP; ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS.

To any reader of this great paper who will send me their name and address (a postal will do), I will send (not a sample) but a full-size box of Glossine, Queen of all hair tonics. This, the greatest and most meritorious remedy for the human hair, causes the hair to grow with rapidity and gives to it that rich glossy tone so much desired by all. No matter how short or harsh or curley your hair may be, Glossine will make it long and straight, soft and fine, and of so rich and pliable a texture that it can be dressed in any prevailing style desired. Glossine cannot fail. I stake my honor on its great merit and prove its worth by sending a full-size box free to all who write to me. Address MISS HELEN MARTIN,
No. 9 Governor St., Richmond, Va.

C. E. MOODY, PASTOR, LEXINGTON, MISS.—I arrived at my post promptly the first Sunday after the adjournment of the conference, found everything O. K., and was given a very warm reception by the officers and members. The good people here seem to be as proud of their pastor as he is of them, hence peace and harmony prevails. Notwithstanding the weather has been very disagreeable for services we have raised fifty dollars. The church is alive both spiritually and financially and we have other work well in hand and anticipate doing a greater work this year than in the history of our ministry. On last Wednesday night a party of young people, led by Brother G. W. Jackson, our efficient steward, Sisters Jackson, Hymen and many others too numerous to mention, gave us a pleasant call and to our surprise they brought some of near everything that one could wish to make them happy. We expressed our appreciation for their kindness, but they assured us that they were only sorry that they were not able to do more. A careful survey showed that they left one hundred pounds or more. Call again brethren. We are always glad to have you come.

J. M. THOMPSON, COLUMBUS, MISS.—On February 24th a storm rose in the North—coming Southward—about 10:00 p. m. It struck the Methodist parsonage. Unlike the angry, howling winds so dangerous to human life, this storm was filled with sweet music and ladened with many pounds of groceries. Those prominent in this affair deserve much credit, among whom are Sisters Billups, Haden, Topp, Sargent, Shumpert, Hendricks, Evans, White, Marcus, Jones and many others, together with the brethren. The pastor expressed his gratefulness in an appropriate five minutes talk, which was highly appreciated by the party. Come again, sisters, you and the brethren have a cordial welcome. The Lord bless you all.

W. S. JONES, REPORTER, HEIDELBERG, MISS.—Our first quarterly conference was held February 25-26. Elder J. B. Brook was on time. A good number of class leaders and local preachers were present with well written reports. A goodly number partook of the Lord's Supper. The presiding elder was at his best and preached two excellent sermons. Collection for the quarter, $19.65. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN.

BOWERTON, MISS.—J. J. Goodwin, Recording Steward of Bowerton, Miss.—Our first quarterly conference was held at St. Morris M. E. Church February 25-26 with our presiding elder, G. W. Smith, presiding. The majority of the brethren were present with written reports, which indicate the work to be in a favorable condition. We are to pay the pastor $660; traveling expenses, $25.00; presiding elder, $72.00; bishop, $6.00; conference claimants, $5.00. The elder dispatched business carefully and easily. Sunday was a happy day. Dr. Smith preached a stirring sermon to a large and interested audience. We were glad to have him with us. Our pastor, J. I. Garrett preached at 4 o'clock and he filled our hearts with joy. We love our new pastor and we are going to do all we can to make him happy. Seventy-seven souls communed and one joined the church. Collection for the conference, $31.35; paid the elder $18.00; pastor, $13.35.

JAMES JORDAN, PASTOR, HEIDELBERG, MISS.—Sunday, February 26, was a happy day with us. Rev. J. B. Brooks, our presiding elder, was with us, preached two grand sermons and administered the sacrament to about 60. Although the weather has been unfavorable we paid the elder in full, $17. Raised in full for this quarter, $25 The work has taken on new zeal.

H. JUDSON BROWN, PASTOR, LIBERTY, MISS.—Rev. J. D. Gilbert held our first quarterly here February 24. The presiding elder's salary was raised $7.50. The people here are loyal Methodists. They have furnished the parsonage and supplied us with provisions. May God bless and prosper them. We are praying for a successful year.

Trials of Motherhood

335 Broad Street.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., June 12, 1903.

I suffered for nine years with ovarian troubles making life a burden to myself as well as to my family. During that time I had two miscarriages and although we longed for a child to bless our home this seemed impossible. I had constant racking bearing-down pains in the pelvic organs and a pulling through my limbs with frequent headaches. I felt sick at my stomach and vomited frequently and no medicine helped me until I tried Wine of Cardui.

Then my general health improved, the pains gradually lessened and after 18 weeks I was well. I am now the happy mother of a boy eighteen months old and my husband joins me in sending heartfelt thanks to you for your splendid medicine. Without, I would have been a childless, instead of a happy and well mother.

Mrs Frederick Nirdlinger

CHAPLAIN, ST. ANDREW'S ASSOCIATION.

WINE of CARDUI

Wine of Cardui is the most successful menstrual regulator. By regulating menstruation, Wine of Cardui banishes inflammation from the entire female organism and the strengthened ligaments bring the organs back to their proper place. This is what Wine of Cardui did for Mrs. Nirdlinger. It banished the racking pains and burning inflammation and brought her relief. She was restored to health and strength and gives Wine of Cardui the credit of making her able to become a happy mother. This medicine equips a woman for every duty of wifehood and motherhood. There are many suffering women who think that health can never be theirs because they cannot secure the services of a great specialist, but we want to say right here that while Mrs. Nirdlinger lives in Philidelphia, a great medical center, she depended on Wine of Cardui for a cure and she was cured. This same medicine is within your reach. Will you take it?

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

They Live in Our Memory.

Union City, Tenn.—Sister Emmaline Perry, aged 74 years, departed this life after a short illness. She joined the M. E. Church in 1878 and lived a good and faithful member of Hudson Grove Church some twenty years or more. She moved to Union City and lived in the old church from its organization until death. She leaves a son, daughter, several grandchildren and a host of friends. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. M. Strayhorne. Interment was in the new cemetery.

Grenada, Miss.—Mr. S. S. Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cary Sims, of Grenada county, Miss., was born Dec. 17, 1873, and died Jan. 11, 1905. He was a promising young man, possessing great talent. The deceased was a member of Springdale Baptist Church, and formerly a student of Central Mississippi College. He became one among the best teachers in his county; was afterwards married to Miss Minnie I. Hardiman. Two children were born into this family. Last spring Mr. Sims moved to Muskogee, I. T., where he became a teacher in one of the public schools. On the 11th of January, on his way home from his school, he was frozen to death. His remains were brought back to his old home in Mississippi and laid away by the Odd Fellows in Mt. Carmel Cemetery. A wife, two children, father, mother, five brothers, three sisters and many friends mourn his departure. The funeral service was attended by Revs. M. Weathers and Booker.

(Miss) DAISY E. HARDIMAN.

Pecan Point, La.—Brother Richard Shannon, a faithful member of the M. E. Church for thirty years, died in full triumph of faith Jan. 27, leaving a bereaved wife. He was born in Houston county, Ga., 60 years ago. Corinth M. E. Church has lost a good member. He rests from his labors. The writer being absent, Brother W. C. Archie, a local preacher, attended the funeral.

E. H. CLARK, Pastor.

Kilmichael Circuit, Miss.—Little Maggie Baines, daughter of Bro. Paul Baines, aged 12 years, 1 month and 27 days, accidentally caught on fire Saturday night and was fatally burned before the flames could be extinguished. Her father and also her brother, Amos, were badly burned while trying to rescue her. She died a brave soldier of the cross.

Lord, tho' we cannot understand it,
  Why from us she now should go,
When we need her, greatly need her
  In the work of life below.

We surrender in submission,
  To thy will, we are bowing low,
Help us, Lord, like her to love thee,
  Teach us that we do not know.

The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, G. W. Baker.

Pott's Camp, Miss.—After several years of suffering and pain, Bro. John Immanuel Howell fell asleep in Jesus on the morning of Feb. —, 1905. Bro. Howell, though ill most of the time, was a faithful Christian, attending most of the church services and was ready at all times to aid in advancing the cause of Christ. He died as he lived. Peace be to his ashes. A father, mother, brothers, sisters, other relatives and friends mourn their loss.

W. F. ISAIAH, Pastor.

Cave Spring, Ga.—Just ten months ago I lost my dear mother, who was dearer to me than all other earthly possessions. She worked for the Lord 60 years, and on Sunday, Feb. 26, a dear sister of mine, after an illness of two months, was called Home. She had been a laborer in the Lord's vineyard 35 years. Age 54 years. I conducted recently the funeral services of Mrs. Jennie Kerby and Mrs. Anna West, neither of whom were connected with the church. S. B. BEAUFORD, Pastor.

Eola, La.—Brother I. Garrett died Feb. 16, in full triumph of faith.

S. M. G. TAYLOR.

Hahnville, La.—Sister Polly Pollard, a consistent member of St. James M. E. Church, fell asleeep in Jesus Jan. 26. Sister Pollard was a faithful Christian, loyal to her church. She was loved by both white and black. Peace to her ashes. She leaves one child, husband, mother, father, two brothers, one sister and a host of friends to mourn her loss. Rev. A. Willis, from the Baptist church, assisted in the funeral.

T. B. COOPER, Pastor.

Lawrence, Miss.—Sister Sueky Moore departed this life in full triumph of faith. Her last words were that she was waiting on the Lord. Her funeral was at Union Chapel M. E. Church, from which she died, being a member for more than 20 years. Age, 80 years. The funeral was attended by Rev. W. H. Smith. The pastor, Rev. N. Goodlow, was away.

W. M. BUFKIN, Steward.

Sister Lottie Williams departed this life Feb. 13, 1905, after a long illness of 18 months. She was a member of the Pine Grove M. E. Church and had been for 20 years. She lived a consistent Christian and never wavered from any duty devolving upon her relative to the church during those 20 years. She died in the triumph of faith. The church loses in Sister Williams a valuable member and the community loses an esteemed and sociable woman. She was a good wife, a loving mother and an amiable friend. She leaves a husband, five children and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. She sang before dying, "Why do my moments move so slow and my salvation come?" The pastor not having arrived from conference the funeral was conducted by Revs. W. E. Bradford and Dave Johnson, both of the Baptist Church. J. D. GILBERT, Pastor.

Eupora, Miss.—On the 26th of January, 1905, death entered the home of Brother W. M. Ford, and took from him his dear wife, Sister Ford. She was about 54 years old, and had been a member of the M. E. Church about 40 years. She leaves one son, W. M. Ford, Jr., the superintendent of the Sunday school and a host of friends. Her funeral was largely attended. It was conducted by the writer and Rev. J. H. Quinn. C. L. WALLS, Pastor.

Mrs. Julia Hinkle, the wife of Rev. Samfort Hinkle, of Pewee Valley, Ky., was born June 18, 1867. She departed this life Jan. 22, 1905. She was converted to God when quite young, and attached herself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, and lived a consistent Christian and a true, faithful member. The church feels that she has lost a dutiful member. She leaves a kind husband and six daughters and three sons to mourn their loss. Her funeral was very beautifully conducted by her pastor, Rev. L. C. Harris, assisted by Rev. R. Reynolds of the Baptist Church.

CUPID'S MIRROR.

"The beauty of a woman's face or figure is but the external sign of the good health within," says Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the specialist in women's diseases. Further, to be happy and beautiful one must naturally have good health. Now, if a woman has dragging-down feelings, together with constantly returning pains and aches, a too great drain upon her vitality and strength, she will never look beautiful. The feelings of nervousness, the befogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, all result from those disorders peculiar to women, and the only way to effect their cure is to strike at the source of the difficulty. There is every reason why she should write some great specialist, one who has made the diseases of women a specialty for a third of a century like Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. All correspondence is held sacredly confidential, and he gives his advice free and without charge.

During a long period of practice, Doctor Pierce found that a prescription made up entirely of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, cured ninety-eight per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in a form that can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

In many cases Dr. R. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will fit the needs and put the body in healthy condition.

So sure of it is Dr. Pierce, he offers a reward of $500 for women who cannot be cured of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure.

Don't allow the dealer to insult your intelligence by offering you a cheap substitute.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

Much of the physical beauty of man or woman is dependent on the hair. Keep this "crowning glory" in best condition with "La Creole" Hair Restorer, the preparation used by famous Creole beauties. It makes the hair lie straight and smooth for a long time, cures dandruff, prevents falling hair and restores original color to gray hair.

Unexcelled for Purpose

Mrs. Melissa Dancy, of 281 Orleans street, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the most prominent women in the colored society of this city, in both a social and religious way; Mrs. Dancy has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for many years and takes pleasure in saying:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is unexcelled for the purposes for which you recommend it, viz., to keep the hair in a soft and glossy condition and to prevent it from falling out."

MRS. MELISSA DANCY.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

MR. JAMES BACON.

Splendid Hair Dressing

To the old patrons of the Peabody Hotel, Memphis, Tenn., this is a familiar face—that of Mr. James Bacon, who has had entire charge of the dining room in that celebrated hostlery for over twenty-five years, and who, by his courteous manner and polite attention has secured the friendship and respect of every one with whom he comes in contact. Mr. Bacon says:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is a splendid dressing for the hair and I have received great benefit from its use."

His address is 98 St. Paul street, Memphis.

"La Creole" Hair Restorer retails at $1.00 per large bottle. If your dealer cannot supply you, we will send by prepaid express, to any station in the United States or Canada—

One bottle for $1.00; 6 bottles for $5.00.

MISSISSIPPI

J. E. HOLMES, PASTOR, ST. PAUL M. E. CHURCH, BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS.—It was between the hours of nine and ten o'clock on the night of the February 22, 1905. We had retired for "a happy night's rest," and all the "air was holding a solemn stillness' when there broke forth upon the gallery this beautiful song: "There's a stranger at the door, let him in."—and we let him in; and to our great surprise in came a number of ladies and gentlemen who brought such good things as meat, meal, sugar, coffee, rice, flour, etc., and even money was given by several. They sang to us, "There's a stranger at the door; let him in." We sing to them: "God be with you 'till we meet again."

Crescent City Notes

Friday night, March 10, the Epworth League members of Simpson Chapel had their installation and reception, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. The officers are: Robt. Armstrong, president; vice-president Spiritual Dept., E. J. H. Sorrell; Mercy and Help, Esther Lang; Literary, Lydia Dunbar; Social, Sarah Jones; secretary, Mary Taylor; treasurer, Lillie Humphrey; sergeant, Arthur Robinson. Rev. V. Chapman, after encouraging words, rendered service as installing officer. Revs. Hubbs, Tircuit, Harold and Jones were present and participated in the exercises. Revs. F. T. and W. Chinn were present later in the evening. Sunday, March 12, at 11 a. m., Rev. A. Luster preached very acceptably. At night we were favored with the presence of Dr. Frederick Knight, of New Orleans University, and Rev. C. Hunter. Rev. Hunter preached and the large and appreciative congregation was amply repaid for their presence. Dr. Knight will preach next Sunday night, March 19.

Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, will hold meetings in this city during the second week of April, each at 7:30 p. m., as follows: Simpson Chapel, April 9; Mt. Zion, April 10; Union Church, April 11. All Sunday-school superintendents and Epworth League presidents are requested to meet Dr. Logan at the meeting of April 11, at Union Church. City pastors will please make announcement.

J. F. MARSHALL.

The board of stewardesses of Thompson Chapel, Rev. D. M. Seals, pastor, are working very hard to make things pleasant for the inmates of the parsonage. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather on the night of March 8th, we were agreeably surprised by being presented with many pounds of choice groceries to the amount of 70 pounds. The party was led by Sisters Mary Edward and Lucy Williams. The pastor expressed his thanks in a few words, prayer was offered, and the company retired with a cordial invitation to call again.

Whereas, We have heard of the death of Miss Marie Adele Scott, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. I. B. Scott, which occurred in Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 17, 1905, and

Whereas, Bishop Scott and family spent eight years in this city during which time we found them to be true Christians, loving associates and good citizens; and Miss Marie was ever found amiable, winsome and attractive, carrying with her the true qualities of a Christian;

Resolved, That the family is bereft of a jewel, the church a faithful member, and the race of one who promised to be a great light.

Resolved, That we, the members of the New Orleans Preachers' Meeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in weekly session assembled, tender the family our heartfelt sympathy and prayers.

Resolved further, That we commend them to the God of Comfort, who is fully able to dispel the gloom that now hangs over the home of the family.

On Friday evening, March 10th, at Wesley Chapel Hall, a farewell reception was tendered Messrs. W. E. Shallowhorne and Gosy, who have been students of the Flint Medical School, and are now returning home for the vacation. During their stay in this city these young men have been faithful workers in Wesley Chapel Sunday school and have gained the respect and appreciation of all. The evening was pleasantly spent listening to interesting addresses and music. Refreshments were served and the friends parted from their young guests hoping to meet them again next year.

Editorial

Atlanta has separate elevators for colored people. That is to say, upon the regular elevators the colored people are not permitted to ride, but they may ride upon the elevator marked "FOR FREIGHT AND COLORED PEOPLE." It is seldom that Negroes of self-respect can bring themselves to the point of this humiliation and accept such free rides.

Whatever you may owe to yourself you owe something to others. A person entered a social gathering one evening ruffled in spirit because of some happening with which no one in the gathering had to do, or knew the slightest of. This individual sulked during the entire evening; was lifeless in conversation, reticent in answer to questions, void of interest in the evening's program, and was almost on the point of being ungracious to the guest of honor and to the host. Whenever it was possible this uncomfortable person, who marred much of the pleasure of all others for the evening, would find a seat in a corner. Here and there persons were asking, "What is the trouble with Miss M.?" and when finally approached, she said: "Nothing but that concerns myself." And here's the point. Can anything concern an individual that may not in some way concern others? No one has the right to mar the pleasure of others. Whatever you think your individual rights are you owe to those around you at all times the most cheerful and agreeable expression of your own soul, the most hopeful and pleasing interpretation of the life with which you are environed. You owe something to others whatever you may owe to yourself.

The theologian proves the validity of Christianity by what is known as Christian Evidences, and it is argued that Christianity has a divine origin because of its superiority as compared with Greek philosophy and other ancient thinking, and its divine origin is further claimed on the ground of Christ's sinless character, the nature and credibility of miracles and of testimonies of apostles and the Gospels. But the most striking, and by far the most convincing evidence of the divine origin of Christianity is found in Christian experience. The greatest miracles of Christian history is not the opening the eyes of the blind, or of feeding the five thousand, or the raising of the dead, but the greatest of all miracles is the conversion of the sinful soul. And this miracle performed to-day is the same in every particular as the conversions which occurred during the time of Christ's life on earth. Conversion admits of no argument. When a person testifies, I know Him in whom I believe, all argument as to how and why fail. The consciousness of sins forgiven and the witness of the Spirit of divine acceptance are two of the mightiest forces in Christianity. The fact remains that the conversion of the sinful soul is the mightiest argument the Christian faith has to offer in its defense.

YELLOW NOVELS

The kind of books that one reads indicates as clearly and unmistakably the character of the reader as the company he keeps, and even more so. For the choice of association will be made with some deference to public opinion, while in the selection of books there may be absolute freedom, thinking that it will not be known just what is being read. It is all right enough to read, and President Roosevelt gives us the most remarkable example of prolific reading of recent days, but what do you read—that is the question. There is a fad in reading the "latest books," just like keeping up with the latest fashions, and it is not uncommon to enter some homes and find the broom lying on the floor, the dinner dishes unwashed, the house very poorly kept, and the housekeeper leaning over, intensely reading a book—it's a novel. The place of fiction in literature is not to be discarded, nor is the value of story-telling to be under-rated, but the market has simply become flooded with trashy novels. And the only value they have to those who read them is that they hold interest to the end, and as the person says, "I cannot stop until I finish it." The characters are unreal, the scenes are extravagantly drawn, and far from anything that could or would happen in actual life. False ideals of home, love, marriage relations, relations between parents and children, and semi-ethical ideas of duty, a perverted heroism, all of which could be prefaced by the adjective "yellow." For if there are "yellow" journals there are "yellow" books that are not only not worth the time it takes to read them, but have a damaging and degrading influence.

THE AGE LIMIT

Dr. William Osler, who is soon to go from John Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., to the Regius professorship of medicine in Oxford University, England, at a recent banquet was reported as saying that "a man has outlived his usefulness at forty and ought to be chloroformed at sixty." This statement has attracted considerable attention. Dr. Osler claims that the idea of chloroforming at sixty was a joke. Quite a serious thing to joke about. His statement has met with favorable as well as unfavorable comment. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, shares the belief of Dr. Osler that a man should be retired at sixty, but Dr. Wiley thinks that science will extend the limit of the vigor of the ordinary life to seventy.

The New York World in taking exception to Dr. Osler's statement points out the vigor of Gladstone at 84, Milton's writing of "Paradise" at 59, and Grant's military genius after 40. While there are instances which are exceptional when men after they were 60 were capable of doing the usual amount of work which they could do between the ages of 35 and 50, yet many as a rule are not as vigorous after 60 as they were before, and at this age are more likely to break down, their judgments are more easily affected by sympathy and show signs of physical, if not mental decay. The age limit for retirement in army life is 64, while at the last General Conference, there seemed to have been a concensus of opinion that the Bishops should be retired at 72. The average Methodist preacher does not go beyond 60 in active service.

Dr. Wiley gives some laws of health, the observance of which he says will prolong life. If the vigor of life can be prolonged to seventy and after, then it will give to us for longer years men who have been tried and whose experiences and judgment are wanted in the councils of church and state affairs, and will add joy and blessings to thousands. Dr. Wiley says:

"There are four methods to prolong life, and all must be followed. They are heredity, temperance, work and play. Unless a man starts in life with a long line of healthy ancestors behind him, he labors under a handicap hard to overcome—impossible to overcome, in fact. The man who starts out in infancy with a healthy, strong body must be temperate to live long. I don't mean that he shall never take a drop of liquor. I am not a prohibitionist. But he must eat and drink in moderation. The man who dissipates in youth fills an early grave. Such men fall off between thirty-five and forty.

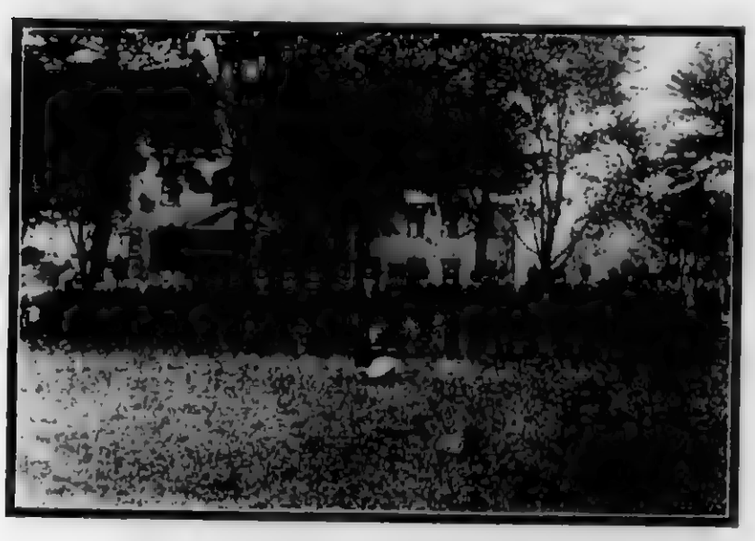
"Having been temperate and built up a strong constitution, the man must work. He must put his whole soul into some occupation, must be deeply interested in it. The man bred in idleness does not reach old age. After working hard the man must play. Amusement is as necessary as work. Recreation is essential to a vigorous old age. Follow these four precepts and you will become an old man, strong, healthy and keen of mentality and body. There is nothing pitiful about old age, but, on the contrary, there is vast satisfaction in viewing in retrospection a life well spent.

"I have no hesitation in making the prophecy that the time will come soon when a man will be young at seventy."

A KEEN SENSE OF JUSTICE

Sometime ago a servant was killed in the household of Dr. Wilder in Chicago, and the police and detective force were baffled in the effort to find any clew whatever as to the murderer. By a combination of circumstances the father and mother knew of their son's guilt of murdering the person referred to, and it remains for James A. Logan, a Negro janitor, and his wife to give up their only son, in spite of their love for him and parental affinity that must have been theirs toward their son. But out of respect for the law, out of respect for justice, and measuring up to the full requirement of a citizen, and as a member of this great republic, delivered their only son into the hands of justice. All colored men are not void of the stuff out of which men are made. They can rise above feelings and affections and self-interests and be loyal to the high interests of law and the interest of the community. After all, there are some Negroes who are men.

The Teacher



By Prof. Frank Trigg, A. M. Principal of Princess Anne Academy

The academy is a training school. Its duty is to prepare young men and women to go out among the people and help them in every way they can.

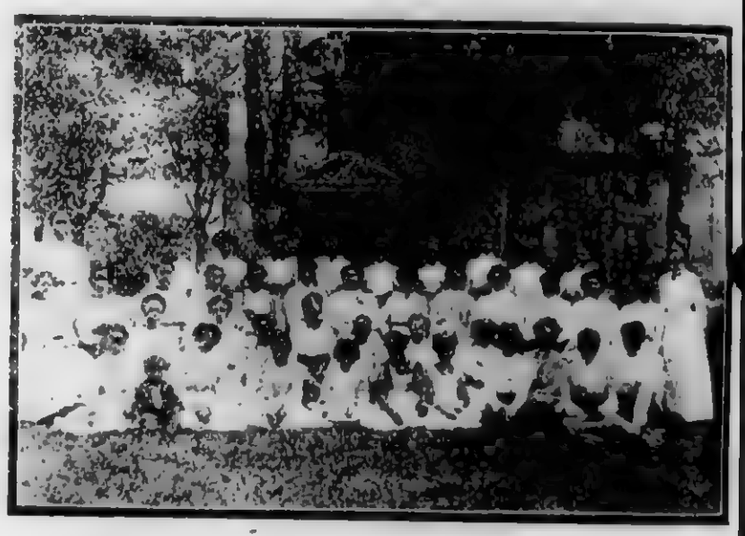
No teacher can succeed who does not get good, substantial moral support. The people must have a correct estimate of his worth as a citizen and as a teacher.

As a citizen he is expected to take unfeigned interest, so far as he can, in every enterprise that has for its object the improvement of the entire people.

His example should be characterized as manly. His pupils should see in him the highest type of an American citizen, and should have no doubt in their minds as to whether he exercises the highest right given to a citizen under a Republican form of government. Indeed it is the opinion of the wisest and best men both in the past and present that our government absolutely requires that all of its male citizens entitled to suffrage express it in the uniform way. He should encourage every legitimate business enterprise among his people. The prosperity of a business does not depend so much upon the incipient step as upon the moral support it receives after the step has been taken. Now it may be said for the most part that the teacher knows less about business than the average citizen, but this is not true except with the class of teacher usually employed. We speak of those who should be licensed to teach. It is not how much a man knows that makes him valuable, but it is how much he imparts to others and the manner in which he does so.

READY FOR DUTY'S CALL

It is said the moral condition among the young people is deplorable, and if this be true, it is to be charged to three causes: first, the home training; second, the teacher; third, the religious influence of the community. It must be confessed that within the past quarter of a century, the decline in religious influence has been alarming. It seems that if the young people are to be saved we must look to power outside of our churches, until they re-establish their former influence. That the children of most families in every community have gotten out of reach of parental influence cannot be questioned. The public schools and other institutions in the country have placed the intellectual training of the youth far ahead of the moral training received in the homes of the majority of the pupils. It should be understood that young people must be impressed with a deep sense of the importance of proper self-control at all times. This should be done in the home. If the intellect is not under control of the moral nature, there will be great difficulty in the individual keeping himself from evil of any kind. Law-abiding youth must have law-abiding parents, and if the latter would be law-abiding, they must be intelligent. The next generation of the Negro race must have 50 per cent. of its mothers and fathers school-trained men and women. Unless this is done we must suffer even more than we have. The wide-awake teacher will use his best endeavors at all times to secure the regular attendance of every child in his neighborhood. The old schoolmasters possessed the power of drawing the pupils to them from every direction. The shade of a tree was a sufficient schoolhouse for them. Power was the thing that was most desired by the pupil. The teacher fills the highest position in the gift of the community. It is true that it is not the one most sought, but it is the one hardest to fill. The forming of character is the real end of all teaching, the shaping of mind and the training of the soul of a child demand the best skill in the gift of a community. We regret and deplore the fact so evident among us that the ministry of the Gospel of Christ is failing to reach the youth as it did twenty-five years ago. This carries us to the fireside, which is after all the place where all sound and safe teaching of the youth is done. If Greece had built instead of the Parthenon, a temple to the honor of God, she might be this day at the head of all peoples,



PROF. FRANK TRIGG, A. M.
Principal of Princess Anne Academy

but alas for her, she worshiped the creature. If the teachings of the Apostle Paul had been heard and obeyed by magnificent old Rome, which fell to rise no more, she would be standing to-day with a living instead of a dead language, and without the blight of the Dark Ages upon her. The teacher should be a strong advocate of the rights of men as they are taught in the Bible. When we think of the first settlers and their posterity, the fathers of New England, who were men of deep religious belief, our souls are stirred within us, because we see in ourselves so little of their consecrated spirit to the great Being. Again, the teacher should be able to say, as Milton said: "I am long since persuaded that to do and say aught worth memory and imitation, no purpose or respect should sooner move us than simply the love of God and mankind. To love the republic, to study universal good, and to promote the interest of mankind as far as lies within our power, is the height of goodness and makes that temper which we call divine." He should have merit and modesty. These found in a man, he at once has the favor of the people and then he is able to impress upon his pupils and their parents the great thought that should engage the attention of every American, that is freedom. Every member of a community ought to be brought early face to face with the great truths that will inspire him to self-control, that make him feel that he must respect public opinion under which he as a citizen must live. The teacher's duty is to prepare the youth in co-operation with the parent for the high responsibilities of a man. He does not mean to train the child simply for the state, but for eternity. The state must protect the child's life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. The principles of manhood should be the ruling thought presented by the teacher to all the people, both by word and by example. He should be the vidette of the community, especially where there is any perceptible backwardness with regard to the highest good of the people. He should study the conditions of the community and know exactly how the land lay, because this is the basis of all freedom and the foundation on the perpetuity of free institutions must stand.

The teacher should possess the largest benevolent spirit. To be more specific, the Negro teacher is a failure without this spirit. Love for home and friends may name one generous; sympathy for the suffering, charitable; loyalty to city or state or country, patriotic; but none of these raise one as high in the esteem of the best people as a truly benevolent heart. A man with such quality is not indifferent to the welfare and happiness of any member of the human family. Such a spirit knows no race, no color, but looks out for every member of a community, however unworthy. There is a oneness of feeling and interest in each for another running through the entire human family that can not be changed by selfishness. We love the poet and the orator; we praise the warrior and statesman, each for his glorious achievements, but when we turn to men like Peabody, John Howard and C. P. Huntington, we fail of language to describe our admiration for them. These are great benefactors of mankind.

A teacher with a good conscience will daily give his pupils the most impressive lessons of life. His life is a sort of reflex action upon his pupils.

Next to the schoolroom, the teacher's influence is felt in the home. This brings us to one of the most important phases of a teacher's work, that is, visiting the parents. Visiting may be dispensed with in ordinary social life, but it is indispensible to the teacher's work. It brings the teacher and parent in closer contact with each other. They learn to know and understand each other better, thereby insuring confidence. Oftimes very serious results come from misunderstanding between the two. The direct effects of visiting is reflected through the pupils, indirectly.

In the church and Sunday school the teacher's influence should not be less powerful. Here he has an opportunity to supplement the lessons taught in morality in the day school and to show there the importance of regularity and promptness in religious as well as secular work.

He should strengthen in the hearts of his pupils the "I ought" and "Ought not." Dr. Mark Hopkins says the term "I ought" is the strongest one in the English language. If this can be done the highest service that can be rendered the child has been given him and from him will come his highest service. It should be remembered that the teacher ought to impress the community by his life with the importance of the action of thought and of speech. A slip-shod life both in deed and thought will create disrespect for the schoolroom, and thus injure the child and the community. He ought to use his best strength to impart in the heart of the child a fine sense of honor; a keen sense of this great principle lies at the bottom of a noble character.

PRINCESS ANNE, Maryland.

Princess Anne Academy

A VIEW OF THE FARM BUILDINGS AND FARM

Princess Anne Academy is splendidly equipped for giving to its students not only a practical industrial education, but a thorough preparatory course. It is a part of the corporation of Morgan College, of Baltimore, regularly chartered under the laws of the state of Maryland. The Academy is located on the Eastern shore of Maryland and on the outer edge of Princess Anne, the county seat of Somerset county. It is more directly the Conference school of the Delaware Annual Conference. For from this school a number have gone out who are ministers in the Delaware and Washington Conferences. The work of its graduates vindicates the purpose of the founder and justifies the continual contributing of money to its treasury for current expenses. The Delaware Conference has a peculiar pride in Princess Anne, and to its support the brethren rally loyally. Not only do the children of the ministers and of many parents around about attend Princess Anne, but the Conference yearly ects a large number of Conference visitors, who fficially visit the school and thereby attest the terest of the Conference.

The institution under the inspiring and capable leadership of Prof. Frank Trigg, A. M., the resent principal, has not only sustained its past story but has advanced along all lines. Prof. rigg has been in the school work practically all s life. Coming as he did from the principalip of the High School of Lynchburg, Va., he ad experience as well as ability, which applied the work of Princess Anne has proven the wisom of his appointment. He takes high rank as educator and a discreet and successful administrator.

The Academy offers nine trades. Agriculture taught by theory as well as by practice, including the study of soil, seed, cultivation, harvesting nd marketing. There is also a course in dairyg. The latest and most approved separators, churns, testers, and tempering appliances are used. The course in carpentry is thoroughly practical in every way, while the course in wheelwrighting, embracing both wood and iron work, is augmented by the work that comes in from the country round about. Blacksmithing and horseshoeing are taught. Sewing, dress making, cooking, laundry work and housekeeping are embraced under the department of domestic science, which is thoroughly capable of training the girls in the most practical way.

Rev. David H. Hargis, of the Delaware Conference, a graduate of the institution, has established the Hargis prize, in memory of his mother, for the best English oration. The institution is supported by the collections from the Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, Delaware and Washington Conferences. And while it is a part of the system of the Freedmen's Aid Society, nevertheless, by this arrangement the funds are handled by the corporation of Morgan College.

We are pleased to give a number of illustrations of the institution, which evidences that students learn by doing, and all are required to do a certain amount of industrial work. Prof. Trigg has had unusual success thus far, and we predict continuous prosperity during his administration.

The Japanese captured Mukden on March 10, a large number of prisoners and vast stores of ammunition. They now have practically the whole of Manchuria. The battle of Mukden was one of the greatest and bloodiest of modern times. he Russians had not less than 300,000 men, 2,000 guns and at least 25,00 cavalry. The Japanese had, all told, in the neighborhood of 400,000 men and more than 2,000 guns. No figures have been given as yet of the loss of life, but it is thought that the desperate fighting of nearly two weeks has cut down the available fighting force of the two armies at least one-third.

Directions to a Traveler

"How far must I follow this dusty way?"
Till the hills grow faint in the twilight gray.

"Must I keep the path till it drops from sight?"
At the line of the sky is a path to the right.

"And what is the name of the crossroad, there?"
The name on the fingerpost is Care.

"And must I travel that new path far?"
Till the west is bright with the Evening Star.

"And how many miles must I journey then?"
Till you reach the Tavern of all Good Men.

"And how many roofs shall I have to pass?"
But one: that Hostelry thatched with grass.

"And whither thence at the dawn of the day?"
The Host, when he wakes you, will point the way.

BY FREDERIC LAWRENCE KNOWLES.

—In "Love Triumphant."

A Lenten Message

It is a great comfort to know that Jesus Christ triumphed over the subtle arts and devices of the evil one in those days when he was led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted. For everyone who endeavors to follow in the footsteps of Jesus must needs go into the wilderness of temptation. To know that the Son of God was tempted in all points like as we are establishes sympathetic relations between Jesus Christ and his human tempted brother. To know that he was victorious over the tempter who sought to destroy him gives us confidence that we, too, shall triumph. To know that God will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able to endure, and that he will with the temptation make a way of escape for us, makes us courageous to go forth into the wilderness and join in combat with whatever evil forces may assail us there.

The temptation may be grievous, but the triumph is a joy unspeakable; the tempter may be adroit and persistent, but he is impotent in the presence of Christ; the struggle may sap us of strength, but the angels of God will come and minister unto us. Murmur not then, when temptations come upon you like an avalanche, but rejoice rather that through the interposition of divine power there is always the glorious possibility of complete triumph.—Epworth Herald.

Angels of the Home

Three guests there are who wait about
The gates at home. Be they kept out
Lo! there will enter Strife and Doubt,
But if we gladly let them in,
Some happy song they will begin,
And then the atmosphere is clear,
And it is summer all the year.

The first one we best should know,
He kindles home life into glow,
And makes all tender speech to flow;
He will not let our hearts be cold,
The young he quickens, warms the old,
And models home like heaven above,
Because he bears the name of Love.

Another is a merry one—
He brings us forth where shines the sun,
He sees that all good things are done;
He keeps the dear old faces bright,
And laughs and sings from morn to night,
He makes us glad, for he is Joy,
And praises all his years employ.

The third is quiet and serene,
No shadows on her face are seen,
She has a graceful form and mien;
The house grows holy with her psalm,
She soothes our restless hearts to calm,
Beneath her touch disorders cease,
She is the angel of our Peace.

These blessed guests will come and stay
Through longest night and darkest day,
Unless our sin drive them away.
It matters not how small the home,
To cottage and to hall they come.
Let hearts and homes be opened wide,
And these good angels aye abide.

—Marianne Farningham.

God Our Helper

The human soul is dependent; it must lean on something, or fall. Unhappily, some seek to prop it up with selfish considerations, or at best with utilitarian motives, and the supports fail. There is only one prop that will not break or shrink. David proved it, and said: "Behold, God is mine helper; the Lord is with them that uphold my soul."—Michigan Christian Advocate.

"Try the Spirits"

The Bible is always practical in its exhortations. Man may be impractical but the Bible, never. In the exhortation try the spirits of 1st John IV, 1, is an illustration. There were prophets abroad in John's day, false ones as well as true. Against the false ones John warns his converts: "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world."

Here "spirits" and "prophets" evidently mean the same thing. In order that we be not led astray by false ones, we are told to try the spirits. That is thoroughly practical advice.

There are certain spirits abroad to-day who teach that entire sanctification is the second blessing. They strongly insist on their position. They are either in the right or in error. Why not apply the Scriptural rule of John in their case. To cavil about them, the teachers, amounts to nothing. The important thing is to try, test, not the teachers, but the thing taught. That evidently is the testing John had in mind, for in verse 3 he says: "And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God." Now these teachers of the second blessing hold that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, so they must be of God, and hence not false prophets. They may be mistaken in what they teach in this particular case, but they are not false prophets, for John says so. If they are mistaken in teaching that there is a phase of Christian experience that is the second blessing, that entire sanctification is not the third nor thousandth, but the second blessing, properly so called, we have the means at hand to show the error. Throw on the Scripture light, apply the rule given by John. That will reveal the truth or falsity of the teaching. Try the spirits.

After Many Days

Say not, "'Twas all in vain!"
The anguish, and the darkness and the strife;
Love thrown upon the waters comes again
In quenchless yearnings for a nobler life.
Think! In that midnight, on thy weary sight
The stars shone forth, and 'neath their welcome rays
Thy hopes to heaven like birds first took their flight;
And thou shalt find them—"after many days."
Say not, "'Twas all in vain!"
The patience, and the pity, and the word
In warning breathed 'mid passion's hurricane.
Unheeded here; but God that whisper heard—
The tender grief o'er stranger's sorrow shed,
The sacrifice that won no human praise.
In faith upon the waters cast thy bread,
And thou shalt find it—"after many days."

"The Shadow of the Rock."

Bearing Sufferings

In relation to God few of us have the spirit of the famous oriental philosopher, Lokman, who, while a slave, was presented by his master with a bitter melon, and immediately ate it all. "How was it possible," said his master, "for you to eat so nauseous a fruit?" Lokman replied, "I have received so many favors from you, it is no wonder I should, for once in my life, eat a bitter melon from your hand." This generous answer of the slave struck the master so forcibly, that he immediately gave him his liberty. With such sentiments should man receive his portion of sufferings at the hand of God. "Surely it is meet to be said unto God, I have borne chastisement, I will not offend any more."—Michigan Christian Advocate.

We pray Thee, grant us strength to take
Our daily cross, whate'er it be,
And gladly for thine own dear sake
In paths of pain to follow thee.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—II Cor. 11: 3. Theme—Simplicity of Christ.

In this world there are so many complicated things and mysterious wonders that no man can satisfactorily understand. Man himself is a complex being, and to know himself has been, and is still, the study of sage, philosopher, statesman and theologian.

Man is not free from duplicity. He has a long roll of titles following his name. Christ Jesus is simply the Man; the Lord from heaven in simplicity and singleness of heart and purpose; being free from any propensity to strategem or artificial ornamentation; teaching God's will to mankind freed from all subtilty and abstruseness; ever making plain and simple the truth.

There is a unique simplicity in Christ as the Lord our Savior, the Servant of God the Father, man's Substitute for sin, our Righteousness and Peace. In speaking of His work on earth, Christ had only one argument, the argument of the Cross.

The simplicity of Christ is manifested in His leadership. He conquers the world and saves it at the same time. He saves the world from death by death, and leads man through the grave to eternal life.

The simplicity of Christ is seen in the Christian religion, which is the same in all ages, among all mankind. The poorest and most ignorant man is by religion raised to heights which no rich or wise man can reach without it. The simplicity of Christ is most wonderfully displayed in obedience, the conditions of which all men can understand..

The simplicity of Christ will mark His second coming. Every eye shall see Him. Before Him all nations shall be gathered. He alone shall be Judge and Disposer of men and of angels.

Thoughts of Gold: Man foolishly loves novelty and variety in every thing. Man should be simple in his repentance, faith, hope and belief in God.

When Jesus comes to us at the end of life, we shall know Him by His simplicity.

"Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

April Garden Work--Planting Sweet Peas

From Frances Duncan's "Mary's Garden and How It Grew." Copyright, 1904, by The Century Co.

It must be admitted that at this time the garden did not look very beautiful, except to the robins, who thought the earth had been freshly turned for their especial benefit. It was only an oblong enclosure, two sides bounded by the wire netting, and two by the board fence. A narrow border-bed two feet wide, ran around the inside of the little plot. Mary, however, surveyed her small kingdom with the imaginative pride of the true gardener.

"Now we are ready to plant, Mr. Trommel,' she said, with a sigh of satisfaction; "the bed is all raked. I combed it and combed it, and the tangles are all out."

The old gardener scrutinized the smooth earth critically. "There are little brown threads of roots—see, there and there,' he said, pointing at the offenders.

"Do those little things make any difference?" questioned Mary, incredulously.

"Those little brown things will make trouble for the sweet peas just as soon as they can. They are the roots of iniquity, Liebchen; we must not have them in our garden. It is easier to eradicate evil when it is little than when it grows big.'

"I think so," agreed the under-gardener, dutifully, pulling out the small root-fibers.

"Now we are ready!" she said, with a breath of relief. "And we put them in deep. Deep as my finger?"

"No, no! We better make a trench. Can you make one with the little hoe?"

"I can make a beautiful one. Let's have it here by the fence.'

"They better go by the wire, Liebchen. They like more air than they would get by the fence; they have the little wings, you know. Besides, we did not make the ground there so rich as here; that is for the nasturtiums. It is among the plants as among the pretty ladies: you can judge nothing of the appetite by the looks. Now, you would think that of the two the nasturtiums would like the most to eat, they run so fast and are so full of life and color. But, no! they will be happy on poor soil, sandy soil, with almost nothing to eat; they do not mind much going thirsty. But the sweet peas, so dainty and delicate, they will eat all the food you can give them, and they drink, drink—aber—nothing but water, although they like the liquid manure."

"They've lots to eat here," said Mary, with satisfaction. "Now, I'm going to dig the trench. I think I'll take my shovel," she decided, after considering her implements with the care of a cautions golfer. "Shovels and trenches seem to go together, Mr. Trommel."

"It is small," assented the old man. "It will not do much harm."

"So far from the wire?" questioned she, putting in the shovel about three inches from the wire.

Mr. Trommel nodded. "Can you make it straight?"

"I have a string," said the under-gardener, proudly, putting one hand in her apron pocket; "I made that myself out of two clothes-pins, and it rolls up so. See," she said, holding up a clothes-pin and string arrangement.. "Clothes-pins are very useful, Mr. Trommel."

"That is a most interesting contrivance," said Herr Trommel.

"Now, you hold this clothes-pin here," said the under-gardener, briskly, "while I walk toward the fence and unroll the string, just as if you were holding a kite for me to fly. You can't stick the clothes-pin in first and then stretch the string, because it pulls out,' she explained.

The old gardener obediently did as he was bid—stooped down and held the clothes-pin until the string was pulled straight and the pin at the other end driven in and stamped upon.

"I think he would go in easier if you should cut off one leg,' suggested Mr. Trommel, looking reflectively at the clothes-pin in his hand.

"Perhaps he would," said Mary, brightening. "Will you cut it off for me? I have only scissors."

"You must make the trench deeper than that, little one; we must have it six inches. The seeds like to be in deep, where it is cool and moist. You know, we put the manure far down at the bottom when we dug the bed, so the roots when they are hungry will go down even farther to find something good."

"Is that far enough apart?"

Mr. Trommel looked down into the trench through his spectacles. "Two inches," he said; "that will do, but we shall have to thin them later. Thinning always seems a wicked thing; it is like killing some of the children because there is not enough to eat for all, as the bad stepmother does in the fairy stories. Wait, wait!' he exclaimed suddenly, "not so deep. We do not want more than two inches over these little things."

"I thought you said they must go in deep," said Mary.

"Yes, yes; but the seedlings are little things and do not like to push their way up through quite such a heavy blanket. When the seedlings are up, then we push the soil around and cover them up to their necks."

"But you said, when we were potting in the winter, that we mustn't cover the little plants with earth only just as deep as they were before, or else they couldn't breathe, objected his listener.

"Yes, yes!" said Herr Trommel, impatiently. "I tell you, little one, plants are much alike, but often they are different."

The under-gardener looked a trifle perplexed.

"Gardening takes quite a little experience," she sighed, as she covered the seeds carefully and left an embankment of earth beside the trench. "Now we water them just like we do the other things, don't we?"

"We have to water them well; they are thirsty, these little fellows."

"How long will it be before they come up?"

"I think they will make haste for us; they are late this year, you know, and they have some time to make up. Sometimes I have put them in the ground three weeks earlier, but this year the old Mother Earth slept late, and did not unlock her house at the right time, so the plants could not come out. My dear magnolia blossoms have not yet dared to thrust their noses out of the little fur hoods. You will see soon how all the shrubs must hurry.'

"Isn't there anything we can plant?" asked Mary, raking the bed by the fence.

Herr Trommel meditated a moment. "We might put in the poppies,' he said doubtfully; "they do not mind the cold. Have you the seeds here?'

But the under-gardener was already running toward the house.

Mr. Trommel was still looking meditatively at the sweet-pea trench and then at the fence when Mary came back packet in hand. "Wait. wait," he said, as she began to tear off the end of the packet. "Let us see first where we shall put them. We shall have nasturtiums along the back of the fence; yes, and the sweet peas we have along the wire; we must put something in between to keep the peace, Liebchen."

"Why, what would they do to each other?" asked Mary, fixing a pair of surprised brown eyes on the old man's face.

"Well," replied Herr Trommel, "it is not that the flowers themselves have any quarrel with each other; it is only a matter of clothes, Liebchen, but sometimes that is serious. These sweet peas are the dainty pink and white; they do not like to be so near the bright scarlet of the nasturtiums. Perhaps we might put some of these morning-glories in between, eh? It is yet too early for those, but the border is narrow—you can easily reach past. We might plant the poppies in front. They are mixed," said Herr Trommel, sadly; "we cannot help the colors."

"Don't you like seeds mixed?" asked Mary, anxiously. "When you get a mixed packet you get so many kinds for five cents."

The old man shook his head. "I like to know what I am planting. If I ask some children to spend the summer with me, I like to know whom I have: I do not want them "mixed," even from the same family. I had rather have my under-gardener, for instance, than the cousin who comes sometimes—what is his name?"

"Kenneth?" asked Mary.

Mr. Trommel nodded vigorously.

"Oh, Kenneth is nice! He knows how to do lots of things. He made a spring-board the last time he was here—just dug a hole and put one end of the board under the fence, and then put a hassock under it to make the spring, and—"

"Yes, yes!" broke in Mr. Trommel; "he used my garden-sticks for fencing."

"He is coming to my house as soon as school is over: he is making a garden, too."

"Yes?" said Herr Trommel, without interest. "He may grow to be a fine young man, but—I would rather not have him in my garden. Come, let us plant the poppies."

"Aren't they little!" said Mary, in surprise.

"Very little: we have to mix them with some sand to give them something to hold, so that they will not blow away."

"I could mix them in a candy box, couldn't I?"

"That will be large enough; we put twice as much sand as we have seeds."

"The poppies would be lost in a trench, I think," volunteered Mary.

"I fear if we put them in a trench we should never see the pretty poppies. Just sprinkle them lightly over the ground—so."

"Don't you put anything over them? Just pat them down?"

"Just pat them down and sprinkle them a little, that is all. These poppies are like Eskimo babies; they do not mind the cold. Ha!" he said, suddenly straightening himself, "old Peter has other things to do! I set out some roses tomorrow, little one," he said, as he turned to go; I have some from across the sea, from France; you wish to see how we do it?"

"Oh, yes!" she said, stopping a moment from patting the poppy seeds.

"I shall be at them in the afternoon. Be sure you put the tools away, little one; it will rain tonight, I think."

"I always put them away, Mr. Trommel," said the under-gardener, with dignity.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson 5—April 2, 1905. Title—"Jesus the Good Shepherd." (John 10: 7-16.) Golden Text—"I am the Good Shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." (John 10: 11)

In this allegorical parable the sheepfold is the church; the door into the sheepfold is Jesus; the porter at the door is the Holy Spirit; all ministers who enter in by the door are the under shepherds; the stranger, hireling, thief, robber, and wolf, are false teachers; and the sheep are the members of the church.

I. The sheepfold is the church. 1. The word ekklesia, from which our word church is likely derived, is from the Greek. It expresses the act of calling out, or separating a class from the mass, and forming it into an assembly. God had a people before the days of Abraham, but they were not called out and separated into a community. They were not therefore a spiritual church. When God called Abraham to separate himself from his home and kindred, the formation of the church began, and when the covenant with him was established and himself and household entered into it, the organization of the church took place. Ever since God has had a people called out and separated from the world by ordinances peculiar to themselves.

2. The covenant of the church is the contract God made with Abraham, and others, to redeem the world through Jesus, the Christ. This covenant should not be blended with the Mosaic covenant. It was given 430 years before that; it is called the Promise, that is called the Law; it was for all nation, that was for the Jews only. The Mosaic covenant was added because of transgression, and was blended with the literal part of the Abrahamic covenant until Jesus came: it then expired by limitation. The covenant made with Abraham was two-fold. It promised to bless him and make his name great; to give him a numerous posterity; to give him the land of Canaan; and to bless all nations through him. Against his earthly possessions stands the riches of heaven; against him literal descendants stands his spiritual children; and against the land of Canaan stands heaven, that "better country."

3. The church has been called by different names, yet it is the same "general assembly." It is a kingdom, Jesus is its king, the Bible is its laws, the members are its subjects, and the world is its dominion. It is a vineyard, Jesus is the true vine, the members are the branches, and God is the husbandman. It is a house, Jesus is in that house as a son, Moses was in it as a servant, and the membership is there as a household. It is a body, Jesus is the head, and all true believers are members of that body. It is an olive tree, the Jews were the natural branches broken off through unbelief, the Gentiles are wild branchhes grafted in through faith. It is a sheepfold, Jesus is the shepherd, and the membership is the flock. (Con. from Merril.)

II. Jesus is the good shepherd, and the door into the sheepfold. 1. As the good shepherd He gave His life for the sheep." He was "led as a lamb to the slaughter." Jesus not only gave His life for the sheep, but for all others. "He tasted death for every man." He died the just for the unjust. "He is the propitiation for our sins; and not for our sins only, but also for the sins of the whole world." The way from earth to heaven is open to all. But Jesus as the good shepherd "knows His sheep, and is known of them." They hear His voice, and follow Him. He leads them out into green pastures and beside the quiet waters. They know Him because they possess His Spirit, delight in His laws, love His people, and have a conscience void of offence.

2. Jesus is not only the good shepherd, but He is also the door into the sheepfold. "He is the way, the truth, and the life." No one can enter the spiritual church but by Him. Way in the Bible usually means doctrine. Walking in this way is living as the Scriptures direct. The ladder Jacob saw at Bethel represents Jesus showing the way from earth to heaven. Jesus is the only "name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." We have no scripture for saying that baptism is the door into the church. As a mark baptism designates the people of God from the world (Matt. 28: 18); as a sign it signifies the grace of God to man (Acts 2: 38); and as a seal it denotes our acceptance by the Lord (Acts 10: 47). Jesus has plainly said, "I am the door into the sheepfold."

III. The Porter. It is generally believed that by the porter, or doorkeeper, the Holy Spirit is meant. We read of God opening the door of faith to the Gentiles (Acts 14: 27). Paul would not leave Ephesus because a great and effectual door was opened to him there (1 Cor. 16: 9). While Paul was at Troas, the Lord opened a great door unto him, and he had no rest until he entered Macedonia (2 Cor. 2: 12). But the Holy Spirit acts through agents. The ministry and membership of the church, guided by the Holy Spirit, are its guardians. To the apostles as keepers of the church, and agents of the Holy Spirit, Jesus gave the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and told them their decisions would be final with regard to binding and loosing, or receiving into and excluding from the church. The Pharisees claimed to be the keepers of the sheepfold, but they were not. They had taken away the key of knowledge. They did not enter themselves, and they kept others from going in.

IV. Entering the sheepfold. 1. There is a wrong way to enter the church. We may "climb up some other way" and get in without passing through the door. (1) There are false systems of religion that do not improve the world. Their temples, priesthood, offerings, and forms of worship, have been kept up for centuries, and yet the world is not made better by them. (2) There are false doctrines in true systems that are contrary to the general teaching of the sacred Scriptures. (3) Many hope to enter the sheepfold by their good work: they do nothing outbreaking, and they perform many acts of charity. (4) Some expect, no doubt, to enter heaven on the merits of others. They trust in a good companion, pious parents, loving children, or devoted friends to carry them through. (5) Others base their expectations of heaven on the ordinances of the church. They rest in the use of the means of grace. They have the form but not the power of godliness. Those who enter in any of these ways are strangers: they have not made themselves acquainted with the good shepherd, and the sheep do not know them. They are hirelings and care not for the flock: they are serving the church for the price paid them. They are thieves and will filch from the flock all they can, and give as little as possible in return. They are robbers and will not hesitate to blight the character, or destroy the spiritual life of any member of the church. They are wolves and will bite and devour the flock.

2. There is a right way to come into the church: it is to "enter in by the door." Jesus told the rich young man to sell what he had, give to the poor, take up his cross, follow Him, and he should have treasures in heaven (Mark 10: 21). Peter told the people on the day of Pentecost to repent, and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ, and they should receive the Holy Spirit (Acts 2: 38). Saul was told to go into Damascus, and there it would be told him what he should do to be saved: after fasting and praying three days he was filled with the Holy Spirit (Acts 9: 1-18). The jailor was told to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and he should be saved (Acts 17: 31). We enter the sheepfold by self-denial, faith, repentance, prayer, baptism, and consecration to God.

Lesson Topic, April 2.

The Making of a Christian: His Food

Scripture References: John 6: 47-58; 2 Tim. 3: 14-17.

The Word. Our lesson is a part of one of the public discourses of Jesus. It has formed a very much disputed passage in the past. In the first four verses Jesus shows that what the manna was to the fathers who received it by eating, himself is to all souls who receive him by faith. Manna was temporal life to the Israelites; he is eternal life to all believers. In the next two verses he goes a step farther and identifies the bread with his flesh. Then in the latter part of our lesson he adds his blood. The evident meaning is that whoever receives Christ by faith becomes a partaker of the body and blood of Christ; that is, he receives eternal life and the benefits of the resurrection. In Timothy we have the same thought presented under the figure of the Word. We are to feed upon Christ and his Word. In other words, our food is spiritual food received by prayer and Bible study. They are able to make wise unto salvation.

Our Homily: Spiritual Dieting. The soul must be fed as well as the body. The results of starvation is as apparent in the religious life as in the physical. Weak, flabby, and lean souls are as possible, and indeed more common, than lean bodies. As a rule, we care for the body better than the soul. We can no more build up a strong spiritual life without soul food than we can be strong physically without material food. The making of a Christian depends largely on what he eats. Our scripture suggests—

That he eat spiritually of Christ. By this we mean an act of faith by which the soul appropriates to itself Christ as a life within. We also mean that he spend much time in prayer, by which he receives strength and grace by personal touch with Jesus. The old manna was for the body; but this new manna is for the soul, and is to be spiritually received. It suggests the value of prayer and meditation as a means of spiritual growth. No soul can be strong who does not pray much. He must be a partaker of the divine nature.

That he study the Word for help. Paul calls Timothy's attention to the fact that it was his knowledge of the Scriptures which had given him such a character as he possessed. They had the power to make one wise unto salvation. And as a minister or teacher all inspired Scripture was profitable. The Scripture-filled minister was one who was "thoroughly furnished." It is so to-day. And what is true of the minister is true of the layman. The strong man is he who prays much and studies his Bible much. Eating must precede exercise and usefulness. Are we feeding the body and starving the soul?

Solid Diet for Spiritual Soul—

Prayer constant and appropriate.

Bible study discriminative and intelligent.

Meditation by which we assimilate truth.

Religious conversation to enlarge our ideas.

Church attendance and service to develop power.

Personal work to save others developing strength.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

Annual Conferences

The Lincoln

BY REV. C. K. BROWN, A. B., B. D.

The Lincoln Conference met in Colorado Springs, Col., March 2-6, Bishop Henry W. Warren, presiding. The Conference was in many respects a notable gathering. Bishop Warren presided with that sweet dignity and grace so characteristic of him. He soon won all hearts by his impartial ruling and broad sympathy.

The Conference was well attended. Only two of the effective members were absent. When one takes into consideration the great distance over which most of the brethren had to travel, the attendance is all the more remarkable.

The Lincoln Conference is one of "magnificent distances." It includes the colored work in Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. There are three Presiding Elders' Districts and each presiding elder has a whole state for his diocese. The presiding elders are Revs. D. G. Franklin, A. J. McAllister and H. South. Under their leadership the work has advanced by leaps and bounds. The reports of the presiding elders were very interesting and encouraging. They evinced that great progress has been made along all lines. The membership has been almost doubled and there has been a great increase in all the collections. Nearly a thousand dollars were reported for benevolences. The Lincoln Conference is only three years old, but it is unsurpassed in mighty possibilities.

The conference was handsomely entertained by Bro. W. H. Holmes and his loyal people. All of the sister churches of Colorado Springs united with our church in making it pleasant for the members of the conference.

Colorado Springs is a beautiful city of thirty thousand inhabitants and is famous the world over, not only for its climate, but also for the wealth of scenic wonders by which it is environed. The city is at the foot of the world-renowned Pike's Peak, which lifts its snowy summit to the skies. Just without the city limits is the far-famed "Garden of the gods," with its strange rock formations. There are more millionaires living in Colorado Springs than in any other city of the same size in the world. There are no saloons in the city and no houses of prostitution. While in the city we saw absolutely no evidence of race prejudice.

We have here a fine church, built by Bro. Holmes at a cost of $5,000. It is most elegantly appointed. Three years ago we had no organization in Colorado Springs. To-day we have a fine church and a large and growing membership. All honor to Bro. Holmes and his faithful members.

There were not many of the general officers of the church present. Bro. I. G. Penn, of the Epworth League, and Dr. J. W. Jennings, of the Western Book Concern, were the only ones present. Secretary Penn spoke in his usual vigorous and eloquent manner to the great delight of his audience and the glory of our Methodism. Bro. Penn is all right. Dr. Jennings represented the Book Concern and made a most pleasing impression upon the brethren by his brotherly spirit and his never failing sympathy. The SOUTHWESTERN was represented by Bro. C. K. Brown, of the Lincoln Conference.

Revs. B. H. Armstrong and G. W. Walton were received into the conference on trial. The Bishop announced the transfer of Rev. C. K. Brown from the South Carolina Conference.

The initial steps were taken at the conference towards the establishment of a Conference School. A committee consisting of Bishop Warren, D. G. Franklin, C. K. Brown and J. N. Wallace was appointed to look after the school.

On Sunday morning the Conferenc was invited to worship in the First Methodist Church, Dr. C. B. Wilcox, pastor. This great church was built at a cost of $100,000 and is one of the finest churches in the State of Colorado. Every courtesy was shown the brethren by the members of the First Church. The members of the conference were given the best seats in the church. Bishop Warren preached a great sermon. It will not be forgotten by those who heard it. In the afternoon, the Bishop, assisted by the presiding elders, ordained L. E. Hayes and C. K. Brown, elders. Presiding Elder D. G. Franklin of the Guthrie District, preached the closing sermon on Sunday night, after which the appointments were read and the conferenee adjourned to meet next year at Ardmore, I. T.

The brethren from Oklahoma and the Indian Territory traveled to conference in a special car over the Frisco and Rock Island systems. They were accompanied by the traveling passenger agents of the Frisco and Rock Island systems and everything possible was done by these gentlemen to make the long journey over the plains as pleasant as possible, and it was a pleasant trip.

The Lexington Conference

BY REV. D. E. SKELTON.

The thirty-sixth annual session of the Lexington Conference met at Louisville, Ky., March 8, Bishop John W. Hamilton, D. D., of San Francisco, California, presiding. The business of the conference was daily preceded by a half hour of devotional service. The holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was duly administered on the first day to the ministers and all Christians present by the Bishop, assisted by the presiding elders, pastors of Louisville and Drs. I. L. Thomas, M. C. B. Mason and W. P. Thirkield. Upon roll call, 97 members answered present. The conference proceeded to organize. Rev. John W. Robinson was re-elected secretary; assistants, W. H. Riley, J. W. White, Jos. McCoomer and H. H. Renfro. Rev. C. T. Lewis was re-elected statistical secretary; assistants, E. L. Gilliam, R. L. Dickerson and H. A. Foreman. Rev. H. W. Tate was re-elected treasurer; assistants, R. F. Broadus, T. R. Fletcher and G. C. McPheeters.

The conference enjoyed the presence of many distinguished visitors and general conference officers. Aside from the official presence of Bishop Hamilton, the charm of the session was his systematic and rapid manner of doing the work of the conference. His voice has an abiding charm.

Dr. R. S. Reaves of the Louisville Ministers' Meeting delivered the welcome address, which was full of pathos, humor and thought. Rev. H. W. Tate, one of the able ministers of the conference, made the response. Bro. Tate's address was received with much enthusiasm. President Kumler, of Walden University, captured the hearts of the large audience that greeted him on Tuesday night. His masterly address on Christian Education delighted the conference. Dr. W. P. Thirkield and Dr. M. C. B. Mason were present. On Wednesday night Dr. Thirkield was at his best. Dr. I. L. Thomas, the newly elected Field Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, captivated the conference and people in his address before the conference and at the Church Extension Anniversary. His presentation of the cause was simply powerful, convincing and far-reaching in its influence. Dr. Thomas ranks among our greatest representatives and the whole church may congratulate the Board of Church Extension at Philadelphia upon his selection. His method of presenting the cause is simply marvelous, and will surely bring things to pass. The conference passed several complimentary resolutions to Dr. Thomas. Dr. E. M. Jones, Field Agent of the Sunday School Union, made a great impression on the conference with his profound address, and every pastor pledged himself to raise not less than one dollar for the Sunday School Union.

Dr. D. Lee Aultman, the Book Concern Agent, led the brethren at will by his speeches and gentlemanly bearing. He reported a good collection from the brethren and all seemed to be happy.

Bishop Hamilton on Friday evening lectured on "Mexico." The church was taxed to overflowing and the Bishop for more than one hour entertained the vast audience with historical facts of "Mexico, Its Customs and Ways." It was superb, the purest diction, the most profound thought and elegance.

Rev. W. F. Waters represented the SOUTHWESTERN. While the conference regretted very much the absence of the editor, those who heard Rev. Mr. Waters were delighted with his forceful address and the conference extends to him a hearty welcome to return.

Rev. J. N. C. Coggins came to represent the Epworth League and he carried the audience with his eloquence, and it was the opinion of all who heard him that Prof. Penn made no mistake in selecting as a proxy, Rev. Coggins.

The climax was reached on the Sabbath. Bishop Hamilton preached a delightful and convincing sermon, at the close of the love feast. The memorial and ordination of elders and deacons took place at 3 p. m. E. W. Kinchen, J. E. Burton and W. Stovall were ordained deacons and J. E. Woods and Wm. Noel were ordained elders. Dr. G. G. Logan delivered quite an interesting address on Sunday evening at the missionary anniversary. Revs. J. E. Burton and G. C. Powell were admitted into full connection. E. W. Kinchen was admitted on trial.

Rev. Chas. E. Jacobs, D. D., field worker of the Sunday School Union, represented his work before the conference on Saturday and the Bishop took occasion on the Sabbath to refer to the address.

BENEVOLENCES.

Missions, $1,033; Church Extension, $291; Woman's Home Missions, $364; Freedman's Aid, $504; S. S. Union, $42; Tracts, $19; Bible cause, $30; Conference claimants, $165; Children's fund, $126; Woman's Foreign Missions, $25; total, $2,595.

Not the Deed

"It is not the deed we do,
Though the deed be never so fair,
But the love that the dear Lord looketh for,
Hidden with holy care
In the heart of the deed so fair."

In patience, as in labor, must thou be
A follower of Me,
Whose hands and feet, when most I wrought for thee,
Were nailed unto a tree.

RECEPTION TO DEAN CLEMENTS

A reception was given at Flint Medical College on Wednesday evening, March 8th, in honor of the Dean, Dr. H. J. Clements, by the students of this institution, who were ably assisted by Dr. J. A. Hardin, of the faculty. It was an expression of the appreciation and esteem in which Dean Clements is held for his many years of faithful service in the Medical College, during which time he has spared no effort but has given himself unreservedly to the work of this great school.

In spite of inclement weather a large and representative audience was present. The speeches were animated and expressive of the high regard in which Dr. Clements and the good work accomplished by him are held.

The following program was rendered: "Dr. Clements as a Professor," by W. D. Wilson; music by New Orleans University choir; "Dr. Clements as a Dean," by Dr. F. H. Knight, president of the University. Dr. Harrison represented the medical faculty, Dr. Miller the Alumni, Prof. Loubart the University, Mrs. M. C. Turner the Phyllis Wheatley Club, and Prof. Gary the visitors. Each speech, and especially the response of the Dean, which was brief and expressive of his interest in the future welfare of the work he is leaving, was interrupted by hearty and sincere applause.

Mr. G. W. Lucas, the master of ceremonies, and Messrs. Welch, Shallowhorne and Wilson, are to be congratulated on the complete success of the affair. Refreshments were served by the committee.

Bishop Berry says: "If 18,000 Methodist Episcopal ministers would devote one week to a tactful, pushful canvass for our Church papers, and do nothing else during that time, it would be the best investment of seven days which the denomination ever made."

CLOSING EXERCISES OF THREE DEPARTMENTS OF MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE

The commencement exercises of Meharry Medical College were held in the new Meharry Auditorium, when diplomas were given to eighty-two graduates. Of this number eight were from the Pharmaceutical Department, thirteen from the Dental, and sixty-one from the Medical.

The capacity of the large new auditorium was taxed to its utmost to accommodate the large audience which at an early hour filled the spacious building. Hundreds were turned away for want of even standing room. It is thought by many persons that the graduating class for this year surpasses any of its predecessors. In point of numbers it is the largest class ever graduated from the institution.

Many of the clergymen of the city and surrounding country, with the medical faculty, the magnificent choral class and orchestra, under the direction of Miss M. E. Braden, Bishop Evans Tyree, Dr. M. W. Dogan, President of Wiley University, Dr. Guernsey of Roger Williams, President Kumler and Dean Hubbard and other distinguished citizens were upon the platform. Dr. Hubbard introduced the class representatives as follows:

Salutatory, "The Progress of Medical Science," H. Charles Hardy; pharmaceutical valedictory, "Professional Pharmacy," E. J. LaBranche; dental valedictory, "The Dentist a Specialist," W. E. Rainwater; medical valedictory, "The Mission of Medicine," Eugene J. Gregg.

The addresses were splendidly delivered and pleased the vast audience immensely. President Dogan spoke eloquently to the class in words which will not soon be forgotten. The always popular Bishop Evans Tyree followed in a strong helpful talk. The degrees were conferred by President Kumler.

The Mason Medal, for the highest proficiency in gynecology, was awarded to Dr. W. M. Drake of Hempstead, Tex., and C. D. Frederick of Orangeburg, S. C., won the prize in obstetrics and practice of medicine. The Morrison Medal in dentistry was awarded to H. H. Kennard of Tennessee. The Singleton prize was won by S. Jefferson of Georgia. The honor men are: S. B. Innis, Alabama; D. W. Porter, Tennessee; C. D. Frederick, South Carolina; W. M. Drake, Texas, and J. H. Wilson, South Carolina.

Among the most pleasant features of the occasion was the splendid musical programme under the direction of Miss M. E. Braden, the Dean of the Music Department. The superb manner in which various numbers were rendered shows the superior ability of the Director, as well as the excellent training of the department. The following was the programme:

Processional march, "Prize of Victory" (Sconton).

1. Chorus, "To Thee, O Country" (Eichberg), Choral Society and Orchestra of Walden University. (Invocation)—Dr. H. W. Key.
2. Piano duet, "Le Reveil du Lion" (De Kontsky), Misses Laura Allen and Mabel Scott.
3. Solo, "Deep in the Mine" (W. H. Jude), Mr. Edgar W. Miller.
4. Chorus, "Spring Songs" (Parks), Choral Society and Orchestra.
5. Quartette, "Seein' Things" (Parks), Meharry Quartette—Messrs. Dickerson, Wilson, Hardy and Miller.

A full list of the graduates follows:

E. W. S. HAMMOND.

Nashville, Tenn.

Personal and General.

Mrs. L. V. Landry of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. M. A. Hunter, of Navasota, Tex., graced our office with their presence last week.

Rev. W. P. C. Morrison, our pastor at Natchez, Miss., was among those who visited Washington during the inauguration.

We are pleased to announce that Rev. E. W. Cook, of Snow Hill, Ala., who has been ill for some time, is now able to resume his duties.

Mrs. Helen Noble, of New York, has been spending a while in the city visiting relatives and friends. She was entertained Friday night of last week by Miss Stella Brazley.

Bishop McCabe will deliver his famous lecture, "The Bright Side of Libby Prison," in John Wesley Church, Baltimore, Md., Friday evening, March 24th, for the benefit of Morgan College.

Dr. D. Lee Aultman becomes presiding elder of the Hillsboro District, Cincinnati Conference, in succession to Dr. A. C. Turrell, deceased. Dr. Aultman has had conspicuous success as a pastor and as field agent of the Western Methodist Book Concern.

Rev. R. A. Adams, B. D., pastor of the Zion African Methodist Episcopal church, Natchez, Miss., and editor of the Church Record, spent a few days in the city this week. He filled the pulpit of St. James African Methodist Episcopal Church last Sunday morning, and of Union Bethel in the evening.

Prof. J. Beverly F. Shaw, A. M., of Rust University, has been invited to membership in the Classical Association of the Middle West, which meets at the University of Chicago, May 5th and 6th. The invitation comes from such men as Profs. William Gardner Hale, of the University of Chicago; Francis W. Kelsey, of the University of Michigan; W. G. Manly, of the University of Missouri, and F. A. Alabaster, of the Nebraska Wesleyan University. This is an honor which the Professor richly deserves, and he will no doubt give a good account of himself.

During the recent missionary convention at Sioux City, Bishop J. M. Thoburn passed his sixty-ninth milestone. In celebration of the event Dr. W. S. Lewis, president of Morningside College, in behalf of the delegates attending the convention, presented the Bishop seven $10 gold pieces, and a magnificent bouquet of roses, in token of their great respect for him. At the close of Dr. Lewis' presentation speech the great audience arose and cheered heartily, at the same time giving the Bishop the Chautauqua salute. In response Bishop Thoburn said: "I do not believe there was ever a more beautiful moment in my entire life. I can see in these gifts the love of one thousand souls."

FLINT MEDICAL COMMENCEMENT

A large and representative audience filled the chapel of New Orleans University the evening of March 9th to the limit of its seating capacity, the occasion being the Sixteenth Annual Commencement of the Medical Department and the Third Annual Commencement of the Pharmaceutical Department.

Those who go forth from Flint this year bearing the degree of doctor of medicine, and we hope in the true spirit of their class motto, "Pro Bono Publico," are: A. Walter Brazier, Lee A. Butler, Ira N. Garrett, Isaac J. Kane, John C. Polk, Isaac J. Washington and Cornelius M. Wilson, B. S.; from the Pharmaceutical Department, William R. Christophe.

Seated upon the platform with the graduates and faculty were Rev. Valcour Chapman, Rev. J. A. Tircuit, Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne, Rev. E. Hutcherson, Dr. I. C. Chapman and Dr. Edgar Hamilton.

The exercises began promptly at 8 o'clock. The music was under the direction of Miss Brown, the principal of the musical department of the University. The first number rendered was the beautiful chorus, "Consider the Lilies How They Grow," by the University choir. Invocation by Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor of First Street M. E. Church, this city. Then followed vocal selections by one of our most popular and pleasing young singers, Miss Viola Hurst. Miss Hurst's rich contralto voice was heard to great advantage in "Oh, To Be Heart to Heart" and "My Rosary." The genuine appreciation of the audience was demonstrated by the most hearty applause.

First Row:--C. M. Wilson, Miss., I. J. Kane, La.; A. M. Brazier, La.
Top Row:--L. A. Butler, La., I. J. Washington, La., W. R. Christophe, La. Phar., J. N. Garrett, Miss., J. C. Polk, Miss.

A. W. Brazier delivered the salutatory address. His theme was "A Plea for Professional Unity." The speaker was eloquent and with words of great force and earnestness depicted how all great results have been achieved only through "perfect unity." He said in part: "When we consider the physical condition of our people, their mode of living in unhygienic surroundings, in crowded tenements, damp and poorly ventilated quarters, where Nature's great disinfector, sunlight, is deprived of visitation, we see the great necessity of medical conferences in order that these evils may be remedied. By organizing a Medical Association much can be done in checking the onward march of tuberculosis, a disease from which the Negro seemed immuned 40 or 50 years ago. The fate of our people is in our hands, and unless we united to strike down this mighty foe, unless we help to enlighten the people along these lines, their misfortunes will be required at our hands." In his farewell words to his classmates he said: "The basis of esteem, in this as in all other professions, is personal character. When the testing time comes, as come it must to every man, wealth, praise and intellectual power are as if they were not; character is the one thing that counts in this life and the life beyond. My sincere hope now is that as physicians permitted to enter pure, chaste, moral, virtuous, ideal homes, our lives may be spotless and worthy of emulation. It will matter little then whether life be long or short, for the proper measure of a life is not how long, but how it has been lived."

Piano selections were rendered at this point of the programme by Miss Ellen G. Guessnon. They were beautiful, catchy, and played with a skill and ease that delighted her hearers.

William R. Christophe, the graduate in pharmacy, discussed "The Druggist's Responsibility" in a vein that indicated careful and thoughtful preparation. This pleasant and lucrative calling offers indeed a broad and not over-crowded avenue for the young men and women of the race.

The well-known violinist, Mrs. Julia Lewis-Nickerson, simply captivated her listeners by her superb rendition of "Il Travotore." In answer to the hearty encore given her she played with exquisite sweetness "Cavaliera Rusticana."

The Valedictorian, Cornelius M. Wilson, B. S., treated the subject of "Insanity," which he says has attracted more attention in current literature, from a point of medical jurisprudence than perhaps was dreamed of even half a century ago. He discussed the disease generally from a clinical standpoint, in a manner that indicated careful thought and research.

Delivering the annual address, J. T. Newman, M. D., LL. D., discussed ably "The Possibilities of Medicine and Surgery." During the course of his splendid address Dr. Newman said: "There is no royal road to the temple of medicine; there are no short cuts to a sound medical education. I know of no medical college in this or any other country that furnishes brains; that article you must bring with you when you come to college." In closing he paid a tribute to Bishop Mallalieu, thro whose effort Flint Medical College was established. Dr. Newman said: "Bishop Mallalieu needs no encomium from me. His name will live as long as the Church needs a champion."

President F. H. Knight then in a brief address to the class, said: "The doctors are to be the eminently sane people. You are to be ambitious, and your ambition should be pure, lofty and unselfish. The man is dead who has no ambition. You are are to desire and to strive after the very highest and best things. Be God-fearing, Christian men." Of Dean Clement's departure, Dr. Knight spoke with a sincere regret that we feel is fully shared by all who are interested in the work of Flint College. "The Dean," said he, "has done his work faithfully and well. He has given of the very best and strongest years of his life to one department or other of this work which is represented here to-night. We part with him with unmitigated regret. We sorrow to lose so good, so strong and so faithful a man. May the highest and best success follow him in his new field of labor."

Dean Clement's remarks were brief and pointed as usual, but pregnant with feeling. He said: "I hardly realize that I am going away. I have been very much interested in the work here. My association with the school has been most pleasant. I have had the support of an able faculty, and our school has been the most prosperous this year, I think, of any year."

The diplomas were then presented by Dr. Knight. The annual prizes were awarded by Dr. Clements to Cornelius Wilson, B. S., Isaac J. Washington and A. Walter Brazier. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Knight.

NEWS NOTES

The Senate has confirmed the appointment of Mr. Chas. W. Anderson as Collector of Internal Revenue at New York.

Mr. W. E. Easton, a former Texan, now residing in Los Angeles, has been appointed one of the deputy tax collectors for Los Angeles county.

There were about eight hundred conversions during the recent revival held by Dr. Munhall in Jacksonville, Fla. Eleven churches were united in this campaign.

The legislature of Oklahoma has appropriated $20,000 to the Agricultural School for Negroes at Langston, and the Kansas legislature $15,000 to the Western University at Quindaro, Kan.

A traders' exchange has been organized in this city and a site selected on Perdido street, for the use of colored men. The members of this organization are boss carpenters, slaters, roofers, plasterers, painters, brick masons, etc.

It is stated that the fund being raised for the Tuskegee Institute in honor of the late William H. Baldwin, Jr., now amounts to $120,000. Mr. Henry Atkinson, of Atlanta, having recently added $1,000 to the fund.

The Negro women of Richmond, Va., are demonstrating to the country their ability to handle business enterprises. There is already a flourishing bank, with Mrs. Maggie L. Walker as the president. Headed by Mrs. Walker, a commission of twenty-two women have secured a charter and will at once open a store to be known as the St. Luke's Emporium, with an authorized capital of $25,000. This is a step in the right direction.

The recent revival in Louisville, Ky., was from all reports a most remarkable one, in which all denominations were engaged. Cottage prayer meetings were held during the month of January and on the first Saturday of February 2,000 personal workers went from house to house with the gospel invitation. On Feb. 12, seventeen evangelists and evangelistic pastors began meetings in as many centres, and the opportunity to reach the people is said to have been limited only by the capacity of the meeting-places. On the second Sabbath of the campaign, more than three thousand young people were converted.

Farm and Fireside

ABOUT DUCKS AND GEESE.

When it comes to money afloat and money ashore in feathers and fish, it's to be had in raising ducks and geese. We put the ducks first in the procession, for, since the introduction of the Pekin ducks into this country, they have led the web-footed domestic feathered tribe by a good strong lead. True, there are many who still cling to the old gray goose and the white gander, and quite wisely so for some localities, and for farm growing; but, when one wishes to do something really big in feathers and in marketing something fine and toothsome for the table, he turns to the Pekin ducks, which later may be raised in droves on small or large acreage, or space, as may be the more convenient.

Ducks and geese are truly "double headers," because of the fact that they produce not only one article of commerce, but two, which is feathers and eggs, and then when they yield up the ghost prematurely, their carcass adds a third to the list of salable articles from the one source.

The one great advantage in growing either ducks or geese exists in the fact that they may be raised and quartered in places where nothing else will thrive to do much good. Marshes, creeks, and branches where there is forage such as they obtain naturally in the wild state, is best suited to them; particularly the ducks, for a duck is never so happy and contented as when it is foraging in the shallows where it can barely reach the mud, or sand and gravel—the periwinkles and leeks with tail up and head down and feet working lively as a balance wheel. True, they should have good grassy foraging, also, but such usually attends such localities on the higher spots about. This last feature is quite necessary, for they consume a great deal of green food. Indeed, in feeding either ducks or geese, we should ever bear in mind the fact that soft, succulent food is more to their natural liking than anything hard, and with the ducks it is quite necessary that they should have water convenient to mix with their food, for it is not their nature to swallow anything dry; excepting that which, like grass, encases within itself a fluid substance. For this reason, in feeding young ducklings, we should be careful to give them soft stuff that they can swallow readily. In fact, one of the best ways to feed ducks of any age is to put their food in troughs containing water to the depth of a few inches, so that they can get both food and water at the same time, the same as they do when fishing for slugs and tender roots or tadpoles in the marshes.

With geese, it is some different, for geese eat more of solid food, and also are greater foragers on the meadows and grasslands. Still, they do best when they have ready access to plenty of water.

The Pekin ducks are more profitable than geese, because they lay more eggs and yield a proportionately larger amount of feathers. And, as before stated, they do better than geese in in the superior laying qualities of the Pekin ducks is not so much in the small yards. The chief point of value opportunity presented one to raise a great number of young stock from a small mating. A Pekin duck will lay from one hundred to one hundred and twenty-five eggs in the early spring season, which is three or four times as many eggs as a goose will lay in a season. And as two ducks of this variety about equal one goose, the greater value of the former may be seen very readily. Both ducks and geese are hardy and easy raised, where they have a natural foraging ground such as we have mentioned, and it would certainly be to the financial betterment of those who have such possessions to stock them up with either one or the other, or both to some extent.—H. B. Geer, in Southern Agriculturist.

Literary Notes

Those of our readers who, in addition to their home paper, want a NATIONAL news and family journal, are advised to subscribe for the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, which is published in the solid central city of the Union and stands at the very front among the few REALLY GREAT newspapers of the world. The DAILY GLOBE-DEMOCRAT has no equal or rival in all the West and ought to be in the hands of every reader of any daily paper. The WEEKLY GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, issued in semi-weekly sections, a BIG SEMI-WEEKLY AT ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR, is indispensable to the farmer, the merchant or the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted but who has not the time to read a large daily paper, while its great variety of well-selected reading matter makes it invaluable to every member of the family. See advertisement elsewhere in this issue and write to the Globe Printing Company, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE SAMPLE COPY.

The March Magazine Number of The Outlook is notable for containing the first installment of "The Story of Port Arthur," by George Kennan, The Outlook's correspondent in the East. It has also among its illustrated articles a readable study called "Safeguards of the Body Against Disease," by Dr. T. Mitchell Prudden, than whom no one writes in a more popular way on scientific topics; a story; and editorial treatment of the political, economic and literary history of the week.

ROLFE'S REVISED EDITION OF SHAKESPEARE.

Edited by William J. Rolfe, Litt. D. Cloth, 16mo., with numerous illustrations. Price, 56 cents each.

Antony and Cleopatra, 295 pages. King Henry the Fourth, Part 1, 276 pages. King Henry the Fourth, Part II, 271 pages. King Henry the Eighth, 266 pages. The Taming of the Shrew, 237 pages. The Comedy of Errors, 200 pages. The Winter's Tale, 283 pages.

American Book Company, New York, Cincinnati and Chicago.

These are the latest issues in the revised edition of Rolfe's Shakespeare, which incorporates the results of recent advancement in Shakespearan scholarship and research. The first edition is probably better known and more widely used than any other of its scope, and the new one, embodying the best critical learning, presents an unrivaled introduction to elementary Shakespearan study. The introductions are helpful and clear, the notes supply all needed aid, and the volumes are illustrated with carefully drawn cuts. The books are of handy size for the pocket, and most attractive in appearance. The series is equally adapted for the class-room and for the general reader.

The Colored American Magazine has made its appearance for March, just as brilliant as ever. There are articles on "The Unity of the Races," "The War in the Far East," "Negro Football Players," written by men who have studied these questions. The article on "The Unity of Races" is bound to attract a great deal of attention. There is a poem by Betram Johnson, and a short story by Gertrude Brown. 10 cents a copy.

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

R. E. L. BEASLEY, PASTOR, HAVEN CHAPEL M. E. CHURCH, Alexander City, Ala.—On the night of Feb. 24th we were awakened by singing at the parsonage door and on arising found that a storm had passed by the parsonage and left many pounds of groceries, as well as some dry goods, and money. We want to thank these good people for their kindness to us. In the number were members of the C. M. E. as well as members of our church. We extend you our heartfelt thanks and invite you to come again.

G. W. REEVES, PASTOR—Sylacauga, Ala.—The first quarterly conference of this charge, held by Rev. J. W. Thomas, our new presiding elded, was a success. The majority of conference members were present. He is one of the best administrators the district has had. Elder Thomas preached Sunday morning and evening. The people think him the man for the place. Paid the elder $13.33; pastor, $34.56; missions, $2.00; total, $49.83. Have added six persons to our membership.

GEORGIA.

L. H. HAYWOOD, DISTRICT STEWARD, GAINESVILLE, GA.—The first quarterly conference of this charge was held March 3-5. Rev. G. W. Arnold, D. D., presiding. Reports showed that the charge is endeavoring to measure up to the requirements along all lines. Our elder urged the church to be faithful and loyal in doing their whole duty. Rev. J. D. Lovejoy, our pastor, has been most active. Already large property interests have been added to the work. This is our pastor's seventh year and the elder's fifth. We love them both. Rev. G. W. Arnold preached two soul-stirring and reviving sermons which made a lasting impression upon his hearers. Paid him in full his assessment of $18.00. Raised Friday night and Sunday, $45.35 and raised during the last three months $133: For pastor, $50; Trustees, $65. Have had ten converts and 12 accessions to the church. Ninety-two communed at the Lord's table. This was the best quarterly conference held in the history of our church at this place.

C. L. DUNN, PASTOR, LAFAYETTE, ALA.—This is my third year as pastor of Powel's Chapel, and I was welcomed with just as hearty approval as was given me the first year I was appointed. We have added 77 members to the church since I have been in charge of this work; placed a nice $75 organ and $300 worth of pews in the church; have practically paid off all old claims, and placed our church for the first time in its history as a first class mission claim. When I arrived from the conference, the parsonage committee led by its chairman, had carpeted one room of the parsonage and put matting on the other. Thursday night after my trustee meeting had adjourned the parsonage door was suddenly opened, and a storm, led by sister Patient Gresham, loaded my table with many good things.

LOUISIANA.

W. L. DYAS, PASTOR, BOYCE, LA.—Rev. J. J. Obee, our presiding elder, held my first quarterly conference, March 4-5. Each official brother of the church was present and made a written report. This is indeed a great people. We have a good set of officers, viz.: V. A. Bush, James Johnson, Jr., T. A. Hampton, Robt. Johnson, Ed. Jones, Fillmore Green, Jorden. Rev. B. M. Johnson is a great leader. Too much praise cannot be given our steward sisters and membership, all Christian friends of the Baptist church and our unconverted friends as well for helping us during the quarterly meeting. Collection, $27.50.

R. JONES, PASTOR, NEW ROADS, LA.—Sunday was a happy day here. My people received me kindly. We are now worshipping in the new church and the work is moving along nicely. We hope to reap a good harvest this year for the Master. Morganza is doing well.

MRS. LUCY VENABLE, Reporter, Maringouin, La.—On March 2nd, a surprise party was given in honor of the pastor recently appointed to St. Peter M. E. Church. A host of friends crowded the parsonage. The pastor made brief remarks. Mrs. Lucy Venable sang. Response by Rev. C. E. Cradforde, A. Powels, L. Butler, Grant Dotson. Such storms are acceptable. The year's work is looking fair at present.

A. THOMAS, REPORTER, ROSEDALE, LA.—The members and friends of Hortsell M. E. Church are delighted with their new pastor, Rev. J. L. Augustus. This was evidenced by a delightful surprise given Monday night February 27, led by Sisters Loe Phillip, Temple Douglas, Mary Williams, Brother J. Johnson, Jr., and a host of young people. A short address was delivered by the pastor; prayer, and the friends departed. Considering the unfavorable weather the services are well attended. All indications point to success.

PINEVILLE, LA.—Curtis C. Dorsey, reporter.—Our work opened up with prospects bright. The Rev. J. C. Brown preached for us Sunday and Sunday night quite intellectual sermons. Rev. Brown is the right man and in the right place. Our first quarterly conference, which was held Wednesday eve, March 1, concluded with a love feast and a sermon by presiding elder J. J. Obee. The Rev. P. M. Clark, of Alexandria, was also with us and made a strong and impressive talk to a large audience. The Rev. Obee opened the doors of the church and five or six came up for prayer. We shall do all we can for the cause of Christ this year, both spiritually and financially.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove What Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will do for YOU, Every Reader of Southwestern Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immedaite effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

53 COTTAGE ST., MELROSE, MASS.
DEAR SIRS: Jan. 11th, 1904.

"Ever since I was in the Army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In oder to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water to-day and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers, I am, Very truly yours.

I. C. RICHARDSON.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are, obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust, or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale the world over at druggists in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty-cent and one-dollar. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

Periodic Pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a most remarkable remedy for the relief of periodic pains, backache, nervous or sick headache, or any of the distressing aches and pains that cause women so much suffering.

As pain is weakening, and leaves the system in an exhausted condition, it is wrong to suffer a moment longer than necessary, and you should take the Anti-Pain Pills on first indication of an attack.

If taken as directed you may have entire confidence in their effectiveness, as well as in the fact that they will leave no disagreeable after-effects.

They contain no morphine, opium, chloral, cocaine or other dangerous drugs.

"For a long time I have suffered greatly with spells of backache, that seem almost more than I can endure. These attacks come on every month, and last two or three days. I have never been able to get anything that would give me much relief until I began the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and they always relieve me in a short time. My sister, who suffers the same way, has used them with the same results." MRS. PARK, 721 S. Michigan St., South Bend, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

Crescent City Notes

The several pastors of the Methodist Episcopal churches of New Orleans will appoint four delegates, including himself, who will meet in an annual convention at Thompson M. E. Church of this city on Monday April 10th at 11 a. m. to elect 16 members of the 24 who will constitute the Board of Managers of the Lafon Old Folk's Home.

VALCOUR CHAPMAN,
President of Board of Control.

Mrs. Missoura Calhone, of Shreveport, was in the city during Carnival the guest of her father, Rev. C. D. Crockett.

Mrs. D. Stewart, of Carrolton, came in last week and renewed her subscription.

Mrs. Thelnia Parker, of Napoleonville, is spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Harriet E. Landry, of Pleasant Hill, La.

The services at Simpson Chapel Sunday morning were very enjoyable and well attended. And considering the inclement weather this was indeed an encouraging indication of genuine interest. The Sunday School teachers and pupils are especially deserving of commendation. With such loyal and active workers this department cannot but prosper. Mr. A. Robinson, a member of Simpson, contributed last week a generous supply of groceries to the Lafon Old Folk's Home.

At Williams Chapel, Sunday March 19th prayer-meeting, Sunday-school and 11 o'clock services as usual. Owing to the inclement weather these were the only services held. One person joined the church; two annual subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $4.91.

There was a grand reception tendered the pastor, Rev. Harrell and wife, of Pleasant Plain Church on Monday night, March 13th. Those present were: Revs. Simms, of Tulane Baptist Church; J. A. Acox, of the Fourth African Baptist Church; T. J. Johnson, of Wesley Chapel; and Rev. Henry Taylor, of Simpson Chapel; Mr. Hardy R. Knox was selected as master of ceremonies and R. J. Nash reporter. After reading of the scripture by Rev. Simms, a short addres of welcome was delivered. An offering was then raised of $5.10, which was presented to Mrs. Harrell by Mrs. Wells of Tulane Church. Dainty refreshments were served by sisters Nickerson, Powells, Cahol and others.

Rev. John McKey, who has been ill for some time, is up again and brings us this week a new subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost.—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

Field Notes

OHIO.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—The Epworth League, Sunday school and Womans Home Missionary Society of the Cincinnati Sub. District Lex. Conference met at Cuminsville M. E. Church February 24-26, conducted by our new president, Mrs. Anna Brooks, who presided with much credit. The following charges responded to roll call: Cincinnati Park, pastor and delegates; Walnut Hills, pastor and three delegates; College Hill, pastor and two delegates; Madisonville, pastor and two delegates; Milliford, pastor and one delegate. The following had no representation: Batavia, Rising Sun, Delhi. After an interesting devotional service the various committees were appointed and reports heard from the chapters, which showed that excellent work was being done. It was shown that wherever the convention has been held a marked increase both in numbers and interest has been experienced by the local chapter. Papers were read by the delegates and the enthusiastic discussions awakened and emphasized many points of interest which proved helpful to all. A glorious sermon on the "Ten Commandments" was preached by Rev. H. W. Simmonds Friday night before a crowded house. Saturday afternoon the Junior League of Park Church renedered an excellent program which added much to the interest and success of the occasion. Rev. Smith and Mrs. Fowler, with the other ladies of the church, deserve much credit for the manner in which the delegates and strangers were entertained. We will be glad to go again to Cummingsville. We noticed among our visitors Rev. Vaughn, of Covington, and some of his members, among whom were Miss Beatrice Brown and Mrs. Page, ex-members of our cabinet. The convention adjourned to meet next May in Madisonville. A Young Woman's Home Missionary Society was organized in Park St. Church by Mrs. J. P. Monroe on March 1, 1905. The officers are: Miss L. Butler, President; S. Hill, First vice-president; L. Hill, Secretary; D. Ervinast, S. Webb, corresponding secretary; E. Gordon, Treasurer. The young ladies expect to beautify the lecture room of the church this year. MISS LIZZETTE BUTTLER.

They Live in Our Memory.

New Orleans, La.—Mrs. Mary Bernard, an honored and faithful member of Union M. E. Church, died in great peace Sunday, March 5, 1905. She was among the number who first organized the Marais Street Church, which eventually developed into Union M. E. Church over 34 years ago. She leaves relations and friends to mourn their loss. Her burial services were conducted at the church by the pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Kay.

VALCOUR CHAPMAN.

New Orleans, La.—Mrs. Rosa Wesley died March 2 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Mayo, of this city. She died praising God. Her illness was short. Age, 42 years.

In age and feebleness extreme,
Who shall a sinful worm redeem?
Jesus, my only hope Thou art,
Strength of failing flesh and heart;
O could I catch a smile from Thee,
And drop into eternity.

C. W. REEVES.

A BEAUTIFUL DEATH.

Miss Marie Adele Scott died in the Mlcvicar hospital, at Spilman Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., February 17. Her death was indeed a triumphant one. Just before she died she said to her mother: "Mother, if Jesus and sister come for me will you be willing to let me go? Mother, you know you can not keep me when Jesus comes." Then kissing her mother she said: "You have always been a good mother." Kissing sister, she said to her: "Be good, follow in the foot-steps of our mother. Tell Mable and brother to be good, and love our mother and be sweet to her." Then kissing Dr. Wells, she said: "You have tried so hard to save me, but Jesus is here and I want to go." Then she repeated, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus; Safe on His Gentle Breast." I am leaning on the arm of Jesus. Some people die hard, but I am dying easy." Then looking upward she said: "Daughter—Maud—mother, daughter and Maud have come." (The night before she died she saw her father enter the sick room and conversed with him). As the end drew very near she said, (in a whisper): "Yes—wait a minute, I'm coming." Then holding her hands up, looking at them, her face lighted with a glorious smile, they seemed to her beautiful and new. With a great, glorious smile upon her face, while Dr. Bowen and others stood near singing, she slept away. The principal of the Spilman Seminary told me of her remarkable record in school, of the impression her death had made upon the teachers and students and the warm gentle influence of her Christian life would be felt many years in the school. The funeral took place Sunday, February 19th, from Clark Memorial Church. She is in the Greenwood vault awaiting a word from the father in Africa.

A FRIEND.

..Philadelphia, Pa.—Ellwood Gracesconde Shockly, son of Rev. A. R. Shockly, presiding elder of the Philadelphia District, Delaware Conference, died of a complication of ailments at the German Hospital, Saturday morning, Feb. 18, 1905, in his nineteenth year. He had been ill more than three months and was confined to the bed six weeks.

Do you remember the little things that gave us so much pleasure when we were young? With what zest did we sit down to the table after our play was over and eat the mush and milk our mother put before us. But as we get older it takes more to give us pleasure. Mush and milk no longer tastes good to us, and our digestion may be impaired. The best advice we can give to such a person is to tone up the stomach with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is nature's most valuable and health-giving agent—made without the use of alcohol It contains roots, herbs and barks, and is the concentration of nature's vitality as found in the fields and woods. This remedy has a history which speaks well for it because it was given to the public by Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., nearly forty years ago, and has since been sold by druggists in ever increasing quantities. Some medicines, tonics or compounds, enjoy a large sale for a few years, then disappear from the public attention, but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved such a reliable blood remedy and tonic that it often enjoys the confidence of several generations in a family, and its increased sales year by year coming from the recommendations of those who have tried it, prove its lasting merit, so that every bottle bears the stamp of public approval. Every other blood-maker and tonic for the stomach that we know of contains alcohol, but Dr. Pierce guarantees that no alcohol is contained in his "Medical Discovery."

He attended the Central High School of Philadelphia, was a member of the junior class and enjoyed the distinction of being an exceptionally brilliant student. He was an active member of Zoar M. E. Church, sang in the choir, played for the Sunday school and Epworth League. Costly and beautiful were the floral tributes from the junior class, the quartette of which he was a member; the literary society, Sunday school, choir, Epworth League, and from many friends. The appropriate resolutions read gave evidence of his merited popularity. He was chaste in conduct, cheerful in disposition, and energetic in work. Owing to the fact that Rev. Shockly was recently thrown from a trolley car and has been confined to his bed since, the obsequies were held in the home, Wednesday, Feb. 22d. The Rev. H. A. Monroe, D. D., pastor of Zoar M. E. Church, being ill at the time, the services were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. F. Cotton, of Germantown, an intimate acquaintance of the deceased. Rev. C. A. Tindly, pastor of Bainbridge St. M. E. Church, delivered a short but very touching eulogy. The preachers of the Philadelphia District attended in a body and several took part in the service. Rev. J. H. Scott read resolutions expressing the sympathy of the Preachers' Meeting. Gently and with due solemnity six friends of Ellwoods bore his body to its final resting place in Olive Cemetery, Pa.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

"La Creole" Hair Restorer contains the ingredients used by the most famous Creole beauties. It will restore gray hair to its original color, stop falling hair, cure dandruff, keep the hair clean, soft and glossy and will make curly or kinky hair lie straight and smooth for a long time.

MISS NANCY RICE.

Nothing Takes Its Place.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owing very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

Has Done Wonders.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians, and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly."

MR. LOUIS NEMORE.

Hub, Miss.—Sister Ruther Johnson, a member of Zion Ridge Church, died in full triumph of living faith, Feb. 25, 1905. She was a faithful Christian. A husband and several children survive her.

M. WHITE, Pastor.

All mothers of daughters should write to Mrs. M. Summers, Notre Dame, Ind., for a free copy of her "Advice to Mothers." See ad. in this paper.

Kosciusko, Miss.—Mrs. Winnie Jane Nevils, wife of Rev. J. M. Nevils, died Monday, Feb. 27, 1905, in peace with God. She was married to Rev. J. Marcus Nevils in January, 1867; was converted and joined the M. E. Church in 1869. In 1874 she left her home with her husband to travel in the ministry of the Mississippi Annual Conference. From that day, for thirty-one years she has been faithful and willing to go wherever he was sent. Her life was spent in service for others. During the last ten years Sister Nevils was an invalid and suffered much. Yet she was always patient, ready with a kind word or act where needed. Her last days on earth were spent exhorting the people and praising God. On Monday evening, Feb. 27, the silver cord was loosed, the golden bowl broken, the wearied wheels of life were stilled and her sweet spirit entered into its well merited rest. She leaves a husband, daughter, son, son-in-law, two sisters, one brother, three grandchildren and other relatives.

One was with her there, whose voice
She long has loved and known;
To die was now her wish, her choice—
She did not die alone.

Her remains were laid to rest in this city. Rev. Dr. M. C. McEwen, our pastor, conducted the services.

LADIES' VICTORIA WATCH 6 size, gold filled hunting, 10 year case, engraved in an assorment of handsome scenic and floral designs, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement, 7 jewel, nickel finish, stem wind, lever set. Your jeweler would charge you from $10 to $20.00 for a watch like this, yet it is FREE to you for selling only 16 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

Which had you rather do?—Do business with a firm that does exactly as claimed, or with a firm that claims to do one thing and does another? We do exactly as claimed. Every offer and statement in this advertisement are facts. There is no "pulling the wool over your eyes." We do not describe a watch in beautiful language worded in such a way as to make you believe one thing and mean another. We state plainly the facts. There can be no misunderstanding. 10,000 agents are now selling Chief Elkhorn's Indian Wrang Tang Liniment. In another year 15,000 will be doing it. Over a million bottles have been sold through agents in the Southern States, and millions more will be sold. Agents who commenced years ago to sell it are still selling it today. We do not make a practice of giving premiuns. During the year 1905 we will only give the watches mentioned here. We do not make money when you work for a watch. We prefer that you work for the cash. If you need a watch—work for one. If you don't—work under the cash plan. Read what we have to say below, and if you then desire to join the company, send in your application for the agency--if you are not already an agent.

Here you are! A dandy, good enough and fine enough to please any lady. Ladies' 0 size, (exactly size of cut above) gold filled 20-year case, artistically engraved, and fitted with the reliable New York Standard 7 jewel movement. A watch like this is generally sold by jeweler at from $18 to $25 yet you can get it FREE for selling only 32 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

AFFIDAVIT

I, the undersigned, manager of The Wrang Tang Liniment Company, St. Louis, Mo., solemnly swear that every statement made in this advertisement, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is the truth; and further, if you accept our offer to act as agent under either the cash plan or watch plan, you will be dealt with honestly, and our promises will be kept faithfully. Yours sincerely,

W. R. PONDER, Mgr.
WRANG TANG LINIMENT CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

WATCH OFFER NUMBER 1 and 2.

In order to obtain a watch free under offer 1 and 2 it is necessary for you to sell 16 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $8.00. When you have sold the Liniment and sent us the $8.00, the watch will be sent you immediately. ☞ 2 extra bottles of Liniment are added to the box Free to cover express charges. Read cash offer below.

$100.00 REWARD

Will be paid if either watch as described on this sheet is not exactly as represented. When we say that a watch case is warranted to wear 10 or 20 years, we mean that it will wear 10 or 20 years before it turns brassy. If we say that the famous New York Standard 7 jewel movement will be put in the watch, we mean that it will be put in it. If you do business with us you know exactly what you will get. WRANG TANG LINIMENT CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Watch Offer 3 and 4

In order to obtain a watch free under offers 3 and 4 you must sell 32 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $16.00. When you have sold this quantity of Liniment and remitted us $16, your choice of watches will be sent you immediately, and 4 extra bottles are added free to cover express charges.

WRANG TANG LINIMENT. Strong, Powerful, Penetrating.

It's medicine—it's not water—it's not weak. It is so strong and powerful that it goes through the skin, through the flesh and into the very bones—every drop—not a sign left on the skin—no oil—nothing. That is why It's Action is Magical. Its like Gold to Silver. A 20 dollar gold piece is 20 times as valuable as a silver dollar, yet a silver dollar is larger. It's not the size of a thing that makes it valuable. It's the Quality. One Bottle of Wrang Tang Liniment is worth 20 bottles of Water Stuff. Every drop is medicine—medicine that's powerful—medicine that's strong—medicine that's magical.

Do you know what Elgin means in watches? It means the best. Well, here is a 20 year gold filled handsome engraved Elgin case, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement. Gents size.

NOTE—The movement in each 4 watches are idenically the same, except in size. The only difference is the case. A 20 year case will wear 10 years longer than the 10 year case. ☞ You have to sell 32 bottles of Liniment to get the 20 year case.

$4.00 CASH PLAN.

For the benefit of those who prefer the cash to a watch you can accept the agency under our cash plan.

A box of Liniment contains 18 bottles, but two of the 18 bottles are added free to cover express charges. The remaining 16 bottles when sold at 50 cents each, will amount to $8.00. Out of the $8.00 you send us $4.00 and keep $4.00. Of course, when the box arrives at the express office you must advance the money to pay the express charges on it which will vary from 40c. to $1.00. According to the distance from t. Louis, but the 21 extra bottles in the box when sold will pay you back, making the express cost you nothing.

Cut out this Order Blank and return to us.

Vol. 39 No. 13

Editorial

The Japanese bonds for $150,000,000.00 are easily floated while Russia is having great difficulty in finding a market for her latest bonds. Not only are the Czar's troops badly beaten but his treasury is depleted and while the autocrat would like to continue the war, peace may be forced by the money lenders. Money is a great weapon in war and a great pacificator in peace.

Judge Emory Speer of the United States District Court of Georgia not only endorses the United States Supreme Court decision on the anti-peonage sections of the revised statutes but holds that enforced labor on local chain gangs is involuntary servitude. Judge Speer rightly says: "Should the Sultan of Morocco or Abdul Hamid at Constantinople consign to an oriental chain gang American citizens for such trivialities as are thus daily punished here before the sun goes down the steel clad battleships of the union would be speeding every ocean wave to demand redress for the injury or avenge the wrong."

The Nashville (Tenn.) American asserts the opinion, and in this opinion the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer agrees, that white men do not address Negro schools enough and otherwise manifest interest in the race. The American in enforcing its opinion, says: "The Negro is among us. He is here to stay. Is it not wiser and better to show a friendly interest in him, to advise him, encourage him, impress upon him the honor and dignity of labor, the value of character, the necessity of the white man's friendship, the virtue of honesty, self-help, independent effort, etc.? Many white people have little conception of what the Negroes are doing. White men would have far more influence with Negroes if they would visit their schools, churches, business places, note what they are doing and manifest a friendly interest in their endeavors to improve their race and win the approval and sympathy of the whites. For some phases of the racial question the whites are to blame."

There are, according to the United States revenue reports, in New Orleans 1,898 barrooms which pay license and beside these there are 260 which pay no license at all. The large number that escapes even license shows with what laxity the liquor business is harnessed in this city. Another very interesting item in the whiskey situation here is that 46 barrooms are run by widows and 18 by women who are put on record as "Miss." The fight for high license continues, the movement having been endorsed recently by a number of school teachers. The minimum rate for license in this city is $100, and if this were fairly administered it would yield a revenue of $350,000, while as a matter of fact the total income of this city from liquor business for last year was $161,500. This shows the avarice and greediness of the liquor business aside from the death and destruction it deals out to the youth.

KINGSHIP OF THE CHRISTIAN

The Christian is king. He may not yet be crowned, but the coronation event is surely approaching. His is a crown of rejoicing, a crown of glory, a crown of life—a crown no dust can hide, a glory nothing can dim, a life ineffably joyful, matchless in courage, and invincible in strength.

What an inheritance is his! For him the universe exists. All his springs center in Christ. All things are his, and he is Christ's and Christ is God's.

BISHOP JOSEPH F. BERRY, D. D., LL. D.,
Presiding this week over the Delaware Conference, at Dover, Delaware.

Suns rise to light him, nights come to rest him, and all winds are tempered for him. To him everything in the universe is redemptive and educative, and bears a message of good tidings of peace, joy, love and unspeakable glory.

"As every wind draws music out of the Aeolian harp" so doth the Christian draw music out of every experience and every object. The flaming suns, the surging seas, the deep-mouthed thunder, the majestic mountains which have shaken the mists from their hoary locks and uncovered their heads among the stars, the fragrant rose, the sweet-throated thrush, the glad-pathetic wail of the whipporwill—all these and all else—sorrows, joys, defeats, victories, life, death, speak a various language to him, exalting, uplifting and exhilirating him evermore saying, "Thou art a king, to this end thou art born; therefore rejoice and reign in righteousness."

THE SALOON POWER

There is no force in American life to-day that throttles so much, the legitimate end of government as the saloon. It is not only organized for the protection of its business interests but it seeks to foster itself as a power.

The trusts may control the prices of sugar, corn and oil and in a way enter into politics. It is charged that the railroads are the greatest lobbyists of Congress but the saloon throws off every semblance of respectability and makes a bold dash at the polls for votes. It is not a political party but it is a political power. The liquor men go in for votes and they get them. They are not partisans. At present the saloon element holds great power with the two leading parties. What they seek is to legitimatize their illegitimate business. Touch one saloon and you touch all. They are in a compact. The saloon is the greatest enemy of the government, of the home and of the American youth. It throttles legislation, it corrupts legislators, it advances unworthy men to political preferment. There is but one attitude that the patriot and the Christian can assume toward the liquor business and that is positive and direct opposition to it. There is but one thing for the Church to do and that is to strike the saloon and strike it hard. He who remains inactive or neutral assists the saloon. Its political power must be broken or else the American Government will not be worth the name.

CHILDHOOD EXALTED

Of such is the kingdom of heaven, verily, of such is the kingdom of man. As the child so the man. Dr. E. A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, in a recent address, which is the beginning of a general educational campaign, delivered at Richmond, Va., makes some very pertinent and practical observations. Dr. Alderman declared that the measure of a community's progress was the interest taken in childhood. Continuing this line of thought he said: "The epitome of civilization is its attitude toward the children. There are in the United States eighteen million children, and this country is spending a billion and a quarter annually for their education. This was not always the case. With the exception of Wordsworth, there was little in literature about children until within recent years. This is the golden age of childhood, and upon what a community does for its childhood will depend its place in civilization. This was the philosophy of Christ, the first true democrat and the first gentleman. Education is a sacred right of childhood, not a philanthropy. Taxation, by means of which education is possible, is the tribute men pay to their civiliation. The savage pays no tax. On the other hand, the most heavily taxed people are the most highly civilized, whether it be a coincidence merely or a consequence of the taxation. It is a noble use for taxation in the education and elevation of humanity."

HOLD THE FARMS

Let the Negro understand that so long as he holds the farm labor of the South he has not a means of livelihood but a fulcrum by which he may lift his burdens. If he deserts the farm, pur-

The Preacher and People

By Rev. J. C Hibbler

The preacher is pre-eminently the spiritual leader of the people. His work is of the highest order, fraught with awful responsibilities.

His work is not self-selected or an ecclesiactical ordination; it is of divine selection, and he has a divine and heavenly calling of God and His Christ with the witness of the Holy Spirit. Hence the preacher is set apart by the will of God and Jesus Christ to do one work—to preach and teach the Gospel of salvation. This is his one work.

Some are disposed to look upon the work of the ministry as being less in importance than some other callings among men. But such an idea is far from the truth. Men select and dignify other callings, but the work of the ministry is God-selected and dignified by Jesus Christ. The preacher's life and character may not be compatible to the dignity of the ministry, yet it should; but that does not lessen the dignity and importance of the work. No leadership, office or position among men signifies so much. No field of labor and realm of thought is so great and important to man. Properly wrought out, it brings the greatest eternal good to mankind; improperly wrought out it brings the greatest eternal damage. The preacher stands in the forum of greatest truth, pleads at the highest tribunal, leads in the world's greatest blessings, pointing individuals, races and nations to the highways of God and His glory. The preacher's work is to deal directly with man's most sacred relations, greatest good and highest destiny—eternal life.

How necessary ought the preacher give himself wholly and solely to this one work—the kingdom of God, the salvation of men.

Generally the preacher is appointed by the powers that be, or called by the people to labor in the local church. His work in this relation is two-fold, spiritual and temporal. He has general oversight of both the spiritual and temporal, but he should not so burden himself with the temporal welfare of the church as to weaken his strength to bear or do the spiritual work. To so do is a loss to preacher and people. The burden of the temporal welfare of the church should be that of the people.

So often the people are not willing to make an estimation which will give a preacher and his family a comfortable support, and less willing to raise the estimation. So often do they fail and feel no obligation to pay the just debt!

So many churches want good preachers on poor pay. So often is the preacher distressed on account of his salary and wastes energy in raising it which should be turned into the spiritual channels of the church. Often the preacher has but little concern for the church outside his salary. Such a preacher had a bad start and will make a bad ending. Often the people are willing to pay every body else and for every thing else but the preacher. Many pay the preacher as though he were an object of charity. He is not, he is a worthy servant of God and the people. The servant is worthy of his hire.

So often there is not enough honesty and faithfulness on the part of the people, and often too little on the part of the preacher. Each, at times, wants too much for too little. But no man who labors as a public servant for public good is more valuable and does more good than the faithful and efficient preacher.

Let the people loose the preacher of the burden of salary-getting, by paying him for his worth, and let the preacher give himself honestly, unreservedly and faithfully to every interest of the people and church, Sunday school, young people and Ladies Aid Society, prayer and class meeting; visiting from house to house, praying with the sick and dying, burying the dead, advising and consoling, planning and raising the church benevolences. Some preachers will not raise much benevolence for fear they will not get their salary. Some people will not pay salary and benevolence for fear they can not make other improvements. My experience and observation are otherwise. When the preacher and people each do their duty, bearing each his share of the burden, there will be larger results, more conversions, more benevolences raised and larger improvements.

There is need of a great spiritual awakening in the church—a returning to the joy of the church and the rejoicing in the salvation of our God. If the world is to be saved, it must be saved by the people of God, the preacher leading. Let the preacher arise and sound the alarm. Let the people awaken, sanctify and gird on their strength, for this is the day of the salvation of our God.

Lexington Conference Notes

Bishop Hamilton is frank, impartial and brotherly, and presided with great satisfaction to all the brethren.

The conference made a splendid impression—well dressed, well behaved, cordial and courteous to visitors, sensible in deliberations, loyal and enthusiastic in support of all causes. It made a better showing for the SOUTHWESTERN than ever, giving us nearly two hundred subscribers.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Langford and Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Bailey, our pastors at Louisville, were kind in making comfortable all attendants. Misses Eliza and Irene, Bro. Langford's graceful daughters, were faithful helpers.

Mrs. M. C. B. Mason, wife of our distinguished Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educational Society, was present and active in the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society.

Rev. G. W. Zeigler was made president of the Maysville District; Rev. E. A. White, who has served as president of this district for the past four years, was appointed to the Ohio District.

The session was filled with interesting addresses by church officials, and able sermons by members of the conference.

Rev. J. W. Robinson, our popular pastor of St. Mark's, Chicago, goes to Covington. He has done a remarkable work in Chicago.

Rev. J. W. Tate brought the largest list of subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN given during the session. He is a loyal supporter of all causes of the church.

A glance at conditions of the different districts indicate general increase in material matters, efficiency of service, and influence for good throughout the bounds of the conference.

Rev. Elam A. White, of the Maysville district (now of the Ohio), said that they were proud that his district owed the Board of Church Extension not one cent, that all churches had been paid out of debt but four, and that peace and prosperity were reigning. The district raised this year for benevolence $648.

Rev. H. W. Simmons, D. D., of the Ohio district (now pastor at Indianapolis), reported that his district had increased in benevolent collections over any previous year, built many churches, and had large revivals. Collected for benevolence, $693.

Rev. Joseph Courtney, D. D., of the Louisville district, emphasized the need of more mothers with elevated ideals to help pastors in training the young people. He said that revival fires had been kept burning throughout the year. Benevolent collections, $419.

Dr. L. M. Hagood, of the Lexington district, reported harmony in all the work. He had visited every charge more than once, and disappointed no congregation. He emphasized the fact that more ritualism will help our folks. Realized for benevolence, $481.

Rev. Geo. A. Sissle, of the Indiana district, represented his work as being in good shape; 26 churches built, 126 conversions, 345 additions, and $5,616 paid on church debts. Amount raised for benevolence, $534.

The writer is indebted to Rev. C. T. Lewis, Statistical Secretary, for above figures. They show that both pastors and presiding elders are energetic and loyal workmen, deserving great credit.

Ideals in Race Development

BY REV. E. J. COX.

The ideals necessary for the development of a people must not only be high, but true to the nature of that people. The heroes of a nation, in order to lead it onward successfully, must be among its own people. It took a "Moses to lead the Hebrews, a Phocion for the Greeks, a Brutus for the Romans, a Hampden for the English, and a George Washington for the Americans." And only a Negro can understand the secrete working of the inner life of the Negro.

A system of education that holds up to the youth of a race, as ideals by which they are to form themselves, heroes of anothehr race is injurious. The colored boy must be taught that true worth does not consist in the texture of the hair or the color of the skin, but in goodness of heart; that possession of "a good character is worth more than the possession of a bank book." And as was said in The Voice of the Negro, in this connection, it is well for the Ethiopian to remember that "white dolls cannot teach beauty or self-appreciation to colored girls."

Why not have a council of colored educators to take up the question of text books for colored schools? Especially books of history and literature. It would be some time before its voice would be heard, but it would be a step in the right direction.

Notes From Missouri

By Rev. T H: Hegerty, D. D.

About the closing of the war, the colored people f the State came in large numbers to the Method- t Episcopal Church for fellowship and minis- rial assistance. They were welcomed, and such ssistance was rendered as could be given un- r the circumstances. Being a Presiding Elder that time, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, became my duty and privilege, to give some ersight to their spiritual interests, in the way recognizing certain ministers among them, d in examining and licensing and appointing hers to work among them. We visited and reached among them at times, and organized uarterly Conferences and gave proper form their church work. We administered the Sac- ments of the church, and endeavored to lead em out into the proper observance of the rites d ceremonies of the Church. Of course, we und many crude forms and customs, which we ndeavored to correct by the substitution of more rrect forms, and instructing in the proper ob- rvance of the same. In the Quarterly Con- rences, the Presiding Elder often had to do ost of the business, make the motions for them, ll them how to present them, and, in a word, do e work. We were glad to see with what avid- and readiness they took hold of the work of re-construction. At the same time, we were amazed to hear how some of them could preach and expound the Scriptures in very effective, if not, the most chaste manner. Their congregations grew rapidly, and circuits and stations greatly multiplied, and gained financial strength and executive ability. Young men grew up rapidly of no mean ability, and they showed power of thought and ability of correct government in public affairs. It was not many years till the question of separate Annual Conferences was mooted and generally discussed by both races. Some of the colored brethren thought the white brethren were getting above them, and desired to crowd them out. Others looked upon it in the light of the colored brethren's interests, thinking that as long as they remained in one Conference the white man would do the work and the colored brother would sit, look on and never learn to do the work himself. Finally, the separation came amicably, with the approval of the greater number. It was the privilege of the writer to see the Central Missouri Annual Conference organized by Bishop Harris. The Bishop did the work considerately and well, there being enough capable men then to aid him in a very creditable manner. The work has gone on now for nineteen years, having just closed the nineteenth session in this city. It was the privilege of the writer to be present during many of the sessions of this Conference, and if he had been blindfolded and permitted to listen to its doings and debates, he probably would not have been able to tell what color the men composing it bore. Sure it is, there were reports made and speeches delivered, both on the floor and upon the platform, that would have done credit to any body of men. The writer has been listening to Conference speeches for over fifty years, and he thinks he never heard some of those speeches excelled. It appears to be settled that the color of the skin or the texture of the hair is not the badge of mental ability or executive power. If the Central Missouri Conference only keeps near the Cross, cultivating the powers of mind and purifying the soul, there is a bright future before it. We would be glad to see it keep very close to the path of the godly fathers, and not be too anxious to copy after the growing forms of worldly culture, so-called, that in many instances simply dazzle the eye, but blur the sight of nobler and more important things. May the Great Head of the Church guide them, and all of us, in the path of usefulness and spiritual power.

Why Am I a Methodist?

By Rev. James McFaedy

I am a Methodist, First: In choosing for myself I always try to make a good choice, and knowing as I do that the church has much to do with my present and future welfare, both temporal and spiritual, and that the question of my eternal destiny must be settled largely by the church, I could not content myself with my connection with less than the church that is doing most for God and humanity. "Methodist" is derived from the word method, and means a system, because of the systematic regularity of the Holy Club of England in 1729, its members were sarcastically called "Methodists." We still retain the name, and feel highly honored when called a Methodist. Methodism claims the world for its parish, and on every continent and wherever the human race is found, it has entered an uncompromising protest against sin, vice, ignorance and superstition in all forms.

Second: I am a Methodist for the reason that it measures manhood by character, and not by color. It weighs religion in the scales of principle, and not in those of modes and creeds. It believes in the brotherhood of man, and the fatherhood of God. It claims that out of one blood God made all nations to dwell upon the face of the earth. Methodism holds that one race has no right to enslave another, nor that the rights of one should be abridged by the other. One of the warmest ambitions that characterizes the life of Methodism is the missionary spirit, and it is ever ready to obey the Bible's injunction, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature," and when John saw that multitude that no man could number of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, standing before the throne and before the Lamb clothed with white robes and palms in their hands, surely he saw a true type of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Third: I am a Methodist because the name was given to the church and not the church to the name. The church is more important than the name. And in baptism, it applies the water to the candidate, and not the candidate to the water, realizing that the candidate is more important than the water. I like the system of pastoral oversight that starts with the class leader and goes up to the Bishop, and the law that gives every one concerned the right of an appeal. I am glad that I am a Methodist and rejoice in the magnitude of the church, for the sun never sets on the Methodist Episcopal Church. The old church, like the old oak of the forest, has felt the storm of many seasons, but its foundation is so broad, it is rooted so solid in structure that it still stands unshaken by the storms, and when the seven wonders of the world shall have passed out of memory into eternity, the old church will still stand. I praise God for such a man as John Wesley, the founder of Methodism. I thank God for the purity of the General Superintendents of our church, men whose lives have never been soiled with the corruptible things of this world, and whose characters are as spotless as the snow upon the summit of the loftiest mountain.

Fourth: I am a Methodist for the reason that Methodism has not been silent on any of the great questions that concern the people as individuals, or as nations. The church believes that taxation without representation is tyranny, and when the laws of Great Britain oppressed the people of America, our church headed the movement that lifted the heavy yoke from the necks of the American people. It did not object to the lives of its sons being laid upon an altar as a sacrifice for the freedom of four million slaves. The voice of Methodism is still heard in America, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, pleading for honest government and for the scales of righteousness to be placed in all the courts of our great country, and justice weighed out to every individual regardless of race, color or previous conditions. We rejoice in the achievements of this great church, and assert without a fear of successful contradiction that no one has ever missed heaven who died with the principles of Methodism buried within his heart.

For her my tears shall fall,
For her my prayers ascend;
To her my cares and toils be given
Till toils and cares shall end.

Hartsville, S. C.

It is a sweet thing to enjoy a child's love. It is so spontaneous, full and free, so outspoken, and confiding, so natural and tender that it constantly reminds one of the love of heaven. To enjoy once in one's life the pure gushing of a child's friendship is to taste of a sweetness never to be forgotten. The memories of such an enjoyment linger around one's heart like dreamy soliloquies of a past existence in some abode of purity and beauty. To lose them would be to lose islands from the sea, oases from the desert. They are types of what all friendship should be; symbols of what it will be. They are the flowers of heaven, sown on earth. They bear the fragrance o fthe skies. The beauty of God's kingdom sparkles within them, and the love of our Father's home breathes from their pure young hearts.—Great Thoughts.

If you have a murmuring spirit, you cannot have true cheerfulness; it will generally show in your countenance and your voice. Some little fretfulness or restlessness of tone will betray it. Your cheerfulness is forced, it does not spring up freely and healthily out of your heart, which it can only do when that is truly at rest in God; when you are satisfied with His ways, and wishing no change in them. When this is truly your case, then your heart and mind are free, and you can rejoice in spirit.—Phiscilla Maurice.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

My Wish

I ask, O Lord, that from my life may flow
Such gladsome music, soothing, sweet and clear
From a fine-strung harp, to reach the weary ear
Of struggling men.
To bid them pause awhile, and listen; then,
With spirit calmer, stronger than before,
Take up their work once more.
I only pray that, through the common days
Of this my life, unceasingly may steal
Into some aching heart, strains that shall help to heal
Its long-borne pain.
To lift the thoughts from self and worldly gain,
And fill the life with harmonies divine,
Oh, may such power be mine!
Thus would I live; and when all working days
Are o'er for me,
May the rich music of my life ring on Eternally! —Wesleyan Magazine.

The Way to the Higher Life

By JOHN BALCOM SHAW.

The way into the higher life may be divided into three sections. The first of these is covered by that comprehensive act which is known as surrender. Only he who gives himself completely to God, taking His will as supremely good and wise and loving, and submitting himself wholly to it, seeking God's glory rather than his own selfish ends and aims, dedicating his money, time and capacities to God and regarding himself as not his own but the purchased possession of Jesus—only such a Christian comes to taste the deepened spiritual life.

The second section of the road to holiness bears the name of purification. "Wash ye, make you clean," is the divine command to the people of God. God's Spirit cannot keep company with an evil spirit, and so long as we give tenantry to our own evil desires, we have within us a foe to righteousness. We must cast sin completely away, the last vestige of it, give up every known indulgence, confess our shortcomings down to the end of the list, before the Spirit of Holiness will so much as cross the threshold into the heart. No human person ever shunned a house infected with smallpox more than the Divine Spirit shuns a heart that has still within it an unforgiven sin.

The sign-board over the third section reads Faith. That means looking away to God instead of looking in to self. tI leads to prayer—devout, frequent, continuous, soulful prayer. How can we get help without asking for it? It sends us to our Bible. His mind, not our own, guides us, and hence we search the Scriptures that we may know His mind. Faith keeps us near the cross, since its atonement is our sole dependence, and to cling to anything else is like reaching to seize the crest of a wave and expecting that to hold us up.—The Ram's Horn.

Duty

"Ordered of the Lord." Just as the plowman takes furrow by furrow, one ended before another is begun, so our duties come to us, not in battalions, but singly. Our life's plan, if we read it aright, is beneficially designed. We are not abandoned to blind chance. Confusion and entanglement can come only by our choosing to refuse guidance and to shape our lot for ourselves. So it will seem to us when we have come t othe end of it and can look back—a divinely ordered whole, which even our failures cannot mar, for God only asks of us our best and bravest; and if we give Him these we need not grieve overmuch if some of the furrows refuse to run straight. The failure may be success, after all, so far as our discipline is concerned. * * * Our very failures may be an answer to our doubts—evidence of a time when we shall neither faint nor fail, when the acre will be freed from weeds and ready for a fair harvest. For in the midst of our saddest blunders we have visions of higher things, unfulfilled aspirations, cravings for growth; and these will be satisfied, every one of them. We who have tested the bitter fruit of the tree of knowledge are meant to inherit the tree of life; and somewhere else the task dropped here may be taken up and made good.—Sunday at Home.

God's Promises

BY MRS. B. L. HITCHCOCK.

Rest thou, O weary heart! on God's strong promises,
When the storms do rage, and winds shriek loud,
And lonely is thy way,
Turn to his never failing Word,
And read his promises so rich and rare,
And rest on these as on a couch of down.
They never fail one jot or tittle of fulfillment
If thou hast done thy part all well,
They are the precious gold between the hard and flinty rocks,
They are the priceless gems thou findest hidden in the cold dark cave.
They are the radiant flowers with perfume rare, above the thorns,
They are the golden keys that open wide the portals
To that city fair, erected in the heavenly land.
Whose walls are built of jasper, and whose gates are pearl,
Where never darkness comes, nor even sun,
For God himself is light, and e'en for you and me
Those mansions grand are reared!

By Way of Love

By LAURA C. SHERIDAN.

"Do you love me?" Such a simple question, but all creation must be taxed to answer it. Wherever there is a suffering mother or a careworn, toiling father; wherever there is a creaking engine or a whirring wheel, a patient shuttle flying or a tiny needle pushing its way, a brain throbbing with thought, or a heart crying out with sorrow on God's earth to-day, it is in the reply, "Yes, I love you."

God has created a wonderful world to satisfy the wants of His most wonderful creation, and the confession of love is the confession of purpose to give and serve and suffer, to wrest out from this world amid opposing forces all that may minister to the happiness of the loved one.

What a thought that the roar of the city, the sweat of the farm, the weary, long hours of the brain-toiler, the gigantic movements every day in trade, the flying steamers on a thousand seas—all, all are moved by the mighty force of love. Oft it does not seem so. Ambition, pride, power, love of pleasure, ease, and vanity seem often to be the motives for all this straining of effort to achieve. But deep down underneath all, as the only thing that makes success valuable, is the joy of ministering to loved ones, or of sharing with them the joy of victory; the unnatural human beings who are the exception to this rule are so few, that they need not be considered in stating the general principle. Now shall man be so busy to serve from love and God be idle? If God keyed all creation to the note of love when he made it, is it not the presence of an enemy that produces the discord—that makes possible, perhaps sometimes necessary, the woe, the heartaches, the cruel disappointments?

God tells us of a day coming when His people shall not build and another inhabit, shall not plant and another eat. That which the Church universal shall one day inherit may now be entered into, at least in measure, by those who learn God's way of turning the good of earth his people's way. Yet the narrowness, the self-centeredness of our love that estops the love of God. He often finds a hardness in us, towards Himself or towards our brother, that bars His way, and deflects the blessings that He would bring us into other channels or back to their original source. The proof of human love is to think more of the pleasure or happiness of the loved one than of our own. And so with pure love to God—the kind that brings His every blessing. It is not doing or refraining from things from a sense of duty; it is not straining after high experiences to meet the exactions of God; it is not cutting off right hands to keep from offending God; it is not practicing great self-denials with a view t oobtaining the rewards of God. All these we will practice more or less before we learn how to lose ourselves and our interests in God, and thus have His every blessing found for us for evermore. The toiling earthly parent does not procure a blessing for his child that was not first found in God, who prepared in nature the blessing, the fatherly heart, and the happy child. Whose love shall we trust the more for our happiness—the earthly parent or lover, whose arm is oft so weak amid opposing forces as to utterly fail to supply our need; or the Heavenly Father, whose arm is as strong as His love is high and wide and deep, and which finds nothing to weaken it but a deficiency as to love in us. Some way, somehow, God must have a way of wresting from the service of Satan His earthly blessings, and of making true, in a simple, natural sense, the promise, "Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come."

Postal Card Sermon

By B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—John 17:4. Theme—God glorified.

There is so much real joy in being praised or glorified by a genuine, good man.

It is not strange for one man to glorify another, for even Cicero in speaking of Pompey says that he was "the wisest, best and greatest of all men that had been, were, or ever would be." Such words of fulsome praise were running over with flattery and extravagance, and they show that history is full of such instances of men glorifying others. The praise Jesus gave His Father on earth was perfect obedience at all times, under all circumstances during His incarnation and humiliation in the world, which was the all-absorbing thought of His eventful life of self-abnegation. Jesus glorified God at all times in prayer, teaching others to whom they should pray, how they should pray, turning aside from the busy world in loneliness to pray in the hour of His greatest grief and deepest agony. Jesus glorified His Father in the truth He taught so full of authority and obedience that both His enemies and friends could see that He was a Teacher come from God. Jesus glorified God in His steadfastness to endure shame, suffer affliction, persecution and trials of cruel mocking. Jesus glorified God on earth in that He willingly died a substitute for the penalty of sin, to satisfy divine justice, and thus save the whole human family in all ages, past, present, and future, from death and hell. Jesus glorified God on earth in that He died to set an example for the whole moral universe of the hatefulness of sin in the sight of His Father; of the damnable nature of sin wherever found; and of the awful penalty due each transgressor of the moral law of God.

God must be glorified on earth by you and my me. We can glorify on earth by acts of kindness to others, by sincere worship, and by constantly serving in His vineyard, by suffering for His cause, and by dying in His name.

"O the pain, the bliss of dying!
Cease, fond nature, cease thy strife,
And let me languish into life."

Greenville, S. C.

ime will reveal the calyxes of gold,
d if, through patient toil, we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loose, may rest, en we shall clearly know and understand,
think that we will say "God knew the best."

ss Marie Adele Scott's Triumphant Death

By Rev. J. W. E. Bowen, D. D.

was sent for by Miss Giles, the principal of ellman Seminary, on Saturday, Feb. 11th, h the information that Miss Marie A. Scott s sick unto death. I cancelled my engage- nt to leave the city and immediately went to the young lady. The superintendent of the spital and the doctors told me that the case was peless. I secured from both doctors consent have another physician examine her; but after eting Mrs. Scott on Sunday morning and after dying the case fully I came to the conclusion t the best medical skill was then working pa- ntly to save her life. I visited her every day one until she died. When the operation was formed I led the family in prayer. Miss Giles l me that the whole Seminary spent all the nday morning devotional hour in prayer for success of the operation and for Dell's final overy. I went into her room frequently and versed with her and prayed. Her faith was ong and her whole demeanor was one of calm t in the Lord. On the day she died I spent whole time in the room with the mother, doc- s and nurses. Before she began to sink she ed me to pray with her. I did so. Soon after, feet touched the chilly waters. She knew it l asked us to sing "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." stantly her face was illuminated with a strange w and she waved her hands and said, "I am ning over." In the pause that ensued she rec- nized each one and said: "I have not long to here;" "Jesus is leading me by the right nd;" "I am trusting in Jesus." She then iled, looked at her hands in an admiring way though they were new, and said to her mother, o held her by the hand, "Mamma, you can't ld me here. I am going to meet Maud and ughter." She referred to her elder sister by term daughter, for they called her by that e.

We then sang in alternation: "Nearer, my d, to Thee;" "Jesus, Lover of my Soul;" "Je- . Pilot Me;" "Shall we Meet Beyond the ver;" "In thy Cleft, O Rock of Ages." Her e was continually swept with the smiles of the er world. She finally said, "Ask Dr. Bowen pray again, and for him to ask the Savior to et me." I prayed. She smiled, waved her nd, sank into unconsciousness as far as this rld is concerned, but opened her eyes more d more upon the glories of the heavenly world. r death was a glorious triumph of Christian faith. In the Seminary she was beloved and studious. Every one recognized that she was a positive character for Christ, and she goes home to be forever with the Lord and all the just made perfect through suffering.

Resolutions By Spellman Seminary

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has to-day removed from among us one of our dear pupils, Marie A. Scott, therefore be it

Resolved, That in her death Spellman Seminary has lost a diligent and faithful pupil who, during the few months she has been among us, has won the love and esteem of her classmates, her fellow-students and her teachers. The influence of her sweet Christian character, and the memory of her trimuphant death will be a blessing to our school.

Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to her bereaved father, who is now in Africa, to her sorrowing mother, to her loving sister, who has never before been separated from her, and to the other members of the family. In their affliction we, too, are afflicted.

Resolved, That these resolutions be made a part of our school record, and a copy be forwarded to her father and the other members of the family.

In behalf of Spellman Seminary,

Mary I. Williams,
Secretary of the Faculty.

Definitions of Home

A prize was offered some time ago by the London Tit-Bits for the best answer to the question, "What is home?" Here are a few of the answers which were received:

"A world of strife shut out, a world of love shut in."

"Home is the blossom of which heaven is the fruit."

"The golden setting, in which the brightest jewel is 'mother,'"

"The father's kingdom, the children's paradise, the mother's world."

"The center of our affections, around which our heart's best wishes twine.'

"The jewel-casket, containing the most precious of all jewels, domestic happiness."

"A little hollow scooped out of the windy hill of the world, where we can be shielded from its cares and annoyances."

In a Thoughtful Vein

You owe it to your mother—

To do your best to keep her youthful in appearance, as well as in spirit, by taking pains with her dress and the little accessories and details of her toilet.,

Not to shock or pain her by making fun of her religious prejudices if they happen to be at variance with yours, or if they seem narow to your advanced views.

To introduce all your young friends to her and enlist her sympathies in youthful projects, hopes and plans, so that she may carry her own youth into old age.

To talk to her about your work, your studies, your friends, your amusements, the books you read, the places you visit; for everything that concerns you is of interest to her.

If she is no longer able to take her accustomed part in the household duties, not to let her feel that she is superannuated or has lost any of her importance as the central factor in the family.—Success.

The Procession

They come—the Souls that come—
Through Dawn's fair portal,
Leaving the world immortal,
To find what here awaits.

They go—the Souls that go—
Wearied full soon of earth,
Longing for heavenly birth and life immortal,
Out through the Sunset's gates,
To find what there awaits.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson II—April 9, 1905. Title—"The Raising of Lazarus." (John 11: 32-45.) Golden Text—"Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life." (John 11: 25.)

The Jews did not know our Lord. Some said He was possessed of an evil spirit; others said, "these are not the words of one that hath a devil." They asked, "Can a devil open the eyes of the blind?" Jesus told them that He and the Father were one. They took up stones to cast at Him for blasphemy. He escaped out of their hands, and went away beyond Jordan, where John at first baptized. While there He taught, and wrought miracles. Many believed in Him. It is not certainly known how long He remained in that locality, but He was back in Jerusalem two months after this at the feast of Dedication. He returned to Bethabara east of Jordan again. While there a messenger came from Martha and Mary saying that Lazarus was sick. Jesus remained in the same place two days more, and then set out for Bethany. His disciples endeavored to keep Him from going, but He would not be hindered. The doubting, yet faithful Thomas said, "Let us also go that we may die with Him." The distance was about twenty-five miles. When they drew near to Bethany, Martha heard He was coming and went out to meet Him. She mildly chided Him for not coming sooner. He said to her: "Thy brother shall rise again. "She thought He referred to the general resurrection at the last day, but He said to her: "I am the resurrection and the life." Do you believe this? She replied: "Thou art Christ the Son of God." No apostle could have said more. She then returned to the house.

I. Jesus and Mary (28-35). 1. Our Lord called for Mary. He is ever inviting His own to come to Him. He calls the sinner away from a wicked life, the worldly church member to give up all for Him, and the pure in heart to walk close by His side. He calls through His word, His gospel, His Spirit, and His church. 2. Mary arose quickly and went to Him. When we hear the invitations of the Master, we should hearken to them, arise with haste and go to Him. Danger, death, and everlasting banishment, are in the way we are going. We should be true to ourselves, and hasten to Jesus. He comforts those who come to Him. 3. We may by our example lead others to Jesus. When the Jews that were in the house saw Mary depart, they arose and followed her. They supposed she was going to the grave to weep there. She led them to Jesus, and many were, by what they saw and heard, constrained to believe in Him. The influence of example is great. 4. When Mary came to Jesus she fell at His feet, and worshiped Him. When we approach our Lord, we should humble ourselves before Him and pay homage to Him. We may worship God in song, in prayer, in listening to His gospel, in religious conversation, and in holy meditation. 5. We should never chide the Master for any seeming delay. Mary felt just a little hurt because Jesus had not come when they first sent for Him. This unkind feeling was a result of not knowing Jesus. Mary believed it was impossible to raise Lazarus from the dead. O, that all the world knew the goodness, love, mercy, and power of Jesus. 6. Lazarus was probably a young man of noble character. He was held in high esteem by the Jews, greatly admired by our Lord, and tenderly loved by his sisters. It is very important for young men to so live that they will have the friendship of all. Then they will be missed and lamented when they depart this life, and happy in the world to come.

II. Jesus and Lazarus (34-45). 1. Jesus went to Lazarus, because the dead man could not come to Him. There are many souls as dead spiritually as Lazarus was literally. They have not in them the desire, or ability, to come to Jesus. Hence our Lord goes to them through His word, His gospel, His spirit, and His church. 2. The awful condition of Lazarus touched the heart of our Lord. "Jesus wept." He is a real man, and can be touched with a feeling of our infirmities. He has sympathy for the suffering, and so loved the world that He gave His life to save it. 3. The Jews thought that a man who could open the eyes of the blind could prevent death, but they now believed it impossible to raise Lazarus from the dead. We sometimes hear it said: "This town is so bad God can do nothing with it, or that man is so wicked the Lord cannot save him." But we blunder when we limit the power of God. All things are possible to those that believe. 4. Jesus said: "Take ye away the stone." Lazarus was entombed in a cave, and a great stone was placed over the entrance. Jesus could have done this by His divine power, but He only does for us that which we cannot do for ourselves. He desires to raise us from the death of sin, but at the door of our heart lays the stones of unbelief, profanity, gambling, drunkenness, love of money, worldly amusements, malice, Sabbath desecration, disobedience to parents, murder, adultery, theft, covetousness, and many other vices. These must be removed. We are commanded to take them away. 5. But Martha objected: "Lord, he has been dead four days." God would often save our soul, or send times of refreshing into our heart, if we would not suffer unbelief to step in and say, "It is too late now." Get behind me ye blue doubting devils, you are an offence unto me. 6. Jesus often called upon the Father before performing great works. So here, before bringing Lazarus back from the dead, He lifted up His eyes and voice to heaven, and thanked the Father for always hearing Him. It is very important that we should ask divine guidance and help before entering upon any great work. 7. Jesus commanded in a loud voice: "Lazarus, come forth." That voice was so penetrating and authoritative that even the dead heard and obeyed. The same voice will, at the end of the world, speak in thundertones saying: "Time shall be no more. Prepare to meet thy God." The earth and sea shall give up their dead, the living will be changed. All nations shall stand before the judgment throne of Jesus. May God raise us from the death of sin. 8. Then "he that was dead came forth." His heart began to beat, and his blood to flow. The color returned to his cheek, and the light to his eyes. Warmth came into his body, and the odor of decay departed from him. He arose and came forth. At the end of the world our sleeping dust will hear the voice of the Son of God and will come forth. 9. It is not strange that many of the Jews, when they saw this miracle, believed in Jesus. They knew that the person who could do such a wonderful work had more than human power. As man Jesus wept at the grave of Lazarus, as God He raised him from the dead.

"If you are an invalid, do your best to get well; but, if you must remain an invalid, still strive for the unselfishness and serenity which are the best possessions of health. There are no sublimer victories than some that are won on sick-beds."

EPWORTH LEAGUE

BY REV. J. H. SCOTT, D. D.

Lesson Topic April 9,

Scripture Reference John 14: 6–24.

The Word. This chapter, of which such a large portion is taken for our lesson, was a part of that last discourse of Jesus the night before His crucifixion. The last words of any friend are treasured as important. We have here the last utterances of the Master. While there is somewhat of disconnection in the themes of the chapter, there runs through it all this plan: to give to the disciples a series of truths which would be a comfort to them in his absence. The various relations existing between Jesus as the Son and the Father form the special thought of our lesson. He has already spoken of "my Father's houses," and of the fact that if they believed in God they should believe also in Him. Now, in answer to the query of Thomas as to the way, He declares that He is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. Jesus is the Way to the Father, He is the Truth that reveals the Father, and He is the Life which comes from the Father.

Our Homily: Jesus and the Father. A study of the verses of our lesson will reveal many interesting relations which Jesus declared exist between the Father and Himself. We note them here and study them:

Jesus is the Way to the Father. He says, "If ye had known Me ye should have known the Father." That is, a knowledge of Jesus is a knowledge of God. He is the bridge from man to God. He reveals the Father. He is an incarnation of God. He was the "Word." The use of a word is to interpret an idea. Jesus interprets the Father.

Jesus is God. "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father." "I am in the Father." The Father was manifest in Christ. Any man who knows Christ knows God the Father. As Hooker said, "The Father is the Son as light is the sun"; and as Whedon says, "According to the modern theory of light we might say, the Father is as the luminiferous ether, which is the essence of light; and the Son is like the light which the ether becomes by undulatory motion."

Jesus Glorifies the Father. He said, "Whatsoever you ask in My name I will do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." The gift of the Holy Spirit, and the administrative power of Christ in the Church glorifies God.

Jesus is Intercessor with the Father. He stands at the right hand of God as our advocate. He prays the Father, and the Father gives the Holy Spirit. We must separate in our minds the persons of the Godhead, yet there is a sense in which Jesus stands between us and God the Father as intercessor.

Jesus' Love a Guarantee of the Father's. The manifestation of love to the soul of man is a manifestation of the love of the Father, as well as of the Son and Holy Ghost. The life of Christ, then, shows the Father as Love, answering prayer and manifesting Himself to men. It reveals God as just, and yet the justifier of him who believes in Jesus Christ.

If God is my Father,

Then He loves me. "Like as a Father pitieth," etc.

Then He will care for me. "Your Father knoweth."

Then He expects reverence. "Honor thy Father."

Then He will hear my prayer. "The Father will give."

Then He will be the Just Judge. "As a Father."—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

Great Revival at Cookman Institute

Many of our readers who are so deeply interested in our educational institutions will greatly rejoice in the good tidings that the old revival fire still burns upon their altars. The new president of Cookman Institute, Rev. Dr. Docking, who has already shown his superior ability as a leader of men, surely believes that Christian education is the need of the hour, and aims to make the school the nursery of the church.

These special revival services were continued twice each day for three weeks, and from the very beginning it was evident that the Spirit of God was present in a marked degree. Every one of the 350 students was touched and moved by the awakening power of the Holy Spirit, and more than one hundred were gloriously converted.

Temperance Work in Texas

Mrs. Lucy Thurman, National Superintendent of thhe Woman's Christian Temperance Union, as was announced some weeks ago, will begin a course of lectures in our State on March 31st, Dallas being the starting point, where she will remain until April 2. Thence to Waco, 3-6; Austin, 7-11; San Antonio, 12-14; Seguin, 15-17; Giddings, 18-19; Columbus, 20-21; Houston, 22-24; Galveston, 25-28. Mrs. Thurman has spent many years in this work and makes those heart talks that linger with one so long. No one ever regrets hearing her. All W. C. T. U. workers rejoice at her coming.

For convenience to the thirteen schools of the State, two divisions have been made of the contest work. For East Texas, Palestine, where the contest will be held March 31st, at the City Hall. For West Texas, Austin, April 7. The State contestants are those who have won silver medals in the local contests. Profs. J. T. Hill and Harry Weber, of Bishop College and Wiley University, will furnish music for the occasion. Silver medals have been given to the temperance organizations as follows: Wiley University, Mrs. E. E. Peterson, Texarkana; Bishop College, Rev. E. M. Griggs; Texas College, Mrs. M. R. Barnes, Cleburne; Houston Academy, Houston, W. C. T. U.; Hearne Academy, Miss Mamie C. Jones; Paul Quinn College, Rev. D. S. Moten; Sam'l Houston College, Rev. D. C. Lacey, Austin; Tillotson College, Prof. W. H. Burnett, Terrell; Guadalupe College, Mr. W. H. Fuller, Cameron. Medals have been contributed to the other schools, but the names of the donors have not been sent in. These medals are beautifully designed—on the bar are the initials W. C. T. U., and on the body the words "Oratorical Prize."

Flint Medical Alumni Association

On March 10th, at a meeting called by the graduating class of 1905 of Flint Medical College, to which many of the former graduates responded, either in person or by proxy, an Alumni Association was organized, having for its object the cultivation of professional and social relations and the promotion of the interests of its members and of their alma mater. All graduates of the college are considered active members of the Association. The officers for the present year are: President, Dr. A. W. Brazier, Hahnville, La.; first vice-president, Dr. I. J. Kane; second vice-president, Dr. I. J. Washington; third vice-president, Dr. G. C. Bryant; fourth vice-president, Dr. S. A. Miller; fifth vice-president, Dr. A. J. Aubry; secretary, Dr. E. L. Hamilton, Plaquemine, La.; assistant secretary, Dr. I. N. Garrett; treasurer, Dr. Jos. A. Hardin; necrologist, Dr. L. A. Butler. Executive Committee, Dr. I. J. Kane, chairman, 2923 Saratoga street, New Orleans, La.; Dr. H. J. Clements, Dr. F. M. Nelson, Dr. G. H. Nelson, Dr. C. N. Wilson, Dr. Ella N. Prescott, Dr. T. Everett Speed.

Dr. A. W. Brazier has been selected to deliver the annual address before the Association.

Important Actions by the Board of Control of the Epworth League

We request the attention of all pastors and all officers and members of the Epworth League to the following action of the Board of Control at its recent session:

"The Committee on Ways and Means recommends that in order to provide the necessary fund to maintain the General Office:

"To assess each chapter of the Epworth League a minimum amount of $1.00 annually, and, where the chapters shall exceed a membership of fifty, to make the assessment at the rate of two cents per member, the assessments to become due and payable on or before May 1 of each year.

"That the treasurer be authorized to direct that the assessment upon the German Leagues be paid to the German headquarters for defraying the expenses of the German work, and that the assessments upon the colored Leagues be paid to the assistant treasurer for the colored work to defray the expenses of their assistant general secretary."

We earnestly urge prompt and universal compliance. This recommendation of its Committee on Ways and Means having been adopted by the Board of Control, is binding upon all chapters. The legislation of the last General Conference providing for the support of the League being in conflict with the Sixth Restrictive Rule of the Constitution of our church, payment of these dues is absolutely essential. Failure by any chapter is crippling, and a failure to secure a very general response would be paralyzing. It ought to be paid on moral as well as legal grounds. Every dollar drawn from the Book Concern for the League is indirectly drawn from the pockets of the Superannuated Itinerant Veterans. Surely no chapter would willingly prosper at the expense of these men. Please remit immediately, if you delay you will forget.

It is only giving due credit to say that the Book Committee, in finding a way to deliver us from extreme temporary embarrassment on account of the defect in the General Conference legislation has placed the League under great obligations. Every Epworthian should henceforth be more intensely loyal to our publishing houses and every chapter should support its pastor in every possible way in the circulation and sale of our publications. Every chapter should have a live committee for that purpose. In no way can a chapter be developed in intelligent and intense spiritual life and service more successfully than by the circulation of some of our choice publications.

The Board of Control also adopted the following:

"We recommend that the election of officers in the local branches be held at the business meeting nearest the 15th of May." This matter is so important as to have been repeatedly recommended by the Board. It is now of far greater importance than ever. In a few localities there is some inconvenience about electing officers at this time, but it is immensely outweighed by the advantages to be derived from uniform elections at this time. Some chapters will need to amend their By-Laws to conform to this request, and it should be done at the April meeting. Let it not be overlooked.

EDWIN M. RANDALL,
General Secretary.

Cannot Prosper

Very blind must be the man or woman who thinks that any genuine and lasting prosperity can be obtained by pursuing a course of deception and dishonesty in any kind of business. But there always were such blind ones. It is difficult, nevertheless, to understand why it is that those who have long read the Bible, and have seen it in many statements which declare that dishonest doers are cursed for their conduct, will persist in defrauding people, even on a small scale. They have every reason to believe that whatever gains they may secure by untruthfulness and trickery will not remain long in their hands. And even if the unjustly-secured property be retained long, no true prosperity will accompany it. The doers themselves are blasted in character and they can have no pure gladness of heart. Here are God's words to the Israelites: "Woe unto him that buildeth his house by unrighteousness, and his chambers by injustice, that useth his neighbor's service without wages, and giveth him not his hire." And all through the Bible are words of similar import. Unrighteous dealings are declared to be followed by woes and cursings. In the history of the Israelites it is forcibly shown that when they made a practice of dealing unjustly they had no solid prosperity. It was so in New Testament times, and it is so in these days. Periods of time do not change the fact that unrighteous business transactions must always react upon the persons who engage in them. Many a merchant, once having a thriving patronage, has gone down in failure because, after a while he entered upon a course of cheating. It is true that honest business men have become bankrupt, but they retained a good character and an honorable reputation, and in a high sense they were prospered. But he who practices dishonesty is growing worse in character and is increasingly despised by his fellows. A good charcter is true prosperity.

The Epworth League Convention

To all Epworthians intending to go to Denver July 5th, 1905: Willis N. Grant, president of the Kansas City District, has been appointed chairman of the Entertainment Committee to receive the hosts that will pass through Kansas City July 4th enroute to the great Seventh International Convention of the Epworth League. Mr. Grant has been tendered the free use of Convention Hall, which will seat 15,000, and has arranged for a large chorus and some of the best speakers in Methodism to be present on the above date, and you may rest assured that every person attending this great reception in this famous hall for a much needed rest of a couple of hours will be very greatly benefited and get a foretaste of what will await them at Denver.

Will all excursion managers and transportation committees intending to avail themselves of this delightful privilege kindly notify Mr. Grant at Kansas City postoffice at the earliest opportunity? All trains going west will leave in ample time after the reception to land you in Denver early the next morning.

Not long before her death, in writing to a friend, Mrs. Mary Clemmer Hudson said: "Though I am not old, I have sounded the deeps and the shadows of all that is called society, till I feel all through my heart of hearts that all that is of real value to the lowly, contrite spirit is the clear mind, the loving, consecrated heart; all else is emptiness, vanity, vexation of soul."—Selected.

suing some dream of an easy life or if because of the lack of thrift and reliability he is supplanted on the farm by foreign labor, then the back bone of strength of the Negro for development is broken. The report of commissioners sent out by the British government to investigate the cotton-growing possibilities in East Africa is published in London and says: "Unless difficulties which at present appear to be insuperable can be removed cotton cultivation in East Africa will never be undertaken on any considerable scale." All efforts to raise cotton successfully elsewhere than in the Southern States have failed and providence has given the Southern farmer a monopoly of the indispensable cotton crop. Let the Negro study his own interest therefore and hold fast to this vocation. Already many avenues of labor once held by the Negro have almost passed into the hands of the whites. Say what you will about materialism affecting manhood, a race that is shut out from a livelihood has poor chances for any kind of development and for the securing of an education high or low.

DR. H. J. CLEMENTS RETIRES

Dr. H. J. Clements came into our work in the South some fifteen years ago and these years have been full of active and consecrated service. For awhile he was professor of natural science in New Orleans University and later acting principal of Gilbert Academy, and from the foundation of Flint Medical College he has had some connection with it. When the Medical College was organized Prof. Clements was given the chair of chemistry and also joined its first class. This gave him the distinction of delivering the first lecture in Flint Medical College and of being one of its first graduates. Retiring as he does now after six years of very hard labor none give him up but with regret and with praise for his most excellent work. Six years ago the enrollment was 16, he leaves it this year with 64. He has not only been Dean of the Medical College, but of the Training School and superintendent of the Hospital. During these six years, in which he has given twelve full months each year, his salary has been small and he retires now from the work only on account of the ill health of his wife, who has been a loyal and faithful supporter in all his work.

The Court of Appeals of Maryland in an opinion recently delivered on the separate car law, held that the law is valid so far as it effects commerce within the state but "invalid as to interstate passengers and must be construed as not applying to them." A similar decision was handed down some years ago by the United States Supreme Court to the effect that those engaged in interstate commerce in the state of Louisiana should give all passengers equal privileges as to the parts of the conveyance they should occupy.

A GOOD YEAR'S WORK

Rev. Daniel W. Shaw, D. D., is closing his first year at Cumberland, Md. The oldest members of the church declare it to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, years in the history of the church for these forty years. We note a few of the more important things done.

REV. D. W. SHAW, D. D.

Dr. Shaw began the year with a ten days' meeting, resulting in thirty-nine (39) conversions. The quarterly conference estimated a salary of $900.00, which was an increase of $300. Dr. Shaw led the way in two rallies in which his people raised over $700.00. The mortgage which had been standing for nearly twenty-five years was paid. Over $600 have been paid on old debts and $230 on repairs and improvements. The church has grown in strength and character. Two Epworth League chapters have been organized; a Senior and a Junior. Prof. H. E. Williams is the earnest and competent president, and Mrs. H. R. Hill is the superintendent. A deed for the parsonage property was secured. The church and parsonage property are amply insured and the insurance papers and deeds are in the safety deposit vault of the First National Bank. The young people are organized into music, expression and choral classes, and on the 5th and 6th of April will render the beautiful cantata of Jephthah and His Daughter. Dr. Shaw will not only carry to conference all the benevolent money apportioned his charge, but he will take more. Three Ladies' Aid Societies have been organized and they have done excellent work, both socially and financially. Last but not least, Dr. Shaw has sent in a list of 18 new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. The fourth quarterly conference, after strong and earnest addresses by many of its members, took a rising vote and recorded their unanimous request for Dr. Shaw's return.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES

Rev. George A. Miller, pastor of Central Methodist Episcopal Church, Manila, Philippine Islands, sends the following interesting appeal:
